thou haſt removed it far unto all the ends of the earth] This, the moſt, and beſt underſtand to be ſpoken of removing the people of God out of their land, and diſperſing them far and wide into forreign parts. So is the word here uſed, applyed unto them, Chap. 6. 12. and, in particular, to thoſe of them, whom yet he intended mercy unto, Ezek. 11. 16. See Deut. 28. 64. & 30. 4. yet ſome expound it of the dilatation of the Church of God into all Countries to the worlds end, Pſal. 72. 8. Chap. 54. 1-3. Matth. 24. 14, 31. Mar. 16. 15. Rom. 10. 18. Col. 1. 23. Rev. 14. 6. But the former ſeems more conſonant to the tenour and current of the context. The pronoun is wanting, as ver. 11. the prepoſition, as Deut. 33. 17. Pſal. 45. 6. Thoſe that expound the whole verſe of the defeat given to Sennacheribs forces, with the effects thereof, and reſtrain it thereunto, may ſeem, at the firſt ſight, to have the text run ſmoothly for them; Thou haſt added to the Nation: (many of other people joyning themſelves to Gods people, upon that overthrow given them; as upon Hamans downfall, Eſth. 8. 17.) thou haſt glorifyed thy ſelf; (both in their deſtruction, and in thy peoples deliverance) thou haſt enlarged all the ends of the land: the limits and borders of the Jewiſh territory; they taking occaſion thereby, to bring in, and under, ſome neighbouring nations, or have liberty now to enlarge themſelves; and whereas before they had been penned up in the city, to go abroad freely to the remoteſt parts of their countrey, Chap. 33. 17. But, beſide that we find no mention in ſtory, either of the acceſſion of any forraigners thereupon, to Gods people; or of their ſubduing any neighbour countrey; the word doth no where ſignifie to enlarge, but ever in the one form, to go far away, in the other two, to remove far away: as Jer. 27. 10. Ezek. 43. 9. (where if it were rendred enlarge, it would make a moſt abſurd ſenſe,) and elſewhere: and the ſubject matter both of this Song, and the whole Sermon, ſeems to be of a far larger extent, then that particular paſſage of providence, or the conſequents of it.

V. 16. Lord, in trouble they viſited thee; they poured out a prayer, when thy chaſtening was upon them] In this verſe, and the two next, is deſcribed both the great ſtreights that they were ſometime in, during their afflictions before ſpecified, ver. 8, 15. and their religious, alſo, and earneſt addreſſes unto God under them, for deliverance out of them.

in trouble] Or, in their ſtreights, or diſtreſſe; as the word properly ſignifies. See Chap. 8. 22. & 25. 4. a defect of the pronoun: as Pſal. 81. 7. Chap. 13. 22. more fully expreſſed, Hoſ. 5. 15.

viſited thee] Or, minded, remembred: as the word is rendred, 1 Sam. 15. 2. See ver. 8. or, looked after: as 2 King. 9. 34. Jer. 23. 2. thee, whom they had forgotten, Hoſ. 8. 14. and did not look after, but neglected too much before, Chap. 17. 7. See 2 Chron. 20. 12. Pſal. 25. 15. & 123. 1, 2. The Prophet ſeems, in the uſe of the word, to have had an eye to Gods viſitation of them, by his fatherly caſtigations, Pſal. 89. 32. it is, as if he had ſaid; they then viſited thee thus with prayer, when thou viſitedſt them with afflictions, Pſal. 78. 34, 35. Jer. 2. 27. Hoſ. 5. 15. & 6. 1.

they poured out] The phraſe of pouring out, implies a large quantity of the thing ſo dealt out: ſo when God is ſaid to pour out his Spirit, it argues a more then ordinary, or formerly uſual meaſure of it, to be diſpenced, Chap. 32. 15. Joel 2. 28. Act. 2. 18, 33. and when perſons are ſaid, to pour out their ſpirit, or, their prayer, unto God, it implies a large and earneſt drawing out of their ſpirits and affections, in prayer, with plenty, oft, of ſobs and tears, 1 Sam. 1. 15, 16. Pſal. 42. 4. & 142. 2. it is a metaphor taken from water, that men making no great reckoning of, where it is not ſcant, are wont not to be ſparing of, as of ſome other liquor, more precious; but to pour it out freely and largely, where occaſion requires it, Pſal. 22. 14. or, to the pouring out of water, for the quenching of a fire, when it hath ſeized upon ſome building, at which times men are wont to make no ſpare of it, though it be ſomewhat geaſon; but to pour on as plentifully as they can, to prevent a greater miſchief: and it may well ſeem to have an eye to that abundance of tears, that fear and grief are wont, not ſo much to wring out of, as to pour out by, the eyes in ſuch caſes, as are here ſpoken of, Judg. 2. 4, 5. 1 Sam. 1. 10. & 7. 6. Pſal. 6. 6. & 42. 3. & 80. 5. & 102. 9. Chap. 15. 5. & 16. 9. & 22. 4. Jer. 9. 1. Lam. 1. 2, 16.

a prayer] Heb. a ſpell, or, a charm; that is, either a paſſionate, and perſwaſive ſpeech; ſuch, as Orators and Eloquent perſons are wont to work upon peoples affections with, Chap. 3. 3. or an humble, ſubmiſſe, and lowly ſpeech, ſuch as proceeds from dejected perſons, Chap. 29. 4. or, a bemoaning, muttering manner of ſpeech; a muſſitation, ſuch as thoſe ſpel-mongers were wont to uſe; that men might not underſtand what they ſaid, Chap. 8. 19. ſuch a prayer as Anna's was, 1 Sam. 1. 13. ſhe ſpake in her heart, and her lips moved; but her voice was not heard: ſuch as Ezekiah's was, Chap. 38. 14. when he mourned like a dove: as the like is ſaid, alſo, of this people, Ezek. 7. 16. ſuch a prayer, as the Apoſtle deſcribeth, Rom. 8. 26. that hath more ſpirit and fervor, then words and language.

when thy chaſtening was upon them] Heb. in thy caſtigation of them. See ver. 8.

V. 17. Like as a woman with child, that draweth neer the time of her delivery, is in pain, and cryeth out in her pangs; ſo have we been in thy ſight, O Lord] The extremity of the pain and grief they were in, either by God himſelf inflicted upon them, or while he ſtood by, and ſeemed to neglect them, is further illuſtrated by the ſharp pangs and throws of a woman in travel. An expreſſion very riſe in Scripture. See Chap. 13. 8. & 21. 3.

a woman with child] Or, one great with child. See on Chap. 7. 14.

that draweth neer the time of her delivery] Heb. approacheth to bring forth, or, to be delivered; as 1 Sam. 4.19.

and cryeth out] As Chap. 42. 14. The uſual form, whereby we are wont to expreſs womens travel.

pangs] The word ſignifies ſuch pains, as pinch like cords. Whence, ſome ambiguity now, and then, becauſe the word ſignifies either, 2 Sam. 22. 6. Pſal. 18. 5. & 119. 61. Act. 2. 24. It is commonly uſed for pangs of birth, Job 39. 3. Jer. 13. 21. & 22. 23. Of death Pſal. 18. 4. & 116. 3.

ſo have we been] Or, ſo were we; to wit, in the time of our diſtreſs, verſ. 16. That it may run on in the ſame tenor with the former; though the perſon be altered in the form of ſpeech, (as formerly) yet the perſons themſelves, with the circumſtance of time, being ſtill the ſame.

in thy ſight] Heb. from thy face. Which ſome expound ſimply, from thee: or, by reaſon of thee; as Gen. 6. 13. By occaſion of thoſe chaſtiſements, which from thee wee ſuffered, verſ. 16. Or, from thy wrath: face, for, wrath; as Pſal. 34. 16. The conſideration of Gods wrath, diſcovering it ſelf in thoſe things that they ſuffered, being more grievous unto them, then the ſufferings themſelves, Job 6. 4. & 13. 26. Pſal. 38. 1--3. Others render it, as our verſion, Before thee, or, in thy ſight; as Gen. 31. 35. Which might aggravate their grief, when as God ſhould not ſeem to ſtand aloof off, and not look after them, as ſometime they complain, Pſal. 10. 1. which yet muſt needs be very grievous; but, (that which could not but much further enhaunce their grief and miſery) that God ſhould ſeem to ſtand by, and look on, and ſee in what extremity they were, and yet afford them no ſuccour, Pſal, 10. 14. & 35. 22. Hab. 1. 13. It is a grievous diſheartening to a woman in ſore travel, to have her friends out of the way, that ſhould be helpful to her in that extremity; but a far greater heart-breaking unto her, to behold them at hand about her, but to ſtand gazing on her, and as not regarding what extremity ſhe endured, or caring what became of her, refuſing to lay hand once on her to help her, to afford her any relief, or to further her delivery.

V. 18. We have been with child, we have been in pain, we have as it were brought forth wind] They proceed to deſcribe, and amplify the diſtreſs they were in, purſuing the former ſimilitude, by the ſtate and condition of a woman in labour, that hath pang upon pang, and throw upon throw; and is now upon pitch of delivery, when the throws are soreſt and ſharpeſt, but hath no power to deliver her ſelf of that ſhe goeth with. See Chap. 37. 3.

we have been with child] Or, were with child, or, went great; as ver. 17. The old, both Greek and Latine, render it, We have conceived: which many wreſt to a myſtical ſenſe, and expound of a ſpiritual conception of grace in the ſoul. But neither is the tranſlation right, and the expoſition much more unſound. See on Chap. 7. 14. Yet it may well be expounded, as ſome do; We had many thoughts, and devices, in our heads, and conceived great hopes of bringing them about, and meanwhile were as in travel with them. See the like, Job 15. 35. Pſal. 7. 14. Chap. 59. 4.

we have been in pain] Or, we were in pain; as ver. 17.

we have as it were brought forth wind] Or, as ſome, we did in a maner bring forth our ſpirit: that is, we were ready to give up the ghoſt, we were as at point of death, paſt hope of life; as 2 Cor. 1. 8, 9. & 4. 11. or, as others, we were, as if we went with wind: we were in continual pain, as one tormented with inward gripes of the wind-colick, beating to and fro within the bowels, and putting to extremity of pain, whereof they can attain no eaſe. Or, as others again; but we brought forth, as it were, wind; or, we did no more, then as if we had brought forth wind: that is, nothing but wind, or ſome windy matter. It was not with us, as with women ordinarily going with child: they are in pain indeed for ſome time; but when they have brought forth what they went with, there is an end of their pain; they are at eaſe then, and enjoy the comfort of their former travel, Joh. 16. 21. But it was otherwiſe with us, we wanted not for pain, but we found no iſſue; our pains were eaſeleſs, and endleſs; and all our attempts, and endeavours to relieve, or deliver our ſelves, proved weak and windy, unable to winde us out of our preſent diſtreſſes. Vain hopes and helps, are by a proverbial form of ſpeech, termed windy ones, both in Hebrew, Greek, and Latine, by a metaphor taken from ſeeds, or eggs, that will not take, or produce ought. See Hoſ. 8. 7. & 12. 1. Job 15. 2.

we have not wrought any deliverance in the earth] Or, we could not effect any deliverance for the land. He telleth in plainer words, what he intended in the former; to wit, that by all their conſultations, and caſting about, by all their devices and deſigns, they were not able to compaſs, or accompliſh ought, for the ſuccour, or ſafegard of themſelves and their country. So 2 Chr. 20. 12. Chap. 36. 1. & 37. 3.

we have not wrought] Heb. will not do. But the former is put oft potentially: For willing enough, queſtionleſs, they were to have done ſomewhat. we could not do, or, effect; as Pſal. 56. 4, 11. I will not fear what fleſh, and what man will (that is, can) do unto me: and, I will not fear: what will (that is, can) man do to me? Pſal. 118. 6. See the like, Chap. 30. 5. Job 9. 3. & 14. 4, 14. & 15. 3. & 22. 14. Jer. 2. 11, 23. & 11. 12. Mat. 12. 23. compared with Mark 3. 24.

any deliverance] Heb. ſalvations; Pſal. 74. 12. 1 Sam. 22. 51. or, deliverances; as it is rendred, Pſal. 18. 50. It is thus uſed in the plural number, moſt commonly, in way of extention, and augmentation, to intimate a concurrence of all manner of ſalvation, and deliverance fully and perfectly accompliſhed, Pſal. 28. 8. & 42. 5, 11. & 44. 4. But here in way of extenuation, and reſtriction, for any ſalvation, or, any deliverance; as it is well rendred. So all, for any, Exod. 10. 10. Job 1. 11. Pſal. 49. 17. And underſtandings, for, any underſtanding, Chap. 27. 11.

in the earth] Or, for the earth; that is, the land: (neither in, nor on is in the text) earth, for, land; as ver. 10. land, for, their land; as Chap. 13. 22.

neither have the Inhabitants of the world fallen] Or, neither did the Inhabitants of the world fall; as they did before David, when God aſſiſted him, Pſal. 18. 38. We were not able to bear down, or to bear down our enemies; thoſe are meant here by the Inhabitants of the world; as verſ. 9. oppoſed to the land, to wit, of Judea, before mentioned. A[illegible] thoſe it was that they were not able to maſter; it was God alone that was able to effect that for them. See Pſal. 18. 17. & 44. 5. Hence that confeſſion before, through thee alone we ſurvive, to celebrate thy name, verſ. 13. and that now followeth in the next verſe.

V. 19. Thy dead men ſhall riſe] Hitherto was deſcribed the calamitous condition of Gods people, under Gods chaſtiſing hand; together with their utter inability of doing ought that might free them from the ſame. Now in this laſt paſſage, wherewith the Prophet ſhuts up this Pſalm, is ſubjoyned a gracious promiſe, or profeſſion of confident aſſurance, concerning the power of God, to be ſhewed in reviving, and raiſing them from that their extream, low, feeble, and forlorn condition, wherein they ſeemed to be no better then men dead and buried, and even diſſolved into duſt. Now this is, by moſt, conceived here to be delivered to Gods people, by the Prophet, as a promiſe from God, whereby they might be ſupported in that their helpleſs, and as it might ſeem, hopeleſs eſtate, aſſuring themſelves of a comfortable iſſue of their preſent afflictions, and of certain deliverance, out of that their diſtreſſed condition, though, in the eyes of fleſh and blood, it might ſeem a thing utterly impoſſible, Ezek. 32. 3, 11. Zach. 8. 6. And they ſuppoſe it to be ſpoken in the perſon, either of God himſelf, or the Prophet from God, and directed to his people. But ſome other conceive it to be the voice of Gods people, in whoſe perſon, the words next before, were conceived; as relating what out of their faith and confidence in God, with Abraham, above, or, againſt hope, believing in hope, Rom. 4. 17, 18. They then ſuggeſted unto themſelves, wherewith to ſtay their minds, and ſettle their diſtracted thoughts, amidſt thoſe doubts and difficulties, before rehearſed. And they render the words therefore with ſome ſupply, thus, Yet ſaid we, Thy dead ſhall revive. And ſuch ſupplies are oft very requiſite, for the fitter connexion, and clearer conception of paſſages in Scripture, not a few. See Neh. 13. 25. Job 8. 18. Pſal. 27. 8. & 38. 16. & 105. 15. Chap. 22. 13. Act. 7. 32. The words are conceived thus, in way of oppoſition, to what was ſpoken of their enemies, ver. 14.

Thy dead men] Heb. only thy dead. And ſo it would rather be rendred; as including, both either ſex, and each age. In Scripture, extremity of miſery, and anxiety is ſpoken of, as a kinde of death, 2 Cor. 1. 10. & 11. 23. becauſe it takes away all the joy, and comfort of this life; and makes it little better, if not worſe, and more bitter then death; and death, then ſuch life, more deſirable, Deut. 28. 65--67. 1 King. 19. 4. Job 3. 20, 22. & 6. 9. & 7. 15. Jer. 8. 3. Jon. 4. 3. Rev. 9. 6. And thoſe that live in ſuch a ſad and diſconſolate condition, are deemed, and ſpoken of, as dead, Pſal. 31. 12. & 88. 5, 6. Yea, as buried, and conſumed, and diſſolved into duſt, Pſal. 22. 15. & 71. 20. & 137. 3. Ezek. 37. 2, 11, 12. Dan. 12. 2. and in this ſenſe is the word uſed in this place, as alſo in the two Prophets, laſt quoted.

Thy dead] If ſpoken in the perſon of God to his people; it is to be underſtood with relation to them; thoſe of you that ſeem dead; as, thy children, to Rachel, Jer.30.17. If in the perſon of Gods people, ſpeaking to God, it muſt have relation to God; thoſe that thou intendeſt mercy to, and owneſt for thine, as thy people, Jer. 31. 7. Howſoever this particle is added, to diſtinguiſh theſe dead, from thoſe dead, before ſpoken of, ver. 14. and the old Greek, and the Chaldee therefore did not well in omitting it.

ſhall riſe] Heb. ſhall live; as Pſal.69. 32. & 119. 175. As the ſad and diſmal condition of people, in grievous afflictions and diſtreſſes, is compared unto death; So the freeing of them from the ſame, and reſtoring them to a more comfortable, and gladſome eſtate, is ſaid to be a reviving of them, and a reſtoring of them unto life again, Pſal.71.20. & 80. 18. & 85.6. & 138. 7. Ezek. 37.5, 14. Dan.12. 2. Hoſ.6.2 Rom.11.15. So is it here to be underſtood, not of the general reſurrection at the laſt day, though many ſo expound it; and yet in way of alluſion, in likelihood to it, and ſhaddowed out by a reſemblance taken from it; in regard whereof alſo, the rather here the word would be tranſlated, ſhall live; as having reference to the reſurrection of life; as it is termed, Joh.5. 29. that is, peculiar to the faithful; and oppoſed to that, verſ.14. Their dead ſhall not live: that is, ſhall not be revived.

together with my dead body ſhall they ariſe] So rendring it, there ſhould be a defect of the prepoſition; as Pſal.5.4. ſo one of the Rabbines, who yet addeth another reading by ſupplying the note of ſimilitude, oft wanting, Pſal. 11.1. Chap.21.8. and in the next branch but one; as my dead body they ſhall ariſe: they ſhall as ſurely riſe, as I know that my body ſhall: ſo Job of himſelf, Job 19.25. But others reade the words without any ſuch ſupply. And here one of the Jewiſh Doctors makes theſe words, Gods anſwer to the Prophets prayer. The Prophet, ſaith he, had before prayed againſt the wicked, that their dead might not live, nor their deceaſed riſe again, v.14. but here he prayeth, in the behalf of the righteous, that they may be revived, and raiſed again; Let thy dead live: and God, in theſe words, returns him an anſwer, as granting his ſuit for them, My dead corpſe ſhall riſe again. But of any ſuit or prayer, tendred to God, here, or there, there is no great likelyhood. Others therefore, to paſſe by thoſe that apply it, to the laſt reſurrection, and ſo expound it of all thoſe that are members of Chriſts ſpiritual body, 1. Cor. 15.22, 23. 1 Theſ.4.14, 16. Or, with the Jewiſh Doctors, that underſtand it of a reſurrection at the Meſſias his coming; either corporally, as they; or ſpiritually, as others, Joh.5.24. of which latter, yet it is not denied, but that this might be a type. Thoſe that underſtand it (as the whole tenour of the Prophecy requires it) of the reſtitution of the Jewiſh people, ſome would have it meant of the City Jeruſalem, and render it, My carcaſe ſhall riſe again; my City, that now ſeems to be but carcaſe, or a dead body, ſhall be raiſed out of her duſt, and reſtored to her former ſtate and luſtre again, Pſal. 102. 13, 14. Chap.52.1,2. & 54.11,12. and we reade, indeed, in Forrein Authors, both Greek and Latine, of carcaſſes of Cities; and ſomewhat, looking that way, of Babylon, Chap.13.19. but the verb plural, here, will not admit this reading. And becauſe there is ſome ſeeming incongruity, between the noun and the verb, the former being ſingular, and the latter plurall, ſome would alter the text, and with the change of a vowell make the ſingular noun plural, reading it, My corpſes, or, dead bodies ſhall ariſe; but ſuch alteration is not needful: the manner of ſpeech in collective, or diſtributive notions, is very common, as hath been ſhewed on Chap.2.18,20. and ſo ſome of thoſe that expound it of the body of the Jewiſh people, (whether the ſpeech be Gods, or theirs) do well render it, My corpſe, or dead bodies, each of them ſhall ariſe: the ſame thing, in other words repeated, as exactly anſwering in way of oppoſition, to what was ſaid before of their enemies, v. 14. and with a more exquiſite application unto each particular perſon, by Gods gracious election deſigned unto this deliverance, that no one of them ſhall fail of having his ſhare in the ſame. There ſhall not one of them be wanting,* whom God hath preſerved, and reſerved to partake in this nationall reſurrection, alluded unto, Rev. 20.6. See Chap.27.12,13. Dan.12 1. Amos 9.9. The change of the perſon, as in the Greek Lyricks, ſo in this, and other ſacred Poems recorded in Scripture; and with this Prophet, alſo out of his Poems, is very riſe.

awake, and ſing ye that dwell in the duſt] Here again, ſome not unfitly, ſupply ſomewhat, as before; and that of the ſame nature, with that there ſupplyed, rendring the text, Thou wilt ſay, Awake, &c. as, when thou didſt ſay, Seek my face, Pſal.27.8.

awake] From the depth of your affliction, which is as death unto you; and death, whereby it is reſembled, as a deep ſleep, Pſal.13.3. Act.7.60. & 13. 36. So of the natural death, 2 King.4. 31. the child is not yet awaked; and of the Spirituall, awake thou that ſleepeſt, and ariſe from the dead, Eph.5.14. See alſo, Job 14.12, So Chap.51.17. & 52.1. & 60.1. the phraſe implyes, that it is as eaſie a thing for God, with a word of his mouth, to raiſe up from death, or from the greateſt depth of affliction, as deſperate an eſtate as the ſtate of death, as for one man to awake another out of his ſleep. The damſel ſlept; but to him, that was able to awake her with a word, Luk.8.52,55. Joh.11.11,14,43,44.

ſing] For joy, Chap.12.6. & 24.14. Jer.31.7. Zeph.3.14. Zach.2.10.

Ye that dwell in the duſt] Heb. dwellers, or, inhabitants of the duſt, as alſo, Dan.12.2. not only as ſome would paraphraſe it; ye that are caſt down to the ground, and ſit in the duſt, as Pſal.7.5.& 44.25.& 119.25. Chap.14.12. & 47. 1. Iob 16.15. but that are as men buried, that are as laid up, and ly ſleeping in the duſt, as Job 7.21. Dan.12.2. For to ſuch is the ſtate of this people compared, Ezek.37. 11,12.

for thy dew is as the dew of herbs:] This laſt word is ambiguous; in the ſingular it is found uſed for light, Eſt. 8.16. Pſal.139.12. and ſo would ſome, both Jews and Chriſtians, take the plurall here, and ſo render it, as the dew of lights, that is, of the morning; or, that is accompanied with the light and warmth of the Sun; Pſal.110.3. and it is true, that God is light, 1 Ioh.1.5. yea, the Father of lights, Jam.1.17. and that the light of his countenance ſhining forth upon perſons and people, doth not enlighten only, but enliven them, and is able to turn the heavieſt and ſaddeſt condition into a chearful and gladſome eſtate, Num.6. 25, 26. Job 29.3. Pſal.4.6,7. & 36.9. & 43.3. & 63.3. & 89.15. & 60.1, 2. Ioh.1.4,5. But this metaphor doth not ſo well ſuit here. Others therefore, of either rank, take it in another ſenſe, as the plural is uſed, the ſame with this here, 2 King.4.39. and the maſculine ſingular, with little variation, Chap.18.4. for herbs, as our Engliſh well renders it. Little difference elſe is between the moſt that go this way, ſave that ſome few make it the ſpeech of Gods Prophet to his people, and expound it thy dew, that is, the favour that God ſheweth unto thee: the reſt, conceive it as the ſpeech of the people to God; as rendring a reaſon why they expect ſuch a ſtrange and ſudden alteration of their preſent condition, upon Gods being in mercy reconciled unto them; becauſe, ſay they, thy dew, that is, the favour and grace that thou ſheweſt unto thine, (which, in effect and ſubſtance, alſo, cometh home to the former) is like unto the dew that refreſheth and reviveth the herbs, that were parched and withered with the heat of the Sun in Summer; or, that in Spring time, cauſeth them to revive, and to ſhoot up, and ſprout out again, when as they ſeemed to be in the Winter time ſtark dead, and lay buried under ground, as in a Grave. See Gen. 27. 28, 39. Deut.32.2. & 33.13. 2 Sam.23.4. Pſal.133.3. Prov.19.12. Cha.18.4. Hoſ.14.5. of the defect of the particle of ſimilitude, ſee the branch next but one, before-going, and the expreſſion of it in the like form of ſpeech, Chap.65.22.

and the earth ſhall caſt out the dead] This verſion hath very few fautors, or followers: Nor will the ſignification of the verb here uſed, well admit it: For it ſignifies in its form, to fall; in the next active here uſed, to make to fall, or, to caſt down: the neereſt uſe I can find of it, to that here given it, is where it is uſed of ſtriking out a tooth, Exod.21.27. or, where of caſting a lot, Eſt.3.7. & 9.24. as if it were ſaid, the earth ſhall caſt out her dead; thoſe that ly dead and buried in her, as the lots do in the lot-pot, untill they be drawn or caſt out. But this ſeems ſomewhat far fetcht, and harſh. It is true indeed, that ſome other render the word, caſt out, as alluding to creatures that going with young, caſt that they go with before their time, Exod.23.26. in regard that the word ſignifying an abortive, is from the verb here found derived, Iob 3.16. Pſal.58.8. Eccl.6.3. But another word is uſed for ſuch caſting of young; not this: nor is the abortive ſo termed from the Dams caſting of it, but from its falling from her that goeth with it: and its turned another way, by thoſe that ſo expound it, as ſhal afterward be ſhewed. Nor doth it ſeem to be a fit ſimilitude, to reſemble Gods gracious deliverance; uſed rather to ſet out the dread and terrour of his voyce, caſting into fits, and pangs of travel, Pſal.29.9. not the calmneſſe of it, *awakening and enlivening dead creatures. The moſt therefore wave this ſenſe; and albeit they agree much at one in the ſignification of the verb; yet they vary much in the acception of the noun, and in the deſignation of the time, and the perſons here intended. Some by the word Rephaim here uſed (of which, ſomewhat before, Chap.14.9. & 17.5.) underſtand the enemies of Gods people; of whom the word was uſed before, v.14. ſo called, becauſe mighty and gianclike men, ſuch as the Rephaites are reported to have been, Deut.2.11,20. Or, becauſe given to oppreſſion and violence, as thoſe great ones before the Floud were, Gen.6.4,13. and ſome of theſe render the text, and the land of the violent ones is fallen down, which ſitteth not well with the form of the verb. Others, The land ſhall caſt out the Giants, as an abortive birth; of the ground whereof before. Others, But thou haſt overthrown, Or, wilt overthrow the land of thoſe violent ones. Others, cöceiving the former branch alſo, in the future; for thy dew ſhal be as the dew of herbs, when thou ſhalt have thrown thoſe giants, or great ones, to the ground; the deſtruction of their potent adverſaries and oppreſſors, ordinarily making way for the deliverance of Gods oppreſſed people. See Chap.14.1. Heb. and, for when; or, after that, as Judg.2.19. Hoſ.1.11. Zach.12.2. and a defect of the particle to, as Amos 9.9. and this laſt, to me, ſeems the likelyeſt to expreſſe the Prophets mind: Yet ſome take the word rephaim here, for dead, or deceaſed, as v.14. and the word is ſo taken, Pſal.88.10. Prov.2.17. & 9.18. and they thus render the text applyed to Gods people; after that thou haſt caſt down the deceaſed into the ground, that is, after thou haſt brought them ſo low, and waſted them ſo by afflictions, that they ſeem as dead, and laid up in their graves in the ground, Pſal.71.20. a metaphor taken from corn that is caſt into the ground, and there dyeth before it revive and fructifie, Joh.12.24. 1 Cor.15.39. And here ends this pious ſong compoſed by the Prophet, for the uſe of Gods people.

V.20. Come my people, enter thou into thy Chambers, and ſhut thy dores about thee, hide thy ſelf, as it were for a little moment, untill the indignation be over-paſt.] The two laſt verſes of this Chapter, being no part of the Pſalm, or Song therein comprehended, would rather have been joyned with the Chapter enſuing, as ſome Interpreters therefore have alſo diſpoſed of them. For in them, the Prophet having made an end of his Song, returneth again, to proceed in his former diſcourſe; and being to relate what dreadfull judgments God was to execute abroad, far, and near, in the world, and even in thoſe places, among the reſt, where many of his own people abode; he beginneth his ſpeech, directed unto them, with an wholeſome advice, admoniſhing and exhorting them, to ſeek and provide ſhelter for themſelves, againſt the great and generall ſtorm that was coming, retiring themſelves as to ſome ſecret place of ſecurity and ſafeguard; and keeping cloſe there, partly by ſincere reformation, and renewing of their repentance, that all occaſions of breach between God and them, might be removed, Zeph.2.1-3. and by fervent prayer repairing to him, for his gracious preſervation, and powerful protection, Mat.6.6. and partly, by ſerious meditation of their future deliverance, with a quiet and patient expectation of it, Ch.30.15. & that the rather, becauſe it would be after a while over, Pſal. 30.5. Chap.10.25. & 54.7,8. Hab.3.3. 2 Cor.4.17. Heb.10.37,38. That which is here ſet forth by alluſion to the uſuall practice of people, if they perceive a ſtorm towards, when they are abroad, to get home ſpeedily to their houſes, Exod.9.19,20. and in times of perill, to retire into the ſecreteſt and ſureſt rooms in the houſe, and to make all faſt after them, Judg. 9.51. 1 King.20.30. & 22.25. Pſal.18.45. Ioh.20.19. Or, it may well be, more ſpecially to the Iſraelites, keeping their houſes cloſe in Egypt, while the deſtroying Angel paſſed over, throughout the whole Land, Exod.12.22, 23. Some of the Jewiſh Writers expound it, of their being ſhut up in Jeruſalem by Sennacherib, Chap.36.2. See Ier.8.14. But this is neither intended here; and in regard of comprehenſion, it is over-ſtrait.

Come] Or, Go, chap.6.9. but Come, rather here; as Num. 10.29. as if God himſelf went along with them, and led them by the hand, as a father his children, to conduct them to a place of ſafety, and there to ſhut them in, as he did Noah in the Ark, Gen.7.16.

thy chambers] Or, cloſets, diſtinguiſhed from chambers, 1 Chr.28.11. the chambers of Gods providence and protection, Pſal.31.22. & 143.9. Prov.18.11.

about thee] Or, upon thee; as 2 King.4.4.

hide thy ſelf] Or, lurk, ly hid; the word is no where elſe found in this form.

as it were for a little moment] Or, for a little ſpace; as it is well rendred, Ezr.9.8. or, for a little while; for the particle here ſeems rather a prepoſition, then an adverb of ſimilitude, as Gen.18.10. Ruth 1.4. Heb. a little of a moment, (as, a little of water, Gen.18.4.) the leaſt imaginable particle of time, 1 Cor.15.52.

the indignation] The ſtorm of Gods wrath, chap. 10.25. Dan.11.36.

V.21. For behold] The reaſon why they ſhould do, as the Prophet adviſed; uſhered in with a mark prefixed before it, implying it to be as ſure, as if they ſaw it preſent, (ſee chap.7.14.) becauſe there is a grievous ſtorm coming; God himſelf is ſetting out, to ſit in a generall Seſſion, and to execute judgment all the World over, Pſal.50.1-6.

the Lord cometh out of his place] From heaven, Pſal.68,35. & 76.8. Rom.1.18. So Mic.1.3. A metaphor taken from a King that comes down out of his Palace, to ſit in judgment, hear, decide, & cenſure, 2 Sam.19.8. Ier.38.7. Gen.18.20,21.

to puniſh the inhabitants of the earth for their iniquity:] Heb. to viſit the iniquity of the inhabitant of the earth upon him. See the like phraſe, Exod.20.5. & 34.7. inhabitant, for inhabitants; as ch.5.3. & 24.17. inhabitants of the earth; thoſe that dwell far and neer: of whom, ch.24.6,17. v.18.

the earth alſo ſhall diſcloſe her bloud, and ſhall no more cover her ſlain] Some expound this of the ſeverity of Gods judgment, and the large execution that ſhall enſue; as if it were ſaid, there ſhall ſo much bloud be ſhed, that the earth ſhall not be able to receive, or drink it in: and ſo many ſlain, that there will want ground or room to bury them, Ier. 7.32, 33. but it is rather ſpoken, to ſhew the ſtrict inquiſition that God will then make, for the oppreſſions and wrongs that have been done, and murders that have bin committed, Pſal. 9.12. that they ſhal be as ſurely brought to judgment, and avenged, as if the earth ſhould ſpue up the bloud ſhe had taken in, and caſt up again the bodies of the ſlain buried in her, to appear in judgment, and to give in evidence againſt the murtherers, Gen.4.10,11. and it may well withall intimate, that no murther, though never ſo ſecretly committed, or cloſely carried, ſhould then be concealed, but all brought to light; as if he had ſaid, the bloud that had bin not ſhed on a rock, and there left to open view; but poured on the ground, and covered there ſo with duſt, that no ſign of it could be ſeen, Ezek.24.7. ſhould all then come to light: ſee Iob 16.18. and the murthers not of thoſe alone, whoſe bodies had bin left lying upon the open ſurface of the earth, without burial, Pſal. 79.2,3. but of thoſe alſo that had bin privily ſlain, and ſecretly buried, ſhould then be diſcovered.

her bloud] Heb. blouds. See chap.1.15. her bloud, which ſhe had taken in, or was ſhed upon her; and ſo her ſlain, buried in her, or ſlain upon her.

no more] Or, no longer, as Jer.44.22.

CHAP. XXVII.

Ver. 1. IN that day, the Lord with his ſore, and great, and ſtrong ſword, ſhall puniſh Leviathan [illegible] piercing ſerpent, even Leviathan, that crooked ſerpent, and he ſhall ſlay the dragon that is in the Sea] As the murthers and oppreſſions of Gods people, ſhall then come to trial; ſo juſtice ſhall accordingly be done upon thoſe, be they never ſo great, that have been the murtherers and oppreſſors of them.

In that day] At that time, when God ſhall hold that his great Aſſize, Chap.26.21. as ch.25.9.

ſore] Heb. hard, or cruel, Chap.19.4. our old Engliſh heavy. There is a great deal of emphaſis in the words, as they are in the Hebrew: for thus they run there; with his ſword, that ſore, or cruel one; and that great one, and that ſtrong one; able to do execution to the purpoſe. See the like, Ezek. 21. 9,10,14.

ſword] An alluſion to that ſword, not which ſouldiers uſe in the field, 2 Sam.11.25. Chap.1.20. & 3.25. but wherewith, for capital crimes, Kings and Magiſtrates are wont to execute malefactors, 1 King.2.8,32. Act.12.2. Rom.13.4. for God is here deſcribed, as proceeding in a judiciary way; not as Pſal. 45.3. And I ſuppoſe, therefore, that the ſword of the ſpirit, that is, the ſpiritual ſword, the word of God, Eph. 6.16. Rev. 1. 16. is not properly here intended; but that power of God, wherewith he taketh vengeance, and doth juſtice on the obſtinate wicked. So Chap. 34.15. & 66.16.

ſhall puniſh] Or, do execution upon: that it may come neerer home to the Hebrew, viſit upon, or, do juſtice, or, execute vengeance upon; to expreſs the better a judiciary proceſſe: as Pſal.149.9. So Chap.26.21. & 24.21.

Leviathan] The word ſeems, properly, to import a whale, of the greateſt ſort and largeſt ſize, Job 41.1. Pſal. 104.26. & 74.14. for in theſe places only, is the word certainly found; that, Job 3.8. is ambiguous. Of this Leviathan, the greateſt of all living creatures, Job 41.33,34. So called, as containing an addition of many creatures, put together, and made up into one: and of the Behemoth, or Elephant; ſo called likewiſe, as a compoſition of many beaſts, Job 40. 15. being the greateſt, that lives on land; and concerning their huge bigneſſe, and making ſport, by fighting together before their Meſſias, when he comes, the Talmudiſts tell us prodigious tales out of Pſal.50.10. & 104.26. by them groſly abuſed; as alſo, of the killing of them both afterward, to make a great feaſt, for the juſt ones, from this place, and Chap.25.6.

the piercing ſerpent] Or, a piercing ſerpent. The word ſerpent, is in the Hebrew, a general term, common to all living creatures in water, or on land; that glide along in the one, and on the other, with a wrigling kind of motion, without uſe of feet, or fins. For ſuch, only, ſeem properly to be ſo termed. Of the leſſer ſort whereof, are the eel, and the ſnake; of the greater ſort, the whale, and the dragon; of which, more anon.

piercing] The word here uſed, ſignifies, properly, a bar, or bolt. So called, of a word, that ſignifies to flee, (whence the ambiguity, Chap.15.5. & 43.14.) becauſe it ſwiftly fleeth, or ſhooteth the bolt into the ſtaple; the bar, from the one end or corner of the thing barred, or born by it, to the other, Exod.

26.28. & 36.33. Hence ; diverſity of verſions here ; ſome rendring the word fugitive : as Chap.15.5. ſo our former Engliſh, after the old Greek ; ſome ſlippery, or gliding ; ſome, long, like a bar, or bolt : ſome round ; as bars and bolts uſe to be : ſome, ſtrong, like a bar of iron, or braſs, Pſal.107.16. & 147.13. Prov.18.19. Chap.45.2. to which purpoſe, our ancient Engliſh, invincible : ſome, ſhooting, from the one end of the Sea, to the other ; ſo the Jewiſh Criticks : ſome, croſſing ; becauſe a bar, or bolt, runs acroſs ; ours, here, piercing ; and ſo the Geneva verſion. Which whether it be meant of piercing the water, by ſuch a quick motion, from place to place, or of piercing and inſinuating it ſelf into holes and bodies, where it finds any the leaſt way for entrance, (which is noted, as a ſpecial property, in ſnakes and ſerpents) is uncertain : the word is found uſed, as the epithet of a ſerpent, here only, and Job 26.13. and from that which ſignifies a bar, or bolt, it varies only in one vowel : the old Latine yeeldeth it not ſo fitly, a bar : ſome other, better bar-like, or, like a bar ; which, I ſuppoſe to be beſt : The Hebrew Criticks obſerving that variation, to intimate, the one to be a ſubſtantive, ſignifying a bar, or bolt ; the other, an adjective, importing ſome reſemblance of the ſame : as the ſerpent, or whale, doth, in divers of the particulars above recited.

even Leviathan, that crooked ſerpent] Or, and upon Leviathan, that crooking ſerpent. Some, that retain the moſt common uſe of the copulative, ſuppoſe two Leviathans to be here intended, the one whereof, they conceive to be the King of Aſſyria ; the other, the King of Egypt. Some Other, as our verſion, rendring it even : as Deut.4.32. ſuppoſe one and the ſame to be in both branches intended, which ſome would have to be Pharaoh the King of Egypt, compared to a whale, Ezek. 29.3. & 32.2,6. in regard of the River Nilus, that runneth thorow his Countrey, is a chief ſtrength of it, brings it in much [illegible]and by overflowing it, makes it fertile : as was alſo another of them termed before him, Pſal.74.14. Others would have it to be Sennacherib, King of Aſſyria ; ſo termed, becauſe his Countrey lay upon the great river Euphrates. See Chap.8.7. Others, Nebuchadnezzar, King of Babylon, ſituate upon the banks of the ſame. See Jer.51.13. Others, taking the word collectively, conceive it to be intended, not of any one particular perſon alone, but of ſundry great Tyrants, that had been principal oppreſſors of Gods people ; of whom, Chap.26.13. compared to theſe huge devouring Sea-creatures, becauſe they make havock of men, Pſal.14.4. & 124.3. as thoſe vaſt bodied ones are wont, even as by ſholes, to ſwallow down the leſſer ſort of fiſh, Hab.1.14. Howbeit, ſome underſtand all here ſpoken, of Satan, the Devill ; of whom, Rev.12.3,9. But I ſuppoſe the Devill no more intended by the Leviathan, here, then by Lucifer, chap. 14.12. that is, no otherwiſe, then as ſuch Tyrants were his inſtruments, Eph.2.2. and as they might ſome way be types of him. See the Notes on Rev.12.3,7.

crooked] Or, crooking, or, winding ; not crooked, in regard of the native ſhape of his body ; but winding and crooking many wayes in the motion of it ; not going ſtraight forward, but with wrigling to and fro, making his way. It is taken from by-wayes, full of windings and turnings ; one while to the right hand, and another while to the left, Judg.5.6. Pſal. 125.5.

and will ſlay] He will not amerce them, with ſome pecuniary fine, as in ſome lighter treſpaſſes is wont to be done, Exod. 21.22,30,32. ſtrip them of their wealth, nor ſcourge them, as in ſome greater offences is uſual, Deut.25.2,3. lay ſome more grievous afflictions on them ; but as in capitall crimes, the proceeding is unto death, Exod.21.12,15-17. ſo here, he will ſlay, he will deſtroy them ; he will make uſe of, not the rod, or the ſcourge, but the ſword ; and that not to wound, as in war it ſometime onely doth, Joel 2.8. but, as in judicature, the uſe of it, is ever to ſlay, Matth.26.52. Rev.13.10. or, he will not impriſon them only, and reſtrain them for a time : as Chap.24.22. Rev.20.2,3. but utterly ſo deſtroy them, and rid the world of them, that they ſhall never return to oppreſſe his people again, Chap.26.14.

the dragon] The word dragon, though uſed ſometime in forreign authors, Poets eſpecially, for any ſerpent in general, yet more peculiarly ſeems to denote a long ſnaky kind of ſerpent, uſually of great length ; not ſuch as they paint, commonly, with wings and legs. Of the ſtrange length of them, ſee Aelian, l.2. c.21. & l.15. c.21. & l.16. c.39. & Pliny, l.8. c.11, 13,14. and ſuch an one doth the word here import, when it is applyed to land-creatures : as Chap.13.22. ſo that the former word rendred ſerpent, ſeems the genus to this ; and this, to comprehend only the bigger and larger kind of them : but here there is no place for ſuch land-creatures ; for there is expreſſe mention in the text, of their abode in the Sea : and as for the Sea-dragon, of which, Pliny, l.9. c.27. & Aelian, l.5. c.37. & l.14. c.12. it ſeems no great fiſh, not much unlike to our viver : but the word, applyed to Sea-creatures, ſignifieth a whale ; and thoſe of a ſnaky ſhape, or ſerpentine figure of the like ſize with it. So Gen.1.21. Pſal.44.19. & 74.13. Chap. 51.9. Lam.4.3. and would ſo be here rendred, not the dragon, (for we never ſo uſe the word) but the whale, or, the whirlpool, that is, in the ſea : in which latter word, though there may be an alluſion to the ſituation of Egypt, or Babylon, great waters uſually in Hebrew bearing that name, whereof, ſee on chap. 19.15. & 21.1. Yet it is here enough, for that which the Prophet here intendeth, that thoſe devouring fiſhes, by which the Prophet repreſenteth theſe great Tyrants in them here intended, abide generally in the Sea.

V. 2. In that day ſing ye to her, a vineyard of red wine] From the prediction of the deſtruction of Gods peoples greateſt enemies, he proceedeth to relate the flouriſhing and fructifying eſtate of Gods people, now enjoying reſt and peace. And this he enters upon, with an exhortation, whereby he excites and incites all that wiſh well to Gods Church, and rejoyce in the proſperity of his people, by gladſome ſongs and acclamations, to expreſſe and ſhew forth the ſame, Chap.52.9. & 66. 10. Zach.4.7. The words, as they are here read, ſeem to intimate the latter part of them, to be the ſum of the ſhort ſong, or acclamation it ſelf, as, Grace, grace to it, Zach. 4.7. But ſome rather read the words, as one continued ſpeech ; to the vineyard of new wine, ſing ye to it : a redundancy of ſpeech in Hebrew very uſual : as Gen.2.17. Chap.8.13. Pſal.1.4. & 74. 14. & 144.2. Others, which I ſuppoſe the beſt, as divided, but another way, into two branches ; the one containing a prediction, In that day there ſhall be a vineyard of red wine ; the other, an exhortation, ſing ye of it, or to it.

In that day] At that time, when the potent adverſaries of Gods people ſhall be deſtroyed, ver.1. and Gods people, by their former afflictions, pruned and purged, Chap.1.25. ver. 8,9. ch.48.10. Joh.15.2.

a vineyard of red wine] Or, as ſome, hot, or ſtrong wine : becauſe the word in Chaldee hath a ſignification of heat ; but it ſeems rather, to intimate the colour, expreſſed plainly, Prov. 23.31. red wine, in thoſe parts, being uſually the ſtrongeſt, and the beſt ; called the blood of the grape, therefore, Gen.49. 12. Deut.32.14. In regard whereof, alſo, the Jewiſh Doctors adviſe their people, at the celebration of the Paſſeover, to make uſe rather of red wine, then of white ; becauſe this is uſually the weaker. So Pſal.75.8. The meaning is, the Church, Gods vine, Pſal.80.8. Chap.5.7. that had formerly degenerated from her native excellency, and brought forth vile and noiſome grapes, Deut.32.32,33. Chap.5.2,7. Jer.2. 21. ſhould then recover her primitive generoſity again, and bring forth ſuch fruit, as ſhould be of good eſteem, uſefull and acceptable, both to God and man, Judg.9.13.

ſing ye to it] Or, of it : as Chap.8.12. & 23.5. the word ſignifies, properly, to ſing by courſe, anſwering one to another, Exod.15.21. 1 Sam.18.6,7. Ezra 3.11. Sing together, as in a quire.

V. 3. I the Lord do keep it, I will water it every moment ; leſt any hurt it, I will keep it night and day] Or, as ſome, I the Lord will keep it : as Others, knitting the two firſt members into one ſentence, I the Lord, the keeper of it, will every moment water it, that it may not be hurt, I will night and day watch it. That this vineyard of God thus reſtored, may have ſome good aſſurance, not of preſent proſperity only, but of future ſecurity, God himſelf is by the Prophet brought in, undertaking the charge and cuſtody of it. And whereas there are two evils eſpecially, that may be prejudicial to a vineyard, and impeach the thriving of it, the one drought, and want of water to refreſh it, Chap.1.30. the other, the violent breaking in, or, privy ſtealing in, of man or beaſt, that may annoy it, Pſal.80. 12,13. Cant.2.15. God here engageth himſelf to his Church, to provide for it abundantly againſt either. For he that before had forbidden the clouds to rain upon it, Chap.5.6. would himſelf, now, be continually watering of it, by the gracious dews, Chap.26.19. and ſpiritual refreſhments of his Word and Spirit, and with a comfortable ſupply of whatſoever ſhould be needful to keep it in a fruitful and flouriſhing condition, Gen.2.9,10. Deut.11.10-12. Chap.58.11. Ezek.47.1, 9,12. Hoſ.2.21,22. Rev.22.1,2. and he that before had pulled down her wall, and pluckt up her hedge, Pſal.80.12. Chap.5. 5. would now himſelf be as wall and fence unto her, Pſal.125. 2. Chap.26.1. Zach.2.5. he would keep ſuch a conſtant watch night and day about her, that none ſhould either by day openly force and break in, or in the night-time, by ſome wile and ſleight, privily ſteal in to wrong her, Pſal.121.3,4.

do keep it] Or, that watch it, or, the keeper : as the word is rendred, Jer.4.17. or, watchman of it : as, 2 King.17.9. the keeper of Iſrael. Pſal.121.4.

water it] For it is his watching alone, that can make fertile, and fruitful, that can give thrift and growth, Chap.44.3,4. 1 Cor.3.6,7. and without him, as no watching can ſecure, Pſal.127.1. ſo no watering can avail, Chap.17.11.

every moment] Heb. at moments, or, by moments: as Job 7. 18. Ezek.26.16. & 32.10.

leſt any hurt it] Heb. leſt he viſit on it: to viſit upon, for, to puniſh, hurt, or afflict: as Jer. 13.21. & 30.20. leſt he hurt it, for, leſt it be hurt: the word is taken indefinitely; as Job 19. 26. Pſal.7.2. and ſo the old Latine renders it; for they are wide, that think this form, and that, 2 King.14.8. parallel, let us look either other in the face; the phraſes are nothing alike.

I will keep it] Or, watch it: as Job 7.20. Prov. 24.12. Matth.26.36.

night and day] Conſtantly, continually, without intermiſſion. So 1 Sam.25.16. chap.21.8.

V. 4. Fury is not in me:] The Prophet in theſe words, and the reſt of his enſuing diſcourſe, ſeems to meet with an objection, that might ariſe in mens minds, concerning theſe gracious promiſes of God, and his ſerious profeſſions of his affection to, and care of his Church, and to ſtrengthen the hearts of the truly faithful againſt it. For it might be demanded, how theſe things could ſtand with thoſe predictions and denunciations of ſuch grievous calamities and diſtreſſes, that were to befall Gods people themſelves, whereof mention, alſo, had formerly, in this Sermon, been made, Chap. 26.8,13,15-18. To which the Prophet returneth anſwer: Firſt, that God neither, is of himſelf, prone to wrath, nor implacable. Secondly, that there are thoſe among Gods people, that, by their obſtinacy, enforce God to ſevere courſes, ver.4,5. Thirdly, that Gods ſharp proceedings againſt ſuch, are for the benefit of the reſt, ver.6. Fourthly, that Gods dealings with his people, in chaſtiſement, do much differ from his proceedings with others, ver.7,11. And laſtly, that there ſhall, in due time, be an entire deliverance of them, ver.12,13.

Fury is not in me] wrath, or heat. See Chap.42.25. & 51. 17. Either my wrath againſt my people, is no fury, no rage, no implacable wrath, like that of an husband, towards a diſloyal wife, Prov.6.34. I am prone, and ready to do, what in ſuch caſe a man will not do, Jer.3.1. or my anger and diſpleaſure, conceived againſt my people, is now over; ſince that by their forepaſſed ſufferings, they are humbled for their ſins that procured them, reclaimed from them, and reformed, chap.12. 1. & 40.1,2. & 54. 8, 9. Ezek. 16. 42, 63. Zach. 1. 15-17. & 6. 8.

who would ſet the briers and thorns againſt me in battel? I would go thorow them, I would burn them together] Or, as Some, Who ſo ſhall ſet me briers and thorns in it, in battel will I march againſt them, and will burn them together. But this agreeth not ſo well with the pauſes in the Hebrew. Others, Yet if any with bryer and thorn, or like brier and thorn, ſhall induce me to battel, I will warily enter into her, or, thorow her, and burn them, out of her together. This ſome underſtand of the enemies of Gods Church; that it is a folly for any, that are but as briers and thorns, fit to make fewell of, or matter to feed the fire, Pſal.58.9. Eccl. 7. 6. to offer to oppoſe themſelves againſt God, or againſt thoſe whom he protecteth; and if any ſuch therefore ſhall ſo do, or ſhall prove like pricking briers or thorns unto his people, Ioſh.23.13. Ezek.28.14. God will be as a fire to burn them up, and deſtroy them, Pſal.21.9. chap. 26.11. Zach.2.5. & 12.6. Others, of his Church and People, that albeit God be thus graciouſly affected towards it and them; yet if there ſhall thoſe ſpring up in it, and be found among them, that like briers and thorns ſhall vex him, and provoke him to wrath, by their prophane and ſinful courſes, 2 Sam.23.6. Mic. 7.4. they ſhall find him to be a conſuming fire, Deut.4.24 chap.33.12. he will in hoſtile manner ſet upon them, or enter, to that purpoſe, into his vineyard, and burn them up together, and by that means rid it of them, 2 Sam.23.7. ch.1.25. & 9.18. which yet he will ſo wiſely and warily do, that his vineyard ſhall receive no damage thereby; he will withall have a due regard to thoſe that continue faithfull to him; Zach.2.3. 2 Pet.2.9. Many other verſions and interpretations are given, too long to relate: theſe I ſuppoſe the moſt probable.

who would ſet againſt me] Heb. give me; or, ſet me, ſome would have it read, by way of wiſh, as Iob 29 1. Ier.9. 1. who will ſet me? that is, I would ſome would ſet me. I ſuppoſe it rather to be ſpoken, either in way of interrogation, Ier.9.12. Hoſ.14.9. or, by way of ſuppoſition; as Pſal.107.43. ſo Pſal. 25.12.

the briers and thorns] Heb. brier, thorn; as ch. 5. 6. Which ſome underſtand, as ſpoken of one kind only; as, brier of thorn, that is, thorny brier: but both words being in an abſolute and entire form, admit not well that conſtruction: the moſt, therefore, rather take it, as intending two ſorts; and either taken collectively, with defect of a copulative; as Hab.3.17.

I would go thorow them] The word here uſed, being no where elſe found; only two terms derived from it; the one, ſignifying a ſtep, 1 Sam.20.3. the other, an hip, 1 Chr.19.4. ſo it would there, more properly, and more modeſtly be rendred; becauſe it peculiarly pointeth to that place, whence the motion in going ſeems to deſcend. Some here take it, to import a warlike march: Others, a wary ſtepping, as alluding to one, that entring into a garden, or orchard, to pluck up the weeds and thiſtles, and to grub up the briers and brambles, that peſter the ground, is carefull how, or where he treads, for hurting the uſefull plants, the more tender eſpecially therein; and to this ſenſe, I the rather encline, becauſe the pronoun is here feminine. I will go in her, or in it, or ſtep into her, or into it, to wit, the vineyard, v.2,3.

I would burn them together] Heb. I will burn her, or, it, together; which becauſe it cannot here be underſtood fitly of burning up the vineyard it ſelf, as a ground altogether forlorn, Heb.6.8. (notwithſtanding what is ſaid, Lam.4.11.) muſt of neceſſity be meant, of burning thoſe briers and thorns out of it; and may well, therefore, be rendred, I will burn them out of it; for the prepoſition is, in ſuch manner, oft implyed, either in the verb, or in the pronoun, or affix: ſo Pſal.53.5. encamping me, for encamping againſt me; dwell thee, for dwell with thee, Pſal.5.4. come us, for come at us, Chap.28.15. ſo Pſal. 65.5. where the ſame particle is neceſſarily ſupplyed, that is here wanting; though in a diverſe uſe, there, then here.

V. 5. Or, let him take hold of my ſtrength, that he may make peace with me, and he ſhall make peace with me] Some read the words, Or, who will, or can grapple with my ſtrength, let him make peace with me, &c. as if he had ſaid, who is able to ſtay mine hand, by laying hold on mine arm, or can hope to make his part good againſt me? Job 9.4,12,13. Dan.4.35. 1 Cor. 10. 22. and it is their wiſeſt courſe, therefore, to make their peace with me, Job 11.13. & 22.21. The interrogative particle, ſupplyed from the words before-going, the future, for the potential: as Chap.26.18. Others, Or, he ſhall take hold of my ſtrength, that he may make peace with me; that he may, I ſay, make peace with me: underſtanding it, [illegible] in alluſion to one, who perceiving ſome offended perſon ready to ſmite him, or give fire upon him, in an humble and ſubmiſſive manner, layeth hold on his arm, and by earneſt ſuit, with prayers and tears, endeavoureth to ſtay him from ſmiting, or diſcharging on him; and by allaying of his wrath, to make his peace with him. See Exod.32.6. Hoſ.12.4. Jon.3.8-10. as if he had ſaid; So will I proceed againſt ſuch as thus provoke me; unleſſe by humbling of themſelves, and ſeeking timely to me, they make their peace with me, and ſo prevent it, Zeph.2.1,2. Luk.14.32. a defect of the finitive particle that; as Chap.5. 11. & 10.2. Hoſ.1.6. and the latter branch, for the greater emphaſis, repeated; as Chap.26.3. Cant.6.13.

V. 6. He ſhall cauſe them, that come to Jacob, to take root, Iſrael ſhall bloſſome and bud, and fill the face of the world with fruit] The Prophet returns again to theſe gracious promiſes of God, to be made good to his people; either of his reſtitution of them, or upon, and by means of his judgments executed upon the wicked, among them; their taking deeper root, thriving better, and growing ſo abundantly fruitfull, that their fruit ſhould fill the whole world.

He ſhall cauſe them, that come to Jacob, to take root] Or, as ſome others, He ſhall cauſe thoſe of Jacob, that come, to take root. Or, as ſome other again, He ſhall cauſe them that come from Jacob, to take root. Or, Jacob ſhall take root in his Poſterity. The firſt, underſtanding the text of Jacobs Proſelytes, Chap.2.3. & 56.3-8. The ſecond, of thoſe that return from captivity, v. 13. Chap.35.10. The third and fourth, of their Poſterity, Chap.44.3,4. & 48. 29. But the words, eſpecially as they ly in the original, will not well bear any of theſe verſions. The beſt Interpreters concurring therein with the Jewiſh Commenters, thus read them; Hereafter, or, in times coming ſhall Jacob root, or, take root; or, to knit them, the more aptly to the former diſcourſe; That in time coming Jacob may take root: as an effect of Gods purging of his Vineyard, his Church, from ſuch noxious plants as cumbred the ground, and hindred the growth and welfare of it. See Chap.4.2,4. of the uſuall defect of the particle: ſee on v.5.

them that come] Heb. in the coming; to wit, days, or times: as, Behold the days coming, Jer.30.3. & 31.27,31,38. a defect of the particle; as in this very phraſe, Eccl.2.16.

he ſhall cauſe thoſe that come to Jacob, to take root;] to wit, God, Pſal.80.9. thou madeſt it to take root; or, taking it indefinitely, he, or they ſhall be rooted; as Jer.12.2. ſo ver. 3. leſt he hurt it; or, Jacob ſhall take root; as Job 5.3. I have ſeen the fooliſh taking root; where the word is the ſame, and in the ſame form; See Chap.37.31.

Iſrael ſhall bloſſome and bud] So Chap. 35. 1,2. & 66.14. of the word, ſee Chap.5.24. & 17. 11. Iſrael, and Jacob, are here the ſame; to wit, the Poſterity of Jacob, called alſo Iſrael, as Chap.14.1.

and fill the face of the world with fruit] Heb. and they ſhall fill, to wit, the Poſterity of Jacob; either naturally deſcended from him, or by profeſſion of faith adjoyned to him, Pſal.24. 6. Rom.9.6. Gal.6.16. the face of the world; the ſurface of the habitable part of it. See Chap.13.11. & 14.21.& 23.17. they ſhall be diſperſed, and enlarge themſelves through all parts of the world ; fulfilled in the converts of the Gentiles, in all places by the miniſtery of the Goſpel, called here, fruit, by a metaphor taken from the fruit, or, revenue of the field, Deut. 32.13. Ezek.36.30. See Joh.15.16. Col.1.6. See alſo, Chap. 37.31. Job 14.7,9.

V. 7. Hath he ſmitten him, as he ſmote thoſe that ſmote him] Another argument of Gods mercy to his people, albeit he did, and had, ſometime, ſeverely chaſtiſed them ; yet doth he not therein deal ſo roughly and rigorouſly with them, as he doth uſually with their enemies, when he comes to take vengeance upon them.

Hath he ſmitten him] This is, God his own people, his Iſrael.

as he ſmote thoſe that ſmote him ?] Heb. according to the ſtroke of him that ſmote him, or, ſtruck him ; as Chap. 10. 26. him that ſmote, for, thoſe that ſmote. The word taken collectively : Such as God had made uſe of, as inſtruments, rods, and cudgels, for the chaſtiſing of his people, Chap. 10.5, 20, 24.

or, is the ſlain according to the ſlaughter of them, that were ſlain by him ?] The ſame thing is, as oft, again, but in other terms, ſomewhat more emphatical, repeated.

or,] A defect of the disjunctive ; as Job 6.6. which yet here may well be ſpared.

is he ſlain] Or, hath he (that is, Iſrael, Gods people) been ſlain. That it may run in the ſame tenor, with the former branch.

according to the ſlaughter of them] As he ſlew, or, hath ſlain them, or, as they have been ſlain, or, ſlaughtered. Heb. his ſlain, or, his ſlaughtered ones ; as, her ſlain, Chap.26.21. Theſe ſlain, all agree to be of the enemies of God, and his people : but whoſe ſlain they are ſaid to be, is queſtioned. Some ſay, the ſlain of the Leviathan, or the King of Babylon, before ſpoken of ; not ſlain by him, but belonging to him. The Hebrew Commenters, the ſlain of him, that is, of God that ſlew them ; as is ſaid, verſ. 1. Or, of him, that is, of Iſrael ; not becauſe ſlain by them, but becauſe ſlain for them, for the wrongs that they did them. I ſuppoſe it may well be read, as thoſe (that is, thoſe other, before mentioned,) ſlain by him. And the interrogative implies a more vehement negative, as if he had ſaid ; God hath in no wiſe, ſo either ſmote, or ſlain his people, as he hath ſmote, and ſlain thoſe other, his, and their enemies, Chap.26.14. verſ.1. The verſion of many, who render this latter branch, Hath he been ſlain, as they have been ſlain, that ſlew him ? the particle, being paſſive, will not admit. But thoſe ſwerve further from the ſcope of the Prophet, that turn over all this to the Leviathan, above mentioned, as if the Prophet ſhould ſay, Hath he ſmitten him, (to wit, the Leviathan) as one ſmiting himſelf ? (as, ſaith he, God doth his people himſelf, feeling what on them he inflicts :) Or, hath he ſlain him, as he ſlayeth his own ſlain ? That is, his people, his friends, Prov. 27. 6. Hoſ. 6. 2,3. Zach.13.3,6. But this is all clean beſides the cuſhion.

V. 8. In meaſure, when it ſhooteth forth, thou wilt debate with it : he ſtayeth his rough wind, in the day of the Eaſt-wind] The Prophet having affirmed, that God in his chaſtiſing of his people, dealeth otherwiſe with them, then he is wont to do with others, whom he hath not the like reſpect, or relation unto : he now proceeds more diſtinctly, to ſhew, wherein the difference conſiſteth, between Gods dealing with the one, and with the other. One point of difference, here laid down, is, that God dealeth in way of diſcretion, and in much moderation with his, Jer. 10. 24. & 30. 11. meting out their ſufferings in a due proportion, like thoſe that do things exactly, by weight and meaſure ; Phyſitians, eſpecially, in preſcribing pills, or potions to their patients, having a reſpect, as well to the ability of the patient, as to the nature and quality of the diſeaſe ; not according to the greatneſs of his power, and his wrath anſwerable thereunto, Job 23.6. & 37. 23. Pſal. 78.38. & 90. 11. or to the hainouſneſs of their ſin, Ezr. 9. 13. Job 11.6. Pſal.103.10. Lam. 3. 22. but according to the ability of the chaſtiſed, to bear that which is inflicted, Pſal, 103. 13, 14. 1 Cor.10.13 Whereas in dealing with the other, he is nothing ſo cautious ; but proceeds, as thoſe that pour out, or lay on, without regard of ſtint or meaſure, Chap. 65. 6,7. Jer. 10. 25. See Joh.3.34. He dealeth with the one, as a Father, in correcting his children when they have done amiſs, regarding their weakneſs, as well as their wantonneſs ; and laying leſs on the more infirm, though all alike faulty, Pſal. 103.13. Mal.3.17. With other his enemies, as a Judg with delinquents, who proceeding, according to the ſtrict rule of Law and Juſtice, regardeth not the perſon of the offender, but his offence onely, and according thereunto, diſpenſeth juſtice, equally unto all alike delinquent, though not alike able to ſuſtain what their offence calls for, Chap. 59. 18. and 65. 6,7.

in meaſure] The word, here uſed, is derived from one, that ſignifies a certain meaſure, one of the leſſer ſort of thoſe that they uſed, in meaſuring out of drie wares, meal, grain, or the like ; and contained, as moſt ſuppoſe, the third part of an Epha, (and yet why ſhould they then ſay, three ſeaes, Gen.18. 6. that, it ſeems, being the ordinary rate of one batch, Mat.13. 33. and not rather in one term, an Epha ?) that is, according to the received eſtimation of the Jewiſh Epha, much about, but ſomewhat above, our peck. Of it, ſee 1 Sam.25.18. 1 King.18. 32. 2 King. 7.1, 16, 18. and in the places before mentioned. The word is a duplicate, as many other of the like ſtamp in that language ; which moſt of the Jewiſh maſters would have to be a Noun, as if it ſhould be ſaid, By peck-peck, that is, delivering out, not the whole buſhel, or ſtrike together, but by peck after peck ; as a man doth in meting out meal, or grain, out of a great Heap, or Tun, into veſſels of a ſmaller ſize. Some make it a verb, with a Pronoun affixed to it, and render the text, in meaſuring, as it were, by the peck out to it ; as afterward, in ſending out of it. The former ſeems the better ; and that the rather, becauſe there wants that point in the belly of the laſt letter, which the Pronoun wontedly hath. The word, as many other in this Prophet, hath no mate.

when it ſhooteth forth] The word, in the original, is very ambiguous. That which hath bred much diverſity, both of verſion, and interpretations, amongſt thoſe that write upon the place. Some, In due meaſure, uſing the ſword wilt thou debate it. Becauſe a word uſed for a ſword, ſo called of puting it up, or drawing it out, comes neer to the term here uſed, 2 Chr.23.10. Neh.4.17. Joel 2.8. Others, In meaſure, with her plantations doſt thou contend : Becauſe of thoſe things which the ground it ſelf, as plants growing on it, ſends out ; the like word is alſo uſed, Neh.3.15. Chap. 16.8. Eſt.17.6,7. As if the meaning were, that God in chaſtiſing his people, did rather ſmite them, in the fruits of the field, then in their perſons, Joel 1.4. Amos 4.6--9. but this is not ſound. Others, In her ſhooting forth ; that is, when ſhe grows luxuriant, he pruneth her, but warily, as the husbandman doth his vines, or his fruit-trees ; ſo as not, either to hurt the heart, or kill the root of the plant, Joh. 15.2. Others, in ſending (that is, inflicting judgments) upon her ; as 2 Sam. 24. 15. Ezek.14.19,21. The prepoſition included in the verb, or affix : as ver.4. And in the very next word, debate it, or, contend it, for, debate, or, contend with it. The like whereunto ſee, Deut.33.8. Job 10. 2. Chap. 49. 25. Others, laſtly, In caſting, diſmiſſing, or, ſending her out ; as the word, moſt properly, and uſually ſignifies. Which I conceive to be the genuine ſenſe of the place. The gender of the pronoun, altered here, from the maſculine to the feminine ; becauſe in the fore-going verſe, was relation had to the people, verſ.6. in this to the land, or vineyard, verſ. 2. And ſome ſuppoſe an alluſion here to a Father, who diſpleaſed with his ſon, though he purpoſe not to diſinherit, or caſt him utterly off, yet either excludes him, for a time, from his preſence, as David did Abſolom, 2 Sam.14.24. or ſends him out into the country, and there holds him to hard meat, and keeps him in ſervile employments, until he have made his peace with him, Jerem. 2. 14. Others, to an husband, who for ill carriage, or miſdemeanure, diſmiſſeth his wife for a time, but with a purpoſe to receive and entertain her again : As God having the like affection and diſpoſition towards his people, even then when he ſeemed to caſt them off, as no longer his, and to have given them a peremptory bill of divorce, Pſal. 44. 9. Chap. 50.1. Jer.3. 1--14. It is moſt probable, that the Prophet had an eye unto Gods ſending, or caſting them out into captivity ; which though the heavieſt affliction that ever he exerciſed his people with, was yet tempered with mercy towards them, towards theſe, at leaſt, of them, as were his reſerve, Jer. 15.12. & 24. 5. Lam.3.22. Ezek.11. 16. They run wide ſtill, both Jews and Chriſtian Commenters, that expound this paſſage, alſo, of Gods dealings in exact rigour of juſtice, according to their demerits, or in way of retaliation, meaſure for meaſure, with the enemies of his people, Jer. 50.15. Rev.16.5,6. & 18.6,7.

thou wilt debate with it] Or, doſt, or, didſt thou (for he ſeems to ſpeak of what was paſt) debate with it ; to wit, by thy judgements ; as Amos 7.4.

he ſtayeth his rough winde, in the day of the Eaſt-winde] Moſt Interpreters apply this alſo, to Gods proceedings with his people. The firſt word is ambiguous, and maketh the ſenſe the more uncertain. Some taking it in his moſt uſual ſenſe of meditating, render it, when in his ſpirit, he meditateth, or, mindeth, harſh, or, rough things toward them. Others, eying another uſe of the word, whereby it ſignifies, ſometime, to make a noiſe, Chap. 8. 20. & 31. 4. & 38.11. & 59. 11. when he whiſtleth, or, though he blow with his ſtiff gaſe of wind. Others, following a third notion of the word, whereby it is uſed, for to remove, or, take away, 2 Sam. 20. 12. Prov.25.4,5. (and ſome of the Jewiſh Commenters here ſo take it) when he (that is, the enemy, or God himſelf by the enemy) took her away with that his ſtiff, or, boiſterous wind. Or, when with ſuch a tempeſtuous ſtorm, ſhe was born away, or carried into captivity, Jer. 4.11,12. & 18. 17. Ezek. 5.2,12. (for the Text, ſo read, would be beſt taken indefinitely, as the like, verſ. 3.) And they knit this latter clauſe thus to the former; which yet others ſever, and make this latter an entire ſentence, by it ſelf. Some, whom our verſion followeth, applying it to Gods people, he ſtayeth, or reſtraineth his rough wind; that is, in fanning his people, he allayeth and ſlackens the ſtifneſſe and boiſterouſneſſe of it, that it may not carry all away before it, Pſal. 78.38. he did not raiſe up all his wrath: ſee Chap. 48.9. Others, underſtanding it, of the enemies of Gods people, render the words with an adverſative prefixed; as Pſal. 119. 23. Prov. 11.23. but, or, whereas, with a rough wind he carryeth them away: he ſweepeth them away, to their utter deſtruction, with a ſtiff blaſt of ſome tempeſtuous wind, that rents or tears up trees by the roots; ſuch as paſſed by Elias, 1 King. 19.12. and that carries all before it, as that did the locuſts in Egypt, Exod. 10.19. (alluded to, Joel 2.20.) which with a ſtiff blaſt of wind, he blew into the red Sea, and there drowned them, as he did Pharao alſo after them, with the like, and all his forces, Exod. 15.10. See Iob 27.20,21. Chap. 41.15,16. Jer. 49.36. A defect of the pronoun them; as Prov. 28.13. and this laſt I incline to.

in the day of the Eaſt-wind] At ſuch time as the Eaſt-wind bloweth; noted for a blaſting, boiſterous, and bluſtring wind, in thoſe parts, Gen. 41. 6,23. Pſal. 48.7. Ezek. 17.10. & 19. 12. & 27.26. Heb. Eaſtern, for, Eaſtern wind; as ſtanding, for, ſtanding corn, Chap. 17.5.

V. 9. By this, therefore, ſhall the iniquity of Jacob be purged; and this is all the fruit, to take away his ſin:] Another difference between Gods dealings in this kind with his people, and with thoſe other. All that he doth herein to his people, is not to deſtroy them, but to chaſtiſe them for what they have done formerly amiſſe, and for the future, to reform them; to wean, and withdraw them from their ſins, that they may not periſh by them, Chap. 1.25. & 4.4. & 48.10. Prov. 21.30. Ezek. 18. 31. & 33.11. Dan. 11.35. Mal. 3.3. 1 Cor. 11.32. Heb. 12. 9, 10.

By this ſhall the iniquity of Jacob be purged] Or, Hereby is, or, hath the iniquity of Jacob (that is, of Gods people; as v. 6.) been done away (as Chap. 28.18.) or, expiated; as Num. 35.33. Prov. 16.6. Chap. 6.7. & 22.24. the guilt of it is remitted, and Gods paternall indignation and diſpleaſure ſatisfyed, and pacifyed, upon their ſincere repentance, and ſerious humiliation, thereby procured, and produced in them, Job 5.17, 18. & 33.16-24. Chap. 26. 8,9, 16-18. & 40.2. & 43.25, & 54. 8,9.

all the fruit] All the fruit thereof, a defect of the pronoun; as Deut. 25.12. Chap. 26.15. & 30.27. All the end that God aimeth at, in afflicting his people, to wit, their amendment; fruit being the end, for which men plant, ſet and ſow, Chap. 5. 2. 2 Tim. 2.6. Heb. 6.7. Jam. 5.7. and the benefit that thence redoundeth to Gods people: the fruit, that they thereby reap and receive; and in regard whereof, they are thereby in themſelves alſo bettered, Pſal. 94. 12. & 119. 67,71. Heb. 12. 10,11.

to take away his ſin:] Or, taking away: that he may taking away, take away: as Chap. 5.5. that he, that is, God, may utterly take away, may throughly purge ſin out of them, Job 33.17,18. chap. 1.25. & 28.10. a two-fold defect, both of the verb finite; as Chap. 59.13. and of the finitive particle; as ver. 5. or as others render it, when he ſhall have taken away his ſin. When he, to wit, Gods people, ſhall have abandoned the practice of thoſe ſins, that formerly they had fallen into; want of the verb of time: as Chap. 17.6. & 26. 10. or, taking it indefinitely, as ver. 3. when his ſin ſhall be abandoned; ſin, ſay they, that is, the ſubject matter, means, and inſtruments of his Sin; mentioned in the next branch: as, Your ſin, for, the calf wherein ye ſinned, Deut. 9.21. but we need not depart from the proper ſenſe of the word; the words relate to the former branch; what was termed iniquity, there, is ſin here: as Pſal. 51.2. only there ſeems intended a removal of it, in regard of guilt and wrath, by free remiſſion, on Gods part; here an abandoning of it, by ſincere repentance, and ſerious reformation on mans part, Ezek. 6.9. & 36.31.

when he maketh all the ſtones of the altar, as chalk-ſtones, that are beaten in ſunder] When he ſhall have made the ſincerity of his repentance (without which no reconcilement of God and man, Chap. 59.2.) to appear, by abandoning his idols, together with the inſtruments and monuments of his former idolatries, Chap. 30.22. Deut. 7.5. & 12.2,3. 2 King. 18. 4. & 23.4-20.

all the ſtones of the altar] Or, all his, or, their, altar ſtones; for there is no particular altar deſigned; but the word without any particle prefixed, taken collectively: the ſtones, whereof their altars were made, whereon they ſacrificed to their idols, Chap. 65.3. a defect of the pronoun; as Chap. 13. 22. Jer. 5.45.

chalk-ſtones] Heb. ſtones of chalk, or lime; for ſo the word properly ſignifies: (though no where elſe found in the Hebrew text of the Old Teſtament; but another uſed for it, ch. 33. 12.) as appears both by the words of pargeting, and a pargeter, among the Talmudiſts, thence deduced; and by the Syriack, in Daniel, where it is uſed in the Syriack form, for the parget, or plaiſter of the wall, Dan. 5. 5. as lime-ſtones broken in pieces; that is, as chalk-ſtones, broken in pieces to make lime, wherewith to parget. So Chap. 24.10. and the participle is in ſuch a form, not elſe-where read, as implies a breaking to pieces, as ſuch ſtones, for ſuch uſes, are wont. So Deut. 9.21. 2 King. 23.12.

the groves and images ſhall not ſtand up] Theſe words are ſo joyned to the former in our verſion, as if the meaning were, that when the altars ſhould be demoliſhed, then the groves and images ſhould not ſtand up. Which yeelds a ſenſe, that ſeems but flat: they would rather be rendred with ſupply of a copulative: as Chap. 26. 17. and the groves and images, or ſun-images, ſtand not; as Pſal. 1.5. Nah. 1.6. but are likewiſe beaten and broken down, or abide not: as Gen. 45.1. or, continue not: as Job 15.29. but are alſo utterly abandoned, are demoliſht, and aboliſht. Of theſe groves and ſun-images, ſee on Chap. 17. 8.

V. 10. Yet the defenced city ſhall be deſolate; and the habitation forſaken, and left like a wilderneſſe] This verſe, and the next, are by divers diverſly taken. Some, and ſo the Jewiſh Commenters themſelves, expound them, of Gods dealing with Iſrael, his own people. Others, rather, of his proceedings againſt his and their enemies; becauſe he ſpeaketh, in the cloſe of it, of judgment, without any allay of mercy: as Jam. 2.13. which if it be applyed, therefore, unto Gods people, muſt be underſtood of, and reſtrained unto, thoſe obſtinate ones among them; of which before, ver. 4. See Deut. 29. 18-21.

Yet] As Chap. 9.4. or, But: as Chap. 2. 6. as either foretelling what ſhould betide Gods people, before they were thus reformed: or, as paſſing to the relation of Gods dealing with others in a rougher manner, then with them: as ver. 7.

the defenced city] Jeruſalem, ſay Some: Samaria, ſay Others: and others, again, Babylon; or as thoſe of either judgment, that take the words more largely; the ſtrongeſt cities, as well in Judah, as in Iſrael, Samaria, and Jeruſalem, themſelves not excepted, 2 King. 17.5. Jer. 34. 1. or, the ſtrongeſt cities of Gods enemies, Babylon, and others of them, Chap. 24.10. & 25.12. & 26.5,6. the word being collectively underſtood, their defenced cities; and afterwards, their habitations: as Jer. 50.45.

deſolate] Heb. ſolitary; left alone; either all the Towns and Countrey about her being waſted and deſtroyed, chap. 1. 8. or forſaken of thoſe that formerly repleniſhed her, & whoſe company and preſence in times paſt ſhe enjoyed, Lam. 1.1.

the habitation] This ſome apply to the Sanctuary or Temple at Jeruſalem; to which it ſeems applyed, by way of Prophecy, Exod. 15.2,17. Jer. 31.23. Others conceive it ſpoken of the ſtately palaces, (the word being collectively uſed) of the city, or cities, before intended: uſed of Babylon, Jer. 50.45. or, more generally their habitations, as well without, as within their cities; for the word is very generall, Job 5. 3. Hoſ. 9. 13. Yet ſome render it, their ſheep-coats. Which albeit, the word oft elſewhere ſeems to import, 2 Sam. 7. 8. Chapter 65. 10. Yet I conceive not to have place here. We read, indeed, in Scripture, of the habitations, or, [ſheep-walks], if you pleaſe, rather then ſheep-coats, of the wilderneſſe, that is, of the waſte, or the plain, where cattel uſe to graze, Pſal. 65.12. Joel 2. 22. but becauſe the places here intended are oppoſed to the Wilderneſſe, or Waſtes, I ſuppoſe, rather, ſuch pleaſant places to be here intended, (ſee Hoſ. 9.13. where the ſame word is uſed) as either within their cities, or about their Countries were choicely planted, and charily kept for their pleaſure and delight. See Chap. 32. 13. ſo that the meaning is, that their ſtrongeſt places ſhould be ruined, and the pleaſanteſt defaced.

left as a wilderneſſe] Chap. 6.11,12. & 32.14. & 64.10. Ezek. 36.4. Jer. 9.12.

there ſhall the calf feed, and there ſhall he ly down, and conſume the branches thereof], Cattel ſhall feed, and lodge, and brouze, where men now dwel, where houſes now ſtand; threatned to Jeruſalem, Chap. 32.13,14. Jer. 26.18. Mic. 3.12.

the calf] Put here, for cattel of all ſorts; as Chap. 11.6.

feed, and ly down] Quietly, without reſtraint, or diſturbance; all lying open, and none to chaſe away, or affright, Chap. 17.2.

conſume the branches thereof.] Brouze upon the ſhrubs, that ſhall be there growing, when the cities and dwellings ruined have lien long waſte, Chap. 32. 14. or, upon the pleaſant plants, and choice ſlips, that their Orchards and Gardens had bin planted and furniſhed with within the City, Neh. 3. 15.

15.Cant.2.5.Chap.17.11. Some reſtrain it to the famous Babylonian Gardens; whereof ſee Diodore, l.2.c.10. and they may well come in among the reſt. Howbeit, ſome expound it, of the perſons of men; as if all ſorts, from the greater boughs, reſembling men of note and place, to the leſſer ſprigs or ſpray, that is, the meaner ſort of people ſhould be expoſed to deſtruction; as Chap. 10. 33,34. and others, that utter ruine is threatned to the State; compared to a tree, that is by beaſts brouzed upon, while it is green; and made fewell of, when it is ſear. See Chap.18.5,6. and of the word here uſed, Chap.2.21. and 17.6. But I ſuppoſe, that theſe notions do not ſuit ſo well with the Prophets preſent diſcourſe, deſcribing the devaſtation of the places, rather then the deſtructions of the perſons there inhabiting, ſave as the deportation, or deſtruction of the one, is a means to produce the deſolation of the other.

V.11. when the boughs thereof are withered, they ſhall be broken off, the women come, and ſet them on fire] The Prophet proceeds in the relation of that deſolation and waſteneſſe, that ſhould befall the city, or cities, here intended.

the boughes thereof] Heb. Harveſt: as Pſal. 80. 11. the the name harveſt, being common, as well to the plucking of trees, as to the cutting of corn. See chap. 17. 11. and of ſome trees, no other harveſt is, then their boughes, Neh. 8. 15.

they ſhall be broken] The verb is plural; the noun ſingular. Whence ſome render it, each one of them ſhall be broken; as Chap.26.19. none eſcape: but becauſe the noun is maſculine, and the verb feminine; and again, the noun of ſuch a comprehenſive notion, as admits not well, ſuch a diſtribution, as to ſay, every one of its harveſt, meaning, ear, bough, or fruit: Some, therefore, deeming the ſpeech to be defective, and a word to be ſupplyed, fitting the verb, and found, Chap. 18.5. read the words thus; the ſprigs ſhall be broken: and this the rather is to be admitted, becauſe the Prophet ſeems to ſpeak, not of boughes, decayed on the tree, and then becauſe grown ſear, broken off, but of trees felled, or broken down, for the uſe of cattle, while yet green, the ſprigs whereof, when they have barked them, growing ſear, are eaſily ſnapped aſunder: and as ſpray good for nothing elſe, are picked up for the fire.

the women come] Or, and women come. For there is no article in the text, the copulative ſupplyed: as ver. 10. Some find myſterious matter in the word woman, to wit, that the enemies of Gods people ſhould be ſo dejected, that they ſhould be deſtroyed, even by a weak womans hand; as was Siſera by Jael, Judg.4.9,21. and Abimelech by the woman of Thebez, Judg.9.53,54. and Pyrrhus, by a woman ſeeing her ſon in danger to be ſlain by him; and ſome bring it home to the Babylonians, ſubdued by the Medes formerly, deemed but an effeminate people: and ſomewhat in the Prophets may ſeem to found this way, Jer.50.45. But the plain literal ſenſe ſeems moſt agreeable to the Prophets mind; and the ordinary practice in all places, may inform us, that where boughes lopt lye, till they be ſear, unregarded, it is the uſual manner of women and children, to gather up the ſpray, either to make fire of, or to kindle fire with, Jer.7.18.

ſet them on fire] Heb. ſet it on fire: and here the former verſion, by way of diſtribution, may not do amiſſe; it, that is, each one, or any one of the ſprigs, either bigger, or leſſe, as before.

ſet on fire] Or, on a light fire, ſuch a light fire, as ſuch light ſtuff is wont to produce; having oftentimes more light, then heat; more blaze then warmth, Eccl.7.6. the word properly ſignifies to enlighten, or, make light; Pſal.18.28. but becauſe there is little difference between the two words in Hebrew, of one and the ſame ſtock, that ſignifie light, the one, Chap. 5. 20. and fire, the other, Chap.44.16. yea, the one is uſed, ſometime, for the other: fire is put for light, Chap.50.11. as light, for fire, Mar.14.54. and that light and fire commonly go together; and no ſooner is the fire kindled, but it preſently gives light. Hence it is, that in Hebrew, the word that ſignifieth firſt, and properly, to illighten, or, give light, is uſed alſo for to kindle, or, ſet on fire, Mal.1.10. The plain meaning of the place ſeems to be, that thoſe places that had been before ſo curiouſly planted, and carefully fenced, that none might have acceſſe unto them, to touch ought there, ſhould now lye open, for man and beaſt, Chap. 5. 1,5. & 7.25. and that which now grew there, whether left of what had been formerly there planted, or had, ſince the land was over-run, ſprung up of it ſelf, ſhould be ſo neglected, that it ſhould be free for any, either beaſt, to brouze on, while it was green, or people, to make fewel of, when it grew ſear: an argument of extream waſte, and utter neglect.

for it is a people of no underſtanding] Heb. not a people of underſtandings; that is, not of any underſtanding: underſtandings, for any, underſtanding: as Chap.40.14. and as ſalvations, or deliverances, for, any ſalvation, or deliverance; Chap.26.18. and, righteouſneſſes, for any righteouſneſſe at all, Dan.9.18. a people that hath no underſtanding at all, Ch.1.3 that underſtand nothing, take no notice of, nor regard at all, either God himſelf, his dealings with them, and their duty to him; or ought that doth truly and really concern their own good, Deut.32.6,28,29.Pſal.28.5.& 82.5.Chap.5.12,13. & 42.18–20,25.& 44.19.Jer.4.22. & 5.4,5. & 8.7. & 10.8,14. The reaſon is here rendred, of Gods ſo ſevere proceeding againſt them, whether forrein Nations, or thoſe among his own people; as the like alſo in the other places pointed to. See Hoſ. 4.14.

therefore he that made them, will have no mercy on them, and he that formed them, will ſhew them no favour.] A heavy cloſe, and a ſad ſentence; which therefore might ſeem to confirm the judgment of them, who conceive this whole paſſage to be underſtood of forrein Nations, and not of Gods own people. But thoſe terms of making and forming, are ſo frequently, in a peculiar manner, applyed unto Gods people, as importing, and intending, not ſo much the creating of them, as men in the loins of our firſt Parents, or the procreating of them, by their ſeveral next Parents, common to them with all manner of mankind, Gen.1.27,28. & 2.7. Job 10.8–10. Pſal.119.73. & 139.13-16. Jer. 1.5. but the making of them ſuch a Nation, as they were, and the framing of them into ſuch a State, as well Eccleſiaſtical, as Civil, as God had ſetled among them, and advanced them unto: theſe terms, I ſay, in a more ſpeciall manner attributed, in regard of Gods peculiar dealings with them, to that people, makes me encline to think, that they are the people here meant, whom God would ſo ſeverely proceed againſt. See Deut.32.6,15,18.Pſal.149.2. Ch.22.11. & 43.1,7.& 44.2.& 45.11.

will have no mercy on him] Or, will not have mercy on him: a kind of extenuation, as ſome would have it. I will not have mercy on them, for, I will puniſh them: but it ſeems to me, rather, a very full and emphatical phraſe; as if he had ſaid, I will puniſh them unmercifully: my Judgments inflicted on them, ſhall have no mixture of mercy. See Chap.9.17.Hoſ.1.6.So in that of Solomon, Prov.17.21. He that begetteth a fool, begetteth himſelf grief, or, ſorrow: (ſo it would be read) and the father of a fool ſhall have no joy, hath no ſmall emphaſis in it, as ſome Learned obſerve: the like may be ſaid of the other branch; in ſenſe with this the ſame. See on ver.10.

V.12. And it ſhall come to paſſe in that day, that &c.] In this verſe, and the next, the Prophet, after his wonted manner, concludeth this long Sermon, with a gracious promiſe of Gods reſtitution of his people, after the main body of the obſtinate wicked, by his judgments deſtroyed from among them; and the reſidue reformed, which is the day, or time pointed to in theſe words; as Chap.11.11. The particle that, is wanting; as Chap.7.21,22. and ſo alſo, v.13.

the Lord ſhall beat off from the chanel of the river, unto the ſtream of Egypt.] This Some expound of Gods chaſtiſing his people, partly by the Aſſyrians, and partly, yea principally, by the Chaldeans, who ſhould over-run their Land, and beat them out of it, from the one end of it, to the other; and thus they rather conceive it to be underſtood, becauſe the Land of their inheritance is uſually thus bounded. See on Chap. 23. 3. Others underſtand it, of a beating over all thoſe parts, lying between Euphrates and Nilus, Aſſyria and Egypt, by the Medes in their expedition againſt Babylon. And others laſtly, of a ſearch that God would make for his people, and a beating of them out; or, a ſeparation to be made of them, from other people, among whom they were diſperſed in all parts, that they had any ordinary notice of.

the Lord ſhall beat off] Or, beat out; a metaphor taken either from trees, whoſe fruit is in the gathering of it beat off, Deut.24.20. Chap. 17. 6. & 24.13. or, from corn; the grain whereof, is beaten out of the ear from the chaff, Judg.6.11. Ruth 2.17. with the ſtaff, or the flail, chap.28.27. for they had other kinds of threſhing alſo: ſee chap.28.27,28. now becauſe threſhing is an ordinary emblem of affliction; Of which, ſee Ch. 21. 10.& 25.10. and the beating of trees likewiſe, Chap. 17.6. many ſuppoſe that afflictions ſhould of neceſſity here be intimated, if not of Gods people, yet of ſome to be beaten off, as fruit from the trees, from the places of their former abode; and of thoſe Nations, at leaſt, from whom they were to be reduced, as being thence brought forth, as grain out of the threſhing floor: neither of which, yet, I ſuppoſe, is neceſſary. There may well in this term be intimated, no more then a ſevering of Gods diſperſed people from the Nations, among whom they remained, and with whom they were intermingled; as by beating, the beries are ſevered from the tree; by threſhing, the grain from the ear, the ſtraw and the chaff, not to hurt, or deſtroy either; but that they may be gathered, carried in, and laid up, the one in the Store-houſe; and in the granary, the other, Mat. 3.12. & 13.30. And the beating, here, conſequently, ſeems to imply no more affliction to Gods people, then the reaping at the laſt day, Mat.13.38,39. albeit, that reaping and cutting in Scripture be an ordinary reſemblance of the execution of Gods wrath upon the wicked, Job 24.24. Pſal.37.2. Joel 3.13. Rev.14.15-19. Thus the Jewiſh Commenters take it, and the word of gathering that followeth, ſeems to confirm it.

from the channel of the river] Or, from the floud; as Pſal. 69.2,15. (for in this notion, it is no where elſe found) and it is deemed to import ſuch a ſtream, as runs with ſtrength and noiſe, of the river, to wit, Euphrates, chap.8.7. whoſe ſeverall branches, do ſome of them, in Heathen Writers, bear their names from the word here uſed; as Nahar-ſares, and Nahar-malcha, Pliny, l.6.c.26. Ammiane, l.24.c.3.

to the river of Egypt] That is, to Nilus. See on chap.23. 3. Out of all parts of the Land of Iſrael, whoſe limits theſe two were, Deut.17.& 11.24. Joſh.1.4.& 13.3. as ſome; or out of all thoſe Countries that ly between Euphrates and Nilus, the utmoſt parts of Aſſyria, the one way toward the Eaſt, and the fartheſt parts of Egypt towards the Weſt. See Chap. 11. 11,12. a place parallel to this, ſee alſo ver.13.

and ye ſhall be gathered one by one, O ye children of Iſrael] The term of gathering here uſed, as appears by the word of beating premiſed, is not taken from the gathering or gleaning of corn; for that is firſt gathered, and then beaten out, Ruth 2. 17. but from the gathering of fruit, or berries, that are picked up from the ground one by one, after that they have either fallen of themſelves, or bin beaten down from the tree; whereby the Prophet would either intimate the ſmall number of the people, that having been formerly faithful, or being ſincerely converted, ſhould be preſerved in thoſe times of general calamity, and reſerved for mercy, in regard of the whole Nation, Chap.1.9.& 10.12,13. it being a note of ſome ſcarcity, where berries are picked up one by one, or ſignifie an exact collection of them (the verb alſo being in a form of ſome emphaſis) God picking them out, as it were, one by one, out of ſeverall places into which they had bin diſperſed; So expreſſed, to aſſure them of an entire relief, and return of all thoſe that were to have a ſhare in this mercy, to meet and partake together in the ſame; albeit they were never ſo far aſunder one from another; or never ſo few of them in any one place, Deut.30.3,4. Neh.1.9. Chap.26.19. Jer.3.14. Ezek. 39.25,28. Amos 9.9,10.

V.13. And it ſhall come to paſſe in that day, that the great trumpet ſhall be blown] Heb. With a great trumpet (ſuch an one, as may be heard far and neer) ſhall it be ſounded; that is, the trumpet (ſuch an one) ſhall be ſounded, as Amos 3.6. Cyrus his proclamation ſhall come forth, for the return of Gods people out of all parts, where they remained in captivity, into their own Country, 2 Chr.36.22,23. Ezr.1.1,2. an alluſion to the Jubilee-trumpet, that was ſounded in the year of releaſe, wherein men were ſet free, and returned each one to his inheritance and poſſeſſion again, Lev.25.9,10. a type of the Evangelicall trumpet, whereby, under the Meſſias, Gods Elect out of all parts, are called in out of their ſpiritual thraldome, under ſin and Satan, to inherit a ſhare in the Kingdom of grace here, Chap.61.1,12. Luk.4.18,19. Joh.5.24,25. Act.26.18. Rom.10. 18. as alſo of that celeſtial trumpet, whereby they ſhall at the laſt day be ſummoned to appear, that they may enter upon the full poſſeſſion, and entire fruition of their eternal inheritance, both in body and ſoul, in the Kingdom of glory hereafter, Mat.24.31.& 25.34. Ioh.5.28,29. 1 Cor.15.52. 1 Theſ. 4.16.

and they ſhall come, that were ready to periſh, in the land of Aſſyria,] Whither the ten Tribes had been carryed captive, 2 King.17.6.

ready to periſh] Heb. periſhed; as Deut. 26.5. Iob.29.13. Pſal.119.176. ſo deſtroyed, for, ready to be deſtroyed, Pſal.137.8. or, periſhed, in no better caſe then as utterly periſhed, deemed no other, then as dead, Chap.26.19. Ezek.37.11.

and the out-caſts] Pſal.147.2. Chap.16.3,4. Jer. 30.17. Ezek.34.16. Mic.4.6. Zeph.3.19.

in the land of Egypt] Whither they had many of them fled, Ier.43.7. & 44.28. and many other had at ſundry times alſo been led captive, Deut.28.66. Hoſ.8.13. Zach.10.10. Aſſyria and Egypt, ſeem mentioned, not as the only places, into which the people of God had bin diſperſed; but as Euphrates and Nilus, ver.12. as two of the remoteſt places one from another, into which they had bin ſequeſtred; and this helps to confirm that which was before ſpoken of thoſe two famous rivers, was not intended to ſet out the boundaries of their own Land; but to intimate the extent of their deportation and captivity, Lam.1.4.

and ſhall worſhip the Lord, in the holy mountain at Jeruſalem.] They ſhall again, at their return, renew and ſet up again the ſolemn ſervice of God, that had bin wholly intermitted, (the Temple, the place peculiarly aſſigned thereunto, being demoliſhed) during the time of their captivity.

and ſhall worſhip] Or, to worſhip; that they may worſhip, as Ioſ.24.9. Heb. bow themſelves, that is, worſhip by bowing themſelves, as Pſal. 72. 11.

in the holy mountain] Mount Zion. See Chap.2.2. mountain of holineſſe, as Ezek.20.40.

CHAP. XXVIII.

Ver.1. WO to the crown of pride, to the drunkards of Ephraim,] This Chapter containeth a new Sermon, or Prophecy, conſiſting of two principal parts; the former, concerning Ephraim, or the ten Tribes, v.1-4. the latter, concerning the people of Judah, and their adherents, ver. 5-29. He begins that concerning the ten Tribes, with denunciation of a wo againſt them, for their pride and haughtineſſe, deſcribing them, as men drunk with proſperity, and drown'd in ſenſuality: ſee the like of them, Hoſ.4.11.& 5.5. Amos 6.1, 4-6.

Wo] In way of commination; as Chap.5.11. though ſome read it, by way of compellation; O the Crown, &c. See Chap. 10.5. to the crown of pride] The proud King, or Kingdom, Hoſ. 7.10. crown, for Kingly ſtate, or Kingdom, as Ier. 13.18. Lam. 5.16.

pride] So here, as Pſal. 17.10. See on Chap.12.5. & 26. 10. the crown of pride; as, the foot of pride; that is, of proud perſons, Pſal.36.12. though ſome render it, not the haughty, but the lofty crown; becauſe for multitude and power it ſeemed to exceed that of the other two Tribes.

to the Drunkards] Or, of the Drunkards, Joel 1. 5. verſ. 3.

of Ephraim] Iſrael, the ten Tribes, whereof Ephraim the chief, Pſal.60.7. Hoſ.13.1. See on Chap.7.2.

whoſe glorious beauty is a fading flower.] Heb. and a fading flower, the goodlineſſe of bravery, or gallantry; which being rendred according to our verſion, the copulative [illegible] put for the relative; as Chap.4.6.& 17.2. But ſome render it, as rendring a reaſon of the wo; for, or becauſe (as Chap.16.2.) his glorious beauty is, or ſhall be, a fading flower. But that comes after, v. 3,4. Some, (to paſſe by the reſt) carrying on the ſentence, with reference ſtill to the wo, and to him, whoſe goodly bravery ſhall become a fading flower; that is, to Ephraim, whoſe Kingdom and State, for all the flouriſh they now make, ſhall ſhortly like a fading flower, be ſoon, and ſuddenly blaſted & blown away, by the coming of Salmaneſer, whom God ſhall ſend in upon them, v.2. Or, and to the fading flower of his goodly, or, brave gallantry: ſee ver.4.

glorious beauty] Heb. goodlineſſe of bravery, or gallantry. See on Chap.4. 2. and v. 4. Some take it as an explication of the word crown.

a fading flower] Or, as a fading flower; the note of ſimilitude ſupplyed, as Chap.22.18. See the like expreſſion, Pſal. 103.15,16. Chap.40.6,7. Jam.1.11. Some ſuppoſe here an alluſion, both in this word, and that of a crown, to the garlands, or coronets, made of flowers, that they uſed to wear on their heads at their Feaſts: Of which, ſee Atheneus, l.15. and Wiſdom, 2.8. See ſomewhat the like, Chap.1.30.

which are on the head of the fat valleys] Or, to them that are; or, as others, which (to wit, flower) is, on the top of the moſt fat, or fertile vale; and by flower, theſe latter underſtand the ſtate of that Kingdom, formerly flouriſhing, but now beginning to decay.

which are on the head] That is, as many expound it, that are the Princes or Rulers, in that fat vale: and it is true, that the word head, is commonly uſed for a Ruler, or Governour; and headſhip, for principality, or rule, Pſal.18.43. & 60.7. Chap.7.8. & 9.14,15. But the form of ſpeech, here uſed, will not admit it; for it ſhould then be, the head over the vale, Pſal. 110.6. the heads over many countries: not as our text hath it, on the head of the vale: Which I ſuppoſe, therefore, to ſignifie rather, which are, that is, dwell and abide on the head, that is, on the top, (as Exod.17.10. Deut. 34. 1.) of the vale: to wit, in the mountain ſituate above the vale; in the mountain of Samaria, Hoſ.6.1. the head, or top of the vale: as, the rock of the plain, Jer.21.13. Or, on the head, that is, in the chief, or principal part of that fat vale: head for chief; as Exod.30.23. 2 Sam.23.8,18. Pſal.137.6. Cant.4.14. For, as for that, which ſome have, that the word head, ſhould here be given to that Land, becauſe it lay higher, and was more hilly then Judah's country, I can hardly ſubſcribe to, doubting ſomwhat, in part, of the thing it ſelf.

of the fat valleys] Heb. vale of fatneſſes: that is, an exceeding fat and fertile vale: fatneſſe, for richneſſe and rankneſs of ſoil, Gen.27.28,29.& 45.18. and the head of the vale of fatneſſes, for the prime, and chief, of that exceeding fat, or rich vale: as, the horn of the ſon of fatneſſe, chap.2.1. for, a chief and principal rich ſoyl. What vale is here intended, Interpreters agree not. Some ſuppoſe the main body of the Land, to be meant, which lay all as a vale beneath Mount Lebanon, and was a very fertile ſoyl, Gen.49.25. Deut.33.19. Others conceive the vale to be meant, that lay neer to the mountain, on which Samaria, the head city of the Kingdom, was ſituate, 1 King.16.24. and this ſeems the moſt probable; for to the Court, the place of the Kings reſidence, and the chief places of the Kingdom, where the abuſes, here pointed at, did moſt abound, the Prophet ſeems to have a ſpecial eye. Howbeit, ſome of the Rabbines underſtand by it, the vale of Cinnereth; whereof Deut.3.17. Ioſh.11.2. 1 King.15.20. in the new Teſtament, called Geneſereth, Mar.6.53. a rich vale, indeed, but no reaſon rendred, why it ſhould be here meant, ſave becauſe it yeelds pleaſant Fruits. For thoſe that would draw in hither Gethſemane (which, yet queſtionleſſe, had hence its name) a fertile valley, at the foot of Mount Olivet, neer to Jeruſalem, Mat.26.36. ſtride too far out of the Prophets way, who is here dealing with Ephraim and Samaria, not with Juda or Jeruſalem. And I ſhould rather imagine, that the Prophet might have ſome glance in the word of fatneſſes, uſed alſo for ointments, Cant.1.3. & 4.10. at their immoderate uſe thereof in their Feaſtings, expreſly taxed in them, Amos 6.6. then (as Some of the Jewiſh Commenters do) expound the text, as ſpeaking thereof directly, while they render the words, on whoſe heads is a valley of ointments: that is, whoſe heads run down with ointments, as abundantly, as valleys do with water, Pſal.104.10.

that are overcome with wine] Or, as ſome, of thoſe that are overcome with wine, as having reference to flower, that is, State before-mentioned. I rather, to thoſe overcome with wine, referring it to the wo, or to the drunkards, here further deſcribed, over-maſtered with wine. Heb. ſmitten, as Judg.5.26. Pſal.141.5. Chap.41.10. or, beaten, Prov.23.35. or, beaten down; as 1 Sam.14.16. or, broken, as Judg.5.22. or, broken down; as Pſal.74.6. Chap.16.8. the word is very ſignificant, and from it comes the word, that ſignifies an hammer, uſed in the Story of Siſera, Judg.4.23. and no where elſe, which the Prophet might well have an eye unto; as if he had ſaid, they are ſtruck down, or laid along with wine, no more able to ſtir or execute ought, then Siſera was, when Jael with the hammer had driven the nail thorow his temples, and faſtened his head to the ground: a fit reſemblance of a man over-maſtered with drink. See another no leſſe pregnant expreſſion, ver.7.

V.2. Behold the Lord hath a mighty and ſtrong one, which as a tempeſt of hail, and a deſtroying ſtorm, as a floud of mighty waters over-flowing, ſhall caſt down to the earth with the hand] The Wo, in a generall term denounced, ver.1. is here more particularly ſpecified, by the inſtrument that God would uſe for the effecting of it, deſcribed, partly, by his might and power; and partly by the miſchief that he ſhould do among them; both, elegantly and pregnantly ſet forth to the life, by variety of ſimilitudes heaped up together, to intimate an utter ruine and ſubverſion of all with them.

the Lord hath a mighty and ſtrong one] that is, as they conceive, the Hebrew text to run, that thus render it; a mighty and ſtrong one is to the Lord: a common form, as well in other languages, as in Hebrew, Gen.44.19. 1 King.17.12. Hoſ.4.1. and the meaning then is, that ſuch an one he hath ready at his command, to do his pleaſure upon Samaria. Yet ſome others make no entire ſentence of it; and therefore omitting thoſe ſupplyes, both of the verb ſubſtantive in this branch, and of the pronoun relative in the next, read the words, one mighty, or, a mighty one, and ſtrong to the Lord: that is, exceeding ſtrong; as, ſinners to the Lord, (for ſo the words are there) that is, exceeding great ſinners, Gen.13.13. or, ſtrong from the Lord: that is, ſtrong by ſtrength received from God: as, Pſal.115.15. bleſſed of God, or from God, Ezr.3.13. from the noiſe, or voice, Chap.22.5. a day of perplexity from the Lord: in all which places, and others the like, is the ſame particle found, that is in this place: So in the Greek Hebraiſing; of Moſes, comely to God; either for exceeding comely; or, comely, by comelineſſe received from God; as Ezek.16.14. and of the Apoſtolical Miniſtery, 2 Cor.4.4. mighty to God: that is, mighty by power received from God, 2 Cor.4.7. and this mighty one, there is no doubt, but it was Salmaneſer, the King of Aſſyria, and his forces; who in the fourth year of Ezekiah, over-ran the whole Land of Iſrael, ſate down before Samaria, and after three years ſiege took it, diſſolved their Kingdome and State, carryed the Natives away captive; and in the room of them, peopled the Country with ſtrangers brought out of remote parts, 2 King.17:5,6,24. & 18.9-11.

mighty, and ſtrong one] Either King, or Hoaſt, or both, words of equal force, uſed for amplification: as Chap.27.1. nor need we to put in here, with the Jewiſh Commenters, either, day, as Some, or wind, as Other of them do, being unneceſſary ſupplyes.

which] The relative is oft wanting, Exod.13.8. Chap.42.5. but according to the latter reading, either of them hath no uſe at all here.

as a tempeſt of hail] More violent then rain; that beats down, and breaks aſunder, not the ſtanding corn only, and ſuch things, as grow on the ſurface of the ground, or the fruit of trees onely; but even the bigger branches alſo, as well as the ſmaller ſprigs; yea, men and beaſts themſelves, ſometime too, Exod.9.23-25. Hoſ.10.11. So Chap.25.4. & 28.17. & 30.30. Ezek.13.11.

a deſtroying ſtorm] Heb. a ſtorm of exciſſion, or, deſtruction, Deut.32.24. Pſal.92.6. Hoſ.13.9. So Interpreters, generally; which yet a late learned Author controlleth, affirming the word here uſed, to ſignifie not a ſtorm, but a gate, and would have it rendred, in the gate exciſſion; and the meaning to be ſuch a ſtorm of hail, as ſhall beat down the gate, that is, deſtroy the State. But the reading he followeth, is not ſo generall as he would have it, as by collation of copies I have obſerved; and the Rabbines, that comment upon the place, taking no notice of any other reading, go the ſame received way that our Interpreters unanimouſly take.

a floud of mighty waters over-flowing] The word rendred floud, is the ſame, that was tranſlated tempeſt, before. Of it, ſee on Chap.4.6. and 25.4. in the former of which places, it ſeems taken as in that branch; in the latter, as in this, of mighty waters, or, of many waters: ſee on Ch.16.14. & 17.12. over-flowing, as the waters of the Sea, or of great rivers, are wont to do with much force, and in great abundance, when they have ſwoln above their Sea-walls, or have broken thorow their banks, Iob 30.24. Pſal.42.7. & 69.1. & 88.16,17. Chap.8.7. v.17,18. Chap.59.19. Ier.51.42,55.

ſhall caſt down to the earth] Some, ſhall make to reſt on the ground: But that notion concerns another, though neighbor root. Heb. hath (in a prophetical phraſe) left, or, laid to, or, on the ground: there ſeems a defect of the particle it, as Chap.21.3. & 26.1. the mighty one before-mentioned ſhall lay it; that is, the crown of Ephraim, with all their gallantry, on the ground, as Pſal.89.39,44. Chap.14.12,15. to the ground, for on the ground: or, to the earth, for, on the earth, Chap.26.9. and ſo, Amos 5.7. (the ſame phraſe with this here would be rendred) they lay juſtice on the ground.

with the hand] or, with an hand; or, by hand: that is, as moſt of ours, eaſily; with no great ado, as with the bare hand onely; or, with the one hand, Chap.10.13. or, quickly, ſoon, ſpeedily: (for he was not long about it) as we uſe to ſay, out of hand, Lam.4.5. See v.4. but I ſuppoſe rather, that by hand, here is, by force of hand, by main might: So the Jewiſh Interpreters, deeming a defect of the Epithet to be in the text; with hand, that is, with a ſtrong hand, expreſſed, Exod.3.19. Ezek.20.33. Dan.9.15. hand, for a ſtrong hand; as, name, for a great name, Gen.6.4. & 11.4. or, a good name, Prov.22.1. Eccl.7.1.

V.3. The crown of pride, the drunkards of Ephraim, ſhall be troden under foot] They, and it, ſhall not be laid along on the ground onely, Chap.51.23. but even trampled upon under feet, Mal.4.3.

The crown of pride, the drunkards] Or, as Some read it, The crown of pride, and the drunkards; a defect of the copulative: as Chap.27.4. Or, The drunkards of Ephraim, with their crown of pride; a defect of the prepoſition: as, Pſal.5.4. I ſuppoſe it may well be rendred, The crown of pride: that is, the haughty, or lofty crown, of the drunkards of Ephraim, ſhall be trampled upon with feet (ſo the Hebrew is, ſee Chap.26.6.) all the difficulty in this verſion is, that the word crown, is ſingular, and the verb anſwering it, plural: but it is obſerved, that in ſuch ſyntax, as this here is, the noun, or verb, ſomtime agreeth in form, with the latter term, in ſenſe with the former: So 1 Sam.2.4. the bow of the mighty ones were broken, for was broken, Job.29.10. the voice of the nobles were hid, for was hid, and Hag.2.7. the deſire of all nations ſhall come; the verb plurall, as here; but the diſagreement leſſe here, then in ſome of them: for the verb agreeth, though not in number, yet in gender, with the word crown. See v.1. and we need not, therefore, either with that late learned Annotator, read the words, as by way of appoſition, the crown pride, that is, the crown and the pride; Or, with the Belgick edition, the proud crowns, which neither ſoundeth nor ſuiteth ſo well here, as appeareth by comparing this with ver.1.

under foot] The crown is abaſed as low as may be, from upon the head, Pſal.21.3. Job 19.9. to ly under the feet, Pſalm 110.1. to be trampled upon, as mire and dirt, and ſuch things, as are of meaneſt and vileſt eſteem, Chap.10.6. Mic.7.10. Mat.5.13.

V.4. And the glorious beauty which is on the head of the fat valley ſhall be a fading flower] Heb. And his, (that is, Ephraims) goodly gallantry ſhall be as the flower of a fading plant: fading, for a fading plant; as ſtanding, Chap.17.5. for ſtanding corn; and, fading, or, falling, for fading, or falling Fig; as Chap.34.4. fading, or ſhedding; that ſheddeth flower, or leaf, Chap.1.30.

and, as the haſty fruit before the ſummer] Or, or as, &c. becauſe a ſimilitude diverſe from the former, wanting here, as Job 6.6. All their pomp and ſtate ſhall be as rathe ripe fruit, that is, as we uſe to ſay, ſoon ripe, and ſoon rotten, and are not wont, therefore, to be reſerved for ſtore, but to be ſpent out of the way; or, that is haſtily pluckt, and greedily devoured; becauſe longed for commonly, and earneſtly deſired, Jer.24. 2.Hoſ.9.10.Mic.7.1.

which when he that looketh upon it, ſeeth it, while it is yet in his hand, he eateth it up] Or, which when one eſpyeth, as ſoon as it is in his hand, he devoureth it. Heb. ſwalloweth it, greedily devoureth it, Iob 20.15. See ver.2.

V.5. In that day ſhall the Lord of Hoſts be for a crown of glory, and for a diadem of beauty, unto the reſidue of his people] The Prophet having done with Ephraim, cometh now to Judah; and having related what evils he would bring on the one, he beginneth now to tell, what good he would do for, and what honour confer upon the other.

In that day] When this judgment ſhall be executed upon Ephraim, which was in the days of Ezekiah.

ſhall the Lord of Hoſts be] Of the title, ſee Chapter 1. verſ.9.

for a crown of glory] Or, goodlineſſe; a goodly crown: as an inheritance of goodlineſſe, for a goodly inheritance, Ier.3.19. for it, or in ſtead of it, he will grace and honour that State, as much, or more, then the goodlieſt or richeſt crown in the world, had they it to wear, could: ſee the like, Prov.4.9. ch. 62. 3. & this is here oppoſed to Ephraim's haughty crown, like a garland of fading flower: for this is a crown of amarentum, or everlaſting, a flower ſo termed, and this crown ſo from it, 1 Pet.5.6. a crown that fadeth not, 1 Pet. 1. 4.

a diadem of beauty] Or, of gallantry, Ier.13. 18. a gallant diadem; the ſame thing, in effect, with the former: the word rendred diadem, is in this notion no where elſe found: See ver.1.

unto the reſidue of his people] Unto the Kingdom of Judah, that remained ſtil in their own land, and retained their wonted State with addition of much honour, under Ezekiah and Joſiah, after that the ten Tribes were diſperſed, and their State diſſolved.

V.6. And for a ſpirit of judgment, to him that ſitteth in judgment; and for ſtrength, to them that turn the battel to the gate] The means whereby that God would make their State ſo honourable and illuſtrious, by endowing their Rulers with wiſdome, and their Warriors with valour: theſe two being the two principal pillars of a State, Chap.3. 1,2. and theſe two endowments, the principal requiſites, and true ornaments in either, Chap.11.2.

a ſpirit of judgment] An ability to judge aright, and diſcern of truth and falſhood, right and wrong, in thoſe things that come before them: in regard whereof, Solomon calleth the Kings doom, a divination, Prov. 16. 10. as proceeding from a divine inſpiration; ſuch a ſpirit of diſcretion, for civill affairs; as was that gift of diſcretion, for ſpiritual affairs, called the diſcretion of ſpirits: 1 Cor. 12. 10. a ſagacity more then ordinary, in diſcerning of ſoundneſſe, and diſcovery of unſoundneſſe in others.

to him that ſitteth in judgment] Heb. upon judgment: that is, upon the throne, or ſeat of judgment, Pſal.9.4. Prov.20.8: judgment, for the judgment ſeat: as royalty, for royal robes, Eſt, 5.1. thoſe narrow the text over-much, that reſtrain this (as Some do) to Ezekiah: for though the word be ſingular, yet it is collectively taken; as Prov.20.8. and includeth others alſo, together with him, that judged under him, or were aſſiſtant to him in judgment.

for ſtrength] For that alſo is Gods, and in his hand to give, 1 Chr.29.11,12. 2 Chr.20.6.

that turneth the battel to the gate] The old Latine corrupts the ſenſe of this text, rendring the words, that return from war to the gate; that is, home: which Some apply to Ezekiah's return from his war againſt the Philiſtines, 2 King.18.8. as do thoſe that render it, that turn the war away from the gate. For neither will the words of the text admit either of theſe Interpretations; and the meaning ſeems much more emphatical: ſuch, as not onely defend their own Countrey from the enemy, but beat him back, and purſue him to his own gates, Chap.22.7. and ſo indeed did Ezekiah, when he did not only beat the Philiſtines home to the gates of their ſtrongeſt Forts, and fenced Cities, but entred them alſo, and poſſeſſed himſelf of them, 2 King.18.8.

V. 7. But they alſo have erred through wine, and through ſtrong drink are out of the way] The Prophet having begun this Prophecy concerning Judah, with a gracious promiſe of Gods favour toward that State, both in the continuance, and the advancement of it, after the ruine of Ephraim; whereas it might have been juſtly feared, that the ſubverſion of the one, being ſo neer neighbours, might have proved a great impeachment, if not a downfal of the other; doth now paſſe unto a grievous complaint againſt thoſe of Judah, as not free from thoſe enormities; for which, this heavy calamity befell that people, and therefore unworthy of ſo great favour.

they alſo] Thoſe of Judah, whom God vouchſafeth theſe favours unto, and that have Gods Word and Worſhip ſtill among them, which the other Tribes had abandoned, that profeſſed to be better, and had better means, both to make, and to keep them better; yet take the ſame evill courſes with them, 2 Chr.13.8-11. chap.48.1,2. & 58.2. Ier.3 10.

have erred through wine, and through ſtrong drink are out of the way] Or, erre through wine, and ſtray through ſtrong drink: for the tenſe is the ſame in either verb, and the ſound ſomewhat alike in the originall. They are guilty of the ſame crime, that thoſe of Ephraim were charged with, to wit, ſenſuality and exceſſe, ver.1.

ſtrong drink] The word, in the original, is but one; it ſignifies ſuch drink, and is apt to make drunk: and from it, comes the term drunkard, uſed ver.1. See chap.5.11.

the Prieſt, and the Prophet have erred through ſtrong drink] Or, do erre: they that ſhould give good example, and endeavour by reproof, and cenſure, to reſtrain and reform it in others, are in this kind themſelves as faulty as others, Chap.56.12.

erre] Either ſinne, in the immoderate uſe, and abuſe of the creature, Prov. 20. 1. for every ſin is a ſtraying from the way of truth and right, chap.53.6. Jam.5.19. or, fail in the duties of their ſpecial places, either corrupted hereby, or diſabled thereunto, Mic.2.11. & 3.5.

they are ſwallowed up of wine] They take it in ſo exceſſively, that it over-maſtereth them; and they ſeem rather to be over head and ears (as we ſay) in it, then to have it in them: it depriveth them ſo of all abilities, for the uſe of the powers and parts, either of body or mind, Prov.20.21. Ier.23.9. Hoſ.4.11. that which we uſe to ſay, drowned in drink. See ſomewhat the like expreſſion, ver.1.

they erre in viſion, they ſtumble in judgment] The former member, ſpecially, reſpects the Prophets; the latter, the Prieſts. Being drunken ſots, and wholly addicted to ſenſuality, they regard not what they teach, or prophecy, the one, ſo it tend to looſeneſſe and licentiouſneſſe, which the people were well pleaſed with, chap.30.10,11. Ier.5.31. Ezek.13.19,20,22. Mic. 2.6,7,11. & 3.5. not what ſentence they paſs, ſo they might have wherewith to maintain their exceſſe, the other, Ier. 5.31.

viſion] Prophecy, or Teaching, Prov.29.18. chap.1.1. Mic.3.6.

ſtumble] Or, reel rather, or, ſtagger, alluding to their drunkenneſſe, and the uſuall manner of men in drink: the word is uſed in this notion, here only, and Ier.10.4. of Images, ſaid to be faſtened with nails to the wall, that they may not move, as it is there rendred, or ſtir; certainly, ſtagger, or reel, rather then ſtumble, and a word derived from it, Nah.2.10. rendred, the knees ſmite together: but the word is a noun, and it may ſeem to be rendred better, ſtaggering of knees: knees, ſure, may more fitly be ſaid to ſtagger, then to ſtumble in judgment] The particle in, is wanting here; as chap.26. 8. and oft elſe-where. Howbeit, ſome of the Hebrew Criticks take occaſion, thereby, to render the text, they cauſe judgment to ſtagger, or, to go awry, to go the wrong way; but the moſt agree in the other ſenſe, they ſtagger, themſelves, in judgment; either ignorantly, not knowing, through ſottiſhneſſe, what ſentence to give; or, wilfully declining to this ſide, or that ſide, as their corrupt affections, and ſiniſter reſpects byaſſed them.

judgment] Or, the judgment of God: for there is another word of this ſtock, that ſignifieth judgment ſimply, chap.16.3. See chap.6.13. & 19.24. & Ier.2.31. where words of the ſame ſtamp are found: that judgment, which by Gods appointment they were to give, Deut.17.9. Mal.2.7. and which is ſaid to be the judgment not of Man, but of God, 2 Chr. 19.6,8,11. that which, as ſeriouſly conſidered, ſhould exact the greater care and circumſpection, in the due performance of it: ſo doth much conduce to the aggravation of their ſinne, that carryed themſelves ſo wretchleſly and irreligiouſly therein, Pſal.59. 1,2. & 82.1,2.

V.8. For all tables are full of vomit, and filthineſs] The generality; and the exceſs, in the loathſom effect of it.

all tables] That is, many, or moſt: all, in a manner; as Chap.56.10. & 64.6. Jer.9.2. Phil. 2. 23. or, all their tables. The tables of theſe men, and the places where they met. A defect of the pronoun; as Chap.13.22. Job 5.12.

of vomit, and filthineſs] Or, ordure; for ſo the word properly ſignifies, Chap. 36. 12. See Chap. 4. 4. an exceſs of drunkenneſs, that makes men purge both waies. See Chap. 19.14. Jer.25.27. & 48.26. Hab.2.16. A defect of the copulative; as Chap.27.4.

ſo that there is no place clean] Or, free. A defect of the epithite; as Chap. 5. 2. See the note there; and the like phraſe, Chap.5. 8. For that Expoſition (which the learned Annotator, here holdeth out) of one of the Talmudick Doctors, without place, that is, without God, whom, by that term, they oft deſign; as if the meaning were, There is no talking of God, or his Law, at their tables; is of the ſame ſtamp with many other of their ridiculous toys and daliances with divine Oracles, which yet without any intimation of the leaſt diſallowance, that learned Author oft relateth.

V. 9. whom ſhall he teach knowledg? and whom ſhall he make to underſtand doctrine? them, that are weaned from the milk, and drawn from the breaſts] Or, as ſome read the words, by way of interrogation; Thoſe that are weaned from the milk, and drawn from the breaſts? Another ſhameful effect of this their ſenſuality, and exceſs; it had made them ſo ſottiſh, that they were become altogether unteachable, uncapable of learning ought: Inſomuch, that a man might as ſoon teach a child, newly weaned, letters, as to make them to underſtand ought, concerning themſelves, or their duty to God, or man, Jer. 4. 22. Hoſ. 4. 11.

ſhall he teach] Or, can any man teach? for the verb ſeems to be taken potentially; as Chap. 26. 18. and indefinitely; as ver. 5. and ſo, can any make to underſtand, in the next branch. Yet ſome render it, ſhould God teach? to wit, by his Prophets, 1 Cor. 2. 14. But I ſuppoſe the Prophets intention, more general.

doctrine] Heb. hearing; as ver. 19. So Chap. 53. 1.

weaned] Newly, or, lately, weaned. So Pſal. 131. 2. as if he ſhould ſay, Either ſuch, or none. It being as difficult a matter to teach ſuch children, as to teach ſuch ſottiſh, and ſelf-willed people, as theſe are; yea, in ſome regard, more difficult; becauſe, there is ſome want of underſtanding in the one; but there is, beſides that, a perverſeneſs, alſo, of diſpoſition in the other, Rom. 8. 7. 2 Tim. 2. 25.

breaſts] Heb. teats; as Lam. 4. 3. Joel. 2. 16. So called, as ſome think from a word ſignifying moiſture, Num. 11. 8. Pſal. 32. 4. in regard of the pleaſant liquor, or milk, that they yield. From the Syriak form of it, had Thaddeus his ſirname, Mat. 10. 3. and thence alſo comes our Engliſh word, teat.

V. 10. For precept muſt be upon precept, precept upon precept; line upon line, line upon line, here a little, and there a little] Or, precept hath been upon precept, &c. Thus they muſt be taught, or, thus they have been taught, as little children are wont to be, when they begin to learn their firſt rudiments, either of reading, or writing, to know letter after letter, and to draw line after line, in the faſhioning of their letters, to have the ſame rules oft given them, and the ſame things oft told them; and yet for all this diligence uſed about them, and pains taken with them, they are never a whit the better, they continue ſtill, as groſly ignorant, and as unreformed, as ever, Tim. 3. 7. Heb. 5. 12.

precept upon precept] Or, rule upon rule; or, rule after rule. It is a ſhort word, ſaith a Rabbine, no where elſe read, and argues a ſhort rule; yet, by his leave, it is found, Hoſ. 5. 11.

line upon line] Or, line after line. The word ſignifies, properly, a cord, or, line, Chap. 49. 13. Jer. 31. 39. Ezek. 47. 3. thence taken, and applied to lines drawn with a pen, in writing and painting. An alluſion, ſaith one of the Jewiſh Maſters, to ſuch as teach children to write, enuring them firſt to frame the ſeveral parts of each letter apart, and then to joyn them together, line to line, to make up the letter; (not letter to letter; for they never joyn them) or that guide their hand from line to line, and ſo cauſe them to draw one line after another. Though ſome of them would have it taken from the Maſons line; by which he teacheth his novice, to lay one row of ſtones after another, for the making up of a wall. But the firſt ſeems the more likely. There is an elegant conſonancy between this word and the former, which our engliſh cannot expreſs. And there is a reiteration of either branch, to imply a frequent inculcation of one and the ſame point, in the teaching of them, as with dul Scholars, is wont to be done.

here a little, and there a little] Heb. a little, there, a little there; that is, a little of one thing, and a little of another; or, a little at one time, and a little at another. A defect of the copulative; as verſ. 8. And thus ſaith a Rabbine, are they fain to do, that teach a Sucker. So they call a novice, or young Scholar, ſuch as hath need yet of milk, as the Apoſtle ſpeaks, alluding, in likelihood, to that term, 1 Cor. 3. 1, 2. Heb. 6. 12, 13.

V. 11. For with ſtammering lips, and another tongue will he ſpeak to this people] Or, hath he ſpoken; or, muſt one ſpeak; as before, ver. 10. This paſſage hath more difficulty in it, then the former. Some ſuppoſe the former ſimilitude to be ſtill inſiſted upon, that God had dealt with them, or they were to be dealt with, in a very plain and familiar manner, as Nurſes, or Parents, are wont to do with little ones, that liſp, and clip words, and change letters, and uſe divers new terms, when they teach them to ſpeak; and yet all this would do no good. Others conceive their ſottiſhneſs to be a new way deciphered; as if the Prophet ſhould ſay, That they were grown to that height of ſtupidity and ſenſleſneſs, that they no more underſtood, or regarded, or reaped any fruit from ought ſpoken unto them, though never ſo plainly, either by God in his word, or from God by his Prophets, then as if it were delivered in ſome ſtrange and barbarous language, in a tongue utterly unknown to them. And this way, moſt, both Jewiſh, and Chriſtian Commenters, go; yet, in regard of the Apoſtles quotation of it, 1 Cor. 14. 21. ſeeming to look another way, ſome other Interpreters, whom our verſion ſeems to have followed, underſtand it, as delivered by way of commination, as if God, by the Prophet, threatned them, to take another courſe with them; and becauſe they were grown ſo brutiſh, he would ſpeak to them now, not, as to reaſonable creatures, by words and ſpeech, but as men are wont to ſpeak to bruit-beaſts, by blows and ſtripes; by bringing in upon them, people of a ſtrange language, which they ſhould not underſtand, to handle them the more cruelly, in regard that they ſhould not well know how to ſue to them for mercy, becauſe they had refuſed to hear him ſpeaking to them, in his word, and by his meſſengers, in their own language, which they might have underſtood. See Deut. 28. 49. Jer. 5. 15. Ezek. 3. 5. And ſome, again, admitting the ſame interpretation, as ſpoken by way of relation, what was already paſt, that in ſuch manner, and by ſuch people, (though to little purpoſe) God had ſpoken to them heretofore. But I ſee not why the ſecond, and moſt received ſenſe of the words, may not as well, as this laſt, agree with the ſcope of the Apoſtle; which is to ſhew, that ſpeech, in a language not underſtoood, is unuſeful.

ſtammering lips] Heb. mocks, or, ſcoffs of lip; lip, for, language, as Gen. 11. 1. one lip, for one language: and, a pure lip, for, a pure language, Zeph. 3. 9. mocks, ſcoffs, or, diriſion of lip, or, language, by an hypallage, or tranſpoſition, for, lip, or, language of mocks, or, deriſions; (as, choice of vallies, for, valleys of choice, Chap. 22. 7.) that is, as ſome, ſtammering, ſtutring, or, liſping language: becauſe ſuch language men are wont to uſe in mocking; and ſuch kind of language is ſubject to deriſion. Or, as others, ſtrange language; which to thoſe that underſtand it not, ſeems ridiculous; and they are wont, therefore, to deride, and deem, as barbarous, Pſal. 114. 1. 1 Cor. 14. 11. And this latter way, both the words following, carry it: and the Greek alſo, 1 Cor. 14. 21. See Chap. 33. 19.

another tongue] For, a ſtrange tongue: So, other tongues, for, ſtrange tongues, Act. 2. 4. 1 Cor. 14. 21.

V. 12. To whom he ſaid, This is the reſt, wherewith ye may cauſe the weary to reſt, and this is the refreſhing, yet they would not hear] Or, Becauſe when he ſaid unto them, This is the reſt, —yet they would not hear; or, they would not hear: He ſaid, —and they would not hear; that is, when he ſaid— they would not hear; as Prov. 1. 24. I called, and ye refuſed; that is, Ye refuſed, when I called. See Chap. 50. 2. ver. 18. The words, then, thus read; the Prophet proceedeth to ſhew what ſhould betide them, for this their brutiſh ſtupidity, and wilful obſtinacy, in refuſing to hearken to Gods gracious admonitions, and ſlighting his wholeſom inſtructions, to their own confuſion.

To whom he ſaid] Heb. Which he ſaid unto them: but the relative is oft uſed for the cauſative; as 1 King. 15. 13. and ſo here, Becauſe he ſaid to them.

he ſaid] God, by his Prophets, Chap. 7. 4. & 30. 15.

This is the reſt] The onely means, whereby reſt and quietneſs may be either procured, or preſerved, to wit, by hearkening to Gods Prophets, following the directions of his word, and relying upon him, and keeping cloſe to him, 2 Chr. 14. 2.–7. & 15. 4.–19. & 16. 7.–9. Jer. 6. 16. Mat. 11. 28, 29.

wherewith ye may cauſe the weary to reſt] According to this reading, there ſhould be a defect of the relative; as Pſal. 109. 19. that may procure reſt for thoſe, that are tired out with the grievous preſſures, and calamities of the times. But the form of the verb, admitteth not this reading. And others, therefore, more rightly render the words, without ſupply of the relative, as ſpoken in way of admonition, or exhortation, cauſe the weary to reſt; Take ſome courſe, that your poor afflicted, whether country, or countrymen, rather, may have ſome eaſe of, and reſt from, thoſe grievous ſcourges, wherewith they have been ſo much wearied.

the weary] To wit, people: a defect of the ſubſtantive; as Chap. 40. 19. & 50. 4. or, as ſome, the weary land: but then it ſhould be feminine; as Chap. 32. 2. whereas, it is maſculine.

the refreſhing] The word is for ſignification, the ſame, in effect, with the former, rendred reſt alſo, Jer. 6. 16. where found in another form: But in this, here, the more fitly to comply in ſound with the former; eaſe, and reſt; refreſhing, not ſo properly, but as that is an effect of it. See Chap. 30. 15.

they would not hear] It was their wilful obſtinacy, as well as their blockiſh ſtupidity, both ariſing from their ſenſuality, that hindred Gods word from producing any good effect with them, Pſal. 81.11. & 82.5. Jer. 6. 16. & 44.16. Zach. 7.11. Luk.8.14. & 21.34.

V. 13. But the word of God was unto them, precept upon precept, precept upon precept, line upon line, line upon line, here a little, and there a little: that they might go, and fall backward, and be broken, and ſnared, and taken] Heb. And the word of God was, or, ſhall be: which ſome render, as here, But the word of God was; And, for, But; as Chap.29.13. Some, Though the word of God were: And, for, Though; as Chap.49.5. Though the word were in ſo plain, and familiar a way delivered unto them; as before, verſ.10. Howbeit, ſome others, read, and render it, as in way of commination, Therefore the word of God ſhall be unto you; as, Amos 5.27. as if God threatned to puniſh their former ſtupidity, and obſtinacy, with further blindneſs, as chap. 6.9,10. & 16. & 29. 10--12.

that they might go, and fall backward, &c.] This ſome refer to the judgement here denounced, as a diſmal effect of it, by God therein intended; as Chap. 6. 10. Others refer it to their obſtinacy, mentioned ver.12. as an effect thereof, though not intended by them, yet flowing neceſſarily from it. Of which manner of ſpeech, ſee on Chap. 3.8. & Jer.7.18. and of the words, Chap.8.15. & 42.22.

go, and fall backward] Heb. go, and ſtumble backward: that is, ſtumble, and fall backward as they go. A defective ſpeech: the like whereunto, ſee Chap.1.4. and the ſupply, Pſal. 27. 1. Chap.8.15. Jer.46.6. & 50.32.

V. 14. Wherefore hear the word of the Lord, ye ſcornful men, that rule this people, which is at Jeruſalem] The word of commination ſeems hence to begin; directed unto the Rulers, ſuch of them as Shebna was: of whom, ſee Chap. 22. 15. that ſcorned, and ſcoffed at the menaces of Gods Prophets, as ſuppoſing themſelves to be ſufficiently ſecured againſt all occurrents whatſoever, ver.15. Chap.5.19. 2 Chr. 36.16. Jer. 5. 12, 13.

hear the word of the Lord] What, not I, but he, by me, ſaith to you eſpecially; as Chap. 1. 10.

ſcornful men] Heb. men of ſcorn; as Prov. 29. 8. not ſcorned, but ſcorning; ſcornful; ſuch as Solomon there ſaith, bring a city, or State, into a ſnare. A thing glanced at, verſ. 13. though, in this place, it may ſeem to imply more, ſpecially, (that, which yet with ſcornfulneſs is commonly joyned) matter of mockage; and may peradventure, therefore, more fitly be rendred here, men of mockage, or, mockers; as 2 Pet.2. 3. for that ſeems the crime, here, ſpecially charged upon them, verſ.15. and which they are adviſed to leave, ver.22.

that rule this people] Heb. the Rulers of this people; or, domineerers over them; as the word and phraſe is uſed, Chap. 52. 5. that abuſe the power ye have, in regard of your places, to domineer, and lord it over my people, at your pleaſure, Chap. 26.13. 1 Pet. 5.3.

V. 15. Becauſe ye have ſaid, we have made a covenant with death, and with hell are we at agreement] Becauſe you deem your ſelves as ſafe and ſecure, as if death and you were entred into a ſolemn league, either with other. And whatſoever, therefore, might betide the State, ye were ſure to eſcape.

ye have ſaid] Or, ye ſay. That is, think with your ſelves, make account ſo; as Pſal.14.1. & 94.7. And yet it is not unlikely, that ſome ſuch ſcoffing terms, as theſe, they had ſometime alſo in their mouths; as we finde ſomewhat the like in ſome Latine Comicks. See Chap. 22.13.

made a covenant] Heb. cut a covenant; as Chap.55.3. The ground of which form is taken, either from the nature and manner of ſolemn covenants, in which the conditions, whereupon the covenant is made, are wont to be preciſely and exactly on either ſide determined, and as it were cut out; The like whereunto, ſee verſ. 22. Chap.10.22,23. Dan.9. 24. Or, from certain rites, that were commonly uſed at the ſolemn contracting of ſuch leagues and agreements, both among the people of God, and other nations. Of which, ſee Gen. 15. 9, 10, Pſal.50.5. and on Jer. 34. 18.

with death] That is, ſay ſome, with Sennacherib, the deadly enemy to our State, whom we mean to comply with. But this pulleth out the pith of the Prophets ſpeech, whoſe words ſhew, that death it ſelf is intended; which the grave followeth, as an attendant on it, Hoſ.13.14. Rev.6.8.

with hell] Or, the grave. See Chap.14.15.

are we at agreement] Heb. we have made proviſion; as Exod. 18. 21. provide able men. And ſo the word following, verſ.18. is to be expounded; which being another form, from the ſame root, ſheweth this to be a noun: and of the ſame ſignification, in effect, with the former. The Jewiſh Criticks are much divided about it, and ſeem to look any way, rather then to the right reaſon of the term. The Chaldee rendreth it peace, and the reaſon thereof, ſaith one of them, is, becauſe when men make peace, they meet together, and look one another in the face, Gen.32. 10. 2 Sam. 14.32. 1 King. 20. 33. like light to light; or, ſight to ſight, in Solomons temple, 1 King. 7.4, 5. And ſo they do alſo, when they meet to fight, 2 Chro. 25.17, 21. Another would have it a participle, and ſo ſignifie, a Seer, or, Watchman; as if they ſhould ſay, We have ſet one to watch death, well enough, from ſurprizing of us; as Ezek. 33. 2--5. But it is not death that is mentioned in this branch, but the grave. Another would have it, We have ſet a bound, or, a limit unto death, or the grave, that it ſhall not paſs, to come ſo neer to us, as to faſten upon us. Deriving it from a word, uſed, Pſal, 107.20. which, in Chaldee, commonly beareth that ſenſe. Another, laſtly, to let the reſt paſs, We have made a complication, that is, a confederacy; from a word ſignifying to be enwrapped, or entangled, as the ſtrings of a root, Job 8.17. or the boughs of a tree, Dan. 4. 11. or, branched horns of a beaſt, Dan. 8.5. But of this ſenſe of the word, in any one of theſe places, can hardly any good proof be made. And I ſtick therefore to what was given at firſt.

when the over-flowing ſcourge ſhall paſs thorow, it ſhall not come unto us] Or, though the ſcourge, or, the bore, of a ſurrounding flood, or, river, paſs thorow the land, it ſhall not come, at us. Though theſe things, that the Prophets prate ſo much of, ſcourges, and land-floods, and we know not what ſtorms, and inundations, and deluges, ſhould come and over-flow the whole land; yet they ſhall not touch us; we ſhall, for all that, be ſafe; we have ſhelter ſufficient enough at hand, to ſecure us.

when] Or, though; as Chap.12. 1. Pſal.23.4. For they little thought, in likelyhood, that ever they would come.

the over-flowing ſcourge] The word here uſed, doth commonly ſignifie a whip, or a ſcourge, Prov.26.3. Nah.3.2. howbeit, Some of the Jewiſh Criticks, in regard of the term of inundation annexed to it, underſtand by it here, the ſhook, or bore, or fierce ſtream of a river over-flowing his banks, running along thorow the whole levell; as coming of a word, that ſignifieth to run, or paſſe ſpeedily through a place, 2 Sam. 24.2. Iob 1.7. Ier.5.1. but it is not unlikely, that the Prophet did of purpoſe uſe the word ſcourge here, though to expreſſe that, which they would have it here to import; in relating the words of thoſe ſcoffing mates, that in mockery uſed theſe terms, becauſe they heard the Prophets, in their menaces, making mention of an inundation, and a ſcourge, chap.8.7.8. & 10.22,26. and it may therefore be well rendred, the ſcourge of an over-flowing, or ſurrounding river, or floud; a defect of the ſubject: as fading, for a fading plant, v.4,10. over-flowing, for an over-flowing floud: as it is ſupplyed, and expreſſed, chap. 30.28. & 66.12. Ier.47.20. 2 Chron.32.4. or an over-flowing ſtorm: as the ſupply is, Ezek.13.11,13. & 38.22. which cometh home much to one: ſuch ſtorms of rain commonly cauſing alſo great land-flouds, and the term is common to either, ſee chap.25. 4. beſide that mention is made of a ſtorm alſo, ver.17.

paſſe thorow] To wit, the Land. So Dan.11.10,40.

it ſhall not come unto us] Heb. come us, for come at us, the particle omitted: as Pſalm 36. 11. ſupplyed, Pſalm 91. 20.

for we have made lies our refuge, and under falſehood have we hid our ſelves] The ground of this their ſecurity, from whence they preſumed of, and promiſed to themſelves undoubted ſafety; a ly (ſo it is in the Hebrew) and falſhood, both in effect the ſame; whereby ſome underſtand their idols, ſo termed, chap.44.20. Ier.10.14. Rom.1.25. wherein many of them much confided, chap.1.31. & 17.8. Others, their treachery, and diſſembling, in compliance with the adverſe party; whereby they made account to ſave themſelves, whatſoever became of others. Others, their crafty ſhifts, and wily devices, which may well include the former, chap.29.15,16. Others laſtly, which is moſt likely, their ſtrength raiſed, and wealth gotten by fraudulent and deceitfull courſes, Pſal.52.7. & 62.9, 10. chap. 30.12. lies and falſehood, for goods thereby gotten: as the robbery, and the oppreſſion, or fraud, for the thing gotten by robbery, oppreſſion, or fraud, Lev.6.4. So, the mammon of iniquity, Luk.16.11.

refuge] See chap.25.4. Zeph.1.9.

we have hid our ſelves] Or, are we hid: ſee ver.17.

V.16. Therefore, thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I lay in Zion for a foundation, a ſtone, a tried ſtone, a precious corner-ſtone, a ſure foundation: he that beleeveth ſhall not make haſte] Their deep ſecurity amids their ſenſuality, and wilfull obſtinacy, and vain confidence of ſafety, notwithſtanding Gods menaces by his Prophets, which they ſcoffed at, was before. Now God, by the Prophet, proceeding to relate what a round and ſharp courſe he meant to take with them for theſe things; doth before premiſe, for the ſtay of the minds of his faithfull ones, amids the enſuing diſtractions and diſturbances of the times, what proviſion he had made for their ſecurity and indemnity, to wit, ſuch a rock, for them, by faith to reſt on, as ſhould ſtay by them, ſtay them up, and ſupport them, amids all thoſe ſtorms that ſhould threaten the State, and ſweep away thoſe unſure and fickle ſtays, that thoſe profane wretches, ſo much, but moſt fondly, relyed on.

Behold] See chap.7.14. and ver.2.

I lay for a foundation] Heb. I am founding, or, I have founded, as chap. 14. 32. the Lord hath founded Zion; for it ſeems, that, in this form, the participle is ſometime the ſame with the firſt of the verb; as in that of Solomon, Eccl.4.2. I praiſed the dead: and then we need not, either with Some of the Jewiſh Criticks, and Some of ours, following them, make it a noun, reading the words, I the founder; Or, with other of them, make a further needleſſe ſupply, rendring them, I am he that hath founded: Or laſtly, it may be an interchange of the perſon, the third for the firſt: as the like is deemed to be, Chap. 29.14. in thoſe words, I add. But however we read or render them, the meaning is apparent, that God before-hand had laid a ſure ground for the faithful to build and reſt themſelves upon, in thoſe tumultuous and troubleſome times.

in Zion] In Jeruſalem, a type of the Church, then to come, and the principal ſeat, both of Gods people, and of his ſervice, at that preſent, Pſal.65.1.& 76.2. Chap.2.2.

a ſtone] A foundation ſtone, that is, Ezekias, ſay ſome of the Jewiſh Doctors; and a type of this ſtone, it is granted, he might be: but other of them better, the Meſſias, Jeſus Chriſt, the only true and ſure foundation-ſtone, Rom.9.33. & 10.11. 1 Cor.3.11. Eph.2.20. 1 Pet.2. 6-8. laid in Gods purpoſe from all eternity, 1 Pet.1.20. and for efficacy the ſame, to all the faithful, in all ages, yeſterday, at this day, and for ever, chap.26. 4. Mat.16.18. Heb.13.8. oppoſed here to the fickle ſtays, and vain faſtneſſes of wicked Worldlings: as Prov.18.10,11.

a tried ſtone] Heb. a ſtone of triall; or, of proof, rather, as we uſe to ſay, armour of proof, and as a ſword of proof, Ezek.21. 13. for that it ſeems to relate to, there, from ver.9. that is, as Some, a touch-ſtone, whereby men may, and ſhall be tried, whether ſound and ſincere, or no, Chap.8.14,15. Mat.11.6.& 21. 44,45. Luk.2.34,35. Rom.9.33. 1 Pet.2.7,8. or rather, a ſtone throug[redacted]d approved of, a choice ſtone, 1 Pet. 2. 4,6. Yet ſome of the Rabbines would have it to import, a ſtone of munition, or defence; becauſe it is very neer to a term that ſignifieth a fort, or tower; properly, a ſentinel, or watch-tower, chap.23.13.& 32.14. There is a place called (with very ſmall difference from the word here uſed) the ſtone of Bohan, Ioſh. 15.6. which might peradventure here be alluded unto.

a precious corner-ſtone] Heb. a ſtone of the corner of preciouſneſſe; a corner, for a corner-ſtone; for thence, the chief heads in a State are termed; as reſembling corner-ſtones, corners, Judg. 20.2. 1 Sam.14.38. the choiceſt and firmeſt ſtones, are made choice of for corner-ſtones, as wel for the ſurer knitting of the walls together, as for the better bearing up, and for the beauty alſo, (Pſal. 144.12.) of the building: in both which regards, the name of a corner-ſtone ſuiteth well to Chriſt, Pſal. 116. 22. Mat.21.42. Act.4.11. ſince, that he not onely beareth up the entire ſtructure of his Church, Mat. 16. 18. 1 Cor.3.11. Eph. 2. 20. but alſo joyneth and knitteth moſt cloſely and firmly together, both the two main walls of Jew and Gentile, and each living ſtone alſo, in either wall, one to another, Eph. 2.14-22.& 4.15,16. 1 Pet.2.4,5. and again, a ſtone of pretiouſneſſe, for moſt pretious, 1 Pet.2.4,6. See Chap.54.11.

a ſure foundation] Heb. a foundation founded; that is, a firm and ſure, a well-grounded foundation; as a founded ſtaff, chap. 30. 32. Chap. 26. 4. Matth. 7. 24, 25. Luke 6. 48.

he that beleeveth ſhall not make haſte.] So the word properly ſignifieth, Judg. 30. 37. Now becauſe men being out of their way, are wont to run to and fro, haſtily and unadviſedly, this way, and that way: ſome therefore render it, he ſhall not go aſtray: But I ſuppoſe rather, it reſpecteth the manner of thoſe, that being in danger, without ſurety, or certainty of any means, whereby to eſcape, try this way, and that way, but keep not conſtant to any; or deſpairing of ſafety, if they ſtay by it, make all the haſte they can to quit the place they are in at preſent, though as uncertain of ſafety elſe-where, Pſal. 55.7,8. Act. 27. 30. or, that expecting helps from abroad, though having aſſurance given of their timely approach, yet refuſe to ſtay their coming, and out of diſtruſt of relief, are ready to yeeld upon any, the baſeſt, terms. The meaning then is, that thoſe, who by faith reſt themſelves upon this rock, upon God in Chriſt, and his powerfull protection, ſhall not in their ſtreights and diſtreſſes, as men at their wits end, run backward and forward, ſeeking by ſiniſter courſes, and any baſe ſhifts, to rid themſelves out of danger, as the faithleſs Jews frequently did, refuſing to rely upon God, chap.30. 1-5,15.& 31.1. Jer.2.18,36. Hoſ.5.13. & 7.11. & 12.1. but they ſhall with aſſurance of a good and timely iſſue, depend upon God, and with patience, quietly expect the performance of his gracious promiſes, as well for a ſeaſonable deliverance, as for a powerfull and providential ſupport, untill the time thereof do come, Pſal.62.1,2. & 112.7,8. & 121.1,2. 2 Chr. 14.11.& 16.8. & 20.12. chap.8.17. & 10.20.& 30.18. Ier.17. 7. and it is not amiſſe obſerved by ſome of the Jewiſh Doctors, that he ſaith, the rather, he ſhall not make haſte, becauſe the prophecies and promiſes concerning either the exhibition of the Meſſia's then expected, or the deliverances of the faithful, were not preſently effected, and God might ſeem, therefore, in mans fleſhly conceit, to be ſlow and ſlack in his performances; againſt which temptatian, they were to arm themſelves with faith and patience, Hab.2.3,4. Luk.21.19. Heb.10.36,37. Now what the Prophet ſaith, he ſhall not make haſte; the Apoſtle ſeems to render, he ſhall not be abaſhed, or confounded, Rom. 9. 33. Whence, Some ſuppoſe, ſome alteration to be in the Originall, from what anciently it was. But, beſides what might be, and is commonly anſwered, that the Apoſtle oft, in citing Scripture, regards not the words, but the matter; and herein both well agree; (ſince that it is the manner of men, that are in ſuch confuſion, to be heady and haſty) the Apoſtle, as he joyneth in the former part of that quotation, two places of this Prophet together, chap. 8. 14.& 28.16. ſo in the latter part, likewiſe, he might well have an eye to two other, this, and that, Chap. 49.23. where it is ſaid, They that wait on me, ſhall not be confounded, or abaſhed, a place parallel to this. The Chaldee here rendreth it, He that beleeveth theſe things, ſhall not tremble; or, ſhall not be moved, when trouble cometh: rightly interpreting, ſaith the learned Annotator, the term here uſed, by that of moving: For ſo, ſaith he, the Ethiopick word ſignifieth in the active form, to move, Mat. 27.39. in the paſſive, to be moved, Mat. 11.6. The ſenſe is good and ſound, doubtleſſe; but that proveth not this to be the genuine notion of the Hebrew term here uſed, and that in an active form, though a neuter or ſtanding ſenſe.

V.17. Judgment alſo will I lay to the line, and righteouſneſſe to the plummet] Or, And I will ſet out judgment by line, and juſtice by plummet. Having provided ſufficient for my faithfull and loyall ones ſecurity, I will proceed in an exact and preciſe way of juſtice, againſt theſe ſenſuall, ſecure, and ſcornfull wretches: and this is laid down by a metaphor, taken from the practice of Maſons and Carpenters, who when they will have a thing done exactly and exquiſitly, are wont to do it by line and levell: ſo Amos 7. 8. In which manner of ſpeaking, may two things be intimated: Firſt, a ſtrict and ſevere proceeding againſt this brutiſh, profane, and malignant party, Chap.9.27.& 27.11. And ſecondly, a wary and cautelous carriage of this ſad buſineſs, that though it fall heavy upon them; yet it doth not ſo far extend it ſelf, as to hurt, or endamage any of thoſe whom he ſhall be pleaſed to except, as workmen, to this end, draw the line over timber to be ſquared, or ſtone to be hewed, that in cutting, they may keep preciſely to it, and not cut an hairs breadth beyond it.

Judgment I will lay] Heb. ſet judgment, for thoſe ſcorners, ver.14. ſo Chap.34.5.

to the line] Or, by line: as Chap.34.17. For, as for the particle here uſed, the Prophet ſeems to have retained it, in reference to what was before, v.10. and we find it alſo ſo uſed, Job 35.2. Chap.32.1. by line here, as by judgment there: that is, according thereunto: So the rather it would be read, to remove an ambiguity: that it be not underſtood of ſome ſtrict examination of the judgment and righteouſneſſe of others: the line is here meant, that workmen in building make uſe of, Job 38.5. Chap.44.13.

righteouſneſſe] Or, juſtice: for that is the term we uſe moſt in matter of judicature: as when we ſay, do a man juſtice, and do juſtice upon a man.

to the plummet] Or, by level, as before: the word ſignifieth the weight that hangeth at the lines end, to keep it ſtraight and even, 2 King.21.13. judgment and juſtice by line and levell; for neither judgment without juſtice; nor juſtice without judgment: as neither any uſe of the line, in ſuch caſe, without the levell; no more then of the levell, without the line: ſo that the meaning is, both joyntly, by both; though by a rhetoricall amplification, very familiar with this Prophet, expreſſed by way of diſtribution: of which manner of ſpeech, ſee on chap. 5.13.& 22.6.

and the hail ſhall ſweep away the refuge of lies, and the waters ſhall over-flow the hiding place] The effect of this ſtrict proceeding of God with them; to wit, the utter abandoning of all their vain confidences.

the hail] A ſtorm of hail, Ezek. 13. 11-13. See verſ.2.

ſweep away] As with a beſome: the like whereunto, ſee 1 King.14.10. Chap.14.24. Or, as others, ſhovell away, as with a ſhovel: and others again, thruſt out, as with a fork: Thus ſeveral Expoſitors, according to their ſeveral conceits, concerning the ſignification of a word from this root, no where elſe found, deduced; whereof ſee on Jer.52.18. But the fore-mentioned learned Annotator rendreth it, ſhall burn up, becauſe the word in the Ethiopick tongue, ſignifieth to burn, Mat.3.12. & 13.40. and hail, beſides that it hath a burning, or parching quality, is oft accompanied, in ſtorms, with fire, Exod. 9. 24. Pſal.18.13.

the refuge of lies] Heb. of a lye; as ver. 15. but termed ſo here, not onely in regard of the ground of it, as there; but in regard of the effect of it, a lying refuge: as if he ſhould ſay, Your refuge of lies ſhall prove a lying refuge: a refuge that ſhall not perform what it promiſed, and what ye preſumed of it: it ſhall fail you then, when it ſhould ſtand in ſtead. So Jer. 7. 4. and 27. 15.

the waters] The land flood, ver. 15.

overflow the hiding place] ſhall ſurround your covert: of which, ver. 15. See Chap. 16. 4. & 32.2. a defect of the pronoun: as Chap. 13.22. Gods judgments ſhall diſcover the vanity of your ſhifts, and ferret you out of all your hiding holes, Jer. 7.21. & 16.16. Ezek. 7.19. & 17.11, 14. and all your deep deſigns, and cunning projects, ſhall be a ſhed of thatch built on the ſand, that a ſhower of hail ſhall beat down, and the ſtream of the Land-flood, ſweep away with it, Matth. 7. 27.

V. 18. And your covenant with death ſhall be diſanulled, and your agreement with hell ſhall not ſtand] Ye ſhall be deſtroyed, notwithſtanding all the courſes, whereby ye ſuppoſe your ſelves ſufficiently ſecured againſt death.

Your covenant with death] Of which, ver. 15.

diſanulled] Heb. expiated. So Chap. 27.9. or, as Some, daubed over; becauſe the word is ſo uſed, Gen. 6. 14. it ſhall be clean wiped away, as a writing blotted out, and a deed defaced and cancelled: for ſo it is alſo, when ſins are expiated with God, Chap. 43.25. Col. 2.14.

agreement] Heb. viſion: as Chap. 21.2. & 29.11. here, rather, proviſion: as the verb it comes of, ſometime ſignifies, to provide, Exod. 18.21. See ver. 15. the ſecurity, as we uſe the word, whereby ye make account, that ye have made proviſion ſufficient, to ſecure your ſelves from deſtruction.

with hell] Or, the grave: as ver. 15.

ſhall not ſtand] Shall be of no force to ſecure you: So Chap. 7.7.

when the overflowing ſcourge ſhall paſs thorow] Or, for the ſcourge of the overflowing ſtorm, or, floud, ſhall paſs thorow, or, over the land, to wit, of Judah, Chap. 8.7, 8. and ſo did Sennacherib with his forces, Chap. 36.1. ſee ver. 15.

then ſhall ye be troden down by it] Heb. and ye ſhall be to it for a treading down: as Chap. 5.5. the ſcourge, or ſtorm, that ye now ſcoff at, and the bore of the floud, that ye now make but a jeſt of, ſhall bear you down before it, with all your ſupports, and ſhall tread you down like dirt: ſee Chap. 10.6. ver. 3. The words, entirely, may thus be rendred; For the ſcourge of the ſurrounding flood, or ſtorm, ſhall paſs thorow the land, and ye ſhall be troden down by it: or, for when the ſcourge ſhall paſſe thorow, ye ſhall be troden down by it; as ver. 12.

V. 19. From the time that it goeth forth, it ſhall take you] Heb. From its paſſing thorow (as Ezek. 5. 17.) it ſhall take you: as 1 Sam. 18.30. from their going forth: that is, when they went forth: So here, When it paſſeth thorow; or, As it paſſeth over, it ſhall take you: it ſhall ſurprize you: as Ezek. 23. 25. though ye ſay, it ſhall not come at you, ver. 15. or, it ſhall take you away: it ſhall carry you away with it, as the word is uſed, 1 King. 14.26. Ezek. 22.25.

for morning by morning, ſhall it paſs over, by day and by night] Heb. by morning, by morning: as Chap. 50.4. that is, as ſome Interpreters, very early in the morning: as if he ſhould ſay, it ſhall be upon you, ere you are up; it ſhall ſurprize you in your deepeſt ſecurity, when ye leaſt of all dream of it, as ye ly ſleeping in your beds: or, morning after morning; every morning, in a conſtant and continued courſe, it ſhall run over the land, again and again, day after day; and it ſhall purſue you inceſſantly, without intermiſſion: it ſhall not ſuffer you to reſt, day or night, Rev. 14.11. So the phraſe is taken, Ezek. 46.13, 14, 15. and ſo, by day, by day; for conſtantly, continually, every day, Pſal. 68.19. & 71.15. It ſhall break in with that violence, that nothing ſhall be able to ſtand before it; and it ſhall paſſe over ſo oft, that there ſhall be no eſcape from it. The Hebrew Doctors, ſome of them, expound it, of Sennacheribs army marching night and day (ſee Jer. 6.5.) though not diſcovered untill the morning, in which they entred upon Judea, Chap. 10.28-31. but this is, as many other, one of their groundleſſe ſurmiſes.

and it ſhall be a vexation, only to underſtand the report] Theſe words are diverſly underſtood of Interpreters: for ſome, by the word, report, conceive to be meant, the wholeſome doctrines, and ſerious admonitions, delivered by Gods Prophets to this people, as the word is taken, Chap. 53 1. and they render the words; and it ſhall come to paſſe, that the commotion, or vexation, at leaſt, ſhall make them to underſtand the word, or the doctrine, to wit, now delivered: they ſhall then, at leaſt, to their wo and ſmart, underſtand and believe, by what they undergo, and endure the truth of that, which they will not now apprehend: and this ſuiteth well, with what went before, v. 9. But others, and ſo moſt of the Jewiſh Commenters, by report, underſtand the fame and rumour of the enemies approach: as Chap. 37.7. Jer. 10.22. which alone ſhould make them to tremble and quake for fear: ſee Ezek. 21.7. Hab. 3. 16. and they render the text, it ſhall be a quaking onely; or, it ſhall make them quake, only, to hear the report of it: either the report, alone, ſhall caſt them into a fit of trembling; or, the report of it, ſhall affright them only; but no way conduce to procure any means of eſcape; and the latter of theſe, do the Hebrew pauſes ſeem to abet.

vexation] So is the verb rendred, Hab. 2.7. that ſhall vex thee. But in other places, otherwiſe; as Eſt. 5.9. where it is ſaid of Mordecai, that he ſtood bolt-upright, and did not move, or ſtir, to Haman; and Eccleſ. 12.3. where the keepers of the houſe, that is, the hands, or arms, as moſt conceive it, are ſaid to tremble, or ſhake, in old age: from whence divers render the word, here, no where elſe found in this form, a trembling, or, a quaking; and ſome other, a commotion; underſtanding it of that combuſtion & confuſion that ſhould then be in the land. Yet ſome other, in regard that another word, in ſound very neer it, is conſtantly uſed for a removall, Deut. 28.25. 2 Chr. 29.8. Jer. 15.4. & 24.9. & 29.18. & 34.17. Ezek. 23.46. ſuppoſing this by tranſpoſition of a letter only, to be the ſame with that, render it indeed, a commotion, but underſtand thereby, an amotion rather; a deportation, or removall of them, by captivity, into Babylon. But one of the moſt curious Jewiſh Criticks, is of the mind, that thoſe two words come from ſeverall roots. However it be, for the peculiar and proper notion of the word, certain it is, that both the terrour, that the rumour of the enemies approach ſhould ſtrike into them, and his preſence much more, together with the diſmall effects of it, as well the commotions in it, as the removal of them out of it, would exceedingly diſmay, and ſeal up unto them the truth of the things, which they formerly made ſo light of, Job 33.14. Ezek. 6.10.

V. 20. For the bed is ſhort, that a man cannot ſtretch himſelf on it; and the Covering is narrower, then that he c[illegible]imſelf in it] Or, For the bedſtock is ſo ſhort, that one cannot ſtretch out himſelf on it, and the Coverlet too ſtrait for one to wrap himſelf in. The words ſeem to contain a proverbiall kind of ſpeech; the meaning whereof is, that they ſhould be in ſuch ſtreights and diſtreſſes, as all their wiles and ſhifts ſhould not be able either to ſecure, or ſuccour them in. A ſimilitude borrowed from one that lyeth in little eaſe, by reaſon of the ſhortneſſe of the bed-ſtock he lyeth on; and with as little warmth, in regard of the ſcantneſs of the bed-cloaths that ſhould cover him. And the Prophet might, peradventure, have ſome glance at their beds, on which they were wont to ly ſtrutting at pleaſure, with their rich bed-furniture hanging down on either ſide at large. See Amos 6.4. Prov. 7.16. and the like alluſion, Chap. 14.11. They ſeem too ſtreight, that would reſtrain it to Jeruſalem; that before being as a large bed, whereon men might ly and ſtretch themſelves at pleaſure, ſhould now be cut ſhort, and ſtreightned in her former liberty and plenty, Chap. 29.2, 3. and thoſe too nice, that would have this paſſage meant of their affliction by night; as the next, of what, by day, they were to endure: Thoſe too wide from the Prophets purpoſe, that would have it to intimate, the ſmall number of thoſe that ſhould be exempted from deſtruction; as if the covert of Gods protection were ſaid to be narrowed, and to reach no further then the City of Jeruſalem only: and thoſe no leſſe, that would have it import a reclaiming of them from their idols, that they committed whoredome with: as implying, that though the marriage-bed were large enough to hold man and wife; yet it was too ſtreight, to take in an adulterer with them. See Chap. 57. 7, 8.

the bed] Or, bed-ſtock, or whatſoever is laid under one to ly, and take reſt on: as Pſal. 139.8. alluded unto, Job 17. 14. Chap. 14. 11. yet the word here uſed, is no where elſe found.

is ſhort that a man cannot ſtretch himſelf on it] Heb. is ſhort from ſtretching out ones ſelf: that is, is ſo ſhort, that one cannot ſtretch out himſelf on it, or in it: Of the phraſe, ſee on Chap. 23.1. a defect of the pronoun, as Chap. 26.13. for they ſeem not ſufficiently to expreſſe the force, or obſerve aright the uſe of the word, that render the text, the bedding is too ſhort to hang over: the word is no where elſe found, but one not much unlike it, in the ſame notion with it, Amos 6.4, 7.

the covering] Of which, ſee Chap. 30.1. here in way of metaphor, or ſimilitude; the coverlet, or ſuch bed-cloaths, as are caſt over a man to cover him, or to wrap himſelf in, for warmth, while he takes his reſt, Exod. 22. 27. 1 Sam. 18. 13.

narrower then that he can wrap himſelf in it] Heb. is narrow in ones gathering up himſelf: that is, when a man, becauſe he cannot ly at full length, for the ſhortneſſe of his bed, would fain gather up his body, that he might ly at more eaſe, the bed-cloaths proves too ſcanty then to cover him, and to afford him any ſhelter; they ſhall have nothing to accommodate them, or relieve them, either under them, or over them, from above, or from beneath. See Chap.24.17,18.

V.21. For the Lord ſhall riſe up, as in mount Perazim] God ſhall come ſuddenly , and fiercely in upon them , as he did ſometime upon their enemies; and deal with them, in another manner, then he is wont to do with his people.

riſe up] Or, ſtand up : he will riſe, and ſtand up then, who now ſeems to ſit ſtill, and ye deem will ſo ever do, Zeph. 1.12. See Chap.5.19.

as in mount Perazim] Heb. according to mount Perazim : as he then did, when he there diſcomfited, and diſperſed the Philiſtines forces before David, whereof the place had its name, 2 Sam.5.20. 1 Chr.14.16. See the like phraſe, Chap.10.26.& 13.19.

he ſhall be wroth, as in the valley of Gibeon] Be wroth; as Prov.29.9. or, raiſe himſelf : as Chap.14.9. thus, the rather; becauſe it ſuiteth fitly with the former : as in the valley of Gibeon. Heb. according to the valley of Gibeon, as before : this ſome refer to the ſtory of the diſcomfiture of the Amorites before Joſhua, Joſh.10.10. where it is further related, that in the deſcent from thence to Bethoron, God ſlew many of them, with hail-ſtones from heaven, v.11. which ſorteth well with the ſtorm of hail mentioned here, ver.17. But others rather deem, that one, and the ſame ſtory, is in either branch, after our Prophets uſuall manner, reſpected. For the ſame ſtory that relateth that diſcomfiture, and diſperſion of the Philiſtines at mount Perazim, withall telleth us; that upon the Philiſtines recollecting of themſelves again, David, by Gods direction, upon a ſign given him, of Gods ſetting out againſt them, ſet the ſecond time upon them, put them to flight, and purſued them from Gibeon to Gezer, 2 Sam.5.25. 1 Chr.14.16. Howbeit, the Prophet might have an eye to either.

that he may do his work, his ſtrange work, and bring to paſs his act, his ſtrange act] Heb. to do his deed, his ſtrange deed ; and to work his [illegible] forrein work : That is, to effect this heavy doom, and to inflict this diſmal judgment, upon the main body of his own people, grown now to ſuch an height of extream impiety and profaneneſſe, Chap.10.6. called here, a ſtrange act, and a forrein work : either, becauſe admirable and wonderfull; as Chap.29.14. or, becauſe unuſuall and dreadfull; as Prov.23.33. or, becauſe ſtrange with God, as being contrary to his diſpoſition, of himſelf, enclining rather to mercy, then to wrath, Chap.27.4. Lam.3.33. Ezek. 33.11. or, ſtrange to him, in regard of his people, fighting againſt theſe, Chap.29.2,3. Jer.21.4,5. & 33.5. whom he was wont to protect, Chap.37.35. and to fight for, as at the times pointed to, in the words next before-going; and carrying himſelf as a ſtranger, Jer. 14.8. yea, as an enemy, Jer.30.14. toward thoſe, whom he had formerly been as tender of, as any the moſt affectionate Parent, Father, or Mother is, or can be, to their deareſt darling, Deut.8.5.& 32.10,11. Pſal.103.13. Chap.49.14.

V.22. Now therefore be ye not mockers, leſt your bands be made ſtrong] The Prophet here concludeth his fore-going denunciations, with a ſerious admonition to thoſe mockers and ſcoffers at the menaces of Gods Prophets, ver.13,14. adviſing them to forbear, and give over, this their profane and irreligious practice, leſt God ty them up the ſtreighter for it, and lay the heavyer things upon them, Lev.26.23,24.

bands be made ſtrong] Bands , for afflictions and ſtreights, Pſal.66.11. & 73.4. & 116.16. an alluſion to ſuch bands, as priſoners, and captives, are wont to be bound with, Chap.52.3. Jer.30.8. the bands that God bindeth them with, will be too ſtrong for them to break; and the more they now ſlight them, the ſtreighter and ſtronger they are like to prove. See Jer. 28. 10, 11, 13. though ſome ſuppoſe an alluſion to thoſe bands, that as ſheaves of corn , ſo bundels of other traſh alſo are wont to be bound up with, to make fewel of, or matter for the fire, Mat.13.30. to which purpoſe, alſo, they expound ſomewhat, v. 26. but the Prophet ſeems not to have arrived at that ſimilitude from husbandry, as yet.

for I have heard from the Lord God of hoſts a conſumption even determined upon the whole earth] I can aſſure you from God, that he is fully reſolved, without further delay, to make an utter riddance of ſuch of you, as ſo continue, thorow the whole land. See Chap.10.22,23.

V.23. Give ye ear, and hear my voyce ; hearken, and hear my ſpeech] Or, Attend, and hear, what I ſay. Being to give them further aſſurance, that God would not always be menacing; but would, at length inflict; and withall, to declare the equity and wiſdome of God, in the manner of his proceedings, by an argument taken, from the uſuall practice of husband-men, in the tilling of their ground, and in the diſpoſing of their gain; he doth by thoſe terms thus reiterated, labour to rouze and ſtir them up, to a more ſerious conſideration of what he was to deliver to them. So v.14. See the like, Chap.32.9. Now the husband-mans prudent, and provident practice, and diſcreet carriage of his buſineſſe, is obſerved and deſcribed here, 1. In the preparing of his ground, for receit of ſeed, v.24. 2. In the manner of caſting in his ſeed, ver.25. 3. in the courſe he takes for the beating out of his grain, ver.27,28.

V. 24. Doth the plowman plow all day to ſow? doth he open and break the clods of his ground?] Or, Will the plowman be all day (that is, continually, as Pſal. 44. 22.) plowing, or, opening, and harrowing his land? the disjunctive is wanting; as Chap. 17.6. Pſal. 94.16. The verb is, in a notion, of a continued act, or employment; as Joh.2.20. Forty and ſix years hath this Temple been built; that is, ſo long hath it been in building : and the term of continuance, belongeth, as well to the latter branch, as to the former; as Pſal. 44.15. Chap. 58.13. The meaning is, as the husbandman is not alwaies about any one work, but hath his ſeveral times and ſeaſons, for his ſeveral employments; he is not alwaies plowing, or harrowing his ground; but when he hath ſufficiently opened it, and broken the clods, and levelled the ſurface of it, he caſts in his ſeed: and when the crop is come to maturity, he thruſts in the ſickle, and cuts down the corn, and after threſheth out the grain; and hath his time, as well for theſe, as for thoſe foregoing imployments: ſo the Lord hath likewiſe his times and ſeaſons, for his ſeveral works and diſpenſations, as well of judgement, as of mercy; and will not therefore alwaies be admoniſhing, and menacing, by the miniſtry of his meſſengers; but will, at length, proceed to execution, and make good his menaces upon thoſe that continue obſtinate, and ſlight the warnings that now are given them, Gen.6.3. Ezek.12.28. that which before the Prophet warned them of, verſ.22. implying, as ſome conceive alſo, in thoſe words, that Gods harveſt time was now at hand, Chap. 17.5. Ezek.7.10,11. Joel 3. 13. Rev. 14. 15.

break the clods] Whether by rake, or mallet, or harrow; for the word hath no ſpecial notation, that may reſtrain it to any one particular. It came after plowing, Hoſ.10.11. and was, it ſeems, done ordinarily with ſome inſtrument, not unlike our harrow drawn over the land, firſt plowed, by ſome beaſt, Iob 39. 10. Thence a field ſeems to have had its name in Hebrew, as properly ſignifying ſuch an one, as is uſed for tillage; Jer. 26. 18. Mic. 3. 12.

V. 25. When he hath made plain the face thereof, doth he not caſt abroad the fitches, and ſcatter the cummin, and caſt in the principal wheat, and the appointed barley, and the rye in their place?] He doth not plow, and harrow his ground to no purpoſe; or ſpend his whole time, and tire out himſelf, in an endleſs courſe, about that one employment, or ſit down and proceed no further, when he hath hath ſo done; but when he hath fitted his ground for the receit of his ſeed, he then committeth it to the ground, diſpoſing of each ſort of grain, in his ſeveral quarter, according to the nature of the ſeed, and the ſoil. That which the Prophet illuſtrates, by a particular recenſion, of ſome of the ſpecial ſorts of grain, and ſeed, then moſt in uſe. Now if it be demanded, how this fitteth the Prophets purpoſe, to wit, to intimate, that God will not be alwaies admoniſhing and menacing; but will, at length, proceed to execution; ſince that, howſoever, the breaking up of the ground, and the breaking of the clods, may in the ſpiritual husbandry, 1 Cor. 3. 9. Not unfitly reſemble the pains, that the ſpiritual husbandman, 2 Tim. 2. 6. the Miniſter of God, taketh about the fitting of mens ſouls, for the receit of the ſpiritual ſeed, Luk.5.8, 11. of Gods word and grace, Jer.4.4. Hoſ.10.12,13. And that threſhing be in Scripture, an ordinary emblem of afflictions, and ſufferings; Of which ſee Chap. 25.10. Yet the ſowing of the ſeed, may ſeem not ſo fit to repreſent Gods execution of judgement; and is both in the places, above pointed to, and elſewhere alſo, commonly uſed, another way. To this it may be anſwered; Firſt, that the ſame ſimilitude, is, in Scripture, many times, diverſly, yea, contrarily, made uſe of; Of which, ſee on Chap.27.12. & 64.6. & 66.14. Secondly, that it is ſufficient, that it holdeth in the general, to wit, that as the husbandman is not alwaies about one work; but having diſpatcht that which he hath in hand, proceedeth unto that, that in his courſe of employment, is next to be done: ſo God having, for ſome competent ſpace of time, taken pains, by way of perſwaſion, and premonition, with his people, doth, in the next place, proceed to that which, in the courſe of his juſt, and moſt prudent diſpenſation, is next to the execution of judgement, with thoſe that will take no warning, but refuſe to be reclaimed, and reformed, by the former, 2 Chr.36.15—17. Thirdly, the ſowing of ſeed, is not altogether unfit to reſemble the execution of Gods judgement; partly, in the ſcattering of it upon the ground, Levit. 26. 33. Deut.28.64. Chap. 24.1. partly, in the throwing of it into the ground, and for a time, as it were, burying it there, Pſalm 126.5,6. Ezek.37.11,12.

when] Heb. if; as Chap.4.4. Judg.21.21.

he hath made plain] By breaking of the clods, that made it uneven and unequal. The word in this form, and thus applyed, is no where elſe found.

the face] Or, ſurface of it; as Chap. 27.6. Eccl. 11.1.

caſt abroad] Or, diſperſe. A word, which I finde not any where elſe uſed of ſowing, ſave here : but of diſperſion, by way of captivity, and diſcomfiture, very frequently, Deut. 4. 27. Pſal. 18. 14. & 144. 6. Chap. 24. 1. & 41. 16. Jer. 18. 17. Ezek. 36. 19. and not without ſome ſpecial ground, therefore, in likelihood, made uſe of here.

fitches] The Hebrew word, here uſed, doth not ſignifie fitches, or, tares, no more then the Greek word, ſo rendred, Mat. 13. 25. And there is another word rendred fitches, Ezek. 4. 9. but the ſeed of a plant, ſomewhat like to our cockle, called from the blackneſs of it, by the Greeks, Μελάνθιον, by the Latines, Nigella, and by ſome, Gith, Pliny lib. 29. c. 17.

ſcatter] Nor do I finde this word, uſed elſewhere of ſowing, but of ſprinkling bloud, or water, for expiation, oft, Exod. 24. 6. Levit. 1. 5. Num. 19. 20. Ezek. 36. 25. and of ſcattering fire over the city, as a ſymbole of Gods wrath to be poured forth upon it, Ezek. 10. 2. It ſuiteth therefore well here ; and it ſorteth well with ſowing, in which men are not wont to lay their ſeed on heaps, greater or leſs, but to ſcatter it ſo, that it may light in a convenient diſtance aſunder ; that which ſeems alluded to in another term, Prov. 11. 24. & Pſal. 112. 9. as the Apoſtle explaineth it, 2 Cor. 9. 9, 10, 16. applyed alſo to warlike, and wrathful diſperſions, Pſal. 89. 10. Joel 3. 2.

cummin] A ſeed, it ſeems, in much uſe with them, as well as with us ; though of meaner reckoning. See Mat. 23. 23.

the principal wheat] So the moſt ; from a term that hath a notion of principality, and prevalency, Judg. 9. 22. Hoſ. 12. 4. Whence Sarah, Gen. 17. 15, 16. and Iſrael, Gen. 32. 28. And the word ſo taken, implies a greater care, that the husbandman hath in procuring the choice, for ſeed eſpecially, of this more noble grain, then about thoſe other of leſs eſteem. Howbeit, ſome read it, the wheat in a principal place ; as making choice of his chief ground, for his principal grain. And ſo there is a defect of the particle in ; as verſ. 7. and of the ſubject, as verſ. 4. Others, in meaſure ; as a word neer it, ſignifies the ſame with our engliſh, Levit. 19. 35. Ezek. 4. 11. And ſo it ſhould intimate his diſcretion, in proportioning the quantity of his grain, to the ground that is to bear it.

the appointed barley] Or, as ſome, the marked barley. That is, ſay they, ſet apart for ſeed in a ſack, with a mark ſet upon it, for choice grain. But ſome other render it, the barley in its appointed place ; or, the place marked out for it : as alluding to certain marks ſet up in the fields, to ſhew how far ſuch and ſuch grain, or ſeed, ſhould be ſowed. The defect of the ſubject, as before : and this the rather, becauſe the word, barley, is in the Hebrew a feminine ; whereas the particle, here uſed, is maſculine : the word is no where elſe found in Scripture. But the Rabbines uſe it, for to deſign : and a word thence derived, for rows, whether ridges, or trenches, deſigned for receit of ſeed.

the rye] So it is rendred, Exod. 9. 32. Howbeit, the plural maſculine of it, is after the old Latine, by ours, rendred, fitches, Ezek. 4. 9.

in their place] Heb. in, or, within, its bound. For the particle, in, is, as before, wanting ; and the pronoun is ſingular, and ſeems to belong to this laſt, being maſculine ; becauſe the word ſeed, or, grain, is ſuch : and becauſe the word ſignifies a bound, or, border. Some of the Jewiſh Commenters would have the meaning to be, as if it were ſaid, He will ſow his wheat in the principal part, or the middeſt of his field ; but the rye in the verge, or the edges, and borders of it, neither ſo good, oft time, nor ſo ſafe. But that ſeems not ſo well to ſuit with the context. The intention of the Prophet ſeems to be, to ſhew the husbandmans diſcretion, in ſowing his ſeed, neither confounding, and mingling his ſeed, of ſeveral ſorts and kinds, one with another, Deut. 22. 9. nor caſting them into the ſame ground ; but aſſigning unto each ſort and kinde, a ſeveral place ; and that ſuch, as is ſutable thereunto. Thereby implying, alſo, that God though after admonitions and menaces, he proceed to a further matter, unto execution of judgment ; yet he doth that alſo, with much diſcretion, acording to the divers diſpoſitions of thoſe with whom he hath to deal. Of which alſo, more after, ver. 27, 28.

V. 26. For his God doth inſtruct him to diſcretion, and doth teach him] In theſe words, thus read, ſhould a reaſon be rendred how it commeth to paſs, that the husbandman carrieth himſelf ſo diſcreetly, and prudently, in theſe his affairs, to wit, becauſe God hath endued him with wiſedom, and diſcretion ſo to do, Job 35. 11. as implying, that God would much more do all things, ſo, himſelf, who had taught the husbandman ſo to do. And this, no doubt, is intended throughout the whole paſſage. But yet there is another reading, that ſeems more agreeable, both to the words of the text, and to the courſe of the context : for thus the words lye in order, and run word for word, And he beateth it out, according to that courſe, that his God teacheth him. According to which reading, the Prophet here paſſeth from the husbandmans diſcretion in diſpoſing of his ſeed, after he hath fitted the ground for it, unto his diſcretion in threſhing, and beating it out ; propounded in general terms in this verſe ; together with an intimation, how, and from whom he learned ſo to do ; but more particularly, declared, in his divers dealing, with divers ſorts of grain and ſeed, in regard of the divers nature, and quality of them, verſ. 27, 28. And this Expoſition I finde approved, and confirmed, by the late learned Annotator.

For] Heb. And. Which here need not be altered.

he doth inſtruct him] So moſt, both Jewiſh, and ours, applying it to God. Yet ſome of either, otherwiſe underſtanding it of the husbandman. Among theſe, one of ours renders the word, He bindeth it up ; conceiving it to be meant of the husbandmans binding his crop up in ſheaves and bundles, after it is cut, Matt. 13. 30. But though the word of binding come neer to that of chaſtiſing, here uſed ; yet they are divers ; and it is this, not that, that we have here. Again, one of the Jewiſh Doctors underſtandeth it of his breaking the clods, to make the ground level, ver. 25, 26. And one of ours, (whom I ſuppoſe to come home to the genuine ſenſe of the of the place, he beateth it out, to wit, in the threſhing of it, to ſever the ſeed, or grain, from the ſtalk, or ſtraw. The word ſignifies, firſt, and properly, to beat : And ſo would be rendred in ſome other places : as 1 King. 12. 11. & 2 Chr. 10. 11. My Father did beat you with whips, but I will beat you with hooked ſcourges. Or, as ſome of the Jewiſh Criticks, with brambles. See Judg. 8. 7, 16. Sure the term of chaſtiſing fitteth not there : for the complaint was not of any ſharp penalties for miſdemeanures ; but of heavy taxes and burdens, laid on them, for the maintenance of his ſtate. And ſo may it alſo be rendred, in divers ſpeeches of Solomon, concerning the correcting of children, by beating them with the rod ; as Prov. 19. 18. & 29. 17. and of the uſe of the rod, in this piece of husbandry, ſee ver. 27. which ſeemeth, alſo, to have an alluſion, to that manner of chaſtiſing children with the rod.

to diſcretion] Or, according to that courſe : for the article here is ſignificant. Heb. judgment, as according to judgment, Job 32. 2. Chap. 32. 1. Jer. 30. 11. ſo for the phraſe. But the Hebrew word judgment, is far larger then judiciary proceedings, and is uſed frequently, for any courſe, cuſtome, manner, or uſage, good or bad. So, 1 Sam. 2. 13. the manner, or cuſtome of the Prieſt was : and, This will be the courſe, or manner of the King, 1 Sam. 8. 11. ſo Judg. 13. 12. what ſhall be the manner of the child ? that is, what courſe is to be taken with him ? and, 2 King. 1. 7. what was the manner of the man ? that is, what manner of man was he ?

his God] That, or which, his God : a defect of the relative, as ver. 12. his God ; the husbandmans God, as well as the States-mans ; and the Peſants, as well as Princes : for they are all, alike, the work of his hands, Job 34. 19. Prov. 22. 2. & 29. 13.

teacheth him] God teacheth the husbandman how to manage his ground, and to ſow his ſeed, as well as the Warrier how to handle his weapon, Pſal. 18. 34. & 144. 1. or the Ruler, how to ſway the ſcepter, Prov. 8. 14 - 16. ver. 6. Chap. 32. 15, 16. One of the Rabbines tels us, that his Father thus expounded this verſe ; And he beateth, or breaks (to wit, the clods) to pieces, and his God raineth upon it : or, And when he hath by beating broken the clods, he expecteth what time his God will rain upon it, to make his ſeed come up ; having done his endeavour, he expects Gods bleſſing upon his labours, without which, all would be fruſtrate, Pſal. 65. 9 - 13. Zach. 10. 1. Jam. 5. 5. alluded to, Hoſ. 10. 12. a place not rightly read : this difference of verſion ariſeth from the various uſe of the word, ſignifying primarily, to caſt, Exo. 15. 4. Pro. 26. 18. then more eſpecially, to caſt out arrows, to ſhoot, 1 Chr. 10. 3. 2 Chr. 26. 15. to caſt forth, or deliver doctrine, direction, or inſtruction, to teach, Deut. 17. 7. Pſal. 32. 8. v. 9. and laſtly, to caſt forth, or pour down ſhowers, to rain, or to water, Hoſ. 6. 3. & 10. 12. Pro. 11. 25. hence alſo that ambiguity, Ch. 30. 20. But the text, plain and free, of it ſelf, ſeems over-much ſqueazed, to force it to this ſenſe.

V. 27. For the fitches are not threſhed out with a threſhing inſtrument ; neither is a cart wheel turned about upon the cummin : but the fitches are beaten out with a ſtaff, and the cummin with a rod] What was ſpoken in general, v. 26. of the husbandmans cautious and diſcreet carriage, in the threſhing and beating out of his ſeed and grain, is here further confirmed, by an enumeration of ſome of the forementioned particulars, and his various dealing with his ſeveral ſorts of them ; and his diſcretion and caution, is in two things obſerved : Firſt, in that he hath gentler ways, for the beating out of the tenderer ſeeds, then thoſe, that he uſeth about the harder grain. And ſecondly, that though he makes uſe of ſome harſher means, for the threſhing out of the harder again ; yet neither doth he keep it continually under the cart, or the hoof ; (the means moſtly then uſed) nor doth he ſuffer it to be bruiſed, or beaten to pieces, as are the clods, v. 24. and ſo ſpoyled by either, v. 28. The intent of the Prophet being to ſhew that God hath divers ſorts of dealing, for divers ſorts of Delinquents, according to the nature and quality, either of the offender, or of the offence, Chap. 27.7,8. and again, that even when he dealeth more roughly, then ordinary, with his own people, being refractory, he doth it not with ſuch rigour, as utterly to deſtroy them, Jer.30.11.

the fitches] Or, gith. See on ver.25.

a threſhing inſtrument] Not any ſuch, as we in theſe parts uſe; but a kind of ſled, or drey, drawn on wheels, ſhod with iron, beſet with ſpokes, or teeth, which they drew over the corn, to ſtrike out the grain. Of it mention is again, Chap.41.15. And this was uſed, for the beating out of their bread-corn, v.28. the harder ſort of their grain, ſuch, as were the wheat, barly, and rye, mentioned, v.25.

neither is] Heb. and is; the negative, wanting, is ſupplyed from the former branch: as Deut.33.6. Prov. 30.3. & 31.3. otherwiſe, the copulative moſt go for the disjunctive: and, for or, as Gen.2.5,6. Job 6.22,23. See v.28.

the cart-wheel] The wheels of ſuch a cart, or drey.

turned about] As it is uſed to be, in drawing over the corn: theſe ſeeds are too tender, to endure ſuch rough uſage; and therefore, in ſtead of the ſled, and the wheel, a ſtaff, or flail, is uſed for the one, the leſſe tender of the two; and a rod, or twig, for the beating out of the other, that cannot fadge ſo well with the flail: as in chaſtiſing of ſturdy ſervants, a cane or a cudgell is ſometime uſed; in correcting of a tender youngling, a twig, or a rod, which we uſe to ſay, will break no bones.

V. 28. Bread-corn is bruiſed] Thus is the text generally rendred and read; ſave that ſome for bruiſed, read ground: for it muſt, ſay they, be ground, before it can become bread: and ſome, though it be threſhed. But neither doth the Prophet here meddle with grinding; nor doth the word ſignifie to threſh: and being read, as it is here, affirmatively, this branch ſhould run directly counter to the cloſe of the verſe; where the ſame wo[illegible]d, and that withall denied, that according to the received reading, is here affirmed. I ſuppoſe, therefore, that the negative is here wanting, to be ſupplyed from the verſe next before, as it was there ſupplyed, in the latter branch, from the former: ſo it is in many places of Scripture, Job 23.17. Pſal.9.18. & 91.5,6. where it is thrice ſupplyed in two verſes, from the firſt branch of the former verſe. Thus then the text would run, For the gith is not threſhed with a drey; nor is the cart-wheel turned about upon the cummin.——— Nor is the bread-corn bruiſed; Or, if that ſeem better, the disjunctive ſupplyed will help it as well; and then the text may be thus rendred, For the gith is not threſhed with a drey; or is a cart-wheel turned about upon the cummin.———Or, is the bread-corn bruiſed. And the defect of the disjunctive is no leſſe frequent, See 1 Sam.20.12. 2 King.9.32. Job 6.6. & 8.11. & 11.7. & 13.9. Chap.17.6. & 38.14. The meaning then is, the harder grain, ſuch as bread is uſually made of, as wheat, barley, and rye, though the drey be drawn over it, and the iron-wheel bruize the ſtraw and ſtalk of it, which the huſbandman doth not ſo much regard (See Chap.5.10.) and the beaſt be ſuffered to trample upon it: yet is all this carryed ſo cautiouſly by him, that the grain is not mauled to pieces, or marred; which he further confirmeth in the words enſuing.

bread-corn] Heb. bread: bread, for corn, whereof bread is made, Pſal.104.15. Eccl.11.1. Chap.30.23. as corn, for bread, that is made of corn, Lam.2.12. Zach.9.17.

is bruiſed] Or, beaten to powder: ſo the word properly ſignifieth, Exod.30.36. & 32.20. 2 King.23.6. and ſo it is uſed affirmatively, where mention is made of the enemies of Gods people, Chap.41.15. Mic. 4.13. but ſo is not the huſbandman wont to do, in threſhing out of his grain, that eſpecially, which he intends to make bread of.

becauſe he will not ever be threſhing it] Heb. for (as v.27.) he will not, for ever threſhing, threſh it. One reaſon, why the grain is preſerved from being bruized and battered; becauſe the huſbandman doth not ſuffer either the ſled to paſs inceſſantly over it, or the beaſts to trample over-long upon it; but when it is once beaten out of the husk, and beaten off from the ſtraw, he then ſtayeth his hand, and leaveth further threſhing: Nor is the huſbandman always threſhing his corn; nor is God always chaſtiſing his people: it would break their hearts, if he ſhould ſo do, Pſal.103.9. & 125.3. chap.57.16. Lam.3.31,32.

nor break it with the wheel of his cart; nor bruize it with his horſemen] Heb. and break it: where again, we have either a defect of the negative, neceſſarily requiring a ſupply thereof; or, the copulative put in the room of the disjunctive: as v. 27. The words may well be rendred, nor ſhall his cart-wheel break it to pieces; nor ſhall his horſemen, or iron teeth, any of them grind it to powder. A ſecond reaſon, why the grain is not ſpoyled; becauſe the huſbandman is carefull ſo to order the matter, that neither from the beaſts hooves, nor from the wheel of the cart, notwithſtanding the iron ſpokes of it, the grain ſhall receive any ſuch harm, as thereby to be made uneſefull. So God, though he exerciſe his ſometime, with harſh and heavy things, Pſal.60.2,3. & 66.11,12. Chap.10.6. yet he attempereth the affliction to their ſtrength, Pſal.103.13,14. 1 Cor.10.13. and ſo diſpoſeth things, in his moſt wiſe and holy providence, that they ſhall not, in, or by the ſame, periſh, Ezek.11.16. Luk.21.16, 18. Rom.8.28. Some read the words, that his cart-wheel may not break it; nor his iron ſpokes bruize it: and then this is given only, as a reaſon, why he doth not prolong his threſhing. It cometh much to one, whether way it be read.

break it] The word is ſo rendred, Deut.2.15. and might well ſo be alſo, Jer. 51. 34. a defect of the pronoun: as ver. 20.

with the wheel of his cart] Or, his cart wheel; whereof, ver. 27.

nor bruize it] Or, beat it to powder, as before: nor ſeemeth that to have place here; he will ſo deal with it afterward in grinding it the mill, but in threſhing it on the floor; it would not fit with the matter thereby here reſembled.

with his horſemen] That is, as ſome, thoſe that guide the ſled which the horſes draw; or, as others, the hooves of the beaſts; either thoſe that draw the drey, or that themſelves tread out the corn, Mic.4.14. for that manner of threſhing was uſuall alſo in thoſe parts; whence the Law, concerning the not muzzelling of the Ox, that trode out the corn, Deut.25.4. 1 Cor.9.9. and ſo the old Latine: But the word, that ſignifieth an hoof, though in ſound ſomewhat like this; yet is of another form and mould, and riſeth from a diverſe root. And the Hebrew Criticks tels us, that the word ſignifieth thoſe iron ſpokes, or teeth, that the cart-wheel was beſet with; ſo called, becauſe they reſembled the rowels of horſemens ſpurs: and they obſerve here a double Syntax, that which our verſion followeth; which being admitted, there is a defect of the inſtrumental particle; as Chap.17.5,9. and that which was before exhibited; which if we follow, the word muſt be taken diſtributively; becauſe the noun is plural, the verb ſingular: as Job 12.7. Joel 1.20. Howbeit, the learned Annotator would have the word rendred horſemen, to ſignifie horſes, both here, and elſewhere: as Chap. 21.7,9. & 22.6. 1 Sam.8.11. & 2 Sam. 1. 6. none of which places, yet ſeem neceſſarily to evince that notion of the word.

V. 29. This alſo cometh forth from the Lord of Hoſts, which is wonderfull in councell, and excellent in working] The word This, the moſt ſuppoſe to have reference to the diſcreet, and prudent carriage of the huſbandman, in the threſhing out of his grain, as proceeding from the ſame ground with the former, in the earing of his land, and diſpoſing of his ſeed, thereby implying, that that God, who hath taught him to uſe ſuch diſcretion in matters of leſſe moment, will much more carry himſelf moſt wiſely and providently, in matters of greater weight; as well in the execution of judgment, upon obſtinate wicked ones; as alſo, and that more ſpecially, in the chaſtiſing of his children: ſo that, though he proceed in juſt ſeverity in the puniſhing of the one; yet he will have an eye ſtill unto the indemnity of the other. See the like argumentation, Pſal. 94. 10. Yet ſome other refer the word, to the devaſtation of the land of Judah, before menaced, ver.22. either by the Aſſyrian, or by the Chaldean forces, or both; as proceeding from an appointment of God, and the enemy therefore coming, as with a commiſſion from him, Chap.10.6. Jer. 25.9. But the former ſeemes to flow more naturally from the courſe of the context.

which is] Or, who is, rather; becauſe of a perſon, a defect of the relative: as v.12,26.

is wonderfull in counſell] See Chap. 9. 6. Heb. maketh Counſell wonderfull: Or, doth wonderfully in counſel; but the former rather, that is, taketh ſtrange and wonderful courſes, according to his ſecret courſes and purpoſes, both for the deſtruction of his enemies, and the protection of his people, Chap.25.1. as Pſal.31.21. he hath made his kindneſs wonderful: that is, he hath done wonderfully out of his kindneſſe, or doth wonderful kindly. See Chap.29.14.

and is excellent in working] The copulative is wanting: as Chap.15.1. Heb. magnifieth, or maketh great, wiſdome; or, doth greatly, or magnificently in wiſdom, that is, doth exceeding wiſely: as Gen. 19. 19. thou haſt magnified thy kindneſs; that is, done exceeding kindly. I render the word here uſed, rather wiſdom, then working, for which, I never find it uſed; or then eſſence, or ſubſtance, which it ſeems ſometime to import, Job 30.22. or, the thing it ſelf, as ſome other here: and Job 11.6. & Mic. 6.9. becauſe whatſoever the word may, in thoſe other places, ſignifie, it ſeems not to ſuit ſo well here: But, for wiſdome, or true wiſdome, as Some; or ſound wiſdome, as others render it: for wiſdome, indeed, it is apparently taken, Job 12.16. compared with v.13. Prov.2.7. compared with v.6. Prov.3.21. where this, and diſcretion; and Prov. 8.14. where this, and counſell are linked together. In either branch there ſeems a defect, not ſo much of the prepoſition, which our verſion ſuggeſts and ſupplies; as of the pronoun, expreſſed in thoſe places pointed to; his counſel, his wiſdome: the like defect is, Chap. 27.9. and oft elſewhere; and the common uſe of the phraſe ſeems here to require it.

CHAP. XXIX.

Ver. 1. WO to Ariel, to Ariel, the City where David dwelt] In this Chapter is contained a ſad Prophecy againſt Jeruſalem; and conſequently, the whole State of the Jews, whereof that was the head City, threatning the deſtitution and deſtruction of either; yet concluded, as our Prophets uſuall manner is, with gracious promiſes of mercy, and reſtitution again.

Wo to Ariel, to Ariel] Or, O Ariel, Ariel: as Chap. 10.5. & 18.1. the word ſignifieth, a mighty lyon, Gods lyon; or, a lyon of God: as, mountains of God, Pſal. 36.6. and trees of God, Pſal. 104.16. and ſo it ſeems taken, 2 Sam. 23.20. two Ariels; that is, two mighty lyons, or lyon-like men: and ſo alſo, 1 Chr. 11.22. but here, in a more peculiar manner, as conſecrated to Gods ſervice, is the brazen altar of burnt offerings, ſo called, Ezek. 43.15,16. not, as ſome ſuperſtitious Jews, in regard of ſome relation it ſhould have to the Lyon in the Zodiack, but becauſe it ſeemed as a lyon, to devour the bodies of thoſe beaſts, that were by the fire, continually burning upon it, conſumed into aſhes, Lev. 6.9,12,13. for fire is ſaid to devour, and to be fed with ſuch matter, as is thereby conſumed, Lev. 3.11,16. Chap. 5.24. & 11.5. So rather, then as ſome, becauſe morning and evening ſome beaſt was offered to it, as to a lyon, for his daily diet. Num. 28.2-4. It is that that is here after, Chap. 31.9. called Gods chimney, or furnace, put here, for the Temple, the place of it; the ruine whereof, is here threatned, together with the City of Jeruſalem, wherein the Temple ſtood. And it may well be conceived, as ſpoken by way of compellation, O Ariel; becauſe the verb, next following, is in the ſecond perſon, as ſpoken to it; or thoſe, that either attended it, or reſorted to it for ſacrifice; and for the more emphaſis, the word is reiterated, as, O Jeruſalem, Jeruſalem, Mat. 23.37: and ſo, alſo, would ſome have the text taken here, as there, delivered by way of lamentation: Alas Ariel, Ariel: as Jer. 13.27. But I rather follow the former, as ſeeming better to ſuit with the words enſuing.

the city] Or, of the city; or, in the city: for the particle in is oft wanting: as Chap. 28. 7. that belongeſt to it, or art ſituate in it, Ezr. 7.17. or, it may be read, following the received verſion; and to the City, ſupplying the copulative: as Chap. 22.6. for the deſtruction of the city, as well as of the Temple, is denounced, v. 2. and ſo it would agree fitly with their expoſition, who by the Altar, ſuppoſe to be meant the Temple, and mount Moriah, on which it ſtood, 2 Chr. 3.1. by the city of David, mount Sion, where the Kings Court was, 1 Chr. 11.7. and ſo deſtruction, of both eſtates, together denounced. But I conceive it rather, to be added, by appoſition, in way of explication; O Ariel, thou city: as if he had ſaid, if ye ask, what by Ariel, I mean, I tell you, it is the city of Jeruſalem, therefore by way of anticipation, here ſo termed; becauſe it was to be made as another Ariel, v. 2. See the like, Chap. 24.10. And the city, put here for the inhabitants of it, whom, in the next branch, he directs his ſpeech unto.

where David dwelt] Or, wherein; or, in which David dwelt: becauſe a defect not of the adverb, ſo much as of the prepoſition, and the relative according to the Hebrews uſuall ſyntax, as, 1 Chr. 15.12. 2 Chr. 1.4.

dwelt] Heb. encamped: whereupon, ſome render it, which David encamped againſt, 2 Sam. 5.6,7. others, which David fortified; becauſe it is ſaid of the fort of Sion, that David dwelt in it, and called it the city of David, and built round about it, 2 Sam. 5.9. but the word is uſed ſometime ſimply, for to dwel, as Neh. 9.30. Mention is made of David, the rather, partly to mind them of him, from whom they had degenerated: as 1 King. 11.4,6,12. & 14.8. and partly to let them know, that no ſuch relation, or externall priviledge ſhould exempt them, from deſerved deſtruction, Jer. 7. 4, 14. Mat. 3. 9, 10. See Chap. 7.13.

adde ye yeer to yeer; let them kill ſacrifices] Or, proceed ye from yeer to yeer, in procuring, or cauſing your feſtival ſacrifices to be ſlain. Keep your yearly feaſts, while ye may, ye inhabitants of Jeruſalem, for ye ſhall not keep them long, Exod. 23. 14. Lam. 1. 4. nor ſhall your vain confidence, in your ſacrifices, long continue, Jer. 7.14, 21. Yet I ſuppoſe this no ſufficient ground, for their opinion, who hence gather, that this Prophecy was delivered juſt two yeer before the ſiege of Jeruſalem, by Sennacherib, and to extend it ſelf no further, then that expedition, which ſome enſuing paſſages ſeem to controll.

add yeer to yeer] As, ver. 14. Chap. 52.1.

let them kill] That is, ſay ſome, let the Prieſts kill: but the word ſeems indefinite, let ſacrifices be ſlain: add ye ——— let them ſlay ſacrifices; that is, cauſe ſacrifices ſtill to be ſlain: as Chap. 47.1. thou ſhalt not add, they ſhall not call thee: that is, thou ſhalt no longer be called: and Hoſ. 1. 6. I will not add, I will not have mercy any more: that is, I will not continue ſtill to ſhew mercy: and Prov. 23.35. I will add, I will further ſeek after it: that is, I will again ſeek after it ſtill. See v. 4.

kill] Some of the Jewiſh Criticks ſuppoſe it, to be a ſtanding verb, as they term it, in the form here uſed, and render the text therefore, let ſacrifices be ſlain, as the direct Grammatical conſtruction of it; or, as others, whom the old Latine concurs with, your feaſts, or ſacrifices, ſhall be cut off, and fail, by occaſion of the enemies, either ſiege, or ſurpriſal of the city, Dan. 11.31. Lam. 1.4. & 2.6. But moſt take it, for a paſſing verb, as in another form, it is uſed for to cut, or to lop, Chap. 10. 33,34. and thoſe that ſo take it here, ſuppoſe it, to ſignifie to behead, or to cut off the head of a beaſt, becauſe the Chaldee Paraphraſt ſo uſeth it, Chap. 66.3. and ſome of ours ſo render it here.

ſacrifices] Heb. feaſts; that is, feſtivall ſacrifices: feaſts, for beaſts ſlain, and ſacrificed at, and in their ſolemn feaſts: as Exod. 23.18. Pſal. 118.27. for they ſeem wide, who becauſe the verb is uſed of lopping, or cutting down of boughs, or branches, Chap. 10. 34. would have by this term underſtood, not the beaſts that were ſlain; but ſuch boughs, or branches of trees, as at ſome of their feſtivals, they were wont to cut down to build them booths and arbours with, or to make uſe of otherwiſe, Neh. 8.15,16. Mat. 21.8. Howbeit, their conjecture is not improbable, who deem this Prophecy to have been delivered, at the time of ſome ſolemn feaſt: the ſcope of the Prophet, in this paſſage, being to check their jollity, and to controll their ſecurity, and vain confidence, in the ſacrifices then offered: ſo Chap. 66.3. Jer. 7. 21. Hoſ. 9.1. Amos 4.4,5. & 5. 21,22.

V. 2. Yet I will diſtreſs Ariel, and there ſhall be heavineſs, and ſorrow: and it ſhall be unto me, as Ariel] For all the jollity ye now make, and enjoy in your feſtivals, and the ſafety, and ſecurity, that, in regard of the preſent performances, ye promiſe to your ſelves; yet neither ſhall ye be able, by any force ye can make, to rid your ſelves out of the ſtreights, that the enemy ſhall put you into; nor by any rites, performed by you, ſo to pacifie Gods wrath, juſtly incenſed againſt you, as to cauſe him not to joyn with, and aſſiſt the adverſary, in ſo preſſing, and oppreſſing you, and your city.

Yet] Heb. And. But ſo alſo, Chap. 17.6.

I will diſtreſs] Not the enemy onely, but I my ſelf by them, and with them. So they complain, Pſal. 66.11,12. Lam. 1.5, 12-15. & 2.1-8. & 3.1-19. and ſo Chap. 22. 5. ver. 3, 5.

Ariel] Not the city onely, but my temple alſo, and mine altar, Lam. 2.1,6,7.

heavineſs, and ſorrow] There are two words in the Hebrew here, of the ſame notion, and ariſing from the ſame root, as if we ſhould ſay, mourning, and mournfulneſs; or, grief, and grievouſneſs. And it ſeems to have been an uſual form of ſpeech among them, whereby to expreſſe an extremity of grief and heavineſſe. For the ſame is found alſo, uſed, Lam. 2.5. rendred there, mourning and lamentation. See the like hereunto, ver. 14. Such heavineſs they ſhould be in, as in regard of their own preſent diſtreſſes; ſo for the overthrow, in eſpecial manner, of the temple and the altar, as it followeth there, Lam. 2. 6,7. Or, as thoſe that reſtrain this to Sennacheribs invaſion; for their brethren ſlain abroad, in the cities of Judah, Chap. 10.6. & 36.1.

and it ſhall be unto me, as Ariel] That this paſſage hath reference to the city of Jeruſalem, before mentioned, ver. 1. is generally agreed. But it is diverſly expounded; ſome read it, as in the time paſt, becauſe (as Chap. 64.5.) it hath been unto me, as Ariel; that is, as a fierce Lion. See Jer. 12.8. Or, it ſhall be as a fierce Lion, beſet with ſhepherds, or hunters on every ſide. See Chap. 31. 4. Jer. 12.10. Ezek. 19. 8. Others, it ſhall be as Ariel; that is, the city ſhall be in the ſame diſtreſſe, that the temple, and the altar ſhall be in. But this ſeems but a poor expreſſion; for the city might be in diſtreſs, and yet not the temple: whereas the temple ſtanding in the head, and heart of the city, that could not be in any diſtreſſe; but the city, of neceſſity, muſt firſt ſo be. Others, therefore, the city ſhall be, on every ſide, encompaſſed with enemies; as the altar is wont to be, at ſome ſolemn feſtival, with beaſts, brought for ſacrifice, and the people that bring them, Pſal. 26. 6. & 118.27. or, it ſhall be encompaſſed with ſlain men, as the altar is wont to be with ſlain beaſts: which they underſtand of men ſlain without it, but round about it, by Sennacheribs forces, Pſal. 79.2,3. Or, laſtly, which I take to be the genuine ſenſe, the whole city ſhall be as an Ariel, as the altar, and the place where it ſtandeth; it ſhall be all on a light-fire, all full of gore-bloud, and the dead bodies of men ſlaughtered, after the ſurprizal of it, 2 King. 25.9. 2 Chr. 36. 17,19. Pſal. 74.7,8. Lam. 4.15.

unto me] Becauſe all this, as before, was ſhewed, from God inflicted on them for their ſins, Chap. 10.5. So the Lords ſlain, Chap. 66.16.

V. 3. And I will camp againſt thee round about, and will lay ſiege againſt thee with a mount; and will raiſe forts againſt thee] I will bring in an enemy that ſhall, on every ſide, beſiege it, ver. 8. my ſelf commanding them, as in chief, ver. 2. Joel 2. 31, 25.

will camp] As before, where David encamped, ver. 1.

againſt thee] A change of the perſon; as Chap. 1. 29. and elſewhere.

round about] Heb. as, or, in manner of a ball, or, a globe. See Chap. 22.18. A phraſe, not unuſual, in other languages: for ſo they ſay, a globe of ſouldiers, in Latine. Or, as ſome read it, with a ball. The particle, with, as in the next branch, ſupplyed: that is, ſay they, with a round camp; for their camps uſed to be round. Which they gather from a word, uſed, 1 Sam. 26.5.

lay ſiege] Or, lye in ſiege; as Jer. 32.3. or, beſet thee, as Pſal. 139. 5.

with a mount] Or, as ſome, a ſtanding; that is, ſay they, a tower, or, gallery, for ſouldiers to ſtand upon for aſſault. For the word, no where elſe found, hath a notion of ſtanding in it. But that agreeth well enough to a mount. The other ſeems to come within compaſs of the next branch; and muſt be underſtood collectively, if it be admitted. See Ezek. 26.8, 9.

V. 4. And thou ſhalt be brought down, and ſhalt ſpeak out of the ground, and thy ſpeech ſhall be low out of the duſt; and thy voice ſhall be as one, that hath a familiar ſpirit out of the ground, and thy ſpeech ſhall whiſper out of the duſt] By theſe thy diſtreſſes, thy former pride ſhall be pulled down, Levit. 26.19. Chap. 2. 11-17. & 5. 15. and thou ſhalt not talke ſcornfully, and carry thy ſelf preſumptuouſly, and inſolently, as now thou doſt, Chap. 28.14, 15. but ſhalt be glad, in ſubmiſs, and baſe manner, to petition the enemy, Chap. 10. 3, 4. fulfilled in part, as the Rabbins obſerve, in Ezekiah's meſſage to Sennacherib, 2 King. 18. 14. and in his meſſengers ſpeech to Rabſhakeh, 2 King. 18.26.

thou ſhalt be brought down, and ſpeak out of the ground] Heb. thou ſhalt be laid low, ſhalt ſpeak out of the ground, or, from off the ground; and afterward, out of the duſt: that is, by an Hebraiſm, thou ſhalt ſpeak demiſely or, dejectedly from off the ground, and out of the duſt. Like one that lyeth on the ground, in the duſt; as poor priſoners, and captives are wont to do, Chap. 47.1. & 52.2. For the phraſe, ſee on ver. 1. and the like alſo, Hoſ. 9. 9. They have made deep, have corrupted themſelves: that is, They have deeply corrupted themſelves. And 1 Sam. 2. 3. a place parallel to this, do not multiply, ſpeak not ſo proudly; that is, ſpeak no more ſo proudly.

be low] Be abated, and abaſed. See both words, this, and the former, likewiſe together, Chap. 2. 6. & 5.15.

as one that hath a familiar ſpirit] Who uſed to mutter their ſpels, or give out their anſwers, in a low and obſcure manner, many times, not intelligible. See Chap. 8. 19.

out of the ground] Alluding, it may be, unto thoſe caves and holes, out of the Devil, ſometime, inſpired his agents, and uttered his oracles.

whiſper out of the duſt] Heb. peep, or, hiſs, Chap. 8. 19. Like the hiſſing of a ſerpent out of his hole, Jer. 46.22.

V. 5. Moreover the multitude of thy ſtrangers, ſhall be like ſmal duſt, and the multitude of thy terrible ones, ſhall be as chaff, that paſſeth away, yea, it ſhall be at an inſtant, ſuddenly] All thy helps, and ſtrength, either from abroad, or at home, be they never either ſo many, or ſo mighty, ſhall fail thee, ſhall ſtand thee in no ſtead; for they ſhall like duſt, or chaff, be alſo ſuddenly blown away, as with a whirlwind. Yet the Jewiſh Commenters, whom ſome of ours alſo follow, underſtand all this, and what followeth, ver. 6. Not of the Inhabitants of Jeruſalem, but of the Aſſyrians, that beleagured it. And of theſe, ſome expound it of the numberleſs number of them, and the ſwiftneſſe of their approach, Job 27. 16. Ezek. 26.10. Others, of their ſtrange diſperſion, and ſudden deſtruction. To which purpoſe, ſee Chap. 17.13. See the like, Chap. 41.15, 16. But the context ſeems to run the other way.

ſmall duſt] An emphatical expreſſion: for the ſubſtantive it ſelf, ſignifies ſmall duſt, diſtinguiſhed from duſt, in general Deut. 28. 24. and the adjective, properly, ground to powder, Numb. 16. 12. See Chap. 40. 15. ſuch as every puff of wind, ſoon diſperſeth, Pſal. 18.42.

thy terrible ones] Some, thine oppreſſors; applying this, as ſtrangers, before, to Sennacheribs forces; as Chap. 25.4. Other, thy tyrants, or, roiſters: underſtanding it of thoſe great ones, among themſelves, that domineered over the meaner ſort, and in whoſe might, being alſo military men, they much confided, Chap. 28. 14, 15.

as chaff that paſſeth away] Not able to ſtand before the wind, Pſal. 35. 5. See Lam. 1. 15.

it ſhall be at an inſtant ſuddenly] Or, for an inſtant. Some expound it of the help and relief, that forrein forces, or others, beſides their own, ſhould afford them, which ſhould not laſt long, but be ſuddenly blaſted, Jer. 37.7. Others, of their affliction and diſtreſſe, that it ſhould in an inſtant be over, Chap. 17. 14. Others, of the enemies expedition, in the execution of Gods judgments upon them, Chap. 28.19. & 30.13. Jer. 4. 20. & 6.26. & 15.8. and this ſeems moſt probable.

V. 6. Thou ſhalt be viſited of the Lord of hoſts, with thunder, and with earthquake, and with great noiſe, with ſtorm and tempeſt, and the flame of devouring fire] In a moſt dreadfull and direfull manner, will God execute his judgments upon thee, as if heaven and earth conſpired together, and all the elements concurred to the working of thy ruine. This Some underſtand of the deſtruction of the Aſſyrian forces, by the miniſtery of an Angel: of which, ſee Chap. 30.27, 28, 30, 31. Others, of the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, by the Chaldeans, Chap. 24.17, 18. Lam. 1. 12, 13. & 2. 1, 5. ſee the like expreſſions, Pſal. 11. 6. chap. 13. 13.

thunder] Pſal. 18. 12-14. Rev. 8. 5. earth-quake] 1 Sam. 14. 15. Pſal. 18. 7. chap. 2. 19, 21. Rev. 16. 18.

noiſe] Heb. voice: as Exod. 20. 18. Rev. 8. 5. thunder Gods voice, Pſal. 29. 3-9. great noiſe, or voice, great cracks of thunder, Pſal. 77. 17, 18. ſee chap. 30. 30, 31.

ſtorm and tempeſt] Or, ſtormy tempeſt: ſee chap. 4. 6. both joyned, as here: ſo Amos 1. 14. Nah. 1. 3.

flame of devouring fire] Chap. 5. 24. & 9. 5. & 26. 11. & 30. 30. Lam. 2. 3.

V. 7. And the multitude of all the Nations, that fight againſt Ariel, even all that fight againſt her, and her munition, and that diſtreſſe her, ſhall be as the dream of a night viſion.] This verſe, and the next, ſome expound of the fruſtration of the vain hopes that Sennacherib had conceived of ſurprizing Jeruſalem, which ſuddenly vaniſhed away, like a dream when a man awaketh, Job 20. 8. Pſal. 73. 20. ſee chap. 17. 13, 14. others, of the eagerneſſe, and inſatiableneſſe of the Chaldeans, in the purſuit and execution of their cruelty, againſt, and upon Gods people: ſee ver. 8.

all the Nations] As ſome, the Aſſyrians and their Aſſociates, chap. 10. 8. & 17. 13. as others, the Chaldeans, and their complices, 2 King. 24. 2. Jer. 1. 15.

that fight] Or, war, Zach. 14. 12. or, in troops aſſemble: as Exod. 38. 8.

againſt Ariel] Jeruſalem: ſee ver. 1, 2, 8.

as a dream] They ſhall be as a dream: that is, it ſhall be with them, as with a man in a dream: ſee the like, Mat. 13. 24, 45. & 18. 23. & 20. 1. & 22. 2. & 25. 1, 14.

a night viſion.] Heb. viſion of the night, Job 4. 13. & 20. 8. & 33. 15.

V. 8. It ſhall be, as when an hungry man dreameth, and behold he eateth; but he awaketh, and his ſoul is empty: or, as when a thirſty man dreameth, and behold he drinketh; but he awaketh, and behold he is faint, and his ſoul hath appetite: ſo ſhall the multitude of all Nations be, that fight againſt mount Zion.] The Prophet here more particularly declares, what manner of dream it was, that he intended, ver. 7. ſuch an one, wherein a man being hungry and thirſty, hath ſome imaginary refreſhing and ſatiſfaction, while he is aſleep, which vaniſheth and proveth nothing at all when he awaketh. So did Sennacherib's dream, that he fed himſelf with, concerning the ſurpriſal of Jeruſalem, chap. 10. 10, 11. & 36. 18-20. & 37. 10, 12. But the ſimilitude ſorteth no leſs fitly, with the Chaldeans inſatiable cruelty, and thirſt after bloud, when they might ſeem to have been glutted with it, that they were ſtill no leſs greedy of it, then a man, thirſty, is of drink, for all that which he ſeemed to have drunk in his dream, 2 Chr. 36. 17. Jer. 51. 35. moſt apparently verified in the ſpiritual Babylon, which though drunk again and again with the bloud of Gods ſervants; yet unto drunkenneſſe, ſtill addeth thirſt, Deut. 29. 19. Rev. 17. 6. & 18. 24.

he awaketh, and his ſoul is empty] Or, when he awaketh, his ſoul is empty: as Prov. 6. 12. chap. 40. 31. his ſoul, for himſelf: he is ſtill empty; he is never a whit fuller, for all he did eat in his ſleep: ſo my ſoul, for my ſelf, Pſal. 57. 4. empty: as, Ezek. 24. 11.

but] Heb. and: as ver. 9. chap. 51. 6.

but he awaketh] Or, but when he awaketh, behold he is faint, or a thirſt: as Jer. 31. 25.

his ſoul hath appetite] He is as eagerly deſirous of drink, as before; though in his dream, he ſeemed to have drunk largly: ſee the ſame phraſe, Pſal. 107. 9.

ſo ſhall the multitude be] So it ſhall be with them; as ver. 7.

mount Zion] Jeruſalem; as Pſal. 48. 11. Chap. 3. verſ. 17.

V.9. Stay your ſelves, and wonder, cry ye out, and cry] The Prophet having given warning of thoſe heavy judgments of God, before mentioned, doth in the next place complain of, and wonder at the ſtrange ſtupidity, and deep ſecurity, of thoſe among his people, that no whit regarded what had bin threatned; but did ſtill, as freely, as ever, abandon themſelves unto all ſenſuality and exceſs: ſee the like, chap.5.11, 12. & 22.12,13. & 28.5-15.

ſtay your ſelves, and wonder;] The Prophet here, as moſt Interpreters take it, turneth his ſpeech unto the pious party, inviting and inciting them, to admire at, and lament for, the obſtinate perſiſtance of a great party among them. The words are by ſome read, They delay (Pſal.119.60. to wit, to return unto God, by humiliation and reformation, Ier.13.27.) and wonder ye at it; a defect of the pronoun; as chap.28.20. For thoſe that render them, wonder, and wonder. as Hab.1.5. that is, wonder exceedingly, or, again, and again, miſtake the latter word, being deceived with the affinity, that it hath in ſound with the former.

cry ye out, and cry,] So ſome other verſions; but the former word is never found in that notion; but conſtantly, in a ſignification of delight, or ſport, Pſal.94.19. & 119.16,70. chap.11.8. & 66.12. and ſome other therefore render it, They take their pleaſure, or ſport it (as Iob 21.10,12. Amos 6.3-6. 1 Tim.5.6. Iam.5.5.) but cry ye out, lamenting their folly, Ezek.9.4. Howbeit, ſome would have both this, and the former, to be ſpoken unto the worſe party, reading the words; Stay ſtill, and be ſtupid, riot and revell it: yet not ſeriouſly, but in way of deriſion; as Eccl.11.9. or, of them, as others, who thus render them, They have blinded themſelves, and are blind: as Chap. 6.10. & ver.10. But the words, here, and there, are not the ſame: There is in both branches, a pleaſant tune of words, which our Engliſh cannot ſo fitly expreſs; ſomewhat like, as if it were ſaid, They ſtay, but ſtare ye; they riot, but roar ye: but the words of ſtaring and roaring, will not ſo well fit here.

they are drunk, but not with wine; they ſtagger, but not with ſtrong drink] They are dulled in their underſtanding, lulled aſleep in their ſinfull practices, unſteady in their courſes, as ſecure, as men drowned in drink; and by reaſon thereof, in a deep, or dead ſleep: ſo Chap.19.14. See the ſame phraſe in another ſenſe, Chap.51.21.

but] Heb. and, as ver.8,13.

not with wine] This is not ſo much; or, not onely with wine; but with a ſpirit of ſtupidity, which God in his juſt judgment hath caſt them into, v.10. ſee the like, Deut.5.3. Jer.7.22. Hoſ.6.6. the negative is not abſolute, but comparative: for to drunkenneſs and ſenſuality, they were, alſo, exceſſively given, Chap.28.7,8. there is in either branch a defect of the prepoſition: as Chap. 28. 28. expreſſed, Chap. 28. 7.

ſtagger] As Chap.24.19. or, ſtray; as Gen.4.14. Ier.14.10. but here the former rather.

V.10. For the Lord hath poured out upon you, the ſpirit of deep ſleep, and hath cloſed your eyes:] One ground, and cauſe of their extream ſtupidity and ſecurity, is here rendred; to wit, for that, in his juſt judgment, for their wilfull obſtinacy, God had given them up unto a further degree of ſtupidity and blindneſs; by withdrawing that light from them, againſt which they had rebelled, Iob 24.13. Chap.63.10. it is a juſt thing with God, when men wilfully wink, to daſh out their eyes, Ioh.3.2. & 9.39-41. Rom. 1.18,28. 2 Theſ. 2. 10-12.

the Lord hath poured out] See the like, Chap.19.14. and the Apoſtles allegation of this place, Rom.11.8.

poured out] As the word is uſed, Exod.30.9. Hoſ.9.4. yet the Jewiſh Doctors would have it rather here rendred, covered; as the notion of the word is, Chap.25.8. & 28.20. & 30.1. that it may anſwer the word uſed in the cloſe of the verſe. But the notions here, and there, are divers: for here the alluſion is to ſome ſoperiferous potion, or medicine, that being miniſtred to a man, or ſprinkled upon him, ſo as to bedew him, caſteth him into a deep ſleep: whereas, there it is to ſome film, that groweth over the ſight, or ſome veil, that covering the eyes, hinders the ſight, that there is an eye to, Chap. 19. 14. (a place parallel to this) to this latter, chap.25.7.

the ſpirit of deep ſleep] Or, a ſpirit: for there is no article in the text. In Hebrew there are three ſeverall words; whereof one ſignifies to ſlumber, chap.56.10. Pſal.121.3. another, to ſleep, Pſal.76.5. and 121.4. a third, to be in a deep ſleep, Iudg. 4.21. Pſal.76.6. and thence the word here uſed, and Gen.2.21. & 15.12. 1 Sam.26.12. Iob 4.13. & 33.15. Prov.19.15. the Apoſtle uſeth a word, wherewith the ancient Greek rendred it, which properly indeed ſignifies compunction, according to the notion of the verb, whence it is regularly derived: but the Authors of that verſion, as they coined many words, after an unuſuall ſtamp; ſo it is not unlikely, that they did the like with this, deducing it from a word, that ſignifies night, the time of ſleep, thereby to expreſs the word here uſed.

hath cloſed your eyes] The word here uſed in the firſt Light form, ſignifieth to ſhut ones own eyes, chap.33.14. in the firſt grave form, anothers, ſo here. See chap.6.10.

eyes] Not of the body, but of the mind; as Num. 24.17. Deut.28.2,4. Pſal.119.18. Eph.1.18.

the Prophets, and your Rulers, the ſeers hath he covered] This heavy judgment of obduration and execation, hath not befallen the meaner and common ſort of people only; but the principal ones, alſo, in either State, as well Eccleſiaſtical, as Civil, that ſhould have been as lights and guides to others.

the Prophets] To wit, the falſe ones: yet ſo called; becauſe they pretended, and profeſſed themſelves to be ſuch; ſo Ier. 5.31. & 6.13.

and your Rulers, the Seers] Heb. and your heads, the Seers; which ſome expound, even your chiefeſt, or principal (to wit, in your account) Seers: Head, for chief: as Exod.30.23. 1 Chr. 12.18. Seers, for Prophets: as chap.30.10. others, and your Rulers, the ſeeing ones; that is, the wiſeſt and prudenteſt of them, ver.14. Heads, for Rulers: as Num.1.16. ſeeing, for underſtanding: as Prov. 20. 12. or, your Rulers, the Seers; becauſe the Prophets, in thoſe diſtracted times, took upon to rule and govern, Ier.5.31. & 28.8.

hath be covered] he hath covered them, with that miſt of ſpirituall blindneſs and darkneſs, Mic.3.6,7. v.14. or, as I ſuppoſe, the words ſhould be rendred, the eyes of the Prophets, and of your Princes, together, with the Seers, hath he covered, chap. 25.7. the word eyes, is ſupplyed from the foregoing branch: the like whereunto, ſee Iob 22.24. chap.58.13. Dan. 4.33. Rev.11.15.

V.11. And the viſion of all is become unto you, as the words of a book that is ſealed] A ſad effect of this dreadfull judgment; to wit, that all Gods warnings and meſſag[illegible]ered to them by his Prophets, ſhould no more be regarded by them; nor they conceive any underſtanding or benefit from them; then a man, though he can read, by a book, or letter tendred to him, ſo long as it is ſealed up; or, a man that cannot read, whether it be ſealed, or unſealed.

the viſion of all] To wit, of all Gods Prophets, whom he ſendeth on meſſages to you; or all their meſſages and ſermons, chap.1.1. or, every viſion, that is, all teaching: as Prov.29.18.

of a book that is ſealed] As books ſometime were, Dan.12.9. Rev.5.1. or, of an epiſtle, or letter: as 2 King. 5.4. & 10.1. Ier. 29. 1. for ſuch were commonly, as now, ſo then, ſealed, 1 King.21.8. Eſt. 3. 12,13. & 8.8. as deeds & evidences alſo were, Ier.32.11.

which men deliver to one that is learned] Heb. which they give it: (a familiar and frequent redundancy, in that language; as Pſal.1.4.) which they give (that is, which is delivered, or given: as Gen.40.15. Rev.4.19. ſo ver.12.) to one that knoweth a book, or a letter: that is ſkilfull in the book, or letter, that is able to read it, or on it: a knowing man, for a ſkilfull, or cunning man, Gen. 25. 27. 1 Sam. 16. 17, 18. 1 King. 5.6.

ſaying, read this, I pray thee] Heb. word for word, cry this: as chap.40.6. Zach.1.16,17. but it is uſed, alſo, commonly for reading, Deut.31.11. Neh.8.3,8. Ier.36.6,23. becauſe in reading, the voyce is wont to be lift up, that it may be the better heard, by thoſe, for whom, or to whom, ought is read. Hence the Reading among the Jewiſh Criticks, diſtinguiſhed from the writing, when the letter of the text is read otherwiſe, then it is written; and thence alſo, the Turks Alcoran, or Law, hath its name.

and he ſaith, I cannot, for it is ſealed] For neither book, nor letter, can be read, untill the ſeal be broken up, Rev.5.2-5. the whole ſentence may thus be rendred; which when it is delivered to one that can read, ſaying, read this, I pray thee; he ſaith, I cannot, becauſe it is ſealed. See chap.8.16. & 28.25.

V. 12. And the book is delivered to one that is not learned, ſaying, read this, I pray thee; and he ſaith, I am not learned] Or, And when the book, or letter, is delivered to one that cannot read; ſaying, read this, I pray thee; he ſaith, I cannot read. So they of our Saviour, How knoweth this man letters, having not learned them? Ioh.7.15. and of ſome of the Apoſtles, it is ſaid, they were illiterate men; that is, not trained up in School-learning, Act.4.13.

delivered to] Heb. given upon: but ſo the particle is uſed, Ioſh.2.8. 1 Sam.2.11.

that is not learned] Heb. that knoweth not to read: and ſo afterward, I know not to read; that is, I cannot read: knoweth not, for cannot: as Ier.8.12.

V.13. Wherefore, the Lord ſaid, Foraſmuch, as this people draw neer me with their mouth, and with their lips do honour me, but have removed their heart far from me; and their fear towards me, is taught by the precept of men] Another cauſe, or reaſon is here rendred, of Gods ſo ſevere proceeding in judgment; as before, their ſtupidity, ſenſuality, and ſecurity, ver. 9-12. ſo now their meer formality in Gods ſervice and Worſhip, which they frequented and performed, only in regard of humane, either tradition, teaching; or authority maintaining and enjoyning it: ſee Mat.15.8. Mar.7.6.

Wherefore] Heb. and; as Chap. 8.2. or, Moreover, as ver.5.

Draw near me, with their mouth] worſhip me in hypocriſy, not in ſincerity, with the outward man, and diſpoſition of body; but not with the inward man, and affection of mind, chap.48.1,2. & 58.2,3. Ier.12.2. Ezek.14.3,4. & 33.31. mouth, for mouths; and heart, for hearts; as ly, for lies, Chap.28.15. and ſo precept, for precepts.

but their heart] Heb. and; as ver.9.

their fear towards me] That is, worſhip of me; fear, for worſhip: as 2 King.17.32,33.

is taught] Is taught them: a defect of the pronoun: as Chap.13.8,15.

by the precept of men] Either their religion is not according to my mind; but according to mens devices, conſiſting in the obſervation of humane traditions, Ier.7.31. Hoſ.5.11. Mat.15.3,9. Col.2.22. or, all their devotion under their religious Kings, was not hearty, but for their command only, 2 King.23.22-26. 2 Chr.17.2. Ier.3.10.

of men] Not ſent by God, not taught of him, ſay ſome, Ier.23.16,17,21,22. but it ſeems to be more large, as was before ſhewed.

V.14. Therefore, behold I will proceed to do a marvellous work amongſt this people, even, a marvellous work & a wonder] A ſtrang judgment denounced againſt them, for this their hypocriſie, and formality; ſo far, from being pleaſing or acceptable to God, that it is moſt odious and abominable in his ſight, chap.1.11-15. & 66.3.

I will proceed] Heb. I will add, as v.1. chap.7.10. the ſyntax ſeems irregular, both here, and chap.38.5. the verb being of the third perſon: the like whereunto, the Jewiſh Criticks obſerve, Pſal.6.2. Ezek.9.8. Now, this to ſalve, ſome of them, under the words, I am he that will add. Others ſuppoſe it a participle, or a noun, as one of the ſame making, Pſal.16.5. thou art maintaining, or the maintainer of my lot: ſee on chap.28.16.

to do a marvellous work] Heb. to do, or deal marvellouſly as Iudg.13.19. chap.28.29. Joel 2.26.

amongſt this people] Heb, with this people.

even a marvellous work] The word, even, being not in the original, is here needleſs: the word is, according to ſome, a verb; and then the text runs thus. I will further deal marvellouſly; dealing marvellouſly; that is, I will deal exceedingly marvellouſly: ſuch like repetitions, ſee chap.24.3,16,19. but I take it, rather, for a noun; becauſe I find it ſo uſed, 2 Chr.2.8. and the word coupled with it, there prefixed, here annexed, ſeems to require it. So taking it, the words may well be rendred, I will deal marvellouſly with this people, by a marvellous thing, and a miracle; for the word work, is not in the Hebrew text.

a marvellous work, and a wonder] The words are two of the very ſame notion, and derived from the ſame root, or verb, even that here uſed, and may, for variety, be rendred, a marvellous thing, and a miracle, both uſed, and joyned, to expreſs, more emphatically, the exceeding ſtrangeneſſe, of that God intended to do. See the very like, ver.2. whether this ſo marvellous and miraculous buſineſs, be the infatuating of their wiſe counſellors, and turning of their wiſdome into folly: as 2 Sam.15.31. or, the ſtrange change and alteration, in the land and State, v.17. is not certain.

for the wiſdome of their wiſe men ſhall periſh, and the underſtanding of their prudent men ſhall be hid] Their wiſe men, and great Politicians, whoſe counſels they ſo much rely upon, accounting them as oracles, 2 Sam.16.23. ſhall be infatuated; and all their prudent, and provident plots and projects come to nought, chap.19.11-14. v.15,16. chap.31.1,2. Ier.49.7. Obad.8. Rom.1.22. 1 Cor.1.19,20. & 3.19,20. This the more ſtrange; becauſe done with that people, whoſe Governours God had promiſed to endow with wiſdome; but now threatens, for their unthankfulneſs and miſdemeanours, to deprive them again of it: ſee chap.28.5,21.

for] Heb. and; as chap.20.17. Howbeit, the copulative may well ſtand; and the meaning then be, that all the wiſdom and policy, which their Stateſmen, the wiſeſt of them, ſhall uſe to prevent, or avert this ſtrange act that God intendeth, ſhall be utterly fruſtrate, ver.16.

the wiſdome] Their State-skill, together with all their deep projects, v.16.

ſhall periſh] As Ier.18.18. & 49.7. Mic.4.9.

ſhall be hid] Heb. ſhall hide it ſelf: as Chap.45.15. hiding thy ſelf: but the reciprocall form, is ſometime uſed for the paſſive, Num.1.46. Judg.20.15. either ſhall not appear, and ſhew forth it ſelf, whether for confuſion, and uncertainty, what to act or adviſe, chap.19.14. or for diſtraction and fear, to deliver their minds freely, Amos 5.13. Or, ſhall be covered over with that miſt, or veil of ſtupidity, and blockiſhneſs, that God threatned to involve them in, ver.10. or, ſhall depart from them; as Gen.31.49. when we ſhall be hid: that is, ſhall have departed, and be abſent one from another. So Joh.12.36. He departed, and was hid: That is, abſented himſelf from them: or, ſhall vaniſh away, and periſh, be utterly loſt: as ſome take the word, Prov.28.28. It ſeems the ſame with the former branch, in other terms; and the Prophet may well be deemed, in the uſe of the word, to have an eye to what follows, ver.15. Of their contriving, and plotting things ſo cloſely, as to conceal them from God himſelf. As if he had ſaid, Ye make account, to have your counſels hidden from God; and by his juſt judgment, they ſhall ſo be hid, that either they ſhall never come to light, or ſhall be utterly fruſtrate, and vaniſh away, if they do.

V.15. Wo unto them that ſeek deep to hide their counſel from the Lord; and their works are in the dark, and they ſay, who ſeeth us? and who knoweth us?] Theſe words may well be read, as by way of compellation: O ye, that hide your counſel too deep for the Lord, whoſe doings are in the dark, and that ſay, Who can ſee us? or who can know us? The perſons, here ſpoken of, ſeem thoſe ſcoffing Statiſts, that derided all that the Prophets ſpake; and by their wiles and ſhifts, made account that they were ſufficiently able to ſecure themſelves, whatſoever ſhould come, or howſoever it ſhould fare with others; Ch.28.14,15,22. Nor is it unlikely, but that they would promiſe the like ſecurity unto others, with whom they were in eſteem, as great wiſards of State: but as God, before, threatned to infatuate them, and turn their wiſdom into folly; ſo he now further telleth them, that albeit, their devices and deſigns be ſo cunningly contrived, and ſo cloſely and covertly carried, that, in their conceit, they ſeemed to be deeper, and more abſtruſe, then God himſelf was able to deſcry and diſcover; yet they ſhould no more be able, either to conceal themſelves, and their plots, from him, or to bring to effect, ought, that he intended to croſs them in, then the potters clay is able to keep out of his ſight, when he hath it in his hand, or to mould it ſelf into any other frame, then he is pleaſed to work it to.

Wo unto them] Or, Ye. Of the compellation, ſee Chap.10.5. & 18.1. Of the change of the perſon, ſee Job 18.4. and Chap.30.19.

that ſeek deep to hide their counſel from the Lord] That is, as ſome, that take counſel in ſecret with themſelves only, not conſulting with God, or ſeeking to him for direction, or aſſiſtance, Chap.31.1. But the words ſeem rather, to intend ſomewhat elſe: and they lye thus in the text, that make deep from the Lord, to hide counſel. where there are two Hebraiſms, which being opened, will much clear the text. The former is, in making deep to hide, for, to make deep to hide; is nothing elſe, but to hide deep; as, to make deep to dwell, is, to dwell deep, Jer.49.8,15. See alſo, Chap.31.6. The latter is, in making deep from the Lord; for, to make deep from the Lord, is, to make too deep for the Lord; to wit, to deſcry, or diſcover: as, deep, from hell, or, the grave, long from the earth; broad from the ſea; that is, deeper then hell, or, the grave; longer then the earth; broader then the ſea, Job 11.8,9. The meaning then is plain, conceived according to their intent, or conceit, concerning their own contrivances; that think, or make account to hide your counſels ſo deep, that God himſelf cannot ſee them. So of Nabal his ſervants, He is a ſon of Belial, from to ſpeak, or, ſpeaking to him: that is, He is ſuch a ſon of Belial, that one cannot ſpeak to him; as our verſion well rendreth it, 1 Sam.25.17. See alſo, Chap.23.1. There is, in the words, a metaphor, taken from the practice of thoſe that dig deep to hide ought, that they would not have found out. See Prov.20.5. Job 12.22. Pſal.64.6.

their works are in the dark] Or, whoſe doings are in the dark, in ſecret, out of ſight; as things that are ſtowed, or done in dark places, cannot be ſeen without light, Pſal.11.2. & 64.2,4. Job 24.13-17. as if any darkneſs could hide from God, or any ſecret place exclude his eye-ſight, Job 34.21,22. Pſal.139.11,12. Prov.5.21. & 15.3,11.

and ſay, Who ſeeth us? and, Who knoweth us?] Or, Who can ſee? or, Who can know us? That is, can deſcry, or know what we do. Meaning that none could, no not God himſelf, Job 22.11-14. Pſal.10.11,13. & 64.5. & 94.7. the future, for the potential; as Job 38.31,32,33,34,35,37. and the copulative for the disjunctive; as Judg.11.31. Job 31.5,7,9. ver.16.

V.16. Surely your turning of things upſide down, ſhall be eſteemed, as the potters clay] Heb. Your turning upſide down, (as 2 King.21.13.) or, rolling to and fro, (as Hoſ.11.8.) or, changing, and turning into new ſhapes, (as Exod.7.15. Levit.13.3. 1 Sam.10.6.) if as the potters clay it ſhall be accounted. But the particle, if, is, in Scripture, oft uſed, not as a conditional, but as a note of aſſeveration and aſſurance; as Prov.3.34. & 23.18. So the Hebrew writers here expound it. Howbeit, I conceive the word, rendred if, to be, here, rather an interrogative; as oft it is, Job 8.3. & 11. 2. & 17. 2. & 39.27. and the negative omitted oft, in ſuch forms of interrogation, (that which hath not hitherto, by any, been obſerved) ought to be ſupplyed. So 1 Sam.2.27,28. Did I not appear to thy fathers houſe? and did I not chooſe him? and did I not give to thy fathers houſe? Job 20. 4. Knoweſt thou not this of old? where our verſion hath ſupplyed it. And Job 21. 4. Is not my complaint to man? where our verſion hath omitted it. See more hereof, on Jer. 31.20. And ſo the words may be rendred, Shall it not be accounted as the potters clay? or, as clay to the potter? as if he had ſaid, Yes, undoubtedly, it ſhall. So this, in ſenſe, comes fully home to the former: as the like twofold verſion, Pſal.63. 6. And the meaning, either way rendred, Your turning of things upſide down, to conceal your intended courſes, as men whelm a diſh, or veſſel, to keep what is in it, or under it, out of ſight, Mat.5.15. or, that which you roll up and down in your thoughts, deviſing how to contrive it, with the greateſt cunning, and probability of ſucceſſe, to that purpoſe, caſting it now into one frame, and then into another ſhape, until you have moulded it to your minde; lyeth as open to Gods eye, as the faſhion of the pot of clay, doth to the potter, when he hath it before him, upon the wheel; and he is as able to quaſh it all, as the potter is to mar, and alter the faſhion of the veſſel, when the making of it likes him not, Jer. 18. 3,6. & 19.9,10. Job 12. 22. & 26.6. Pſal.33.10,15. Prov. 15. 19. Heb.4.12, 13. Yet there want not that render it, Your turning, or, contriving of things, is, as if the clay were accounted the potter; or, as if the potter were reputed as the clay. And as others, again, O your perverſeneſs! as if the potter were accounted no better, or no other, then the clay. But the former ſeems more natural; and is the more received, both with Jewiſh, and other writers.

for ſhall the work ſay of him that made it, He made me not? or ſhall the thing framed, ſay of him that framed it, He hath no underſtanding? Or, as ſome render it; for it is as if the work ſhould ſay of the workman, He made me not; or the thing framed, ſhould ſay of him that framed it, He underſtandeth me not. That is, your vain imagination, in ſuppoſing that you can conceal ought that you do, or deviſe, from God, is even, as if the veſſel, framed by the potter, ſhould, if it could ſpeak, ſay, that he is ignorant of the faſhion of it, and by conſequence deny, that ever he made it. For ſure, if they did believe that God made them, they could not, but withal conceive, that he cannot be ignorant of ought, in his own work, Pſal.33. 15. & 94.8-11. & 139. 1-5,13-15. 1 Chr.28.9. Amos 4.13. See Chap. 45.9,10.

for ſhall the work ſay] Or, for it is, as if the work ſhould ſay. See the like conciſe forms, Joſh.2. 12. Eſth. 2.20. Chap.18.3. & 54.9. & 55. 9. Howbeit, the particle is uſed for an interrogative, Chap. 36. 19. and may ſo be here.

of him] Heb. to him. So Chap.23.5. & 27.2.

or] Heb. and: ſo ver.15.

the thing framed] The word is applyed to the frame of mans, both body and ſoul, Job 17.8. Pſal. 103.14. and to the imaginations of mans heart, Gen. 6.5. Deut.31.21. 1 Chr.29. 18. Properly, potters work; but uſed, more generally, for any kinde of frame, Hab.2.18.

of him that framed it] Or, of its potter. The word before uſed, to keep to the compariſon. So Chap. 64. 8.

he hath no underſtanding] Or, he underſtandeth me not. He knoweth not what my faſhion is: Applyed to man, in regard of God, he knoweth not what I think, or do, Pſal. 94. 7. The pronoun is to be ſupplyed, from the branch before going; as Chap.58.13. See the like defect, Job 16. 8, 9. and 29. 11.

V. 17. Is it yet not a very little while, and Lebanon ſhall be turned into a fruitful field, and the fruitful field ſhall be eſteemed as a foreſt] Heb. Lebanon ſhall return to Carmel, and Carmel be counted for a wood, or a foreſt. This ſome expound of a general devaſtation of the land; that mount-Lebanon, being a place ſtored with goodly tall cedars, ſhould become like Carmel, a place that had much earable ground, her cedars, and other tall trees being felled, and the Carmel of it, that is, their earable land, and places planted with vines, and other fruitful trees, ſhould be ſo over-grown with ſhrubs, and wilde plants, no man dreſſing, or manuring them, that they ſhould ſeem to be as a foreſt. That, ſay they, which was effected by Sennacheribs army, over-running the whole country, Chap.7.23,24. & 37. 24. and came to paſſe, within a ſhort time after this prophecy. See ver.1. And the letter of the text ſeems to look this way. Yet others expound it parabollically, that the proud, lofty ones, like the cedars, ſhould be pulled down; and low, and lowly ones, like the plants of Carmel, ſhould be exalted: which, ſome of them, ſuppoſe fulfilled, in the breaking up of Sennacheribs Camp, what time, the proud Aſſyrians were abaſed, and the Jews, in a very low condition, advanced, Chap.10.12,18,34. Others, in the Chaldean invaſion, when the great ones, were either ſlain, or carried captive, and the poor ſort onely ſpared, 2 King.25.6,7,12,18-21. Chap. 2. 12, 13,17. & 6.15,17. & 7.21,22. & 40. 5. Luk. 1. 52. & 18. 14. See v.20,21. Others again, refer it to the times of the Meſſias, as importing a rejection of the Jews, and calling in of the Gentiles, that the Gentiles, who had been as ſavages, or as wild foreſts, fraught with barren and fruitleſſe trees, ſhould, by ſpiritual managing and manuring, become orderly and fruitful; whereas the Jewiſh people that had been managed, and manured before, ſhould grow wilde and ſavage then. Now thoſe all that thus expound this paſſage, ſeem to make it rather a commination, indeed, then a promiſe; whereas, both by what here enſueth; as alſo by Chap. 32, 15. where the very ſame is repeated, it appeareth, rather, to be a very gracious promiſe, of the great fertility and fruitfulneſs, that God would abundantly bleſſe their land with, upon the reſtitution of their State, either after the Aſſyrian devaſtation, Chap.37.30,31. or after the Babylonian deportation, Jer.31.12. or both: ſee Chap.4. 2. So great, as ſome expound it, that the wilde places, that now lay foreſt like, untilled, ſhould become as fertile, as thoſe places that are, at preſent, manured, and yield the moſt fruit; and thoſe places that are now moſt fertile, ſhould then ſo abound with fruit, that they might well be reckoned, but as wilde woods, in regard of what then they ſhould be. Or rather, as with the Jewiſh Commenters, I conceive it, that the wooddy, like Lebanon, that yielded nothing but matter for building and fuel, ſhould then be tilled, as Carmel, to yield grain and fruit, affording plenty of food; and thoſe that had been before ſuch, as were now ſo tilled, ſhould be ſo repleniſhed with corn, and fruitful trees, that they ſhould ſeem to be, as a wood. See Pſal. 72. 16. This I ſuppoſe to be the firſt, proper, and literal ſenſe of the words: which if any yet deem, further, to intimate the abundance of graces, in the Kingdom of Chriſt, I ſhall not contend with him. See Chap.30.25,26. & 32. 15. & 35.1,2.

a very little while] Heb. a little ſmall; as ch. 10. 25. and it may ſeem to have reference to the Aſſyrian invaſion, and the conſequents thereof, both here and there, albeit, that ſome paſſages before, ver.2.8. ſeem to reach further.

Lebanon] Of this mountain, ſee on Chap.2.13. It is ſometime uſed for lofty, and ſtately places and perſons, as there; and chap.10. 34. Jer. 22. 23. but here for wild, and untilled places, as appears by chap.32:15. where that is termed wilderneſs, that is here called Lebanon.

ſhall be turned into] Heb. ſhall return to. He ſeemeth to allude to their turnings, and windings, verſ.16. which ſhould be frivolous, and fruſtrate; and to foretel, for the comfort of the faithful, another manner of turning, and change, that God himſelf would work for his, without any plots, or projects of theirs.

a fruitful field] Heb. Carmel. The word, primarily, ſignifies a green, or full, as ſome, ear of corn, Levit. 2. 14. & 23. 14. 2 King. 4. 42. From whence, grounds earable, or, cornfields, are thought to have been firſt ſo termed; though afterward it were enlarged to ſuch lands, as were not ſowen with, or ſet apart for corn onely; but tilled, and manured for other purpoſes, and planted with vines, fig-trees, olive-trees, and the like, oppoſed therefore, to woods and foreſts, or wilderneſſes; that were ſuffered to run wilde, or to lye waſte, and were ſtored, onely, with fruitleſs trees, Cant.2.3. chap. 10. 18. & 16. 10. & 32. 15, 16. & 37. 24. And in regard of much ground of that nature, lying on, and about them, ſome places in the land of Judah and Iſrael, had that name, in more ſpecial manner, appropriated unto them, Joſh.15. 55. & 19. 46. chap. 33. 9. See chap.10.18.

ſhall be eſteemed as a foreſt] Heb. ſhall be accounted for a foreſt. Or, be counted a foreſt: Shall ſeem to be ſuch.

V. 18. In that day, ſhall the deaf hear the words of the book, and the eyes of the blinde ſhall ſee out of obſcurity, and out of darkneſs] Our Prophet here, after his uſual manner, beginneth to cloſe up his Sermon with matter of comfort, in the better information, and reformation of ſome that had been ignorant, and averſe, ver. 18. the confirmation, and abundant conſolation of the godly, ver.19. the confuſion, and deſtruction of thoſe that had wronged and oppreſſed them, ver. 20, 21. the vindication of them from their former ſhame and reproach, ver.22. the propagation, and enlargement of the Church, by converſion of many proſelytes, ver. 23,24. All which ſeems to have been, in part, made good to that people, in thoſe times, but was to be more plentifully fulfilled, in the Kingdom of Chriſt.

In that day] When theſe afflictions before-mentioned ſhall befall this people: as Chap.2.7. & 4.1. or, after the time, that theſe afflictions have befallen them, and the Land and State reformed by them, the obſtinate wicked ones being deſtroyed, and the reſidue reclaimed and refined, Chap.1.25,28. as chap. 4.2.

ſhall the deaf hear, --and the eyes of the blind ſhall ſee] This ſome expound, of theſe wilfully blinded, and obſtinate prophane ones before-mentioned, v.10,15. that howſoever now they neither believed, or regarded ought, that by Gods Prophets was foretold them; yet when things foretold were now fulfilled, they ſhould be conſtrained to take notice of, and to acknowledge the truth of them, Chap.26.11. Ezek.2.5. & 6.10. So it ſhould be matter, not of mercy, ſo much, as of judgment. But others, and ſo the moſt, rather underſtand it of a gracious work upon the ſouls of many, that being poſſeſſed with ſpiritual deafneſs, and blindneſs before, ſhould then, being, by the Spirit of God, co-operating with the Miniſtery of his Meſſengers, cured, and recovered of thoſe their former maladies, attend unto Gods meſſages, conceive them aright, give all credit, and yeeld all obedience thereunto, Job 33.14-16,23-26. Chap.35.5. Luke 4.18. Joh.9.39. Act.26.18. Eph.1.18. Rev.3,18.

hear] To hear, both here, and elſe-where, in Scripture, is not barely to give one the hearing, as we uſe to ſay; as Chap.6.9 & 42.19,20. Mat.13.14,19. Acts 22.12. but to hear with attention, with underſtanding, with belief, with obedience, Deut.6.3,4. & 26.17, 1 Sam.15.22. Matth.13.9. Acts 26.14. Heb.4.2. of the book] Or, letter; as ver.11. which this paſſage hath an eye to: either of Gods law; as Deut.6.6. & 31.11. Joſh.1.8. or the meſſages of Gods Prophets, more ſpecially related to in that place. See Chap.30.20,21. neither ſhould they be then, as a book, or letter ſealed up, as before they had been, ver.11.

ſhall ſee out of obſcurity, and out of darkneſs] That is, coming out of obſcurity, or a miſt (ſee Chap.8.22.) and out of the dark. See the like defective ſpeech, Pſal.45.8. Chap.38.17. being brought out of that ſpiritual miſt and darkneſs, wherein they were before involved, Chap.9.2. & 25.7. & 49.6. Luke 1,77, 79. & 2. [illegible].12,13. 1 Pet.2.9. Yet thoſe that apply this to the obſtinate, partly, by darkneſs, underſtand that darkneſs, that they endeavoured to hide their projects in, verſ.15.

V.19. The meek alſo ſhall encreaſe their joy in the Lord] The ſincere, godly, and faithfull ones, ſhall have abundance of joy and comfort, having both eſcaped and ſurvived thoſe grievous calamities, and being freed from the oppreſſion of thoſe ungodly great ones, now rooted out, who were formerly a terrour to them, ver.20,21. Pſal.58.10,11. & 68.1-3. Chap.35.10. & 66.10,11. Acts 9.31.

The meek alſo] Heb. And the meek, as Chap.22.9.

meek] Such are the ſincere godly; though, therefore the rather, meanly eſteemed in the world, Pſal.25.9. & 37.11. Mat.5.5. Gal.5.23. therein conformable to Chriſt their head, Mat.11.29. & 21.5.

ſhall encreaſe their joy] Heb. ſhall add joy: to add to, for to encreaſe; as Chap.26.15. they ſhall have joy upon joy, abundance of joy, Chap.61.10. John 15.11. Phil.4.4. 1 Pet.1.6,8. 1 John 1.5. a defect of the pronoun; as Chap.13.22.

joy in the Lord] Or, through the Lord joy: for ſo ly the words in the original; through him, that is, by means of his mercy, and goodneſſe ſhewed to them (as Chap.26.13.) they have much joy: and ſo it importeth the cauſe, or meanes, whereby they attained unto this their joy, Pſal.21.1,2. or they have much joy, that is, abundance of ſpiritual joy; as implying the ground, or the ſubject matter and quality of it, Pſal.32.11. & 63.11. & 97.12. Phil.3.1. the order of the words ſeems to lead to the former.

and the poor among men ſhall rejoyce in the holy one of Iſrael] the ſame, in effect, though in other terms, with the former.

the poor among men] Heb. the needy, (as Chap.25.4. & 32.7.) of Adam, that is, of man, or mean man. See Chap.2.9. the poor of men, as the wiſe of women, Prov.14.1. that is, the wiſe among women: and the poor of the people, for the poor among the people, Exod.23.11. or, the poor of men, that is, the pooreſt of men; as the baſe of men, that is, the baſeſt of men, Dan.4.17. and the bad of the Heathen, for the worſt of them, Ezek.7.24. See chap.14.30. the moſt poor and needy, even of the meaner ſort of men, that were formerly ſpoyled, and made a prey to the great ones, Chap.3.14,15. for among them alſo, God hath his, and hath a ſpeciall care of them, Pſal.9.18. & 10.14,17,18. & 12.5. & 40.17. Mat.5.3. & 11.5. Luke 6.20. 1 Cor.1.26-29.

V.20. For the terrible one is brought to nought] Thoſe are deſtroyed, that were before a terrour to them, v.5. ſee Ch.16.4. and the ſcorner is conſumed] The crew of the ſcorners and mockers is waſted away. See Chap.28.14,22.

and all that watch for iniquity are cut off] Heb. Watchers of iniquity, that ſtudy how to do miſchief, Pſal.36.4. Mic.2.1. and watch opportunity to put it in execution, as wilde beaſts ly in wait to prey and ſpoyl, Pſalm 10.9. Jer.5.6.

V.21. That make a man an offender for a word] The verb in its firſt light form ſignifies, to ſinne; in its firſt weighty form, to expiate, or take away ſin, Num.19.19. Pſ.51.9. in its ſecond light active form, firſt, and properly, to make one ſinne, himſelf, Eccl.5.6. or ſome other, 1 Kings 14.16. & 15.30. ſo moſt frequently; but ſometime, alſo, in a leſs proper ſenſe, to make one guilty; either by accuſing, or condemning, as guilty, be it rightfully, or wrongfully. Now of this uſe of the word, albeit, I meet not, as yet, with any inſtance in Scripture, ſave this here only; yet I doubt not, but that it may well be warranted; firſt, by the uſe of another of the like notion, that ſignifies properly, to make wicked: but is thus very frequently, and familiarly taken, Deut.25.1. Job 9.20. & 10.2. Prov.17.15. chap.50.9. & 54.17. and ſecondly, by the common uſe of its oppoſite; which ſignifying properly, to make juſt, Dan.12.3. Yet is moſt commonly uſed, for to acquit, aſſoil, pronounce, or defend as guiltleſs, and free from offence, Exod.23.7. Deut.25.1. 1 Kings 8.32. Job 27.5. Pſal.82.3. Chap.50.8. See Chap.5.23. where the condemning of one unjuſtly, is ſaid to be a taking of his righteouſneſs from him: Nor do we in any other ſenſe uſe the word juſtifie; nor the Apoſtles, in their Writings, that word otherwiſe, for the moſt part, that anſwers the Hebrew term, Rom.3.28. & 4.2. & 5.1. & 8.33. Gal.2.16. Now in regard of the two-fold notion, and uſe of the word, ſome taking it here, in his firſt and proper ſenſe, would have the falſe Prophets meant, who by their words and lies, made men to ſinne, Jer.23.16,17,26,27. Ezek.13.10,19,22. But the Prophet ſeems not here to be dealing with ſuch, ſave as they might alſo be evill inſtruments, in the bad practices here ſpoken of; and the moſt here, both Jewiſh, and ours, underſtand it of great oppreſſors, and other wicked ones, their complices; or herein like them, that for a word ſlipping, from a man unawares, or ſome ſpeech of his, perverted and miſconſtrued by them, would be ready to queſtion him, moleſt him, bring him into trouble, and either procure, or pronounce a ſentence and doom againſt him, as a delinquent, Jer.18.18. & 20.10. Mat.22.15. & 26.61. Luke 11.53,54.

and lay a ſnare for him that reproveth in the gate] A metaphor from the practice of Fowlers, that ſet ſprings and ginnes for birds, Pſal.91.3. Prov.6.5. and ſo do theſe, for Gods Prophets, their Teachers, deviſing which way to enſnare them, and create trouble to them; yea, take their lives from them, out of their extream malice, and deadly hatred, that they bear them, for their ſeaſonable and wholeſome reproofs, which they cannot abide, Mat.22.45,46. & 22.15,16,18. & 26.3,4, 14-16. & 27.18. Luke 23.2. Acts 9.29. & 23.24,25.

that reproveth in the gates] That is, in publike: for the gates of their cities, were places, wherein there was uſually much confluence of people; in regard, that both matters of Judicature, and other publike affairs, were there commonly tranſacted, Deut.17.5. & 21.19. & 22.15,24. 2 Kings 7.17,18, 20. as alſo, the gates of the Temple, were places of much concourſe, 1 Sam.22.22. 2 Kings 20.4. Jer.26.10. for which cauſe, the Prophets, alſo, delivered Gods meſſages in the gates ſometimes of the Temple, Jer.7.2. ſometimes of the Kings houſe, and of the city, as well as in the Temple, Jer.17.19. & 22.2. and I rather, therefore, concur with thoſe, that render the words according to our verſion here, and lay a ſnare for him, that reproveth in the gate; then with thoſe, that would have them read, they lay a ſnare in the gate, for him that reproveth: eſpecially finding the very ſame elſe-where, they hate him that reproveth in the gate, Amos 5.10.

and turn aſide the juſt for a thing of nought] That pick quarrels againſt men, and in judgment, proſecute and caſt them, being otherwiſe guiltleſs; either for matters of no moment, or worth (as 1 Sam.12.21.) or for things that are not, for nothing (as Iob 6.18.) without any weighty or juſt cauſe, Pſal.69.4.5. or, as others, that by vain and frivolous pretences, and falſhoods, turn aſide, or cauſe to go the wrong way, the cauſe of the righteous; as Chap.41.29. Of the word, ſee Chap.24.10.

turn aſide] Heb. make to decline; and in matter of Judicature, it is applyed ſometime to the party queſtioned; ſometime to the carriage of his cauſe: when to the party queſtioned, it importeth to wrong him, and, cauſeleſly, to caſt, or condemn him, Prov.18.5. it is not good to accept the perſon of the wicked, or to overthrow, or depreſs, or caſt the righteous in judgment: and Chap.10.2. to turn aſide, or force aſide the needy from Judgment: and again, they turn aſide the poor in the gate, from their right, Amos 5.12. and Mal.3.5. that turn away the ſtranger, to wit, from his right: when to the cauſe, or the courſe of Judicature, it implyeth, a perverting of the right, and even carriage of the buſineſs, Exod.23.6. Thou ſhalt not pervert the Judgment of thy Poor in his cauſe: and curſed be he that perverteth the judgment of fatherleſs, ſtranger, or widow, Deut.27.19. and, To turn aſide, or pervert the right, or Judgment of a man, Lam.3.35. and Prov.17.23. A wicked man taketh a gift out of the boſome, to pervert the ways of Judgment: to which purpoſe, that alſo ſeems to be intended, Amos 2.7. of perverting, or turning aſide the way or courſe of the meek: to wit, by oppreſſing & over-ſwaying them in matter of Judicature. All which laid together, induceth me to conceive, that as there is an elipſis, or defect, of the word Judgment, ſignifying a judiciary proceeding in that injunction, Exod.23.2. Thou ſhalt not ſpeak in a cauſe declining, or turning aſide to great ones; that is to make Judgment decline, or to turn it aſide (for that that word is to be ſupplyed there, appeareth by ver.9. above related) ſo that in moſt of the places, if not all, before produced, where the perſon alone is mentioned, the ſame word is to be ſupplyed not by annexing it, as our verſion doth, Amos 5.12. & Mal.3.5. to the cloſe of the ſentence, but by inſerting of it in the body of it, that pervert, or turn aſide the poor, and the ſtranger, that is, the judgment of the poor, and the ſtranger, and the like; as it is expreſſed, Deut.27.19. & Lam.3.35. the word may well be rendred, according to the native notion, and proper uſe of it; either to divert, or turn aſide; and then it is a metaphor taken, either from the forcing of man or beaſt, out of his courſe or way; as it is uſed of Balaams beating his aſſe to turn her aſide again, Num.22.23. & Pſal.125.5. thoſe that turn aſide to crooked ways: and Chap.30.11. go out of the way, turn aſide out of the path; and ſo it is, to cauſe a diverſion from a direct way, and ſtraight line of Juſtice and Equity, in the carriage of a mans cauſe: or it may be rendred, to depreſs, or over-ſway; as it is uſed oft, for to encline, or bow down, Gen.24.14. Pſal.31.2. Prov.5.1.& 7.21. Amos 2.8. and ſo it may be in alluſion to the uſe of a ballance, ſuch as Juſtice is wont to be deciphered, holding in her hand, that which ſeems glanced at, Pſal. 58.2. as being an over-ſwaying, or ſwaying down the ballance of Judgment or Juſtice the one way, the wrong way, (whereas it ought to hang eaven and levell) to the prejudice of the guiltleſſe party. A learned Annotator rendreth the words a new way, they make the juſt to decline into the waſte, or deſart; that is, by ſetting ſnares for him in the gate; ſo that he cannot (without hazard of life) enter the city, they enforce him to betake himſelf unto waſte places, and to live as an exile in the Wilderneſſe, as David wiſhed he could, Pſal.55.7. Jeremie, that he might, Jer.9.2. yea, as David, and others, ſometime were conſtrained to do, 1 Sam.24.1.& 26.3,19,20. Heb.11.38. and indeed the word here is applyed ſometime to waſte places, but not put for them. See Jer.4.23. but the received verſion ſeemeth the genuine, and more familiar.

V.22. Therefore, thus ſaith the Lord, who redeemed Abraham, concerning the houſe of Jacob; Jacob ſhall not now be aſhamed, neither ſhall his face now wax pale] The reproach and contempt which Gods people formerly endured, and the fears and terrors that they were formerly expoſed unto, what by the adverſary from abroad, or by the great ones, that oppreſſed them at home, ſhall be utterly removed, Chap.25.8.& 54.4.& 61.7.

Therefore] Conſidering how they have been formerly wronged, as well at home, as from abroad, verſe 20,21. Pſalm 12.5.

thus ſaith the Lord] As Chap.51.22.

who redeemed Abraham] Or, reſcued and delivered; ſo is the word ordinarily uſed, 2 Sam.4.9. 1 Kings 1.29. Pſalm 55.18.& 107.2. that called him from, and brought him out of an Idolatrous place and people, Gen.12.1. Iob 24.2,3. though that Abraham himſelf, ever was an Idolater, doth not thence appear: or, that reſcued him out of, and preſerved him from many dangers and diſtreſſes, that he was expoſed unto, and might have otherwiſe bin ſurprized with, by means of thoſe ſtrange people of ſeveral Countries, through which he travelled, and among whom he ſojourned, Gen.12.3. & 15.1. Pſalm 105.12,14,15. See Gen.48.16.

concerning] Heb. unto: See Chap.37.33.

the houſe of Jacob] The Jewiſh people, his family deſcended from him their father, Chap.2.5.

Jacob] This ſome underſtand of the perſon of Jacob: Jacob, who if he were alive, would be aſhamed to ſee his children allen from God, ſhall now have no cauſe of any ſuch ſhame. But by Jacob, is here meant, rather, Jacobs Poſterity, the houſe, or Family of Jacob, before mentioned. See Chap. 9.8. & 14.1.

not now] As formerly, Chap.7.2.& 30.5.

be aſhamed] Heb. bluſh, Ezr.9.6. Jer.6.15. for ſhame, Pſalm 44.15.

his face wax pale] Heb. white: for though the verb be no where elſe in Scripture read; yet the nouns derived from it, are elſewhere found, and ſo ſignifie, Dan.7.9. Eſt.1.6.& 8.15. pale, for fear, Jer.30.6. though ſome make this the ſame with the former, underſtanding both of ſhame, and Joel 2.6. blackneſſe, or ſwartneſſe of face, is made an effect of extream fear.

V.23. But when he ſeeth his children, the work of mine hands in the middeſt of him, they ſhall ſanctifie my name, and ſhall ſanctifie the holy one of Jacob, and ſhall fear the God of Iſrael] To the removall of their former reproach, ſhame and fear, is a further bleſſing added, that ſhould much enhance their forementioned joy, v.19. the conſideration of a large encreaſe of an holy iſſue, that God ſhould bleſſe his Church with, not ſuch ignorant, formall, and profane ones, as it conſiſted of formerly; but an underſtanding people, new moulded, bringing honour to his name, and ſerving him ſincerely, according to his Will and Word; for whom it ſhall have abundant occaſion of bleſſing of God, for bleſſing it with ſuch encreaſe.

But] As Chap.2.6. yet ſome, For: as Chap.28.27. and of theſe, ſome thus render the words, For he ſeeing, or in his ſight, his children, the work of my hands in the midſt of him, ſhall ſanctifie my name: and the reading ſeems not improbable. Howbeit I never find, that find this form ſo uſed in an abſolute notion.

when he] That is, Jacob himſelf, ſay ſome; as v.22. but I ſuppoſe it taken, both here, and there, for the Poſterity of Jacob; the Jewiſh Church and State, conſidered, as a body. For howſoever it be true, that the Church of Profeſſors conſiſteth and is made up of thoſe particular perſons, that profeſſe the true ſervice of God in Chriſt, and the Church of ſincere faithfull ones, is conſtituted of thoſe particular perſons, that are truly converted, and ſincerely ſanctifyed; yet as the one, or the other make up an entire body, whether political, or ſpiritual; ſo is the Church, conſiſting of thoſe particular perſons of either ſort, ſaid to be, as a mother to them; and thoſe particular perſons that make up that body, are ſaid to be, as children unto it, Chap.54.1. & 60.4,5. Gal.4.26,27.

ſeeth his children] As of Chriſt, he ſhall ſee his ſeed, Chap.53.10. or his children in his ſight, as before, his children, the true race of Jacob, Pſal.24.6. Gal.6.15,16. that walk in the ſteps of faithfull Abraham, John 8.39. Rom.4.12.

the work of my hands] Pſal.138.8. Chap.43.21. & 60.21. Eph.2.8. the regenerate, John 1.13. James 1.18. 1 Peter 1.3,23. a kind of new creature, Pſalm 51.10. 2 Cor.5.17. Gal.6.15.

in the middeſt of him] With him, or among [illegible] Chapter 19.1,3. for he ſpeaketh here of Jacob, as there of Egypt: of either, as of a body, for State: which ſheweth, that by Jacob, here cannot be underſtood the perſon of Jacob, but his Poſterity.

they] To wit, Jacob; before, he; now, they: a paſſage from number to number; as Chap.14.1. whereby the term appeareth to be collective; unleſs we follow the latter mentioned verſion.

ſhall ſanctifie my name] They ſhall honour me for this favour, and by their religious carriage ſanctifie my name, which, by the profane, and irreligious demeanour of others, had been ſo exceedingly defiled, and polluted among them before, Ezek.20.39,41.& 22.26.& 36.20. Amos 2.7. Mal.1.6,7. Rom.2.24.

and ſhall ſanctifie] Or, yea, they ſhall ſanctifie; as Chap.3.9. becauſe it is but a repetition of the ſame thing, for the more vehemency. Howſoever, there want not ſome, that diſtinguiſh them, reading the text, when he ſeeth his children——ſanctifying my name, or how they ſanctifie it; then ſhall they ſanctifie, &c. but the words run more eaſily the other way.

and ſhall fear] Serve and worſhip, with fear and reverence, Pſalm 2.11.& 5.7. Hoſ.3.5. Heb.12.28.

V. 24. They alſo that erred in ſpirit ſhall come to underſtanding, and they that murmured, ſhall learn doctrine] Such as were untractable, and unteachable before, ſhall then become pliable, and voluntarily yeeld themſelves to the word of Gods Prophets, and the work of his Spirit, as ready and willing to be inſtructed, and new moulded by either, Pſal.110.3. Chap.11.6-9. ver.18. Rom.6.17.

that erred in ſpirit] That were poſſeſſed, and led away by a ſpirit of errour, as all are by nature, Pſal.58.3. & 95.10. chap.53.6. untill the Spirit from above be poured forth upon them, Chap.32.15. to illighten their minds, Eph.1.18. 2 Cor.4.4. Heb.6.4.& 10.32. and to lead them into all neceſſary ſaving truth, Luke 1.79. Ioh.14.26. & 16.13. 1 Ioſh.2.20,27.

ſhall come to underſtanding] They ſhall not be like thoſe, that either refuſe to be taught, and to learn ought, Pſalm 36.3.& 82.3. Jer.9.6. or are ever learning, but never attain to any degree of ſound knowledge, Chap.28.9-11. 2 Tim.3.7. Heb.5.12. Heb. ſhall know underſtanding: as Prov.4.1. that is, ſhall have underſtanding; as the like is rendred, Iob 38.4. or ſhall be able to underſtand; as Neh.10.28. every knowing underſtanding one: for ſo the text there is, every one able to underſtand; as in the ſame Chap. ver.3. underſtanding to hear, for able to hear with underſtanding: to know, for to be able; as Chap.28.11.

they that murmured] Such as were formerly ready, out of diſcontent and impatience, or out of a croſsneſſe of ſpirit, and untoward diſpoſition, 2 Tim.2.25. to be ever, and anon, repining at, and murmuring againſt the paſſages of Gods providence, and meſſages of his miniſters, Exod.16.2. & 17.3.

Num.11.1. Deut. 1. 27. Pſal. 106. 25. 1 Cor.10.10. Some apply it unto the Jews, that murmured at the calling, and coming in of the Gentiles, Matt. 20. 11. Luk. 15,28-30. Act. 11.2,3. & 13.45. & 22. 21,22. ; as 1 Theſſ.2. 16.

learn doctrine] The word ſignifies,properly, ſuch a leſſon, or inſtruction, as is by teaching, received from another. The word is uſed, Deut. 32. 2. Job 11.4. Prov.1.5. & 4.2. & 16. 23. where it is ſometime rendred learning ; and it is ſo called, becauſe in teaching and learning,there is a kinde of giving and receiving,Prov.1.3,4. & 8. 10. & 9. 9. Yet ſome of the Jewiſh Criticks would have it,properly,to ſignifie a pleaſant, and delightful ſpeech,that eaſily findes acceptance,becauſe uſed of the harlot, (whoſe lips drop like an honey-comb, and her language is ſmoother then oyl, Prov. 5.3.) Prov. 7. 22. where it is rendred, fair ſpeech. To which purpoſe they alledge alſo, Prov.16.21, 23. So it ſhould be, that which the Apoſtle calleth an acceptable ſpeech,or, a leſſon worthy of all acceptation,1 Tim. 1.15. & 4.9. But the former reaſon ſeems the ſounder. See Luk. 8.13-15. Act.2.41. & 8. 14. & 11. 1. & 17. 11.

CHAP. XXX.

Verſ. 1. WO to the rebellious children, ſaith the Lord, that take counſel, but not of me, and that cover with a covering, but not of my Spirit, that they may add ſin to ſin] It was the uſual manner of the Jewiſh State, and people,and that ſometime,under the better ſort of their Kings, when they were annoied, or invaded, or expected ſome ſuch matter from ſome neighbouring nation, or other, inſtead of ſtaying themſelves upon God, and his protection, as,by his Prophets, he adviſed them ; to ſeek for ſuccour and aſſiſtance to ſome forreign State, to the Syrians ,againſt the Iſraelites, 2 Chr. [illegible]. 2,3. to the Aſſyrians againſt the Syrians, 2King.16.7. Hoſ. 5. 13. & 7.11. & 12. 1. to the Egyptians againſt the Aſſyrians,one while,Chap.20.5,6. 2 King. 18. 21. Hoſ. 12. 1. againſt the Chaldeans, another while, Jer. 2. 18, 36. & 37.5. Ezek.29.6,7. In this kinde they were faulty, as well in Eſays, as in Jeremies time, by fleeing either into, or unto Egypt, and ſeeking ſhelter there, or ſuccour thence. Againſt thoſe that were thus delinquent, doth the Prophet, principally, bend himſelf,both in this Chapter, and in the next. In the former part of this Chapter,he reproveth them ſharply ; firſt,for taking courſes of their own,to ſecure themſelves, and confiding therein, without ſeeking to God ; withal,ſhewing what the ſucceſs and iſſue of ſuch their courſes ſhould be, ver. 1-7. And ſecondly, for their oppoſing of Gods Prophets,that diſſwaded the one,and fore-warned them of the other, ver. 8-14. and ſtanding out wilfully, againſt thoſe advices, that, by them, God had given, for their indemnity and ſafety,ver.15-17. In the latter part,he paſſeth, for the comfort of Gods people, to gracious promiſes. Firſt, of protection of his faithful ones, in thoſe troubleſom times, ver.18.,19. Secondly,of future favours,upon their reformation and amendment, ver. 2-26. and the deſtruction of the adverſary,by whom they had been afflicted, and ſtreightned, ver.27-33.

Wo to] As ch. 29. 15.

the rebellious children] Children, becauſe of the Jewiſh nation,Gods adopted people, and profeſſing themſelves ſo to be, Deut.32.6,9.Chap.1.2. & 43.1. & 44.1,2. & 64.8. Jer. 3.4,5. rebellious ; or, refractory ; or, unruly ; (as Deut. 21. 18. Hoſ. 4.16. where a backſliding-heyfer,ſeems no very fit epithet) becauſe refuſing to be ruled by God, and obſtinately addicted unto waies and courſes of their own, Deut. 32. 5, 15. chap. 1. 2. & 63,10. & 66.3. Jer. 3.14. & 5.23.

that take counſel, but not of me] Heb. to make counſel, or, in making counſel ; that is, holding a conſultation : as noting that, wherein they ſhewed themſelves to be ſuch ; as chap. 3. 8, and not of me : and ſo in the next branch ; and ch. 29. 13. that conſult, but will not have God of their counſel, Joſh. 9. 14. refuſe to conſult with him, as their duty was to do, chap. 8. 19.

that cover with a covering, but not of my Spirit] Heb. to cover ; or, in covering,(as before) with a covering ; as chap. 22. 17,18. The ſame word, ch.25.7.& 28. 20. that take courſes to ſecure themſelves,other then I, by my Spirit, direct them unto. See ch.4.5. & 28. 15. & 29. 15.

that they may add ſin to ſin] Heb. ſin upon ſin ; as 2 Chr. 28. 13. Ezr.10.10. That is, thereby adding ſin to ſin. Of which manner of ſpeech, ſee on ch. 3.8. & Jer.7.18. adding ſin to ſin ; that is, proceeding, and going on ſtill in ſinful courſes ; as ch.29. 14. or, proceeding from one ſinful courſe to another ; and heaping up exceſſes one upon another ; as ch.29. 19. ſo Numb.32.14. Whereas, by their wicked ways,they had before provoked me unto wrath, inſtead of ſeeking to me,by repentance for the ſame, they add to their former evill carriage, a new ſinful courſe, by ways of their own, contrary to mine admonition and advice, endeavouring to ſhift off, or ſhelter themſelves againſt my judgements, ready to ſieze on them,for their former ſins. See ſomewhat the like,1 Sam.12. 19. Luk. 3. 19,20. Thoſe that refer this to the times of Zedekiah, expound it, adding to their treachery and perjury, in rebelling againſt the King of Babel,(in regard whereof,alſo,they would have them there termed rebellious) Ezek.17.13,15. by diſtruſt of God, and confidence in humane helps. But whether the word tranſlated rebellious,will ſo well ſort with this expoſition, I am ſomewhat doubtful : of the application of the Prophecy, to thoſe times, more anon. Mean while,if we ſhall deſcend to particulars,we may as well expound the adding of ſin to ſin ; their adding of ſin,in ſeeking aid now from Egypt,againſt the Aſſyrians,to their former ſin,in ſeeking the like from Aſſyria, againſt the Iſraelites, and the Syrians, 2 Chr.28.16. But I conceive the words to be more general ; as the like, Deut. 29.19.

V. 2. That walk to go down into Egypt, (and have not asked my mouth) to ſtrengthen themſelves in the ſtrength of Pharao, and to truſt in the ſhadow of Egypt] In theſe words, the Prophet,more particularly,declareth what the counſel and courſe was,that he condemned in them, and for which he denounced a wo againſt them, ver. 1. to wit,their running into Egypt,and relying on that State for ſhelter and ſafegard. Now this, many of our Interpreters turn over to Zedekiahs time. And it is true, that in thoſe dayes, both before the ſurprizal of Jeruſalem,they ſought to Egypt for ſuccour, Jer. 37.7. Ezek.17. 15. as alſo after it, upon the death of Gedaliah, they fled thither for ſhelter, Jer. 43.4-7. But the Prophet ſeems rather to bend his ſpeech againſt thoſe of his own times, who, under Ezekiah,alſo, were faulty in this kinde, to wit, in having recourſe unto Egypt, and relying on it for ſafety and aſſiſtance, againſt the Aſſyrian forces ; as appears plainly,ch.20.5,6. ſee there. Nor doth ought appear to me, in this whole Sermon, concluding with the fall of Sennacherib, as all grant and agree in,that may not very fitly, accord with thoſe times.

walk to go down into Egypt] That is,journey, or travel (out of their own land) to go into Egypt ; as 2 Sam. 19. 10. Am come to go down to meet the King. The word walking, applyed uſually to travellers, Gen. 32. 1. and that deſcending, or going down ; as here ; ſo Gen.26.2. chap. 52. 4. Of paſſing from place to place,without any ſpecial reference to the ſituation of places,or any peculiar notion of deſcent included, Judg. 15. 8. 2 Sam.19. 26. See Chap.38.8. And there is no neceſſary implication therefore (which the Rabbines would have) of their land,being higher then the land of Egypt. Into Egypt it is not unlikely, that many fled out of divers parts of Judea, upon Sennacheribs irruption ;and no leſs probable, that from ſome of the principal in the State, if not from Ezekiah himſelf,ſome meſſage,alſo,was ſent thither, and motion made for aids from thence, ver. 4. when it appeared, that the Aſſyrian, by the preſents ſent him, would not be appeaſed, 2 King.18. 13-17. and have not asked my mouth] Or, but (as ver.1) aske not counſel of me,or, conſult not with me, what they ſhould do ; as Joſh.9. 14. either by Prieſt ; as 1 Sam. 23.9,10. or by Prophet ; as 1 King.22. 7. See 2 King. 1. 3.

to ſtrengthen themſelves in the ſtrength of Pharao] Or, by the ſtrength ; as Pſal. 78.26. A defect of the Pronoun ; as chap. 13.8,15.

the ſhadow] That is, the covert Of which,ver. 1. ſhadow, for protection ; as Judg. 9. 15. Eccl.7,12. Cant.2.3. A metaphor,taken either from hens, or other fowl that ſecure their young,by over-ſhadowing them with their wings, Pſal.17.8. & 91.1,4. Mat. 23. 37. or from goodly fair trees, that afford ſhelter againſt heat and ſtorm, unto man and beaſt,that come under their ſpreadings, Lam.4.20. Ezek. 31. 6. Dan.4.12, 14.

V. 3. Therefore ſhall the ſtrength of Pharao be your ſhame, and the truſt in the ſhadow of Egypt your confuſion] Or, And your truſt (a defect of the pronoun ; as Pſal.45.3.) in the ſhadow of Egypt your ignominy, or diſgrace ; as Pſal. 71. 13. Heb. And the ſtrength of Pharao,&c. as Jer. 1. 17. & 6.11. Or, For the ſtrength,&c. as chap. 13.8. & 16. 2. rendring a reaſon of the wo denounced, ver. 1. to wit, The ill ſucceſs of theſe their counſels and courſes : which ſhould turn all to their confuſion and ſhame, when they ſhould,by experience, finde to their grief and ſmart,that they were altogether unable to do them any good, ver. 5. See Chap. 20.5, 6. & 36.6. Jer. 37.7. & 38. 22.

V. 4. For his Princes were at Zoan ; and his Embaſſadors came to Hanes] Or, as ſome render it, When (as Joel 2. 20.) his Princes had been at Zoan, and his Embaſſadors had arrived at Hanes : his Princes, and his Embaſſadors : That is, ſay the Jewiſh Commenters, either the Kings, or the peoples. Some of the chief about the King, ſent in embaſſage to the King of Egypt, to crave his aſſiſtance againſt the Aſſyrian ; as they before had ſent to the Aſſyrian, to obtain peace, 2 King. 8.14. but with as ſorry ſucceſs in the one, as in the other.

Chap. 33.7. See the like of Hoſhea, 2 King. 17.4. See alſo ch.57.9. & Hoſ.12.1.

Zoan] A famous city in Egypt. See chap. 19. 11.

came to] Heb. touched at. Or, reached unto; as Pſalm 32. 7.

Hanes] Another city of Egypt, called alſo, Tahapanes, Jer. 2.16. See more of it there. And Tahpanhes, Jer. 43.3,8.

V. 5. They were all aſhamed of a people, that could not profit them, nor be an help, nor profit; but a ſhame alſo, and a reproach.] When they came into Egypt, they ſped ſo ill, that they returned with nothing, but ſhame and diſgrace; and ſo was fulfilled what was foretold, ver.3. Spoken here in the wonted prophetical ſtrain, as a thing already paſt and done.

They were all aſhamed] Heb. Each, or, every one, (to wit, of thoſe that went, or were ſent, ſaith the Rabbine; but we may well add both of them, that were ſent, and of thoſe alſo, that ſent them) was aſhamed. So the word is moſt frequently uſed, in an immanent, or ſtanding notion, Jer.2,26. & 8. 9,12. & 10.14. & 48.20. & 50.2. Ezek. 9. 12. Joel 1. 10,12. Zach. 9.5. & 10.11. Nor ſee I therefore, why ſome late learned Interpreters ſhould render it here, in a tranſitive, or paſſing ſenſe; He (that is, the King, ſay they,) ſhall ſhame them all; that is, all his people, or all thoſe of Jeruſalem. Though the verb be ſometime found in an active uſe; but then moſtly, if not wholly, in a notion, not of ſhaming, but of drying up; as Pſal.74.15. Ezek. 17.24.

that could not profit them] A defect of the relative, as chap. 10.2,3. Heb. will not, or, ſhall not profit. But the future is oft uſed potentially. So 1 Sam. 12. 21. Jer. 2. 11. Yet ſome render it, would not profit them. Pſammetichus then King of Egypt, ſay they, would not break with the King of Aſſyria, whom he had formerly made peace with; and refuſed therefore to afford them any ſuccour, or aſſiſtance againſt it. But theſe are meer conjectures, having no ground from ſtory ſacred, or other. More likely it is, that the Egyptian King, who ever he were, that then was, either durſt not, by ſeeking to ſuccour them, provoke ſo potent and prevalent a King, as the Aſſyrian then was, having ſurpized, and carried captive, the other ten tribes before; or if he made any attempt, it came to as little effect, as the aid that was afterward, out of thoſe parts, ſent to the ſupport and ſuccour of Zedekiah, Jer. 37. 7. See ver .7.

nor be an help, nor profit] Heb. nor for help; nor to profit. Beginning a new branch, not coupled to the former; as if he had ſaid more fully, with ſupply from the former: of a people, I ſay, neither fitted for help, nor able to be any way uſeful to them: & not that alone; but that would be a foul ſhame, and diſgrace unto them, in not anſwering their expectation, Chap.20. 6. So Jer. 2. 36.

V. 6. The burden of the beaſts of the South: Into the land of trouble and anguiſh, from whence come the young and old lion, the Viper, and fiery flying Serpent, they will carry their riches upon the ſhoulders of young aſſes, and their treaſures upon the bunches of camels, to a people that ſhall not profit them.] The Prophet proceeds to tax their extream folly, in taking ſo much pains, and undertaking ſuch toilſom and dangerous journeys, through the deſarts of Arabia; to tranſport their goods and treaſure into Egypt, either there to ſecure them; or thence to procure, and hire aids, from thoſe, that ſhould not be able to ſtand them in any ſtead.

The burden] Some, at theſe words, would begin a new Sermon; becauſe the ſeveral prophecies, many of them, ſo begin: as Chap.21.1,11,13. but the continuation of the ſubject matter; and the ſequel of the context, is ſuch, as affordeth no probability for any ſuch conceit. By the word, ſome would have underſtood, a burdenſome prophecy: as Chap.13.1. and ſo the old Greek, rendring it, a viſion. But others rather take it in its proper ſenſe, for a burden: as Chap.46.1. a place parallel to this.

of the beaſts of the South] Some, for the beaſts of the South; that is, a burdenſome prediction, for thoſe brutiſh perſons that toil and moil like beaſts, to convey their goods to them, from whom there is nothing, but miſchief and miſery to be expected. And there is another word, indeed, frequently uſed for brutiſh men, that ſignifies, a beaſt, Pſalm 73.62. & 92.6. Prov. 12.1. & 30.2. Jer.10.10,14. but that here is uſed very ſeldome ſo, if ever; for thoſe two places, Job 18.3. Eccl. 3. 18. duly weighed, come not home here. By beaſts of the South, therefore, others underſtand, the beaſts hereafter mentioned, that carryed their chattels and treaſure into Egypt, which lay South from the land of Judah, Jer. 13. 19. ſaid here to be a burden to them, as the Babylonian Idols were to the Beaſts, that bare them away, Chap.46.1. Some would have the word burden, taken here abſolutely, rendring the text, as for the burden of the beaſts of the South: or, that travel Southward: and the like conſtruction is found, Pſalm 18.30. & 104.17. Hoſ. 9.11. But the text may be read, admitting a trajection, not unuſuall, and joyning it with the carriages afterward ſpecified; a burden for beaſts, travelling ſouthward, or bound for the South, ſhall they carry, to wit, their riches, &c. ſee the like trajections, Job 23.9. & 35.12. Pſal.17.7,13. & 89.50. & 90.11. & 140.11. Chap.29.22. & 41.27. Jer. 5.28.

into the land of trouble and anguiſh] Heb. into a land of affliction, or diſtreſſe and anguiſh, Prov.1.27. that is, as ſome, into Egypt, alluding in the former word to the name thereof, wherewith it hath ſome affinity in the Hebrew; and minding them of what hard uſage they had there formerly found, Exod.1.11,13,14. Deut.4.20. & 16.3. & what only they might be ſure from thence to expect. But others read the words, by, or through a land of affliction and anguiſh: for ſo alſo is that particle oft uſed; as Gen.12.6. & 13.17. Eſt.9.2. Pſalm 19.4. Chap.37.29,34. & 42.3. that is, through that vaſt Wilderneſs, that lay between the land of Judah and Egypt, which they paſſed thorow before, when they came thither from Egypt, and which they then found to be ſuch, as is here related: ſee Deut.8.15 & 32.10. Jer.2.2,6. Yet ſome conceive, that in theſe terms, is deſcribed that narrow paſſage, or neck of land, lying between the red Sea, and the midland, by which they were to paſs, ere they could enter into Egypt: but hereof there is no great probability, that neck of land being not ſo narrow, as ſhould cauſe any ſuch difficult paſſage, as the Prophets words here imply, from whence come the young and old lion, the viper, and fiery flying ſerpent] Heb. the lion, and lion from them, that is, from thoſe parts: or, from which parts: the poſitive for the relative; as Job 3.3,15. Jer.2. 6. and a defect of the verb; as 2 Kings 6. 32. Rom.4.7. Now all this, divers Interpreters apply alſo to Egypt, expounding the words, ſome of the beaſts, that were there adored; ſome of the wilde Beaſts and Serpents that abounded in Africa, and thoſe parts of it, that neighboured upon Egypt. Others, again, not of any beaſts, but of the Egyptians themſelves, people, in condition, like to ſuch beaſts, and that ſhould unto them prove ſuch. See Chap.11.6-8. But to run to allegories, where a plain and proper ſenſe, even offereth it ſelf, is unſafe: that ſuch creatures as theſe were very rife, as well in the deſarts of Arabia, as of Africa, cannot be doubted, much leſs denied. See Deut. 8. 15. of their way to Egypt, I conceive all this to be ſpoken, as not onely tedious and difficult, for want of needfull accommodations, but as dangerous, alſo, in regard of ſuch harmful creatures, as theſe, abounding in thoſe parts, and from thence, alſo, infeſting the countries neer to them.

the young and old lion] There are two words here uſed, which both ſignifie a lion; but with ſome difference, as is ſuppoſed; whether the one, a young; the other, an old one, as our verſion rendreth them, is uncertain. But of the ſeveral terms, wherewith lions are in Scripture deſigned, ſee the notes on Job 4.10.

the viper] Or, as ſome, the Baſiliſk; a Serpent ſo called, from a word that ſignifies, as ſome ſay, to hiſſe, Chap.42.14. but the word there ſignifies, rather, to cry out, as a woman in travel: and another thence derived, the Rabbines are ſaid to uſe, not for the hiſſing of Serpents; but for the bleating of ſheep; it is found alſo, Job 20.16. Chap.59.5. See there.

the fiery flying ſerpent] Such as were in the Wilderneſs, that the Iſraelites paſſed thorow, in their way to Canaan, Num.21. 16. Deut.8.15. ſee Chap.14.29.

they will carry their riches] Or, chattels, ſo termed, becauſe mens ſtrength ſeems to ly in their wealth. Theſe they carried into Egypt, ſome in likelyhood, that fled their Country upon the Aſſyrians approach, there to ſecure them: ſee Chap.15.7. as thoſe alſo, no doubt did, that fled into Egypt, upon the diſperſion of the people, after the murder of Gedaliah, for fear of the Chaldeans, Jer. 43. 5-7. Others, ſent by the State, to procure helps and aids againſt the Enemies invaſion.

upon the ſhoulders of young aſſes] Heb. ſhoulder: as Chap. 46.7. the place that burdens bear moſt upon, Gen. 49.14,15. Chap.10.27. of young aſſes; of much uſe in theſe parts, as well for burden, as for ſaddle, Gen.32.15. & 49.11. Judg.10.4. & 12.14. Chap.32.24. ſee Chap.21.7.

and their treaſures] Which ſome would diſtinguiſh from their chattels, and reſtrain to their coin or bullion; but the one term, is of as large extent, as the other: ſee Chap. 2.7. & 23. 18. & 45.3.

upon the bunches of camels] Heb. bunch: the word is no where elſe found in Scripture; and thoſe Jewiſh Criticks do but dally with us, that would have it ſo termed, becauſe men galled with burdens, it was healed with honey; in regard that the words that ſignifie either, ariſe from one root: the word is rather, by ſome other of them, deemed to be an Arabick term, for that camels, with the Arabians, were of more uſe ordinarily, then with any other people, Chap.60.6,7. Jer.49. 29,32. they had, ſome kind of them, one; ſome, two bunches apiece, and were very uſeful for carriage, in regard of the great weight they were able to bear; but eſpecially with thoſe that were to travel through waſte places, becauſe they would continue long without water: ſee Chap. 21. 7. from this their bunched body, aroſe that proverbial ſpeech, of driving, or drawing a camel thorow a needles eye, Matth. 19. 24. inſtead whereof,the Jewiſh Rabbines have another not unlike it, to thred needles with Elephants.

to] Heb. upon: but ſo alſo uſed, Chap. 29. 12. See verſe 1.

a people that ſhall not profit them] Or, cannot: as ver. 5. a defect of the relative; as ver. 5. of the pronoun; as Chap. 29.19.

V.7. For the Egyptians ſhall help in vain, and to no purpoſe] Heb.And; as ver.3. in vain,and to no purpoſe. Heb. in vanity, and inanity: vanity,even that which cannot profit, Jer. 16. 19. and a veſſel of inanity, or emptineſſe,Jer.51.34. that hath nothing but wind in it; both here conjoyned, to ſhew what manner of relief, or ſuccour, it was like to be, that the Egyptians ſhould afford them. Yet hence it appeareth,that ſomwhat they attempted; as that from them, ſomewhat was expected, from Chap.29.5,6. So Jer.37.7,8.

Therfore have I cryed,concerning this,Their ſtrength is to ſit ſtill] Or,Therefore do I cry unto her. Either I the Lord(the Prophet now ſpeaking in the perſon of God,as ver.8.) Or,I,Eſay, do give them warning, and fore-tell them, with as much earneſtneſs,as I can; as Prov.1.24. Chap.58.1. & 65.12. in the name of God,and by command from him; that it is their wiſeſt courſe,and will prove their ſureſt ſtrength, quietly and patiently to reſt, and depend upon God, his protection and aſſiſtance, and not run to and fro, hunting after forrein helps,either from Egypt,or any other,v.15. Chap.28.12. Jer. 2.18,36.Hoſ.5.13.

concerning this] That is,concerning Egypt, and ſeeking to her for aid; as ſome of the Jewiſh Commenters: ſo is the particle uſed,Chap.29.16. or,as other of them, to her, to this City Jeruſalem; or, to the daughter of my people, as the Prophet [illegible] to ſpeak,Chap.22.4.Jer.16.14.

ſtrength] Heb.Rahab: a name given to Egypt, as is commonly ſuppoſed,from her power and pride: ſee Chap. 51.9. which term,the Prophet,is by ſome,deemed here the rather to uſe;as implying,that this courſe,which he here adviſeth them unto ,would be a better & ſurer means of ſtrength to them, then any that Egypt was able to afford. Yet can I not eaſily aſſent to the learned Annotator , who would have the text thus rendred; Therefore have I called her, (that is, Egypt) Rahab hem ſhabeth. I have given Egypt this name,which ſignifieth,Rahab is a ceſſation; the Egyptian power is ceaſed.

to ſit ſtill] Not neglecting any lawfull means of defence, which they are no where forbidden to do (ſave where God determined to give deliverance by miracle , and to manifeſt his might the more,enjoyned a waving of them, Judg.7.2-8, 16,17.)nor condemned for ſo doing,1 Kings 20.22. 2 Chr.14. 6 8.& 26.9-15.&32.2-6.but not ſeeking aſſiſtance from other ſtrange people,contrary to the charge herein given them by God;but relying upon him,as able,by ſuch means,ſufficiently to ſecure,as it pleaſed him,to aſſign,or afford them,2 Chr.32. 7,8. Some think that there is an alluſion here,either to the words of Moſes, Exod.14.14. or of Jehaziel, 2 Chr.20.17. ſtand ſtill: the word ſtill,being not in the text here,is added,to make the ſenſe, to us,more plain. Howſoever,hence it ſeems to me,to appear , that this Prophecy hath not reference to Zedekiahs time;for there, albeit, they were admoniſhed, that Egypt ſhould not relieve them: yet were they not adviſed,as here,to ſit ſtill; but to go out, and yeeld themſelves unto the enemy,Jer.38.2,17,18.

V.8. Now go,write it before them in a table, and note it in a book,that it may be for time to come, for ever, and ever.] The words of God, to the Prophet, by whom, having forewarned them of the evill, that they would bring upon themſelves,by looking abroad, and adviſed them of the ſureſt courſe, that they could take for their own ſecurity and ſafeguard; he now willeth him, to put in writing, what he had delivered unto them, that it might remain, as upon record, for a teſtimony againſt them,of their diſobedience and diſtruſt.

go] See Chap.20.2. ſo Gen.11.3. Jer.35.22. & 50.5. for there is no neceſſity, as ſome would have this term intimate, that the Prophet ſhould be abroad, when God ſet him this task, and that he was willed to get him home to accompliſh it.

write it] This Prophecy,or that which followeth, v.8. but the former rather: ſee Chap.8.1.

before them] Heb. with them. This ſome conceive, as if God commanded the Prophet to go out of his houſe , and commit to writing openly, in ſome publike place,in the view of the people, what he had before by word of mouth delivered: which conceit,croſſeth that, which was by ſome others, over curiouſly picked out of the term before going, of Gods ſending the Prophet home to do it there. Others,that God enjoyned him to write it, having not yet publiſhed it, to be read with them, in their preſence. I conceive, that it may well be rendred,write it on a table to be with them;that is,that it may abide among them, to mind them, when theſe things now foretold them, do accordingly fall out, what they had been warned of before. For I cannot concur with thoſe,who ſuppoſe it meant,not of the people; but of other his prophecies,that this ſhould be written together with them;as Jeremy was enjoyned to write all his former prophecies, or the ſubſtance of them,at leaſt,together; and after,to add ſome other thereunto, Jer.36.2,32. However, both in the former, it; and in this them,the pronoun is put for the noun; as Chap. 17.10.

in a table] Or, on a table; as Exod.32.15,16.to be hung up, or faſtened to the wall,or to a poſt or pillar, as Laws and Decrees were anciently, in ſome publike place, where every one might take notice of it: ſo Hab.2.2.

note it in a book] Heb. delineate, or deſcribe it on a book; as Chap.49.16.Ezek.4.1. engroſs it in a book, that it may remain upon record,for a monument to poſterity; as on a table before, for them at preſent: ſo Deut. 31. 19. Job 19. 23, 24.

for time to come] Heb. for an after day. So Prov. 31. 25.

V.9. That this is a rebellious People, lying Children, Children that will not hear the Law of the Lord] Or, For it is a rebellious People: either declaring the ſubject matter, that was to be recorded; or,the reaſon,rather, why God would have it to be recorded; as Deut. 31. 19,20,21,27. the pronoun, for the verb ſubſtantive; as Chap.43.10.Ezek.2.5.

a rebellious people] Heb.a People of rebellion: as, Children of rebellion,Num.17.10. and,an houſe of rebellion,Ezek.12.2. See Deut.31.27.Chap.48.8.

lying children] Either faithleſs and diſſembling; or, falſe and counterfeit children , ſuch as carry not themſelves as children; nor anſwer the expectation of him, by whom they have been adopted, Deut.32.5,20. Chap.1.4.& 57.4. & 63. 8,10.

that] A defect of the relative; as ver.5,6.

will not hear] Endure to hear,Pſalm 58.4,5. Jer.6.10. or, hearken to and obey,Chap.28.12.Jer.6.16,17.& 44.16.Zach. 7.11,12.

the Law of the Lord] The Commandement of God, delivered by Moſes, as ſome, forbidding them to return into Egypt,Deut.17.16.& 28.68.Chap.31.1. or rather,the inſtructions and admonitions of Eſay, and other Gods meſſengers ſent unto them,v,10.ſee Chap.1.10.& 5.24.

V.10. Which ſay to the Seers,ſee not;and to the Prophets, prophecie not unto us right things,ſpeak unto us ſmooth things, prophecy deceits.] That forbid Gods meſſengers to preach unto them; unleſſe they will preach ſuch things to them, as pleaſe them,and ſooth them up in their ſins,by promiſing peace and proſperity to them,though they go on in their ſinfull courſes. See Mic.2.6.11. a place parallel to this; and Jer.11.21.

the Seers,ſee not] The ſame with the next branch; only the terms divers,in ſound,and letters;but in ſenſe and notion the ſame: ſee Chap.1.1.& 2.1.

right things] Heb.ſtrait,agreeable to equity, Amos 3. 10. Chap. 59. 14. they deſired not to have the truth of God, or their duty to God,taught, or told them: ſuch teaching was too harſh for their tender ears; it croſſed their corruptions: nor could they endure to have thoſe courſes contradicted, which themſelves had pitched upon, or were addicted unto; nor to hear Gods judgments denounced againſt them , for their perſiſting in the ſame,Jer.43.2. hence that ſcoffing demand,what is the burden of the Lord? Jer.23.33.

ſmooth things] Heb.ſmoothneſſes; as Pſal.12.2,3. that is, flatteries; Sermons of peace, proſperity and pleaſure; and that ſtrain the falſe Prophets therefore wholly addreſſed themſelves unto;becauſe they ſaw it pleaſed the people,chap. 56.10,12.Jer.4.10.& 6.14.& 8.10. & 23.17. Ezek.13.10,18, 22. hence that ſmoothing , or ſlicking of their tongues, Jer. 23.31.

prophecie] Heb. ſee,as before.

deceits] Or,illuſions,Job 16.3.not that they ſo termed them, but that they were ſo indeed, Jer.5. 31. & 23.16,25,26,32. Ezek.13.7,8.

V.11. Get ye out of the way,turn aſide out of the path] Take another courſe, then that ye now do; be not ſo ſtrict, and preciſe in your preachings, Mic.2.6. the ſame thing in divers terms.

cauſe the holy one of Iſrael to ceaſe from before us] Or, from us; as Chap.21.15.& 31.8.& 37.6. talk not ſo much to us of the holy one of Iſrael , (a term then very riſe in the mouth of Gods meſſengers,Chap.1.4 & 5.19,24. & 10.20. & 12.6. & 17.7.& 29.19,23.)moleſt us no more, with ſo many meſſages from him: ſee Job 21.14. Some render the words, make the holy one of Iſrael turn out of the way, that he may ceaſe from before us; that he and we may not meet, to trouble us in our way, but we may walk as we liſt: but this ſeems a little too much ſtrained.

V.12. Wherefore thus ſaith the holy one of Iſrael]He proceedeth to fore-tell what for this their extream impiety ſhould befall them;and he maketh his introduction unto the denunciation of it,with that title that they ſcoft at,and deſired not to hear,ver.11.

Becauſe ye deſpiſe this word] Ye ſet light, by the word of warning,admonition, and advice now given you,from God, by the mouth of his meſſenger,v.7,15.

and truſt in oppreſſion,and perverſeneſſe,and ſtay thereupon]Ye truſt to your ſhifts,and your means, compaſſed by wrong dealing, thereby making account to ſecure your ſelves. See Chap,28.15.

oppreſſion] Or, as Some, fraud: ſee Pſalm 62.10. & chap. 33.15. Howbeit,ſome learned Criticks ſuppoſe the word here uſed,by a tranſpoſition of letters, to be put for another word, that ſignifieth perverſneſſe; the rather, becauſe this, and the next,are found both joyned,as here,together,Prov.2.15. and the like tranſpoſition is found in many other words; as in that for a ſheep,Lev.14.21.& 17.3. in that,for a garment, Exod. 22. 9,23.and others.

perverſneſſe] Heb.a perverted, or croſſe way, or courſe, it is rendred froward, Prov. 2.15. & 3.32. & 14.2. a defect of the ſubject;as vile,for vile grapes,Chap.5.24. burning, for burning fire,Jer.36.22. untempered,for untempered morter,Ezek.13.11. ſuch croſs courſes,by which they departed from God, (as the word importeth, from whence it cometh, uſed Prov.3.21.) leaving him,and his advice,to cleave to courſes of their own, ver.11.

ſtay thereupon] Truſt thereunto, as of ſtrength ſufficient to ſupport you; a metaphor taken from a ſtaff, wherewith a man ſtayeth himſelf up: ſee Chap.3.1.& 10.20.& 50.10.

V.13. Therefore this iniquity ſhall be unto you,as a breach ready to fall,ſwelling out in an high wall, whoſe breaking cometh ſuddenly at an inſtant.] The ground of the denunciation was in the verſe before-going; the ſubject matter of it followeth in this, and the next. The ſhifts and devices that you truſt to, ſhall all fall to pieces, and your ſelves periſh irrecoverably together with them.

this iniquity] This your vain confidence, and the wealth ſo gotten (Luke 16.9.) which you truſt to, verſe 12. Pſalm 52.7.

as a breach ready to fall] Heb.as a rupture(Neh.6.1.Iob 16. 14.)falling,ſo periſhing, for ready to periſh, Chap. 27.13. but here rather,threatning a fall, as ſome render it; becauſe the rupture,or breach,cannot be ſaid properly to fall: or, as others,a rupture of a falling wall,or a wall ready to fall, ſupplying the word uſed,Pſalm 62. 3.another then that which hereafter followeth;as the flower of a fading plant, Chap.28. 4. a defect of the ſubject: ſee v.12. This your inſolency,and arrogancy,is but a fore-runner of your fall. Prov. 16. 18. and 18.12.

ſwelling out] As blains,or bliſters,do on mens bodies,which are hence ſo termed,Exod.9.9,20.the latine termeth it, a bellying wall;whence the proverb,take heed of over-charging a wal with a belly,becauſe ſuch are prone to burſt.

in an high wall] The leſſe able to ſtand for the weight it beareth,and the more dangerous in its fall,Mat.7.27.I ſuppoſe they ſit here beſide the cuſhion,who conceive in theſe words, an alluſion to be unto men cruſht to pieces, by the fall of a wall; as 1 Kings 20.30.Luke 13.4. See Pſalm 62.3.

whoſe breaking] Or,breach: that is,rending aſunder in the fall,for the former rupture within, and the giving out thereupon,before-mentioned,go both of them, before the fall, and fore-ſhew what would enſue.

ſuddenly at an inſtant] Chap.29.5.

V.14. And he ſhall break it,as the breaking of a potters veſſell, that is broken in pieces, he ſhall not ſpare, ſo that there ſhall not be found in the burſting of it,a ſheard to take fire from the hearth, or take water withall from the pit] All your plots and projects,and all the ſtays ye truſt to,ſhall be ſo quaſht & daſht to pieces,that nothing ſhall come of them, that may do you any ſervice, or be in the leaſt manner uſefull to you, much leſſe yeeld you that ſecurity that you expect from them.

he ſhall break it] He,that is, God, ſay ſome; the enemy, ſay others; true of both, but neither here needfull, the word being taken indefinitely: he ſhall break it,that is,it ſhall be broken: and that is enough to expreſs the Prophets mind: ſo Chap. 9.6.Jer.23.6.Amos 4.2.Mic.2.4.Hab.3.17.

it] That is,the iniquity,v.13. that ye truſt to, and all the deſigns that ye build thereupon,Chap.29.16. howbeit,ſome refer it to the wall before-mentioned,v.13.which when it falleth,is with the fall of it ſo ſhattered and battered, that it is with it, as with an earthen bottle that is burſt all to ſhivers.

as the breaking of a potters veſſel] Heb. according to the breach(as Chap.13.19. or,as with the breach, (as Chap.22.17, 18.) of a bottel of the potters: as Jer.19.1. as an earthen bottell, when it falleth to the ground, or is thrown upon the pavement, is wont to break all to ſhivers, ſo as it cannot be pieced together, or made up again: ſee Jer.19.11.

broken in pieces] Or,to ſhivers, Mic.1.7. with Chapter 27. verſe 9.

he ſhall not ſpare] Or,which one ſpareth not: to make the connexion the clearer, a defect of the relative; as ver. 5,6,9. which a man, the owner of it,or other,hath no regard to,what becomes of it,or throweth away, on purpoſe, to break it: or, that is not ſpared; no regard being had to it,as before.

ſo that] Heb.and; as Chap.10.19.Jer.14.19.

there ſhall not be found] Or, there remaineth not; as Chap. 13.15.

in the burſting of it] Or,among the ſhivers, or broken pieces of it,to wit,of the bottle.

a ſheard] Job 2.8.

to take fire] As Prov.6.27.& 25.22. whence the name of tongs,to take fire with,Exod.35.3.

The hearth] for which another word, Pſal. 102. 3. Both from burning, chap. 33. 14.

To take up] This word is uſed, of liquor, (as the former of fire) Hag. 2. 16. to draw out, in this notion no where elſe found.

the pit] Made of purpoſe for receit of water,Jer.14.3.from an Ethiopick term, ſaith one, that ſignifieth to gather together,Mat.13.2.& 18.20.

V.15. For thus ſaith the Lord God,the holy one of Iſrael] Or, Thus ſaid, This is the advice, that God, whom ye liſt not to hear named,gave you: ſee ver.11,12.

In returning,and reſt ſhall ye be ſaved; in quietneſſe and confidence ſhall be your ſtrength] Your only means of ſtrength and ſafety is by reſting quietly on God, and truſting to his protection;and not ſeeking for ſhelter,or relying upon reliefs from abroad,v.7.

in returning] Or, by returning,to wit,unto God, by repentance,Jer.3.1,12,14. & 4.1. Or,as ſome rather, by quietneſſe: for it is a noun,not a verb: and howſoever the verb of returning, be commonly uſed of repenting: yet doth no noun, or verball thence deduced,ſignifie repentance,in Scripture, as by almoſt a generall miſtake,is commonly imagined: the one,to wit,teſhubah,is uſed of other returns; of the times of the year, 2 Sam.11.1. 1 Kings 20.22. of ſpeech,in way of anſwer,Job 21.34.& 34.36.from journey home,1 Sam.7.17. of return by repentance,in Scripture no where: howſoever, the Rabbines do commonly ſo uſe it; as where they ſay, that it was one of thoſe ſeven things, that were made before the world began: the other,to wit,Meſhubah, in which the mem is no prepoſition,but a meer miniſterial,or formative letter,is never uſed,as the Hebrew Criticks obſerve,but in way of reproof, and is ſo far from ſignifying repentance or converſion to God, that it ever importeth averſion from, or rebellion againſt God, Jer. 2. 18.& 3.22.& 5.6. & 8.5. & 14.5. Hoſ.11.7. & 14.5. and the reaſon is, becauſe the verb whereof both come, ſignifies, as well to turn from,as to turn to; yea, in one form it is no otherwiſe uſed then to turn away,and revolt,Chap.57.17. Jer.3.14, 22. & 8.5.& 31.22. & 49.4. or, to turn away, and make to revolt, Chap.47.10.one place only is ambiguous, Prov.1.32. where ſome render this word, averſion;others,& ſo the moſt of the Jewiſh,eaſe,or reſt; and this,the rather, becauſe tranquility followeth: from whence alſo,ſome ſo render the word ſhubah(no where elſe found)here; where it is joyned with two other words of the ſelf-ſame notion, and cometh very neer home to the term of ſitting ſtill,ver.7.to which alſo the uſe of the verb,whence it cometh,is by good Writers deemed in many places to incline,as among others, Pſalm 23.6. I ſhall ſit quietly in the houſe of God, Num.10.36. at the ſitting down of the Ark,Cauſe to reſt, O Lord,the many thouſands of Iſrael; and Pſalm 23.3.he quieteth my ſoul,or maketh me to reſt,and Jer.30. 10 & 46.27.Jacob ſhall reſt,and be quiet,and at eaſe, where it is joyned in both places, with the ſame word, that this is knit unto here. Yet ſome other interpret it, of turning from their purpoſe, of ſeeking, or ſending to Egypt. But that of reſt, and keeping quiet, ſeems beſt to ſort with the context. See Chap.7.4.

ſhall ye be ſaved] Or,may ye be ſaved; in a potential notion; this is the onely way of ſafety for you, if ye be content to embrace it.

in quietneſſe] See Chap.7.4. confidence] In truſting to God,and depending upon him, 1 Chr.1.20. 2 Chr.13.18.& 16.8,9. Pſalm 34.22. & 37.40. & 125.1.Chap.26.3,4.See the contrary,Chap.7.9.

ſtrength] As ver.7.though another word here uſed.

and ye would not] Or,yet ye would not; as Chap.29.2. Ye would not accept of Gods gracious offer, nor follow his advice: ſee Prov.1.25.Mat.23.37.

V.16. But ye ſaid, No; for we will flee upon horſes; therefore ſhall ye flee: and we will ride upon the ſwift; therefore ſhall they that purſue you,be ſwift.] Ye make account to ſecure your ſelves better another way, to wit, by poſting apace upon ſwift beaſts,if any enemy appear,out towards Egypt; but this ſhift of yours will not ſtand you in ſtead: for your enemies will be too ſwift for you, they will purſue you, and overtake you, ere ye get thither.

But] Heb. And; as Chap.29.13.

Ye ſaid] Or, ye ſay: Ye think with your ſelves; as Pſalm 14.1.

No:] We will not ſo do, Jer.6.16,17.& 44.16.

for] Or, but: as Chap.39.23.

we will flee upon horſes] Heb, horſe: as afterward, a ſwift one, eſcape by help of them: ſee Hoſ. 14.13. yet ſome render it, we will flee to horſes, as to a people, v.6. to the help of horſes, which Egypt was ſtored with, Chap.31.1. ſo Pſalm 20.7. but the branch following, carries it rather the former way: ſwift beaſts, as he ſometime ſaid, being for flight, rather then for fight.

flee ye ſhall] This ſome refer to Zedekiahs flight, Jer.39.4. Others, to the flight of Captain John with his Complices, afterward into Egypt, Jer.43.5-7. But it is not unlikely, but that many of them alſo, ſo endeavoured to do upon Sennacheribs approach: though ſome expound it, ye ſhall flee indeed, that is, ye ſhall be carried captive, and exiled: and it is true, that in Greek and Latine, flight is uſed, for exilement enforced: but not ſo, I ſuppoſe, in Hebrew; and the next branch goeth the other way.

on ſwift ones] Heb. on a light, that is, ſwift one; as Chap. 19.1. ſwift, for ſwift beaſt, or ſwift horſe, as ſome, to make the gender agree, a defect of the ſubject, as v.22,13. and ſwift one, for ſwift ones; as before, horſe, for horſes; and beaſt, for beaſts, as Jon.4.11.

they that purſue you ſhall be ſwift] The enemy ſhall make after you, and match you, if not exceed you in ſwiftneſſe: ſo that the ſwiftneſſe of your horſes, be they never ſo ſwift, ſhall not ſtand you in any ſtead, Chap.5.26. Jer.4.13. Lam.4.19. Hab.1.8. Pſalm 33.16,17. Amos 2.14-16.

V.17. One thouſand ſhall flee at the rebuke of one: at the rebuke of five ſhall ye flee] A ſmall company of the enemy ſhall be able to put you all to flight: ſee Deut.32.30.

ſhall flee] Supplyed out of the following branch: ſee the like, Chap.13.13. & 18.7.

the rebuke] Not verbal, but actual, the aſſault, or onſet: as Pſalm 76.6. yet ſeldom in this notion uſed, but of God: but here made choice of, to ſhew what a ſmall matter ſhould then diſmay them, and cauſe them to turn the back to the foes, notwithſtanding all their confident conceits at preſent.

five] A ſmall and inconſiderable number, Lev.26.8.

ſhall ye flee] Or, ſhall ye all flee: for that ſeems to be ſupplyed: as 1 Sam.30.8.

untill ye be left, as a beacon upon the top of a mountain, and as an enſign on a hill.] That is, as moſt underſtand it, untill a very ſmall remnant of you be left, being, through Gods mercy, reſerved, after that the main bulk and body of you, hath, through Gods juſt judgment, bin cut off and deſtroyed, ch.1.9.& 6.13. & 10.12. & 17.6,9.& 37.32. But I ſuppoſe rather (for he ſpeaketh not here of killing and deſtroying, but of chaſtiſing and putting to flight) the meaning to be, that they ſhould be ſo diſperſed, that they ſhould not be able to ralley, or bring their troops into a body again, or to be any conſiderable company of them, in any one place together; but that they ſhould, being ſcattered one from another, be found ſtragling, here one, and there another, as a beacon, or the like, that ſtandeth alone on ſome hill by it ſelf. Hither belongeth that of coming out againſt an enemy one way, and fleeing ſeven ways before him, Deut.18. 7,25.

left] Either left alive, eſcaping: as Chap. 17.9. and ſo Luke 17.35,36. or forſaken, left alone, without company: as c.1.8.& 6.12. each one ſhifting, as in ſuch flight, and flighting, for himſelf.

as a beacon] Heb. a maſt, ch.33.23. Ezek.27.5. but here uſed for ſuch a tall pole, as our may-poles, reſembling a maſt, erected on an hill, or ſet up in ſome eminent place, for ſome ſpecial publike uſe, as from thence to give warning of the approach of ſome hoſtile troops, or the like: for it ſeems but weak, that ſome here have, of ſetting up the maſt of a ſhip on ſome foreland, where the ſhip had it ſelf miſcarried: nor is it ſo probable, that hereby ſhould be underſtood, a tree bereaſt of branches or boughs: or, a tree, or two, left for maſts, or ſtandars, or ſea-marks, or way-marks, when all the reſt of the wood about it, hath bin felled.

as an enſign on a hill] Of which, ſee on Chap.13.2. but in this place it ſeems to intend no other, then ſuch as was in the former branch intimated: ſo it is uſed, Num.21.8. of the pole, on which Moſes pitched the ſerpent of braſs: An emblem of ſolitarineſs in this place.

V.18. And therefore will the Lord wait, that he may be gracious unto you; and therefore will he be exalted, that he may have mercy upon you] . Here beginneth the latter part of this Sermon, containing matter of comfort, for the conſtant, and convert faithfull, laid down in gracious promiſes, referred to two heads; the one, concerning the deliverance and reſtitution of Gods people, v.18-26. the other, concerning the deſtruction of the Aſſyrian, their enemy, v.27-33.

And therefore] Or, Yet therefore: as Chap.29.2. or, And yet or, Notwithſtanding: as chap.51.21. Jer.16.14.& 30.16. for all this, if it have reference to what went before: or, therefore, for this end, if it have reference to what followeth; in all that God doth in this kind, he intendeth nothing but grace and mercy unto thoſe that be his; either that continue ſtill faithfull to him, or are reclaimed and amended by theſe judgments upon them: ſee 2 Chr.15.3-6.

will the Lord wait] That is, as ſome, he reſpites, and ſuſpends the execution of judgment, at preſent, expecting your reformation and repentance, that he may not proceed in rigour againſt you, Gen.6.3. Jer.3.12.& 8.4-6. & 26.2,3. Ezek.18.31,32.& 33.11. 1 Pet.3.20. 2 Pet.3.9. or, as others rather, he will ſtay and delay the putting an end to theſe troubles, for ſome time, expecting a ſeaſonable time to ſhew mercy, when men being humbled, and amended by them, are fitted for the receit of it, chap.10.20.& 17.7,8.& 27.8,9. v.22. This the rather, becauſe the waiting afterward commended, hath relation hereunto. For as for thoſe that take it tranſitively, as ſome of the Jewiſh Doctors do, the Lord will make to wait, that is, will cauſe you to wait and depend upon him, they ſeem to force the text aſide, out of its plain path.

will he be exalted] That is, as ſome, he will keep aloof, for a time, untill the ſeaſon of ſhewing mercy come, Pſalm 10.1. but I find not where the word is ſo uſed; rather God, who ſeemed to ſit ſtil, and not regard what was done, while the enemy prevailed, will at length raiſe up himſelf, and advance his own name, both in the deſtruction of the enemy, and the deliverance of his people, Pſalm 46.10. Chap.33.10.

upon you] That have kept conſtantly with him, or have ſincerely returned to him, Chap.1.27. & 59.20.

for the Lord is a God of judgement] Judgment, is in Scripture taken, ſometime, for a ſtrict, ſevere, and exact execution of juſtice on delinquents, as chap.28.17. And ſo is God, a God of judgment, in regard of obſtinate wicked ones, Exod.34.7. Pſal.146.7. ch.5.16. and ſo ſome would have it here. Sometime, again, it is put for moderation, and diſcretion; as Pſal.112.5. ſuch as God uſeth in the chaſtiſement of his children, oppoſed to wrath, or rage, rather, and rigour of juſtice, chap.27.8. Jer.10.24. & 30.11. and ſo it is here to be underſtood. He is a God, that doth all things with wiſedom, moderation and diſcretion, eſpecially in his carriage towards, and dealings with his children. See chap.28.24-29.

Bleſſed are all they that wait for him] While he waiteth to ſhew himſelf gracious unto them: That are content to wait quietly, depending upon him for deliverance, not running out, this way, and that way; and ſeeking by indirect courſes, to relieve, or ſecure themſelves; but expecting it from him, when to him, it ſhall ſeem ſeaſonable to ſend it, Pſalm 33.20,21.& 40.1. Ch.8.17. & 28.16. & 49.23. Dan.12.12. Hab.2.3. Zeph.3.8.

V.19. For the people ſhall dwell in Zion at Jeruſalem: thou ſhalt weep no more] He proceedeth to ſhew wherein God would be gracious, and merciful to them, to wit, in making Jeruſalem a place of refuge, and ſafegard for them; and upon their ſupplications to him, in returning ſuch gracious anſwer, not by verbal promiſes onely, but by actual performances, as ſhould put an end to all their, both fears and tears. See ch.37. The words may be read, For a people in Zion ſhall ſit ſtill; (as ver.7. or, ſit quietly, and ſafely, (as Pſal.23.6. See ver.15.) and in Jeruſalem; as ſome render it. See chap.10.12. A company of Gods people, that either before, were abiding in Jeruſalem, or repaired thither out of other parts of Iudea, upon the Aſſyrian invaſion, for ſhelter and ſuccour, ſhall through Gods gracious protection, ſit there in ſafety, ch.37.35. Or, which I conceive to be the genuine ſenſe; For thou the peope (I mean) of Zion, that abide, or dwell in Ieruſalem, ſhalt weep no more. Of which change of the perſon, ſee 1 King.22.28. Iob 17.10. & 18.4. Which laſt is a fit parallel to this, thus read; and ſheweth that ſuch interchanges are found, as well in the Indicative mood, as in the Imperative, to which ſome Grammarians would reſtrain them. It is word for word there, Tearing his ſoul in anger, ſhall the land for thee be left? for, O thou that teareſt thy ſelf in thine anger, ſhall the land for thee be left? and here, People in Zion ſhall dwell, or, abideth in Jeruſalem: Thou ſhalt not weeping, weep; for, O thou people of Zion, that dwelleſt, or, abideſt in Jeruſalem, thou ſhalt no more weep. People in Zion, for, people of Zion: As mountains in Gilboa, for, mountains of Gilboa, 2 Sam.1.21. The defect of the relative, here ſupplyed, is ſo common, as nothing more. See chap.28.12,26,29. ver.5,6,9,14. That of the copulative, uſual alſo, (as Chap.17.14. & 27.4.) is not here material; becauſe it varieth not in this regard, either the ſenſe, or the ſyntax. See chap.10.24.

thou ſhalt weep no more] Heb. thou ſhalt not weeping weep; as Ier. 22. 20. As formerly thou didſt, Ch. 33. 7. See Chap. 25. 8, & 35. 10.

he will be very gracious unto thee, at the voice of thy cry; when he ſhall hear it, he ſhall anſwer thee] See the complement hereof, 2 Chr. 32. 20, 21. Chap. 37. 4, 6, 7, 15, 21, 22, 35, 36.

he will be very gracious unto thee] He, the Lord; as ver. 23. Heb. will dealing graciouſly, deal graciouſly with thee. The word, ſo repeated, hath an emphaſis in it, as before.

at the voice of thy cry] Heb. of thy crying; as Chap. 57. 13.

when he heareth it] Heb. as (that is, ſo ſoon as) he heareth it. Or, ſo ſoon as he heareth: for the Hebrew Criticks ſuppoſe the pronoun to refer to the perſon hearing, not to the thing heard: but then there muſt be a defect of the word it, to be ſupplyed, as Ch. 28. 20, 28. and oft elſewhere.

he will anſwer thee] Heb. he hath anſwered thee. The preſent tenſe for the future; as Chap. 20. 16. Mic. 7. 8. he will grant thy requeſt: do what thou requireſt, for thee: as Pſal. 118. 5. & 143. 1. See chap. 58. 9. & 65. 24.

V. 20. And though the Lord give you the bread of adverſity, and water of affliction, yet ſhall not thy teachers be removed into a corner any more; but thine eyes ſhall ſee thy teachers] The effect followeth, both of the diſtreſs that God had brought them into, and of his gracious deliverance of them, out of it again: (as Pſal. 66. 11, 12.) to wit, that they ſhould then look after, and attend to their teachers, who ſhould freely admoniſh them, which they had formerly refuſed to do, ver. 20, 21. and ſurceaſe their former idolatrous courſes, abandoning, and aboliſhing whatſoever had any relation thereunto, ver. 22.

And though the Lord give you] A defect of the diſcretive; as, Iob 19. 26. Though others render it, The Lord indeed will give you. And ſome of the Rabbines, And when, or after that the Lord hath given you thy teachers ſhall not be removed. See the like conſtruction, Ruth, 2. 9. Howbeit, becauſe the words are, by ſome, deemed to contain matter of promiſe, rather then menace; they read them far otherwiſe then our verſion, and the moſt, exhibite: the Belgick verſion thus, And the Lord will give you bread in adverſity, and water in affliction. The particle, as oft, wanting. So Chap. 26. 8, 18. Ier. 5. 7. & 11. 23. That is, he will in your greateſt ſtreights, ſupply you with ſome competency of neceſſaries, 1 King. 17. 6. Pſal. 33. 19. & 34. 10. See chap. 33. 16. And this I ſhould rather incline to, the ſyntax being familiar, and ſuiting well with the context, then that which another learned writer exhibiteth, I will make your adverſity bread, and your affliction water: I will make your afflictions to be as food to you. But the frequent uſe of the proverbial form, ſeems much to ſtrengthen the received reading.

bread of adverſity, and water of affliction] Or, bread of ſtraights, and water of affliction; for, oppreſſion; which our margent hath, ſorteth not ſo well here. It ſeems to have bin a proverbial form of ſpeech, importing ſhort and ſorry fare, or diet. Such as thoſe uſe to have allowed them, that are ſhut up in priſon; and ſuch as thoſe are put to, in time of a ſiege, that are mured up in ſome city, eſpecially when all the country about them hath been plundred, and ſpoiled by the enemy; the caſe of Samaria, 2 King. 6. 25. and of Jeruſalem, as in the Chaldean ſiege, Ier. 38. 9. & 52. 6. And ſo, albeit, not ſo extream in the Aſſyrian invaſion, Chap. 22. 7. & 36. 1, 12. Of the phraſe, ſee Deut. 16. 3. 1 King. 22. 27. 2 Chr. 18. 26. Mean while they ſeem to run far beyond the mark, that put this off to the Maccabees times: and thoſe that would alter the received conſtruction, becauſe the word water, is not in a contract, but in an entire form, might have obſerved, that ſo it is alſo, in thoſe places of the ſacred ſtory pointed to, where the ſyntax is, without contradiction, the ſame.

yet] Heb. and. But ſo Chap. 29. 20. ver. 18. Howbeit, in this place, it may ſeem to be more fitly (if at all here expreſſed) rendred, then, as Chap. 24. 3. See the beginning of the verſe.

ſhall not thy teachers be removed into a corner any more] The word, here uſed, and no where elſe found, (as many other in this Prophet, which maketh his writings the more difficult) is derived from one that ſignifieth, ſometime the wing of a fowl, chap. 10. 14. Sometime the skirt of a garment, Numb. 15. 38. ſometime, the corner, or border, the utmoſt part of a land, chap. 11. 12. Hence divers expoſitions of the word in this place, ſome rendring it, as our verſion, driven into corners. But ſuch kinde of corners, or hidden and ſecret places, the word ſeems not to ſignify. Others, driven away, or run away into remote parts; which they underſtand of ſeeking after forreign people for relief, Prov. 17. 24. Others, thy teachers ſhall not hide their faces with the skirt of their garment; as men are wont to do, that they may not ſee them, or be ſeen of them, whom they regard not, or by whom they are not regarded, 2 King. 3. 14. Others, laſtly, they ſhall not flye from thee, but ſtay by thee; they ſhall not be on the wing, either driven, or called away, and removed far from thee, Pſal. 55. 6, 7. And this moſt follow, as implying, that though God kept them in ſtreights, and held them to hard meat, for ſome ſpace of time, yet during that time they ſhould not want of his Prophets, Eſay, and others, to inſtruct them. This is true, but I conceive it not to be the Prophets meaning in this place; wherein he ſeems rather to relate how it ſhould be with them, when by this hand of God that had been upon them, they were now reclaimed, to wit, that their teachers ſhould not be inhibited, and thruſt away by them, as formerly they had been, ver. 10, 11. for thoſe words, any more, do evidently relate to what had before time been with them. And I ſhall crave leave to add a further notion, which I ſuppoſe may have place here. I took away, ſaith the Aſſyrian, the wealth of the world, like eggs out of a birds-neſt, and none durſt move the wing againſt me, ch. 10. 14. in alluſion whereunto, to wit, to the manner of fowls, which with the wing are wont to ſtrike at, and put by the hand, that offereth to take eggs, or chickins from under them; the Prophet here making uſe of an unuſual word, might ſay, Your teachers ſhall not be winged, (as divers, but in another ſenſe, render it) that is, wing-beaten, (as cudgeld, for beaten with a cudgel) thruſt aſide, and put away, by ſuch as diſtaſte what they deliver. But this I ſubmit to the judgement of others.

thy teachers] That is, ſay ſome, Ezekiah, and his godly Princes, that ſet them, at firſt, into the good way of God, 2 King. 29. 5-12. & 30. 2, 5-9, 12. Others, Eſay, and the other religious Prieſts and Prophets. But becauſe there is an ambiguity in the word; it is is uſed, ſometime, for rain, that is caſt forth and ſhed abroad, Joel 2. 23. ſometime, for an archer, that ſendeth out ſhafts, 2 Sam. 11. 24. ſometime, for a teacher, that poureth out, and diſtilleth doctrine like rain, Deut. 32. 2. Chap. 9. 14. Prov. 5. 13. Some of the Hebrew Commenters, (nor want there that concur with them) would have the meaning to be, that their rain ſhould not be reſtrained, or kept from them, that the ground being watered, they might then again have plenty, inſtead of that ſcarcity, which they were afflicted with before. And becauſe it might be objected that the word is plural: whereas neither this, nor another of the ſame linage, are in this notion ever found, but ſingular. This, to put by, they obſerve, that the verb which it is joyned with, is ſingular: and that there may be an irregularity in the form of the word. But the words next following, ver. 21. carry it the former way. And as for the incongruity of the number, it is a thing ſo common, as nothing more, in a diſtributive way, to joyn a noun plural, with a verb ſingular; thy teachers, for any one of them. So Exod. 17. 12. Eſt. 9. 23. Pſal. 73. 7. Joel 1. 20. And the ſpeech is emphatical, not any of thy teachers, be he never ſo mean, ſhall be ſlighted, rejected, or diſregarded by thee. Beſides, that the bleſſing of rain, and ſeaſonable ſhowers, comes after apart, ver. 23.

but] Heb. and: as Chap. 28. 7.

thine eyes ſhall ſee thy teachers] Thy rain, ſay ſome; but of that, before: and thy rain, is a phraſe unuſual in Scripture. This moſt expound, of having with them, and enjoying their teachers. And the word, ſeeing, in Scripture, is not ſeldom ſo uſed, Pſal. 34. 12. Chap. 29. 23. & 33. 17. Jer. 17. 6. ſo that they ſhould not complain of a want of them, as in ſome ages they have done, Pſal. 74. 9. Amos 8. 11, 12. Howbeit, I conceive the meaning here to be, (delivered, in way of oppoſition, to their wonted carriage) that they ſhould look after their teachers, with due reſpect and regard, whom they had looked away from, and rejected before. Your eyes ſee, is an emphatical phraſe in Scripture, Gen. 45. 12. Joſh. 24. 7. But it is here yet more emphatical; Thine eyes ſhall be ſeeing; thou ſhalt be frequently, yea, continually eying of them, and looking after them, as thoſe on whom ye depend for inſtruction, and direction, as 2 Chr. 20. 12. Pſal. 123. 1, 2. So Solomon admoniſheth his ſon, never to have his eyes off his precepts, Prov. 3. 21. & 4. 21.

V. 21. And thine ears ſhall hear a word behinde thee, ſaying, This is the way: walk ye in it, when ye turn to the right hand, and when ye turn to the left] Theſe words alſo, as the former, are, by moſt, underſtood of a promiſe of direction, that God would afford them, by his Word and Spirit, in the time of their afflictions, before mentioned, ver. 20. And they ſuit well with that direction, whereby God is wont, in all eſtates, ſo to guide his, that they may walk evenly, and uprightly, in thoſe waies, that tend to heaven and happineſs, Pſal. 25. 9, 12, 14. Chap. 35. 8. & 59. 21. Joh. 16. 13. Yet I adhere rather to thoſe who conceive this to be ſpoken of the new diſpoſition, and demeanure of Gods people; who as they ſhould have their eyes now ſet upon their teachers, whom they expected inſtruction from, Luk. 4. 20. ſo their ears ſhould be ready to hearken to, and follow ſuch directions, for the ordering of their lives, as from them they ſhould receive See Chap. 29. 18.

thine ears] Now opened, Chap. 51. 5.

ſhall hear] Hearken to: which before they refuſed to do, Chap. 28. 12. ver. 9, 15.

a word behinde thee] Alluding to a Pedagogue, ſaith one, that following the children, whom he hath charge of, calleth to them, and mindeth them of the way, when he ſeeth them going out of it. To a Shepherd, ſaith another, that driving his ſheep before him, whiſtleth them in, when he ſeeth them ready to ſtray.

this is the way] The right way. The way that ye ſhould go, Pſal.25.9. Jer.6.16.

when ye turn to the right hand, and when ye turn to the left] Heb, when ye right hand it, and when ye left hand it. But, and, is here for, or; as Job 31. 5, 7, 9. It ſeems to have been a proverbial form of ſpeech, by the common uſe of it, Gen. 13. 9. and 24. 49. 1 Sam.6.12. 2 Sam. 2.22. & 14.19. Job 23.9. Chap.9.19. & 54.3 Taken from paſſengers, that journey on the road, or the Kings high-way, leading to ſome place of note, whither they are bound; which they muſt not leave, but keep preciſely to it, becauſe if they go out of it, over hedg or ditch, they treſpaſs upon upon thoſe, into whoſe lands they break, or on whoſe ground they tread; if they ſtrike into any lane, or by-path, on either ſide, they caſt themſelves behinde hand in their journey; and unleſs they get timely into it again, are not like to attain the place they intend, Numb.20.17. Deut. 2.27. It is, both here, and elſewhere, applyed to the ſtrait way of Gods precepts, whether laid down in his law, in general, or delivered in ſpecial, by the mouth of his meſſengers; which is preciſely to be obſerved, without declining any way from it, Deut.5.32. & 17. 11, 20. & 28.14. Joſh. 1.7. & 23. 6. 2 Kings 22.2. 2 Chr.34.2. Prov. 4. 27. They ſeem to ſwerve from the genuine ſenſe of the phraſe, who, by right hand, here underſtand proſperity; by the left hand, adverſity: for proſperity and adverſity, are not the waies that men turn aſide into, in leaving Gods way; but companions rather with them in their way, be it good or bad; or affections indifferent in themſelves, neither morally good nor bad, of the way that they walk in, Chap. 26. 8. The meaning is plain, that we ought not to ſwerve any way, from any courſe, that God directeth us to, by his word. See Job 23.10-12. Pſal.18.21,22. & 119. 1,33-37,101,102,128.

V. 22. Thou ſhalt defile alſo the covering of thy graven images of ſilver, and the ornament of thy molten images of gold] Another effect of their change, and argument of their amendment; the defacing of their idols, with all their appurtenances, Deut.7.5. 2 Kings 23. 4,8.

defile] Not onely convert them to a prophane, or common uſe, as ſome would have it; (there is another word for that, Deut.20.6. 1 Sam.21.4.) but uſe it in a diſgraceful manner: as Deut.9.21. 2 Kings 18.4. So 2 Kings 23. 8,13,24.

the covering] The places of ſilver, or leaves of gold, or the like, wherewith their images were overlaid, being not all of maſſy metal: ſo Exod.38.17,19. Numb.16.38,39. See Chap. 40. 19. Jer.10.4,9.

of thy graven images of ſilver] Or, thy ſilver graven images. See Chap. 2.20. both for this, and the next. Graven images, and molten ones, put here for images of all ſorts; as Deut. 27. 17. Chap.42.17.

the ornament] Or, coat: Veſtment, garment; as Exod. 28. 5. & 39.5. Which was oft-times of very rich and coſtly matter, as was that, made all of beaten gold, which Denyſe, the Sicilian tyrant, took off from an image of Jupiter, and gave him a cotton coat inſtead of it; affirming that the other was too heavy for Summer, and too cold for winter, this more ſuteable for either ſeaſon. Cicero de natur. Deor. lib. 3. and Valer. Maximus, lib. 1. c. 1.

thou ſhalt caſt them away, as a menſtruous cloth, thou ſhalt ſay unto it, Get thee hence] Thou ſhalt hate and abhor, not onely thine idols themſelves, but whatſoever had any relation to them, and teſtifie the ſincerity of thy converſion to God, by the abandoning and aboliſhing of them. See Chap. 27.9.

caſt them away] Heb. diſperſe, or, ſcatter them; being broken, and torn to pieces. See Jer. 22. 28. Exod. 32. 20. 2 Kings 23. 4,6,12.

as a menſtruous cloth] Heb. one ſick of her infirmity, Lev.12. 2. & 15.33. There is, therefore, a defect of the ſubſtantive in regiment: as Chap. 17. 5. & 41.24. ſupplied, Chap.64.6. and to be ſupplyed here, that it may anſwer to the word coat, or, veſtment, before. Thou ſhalt reckon it, as a moſt abominable thing, and accordingly diſpoſe of it, or deal with it.

unto it] them, before; it, now: that is, to each of them. None ſo rich, or ſpecious, that thou ſhalt deſire to retain, Deut.7.25. For the ſyntax, ſee the like, Job 12.7.

Get thee hence] Go out, or, Be gon. A ſpeech of indignation, and deteſtation, Matt 4. 10. & 16.23. Get ye gon, I have nothing further to do with you; there is a divorce between you and me. An alluſion it may well be, to ſomewhat of that kinde, wherein the word is uſed, Deut. 24. 2. Jer. 3.1. See Hoſ.14.8.

V.23. Then ſhall he give the rain of thy ſeed, that thou ſhalt ſow thy ground withall; and bread of the encreaſe of the earth, and it ſhall be fat and plenteous] As they ſhall manifeſt the ſincerity of their return to God, by the deſtruction of their Idols: ſo ſhall God declare his reconcilement unto them, by bleſſing their tillage, with a rich and plentiful return of encreaſe: ſee chap.37.30. 2 Chr.31.10. ſee alſo, Ezek. 34.26,27. Joel 2.23,24.

Then] Heb. And: as Chap. 24.23. when they do the one, then will God do the other, Hoſh.2.17,21,22.

ſhall be] Or, will be, the Lord: the pronoun, for the noun: as v.19. Exod.34.28. 2 Kings 25.4.

give the rain] Or, give rain, Deut.28.3,4,11,12.

of thy ſeed] Or, for thy ſeed, or to thy ſeed; to water it, and bring it up: the rain of thy ſeed, for rain for thy ſeed: as the rain of your land, for rain for your land, Deut.11.14.

and bread] Or, and he will give bread: ſupplying it from the former branch: as Prov.9.7. ſee 2 Cor.9.10. or, and for thy bread; referring this alſo to rain; rain for thy bread, that is, for thy bread corn: as Job 28.5. chap.28.28. 2 Cor.9.10. and this, the rather, to carry on the tenour of the context the more eavenly: thy bread, as thy ſeed: the pronoun thence ſupplyed: as Pſalm 45.3.

of the encreaſe of the earth] Or, from the revenew of the ground: for ſo is the word rendred, Chap.23.3. and ſignifies whatſoever comes out of the ground.

and it ſhall be fat and plenteous] Or, that it may be, to make it ſo: as Chap.8.21. Mal.1.9. Heb. fat, and fat: for both words have a ſignification of fatneſs, that is, exceeding fat: which applyed to corn, or grain, doth intimate the richneſſe, fulneſſe, fairneſſe, and weightineſs of it; and conſequently, argueth it the fitter for food, and able to give the ſtronger nouriſhment: ſo Gen.27.28,39 Deut.32.14. the fat of the kidneyes of corn, and fat paſture, 1 Chr.4.40. & Ezek. 34. 14. thus, fat, through Gods' footſteps dropping down fatneſs, Pſalm 65.v.11.

In that day ſhall thy cattel feed in large paſtures] God will afford plenty of food, and of all neceſſaries, not for man alone, but for beaſts alſo; not for your ſelves only, but for your cattel, Pſalm 36.6. & 65.12,13. & 104.13 - 15. & 147.8,9. This branch, of right, belongeth unto the next verſe: as being joyntly with it, concerning proviſion for their cattle.

In that day] At the ſame time, as Chap.28.5.

ſhall thy cattle feed] That is, each of them: for the noun is plural, the verb ſingular, as Chap.26.19.

in large paſtures] Heb. in a paſture enlarged: being not pent up, and ſtraightened, as, in the time of the ſiege, they had formerly bin: the word ſignifies, ſometime, a lamb, or ram rather, ſee Chap.16.1. (where taken collectively, as here) Pſalm 37. 20. ſo called of friſking and ſkipping, 2 Sam.6.14,16. as lambs, or rams, are wont to do, Pſalm 114.4,6. ſometime a paſture, wherein cattle uſe ſo to play and ſport themſelves, Pſalm 65. 13. eſpecially, when having bin pent up before, they come now to be inlarged, in paſture, where running at large, they may range freely, and diſport themſelves at pleaſure, and having ſcope enough, they may feed the more plentifully, and battle the better: See Chap.15.17.

V. 24. The oxen likewiſe, and the young aſſes, that ear the ground, ſhall eat clean provender, which hath bin winnowed with the ſhovel, and with the fan.] As their grain ſhall be rich, ſo it ſhall be very plentifull, which both ſeldom concur: there ſhall be ſo great abundance of it, and ſuch plenty of proviſions, that the labouring beaſt ſhall eat, as pure corn, as men are uſually wont to feed on themſelves: or ſuch, ſaith one, as at other times they uſed to reſerve for their Steeds: ſee Pſalm 72.16.

likewiſe] Heb. and; or alſo: as v.22. or even: as Chap.1. 6. or, yea: as Chap.29.23. for there is an emphaſis in it.

oxen, and young aſſes] Both theſe they uſed in earing their grounds, Chap.32.20. though they might not draw both together, Deut.22.10. alluded to, 2 Cor.6.14.

clean provender] So ſome of the Jewiſh Writers on this place, affirming the word, in Arabick, to ſignifie corn, good and pure: though others ſay, that in that language it is uſed for a ſmall kind of peaſe, which the Latines call cicer, whereof Cicero had his name; We Chich peaſe, or Chiches. Others render it, ſawry, or well reliſhed, becauſe it cometh very neer to that word, that ſignifies, leaven, or leavened. Others again, ſharp, becauſe the word hath ſome affinity with that which we call vinegar. The word being no where elſe found, becometh, here, therefore, the more ambiguous: but what corn, or grain, ſhould have to do with leaven, or vinegar, I am not able to conceive; let me add what, peradventure, may with ſome be deemed, as likely as either of theſe: the root from whence it cometh, ſignifieth ſometime, to uſe harſhly, or to oppreſs: whence an oppreſſor, or one that dealeth harſhly, Pſalm 71.4. and one oppreſſed, or harſhly dealt with, Chap.1.17. which word, and this, differ but in one letter, and that letter, in either, wherein they differ, admitteth a mutual interchange. I ſuppoſe, therefore, it may well ſignifie corn, beaten and threſhed out: for threſhing is oft uſed in a notion of oppreſſion, or harſh uſage, Chap.25.10.Amos 1.3.Hab.3.11.and threſhing,or beating out of grain,is called a chaſtiſing of it,Chap.28.26. By the word then here uſed,I underſtand corn threſhed out from the ear,or the ſtraw: for of the cleanneſs of it,from the chaff, or other traſh mixed with it, cometh after in the winnowing: ſo the meaning ſhould be, that their beaſts ſhould eat , not chaff, or ſtraw,as they uſed to do,Chap.11.7.& 65.25. nor corn in the ear,or husk with the ſtraw,or beaten out, but mixed ſtill with baſer ſeed that had grown among it, or other like traſh, as when they trod the mow, they might do, Deut.25.4. but grain threſhed out from the ear, and ſtraw, and winnowed from the chaff and duſt, accurately dreſſed, as if it were for themſelves to eat at their own boards: which way ſoever it be taken,there is a defect of the ſubject,clean,or ſavoury,or ſharp, or threſhed,for ſuch grain, or grain ſo uſed; as ſtanding, for ſtanding corn,Chap.17.5.

provender] Or, as Some render it,for provender: or, inſtead of provender: the word belill here uſed is ſo taken allo, Job 6.5.& 24.6. (though they have another word beſides, for provender,more frequently uſed,Gen.24.25,32. & 42.27.& 43.24.Judg.19.19.) and hath in it a notion of commixtion, or confuſion; as Babel coming from the ſame root hath; and provender is ſo termed, becauſe it conſiſted commonly of divers ſorts of corn, or pulſe, mingled together , as in our horſe-bread: or of the grain, not ſevered as yet from the chaff: in regard whereof,our Prophet,who is wont to be very accurate in the choice of his words, may ſeem the rather here to have uſed it.

that hath bin winnowed] The word ſignifieth primarily to diſperſe,or ſcatter,Lev.26.33.Job 18.15. Prov.15.7. and then to winnow,Ruth 3.2.Jer.21.2.becauſe in winnowing,the chaff is diſperſed, whence that proverbial form of ſpeech, as chaff before the wind,Pſalm 35.5.

with the ſhovel, and with the fan] The former word is no where elſe uſed; in regard whereof, the ſignification is the leſſe certain: but our Jewiſh maſters tell us, that it ſignifieth a ſhovel: ſo called, becauſe by it, the corn is lift, or caſt up againſt the wind,to ſever the chaff from it: and ſome of them ſuppoſe a two-fold manner of clenſing corn intimated,either both ſeverely uſed about the ſame grain, as paſſing through two dreſſings; the one,firſt by the ſhovel, and the ſecond after by the fan: or the one uſed at ſometimes; and the other, at ſome other times,as occaſion and opportunity was: and then the text ſhould be rendred, by way of disjunction, with the ſhovel,or with the fan; either with the one , or the other: as Chap.17.8. Others make but one ſort of dreſſing implied, performed,partly, by the ſhovel, wherewith the grain is caſt up;and partly by the fan,or ſcreen, that receiveth it from the ſhovel: the latter word derived from the verb here uſed, is found, alſo,Jer.15.7.

V.25. And there ſhall be upon every high mountain, and upon every high hill,rivers and ſtreams of waters,in the day of the great ſlaughter,when the towers fall] A proſecution of the former promiſe,of a plentifull meaſure of ſeaſonable ſhowers, for the watering of their Land,to make it the more fertile and fruitful, ver.23.the want of it (not the abundance of it,as with us oft) being the ordinary cauſe of dearth in thoſe parts, Deut.28.12,13,24.2 Sam.21.1,10.1 Kings 17.1. & 18.5.Jer.3.3. & 5.24.& 14.2,3.Amos 4,7,8. The meaning then is, that God would ſend them ſuch a rain of liberalities, as it is Pſalm 68.9. ſuch a larg and liberal quantity of it,that the higher grounds ſhall run down with flouds and ſtreams of it, wherewith both themſelves, that are wont to be dryeſt, and the lands below them,ſhall be abundantly watered,Judg.1.15. Pſalm 104.10. & 133.3. for,I ſuppoſe them to be wide here,who following a Jewiſh Commenter, underſtand all this of ſtorms and tempeſts,that ſhould fall upon the Aſſyrian forces,quartering upon the hils neer to Jeruſalem: ſee ver.30.

high] Or,lofty: as Chap.2.15.

mountain] Of Judah,Ezek.36.8 - 12.

high hill] Heb.lifted up: as Chap.2.12.

rivers and ſtreams of waters] Or, rivers with ſtreams of water. (For though the word be in a plurall form, yet the notion of it is ſingular,as Chap.1.30,39.) flouds divers ways (ſo the word properly ſignifieth, Gen.10.25.) ſtreaming down with water: ſee Chap.44.4.

in the day] At,or after that time, as Chap.4.1,3. the time more particularly deſigned; when it ſhould thus be, to wit,after the overthrow given to Sennacherib,Chap.37.30.

of the great ſlaughter] That God ſhall make of the enemies of his people,that had put them to ſuch ſtraights before in the Camp of Sennacherib,Chap.37.37. See the like,chap.34.5 -7. Ezek.39.17 - 20. Rev.19.17,18.

when the towers fall] Towers,properly great ones: for thence have they this name; and from thence ariſeth ſome variety of reading,2 Sam.22.51.& Pſal. 18.50. put here for great ones in State and place: as Chap.2.15. Sennacheribs great Princes,that fell,no doubt,many of them, among the reſt of his forces,chap.10.8,33. See v.31. Though many refer all this to the ſlaughter of the Babylonians, by the Medes and Perſians,Chap.13.15 - 18.& 14. 21. and the fall of Babels ſtately Towers,Jer.50.27,30.& 51.25,40,53,58. But the following diſcourſe from v.27.carryeth it ſtrongly the other way.

V.26. Moreover the light of the moon ſhall be as the light of the ſun,and the light of the ſun ſhal be ſeven-fold,as the light of ſeven days] This paſſage moſt of the Jewiſh Interpreters expound of the days of the Meſſias, after the ſlaughter of Gog and Magog.Ezek.39.And many of ours herein ſwerve not much from them,underſtanding it,ſome,of the great glory of the Church here upon earth, in the times of the Goſpel, being mightily enlarged,and with ſpiritual endowments abundantly enriched, chap.11.9.Joel 2.28,29. Mat.28.28,29. Mar.16.15,16. Iohn 7.38,39.Acts 2.17,18,33. the luſtre whereof ſhould be ſuch, that it ſhould far exceed the brightneſs of the celeſtiall luminaries,Chap.24.23. or ſhould far ſurpaſs that, which in fore-going times it had,2 Cor.3.7 - 18. See Chap.32. 15. & 60.17.others,of the glorious condition of the Church triumphant in heaven,chap.60.19,20.Mat.13.43. 1 Cor. 15.40,43. Rev.21.10 - 23. But I rather concur with one of thoſe Jewiſh Commenters,and ſome others of ours, who conceive it to be meant of the great joy and gladneſſe,that the people of God, coming out of thoſe ſtraights, that before they were held in, and freed from thoſe fears, that formerly enthralled them, ſhould now be ſurpriſed with,and poſſeſſed of, upon the ſudden and unexpected deliverance, out of thoſe their grievous diſtreſſes,by the deſtruction,in an inſtant,of thoſe forces,that lay ſo neer them, and preſſed ſo hard upon them, that there ſeemed no poſſibility of eſcape: ſee chap.17.14.& 37.3.v.29. light is commonly put for joy and gladneſſe,Eſt.8.16,17.Pſalm 9.11,12.& 112.4.darkneſſe,for grief,heavineſſe,and dread,chap.8.22.& 9.1,2.& 50.10.Amos 5.18,20. and as when men are in much grief and fear, the heavens themſelves are ſaid to be darkned,and the ſun to be ſet with them, chap.13.10. Ezek.32.7.Amos 8.9.ſo are the heavens,and thoſe heavenly bodies ſaid to ſhine forth,more then ordinarily,bright upon perſons and people , when they are taken with extraordinary joy; which then commonly moſt exceeds,when their dangers and diſtreſſes have bin extraordinary great,and their deliverance out of them,very ſudden,chap.58.10.

as the light of ſeven days] Wherein the World was made, and man ſtood,ſay ſome,as being now reſtored to its original excellency,much eclipſed by mans fall. But neither was there any ſun the three firſt of thoſe ſeven days,Gen.1.16,19.Nor is the time of mans fall certain,& the Prophet plainly expounds himſelf, and ſheweth his meaning to be, that the day-light ſhould,through their exceſs of joy,ſeem ſuch unto them, as if ſeven days of bright ſun-ſhine,were put all into one; a certain number for an uncertain: as Gen.4.15. in the day that the Lord bindeth up the breach of his people, and healeth the ſtroke of their wound.] When God repaireth again thoſe breaches that the Aſſyrian had made in the State of the Jewiſh people,chap.37.30,31.& 38.6.

in the day that] Or, when: as Gen.3.17.Ruth 4.5.

bindeth up the breach of his people] As a wound is wound up, to cloſe it,Luke 10.34.or bones that have bin broken, or disjoynted,being ſet again, are bound up, that they may faſten the better,chap.3.7.Hoſ.6.1.

breach] As ver.13.chap.7.6.

healeth] A metaphor,from the curing of a diſeaſed or wounded body,to the reſtoring and ſetling of a diſtracted and diſtreſſed State: ſo chap.19.22.& 57.19.Ier.33.6.

the ſtroke of their wound] Or rather, the wound of their ſtroke; or their wound of ſtroke, that is, the wound made in them,that is,in their State,by a ſtroke: for the latter word, of frequent uſe,ſignifies a ſtroke. chap. 14. 7. & 27.7.rendred a ſore, chap. 1.6. the former a wound, though no where elſe found; yet the verb,whence it is derived,ſignifying to wound, Iob 5.18.Pſal.68.21.and the affix, though annexed to the latter; yet in conſtruction,ordinarily,hath reference to,and goeth with the former: of which,ſee on chap.2.20. Two words, much of the ſame ſenſe,or notion,are oft joyned together,as here: So Num. 14. 5. Deut.8.15. and 32.13. Pſalm 145. ver.5.

V.27. Behold, the name of the Lord cometh from far, burning with his anger, and the burden thereof is heavy] At this verſe beginneth the laſt part of this Chapter, concerning the deſtruction of Sennacherib , and his forces, and the great joy that Gods people ſhould have thereupon. With the ſame, are divers Chapters and Sermons concluded : as chap. 10.33,34. & 14.24, 25. & 17.12–14. & 31.8,9. & 33.13, 14. In this verſe, and the next, is God deſcribed, as coming like ſome Potentate, in State and pomp; but withall, in much fury, and indignation, furniſhed with inſtruments of torture & torment, to execute an heavy doom, either upon ſome rebellious people of his own, or upon ſome robbers, that from other parts, breaking in upon his people , have made much havock of them, and ſpoyled a great part of their country.

Behold] See the like entrance into the ſame ſubject, chap. 10.33.

the name of the Lord] That is, the Lord himſelf; as we uſe to ſay, the Kings Majeſty, for the King himſelf. So Pſalm 20.5. & 116.13. chap. 18.7. & 50.10. or, as ſome, God, worthy of all renown, and praiſe ; name, for renown ; as Gen. 6.4. & 11.4. or his power, to be ſhewed in the execution of juſtice and vengeance, Pſalm 99.3. chap. 59.19. Mal. 1.14. or, ſo cometh, that the very name, or fame, of his coming, daunteth his foes, Jer. 6.24. but the firſt is the plaineſt, and the beſt : nor was there any fame of his coming, before he came.

cometh from far] That is, as ſome , cometh ſuddenly, unexpected, while he is deemed yet to be far off, Pſal. 10.1. Amos 6.3. as men oft that have bin travelling return from remote parts, when they are thought to be far off, and are leaſt of all looked for, Mat. 24.44. Mar. 13.34,35. or, as others, from heaven, whence he ſent his Angel to deſtroy the Aſſyrians, chap. 37.36. a place remote from the earth, Pſalm 103.11. See chap. 13.5.

burning with his anger] Or, at the noſe : ſo the word ſignifies properly, Pſalm 115.6, Ezek. 8.17. applyed to God, by a figurative ſpeech, taken from man, whom anger putteth into an heat, and ſuch heat diſcovereth it ſelf, uſually, in that part. See Chap. 13.13. Or, his noſe, or anger, burneth. Heb. burning.

and the burden thereof is heavy] Heb. heavineſſe, as Prov. 27.3. his anger, whereſoever it lighteth, will prove heavy, that is, grievous, as Gen. 50.10. or heavineſſe, that is, grievouſneſſe it ſelf, as Chap. 21.15. & 42.25. moſt grievous ; and there is then a defect of the pronoun, as Chap. 27.9. or, as our margent, following therein, the Hebrew Commenters, and ſome others, and with grievouſneſſe of flame : for ſo the word is ſometime, for a lifting up of fire, by flame and ſmoak, Judg. 20. 38,40. and, as ſome, alſo, Jer. 6.1. he cometh fuming at the noſe with fire and ſmoak. See Pſal. 18.8. or knitting this to the latter verſion of the former, his noſe, or face, burneth, or burning; and (as Jer. 17.4,10,11.) with a grievous flame.

his lips are full of indignation, and his tongue as a devouring fire] Or, is as a devouring fire, Exod. 24.17. fire from his mouth. Pſal. 18.8. ſee Pſal. 50.3. & 97.3.

V.28. And his breath as an over-flowing ſtream] Or, is as a ſtream, or floud over-flowing, Heb. his ſpirit : ſpirit, for breath : either of fire to conſume, as Dan. 7.10. or, of water, to drown, as Chap. 28.15,17,18. Rev. 12.15. for the Prophet paſſeth from one ſimilitude to another, as Chap. 28.17. and again afterward in this verſe.

ſhal reach to the middle of the neck] Or, that reacheth to the middle of the neck, a defect of the relative ; as v. 14. Heb. that divideth unto the neck, or by the neck ; as the ſame particle is uſed, Ezr. 10.17. that reaching unto the neck, divideth by it, the upper part, to wit, the head, yet above water, from the reſt of the body remaining under water ; a type of a dangerous, and almoſt deſperate condition, Chap. 8.8. In which place, yet becauſe the King of Aſſyria is ſaid ſo to over-flow the land of Judah; ſome, therefore, conceive the words to be ſpoken by him, reading the words, as a floud, or ſtream, over-flowing him, that divided to the neck, that is, over-flowing him, totally, over head and ears, as we ſay, who did lately, with his forces, overflow the whole land and State of Judah, even to the neck, ſo as no part of it, ſave Jeruſalem, the head City, ſeemed to be above water.

to ſift the Nations with a ſive of vanity] Heb. to ſhake to and fro, as Chap. 11.15. & 13.2. here more ſpecially, as corn is ſhaken and toſſed to and fro in a ſive, Luk. 22.31. but the uſe of a ſive, ordinarily, in ſuch caſe, is to ſhake out the droſs, or leſſer and lighter ſeed, and retain the full and weighty grain, Amos 9.9. but this ſifting, the Prophet telleth us, ſhould be another manner of ſifting, a ſifting with a ſive of vanity ; ſuch a ſifting, as did ſhake to and fro, what was ſifted in it, till it came even to nothing; to drive them to nothing, by that, whereby he only purgeth his own people, Ch. 27.8,9. or to ſift them in ſuch a ſive, as retaineth nothing, but letteth all run thorow, to make an utter riddance of them. See ſomewhat the like in alluſion to fanning, Jer. 4.11. the word rendred, a ſive, is no where elſe found in Scripture; in regard whereof, ſome of the Jewiſh Criticks queſtion the ſignification of it, and would have it to ſignifie rather, ſome part of horſe harneſs, becauſe of the bridle that followeth : but they produce no proof, for ſuch uſe of it ; and beſide what we before obſerved, of the Prophets paſſing from one trope to another, the word is oft found, thus uſed, in the Jewiſh Doctors ; as in that of one of them, concerning four ſorts of Scholars, or hearers ; ſome like to a ſpunge, that ſucketh all in alike ; ſome like an hour glaſſe, or water-glaſs (ſuch as anciently they were) that taketh in at the one end, and putteth out at the other (alluded to, Heb. 2.1.) ſome, like a wine-bag, that letteth go the wine , and keepeth only the dregs ; (he might as well have ſaid, a bolter, that bolteth out the flour, and keeps in the bran) ſome, to a ſive, that letteth go the traſh, and keepeth in the corn.

and there ſhall be a bridle in the Jaws of the people, cauſing them to erre] Or, and to be a bridle, or a ſnaffle ; that it may run in the ſame tenour, with the branch next before it; or, as ſome, with reference to the former words , as a floud, or a ſtream, over-flowing to the neck ; —— and as a bridle, cauſing to erre, or wander in the Jaws of the people, to wit, before mentioned, turning the remainder of them, this way, and that way, as he pleaſeth. Jam. 3.3. or forcing them out of the way, that they deſired, and intended to go, (their purpoſe being to Jeruſalem) and enforcing them in a ſcattered manner, wandring ſome one way, ſome another, to make what haſte they could home to their own country again, Chap. 37.7,29,33,34,37. See 2 King. 6.19, Iob 12.19.24. Pſal. 107.40.

a bridle, or a ſnaffle, as ſome : there are two words uſed, Pſal. 32.9. this here, and that other, Chap. 37. 29. where our tranſlators render this, bridle ; as alſo, Iob 3.11. & 4. 15. that bit; which ſeems moſt probable; becauſe ſaid to be put, between the lips, into the mouth ; ſee there : ſo that this ſeems to ſignifie properly, a bridle, or rein; that is, a ſnaffle, or bit : but this uſed here, as that there, to comprehend both.

V. 29. Ye ſhall have a ſong, as in the night, when an holy ſolemnity is kept, and gladneſs of heart, as when one goeth with a pipe, to come into the mountain of the Lord, to the mighty one of Iſrael] In the midſt of the relation, of the deſtruction of Sennacherib and his forces, is this paſſage inſerted, foretelling the great joy, that Gods people, thereby, delivered from their former fears and afflictions, ſhould conceive, and expreſs thereupon, to wit, ſuch as they uſed to have at their ſolemn feſtivals, when with much mirth and muſick, they repaired to the Temple, and ſpent the night alſo, in ſinging and chanting there.

ye ſhall have a ſong] Heb. the ſong ſhall be to you. That is, as ſome, Then ſhall ye have a ſong : ſupplyed for the better connexion ; as Job 9.35. Or, as other, This ſhall be a ſong unto you. : conceiving the article to be put for the pronoun. But I ſuppoſe it is never ſo uſed, with reference to any other thing, ſave that which the word, whereunto it is joyned, importeth. I ſhould therefore thus render it, Such ſongs, or, ſinging, then ſhall ye have. Song, for ſongs : as 1 Kings 4.32. or, ſinging ; as 1 Chr. 6.31.

as in the night, when an holy ſolemnity is kept] Heb. as a night, or, according to a night of ſanctifying a feſtival. That is, according to the ſinging that is wont, in ſuch a night, to be uſed. For the word of ſinging, is to be ſupplyed, here, from the former branch : as Chap. 10.5. (ſee the note there) and in the next member the like. By night, ſome underſtand here the night, before the feſtival day ; becauſe their feſtivals began at even, Exod. 12. 18,42. Lev. 23.32. Others, the night following the feſtival day : in which they made merry, with junkets after ſupper, and paſt the night with all manner of mirth. Of ſome ſolemn night-wakes that they uſed to have in their feſtivals, ſee on Chap. 12.3. The Jewiſh Doctors hence gather, that it was a Paſchal night, wherein Sennacheribs forces were defeated and deſtroyed. Which that it was done in the night time, is certain, 2 Kings 19. 35. but that was the Paſchal night, is their groundleſs aſſertion. Nor is it likely that that night, wherein the deed was done, was ſo merry a night with them, being not as yet informed of it.

gladneſs of heart] That is, hearty gladneſs ; as Cant. 3.11. Jer. 15.16. When a man is glad, as we ſay, at the heart. Our heart ſhall rejoyce, Pſal. 33. 21. & 105.3. Such joy doth God require of us in his ſervice, Deut. 16.12,14. & 28.47. Neh. 8.10–12. Chap. 58.13. See Pſal. 81.1,2.

as when one goeth with a pipe] Heb. as, or, according to one going, or, travelling, (as ver. 2. Judg. 5.10.) or, journeying with a pipe. That is, like the gladneſs of one that is going with muſick to Gods houſe, which they uſed to cheer up themſelves with by the way, the journey, ſometime, being long, 1 Sam. 10.3,5. Pſal. 41.4. & 122. 1.

a pipe] The word ſignifies any ſort of wind-inſtrument, pierced, or, bored, thorow, (whereof it hath its name) as thoſe made of wood, or metal, or hollow, ſo as it may be blown thorow, as thoſe of cane, and the like. Put here for any ſort of muſical inſtruments; becauſe ſuch they uſed in the way, as being lighteſt for carriage, and readieſt at hand, for uſe. See Chap.5.12.

to come into the mountain of the Lord] Or, to go unto the mountain of the Lord; as the particle, (for change the rather here made uſe of) is uſed, Gen.11.4. Chap.9. 8. ſo Chap.2.3. unto, not, into; to moun Sion, Pſal.84.7.

the mighty one of Iſrael] Heb. to the rock of Iſrael. So is God frequently ſtiled, Deut.32.30,31. 2 Sam.23.3. Pſal. 78. 38. Howbeit, by the rock of Iſrael, ſome underſtand Sion, the rock, on which the Temple ſtood: and it ſhould then be, as oft the ſame thing, in other terms. But the former may well ſtand: for they went to meet with God there, Exod.23.14,17. Pſalm 41.1,2. & 63.1,2.

V. 30. And the Lord ſhall cauſe his glorious voice to be heard] The Prophet returns to proſecute the relation of the overthrow of the Aſſyrians, in a rhetorical deſcription of the manner, how it was done.

his glorious voice] Heb. his voice of might, or, magnificence, or, majeſticalneſs. That is, his mighty, or, his magnificent, and majeſtical voice. For the word ſeems to be uſed in either of thoſe notions, Job 37. 22. Pſal. 21. 5. & 96. 6. & 104.1. And by it is the thunder ſignified, called the Lords voice, Pſal. 29. 3, 5,7-9. and his mighty, Pſal. 29. 4. and 68. 33. and powerful, Job 26.14. and ſtately voice, Job 36.4. From hence alſo, as alſo from the paſſages enſuing, it may be deemed, that though the judgement inflicted upon the Aſſyrian Camp, was put in execution by the miniſtery of an Angel, Chap. 37. 36. Yet it was not executed in a ſecret and ſilent way, as that deſtruction of many thouſands, in Davids time, by the peſtilence, 1 Chr.21.14-16. or, as that ſlaughter made of the firſtborn, throughout all Egypt, Exod. 12. 12,23,29. Heb.11.28. but by raiſing a mighty ſtorm and tempeſt, accompanied with dreadful thunder and lightning, wherein ſo many thouſands of Sennacheribs ſouldiers miſcarried. See the like, Pſal.18. 12-14. & 77.17,18. Chap.29.6. Zach. 9. 14,15. This ſeems rather to be here intended, then as ſome, an alluſion to the voice of a Commander, enciting, and encouraging his forces to fight; Joel 2.11.

and ſhall ſhew the lighting down of his arm, with the indignation of his anger, and with the flame of a devouring fire; with ſcattering, and tempeſt, and hailſtones] A further deſcription of that horrible and hideous tempeſt, wherewith the Aſſyrians were ſurprized.

and ſhall ſhew the lighting down of his arm] The word rendred, lighting down, is ſuppoſed to ſignifie, ſometime, deſcenſion, though there be no clear place produced for it: ſometime, reſt, and ſo it is oft uſed, Job 17.16. Prov.29.9. Eccl.4.6. & 6.5. Nor do I ſee, why it may not well be ſo taken here; as Damaſcus is ſaid to be the reſt, or reſting place of Gods wrath, Zach, 9.1. God will in a moſt conſpicuous manner, cauſe his revenging power (that is, his arm, here; as Chap. 48. 14. & 52. 10.) to light on, and to reſt upon them. See ver. 32.

with the indignation of his anger] Heb. in indignation of anger. Two words, much of the ſame notion, joyned together, as before, ver.26. Ch.7.4. & 13.13. Lam. 2.3,6. to expreſs an exceſs of wrath, manifeſted in this their deſtruction. God will do it, as in a moſt conſpicuous, ſo in a moſt fierce, and wrathful manner; that it may be ſeen, both who doth it, and in what manner it is to be done. See Chap.26.11.

and with the flame of devouring fire] As Chap. 29. 6.

ſcattering] Or, as ſome, lightning: ſo termed, becauſe it pierceth into, and violently rendeth, and breaketh aſunder. For the word ſeems to have in it a notion, not ſo much of diſperſion, as of diſſipation, or breaking to pieces; as Chap.27.9. And hence comes the word, for an hammer, that breaketh things to pieces, Jer.51.20.

hailſtones] Heb. ſtone of hail; Stone, for, ſtones; as Hab. 2. 11. See Joſh.10.11. Chap.28.2. Pſal.18.12. Thus alſo it is, by ſome, deemed, that God diſturbed the Egyptian at the red-ſea, with a ſtorm of the like condition, with that here deſcribed, Exod.14.24.

V. 31. For by the voice of the Lord ſhall the Aſſyrian be beaten down, which ſmote with a rod] Or, By the voice of the Lord ſhall the Aſſyrian be terrified; or, affrighted, Chap. 20.5. & 31.4, 9. Mal. 2. 5. ſpoken of Sennacherib, eſpecially, who though not ſlain, at preſent, yet was ſo affrighted, with what he heard and ſaw, that he durſt not ſtay by it, Chap. 31.8. & 37. 37. Or, if of his army, rather, broken in pieces, and diſſolved; as Ch.7.8. which at length, alſo, befel himſelf, chap.37.38. See chap.31.8. & 33.3.

which ſmote with the rod] Whom God uſed as a rod, to chaſtiſe his children, chap.10.5,6,20. a defect of the relative; as ver.14. 28. Or, as others, with the rod will he ſmite him: that is, God will ſmite him; or, he ſhall be ſmitten: as ver.14. 23. See chap. 10. 24. with the rod of iron, that ſhall break him to pieces like a potters veſſel, Pſal. 2.9. The text will bear either: and this latter fitteth well with what followeth, ver. 32.

V. 32. And in every place where the grounded ſtaff ſhall paſs, which the Lord ſhall lay upon him, it ſhall be with tabrets, and harps] Heb. Every paſſage of the founded ſtaff, which God ſhall make to reſt on him, ſhall be with tabrets, or, drums, and harps.

grounded ſtaff] The rod ſpoken of, verſ. 31. which ſhall not paſs ſlightly over them, giving them a wipe onely by the way; but ſhall be fixed and founded; as chap. 28. 16. it ſhall ſtick ſurely by them, as a rod, or ſcourge, that enters into the fleſh, and makes therein a deep impreſſion.

ſhall lay upon him] Or, make to reſt on them. The word being collective, ver.31. It ſhall not be, as with Gods own people, on whom the rod doth not reſt, Pſal.125.3. but it ſhall ſtick by them, and reſt on them, til it make an end of them, Zach.9. 1. ver.31. Yet there want not, that expound this of the rod, wherewith, by Gods appointment, the Aſſyrian had ſmitten them, that in all ſuch places, there ſhould now be much joy, ver.29. See more on the next clauſe.

with tabrets, and harps] This paſſage is exceedingly peſtered with variety of expoſitions: ſome by the tabrets and harps, underſtand thoſe ſacrifices, which were offered with ſome kinde of ſolemn muſick, Numb. 10.10. Pſal. 81. 1,2. to that purpoſe, drawing in hither from the next branch, the word of ſhaking, which they apply to the ſhake-offerings, Levit. 8.30,34. or to the lifting up of the hand in prayer, Pſal. 141.2. and ſo the ſenſe ſhould be, that the Aſſyrian ſhould be fought with, and prevailed againſt, by ſacrifice and prayer, 2 Chr. 32. 20, 21. Others, that the Angels ſhall exceedingly rejoyce, and make melody, that they were ſent upon ſuch an employment; and hither they ſtrain the ſhaking, after mentioned, as implying the agitation of the hand, in the uſe of hand-inſtruments. Others, of Gods coming to battle againſt the Aſſyrian, in a triumphant way, as being ſure of victory before hand, and going forth to fight in ſuch manner, as conquerers uſe to be entertained, when they come home from fight, as conquerers, Judg. 11. 34. 1 Sam. 18. 6. Others, of the publike joy and triumph, that ſhould be in all places, where this miraculous overthrow had been wrought, as was after the overthrow of the Egyptians in the red-ſea, Exod. 15. 1, 20. Pſal.66. 6. ſo 2 Chr.20.28. Pſal.59.10. & 68.25. Jer.31.4. And this ſhould I incline to, but that this whole verſe ſeems to run ſtill upon the defeat, and the overthrow it ſelf. Others, therefore, of thoſe, that by muſick and merriment ſhould ſeek to avert the rod of God, and either the dread, or the ſmart of it, as Kings aſſay oft to do, that God will ſet, in a furious manner, upon ſuch. Others, laſtly, ſuppoſe that as we now uſe drum and fife, ſo the Jews, and other Eaſtern people, in thoſe dayes, uſed taber and harp, in battle: And that thereunto the Prophet ſhould here allude, as intimating that with tabers and harps, indeed; but other, then ſuch as they uſed, to wit, thunder and lightning, and ſtorm and tempeſt, and hailſtones, inſtead of ſuch, would God come to war againſt them, verſ. 30. and the very noiſe of his warlike drums, & military muſick alone, ſhould be ſufficient, both to daunt and to deſtroy them, v. 31.

and in battles of ſhaking will he fight with it] Or, againſt them: battles of ſhaking. That is, ſay ſome, by a kinde of inverſion, agitation of war: thereby underſtanding the enemy, who had deſtroyed Gods people, and whom God would now deſtroy. Or, as others, rather, battles, wherein God will ſhew his power, by ſhaking them to nothing in the ſieve of vanity, before ſpoken of, ver.28. which ſome of the Jewiſh Doctors ſuppoſe here alluded to. Or, with the lifting up, and ſhaking of his hand over them, chap.11.15. & 19.16. (in another manner againſt the Aſſyrian, then he formerly ſhook his hand, at Jeruſalem, chap. 10. 31. which may here be glanced at, as another of them intimates) will he fight with it; that is, as ſome, with the rod, before ſpoken of, ver.31. Or, as one of the Rabbines, with the Aſſyrian camp. Or, with her, that is, with Aſhur, or, Aſſyria: for the names of countries, are commonly feminine in Hebrew: See chap.15. 1. Some render it, with them, or, againſt them; as Exod.14.25. Pſal.55. 18. & 66. 2. that is, with the Aſſyrians, ſuppoſing the word collectively taken, ver.31. and the country put for the people. See chap. 31.8,9. The whole verſe may well be rendred, as one of the Jewiſh Commenters well obſerveth; And it ſhall be, that in every paſſage of the ſtaff, (that is, in every place, whereby it paſſeth) which God ſhall cauſe to reſt on them, with tabrets and harps, and warlike ſhakings, will he fight againſt them.

V. 33. For Tophet is ordained of old, yea, for the King it is prepared; he hath made it deep, and large] The Prophet cloſeth up this prediction of the Aſſyrians overthrow, with a rhetorical relation of what manner of place God had prepared for the execution of them, and in what manner, therein, they were to be dealt with. That which ſome underſtand, only, of their deſtruction, here: others, of their torment, only, hereafter, in hell. A middle ſort of the former, but not without reference alſo, to the latter; with whom I concur.

Tophet] Heb. Topthte: With addition of a letter; which is not therefore alwaies, a note of honour, or reſpect, as ſome have ſaid. But it is, ordinarily, elſewhere termed, Tophet. And it is the name of a place, in the valley, lying on the South-ſide of Jeruſalem, Joſh.18.16. ſometime belonging to one Hinnom, then owner of it, and after him to a ſon of his, and his poſterity; in regard whereof, it is called ſometime, the valley of Hinnom, Hebrew, Gehinnom: whence the Greek, Γέεννα, and the Latine, Gehenna. Sometime, the valley of the ſon of Hinnom, 2 Chr.33.6. & Jer.7.31. both Joſh.15.8.& 18.16. And ſometime, the valley of his ſons, 2 Kings 23. 10. In this vale, ſtood Tophet, wherein the idolatrous Jews uſed to burn their children, in ſacrifice to an idol, called Moloc, Levit.20.2. 2 Chr. 28. 3. & 33.6. And it had that name from the drums, or, tabrets, that their idolatrous Prieſts uſed to beat upon, at the time of their deteſtable ſervices, to drown the ſhricks and cryes of the poor ſacrificed children. For it ſeems but a fancy, which one of the Rabbines here hath, that it ſhould be termed Tophte, from a word ſignifying to entice, or ſeduce; becauſe every one that is miſled by his own concupiſcence, (Jam.1.14.) goeth down thither. But this place, was by Joſias, in deteſtation of the horrid acts therein committed, not deſtroyed onely, but defiled, 2 Kings 23.10. Made a common layſtal for the city, where dung and filth lay continually reaking; and it became afterward, a common place of burial, for the meaner ſort, eſpecially, of the people; and perſons (as ſome ſay) executed by the hand of juſtice, which were not, ordinarily, ſuffered to lye unburied, Deut.21.22,23. As alſo it is, by ſome, affirmed, that there ſuch were burnt, who by the law, were to ſuffer that kinde of death, Levit.21.9. And further, that in ſome notorious crimes, the bodies of the perſons executed, were thrown out; as to the ſcalæ Gemoniæ, at Rome; and there lay without burial; as to Jehojakim was threatned, Jer.22.9. until the fleſh being rotted and waſted, the bones remaining of them, were there burnt: alluded unto, as they ſuppoſe, in the Gehenna of fire, (for ſo the words are) as a higher degree of judgement or penalty, in capital crimes, Mat.5.21,22. And it is uſed, as in the writings of the Rabbines, ſo in the Scripture of the New Teſtament, for Hell; whereof it is a type, not unfit, Mat. 18. 8, 9. & 23.15. Mar.9.43,44. But what is ſpecially meant by, Tophet, here, is queſtionable; among thoſe eſpecially, that underſtand it of ſome place, wherein this excution was done here upon earth. Of theſe ſome are of opinion, that in the vale of Benhinnom, this execution was done; the Aſſyrian camp, a great part of it, lying thereabout; or that there the Jews buried, or burnt the carcaſes of them, as Ezek.39.11,15. But this is of no certainty, nor great probability. See on Chap. 37.36. Others therefore underſtand it of a tropical Tophet, a place that ſhould be as a Tophet to them; that whereſoever they ſhould lye encamped, when Gods Executioner ſhould come to do his office with them, and to execute his maſters doom upon them, that place ſhould prove ſuch a Tophet to them, as the Prophet here deſcribeth. See Chap.66.24. and ſee of Ariel, ſomewhat the like, Chap.29.2.

Exod.4.10.& 5.7,14. Ioſh.4.18. would have here by yeſterday, meant the ſecond day of the Creation, on which they hold that hell was made, which had an yeſterday, indeed, before it, but no third day. But to let paſs the groundleſsneſs of the conceit, he might have found the phraſe uſed ſingle, as here, ſo elſe-where, in the places above recited, & Mic.2.8. So alſo, Heb.13.8.

for the King] For the King: which being underſtood of hell-fire, there is no ſcruple of it; or, if of ſome place of deſtruction here on earth, in general, then his Temple proved his Tophet, Chap.37.38. But he eſcaping that tempeſt, that ſwept away ſo many thouſands of his army, the queſtion is, how it is ſaid, to have been prepared for him. To evade, rather then to aſſoil this, ſome would have the words read, not prepared for the King; but prepared by the King: and the old Latine ſo renders it: ſome, by the King, underſtanding God, that great King, Mal.1.14. the King of the whole world, Pſal.47.7. Others, King Ezekiah, who, ſay they, had purged that place, and voided it of thoſe ſuperſtitious and idolatrous inſtruments and monuments, that it was packed and peſtered with before, among thoſe other traſh and abominations of the like kind, which he is ſaid to have taken away, 2 King.18.4. and ſo made it a fit place to receive the Aſſyrian carcaſſes: not that he intended any ſuch thing, in ſo doing; but that, by that work of his, it was made as fit for ſuch an uſe, as if it had bin of purpoſe thereunto deſigned. See the like, Mat.26.12. But of ſuch uſe of the particle, there is no example. Others therefore, retaining the received, and right reading, underſtand it, for the King, that is, for the forces he bringeth with him, and in whom he ſuſtains loſs, being thereby, both diſappointed of his purpoſe, and much weakned in his power; as David ſuffered deeply in the diminution of his people; and it is ſaid, therefore, to be done to him, 2 Sam.24.12 - 15. or, as others, underſtanding the word collectively, King, for Kings, as Prov.25.3,4,5. for thoſe Kings that ſerve under him, and thoſe his Commanders, whom he counteth as Kings, Chap.10.8,33. ſee Chap.31.8,9.

he hath made it deep and large] Heb. he hath deepned, he hath broadened: that is, made it deep, and broad; capacious enough to receive as many as are deſigned to it; a defect of the perſon agent herein, Ezekiah, ſay ſome; Others, God. It may be underſtood indefinitely, it is made deep and broad enough, as v.14. a defect of the pronoun, as Chap.28 20,28. of the copulative, as Chap.27.4.

the pile thereof is fire, and much wood] Heb. the pile thereof, fire and wood abundance. See the like, Ezek.24.9,10. he ſeems to allude to thoſe piles of wood, that were uſed and ſpent there, in their cruell and inhumane ſacrifices, or in the burning of bodies, and other abominable things there, when it came to be for ether purpoſes employed.

the breath of the Lord, as a ſtream of brimſtone, doth kindle it] See v.28. he ſeems to allude to that ſhower of brimſtone, wherewith Sodome was deſtroyed, Gen.19.24. ſo Pſal.11.6. beſide, that all lightning is of a ſulphury ſavour; any ſudden deſtruction is compared to a great fire, that in an inſtant conſumeth any combuſtible matter. In ſomewhat the like manner is the deſtruction of Sennacheribs Army, deſcribed, Chap. 10. 16 - 18.

Albeit,that God intendeth thus to deſtroy both the Egyptian aids, and thoſe that ſeek to them, for ſuccour, againſt the Aſſyrian; yet will he not ſuffer the Aſſyrian to ſurpriſe Ieruſalem; but he will protect it, againſt him,and deſtroy him. The like introduction, ſee Chap.21.16.

Like as the lion,and the young lion, roaring on his prey, when a multitude of ſhepherds is called forth againſt him, he will not be afraid of their voice,nor abaſe himſelf for the noiſe of them; ſo ſhall the Lord of hoſts come down to fight for mount Zion, and for the hill thereof.] God will protect Jeruſalem,no more regarding the multitude of the Aſſyrian forces,then ſome fierce lion, in the prime of his ſtrength, will regard a company of ſhepherds,that ſhall aſſay to reſcue his prey from him. See Mic.5.8.

roaring over his prey] Heb.ſhall roar,or rather murmur, mutter,grumble,or gruntle. The lion roareth not, when he hath his prey; as of the Oxe,and the wilde Aſſe, Job 6. 5. but when pinched with hunger,for want of it, he is ranging after it,Pſal.104.21.or hath it now,haſting to ſeize on it,in his eye, Amos 3.4. Chap.5.29. but being poſſeſſed of it, he is in another,a new note, in a grumbling, or gruntling tone,over it; eſpecially upon the approach of any, that attempt to get it away from him: for ſuch a kind of voice doth the word, here uſed,imply,Chap.38.14.& 59.11. Pſalm 1. 4. Ier.1.2.

is called forth againſt him] Or, as ſome read it, and ſo the old Latine,ſhall meet with him: and ſo the word is uſed, Deut.22.6.and it may well ſtand here; which if we admit, the text would be rendred,with whom a multitude, or full company of ſhepherds,ſhall meet.

come down] From heaven,as Pſalm 18.9.& 144.5.ch.64.1. by his Angel,ch.37.36. or go forth to war; as the word is uſed, 1 Sam.23.11. & 29.4. becauſe fights were moſt in the plain,Exod.17.9,10.Judg.4.11,14.

to fight for mount Zion] That is,for Jeruſalem, ver.5. Zion, the principal part of it,the place of Gods ſpecial reſidence in his Temple, and the Kings in his Palace, both there ſituate, put for the whole City,ch.1.8.& 37.35.Some read the words, againſt Zion; as ch.29.3. Hoſ.8.1. and the initiall particle ſo taken,as our Engliſh renders it, would carry it that way, as rendring a reaſon of what was ſaid,v.3.of the Egyptians helping,and the Jews holpen by them, both falling together: but the verſe next following,ſheweth evidently,that the meaning is not againſt,but for,or in the behalf of it; as the prepoſition is oft uſed alſo,v.5.and elſe-where,1 Chr.6.49.& 29.21.Lam.5.17,18.Ezek.27.30. where, againſt thee,is againſt the ſenſe and drift of the place.

for the hill thereof] The hill,or knole,on which that city then ſtood: the words here uſed,rendred mountain, and hill, are of the ſame ſignification,ſaith a Jewiſh Critick,differing onely in quantity,the latter,the leſs. For mountain, and hill, with us, though in common uſe,,it may ſeem alſo ſo to be: yet if we regard the originall, they differ, but as a Latine term, and a Saxon only,both importing the ſame thing: and that therefore, which is rendred a mountain here,is,elſe-where, rendred an hill,Pſalm 1.6.& 15.1.& 68.15,16. but what is here termed an hill, may well be rendred, a knole. For though Sion be termed a mountain, or an hill; in regard, either of the lower part of the city,ſtanding on the ſide of it, Pſalm 48. 2. and in regard of the valley that lay beneath it; yet the riſing, or higher ground,on which both the reſt of the city, and Sion it ſelf ſtood,may well be termed, rather,a knole,then an hill, in regard of thoſe far higher hils that encircled it,Pſalm 125.2. See Ier.17.3.

V.5. As birds flying; ſo will the Lord of hoſts defend Jeruſalem] Another ſimilitude, whereby the Prophet illuſtrateth Gods working, for the protection of his people: the former intimated his power and ability to do it; this, as ſome, his ſpeed and alacrity,to the doing; or,as others,rather,his affection and ſedulity in the doing of it.

As birds flying] As Fowl are wont to flee, either to their neſts with all ſpeed, when they perceive their young ones to be in ſome danger,or deſcry any making towards them; ſo will God come ſwiftly and ſuddenly to reſcue and deliver his,Pſal.18.10. (the flight of Fowl being an emblem of ſwiftneſs,Deut.28.49.Hoſ.8.1.) or,about their neſts,fluttering over their young ones,to ſuccour and ſhelter them, when any offer to ſeize on them; and flying to and fro on every ſide, to keep thoſe off,what they can, that come to annoy them: ſo will God hover over thoſe of his,that truſt in him,and depend upon him,to ſave and ſecure them; and over Jeruſalem, in particular, to protect it; in ſuch manner beſtirring himſelf, that the enemy ſhall, on no ſide, find opportunity to aſſault it,Deut.32.12.Pſalm 91.1,2.and it may well be deemed, that the Prophet herein alludeth, to what the Aſſyrian had boaſted; that he had ſeized upon the Kingdoms of the earth, as a birds neſt,and none durſt wag the wing at him,ch.10.14. but he ſhould find it otherwiſe there, when he came to Jeruſalem, ch.37.33.

will defend Jeruſalem] The word properly ſignifieth, to fence, and ſo to defend, by fencing a place round about, as a vineyard,ch.5.2,5.or a garden,Cant.4.12.which, from thence, hath its name: ſo Pſalm 34.7.& 125.2.Zach.2.5. See chap.37.35.Zach.9.15.& 12.8.

defending,alſo he will deliver it] Heb.defending,and he will deliver; a defective ſpeech; for in defending, he will defend and deliver: of which form of ſpeech, ſee further,on chap.59.13. he will aſſuredly defend, and by defending, deliver it: a defect of the pronoun, as ch.28.28.& 30.33.

and paſſing over,he will preſerve it] Or, rather,(tranſplacing the copulative, thruſt out of his right place, and ſupplyed needleſly,in a wrong one) paſſing over, he will paſs over, and deliver it, or cauſe it to eſcape. For the word is of the very ſame notion with the former; that is,he will aſſuredly ſo paſs over, as to ſave, and deliver the city; and withall, to defeat and deſtroy thoſe that encamp againſt it, or intend evill to it;as he did ſometime in Egypt,when he ſlew their firſt born, Exod.12.12. for thereunto,the word uſed here, ſeems to allude: though ſome would have it import no more, then ſuddenly,as in a paſſage. But the former, is the rather juſtly deemed here to be intimated, becauſe the word is no where elſe found in Scripture,uſed in that notion; but concerning that act of the Angel,in Egypt,of which it is thrice uſed there,ver. 12,22,26.it is uſed,alſo, but once only of an aſſault, 1 Kings 18.26.which not unfitly, alſo, may be applyed to Gods dealing with the Aſſyrian Camp; by aſſault whereof,he ſaved the city,ch.37.36,37.

V.6. Turn ye unto him,from whom the children of Iſrael have deeply revolted] The Prophet having propounded to them, Gods gracious promiſe of preſervation and protection, doth now ſhew them, what courſe thoſe that had revolted from God, and failed in their loyall carriage to him, muſt now take,if they deſire to have a ſhare in the promiſed protection; to wit,by returning to him, from whom they had withdrawn themſelves; which he, therefore, here exhorteth them to.

Turn ye] Or,Return: as Ier. 3.1.& 4.1. that it may anſwer to Revolt; ſome read it,They ſhall return: to wit, moved by the miraculous, both overthrow, and delivery: and ſo ver.7.but the form of the verb will hardly bear it.

unto him from whom] Heb. unto whom,or unto which: which ſome expound with ſuch ſupply, as our text hath; as deſigning the perſon,whom they were to return to: a defect of the antecedent: as Ruth 2.9.2 Chr.1.4. and of the prepoſition: as Chap.18.7.& 32.2.& 52.1. Others,rendring it, according to that which,or according as, underſtand it, of the manner,or meaſure of their return: as your revolt hath bin deep and great; ſo let your return be proportionable thereunto: and indeed,ſo is the particle oft times uſed,Eſt.3.17.Pſal.119.91. 154.

the children of Iſrael] Not the ten Tribes; though true of them,Hoſh.9.9.as if they were,by their example,warned, and admoniſhed to do better,Hoſh.4.15,16. but the people of the Jews,as v.5.11,16.many,if not the main of them, and too many of the chief among them,had herein bin faulty, ſee v. 1,2. ch.30.1.and ſome,therefore,read this,as in the vocative, Return,according as you have deeply revolted,O ye children of Iſrael: which term, he giveth them, not to grace them, but to mind them,what they boaſted to be; and to tax, and ſhame them, for not anſwering the honour and worth of that title, but diſgracing the Stock they came of, by degenerating from him, whoſe name they bare.So ch.7.13.& 48.1.

have deeply revolted] Heb.have deepned revolt: and there is the like phraſe,ch.7.11. as alſo, not unlike, uſed in the ſame argument,Hoſ.5.2.& 9.9. This they had done, as by other enormities, ſo by their ſeeking to Egypt, and relying on an arm of fleſh,v.1,2.which is a revolting from God, 2 Chr.16.7.Ier.17.5.In the word of depth,ſome think there is an alluſion to the depth of their plots and projects;and digging deep,as imagining to conceal them,even from God,ch.29.15. It may well have ſome glance that way; but withall, it is not unlikely, that the Prophet had a purpoſe to mind them, both of the grievouſneſſe of their defection and delinquency, and of the greatneſs, alſo,of the danger,that thereby they had plunged themſelves into;as being ſunk ſo deep in revolt,that unleſs they did riſe,and get up again the ſooner, by ſpeedy and hearty repentance,returning unto God,from whom they had revolted, they were like ſuddenly to periſh, without hope of recovery.See Prov.9.18.& 22.14.& 23.27. of the change of the perſon;they have revolted; for ye have revolted, See ch.29.15.& 30.19.v.7.

V. 7. For in that day, every man ſhall caſt away his Idols of ſilver,and his Idols of gold,which your own hands have made unto you for a ſin] Many Interpreters underſtand this of the ſerious,and ſincere repentance,and return of idolatrous perſons unto God,teſtified,by the breaking, and abandoning of their Idols: as ch.27.9.& 30,22. Some,upon the Aſſyrian invaſion, and before his overthrow; and of them, ſome conceive a reaſon to be here rendred,of what was formerly ſaid,they ſhall return,v.6. Other of them,reading the words, when in that day;or, For in that day, Wherein men ſhall do thus; then will God ſtay his hand from proceeding further in judgment againſt his people,and turn it againſt the Aſſyrian,v.8. chap. 10.12.and ſo it ſhould come in, as an argument, to induce to repentance,in hope of ſuch an iſſue. Others, after his overthrow, being by that ſtrange work of God, convinced; as of his power and providence; ſo of their own former ſinne and folly,and returning now from their Idols, to their only true and living God,ch.10.20.& 17.7. But others,rather,whom I herein concur with, expound it, as fore-telling, what would befall all thoſe,that perſiſted in their Idoll-worſhip, and reſting on any other helps,ſave God, and his alone; that then they would caſt away their Idols,when, by wofull experience, they ſhould find, to their coſt and ſmart, that neither their Idols,nor their humane helps,were able to ſtand them in any ſtead. So underſtood,it is the ſame,with what we had before, ch.2.20. produced here, as there alſo, to perſwade to return ſpeedily to God, and to give over reſting on ſuch ſorry ſhores, as are not able to ſupport them, Chap.1.31. & 2.20, 22.

every man] Heb.a man; but ſo,chap.9.20.here, the rather, becauſe the verb is plurall: whereas,ch.2.20. it is ſingular: but there is another word for man, and that,alſo, there collective.

ſhall caſt away] ſo chap.2.20. but the ſame thing, here intimated,by a word,that ſignifieth properly, to deſpiſe, or ſet light by: ſo it is rendred, ch.33.8. Amos 5.21. and becauſe things of no account, are uſually refuſed, rejected, thrown away,and the like; hence it comes, that it is rendred, ſometime,refuſe,ch.8.6.ſometime,reject, 1 Sam. 15.23. ſometime, caſt off: as chap.5.24.ſo here.

which your own hands made for you] See Chap. 2. 8. and of the change of the perſon, v. 6.

for a ſin] Or, for ſin. To commit that moſt hanious ſin of idolatry. For ſo it is,Chap.2.20. to worſhip ,inſtead of the true God. So of the golden calf, Moſes, I took your ſin; that is, the idol,wherein you had ſo grievouſly tranſgreſſed, Deut. 9. 21. Or, as a learned writer of ours, and the rather, becauſe there is no prepoſition in the text, of ſin, with reference to the word hands; which your hands of ſin; that is, your moſt ſinful hands,had made for you. Of which manner of ſyntax,that author produceth divers examples, Exod. 26. 21. Levit. 6. 10. 2 Sam. 22. 32. Pſal. 35. 19. & 71. 9. Lam.4. 17. Ezek. 16. 29.

V. 8. Then ſhall the Aſſyrian fall with the ſword, not of a mighty man,and the ſword, not of a mean man,ſhall devour him] As God will deliver Jeruſalem, ſo will he deſtroy the Aſſyrians,by the miniſtery of an Angel,that intend,and attempt to deſtroy that city, having over-run the whole country, round about it, already; and cauſe their King, for fear, to retire to his own country, with ſuch ſcattered ones as are left him, Chap.36.1,2. & 37.36,37.

the Aſſyrian] Heb. Aſhur; as Chap. 10.5. the name, both of the country and people; here put for the King of Aſſyria, who is ſaid to fall, and yet to flee; to fall in his forces; to flee in his own perſon. See Chap. 30.31,32. & 37.36,37.

fall] Be ſlain; as 1 Kings 22. 20. Pſal. 63. 10. Luke 21. 24.

with the ſword] Or, by the ſword; as Pſal.63.10. not of a mighty man,or, a mean man. (See of the terms, Chap.2.9.) Not of any man, one, or other; (which of Sennacherib himſelf cannot be ſaid, who was ſlain by his own ſons, Chap. 37. 38.) but by an Angel, to whom a ſword is here given; as 1 Chr.21.16,30. Not that he uſed any ſuch material weapon, but to expreſs his commiſſion, and power to do execution; as the Magiſtrate is ſaid to bear the ſword, Rom. 13.4. And Gods power put in practice,by taking vengeance on his enemies,is called his ſword, Chap. 34.4,5. and a mouth to devour with, is given to this ſword, as to the material one, Deut. 32. 42. Chap.1.20. Jer.21.7.

but he ſhall flee from the ſword] Or, for fear of the ſword. Heb. from before, or, from the face of the ſword; as Chap. 21. 15. Jer. 35. 11. ſeeing his forces defeated and deſtroyed, he ſhall,for fear of the like,likely to befal him,if he ſtay by it, betake take himſelf to flight ; or, as ſome render it, ſupplying the note of ſimilitude, which they ſuppoſe to be wanting, both here, and ver.9. he ſhall flee, as from the ſword : as if men with ſwords drawn, were purſuing him. There is a redundancy in the Hebrew, that hath ſome emphaſis in it, which our Engliſh cannot well expreſs : He ſhall flee himſelf, or, for himſelf. Which though in ſome other like forms, it may ſeem to have no ſuch weight ; as Exod. 18.27. Yet here ſeems to be, as if it had been ſaid, He ſhall flee for his life ; as of Elias it is ſaid, 1 Kings 19.3.

but] Heb. and ; as Chap. 29.13.

and his young men ſhall be diſcomfited] Thoſe of his forces that remain, and eſcape that hideous ſtorm, wherein ſo many were ſlaughtered. For of thoſe, that fell in it, before.

his young men] His choice young men ; properly ; as Chap. 40.30.

ſhall be diſcomfited] The Hebrew word, here uſed, is ambiguous. It may ſignifie, they ſhall be unto tribute : or, they ſhall become tributary. And ſo ſome here, according therein with the old Latine, expound it ; becauſe ſo it is moſt commonly uſed, Gen.49.15. Deut.20.11. Joſh.16.10. & 17.13. Lam.1.1. And this expoſition to make good, ſome ſay, that ſome of them purſued, and ſiezed on, were made captives. Others, ſuppoſing that to be too much forced ; and for that the Aſſyrians were never tributary, in thoſe times, to the Jews, they deny this to be ſpoken of Sennacherib and the Aſſyrians, in Ezekiahs reign, and would turn it, wholly, to the Kingdom of Chriſt. But the Prophecy is too clear to be ſo ſhifted off. And as for thoſe, that would have it underſtood of the Aſſyrians becoming tributary, ſometime after, firſt, to the Chaldeans, and then to the Medes and Perſians, they ſtray too far from the ſtory, here intended. Others, therefore, render it, They ſhall be unto melting ; for that is the proper notion, and common uſe of the root, and the ſignification of another word ſpringing from it, Pſal.58.8. So the meaning is, either their multitude ſhall melt away ; as 1 Sam.14.16. or their hearts ſhall melt within them ; as Joſh.2.11. & 5.1. & 7.5. and they ſhall faint for fear ; as Chap.10.18.

V.9. And he ſhall paſs over to his ſtrong hold, for fear] The word, here uſed, ſignifieth, properly, a rock, Chap.32.2. and in the next place, any ſtrong hold, or, fort : becauſe ſuch were uſually built upon rocks, and from their ſuch ſituation, receive much ſtrength. See on Chap. 16.1. And for that to ſuch places, in time of trouble and danger, men are wont to retire, and therein much to confide; (Prov.18.10,11.) Hence by a metaphor, that is called a mans rock, wherein his ſtrength conſiſteth, and whereunto he truſteth, Pſal. 18.2, & 31.3. & 42.9. Some therefore, here, render the words, his rock, that is, his ſtrength, ſaith one ; his forces which he confided in, ſaith another, ſhall paſs away, that is, ſhall fail, for fear ſhall periſh ; as Job 34.20, & 36.12. But others, taking the words in a ſenſe neerer to the native uſe of it, read the text, ſome, H*is rock for fear he ſhall paſs by* ; underſtanding by rock, a ſtrong hold, ſituate in the frontiers of his country ; or, as ſome, his ſtrong holds, collectively, and indefinitely ; which for fear he ſhould not dare to ſtay in, but paſs by, to arrive at ſome ſurer place of retreat, as to Niniveh. Of which others underſtand the words, and read them, as our Engliſh hath them, To his ſtrong hold, for fear he ſhall paſs over : that is, to Niniveh, his chief city, and of greateſt ſtrength ; never thinking himſelf in ſafety, until he gat thither, Chap.37.37. Thus the wicked fleeth, where none purſueth, Prov.28.1.

and his Princes ſhall be afraid of the Enſign] Some read the words, his Princes ſhall be afraid of flight : That is, as ſome with the old Latine, Shall flee with fear : or, as others, Shall be terrified with the flight of their King. And it is true, that the word, here uſed, hath in ſound, ſome affinity with that of flight ; whence ſome ambiguity, Chap.59.19. but never ſo ſignifies, voweled, as here. Our verſion, therefore, is by moſt ſound Interpreters, and by the Jewiſh, generally, here maintained and approved. Howbeit, by being afraid of the Enſign, ſome underſtand here, that they ſhould be ſo affrighted, that if they eſpied but an enſign on ſome watch-tower, by the way, (as Chap.30.17.) though within their own country, they ſhould be afraid, as if ſome troops of ſouldiers were purſuing them : or, that they ſhould be afraid, as men are wont to be, when they do indeed ſee an enſign, with ſome hoſtile forces making towards them. Suppoſing the note of ſimilitude to be here wanting, as before, ver.8. Others, that they ſhould be ſtricken with fear, at the ſight of thoſe wonderous ſigns, and miraculous works, that God had wrought for his people. Or rather, (for I finde not this word any where ſo uſed) of the Enſign, or, Standard, that God, by his Angel, had lifted up, in the ſlaughter of their fellows : for this is ſpoken of ſuch of them, as had eſcaped, and ſurvived the bitter brunt of that battle, in which the Angel came down, as with Gods Standard, againſt them. See Exod. 17.15, 16. & Chap. 59.19.

ſaith the Lord, whoſe fire is in Zion, and his furnace in Jeruſalem] Whoſe reſidence is at Jeruſalem ; where his houſe is, and fire continually kept burning on his altar, in it, Levit. 6.13. which he alſo therefore will protect, Chap.37.35. or, who there hath his furnace and his fire, to burn up his enemies, and the enemies of it, Levit.10.2. Numb.16,35. Pſal. 21.9. Zach.2.5.

fire] Or, hearth ; as ſome render it, Ezek. 5.2. Or, flame ; as others, Chap.50.11.

furnace] Or, oven ; as it is rendred, Levit. 2.4. Hoſ.7.6,7. or, chimney, as ſome render it. Lam. 5.10. and ſo may not unfitly be here expreſſed, if the alluſion be to houſe-keeping.

CHAP. XXXII.

Verſ. 1. BEhold a King ſhall reign in righteouſneſs, and Princes ſhall rule in judgement] Whether this Chapter be a new Sermon, or Prophecy, diſtinct from the next before, or belong to it, and have dependance upon it, as well it may, yet is not ſo clear. That the former part of it, containeth a deſcription of the righteous and religious Government of Gods people, under Ezekiah, moſt concur. In the latter part of it, is a denunciation of judgements to be inflicted on Gods people, for ſome ſpace of time, ver. 9-14. with a promiſe of a removal thereof, after that time expired, and reſtitution of them to their wonted eſtate, ver. 14-19. Some ſuppoſe, the Prophecy to have been delivered in Ahaz his dayes, foretelling the happy entrance of Ezekiah, his pious ſon, after the deceaſe of his ungodly father. Others, in the time of Ezekiahs reign, foretelling what manner of government ſhould be in the State, now better purged, and ſetled then ever before, after the overthrow given to Sennacherib, and the deliverance of them from that diſtreſs, that his invaſion had put them to, with reparation of the damage, that had thereby accrued unto them. See vee. 10.

a King] That is, Chriſt, ſay ſome, the King of his Church, Pſal.2.6. Or, Ezekiah ; as the Jews generally, and moſt of ours : ſo Chap. 33.17. Yet a type of Chriſt, as before him, David, Ezek.34.24.

in righteouſneſſe] As Hoſ.10.12. or according to juſtice : that is, juſtly, righteouſly ; as the like, Lev.19.15. Pſalm 9.8. ſee Joel 2.23. where the ſame is : yet ſome render it, to juſtice : that is, to do juſtice : and after to judgment, or to right : that is, to execute judgment, or to do right : but the former ſeems the plainer.

Princes ſhall rule] There is a particle in the text, which the Jewiſh Criticks deem redundant here ; as it is, queſtionleſſe, in ſome places elſe-where, 2 Sam.3.30. 1 Chr.3.2. & 26.17. Pſalm 9.17. & 12.6. Yet ſome Interpreters thus expreſs it, as for Princes, they ſhall rule, as Eccl. 9.4. Chap.59.11. See ver.2.

Princes] Thoſe under Ezekiah, the inferiour Magiſtracy being now purged, and well ordered ; and ſuch as Shebna was, Chap.22.15. being either removed, or reformed. See Chap.1.26.

in judgment] Or, according to judgment, or right. See Chap. 1.27. not unjuſtly, by oppreſſion, extortion, bribery, and iniquity, as formerly, Chap.1.23. & 60.18.

V.2. And a man ſhall be, &c.] The great benefit that ſhall hereby redound to the people, to wit, the righting and relieving of all thoſe that have bin wronged or oppreſſed, ſet forth by divers elegant and pregnant ſimilitudes.

a man] This ſome reſtrain to Chriſt : Others, to Ezekiah, the King before mentioned, v.1. and the like is ſaid of Solomon, Pſalm 72.2,4,12-14. a type, alſo, of Chriſt : and they read the words, And that man, as conceiving a defect of the article ; according to the like, Acts 17.31. 1 Tim.2.5. But that ſeemeth, both a groundleſs, & a needleſs ſupply in this place, The word man, being here put indefinitely, or diſtributively : as Ch.13.14. & 31.7. and hath reference to the Princes before ſpoken of, as the Jewiſh Writers well obſerve : and ſo the particle in the former verſe, if the courſe of the context be well weighed, is not wholly without weight, the text being thus rendred, as for Princes (to wit, governing under the King, 1 Pet.2.13,14.) they ſhall rule according to right ; and (not the King alone himſelf, but) each one of them (alſo under him) ſhall be, ſuch as is here deſcribed : a man, for each one, or any one, is moſt frequent in Scripture, Chap.2.20. & 3.5,6. & 9.20. & 19.2.

as an hiding place from the wind] Heb. of the wind : that is, ſuch a place of covert, as may protect man, or beaſt, from, or againſt the violence and injury of wind and weather. See the next branch : the word is no where elſe found, ſave here, in the ſingular form, and in the plural, 1 Sam.23.23. where it is rendred, lurking places.

and a covert from the tempeſt] Heb. a covert of a tempeſt : a defect of the prepoſition, either from, as Ch.18.7. & 52.2. or againſt, as Pſalm 53.5. Ch.25.4. tempeſt of wind, or water, extraordinary, either in ſhowers, or deluges, Ch.4.6.& 25.4. See Pſalm 32.7.& 119.114. Ch.28.17.

as rivers of water in a dry place] Or, as ſtreams. (Heb. diviſions, as Chap.30.25.) of water in a place of drought. Heb. in drought, or drineſs: a defect of the noun regent, as Chap.25.5. Pſalm 63.1. as ſtreams of water in ſuch a place, which not onely moiſten the parched ground, and make the place more pleaſant and fertile, Chap.44.3,4. but are a mean, alſo, of much refreſhing to the thirſty paſſenger, Ch.41.17-19. & 43.19,20. See John 4.10,14.& 7.37-39.

as the ſhadow of a great rock in a weary land] Shadow, for relief, ſuccour, or ſhelter, Chap.4.6.& 25.4. becauſe, againſt the ſcorching heat of the Sun, the ſhade affordeth much refreſhing, whether from trees, and plants, where ſuch are, 1 Kings 13.14. Jon.4.6. or where they want, from ſome high hill, or rock, overlooking the plain.

in a weary land] As Pſalm 143.6. Prov.25.25. where it is rendred, thirſty: ſee Chap.20.12.& 29.8. where men are weary of travelling through heat and drought, John 4.6. Matth.11.28.

V. 3. And the eyes of them that ſee, ſhall not be dim] Or, cloſed, as Chap.29.10. he hath cloſed their eyes. Which ſome underſtand, of ſpirituall ſight reſtored by the pure, and clear preaching of the Goſpel, in the Kingdom of Chriſt, Chap.29.18,& 35.5. Acts 26.18. 2 Cor.4.6. Eph.1.18. oppoſed to the judgment threatned, Chap.6.9.& 29.10. and that complaint of the condition of his people, chap.42.19,20. or, as ſome rather render it, ſhall not look another way; as, look away from me, Job 7.19. chap.22.4. and look away from him, Job 14.6. they ſhall not look another way, when holy things are tendred to them, and wholeſome admonitions are preſſed upon them, as their manner formerly had bin; and as thoſe are wont to do, who have that preſented to their view, which they liſt not to look upon. See Pſalm 18.22.& 119.37,117. or, they ſhall not now look aſide after their idols, and other frivolous ſtays, which they then relyed and reſted on, refuſing to look after their only true ſtay, Chap.31.1. but they ſhall now look upon God, and rely upon him, Chap.10.20.& 17.7,8. and this latter reading, ſeems to ſuit, very fitly, with what followeth in the next branch. But whether way we take it, it is not to be doubted; but that in Ezekiah's days, it was fulfilled in thoſe, who by the judgments of God, then inflicted on the land, and ſanctified to them, were refined and reformed, Chap.48.10. See Chap.30.20.& 35.5. The meaning is, that his people (for thoſe, here, are they, that See, or, as the word is, the Seers: as Ch.42.20. not the Prophets, as Ch.30.10.) who had the light of Gods Word ſhining brightly among them, and his judgments conſpicuouſly manifeſted to them, ſhould not now wilfully turn their eyes aſide from them, or ſhut them wilfully againſt either, as thoſe, Chap.26. ver.11.

and the ears of them that hear, ſhall hearken] Heb. attend: as Chap.21.7.& 28.13.& 48.18. they that before refuſed to hear any Word of God, or meſſage from God, or to hearken to any advice given them by his Prophets, from him, chap.28.9-12. ſhall then attentively hearken to what is, from God, ſpoken to them, and readily yeeld obedience thereunto, ch.29.18. See ch.30.21,& 35.5. They ſeem to carry it too far, and to narrow it no leſs, that reſtrain it to the peoples attentive hearing of Chriſt, Mat.7.28. Luke 4.22.

thoſe that hear] As before, Gods people, that had Gods Word among them, and continually ſounding in their ears, chap.42.20.

V. 4. The heart alſo of the raſh ſhall underſtand knowledge] Heb. haſty: ſo alſo, chap.35.4. ſuch as were heady and inconſiderate, as fond and fooliſh perſons uſually are, ſhall then be better adviſed; and by attending to the Word of God, come to underſtand aright the Will of God. See Prov.1.2-7.& 2.2-5. Heb. underſtand to know, or unto knowledge: When men ſo hear, that they underſtand what is ſpoken; and by underſtanding, attain to ſound knowledge, Neh.8.3,8,12. not like thoſe, ch.6.9. Mat.13.19. 2 Tim.3.7.

and the tongue of the ſtammerers ſhall be ready to ſpeak plainly] Men, by their religious ſpeech, and communication, at which they did but ſtammer, when they aſſayed ought before, ſhall now manifeſt the inward alteration and change of their hearts, Mat.12.34,35. or their language, that was before, rude, harſh, ſavage, barbarous, unſavory, unpleaſant, ſhall now be pure, pious, like the language of Gods people, ſeaſoned with grace, and pleaſing in Gods ear, Prov.15.26. ch.19.18. Zeph.3.9. Eph.4.29. Col.4.6. See ch.35.6.

ſtammerers] See chap.28.11. for this word, no where elſe found, and that there uſed, differing but in a letter, have neer affinity in notion, alſo, the one with the other: and there is in the word, here, an alluſion, either unto thoſe, that out of a naturall defect, cannot ſpeak without ſtammering; or to thoſe, that ſpeaking in ſome barbarous language, ſeem ſo to do, unto thoſe that underſtand them not, 1 Cor.14.11.

be ready] Heb. haſten; make haſte; as ch.51.14. a good haſte, or ſpeed, far differing from the haſtineſs, or headineſs, of inconſiderate perſons, taxed in the branch before going; and implying an inward readineſs of heart to vent it ſelf, in ſuch ſanctified communication, as is here imported.

to ſpeak plainly] Heb. to ſpeak neat, elegant, or clear words, or things: a metaphor taken from the clearneſs of the ayr, in dry and fair weather, ch.18.4. and a defect of the ſubject, as Gen.42.30. hard, Pſalm 12.4. great, Prov.5.10. right, for hard, great, right, words, or things.

V. 5. The vile perſon ſhall be no more called liberal, nor the churl ſaid to be bountifull] The Prophet, in theſe words, further deſcribeth the happy and well-ſetled condition of the Jewiſh State in thoſe times. Some underſtand the words, as if the meaning were, that men having, in thoſe dayes, the Spirit of diſcerning, ſhould be able to diſtinguiſh between good and evill; yea, between good and bad men, Rom.2.18. Phil.1.10. 1 Cor.12.10. 1 John 4.1. Acts 8.23. Others, of the ſincerity and ingenuity of the times; that neither the falſe Prophets ſhould ſooth men up, any more in their ſins; nor others, for fear or favour, flatter thoſe that were in power and authority, the richer ſort, and the great ones, Pſalm 49.18. chap.5.20. Ezek.13.22. But the moſt, and beſt, that in the State reformed, and eſtabliſhed, by Ezekiah, after his delivery from the Aſſyrian Invaſion, and the recovery of his health, from that deadly Diſeaſe that ſoon after ſurpriſed him, ch.38.5,6. having aſſurance given him, from God, both of the continuance of his life, and of his reign in peace; baſe minded, and evill affected perſons ſhould not be now raiſed and advanced unto places of honour and dignity, as in his Father Ahaz his time, too many had bin; whereof, alſo, ſome had continued their places, in the former part of his reign, the State being, as yet, unſetled; nor he able, by reaſon of wars with his neighboring adverſaries, to do as otherwiſe he would: ſee Pſalm 12.8. Prov.28.12,28.& 29.2.

vile perſon] The word is, in Scripture, commonly uſed for a fool: as Deut.32.6. where wiſe, and it, are oppoſed: as alſo, in that ſpeech of Abigail, excuſing her husbands uncivill and churliſh behaviour towards Davids meſſengers; Nabal is his name, and folly is with him, 1 Sam.25.25. his name ſheweth what he is, and ſo ſome render it here. Howbeit, in the native ſignification of it, it may ſeem to import, as our Engliſh well rendreth it, a vile perſon, a man of no worth: like a withered flower, or leaf, or branch, or plant, of no reckoning or eſteem; ch.28.1,4.& 64.6. See ch.14.19.& 27.11. and both fooliſh and wicked ones (of whom, alſo, it is in the Proverbs of Solomon, eſpecially uſed; and they may well go for the ſame) are perſons of no worth, Prov.10.20. But in this place, being oppoſed to a word, that hath a notion of liberality in it, it ſeems rather to import tenacity, and niggardlineſs, and our ancienter verſions therefore render it, one of them, a niggard; another, a fooliſh niggard: and it may well be, that the Prophet had a glance at the Story of Nabal, 1 Sam.25. and that the very name of Nabal, was among them, in thoſe days, as with us, to this day, uſed as a by-word, or a nick-name, for a niggard: and that the Prophet, the rather, made choice of it here; becauſe this, and the other its oppoſite here, ſound ſomewhat alike, as they ly together in the text; as if he had ſaid, alluding to the names of men, in uſe formerly; Nabal ſhall not be Nadab, or Nadib: for ſuch alluſions to names are found in Scripture; as Pſalm 144.4. Adam is like Abel; and All Adam is all Abel, Pſalm 39.5,11.

ſhall no more be called] That is, ſhall no more be, to be called, for to be; as Chap.61.3.& 62.11. Mat.5.9. Luke 1.32,35. ſuch ſhall no more get up, and creep into ſuch places, as thoſe titles belong to. Heb. it ſhall not be called to him liberal; or liberall ſhall not be called to him; for he ſhall not be called. See the like, Prov.16.21. chap.1.26.

liberall] The word, indeed, importeth freeneſſe, liberality, ingenuity; as appears by Exod.25.2.& 35.5. Pſalm 68.9.& 110.3. and is uſed commonly in Scripture, for a Prince, or a Lord, Mal.1.8. Prov.17.7.& 25.7. Pſalm 118.9.& 146.3. becauſe ſuch perſons ſhould ſo be, Prov.19.6. as the word, Lord, with us, alſo, in its firſt originall, is ſaid to import: and the term among the Greeks, commonly given to great Potentates, implyeth as much, Luke 22.25. And ſo, I ſuppoſe, the intent of the Prophet here is, that no Nabal ſhall be a Nadib; that is, no niggard, or baſe minded fellow, a noble man, or a Prince. Our ancienter tranſlations render it, gentle; A Niggard ſhall not be called gentle. Had they ſaid, No niggard ſhall be called; or, ſhall be a gentleman, they had come well neer home to the mark.

nor the Churl ſaid to be bountifull] Heb. and to the Churl it ſhall not be ſaid bountiful: ſuch a word, or term, ſhall not be given him: it ſhall not be his title, or his ſtyle. So chap.19.18.& 61.6.& 62.4. See alſo, Job 34.18.

Churl] The word here uſed, and not elſe-where found, ſeems to be much, if not altogether the ſame, in ſenſe with the former: the original of it, is uncertain; one of the Jewiſh Criticks ſaith, it comes of a word, that ſignifieth, to contain, as a meaſure doth, and conſequently to meaſure, ch. 40. 12. 1 Kings 7. 26. and would have it import one that doth all things, as by weight and meaſure, taking and keeping account of every trifle, and not parting with a grain, or a crum, above weight or meaſure, ſuch an one, as with the Greeks is termed, σμικρολόγος & Κυμινοπρίϛης, one, as we ſay, that will cleave an hair. Another of them, though not unwilling to derive it from the ſame root, but in another notion, as it ſignifieth, to contein, that is, keep in, Jer. 2. 13. & 6. 11. Yet, rather, fetcheth it from another of no unlike notion, that ſignifieth, to reſtrain, and ſhut up in priſon, which is thence, alſo, ſo termed, ch. 42. 7. Jer. 32. 7. & 37. 4. and ſo it ſhould have, in it, a notion of tenacity; and denote one that hordeth up his treaſure, and keepeth it with him, as impriſoned. A third ſaith, it ſignifieth one that hath thoſe words rife in his mouth, mine own to my ſelf: alluding therein, to a ſaynig they have among them, from Eſau's words, to his brother Jacob, Gen. 33. 9. of four ſorts of men: the firſt, of thoſe that ſay, Mine thine, and thine mine: and that is, the way of the world, or the way of tradeſmen: the ſecond, that ſay, Mine mine, and thine thine: and that is the middle ſort, Eſau's way. The third, that ſay, Mine thine, and thine thine own: & that is the Chaſids (they might have ſaid, the Nadibs) the bountiful mans way. The fourth, that ſay, Thine mine, and mine mine own: and that is the wicked mans way. Now either he meant it of the ſecond, and then the Cilay ſhould not be ſo bad, as the Nabal, as his fellow Rabbi holdeth: or of the fourth, and then the one may well be, as bad as the other, as, in likelyhood, there is little difference between them; the Prophets manner, being very frequently to deliver the ſame thing in divers terms. See chap. 57. 1.

bountiful] Or, magnificent, as ſome; who with the Jewiſh Critick, ſuppoſing this to go a ſtep beyond the former, render that munificent, this magnificent. It is no where elſe found, ſave Job 34. 19. where ſome would have it rendred wealthy, becauſe they find needy there oppoſed to it, and the abſtract form of it, Job 36. 19. wealth. But they ſhould conſider, that it is there coupled with Princes, and the needy oppoſed to either. And I ſuppoſe it, therefore, to be as well as the former, a title of honour; and concur with thoſe who, in their verſions, exhibite the noble, in the one place, and thy nobility, in the other. The words of the Prophet, I conceive ſhould be rendred, to expreſs his mind aright; nor ſhall any Churl have the title of a Lord, or the like; the Hebraiſm, being adjoyned in the margent, and to a Churl it ſhall not be ſaid, Lord; for ſo it is pointed in the text: he ſhall not be ſaluted by, or graced with any ſuch title of honour. For how the word ſhould come to ſignifie bountiful, or, as ſome would have it, but in the better part, prodigal: to have it a degree above liberal, I ſee not: nor do I well underſtand, what ſhould move ſome Tranſlators of great note, to render it noble, in Job, and liberal, here.

V. 6. For the vile-perſon will ſpeak villany] In this verſe, and the next, I conceive a reaſon rendred, why ſuch ſhould not, nor indeed ought to be, admitted into place of office, or honour; to wit, becauſe perſons ſo affected, would but groſly abuſe their places, and the power that ſhould be conferred on them, by vertue of their places, to their own diſgrace, and the wrong of others. Yet ſome read the words, as a continuation of the former Sentence, But he ſhall be called (ſupplyed from the fore-going verſe, as Job 14. 5. & 24. 19.) vile, or fool, that ſpeaketh villany, or folly, Chap. 9. 17. men ſhall be accounted ſuch as their words and dealings declare them to be, Mat. 12. 33, 37. Joh. 8. 39, 44. 1 Joh. 3. 7, 10. But the former better agreeth with the genuine ſenſe of the fore-going ſentence; and the text yeeldeth it of it ſelf.

will ſpeak villany] His communication will be correſpondent to his inward baſe diſpoſition. See Chap. 9. 17. but here more ſpecially applyed to the words and ſpeech of perſons, in place of authority, and in exerciſe of their power, Prov. 30. 15. Hoſ. 4. 18. Mic. 7. 3. whom ſuch manner of ſpeech worſt beſeemeth, Prov. 16. 10. & 17. 7.

and his heart will work iniquity] That is, will deviſe and contrive it; for that is properly the work of the heart, Pſalm 64. 6. So Mic. 2. 1. the work is aſcribed to the heart, becauſe there it is forged, and from thence it proceedeth, Mat. 15. 19. Some read it, and whoſe heart worketh iniquity, as before.

iniquity] Which in all men is inexcuſable, but in Judges, and place of Judicature, moſt abominable, Pſalm 58. 1, 2. & 82. 1, 2. Prov. 17. 15. & 24. 23, 24. & 28. 21.

to practiſe hypocriſie] Or, in practiſing (as Chap. 3. 8. & 10. 2.) prophanneſſe, or abominable wickedneſs, as the word commonly, yea, univerſally ſignifies. (See Chap. 9. 17. & 33. 14.) and as the next branch intimates.

and to utter errour againſt the Lord] Or, and in uttering errour, as ſome, of, or concerning the Lord; which they expound of delivering and teaching falſe doctrine: and the particle here is ſometime ſo uſed, as Job 42. 7. but the Prophet ſpeaketh not here of Miniſters, but of Magiſtrates; and their giving unjuſt ſentence, and paſſing erroneous dooms againſt the Word and charge of God. See Chap. 28. 7. the particle is uſed for againſt, as here, ſo Chap. 23. 11. Thus, rather, I take it, then as ſome of the Rabbines, of impious ſpeeches, concerning God and his providence; ſuch as, Pſalm 14. 1. & 53. 1. & 10. 11, 13. & 94. 7. for thoſe are uſually in their hearts, not in their tongues, in their minds, not in their mouths.

to make empty the ſoul of the hungry, and he will cauſe the drink of the thirſty to fail] Or, in making empty the ſoul of the hungry, and in making the drink of the thirſty to fail, as before, or, and in that he maketh, &c. by unjuſt courſes bereaving them of thoſe means that ſhould maintain them, and ſo cauſing them to ſtarve, Chap. 3. 14, 15.

make empty] A metaphor from emptying of veſſels: as if they pluckt their bread out of their bodies, and their meat out of their bowels, as Job 20. 15, 20, 21. Jer. 51. 44. or kept them from being ſatisfied, by withdrawing that from them, wherewith they ſhould have bin filled: as a river, or pool, is emptied, by deriving or diverting the ſtreams that ſhould feed it, Chap. 19. 5, 6.

make empty the hungry] For by emptying to make hungry, or to ſtarve. See the like, Chap. 24. 10.

hungry ſoul] That is, perſon, Pſalm 107. 9. but this phraſe maketh the ſpeech here more emphatical.

the drink of the thirſty] Not which he hath, but which he needeth, and would have, which he wanteth and deſireth.

he cauſeth to fail] By withdrawing that from him, which ſhould procure it him when he thirſteth: or, by ſuch means, bringing him, as to hunger, ſo to thirſt, and to periſh by either, Chap. 5. 13. Amos 8. 13. See the contrary, Chap. 33. 16.

V. 7. The inſtruments alſo of the churl are evil] Heb. And the churl, or, The churl alſo, (as Chap. 29. 19.) his inſtruments are evil. Where by inſtruments, ſome of the Jewiſh Commenters underſtand, weights and meaſures, as if the meaning were, that ſuch would uſe light weights, and ſcant meaſures, Amos 8. 5. (though there the ſhekel is heavy, becauſe, by it, they took their money) Mic. 6. 10, 11. ſuppoſing that thence alſo, ſuch had that name; and the meaning to be, that ſuch an one would forbear no evil courſe to enrich himſelf. But the Prophet ſpeaketh not here of merchants, or tradeſmen, but of Princes, and men in place of authority and judicature. Others, therefore, rather by inſtruments, conceive to be meant, ſuch under-officers, or adherents as corrupt Judges and great ones, do, ordinarily, make uſe of, by them, as inſtruments to negotiate with thoſe, that have cauſes before them, or ſuits to them, or to help to bring about, and put in execution their wicked and unjuſt deſigns, Prov. 12. 12. & 19. 12. Amos 4. 2. Zeph. 1. 9. Or, as ſome of the Jewiſh Doctors, ſuch ſlights, and artifices, as perſons, ſo affected, are wont to uſe, for the perverting of judgement, and either bringing about, or ſmothering, and ſetting ſome fair, and colourable pretence, upon their unjuſt and wrongful courſes, Mic. 2. 1, 3. & 7. 3. Yet, ſome would have it, he ſhall be called, or accounted, a churl, or, a niggard, whoſe inſtruments, that is, courſes, are evil. See before, on ver. 5, 6. There is an elegancy of ſpeech in the original, which our engliſh cannot expreſſe: as if it were ſaid, The toleмans tooles are evil; or the like. The churl his inſtruments; as a Ruler his ſervants, Prov. 29. 12. See ver. 1.

he deviſeth wicked devices] Heb. he conſulteth, that is, contriveth; as Chap. 23. 8. He will alwaies be contriving ſome miſchief or other, Pſal. 36. 4. The latter word, in its original, ſignifies a thought, or deſign, in general; but is for the moſt part, uſed for ſome wicked thought, deſign, or device; and that not projected, or plotted onely, but practiſed; any vile, and abominable, either project, or practice, Levit. 18. 17. & 19. 29. & 20. 14. And there was ſmall reaſon for the Jewiſh Critick, hence to collect, that the Cilay, here mentioned, is not ſo bad as the Nabal; becauſe the one is ſaid to deviſe, and contrive, whereas the other is ſaid to do, and to utter: v. 6.

to deſtroy the poor] Or, the afflicted; as the word properly ſignifies; but uſed for poor; becauſe ſuch more expoſed to affliction and oppreſſion, then others, Pſal. 102. title, Ch. 3. 14.

with lying words] Heb. words of falſhhood; as Jer. 23. 32. or, matters of falſhhood: as words of iniquity, for matters of iniquity, Pſal. 65. 3. and, a word, or, matter of falſhood, for a falſe matter, Exod 23. 7. By falſe ſuggeſtions, or wrongful dooms, to overthrow them in judgement, whom they ought to right and relieve, Chap. 3. 12-15.

even when the needy ſpeaketh right] Heb. judgement; as v. 1. Or, and by ſpeaking againſt the needy in judgement. A defect of the paticle, againſt; as ver. 2. of in; as Pſal. 9. 16. Or, as ſome, ſupplying the verb from the former member, and to deſtroy, or ſpoil judgement, when the poor ſpeaketh, not regarding what he ſaith; ſo ſome, not improbably.

V. 8. But the liberal deviſeth liberal things; and by liberal things ſhall he ſtand] So the moſt render it, and it is oppoſed to what was ſaid, v. 6. of the niggard. Some read the words, but he ſhall be called liberal, or, munificent, that taketh liberal, or, munificent courſes and perſiſteth in the ſame. I conceive rather, that they ought thus to be read; But the Prince ſhall take ingenuous courſes, and by ingenuous courſes ſhall he be eſtabliſhed, Prov. 12. 7. or, and for ſuch courſes ſhall he ſtand; as Dan. 11. 31. The Prince, or, the Lord, or, the honourable man, in thoſe times (in diſpoſition of heart and minde, anſwering his name) ſhall carry himſelf ingenuouſly, and honourably, forbearing, and abhorring ſuch baſe and diſhonourable courſes, as the perſons, before deſcribed, uſually take and follow; and he ſhall not only take ingenuous and honourable courſes, himſelf, but uphold, and maintain others, alſo, in the like.

V. 9. Riſe up ye women, that are at eaſe; hear my voice, ye careleſs daughters, give ear unto my ſpeech] The Prophet in theſe words, maketh entrance into his enſuing diſcourſe, in the latter part of this Chapter, concerning thoſe troubles that were to come, before the eſtabliſhment of the State, in manner before deſcribed; with an earneſt exhortation unto thoſe, whom it ſpecially concerned; where he enciteth them, rouſing up themſelves from, and ſhaking off that ſecurity, that at preſent poſſeſſeth them, to attend diligently thereunto. See the like, in the like caſe, Chap. 28. 23.

riſe up]. Either awaking out of your ſleep of ſecurity; as Eph. 5. 14. Or, riſing from your beds, on which ye lye at eaſe, repoſing your ſelves; as 2 Sam. 11. 2. or, without ſpecial reſpect to any ſuch preſent poſture or diſpoſal, ſetting other matters aſide, liſten ſeriouſly to what I ſay: as Numb. 23. 18. for of riſing to give reverence to Gods word, as Judg. 3. 20. ſeems not ſo well to fit here.

ye women] and daughters. Theſe two terms, ſome underſtand here properly of the weaker ſex; as Chap. 3. 16, 17. The Prophet directing his ſpeech to them more ſpecially, becauſe they lived moſt at eaſe, and ſeemed, at preſent, moſt ſecure, as wanting that fore-ſight, that the other ſex employed in Sate-affairs, oft times hath; as alſo, for that being as deeply faulty in ſome things, as the men, they were to ſuffer alike with them, in the troubles of the times, and were leſſe able to endure hardſhip, Deut. 28. 30, 32-41. 2 Chr. 36. 17. Chap. 3. 16, 17. Others think, that the men of that State, are ſo ſtyled, here, for their effeminate carriage, and woman-like diſpoſition. See Chap. 3. 12. & 19. 16. Others, laſtly, ſuppoſe that thereby is meant, the Towns and Cities of Judah, (for this Prophecy ſeems not to deal with Samaria, though ſome carry it over thither) which are commonly, in Scripture, compared to women, and were as daughters to Jeruſalem, the mother-city; and, at preſent, enjoyed much tranquility and peace, together with her, who neither alſo is here excluded. See the common phraſe, Joſh. 15. 32, 36, 41, 43. Lam. 3. 51. And I take them both for the ſame: for I ſuppoſe that too nice, which ſome here have, who by women would have underſtood the greater cities, by daughters, the leſſe. Howbeit, I ſuppoſe it, as was in the firſt place propounded, to be directed to the women, the court-Ladies eſpecially; and by them to the men. See Chap. 3. 16.

careleſs] Heb. confident. Alluding to their vain confidence, for which they are ſo frequently taxed, Chap. 30. 12. & 31. 1.

V. 10. Many dayes and years ſhall ye be troubled, ye careleſs women] So ſome read it, expounding it of the Babylonian captivity, which was to laſt for many years, Jer. 25. 11. The words are in the Hebrew, Dayes above a year; as Job 23. 2. or, Dayes upon, or, unto a year; as Chap. 29. 1. or, (ſo ſome of the Jewiſh Criticks would have it) Dayes with, or, beſide a year; as Chap. 7. 2. that is, as ſome, two years; a year upon a year; dayes, for a year: as Exod. 13. 10. Numb. 9. 22. but dayes, and a year, are here put as diſtinct things, which in thoſe places is not. Some therefore would have it read, A year of dayes above a year, as 1 Sam. 27. 7. which yet would amount to no more then the former; as 2 Sam. 13. 23. & 14. 28. Others, dayes over and above a year; that is, ſome ſpace of time more then a year: a few dayes, ſay ſome; as Gen. 24. 55. more then a few, ſay others: but within two years; as 2 Chr. 22. 15, 19. But the main doubt here is, whether the term of time, here deſcribed, concern the entrance into the calamities, here foretold, or the continuance thereof with them. Some ſuppoſe the former, and hence gather, that this prophecy was delivered about the twelf year of Ezekiahs reign, ſome two year before the Aſſyrian invaſion, when all ſeemed quiet, and well grounded for future firm peace, the neighbouring adverſaries ſubdued, and both Church and State ſetled, 2 Kings 18. 7, 8. 2 Chr. 32. 1. Others ſuppoſe, rather, the meaning to be, that this calamity, cauſed by the Aſſyrian incurſion, under Sennacherib, ſhould continue for more then a year, very neer two; but ſhould, within that compaſs, be circumſcribed. And indeed that ſo it was, may appear by computation of the times: for in the fourteenth year of Ezekiah, Sennacherib invaded the land of Judah, 2 Kings 18. 13. and not long after his departure, Ezekiah being at deaths door, had with promiſe of recovery, and of ſecurity againſt the Aſſyrian, or any other adverſary, a leaſe-parol of his life, made him from God, for fifteen years then to enſue, and ſealed ſolemnly, both with a ſtrange, and unheard of miracle, Chap. 38. 1, 5, 6, 8. Now Ezekiah reigning but twenty and nine year in all, 2 Kings 18. 2. there cannot well be two entire years, between the thirteen years before the acceſſe of Sennacherib, and the other fifteen after his departure. And I concur therefore with thoſe, who conceive, in theſe words, to be contained, a juſt limitation of that calamitous time, that laſted during the abode of the enemy in their land. See the like ambiguity, Chap. 16. 14.

for the vintage ſhall fail; the gathering ſhall not come] The enemy entring your land, ſhall make havock of all, and ſo over-ſpread the whole country, Chap. 7. 19. & 8. 8. that ye ſhall have, neither opportunity, nor ability to get ought in, of the fruits of the earth; as no doubt, while the Aſſyrian forces continued among them, little vintage or fruit-gathering could be had with them. See Chap. 1. 7.

the vintage ſhall fail] The vineyards ſhall, either be ſpoiled by the enemies, ere the time of cutting the grapes; or then ſiezed upon by them.

the gathering] Of other fruits, Mic. 7. 1. whence the feaſt of gathering, when their fruits were all gathered in, Exod. 23. 16. & 34. 22.

V. 11. Tremble ye women that are at eaſe, be troubled ye careleſs ones: ſtrip ye, and make ye bare; and gird ſackcloth upon your loyns] Break off your ſecure, and retchleſs courſes; and betake your ſelves to lamentation, and humiliation. See chap. 22. 12.

women that are at eaſe] See ver. 9. But women is not here in the text: yet not unfitly inſerted, as ſupplyed from ver. 10. before; the adjective is here alſo feminine.

ſtrip ye] Of your better rayment, and ordinary apparel, as in times of mourning they were wont to do, Exod. 33. 5.

make ye bare] See Chap. 20. 2, 3.

gird ſackcloth] An emblem of mourning, being the ordinary mourning weed. See Chap. 15. 3. and though wanting here, yet well ſupplied from Chap. 22. 12. It is made a badge alſo of a mean condition, Chap. 3. 24. Howbeit, I concur not with thoſe, that ſuppoſe here intimated, a fitting of themſelves for ſervile employments, as being to be taken captive by the enemy, and made drudges. Who alſo therefore render the words without ſupply, gird up your loins; as Luke 12. 35. See Chap. 47. 2. But the particle, upon, which they obſerve not, intimateth a defect to be ſupplyed, of that wherewith they were to be girt.

V. 12. They ſhall mourn for the teats, for the pleaſant fields, for the fruitful vine] The cauſe and ground of the Lamentation before preſcribed them, the ſpoil, and loſſe of their pleaſant and fertile lands and grounds; the pleaſure they had wont to take in them, and the fruit and benefit that they received from them.

They ſhall mourn] Or, Men ſhall mourn; or Lamentation ſhall be made Heb. mourning they ſhall be, that is, mourning ſhall be: the participle put indefinitely. The word is uſed for mourners, at ſolemn burials, Eccl. 12. 5. See further on the next word.

for the teats] That is, as moſt, for their fertile fields and vineyards, which as teats, yeelding abundance of milk, nouriſhed and fed them: whence their land was ſaid to flow with milk, Ezek. 20. 6. as others, for want of milk in their teats to nurſe their poor infants with, Lam. 2. 11. & 4. 3, 4. But one of the Jewiſh Doctors, whom I rather here concur with, reads the words, Beating upon their breaſts: teats, for breaſts: as we uſe the word breaſts, for teats: and ſo render it, Ch. 28. 9. the uſual manner being in ſolemn mournings, and much heavineſſe, to beat upon their breaſts. See Mic. 2. 7. Luk. 18. 13. and the word here rendred mourning, is moſt commonly in the Latine verſion, expreſſed by a term, that properly ſo ſignifies. So the text would be rendred, There ſhall be beating upon the breaſts. So rather, then with a learned Writer, as an epithet of the word teats, or breaſts, for the mournful breaſts, as, dry breaſts, Hoſh. 9. 14. Of the word teat, ſee on Ch. 28. 9.

for the pleaſant fields] Heb. fields of deſire, or delight. See Chap. 2. 16. Jer. 3. 15. for them, that is, for the ſpoil, want, and loſſe of them: as ch. 24. 11. for wine, ſee Lam. 4. 9. there is a pleaſant affinity of ſound here, between the words rendred teats and fields; which our Engliſh cannot expreſſe.

for the fruitful vine] vine, collectively, for vines: as Chap. 24. 7. See the like uſe of the particle, 2 Sam. 11. 26. Zach. 12. 10.

V. 13. upon the land of my people ſhall come up thorns and briars, yea, upon all the houſes of joy, in the joyous city] At theſe words the Prophet ſeemeth, cloſely, and (as we may ſo ſay) abruptly to paſſe from the relation of that ſpoil of the Country, that for ſome ſhort time ſhould be very ſhortly made of it, by the Aſſyrian Invaſion; unto the prediction of a far greater more general devaſtation, and of far longer continuance, that in future times ſhould further befall their land, in the Chaldean Invaſion;under Nebuchadnezzar,deſcribed in this verſe,and the next. So that it is, as if the Prophet had ſaid, I told you before of ſome trouble that would befall you for a year and a day, (as we uſe to ſay) or for days, not a few after the yeers end: But I am now further to acquaint you with a far greater calamity that hereafter will befall your whole country, and ſhall laſt longer, by much, then that. See the like paſſage from the deſtruction of Judahs two adverſaries, the Kings of Iſrael and Syria, to the Invaſion of Judah it ſelf, by the King of Aſſyria, without any expreſſe connexion, ſo much as a copulative, as in this place, ch.7.16,17.

my people] As chap.22.4.

thorns and briars] As chap.7.23,24.& 34.13.Hoſ.9.6.

yea] Or, alſo: as a Jewiſh Critick here expounds it: and ſo moſt take it,as alſo ſome of ours reader it,Chap.15.9.& 16.8. Not your land only, but your pleaſant houſes, and Palaces, as well in the city, as the country, ſhall undergo the like ſad and rueful condition, being both alike waſted, and with the like overgrown. Howbeit, ſome render it burning: as it is taken, Chap.3.24. underſtanding it, of the burning of the houſes and Palaces of Ieruſalem by the Chaldeans, 2 King.25.9. 2 Chr.36.19. Neh.1.3. & 2.3. Some take it for a cauſal particle, as relating the procuring cauſe of this miſchief, becauſe over all the houſes of merriment the city revelleth, or rejoyceth, becauſe ſhe is ſo full of nothing but revelling and exceſſe, ch.5.11-13. & 22.2,13.

houſes of joy] Or, pleaſant, or merry-houſes: ſo termed, either becauſe they took much delight in them; as Sion is ſaid to be the joy of the whole land, Pſal.48.2. Whence ſome would have Temple and Palace, both ſituate on that Mount,here to be meant; or, becauſe they were at preſent full of mirth and merriment in them, as miſdoubting no trouble neer. See Chap.13.12. Amos 3.15. Briars and brambles ſhall grow in the waſte places, where ſuch houſes had before ſtood,but were now by the enemy either burnt down, or defaced and demoliſhed: as Chap.13.22.

in the joyous city] Or, the revelling city. For the word ſeems to import here,as elſewhere,ſome exceſſe; as ch.5.15. he that revells it: and, Chap.24.8. the noiſe of the revellers is at an end. By the city thus termed here, Some underſtand Samaria; and of that land, ſome of the Jewiſh Commenters underſtand all this. But that ſeems not ſo probable. Others, even of them alſo, underſtand Jeruſalem; unto whom the ſame term is given, and her inhabitants taxed for their faultineſſe herein, Chap.22.2,13. Others take it more generally, in a collective ſenſe, city, for cities: as ch.25.2. and underſtand by it, in general, the ſeveral cities throughout the whole land of Judah. See the ſame term alſo uſed, Zeph.2.15.

V.14. Becauſe the Palaces ſhall be forſaken, the multitude of the City ſhall be left] As if he ſhould ſay, no marvel if thoſe places be with ſuch traſh overgrown, when they are wholly abandoned by thoſe people, that did formerly therein abide.

Palaces] Heb. Palace. The Kings houſe burnt down by the Chaldeans, 2 King.25.9. or, if taken collectively, for Palaces; ſuch goodly and ſtately buildings, as were more like Princes Palaces, then private mens dwellings, ch.13.22.

forſaken] Or, as the Tygurine, and ſome other, disjected, diſſipated, deſtroyed; as they ſuppoſe alſo the word to be taken, Ezek.31.12. See ch.33 23.

the multitude] Or, noiſe: ſuch as a multitude makes, ch.31.4. See ch.22.2. Lam.1.1.

ſhall be left] See ch.6.11,12. but there ſeems here an inverſion of the words: the multitude of the city ſhall be left, for, the city ſhall be left of its multitude: for that is ſure the meaning, nor, that a multitude ſhall be left in the City. See the like, Chap.57.10.

the forts and towers ſhall be for dens for ever] As the faireſt buildings ſhall be demoliſhed, ſo the higheſt towers and ſtrongeſt forts ſhall be diſmantled, and lye waſte, as well the one, as the other.

the forts] Or, as ſome render it here, the cliffe. For the word is ſingular, (which our Tranſlators deemed to be taken collectively, as the Jewiſh Commenters alſo take it,) and is elſewhere rendred a tower. 2 King.5.24. and, a ſtrong hold, Mic.4.8. it ſeemeth to have been the proper name of a place within Jeruſalem, about Mount Sion, in which many dwelt, and was encompaſſed with a wall. See 2 Chron.27.3. & 33.14. Neh.3.26,27. & 11.21. in all which places, the name Ophel, is in our verſion retained; and ſo I conceive it may well be here, and then it muſt be meant of Jeruſalem, though the ſame term be uſed of a tower or fort about Samaria, 2 King.5.24. Howbeit, there want not ſome learned Criticks, who ſuppoſe the word Ophel, to ſignifie dwelling houſes, cut out of the rocky ground, ſuch, as much about Jeruſalem was, and ſo called of a word, that ſignifies cloudy and dark, not as Jerome ſaith of the tower Ophel, becauſe it reached to the clouds; but becauſe they were obſcure and dark. But this I ſuppoſe to be a very groundleſſe and improbable conjecture: beſides, that the word that ſignifies miſt, or darkneſſe, Chap.29.18. is of another root. This Ophel, and ophel a miſt, differ as much, as Ab, a father, and Ab, a cloud.

towers] Heb. tower, or watch-tower. See Chap.23.13. & Jer.6.27. Yet the word here uſed, coming neer to our Beacon, differeth in a vowel from that here uſed, and no where elſe ſo read: and it may ſeem to have been, as the former, the name of ſome other place thereabout, that which Jerome, from ſome Jewiſh Doctors, avoweth; but on what ground, I wot not: for in their Commentaries we now commonly have, I find it not.

for dens] Or, caves: as Chap.2.19. 1 Sam.13.6. but here dens; becauſe ſuch intended, as wilde beaſts uſe to lurk and lodge in; and thoſe that conceive the word ophel to ſignifie ſuch houſes, as was before ſaid, ſuppoſe that the wilde beaſts now took up their lodgings in thoſe ſtony caves, ſo cut out, which men had before inhabited. But of that before.

a joy of wilde aſſes] That running at large, Job 39.5. Jer.2.24. ſhall there play and diſport themſelves, where people uſed to take their pleaſure, and make merry together before; for thereto he alludeth here. See ver.13.

for ever] That is, for a long time: for about ſeventy yeers; if the Prophecy be of the Babylonian captivity, Jer.25.11,12. Dan.9.2. for the word here uſed, doth not alwaies import an everlaſting perpetuity, but ſome long ſpace of time only. See Chap.14.20. & 25.2. And the Doctors critical obſervation, as well here, as elſewhere, faileth, that would have the word here uſed, where it is full written, as here it is, to ſignifie eternity.

a paſture of flocks] Places for ſheep and goats to graze on. See Chap.17.2.

V. 15. untill the Spirit be poured upon us from on high] This Sermon, as others, both before and after, the Prophet concludeth with gracious promiſes of the reſtitution of Gods people, being purged, by their foregoing afflictions, and Gods ample benediction upon them. See Chap.30.4.

untill the Spirit be poured upon us] Untill God be pleaſed to ſend forth a gracious gale of his Spirit, that breathing mildly and gently upon us, may reſtore all to a flouriſhing eſtate and condition again with us. See Pſal.104.30. Chap.44.3. Some refer it unto the reſtitution of them, from their long thraldome in Babylon. See Ezek.37.5,6,9,10,14. Others, (among whom alſo ſome of the Jewiſh Maſters) to the times of the Meſſias, and the plentiful effuſion of Gods Spirit in thoſe dayes. See Joel 2.28. Zach.12.10. Act.2.17,18,33. I will not deny, but that it may comprehend either. Yet I ſuppoſe, it withal includeth, and was in part fulfilled in Ezekiahs time alſo, and the reſtitution of the Jewiſh State after the defeat of Sennacherib; and the words following imply as well a temporal change, as a ſpiritual; though this typified by the former. And there may ſeem alſo ſome alluſion, by way of oppoſition, to another kind of ſpirit before poured upon them in judgment, Chap.29.10. or to ſuch as that rather, Hag.1.9. As for thoſe that expound it of the Spirit of judgment and burning, Chap.4.4. I cannot accord with them, becauſe that ſeems to imply a fore-going work in the purging of the people, and fitting of them for what is promiſed in this place.

be poured] So the word is uſed, Gen.24.20. Ch.53.12. Howbeit, becauſe the word ſignifieth ſometime, & moſt commonly, to make bare, Chap.3.17. ver.11. ſome render it, ſhall be made bare; that is, revealed, or in a conſpicuous manner poured out, as Chap.30.30.& 52.10. & 53.1. But this ſeems ſomewhat over nice.

from on high] From God above, Pſalm 18.16.& 102.19. & 144.7. or from Chriſt, reſiding now in heaven, Act.2.33. & 3.21. Eph.4.8,11.

and the wilderneſſe be a fruitful field, and the fruitfull field be counted for a foreſt.] Or, and then the wilderneſſe ſhall be a fruitful field, &c. as chap.30.29. This ſome expound of the equality that ſhould be among them, after their return from the Babylonian captivity, the greater and wealthier ſort being then brought low, & the meaner ſort made even with them: to which purpoſe, alſo, they apply that, chap.40.4. But the words ſeem rather to import a general fertility, that ſhould be in all places throughout the Land: of which, as alſo of other expoſitions of this paſſage, ſee on chap.29.17. ſee alſo Ezek.34.26,27.

the wilderneſſe] Or waſte: ſuch as divers were in the Land of Judah, 1 Sam.17.28.& 23.15,25.& 24.2. Chap.35.1. & 40.3. Mat.3.1.

be counted for a foreſt] That is, be as a foreſt: as Chap.40.15.

V.16. Then judgment ſhall dwell in the wilderneſſe, and righ- teouſneſſe remain in the fruitfull field]Heb. And judgment. There ſhall be upright dealing, & due execution of juſtice, without partiality, in all parts of the land: ſee v.1,2. Ier.31.23. ch.60. 21. The whole land being deſcribed by a diſtribution of it into two parts, the wilderneſſe (conſiſting of Woods and Plains, on which their chattel, great and ſmall, were kept, 1 Sam.25.15, 21. Luke 15.4. and many towns and habitations were neer to them, and upon them, as Zacharies, Luke 1.39,40,80.) and the Carmel, conſiſting of ſuch grounds, as were either eared and tilled for corn and grain, or planted with vines, olives, and other fruitfull plants; oppoſed here, to the wilderneſs: of which, ſee more, on chap.29.17. For thoſe ſeem to ſtray far from the Prophets mind, who by judgment underſtand here, Gods vengeance executed upon the Aſſyrians, by juſtice his goodneſs, and mercy to the Jews. See Chap. 1. 27. & 33.5.

V. 17. And the work of righteouſneſſe ſhall be peace, and the effect of righteouſneſſe, quietneſſe, and aſſurance for ever.] The fruit and benefit that ſhall redound to the State and People, by this due execution and obſervation of juſtice, to wit, that they ſhall enjoy a conſtant tenour of peace, proſperity, quietneſs, and aſſured ſafety. See Pſalm 72.2,3. Rom.14.17. Jam. 3. 18. The ſame thing, in effect, is in both branches implyed.

peace] That is, proſperity: whereof peace is both a procuring cauſe, Pſalm 122.7. & 133. 3. and a principal part, Pſal.119. 165. Chap.26.3. & 48.18. & 54.13. & 66.12.

quietneſs and aſſurance] Or, confidence. See Chap.26.4. & 28. 26. which may well be referred, not only to the ſetled tranquility, that they ſhall then enjoy, living both free from fear of war, and hoſtile incurſions from abroad, and from jars and broils at home amongſt themſelves; but a religious compoſure of mind, alſo, reſting quietly now upon God alone, and depending on him, with confident aſſurance of protection from him, Chap.10.20. & 17.7. See chap.30.15.

for ever] Chap.26.4. See ver.14. as long as Ezekiah lives, ſay ſome, chap.33.6. & 39.8.

V. 18. And my people ſhall dwell in a peaceable habitation, and in ſure dwellings, and in quiet reſting places.] A further deſcription of that ſecurity and ſafety, that God ſhall in thoſe times afford his people, in the ſeveral places of their abode, Lev.26.5,6. chap.4.5. & 26.1,3. & 33.20. Ezek. 34.25.—28.

a peaceable habitation] Heb. an habitation (as Exod.15.13.) or, a fold (as 2 Sam.7.8.) of peace, as a land of peace, Jer.12.5. and an habitation of righteouſneſs, Jer.31.23.

ſure dwellings] Heb. dwellings of aſſurances, or confidences, that is, of moſt aſſured confidence: ſuch as wherein a man is, or may be fully ſure of ſafety, and reſt ſecure. See Prov. 1. 33.

V. 19. When it ſhall hail coming down on the foreſt, and the city ſhall be low in a low place.] Thoſe that thus render the text, knit this paſſage to the end of the verſe before-going; and indeed if it be thus read, it makes out no entire ſenſe; as if it were ſaid, they ſhall ſit ſafe, when it haileth on the foreſt: or, as Some, howſoever, it hail, when the foreſt goes down, and the cities abroad are ruined. Others, to make the ſenſe entire, render it, But it ſhall hail, when it falleth upon the foreſt; or, when it doth hail, it ſhall come down upon the foreſt, and the city ſhall be brought very low, or, be utterly abaſed. They that read the text thus, either way, expound it, ſome, of the miniſtery of the Goſpel thundering upon the conſciences of wicked caſtaways, and throwing them, at length, down into hell, 2 Cor. 10. 4-6. Heb.4.12. & 6.4-8. & 10.26-29. Matth.11.23. Others, of Gods judgments, that ſhould now be bent againſt, and ſpent upon the wicked of the world, poured forth upon thoſe that live without the pale of the Church, and ſhould ruinate their cities: or, as ſome, dividing their whole country into Foreſts, or Woods, not peopled; and city, places repleniſhed with Inhabitants (as the land of Judah before into land, wild and tilled, ver.15.) it ſhall (as that Plain where Sodom ſtood, Gen.19.24.) be all utterly deſtroyed; or, as ſome other again, their country, that is as full of towns and cities, as a foreſt is of trees, ſhall be totally ruined. See Joſh.10.11, Pſal. 11.6, chap.10.33,34. & 28.2,17. & 30.30. There is yet another reading with thoſe, that apply this to Jeruſalem; then, ſay they, ſhall Gods people enjoy this peace and ſafety, when God hath hailed upon the foreſt (that is, upon the land of Judah, wherein much woody ground was) and laid the city very low, that is, pulled down the pride of Jeruſalem; this being the end for which God brought in the enemy upon them, not to deſtroy, but to humble them, chap. 2. 12-17. & 3. 16. & 5.15. & 29.4. And theſe be the chief expoſitions, that moſt Writers of note do give of this verſe: from all whom, I muſt crave leave to diſſent; and taking the text aſunder, to deliver mine own thoughts of either branch apart, according to ſome hints given by two of the Jewiſh Commenters; the one, concerning the former; the other, in the latter.

When it ſhall hail coming down on the foreſt] Heb. And it ſhall hail, or he ſhall hail in deſcending on the foreſt; or, as others, in the deſcent of the foreſt. Which, whether way we read, will come all to one. But ſome ſuppoſe the word rendred, in deſcending, or in deſcent; to be, not an infinitive, with a particle prefixed, but one entire word, a noun feminine, ſignifying hail: of which form, they give divers inſtances; and theſe thus read the words, And it, or he ſhall hail with hail the foreſt: the meaning whereof, one of them very fitly giveth, That God will preſerve the fruits of the earth for them, that they ſhall not with ſtorm and tempeſt be ſpoyled; and will therefore, in his providence, ſo diſpoſe occurrents of that kind, that when ſtorms of hail come, they ſhall light on the wilde waſte or foreſt, where it can do little hurt, and not on their corn grounds, or vineyards, or the like, where it might do much miſchief, Pſalm 78.47. & 105.32,33. and the Prophet might well allude unto the diviſion that God made with that hideous judgment between the land of Goſhen, and the reſt of Egypt, Exod.9.22-26.

and the city ſhall be low in a low place] That is, as moſt here take the Hebrew phraſe, with abaſing be abaſed: as chap. 22.18. or utterly abaſed, chap.26.5. But they that thus render it, obſerve not the article prefixed to the word here uſed, and only cut ſhorter by the mid vowell here, then elſe-where; which as it ſorteth not ſo well with the word abaſing, for which it is no where uſed (though the verb it cometh of, be commonly ſo taken) ſo it is always joyned with it, when it ſignifies (as it always doth) the low ground, or the vale, diſtinct both from the hill, Deut.1.7. Joſh.9.1. & Jer.17. 26. and from the plain too, 2 Chr. 26.10. whence the cities of the lower grounds, or the vale, oppoſed to thoſe ſituate on the upper grounds, or the hils, Jer.32.44. & 33.13. I render the words, therefore, after one of the Jewiſh Scholiaſts, the city (that is, cities, as chap. 25. 2, 3.) ſhall be below, or beneath in the low grounds, or in the vale, that is, as the Jew rightly underſtands it; Such ſhall be the tranquility and the ſecurity of thoſe times; and through aſſurance of Gods protection, ſo ſafe and ſo fearleſs ſhall they be, that they ſhall neither need, nor deſire to build upon the hils and higher grounds only, that were places of greater ſtrength, and better able to hold out againſt an enemy, Judg.1.34,35. but ſhould build Towns and Cities in the low grounds and the vale, where they might ſeem to be more expoſed to peril and damage, by the irruption of any adverſary, and indeed ſhould be, if any ſuch ſhould invade the country, 2 Chr.28.18. See 2 Chr.20.29,30. & 32. 22. ſo that in this paſſage, is a note of the ſecurity fore-told and promiſed, ver.18.

V. 20. Bleſſed are ye that ſow beſide all waters, that ſend forth thither the feet of the oxe and the aſſe] The laſt benefit here fore-told and promiſed, is Gods bleſſing upon their labours, in earing and tilling their land, in cauſing it to return them a large and liberal encreaſe, chap.30.23,24. See ver.15. And this is well ſubjoyned to what went before: for the cities ſituate in the lower grounds (men, in times of peace, regarding wealth, more then ſtrength; and revenue, then defence) were much better watered, and the grounds about them commonly more fertile, as we ſee it with us alſo, then thoſe above upon the higher parts of the hill. God therefore promiſeth, that as they ſhould have opportunity to till thoſe rich and well watered grounds, ſo by his bleſſing upon their labors therein, they ſhould receive rich crops from them, that ſhould make them happy men, Lev.26.3-6. Deut.28.3,4,8. Pſalm 144.13,15. If any, further, ſuppoſe hereby to be typified, Gods ſpiritual husbandry in the miniſtery of the Goſpel, accompanied with his bleſſing, to the great joy and comfort of his Miniſters that labour therein, Mat.13.8, 23. Luke 8.8,15. 1 Cor.1.6-9. & 9.9, 10. 1 Theſ.2.19,20. & 3.8,9. of which opinion, I find moſt to be; I oppoſe them not. Yet deem this to be the firſt, proper, and genuine ſenſe; which, thoſe that wave, decline the purpoſe and intention of the Prophet in this place.

beſide all waters] So the particle is uſed, Exod.14.9. Pſal. 106.7. & 137. 1. Eccl. 11.1. where that is, at leaſt, alluded, that is here intended, to wit, that grounds well watered, yeeld much encreaſe, chap.35.6,7. Howbeit, I ſuppoſe none, either neceſſity, or probability, of that which ſome imagine, that the Prophet ſhould have any ſpecial eye here to the waters of Egypt, and the fertility of that Soil, chap.19.7. & 23.3.

ſending thither the feet of the oxe and the aſſe] Putting in theſe labouring beaſts to ear the ground, and fit it for receit of ſeed, Pſalm 144.14. See chap.30.24. or, as ſome, to feed on the corn grown up, but green ſtill, as an ordinary herbage, in regard of the great plenty of it, not turning them out into the common or waſte, but ſending them alſo into the field. See chap.7.25. & 30.24. or to keep it down, when it begins to grow too rank; as in marſh grounds, new broken up, eſpecially, is with us not unuſual: Either of theſe, better then that of the aſſe, to bring in the corn, and the oxe to threſh it out, Deut.25.4. What dreams the Jewiſh Dotards fetch out of theſe words, concerning their two Meſſiaſſes; the one, of the houſe of Joſeph, the oxe, Deut. 33.17. the other, of the houſe of Judah, the aſſe, Zach.9.9. themſelves, for the ſame, well deſerving the title, that Jacob gives Iſachar, Gen.49.14. See on chap.11.13.

CHAP. XXXIII.

V.1. WO to thee that ſpoileſt, and thou waſt not ſpoiled; and dealeſt treacherouſly, and they dealt not treacherouſly with thee: when thou ſhalt ceaſe to ſpoil, thou ſhalt be ſpoiled; & when thou ſhalt make an end to deal treacherouſly, they ſhall deal treacherouſly with thee] This Chapter of the ſame nature and ſubject with the next before going, conſiſteth of three heads, artificially enterwoven, one within another; the diſtreſs of Gods people, their delivery out of it, and the deſtruction and overthrow of the adverſe party. In the entrance, the Prophet directeth his ſpeech to the enemy, foretelling and forewarning him, of what ſhould befall him, to wit, that as he had made a ſpoil of others, and dealt perfidiouſly with them, when he had no juſt cauſe given him, to deal in that manner with them; ſo when the time ſet him for power and liberty ſo to do, ſhall expire, he ſhould in like manner, as with others he had dealt, by others alſo be dealt with himſelf.

Wo to thee] Or, O thou: as Chap. 10. 5. & 18. 1. Thou the Chaldean, Nebuchadnezzar, as ſome, Chap.14.4. & 21. 2. Hab.2.5,8. or, as others rather, the Aſſyrian, Sennacherib. See ver.8.

and thou waſt not ſpoiled] Or, when thou waſt not ſpoiled: as Chap. 30.20. when others did not ſpoil thee, Jer. 34.1. Zach.12.2.

and dealeſt treacherouſly] Heb. art dealing treacherouſly. So did Sennacherib with Ezekiah, 2 King.18.14,17.

and they deal not treacherouſly with thee] Or, when (as before) thou waſt not treacherouſly dealt with. See the like form of ſpeech, chap.53.2. Gen.40.15. Iob 19.26. But here may a doubt be made: for did not Zedekiah deal treacherouſly with Nebuchadnezzar, when he rebelled againſt him, 2 Kings 24. 20? and Ezekiah the like with Sennacherib, when he rebelled alſo againſt him? 2 King.18.7. I anſwer, Zedekiah indeed did ſo, becauſe he was ſet up by Nebuchadnezzar, and had ſworn allegeance to him, 2 Chr.36.13. Ezek.17.15-19. and hence it may be gathered, that Nebuchadnezzar is not here intended. But of Ezekiah, it cannot be ſo ſaid: for neither was he, by the Aſſyrian, advanced to the Crown; nor doth it appear, that he ever engaged himſelf to him, though his Father, it ſeems, upon the aſſiſtance by the Aſſyrian afforded him, againſt the Syrian and Iſrael, to continue amity with him, had agreed, for ſome yeerly contribution to be made him, which Ezekiah, at his coming to the Crown, refuſed to make good; and is therefore ſaid to have rebelled againſt him, becauſe he refuſed to be under that heavy yoke of contribution any longer; which how great it had bin, may appear by that vaſt ſum that Ezekiah ſent to make his peace again with him; and which, though by Sennacherib accepted, yet perfidiouſly he proceeded ſtill in hoſtile manner againſt him, 2 King. 18.14-17.

when thou ſhalt ceaſe to ſpoil] When thy time, by God prefixed, is once expired, thou ſhalt be bereft of thy power, and others ſhall ſpoil thee. So of the Babylonian, Jer. 25. 12, 14. Hab.2.8. as thou hadſt formerly dealt with others, ſo ſhall others deal with thee, Judg.1.5. Jer.50.16. Matth. 7.1. Rev.13.10. & 16.6.

ſhall deal treacherouſly with thee] That is, ſay ſome, the Chaldeans ſhall deal treacherouſly with the Aſſyrians; and the Medes and Perſians afterward with the Chaldeans. For the former branch of ſpoiling, it may well be granted, that as the Aſſyrians ſpoiled Gods people, ſo the Chaldeans ſpoiled the Aſſyrians; and the Medes and Perſians in like manner ſpoiled the Chaldeans. But for treacherous dealing, though the Chaldeans, before ſubject to the Aſſyrians, (ſee 2 Chron.33. 11.) might in ſuch kind be faulty, yet it appears not, how the Medes and Perſians ſhould come to be charged with diſloyalty toward the Chaldeans. It ſeems rather meant of Sennacherib, againſt bonds of Allegiance, as well civil as natural, ſlain by his own ſons, chap.37.38.

V. 2. O Lord be gracious unto us; we have waited for thee: be thou their arm every morning, our ſalvation alſo in the time of trouble] A Prayer conceived, in the perſon of Gods faithful people, intreating him, that ſince that they did by faith and patience depend upon him, expecting what iſſue he would be pleaſed to give, in the time of thoſe preſent troubles, he would vouchſafe ſuch ſuccour and deliverance, as to other of his, he had formerly in the like caſes afforded, Pſal.9.10. & 18. 4,5. & 44.1,2. See chap.26.16.

we have waited for thee] See Chap.8.17. & 25.9. & 26.8. & 30.18. Pſal.22.4,5.

be thou their arm every morning] Thus read, it ſhould be a paſſage from perſon to perſon: as ch. 1. 29. See ver. 4. or, as ſome would have it relating to the perſon of the Church, as a mother preſenting her children in her arms unto God their Father, to be taken into his protection: but it may better be read, be thou, who waſt their arm every morning, our ſalvation alſo: a defect of the relative, as chap.30.5,6,9.

their arm] Their mighty and powerful ſupport, ſuccour, and ſafeguard, Pſal.89.21. & 136.12 Jer.17.5. an arm to them, that is, to our fore-fathers, to thy people in times paſt, Pſal. 18.4,5. & 44.1. the pronoun, for the noun: as Gen. 15.13. Exod.34.28.

every morning] Heb. by mornings; that is, ſpeedily or conſtantly: as Job 7.18. Pſal. 73.14. & 101.8. & 143. 7. Lam. 3. 22.

V. 3. At the noiſe of the tumult the people fled; at the lifting up of thy ſelf the nations were ſcattered] Or, as Some, conceiving it to be a continuation of the former prayer; Let the people flee, let the nations be ſcattered: as Pſal.68.1,2. As others, they ſhall flee, they ſhall be ſcattered; as a prediction of the overthrow to be given to the Aſſyrian forces, conſiſting of ſundry nations that ſerved under Sennacherib, in way of anſwer to the peoples Prayer, 2 Chron. 32. 20, 21. But the manner of the Prophets is to ſpeak of things future, as paſt.

at] Heb. from: as noting the cauſe, or ground of their flight and diſperſion. So Pſal.18.12,15.

the noiſe of the tumult] That was in the Aſſyrian Camp, upon the deſcent of the Angel, chap.30.30,31. & 31.8,9. & 37.36,37. of the word here uſed, See ch.29.5. & 30.4.

the lifting up of thy ſelf] As a Judge, ſay ſome, to ſit on the bench; or rather, as a warrier in fight, rouzing up himſelf, and lifting up arm and hand to ſmite his foe, Pſal.118.16. See ver.10. In both branches, is implyed, how eaſily God is able to overthrow his adverſaries; his bare voice, or hand lift up, is enough to do it, without ſtriking any ſtroke, ch.30.31.

V. 4. And your ſpoils ſhall be gathered, like the gathering of caterpillars: as the running to and fro of locuſts, ſhall be run upon them] One effect of the overthrow, by the Angel, given the Aſſyrians, to wit, the ſpoiling of their camp, deſerted by them, falling into the hand of the Jewiſh People. So ver.23.

your ſpoils] Heb. ſpoil: as Deut.22.14. that is, as moſt, the ſpoils of the Aſſyrians, that left and loſt them, unto whom the Prophet now bends his ſpeech; as ch.8.4. Zach. 14.1. Yet ſome, Your ſpoil, that is, of you the Jews; becauſe they became owners of it: as Davids ſpoil, or prey, 1 Sam. 30. 20. though they ſeem to go out of the way, that underſtand it, of the ſpoils taken by the Aſſyrians, from the Jews, chap.10.6.

like the gathering of Caterpillars] The word is ſaid to ſignifie a kind of worm, in ſhape like a locuſt, but without wings; joyned therefore with the locuſt is it. 1 King.8.37. Pſal.78.46. and is ſo called of a word, that ſignifieth to devour, or conſume, Deut.28.38. becauſe they make ſpoil and havock of all that is green, where they come, Exod.10.15. Pſal.105.35. Joel 1. 4. & 2.25. Some therefore expound it, Your ſpoils ſhall be as eaſily gathered, as the caterpillar devoureth herbs & graſs. See ver.23,24. Others, Ye ſhall be pillaged, and left as bare, as locuſts and caterpillars uſe to leave the places where they have been, Joel 2.5. Others, Ye that as locuſts and caterpillars, have deſtroyed and pillaged others, ſhall now be deſtroyed, and laid on heaps your ſelves, and your ſpoils gathered together, as ſuch vermine are wont to be. See Exod. 8.13,14. Chap.17.11. Howbeit, ſome ſuppoſe an alluſion to thoſe holes, wherein ſuch vermine lodge themſelves, and lay their eggs, in winter, where they may eaſily be taken up together, and ſo deſtroyed; and to eggs taken in a neſt, are ſpoils compared, chap.10.13,14. Yet this ſeems not to be ſo probable in this place.

like the gathering] As ſuch uſe to be gathered: a defect of the note of ſimilitude: as ch.28.1. expreſſed, Mic. 7. 1. or, with the gathering: as chap. 24. 22. either comes in ſenſe to the ſame.

as the running to and fro of locuſts, ſhall he run upon them] The word rendred locuſts, is uſed generally, elſewhere, for ditches, made to receive water, 2 King.3.16. Jer. 14.3. And ſo both ſome of the Jewiſh Writers, and the old Latine, here, alſo, render it. The Rabbine expounding it of the noiſe that the Jews ſhould make, going out to ſpoil the Aſſyrian Camp, like the noiſe of water, running down into ditches, chap. 17. 12,13. Others, of the Aſſyrians gathered together into the valley of Tophet, as locuſts or caterpillars ſwept into a ditch, there to be covered with earth, and deſtroyed, chap.30.33. But the moſt deem it, a Syrian term, ſignifying locuſts, and with little alteration, ſo alſo uſed, Amos 7.1. Nah. 3.17. And ſo taking it, ſome expound it, of the Aſſyrians, like locuſts, overrunning the land, and laying it all waſte, before the defeat given them, Joel 2. 2, 3. Others, of the Angel falling in upon the Aſſyrian Camp, and routing it as a company of locuſts do upon a ground, which they ſuddenly depaſture, Pſal. 105. 34, 35. Others laſtly, of the people pillaging the Aſſyrian camp; and running to and fro in it, and among the ſpoil they there meet with, as men, ſay ſome, that run up and down, to gather up the locuſts; or, as others more probably, as the locuſts themſelves run to and fro in the corn, Joel 2. 7. So the words would be read, as they are in the Hebrew; According to the running to and fro of locuſts running among it: or, by thoſe that after the manner of locuſts running to and fro, ſhall run to and fro among it; to wit, the prey, or ſpoil, in the foregoing branch mentioned. See the like phraſe, Chap. 1.7. & 13.19. a defect of the prepoſition noting the efficient: as Chap. 26. 9. So in the next verſe.

V. 5. The Lord is exalted] Or, will be exalted, ver. 10. He will in glorious manner maniſeſt his might, and gain much honour to himſelf, not onely by the overthrow of his enemies, Chap. 2.11,17. & 12.4. & 59.19. but yet further, alſo, by the reſtitution of his people, and ſetling them in a well-ordered, and firmly grounded State again, ver. 5,6.

for he dwelleth on high] In the higheſt heavens: from whence he is able to pour down evils unavoidable, on the heads of thoſe whom he hateth, Pſalm 2.4,5. & 11.4,6. & 33. 10,11,13. & 93.4. & 115. 3. Chap. 24.18. & 57.15. But the words may, according to the Hebrew, be well thus read; For he that dwelleth (Heb. that is, dwelling: as Chap. 57.15.) on high, will fill Zion with judgement, and righteouſneſs: and thereby gain abundance of honour to himſelf, Pſal. 99.2,4,5.

he hath filled Zion with judgment, and righteouſneſs] Or, he will fill Zion; that is, Jeruſalem; as Chap. 30.19. ver. 15. as with judgement, ſay ſome, executed upon the enemy, and righteouſneſs, that is, goodneſs; as Pſal. 112. 7. & 103. 17. 2 Cor. 9.9,10. or, faithfulneſs, in performance of his promiſes; as 1 Joh. 1.9. to his people, Chap. 1.27. Or, rather, with due execution of juſtice and judgement, in the State now refined, & reſtored to its ancient purity, c. 1.21, 25,26. See c. 32.1,16.

V. 6. And wiſedom, and knowledg ſhall be the ſtability of thy times, and ſtrength of ſalvation] Or, The ſtability of thy times, and ſtrong ſafeguard, alſufficient ſhall thy wiſedom and knowledg be; (the pronoun ſupplied from the former words, as Chap. 58.13.) O Ezekiah: for to him the Prophet here directeth his ſpeech; as foretelling by what graces in him, and his exerciſe thereof, the State ſhould, in ſetled peace and ſafety, be eſtabliſhed, during his dayes.

wiſedom and knowledg] See Chap. 11.2. 2 Chr. 1. 10.

the ſtability] So the word is uſed, Exod. 17.12.

of thy times] As Pſal. 31.15. The time of thy reign, c. 39.8.

ſtrength of ſalvation] That is, ſaving ſtrength, or, ſtrong ſafeguard. Heb. ſalvations: that is, all manner of, or, alſufficient ſalvation; as 2 Sam. 22.51. Pſ. 28.8. The words may well thus be rendred, Thy wiſedom and knowledg (that is, thy wiſe, and prudent carriage) ſhall be, (that is, ſhall procure to thee; as John 12.50. & 17.3. Rom. 7. 7.) for thy times, (during thy dayes, Chap. 39.8.) firmneſs of ſtrength of ſalvations, that is, firm, ſtrong, and alſufficient ſafeguard. See the like continuation of regency, Chap. 10.18. & 25.12. See alſo of this ſettlement of the State, under Ezekiah, Chap. 32.17,18.

the fear of the Lord is his treaſure] Or, ſhall be, Heb. it. The pronoun for the verb ſubſtantive; as Pſalm 44.4. Eccl. 1.5,10. Eſth. 7. 5. Chap. 43. 10, 25. The true ſervice, and worſhip of God, Hoſ. 3. 5. Heb. 12. 28. ſhall be as dear unto him as any treaſure, Pſalm 19.9,10. & 119.72. or ſhall bring wealth to him, and enrich him, Pſalm 112. 1, 2. & 128.1,5,6. Prov. 14.26. & 15. 6. See Ezekiahs zeal in ſetling, and advancing the true worſhip of God, 2 Kings 18. 3 - 6. 2 Chr. 29. & 30. & 31. and the great wealth that God endowed him with, 2 Chr. 32.22, 23,27,28.

V. 7. Behold their valiant ones ſhall cry without; the Embaſſadors of peace ſhall weep bitterly] The Prophet, the more to amplifie and magnifie the greatneſs of Gods goodneſs in the delivery of his people, which he comes afterward to relate, ver. 10. and to ſhew the opportunity and ſeaſonableneſs of it, maketh way thereunto, by declaring the great difficulties, and deep diſtreſſe they were in, until it pleaſed him to ſend it: which is here two waies laid forth; Firſt, by the uneffectual iſſue of all means uſed, to pacifie the over-powerful enraged adverſary, ver. 7. And ſecondly, the ſpoil and waſte he had made of the whole land, none being able to make head, nor place to ſtand out againſt him, ver. 8, 9.

their valiant ones] The word Erel, here only uſed, and not elſwhere, in Scripture, cometh neer to the word Ariel, chap. 29. 1, and accordingly, many here diverſly expound it. For firſt, becauſe the altar is ſometime termed Ariel, Ezek. 43.15. therefore ſo ſome take Erel here; reading the words, Behold their Erel; ſhall they cry without: that is, the Aſſyrians, in mockery, Behold their altar; intimating, that their ſacrifices thereon offered, ſhould now ſtand them in no ſtead. Others, becauſe Ariel is ſometime put for Jeruſalem, and the Temple, wherein the altar ſtood, Chap. 29.1,2. do by Erel, underſtand that city, and Temple alſo, reading the words thus, They ſhall cry for their Erel, that is, for their city, and for their temple, and altar there, to ſee them ſo diſtreſſed, or deſtroyed. See chap. 29.1,2. Others again, becauſe Ariel ſignifieth a mighty Lion, or, a Lion of God; and is put ſometime, for a mighty, or, a Lion-like man, 2 Sam. 23.20. thus render it, each moſt valiant among them, ſhall cry out: the noun ſingular taken collectively, or diſtributively, and joyned with a verb plural; as Chap. 26. 19. But the moſt, (and that moſt probable) ſay, the word ſignifies an herald, that uſeth to cry aloud like a lion, Chap. 21. 8. Dan. 3.4. and whoſe ſpeech carrieth power with it, as ſpeaking in the perſon of his Sovereign, whoſe meſſenger he is, and delivering his minde and meſſage, Prov. 19. 12. & 20. 2. Eccl. 8.4. And hence the word is uſed among the Talmudiſts, for an Angel, whom that name is given to, both in Hebrew (the very word uſed in the next clauſe) and in Greek, becauſe they are Gods meſſengers, Pſal. 103. 20. & 104. 4. Heb. 1.7,14. So that the words here, may well be read and rendred, their meſſengers, underſtanding thereby, either thoſe that Ezekiah, and the State, ſent with preſents, unto Sennacherib, at firſt, to ſtay him, if it might be, from proceeding further, as miſdoubting that he had not power ſufficient to oppoſe him, Luk. 14.31,32. See 2 Kings 18. 14. or thoſe other, that afterward he ſent to parley with Rabſhakeh, when the Aſſyrian forces were now come neerer the city, Chap. 36.3.

cry] cry out. Through extreamity of grief, as a woman in travel, Chap. 26. 17. becauſe they could not obtain that for which they were ſent, to wit, any terms of peace without condition, Chap. 36.15,16.

without] Either without the city, whither they were ſent to meet with Rabſhakeh, Chap. 36. 3. or, abroad openly in the ſtreets, not able to conceal their heavineſs; but coming into, and paſſing along the city, with their garments rent, in mournful manner, Chap. 36.22.

the Embaſſadors of peace] Not that brought tidings of peace; as ch. 52. 7. (for they could not ſpeed in their Treaty) nor, as ſome would have it, that laboured to have peace, upon any terms, made with the Aſſyrian, complotting, and complying under-hand with him; as of Shebna, ſome ſurmiſe; (ſee on Chap. 22.15.) but thoſe which were ſent with commiſſion, to entreat of peace, if, on any terms reaſonable, it might have bin compaſſed.

weep bitterly] Heb. with bitterneſs. A defect of the prepoſition; as ver. 5. See Chap. 22. 4.

V. 8. The high-ways lye waſte; the wayfaring man ceaſeth] As in dangerous times, in a land peſtered with ſouldiers, forrein forces eſpecially, few dare travel to and fro; and thoſe that are, by neceſſity, enforced ſo to do, ſhun the common roads commonly, as the moſt dangerous, and betake themſelves to blind and leſſe beaten by-ways, Judg. 5.6.

the wayfaring man] Or, paſſenger. Heb. paſſing by the way, as Job 21.29. Lam. 1.12. & 2.15.

ceaſeth] Heb. reſteth: for thence the Sabbath; becauſe thoſe that reſt, ceaſe from work, Gen. 2.2,3. So chap. 14. 5. & 24.8.

he hath broken the covenant] He, that is, the people of Judah, ſay ſome, have broken their covenant with God, and now ſuffer for it; God, by the enemies ſword, revenging the breach of his covenant, Lev. 26.15,25. Others, God himſelf, of whom the people complain, as not keeping covenant he had made with Abraham and David, Pſalm 89.28,34,39. But it is rather, the enemy, Sennacherib, that he ſpeaketh of, who had received from Ezekiah, in way of compoſition, the ſum by himſelf aſſigned him, and yet ſtill proceeded in hoſtile manner againſt him, 2 King. 18.14,17. See on ver. 1.

he hath deſpiſed the cities] Or, he ſcorneth cities: both by ſurpriſing and ſacking of them, and by inſulting over them, chap. 10.9,10,14. & 36.1,19,20. So Hab. 1.10.

he regardeth no man] Neither any man, high or low; nor God neither, chap. 10.8,14. & 36.8,9. So Hab. 1.10. he regardeth none, either to keep faith to them, or to make ſpare of them; but breaketh faith with them, and maketh havock of them, chap. 10.7. ver. 1.

V. 9. The earth mourneth and languiſheth] Or, The land mourneth, it languiſheth: being over-run by the Aſſyrian forces. See chap. 24.4.

Lebanon is aſhamed, and hewen down] Or, Lebanon is aſhamed, as bereaved of her trees, cut down for the ſervice of Nebuchadnezzar, to make warlike engines for his ſieges: ſee chap. 14.8. & 37.24. it is hewen down; which of the trees is proper, of Lebanon it ſelf, not ſo: Or, as Some, it is withered away: which being ſpoken of trees cut down, is not ſo fit; or, as others, it languiſheth: but that we had in another word before. I ſuppoſe, we may well render it, it is decayed. The word is no where found, but here, and chap. 19.6. where it is rendred withereth; but may as well there alſo be, is decayed.

Sharon is like a wilderneſs] Sharon, the name of a fertile and pleaſant region, lying in the tribe of Gad, beneath mount Lebanon, and adjoyning unto Baſhan, as appeareth by, 1 Chr. 5. 16. (howſoever ſome would place it in Ephraims portion, and ſome in Zabulons) there had David his herds of cattel fed, 1 Chr. 27. 29. which argueth the fatneſſe of the Soil, and the roſes of Sharon were in requeſt, Cant. 2. 1. which argues the pleaſantneſs of the place. See chap. 35. 2. It is ſuppoſed to be the ſame with Laſſharon, mentioned, Joſh. 12. 18.

Baſhan and Carmel ſhake off their fruits] They have the fruit and leaves of the trees growing on them, ſhaken off, and beaten down by the enemies rude ſouldiery: the word is uſed afterward, ver. 15. or they are as waſte, as a tree that hath ſhed fruit and leaves, chap. 1. 30. deſpoiled of all the fruits that the rich ſoil with them yeeldeth, like a fig-tree that caſteth his untimely figs, when it is ſhaken with a ſtiff wind, Rev. 6. 13. Yet ſome render the word bray, or roar, becauſe of the lions roaring; it is uſed, Jer. 51. 38. and the Talmudiſts uſe it, for the braying of an aſſe, or a camel: of a waſte howling wilderneſſe; but in another ſenſe Moſes ſpeaketh, Deut. 32. 10. The former ſeems better here.

Baſhan and Carmel] Two other places, not unlike the former: of the former, ſee chap. 2. 13. 1 Chr. 5. 12, 16. Pſal. 22. 8. Of the latter, ſee chap. 10. 18. & 29. 17. Jer. 4. 26. Now becauſe Sharon and Baſhan were not in the land of Judah, but in ſome of the other tribes: Some would have them here to be but figuratively, not for thoſe particular places; but as Carmel is oft uſed, for places in Judah, like unto, and of the ſame condition with them; which though it be not improbable; yet it is not unlikely, that thoſe places ſuffered much from that vaſt army of the Aſſyrians in their paſſage. Howſoever, the Prophets ſcope is to ſhew, that the land was generally laid waſte, as chap. 1. 7, 8. & 10. 18. For as for thoſe, that ſuppoſe the whole land, by the four boundaries of it, here deſcribed, Libanus on the North, Sharon on the Weſt, Baſhan on the Eaſt, Carmel on the South; I doubt whether their Geography can be made good or no. I ſhould concur rather with thoſe, who ſuppoſe, that by theſe places, Sennacherib made his way into Judea: for Carmel, ſaith Tacitus in his hiſtory, lib. 2. ſtood between Judea and Syria. See Pliny, l. 5. c. 19.

V. 10. Now will I riſe, ſaith the Lord: now will I be exalted: now will I lift up my ſelf] Now will I ariſe, to help and deliver my people, when they are in theſe inextricable ſtreights, ſee ver. 2. Then it is moſt ſeaſonable for God to ſtrike in, when all ſeems given up for loſt and gone, when all humane helps and hopes utterly fail; mans extremity, being his opportunity, Pſal. 11. 3, 4. & 12. 5. & 78. 65. & 119. 126. chap. 37. 3. & 59. 16. See ver. 3, 5. chap. 30. 18.

V. 11. Ye ſhall conceive chaff; ye ſhall bring forth ſtubble:] Your frivolous projects and deſigns, wherewith ye Aſſyrians go great, and whereof you promiſe to your ſelves great matters, ſhall all be fruſtrate, and unable to produce ought: it ſhall be, as if ye had ſown chaff inſtead of grain, and ſtubble had come up of it inſtead of corn: ſee ſomewhat the like expreſſions, Job 4. 8. Pſal. 7. 14. Prov. 22. 8. chap. 59. 4. chaff and ſtubble, for light ſtuff of no worth, or combuſtible matter; ſuch as any puff of wind may ſoon blow away; any ſpark of fire ſuddenly ſet on a light flame, chap. 5. 24. & 41. 2, 15, 16.

Your breath, as fire ſhall devour you.] Or, your Spirit is a fire, that ſhall devour you: a ſupply of the note of ſimilitude in the one, as v. 4. of the relative in the other, as v. 1.

your breath] Or Spirit, as Job 15. 13. the fire that you have blown and kindled, to burn others with, ſhall conſume your ſelves, as Dan. 3. 22. or, your wrath and rage againſt God and his people, breathing out reproaches and blaſphemies againſt either, or, the haughtineſs of your hearts, or ſtoutneſſe of your ſtomacks, ſhall prove your own overthrow, your own ruine and confuſion; and ſhall be, not as wind only, to blow away all your vain projects, but as fire to devour your ſelves, (Jer. 5. 13, 14.) by incenſing the wrath of God againſt you, and procuring, from his hand, your utter deſtruction, chap. 10. 11, 12, 16, 17. & 37. 3, 4, 23, 29, 36. Pſalm 76. 10, 11. The Jewiſh Doctors, ſome of them, reading the text, in your Spirit the fire ſhall devour you, thence gather, that the Aſſyrians had their inward vitals burnt up with the ſtroke of the Angel, their bodies ſtill ſtanding bolt upright. But that is one of their groundleſs figments.

V. 12. And the people ſhall be as the burning of lime] Heb. burnings of lime, that is, as chalk that is burnt to make lime: ſee chap. 27. 9. Some read it, as if they were caſt into lime kils, as 2 Sam. 12. 31. but ſo large a ſupply needs not; that of the note of ſimilitude is ſufficient, as ver. 11. ſo here, and in the next clauſe.

as thorns cut up ſhall they be burnt in the fire] Or, with fire, as Jer. 37. 8. as thorns not growing, or green, that are not ſo eaſily kindled, but cut up, and ſear, that will ſoon take fire, and are burnt oft times in the ſame place, where they lye; or if not there, elſe-where: ſee 2 Sam. 23. 6, 7. Pſal. 80. 16. chap. 27. 4, 11. By theſe ſimilitudes, he deſcribeth that fatal blaſt, wherewith ſo many thouſands were ſuddenly ſmitten in the Aſſyrian Camp, and deſtroyed, as if they had bin burnt up with fire. See chap. 10. 16, 17. & 30. 27, 28, 30, 33.

V. 13. Hear ye that are afar off, what I have done; and ye that are neer, acknowledge my might] God, by the Prophet, calleth upon all people, far and neer, to take notice of, and ſeriouſly to conſider of this remarkable judgment, of his, executed upon the Aſſyrians: ſee chap. 18. 3. thereby alſo implying, that the vengeance taken on them ſhould be ſuch, and ſo notorious, that it ſhould be talked of far and neer, Chap. 59. 19.

acknowledge] Or, take notice of, Heb. know: ſee chap. 1. 3. Jer. 3. 13.

V. 14. The ſinners in Zion are afraid; fearfulneſſe hath ſurprized the hypocrites] What the ground of this fear ſhould be, or who they be that ſhould be thus ſurprized with it, is much queſtioned. Some, and ſo the moſt, underſtand the words of the wicked inhabiting Jeruſalem, thus ſurprized and poſſeſſed with fears and frights; either upon the acceſſe of the Aſſyrian, miſtruſting Gods promiſes, and miſdoubting his power, as not able to protect them againſt ſo potent an adverſary, that by fire and ſword carried all away before him: as chap. 7. 2, 9. or being terrified with apprehenſion of that dreadful execution done upon the Aſſyrians; (as Pſal. 119. 119, 120. Hab. 3. 16.) and complaining of Gods rigor and ſeverity, with Cain, Gen. 4. 13. and fearing leſt the like vengeance ſhould light alſo upon them. So Num. 16. 34. 1 Sam. 5. 10, 11. & 6. 19, 20. Others would have it ſpoken of theſe wicked ones, the Aſſyrians, that lay neer to Jeruſalem, ſuch of them, as had eſcaped, and ſurvived the great overthrow of their country-men and complices, enciting one another in all haſte to be gone, as there being no ſtaying by it, or ſtanding out againſt ſuch a God. So the Egyptians, Exod. 14. 25. But this ſeems not to ſuit well, either with the words of the text, or with that which after enſueth. I rather therefore take the words the other way, and concur with the firſt.

in Zion] In Jeruſalem: as ver. 5. by, or about Zion, is too harſh here.

are afraid] Or, ſhall be afraid: as ver. 5, 6, 7.

fearfulneſſe hath ſurprized] As Pſal. 48. 6. or, ſhall ſurpriſe them, as before.

hypocrites] Or, prophane, or, flagitious ones. See Chap. 9. 17. & 24. 5. Thoſe prophane, that derided and jeered Gods Prophets formerly, when theſe judgments were by them foretold and denounced, Chap. 22. 13. ſhall now, when they perceive the enemies approach, and ſee that which before they would not believe, much of it fulfilled, ſhall then be clean out of heart, and at their wits end.

who among us ſhall dwell with devouring fire? who amongſt us ſhall dwell with everlaſting burnings] That is, as ſome, with God, who is a conſuming fire, when he is once incenſed; and whoſe wrath once kindled, burns without ſtint or end, Deut. 4. 24. & 9. 3. & 29. 23. & 32. 22. Pſal. 85. 5. & 89. 46. Heb. 12. 29. or rather, as others, with the Aſſyrian forces, which like a conſuming fire waſted and devoured all before them, as thoſe locuſts, Joel 2. 3.

who among us] The words, or thoughts, at leaſt, of thoſe diſtruſtful wicked wretches; and in the text therefore, ſay they, or the like, would as a ſupply, be inſerted: as Job 8. 18. Neh. 13. 25. Chap. 22. 13. & 26. 19.

who among us ſhall dwell] So the particle is uſed, Ezra 2. 65. for, among, or of. But more commonly, yea, moſt uſually, it hath another notion with it, and is rendred, for us, Pſal. 124. 1, 2. with Rom. 8. 31. chap. 6. 8. ver. 21. and ſo the beſt of the Jewiſh Commenters here take it; reading the words who will gather for us? for ſo the word rendred, dwell, ſometime ſignifieth; as Pſal. 56. 6. & 59. 3. & 140. 2. In this Prophecy, thrice together in one verſe, Chap. 54. 15. and that there, as alſo in the Pſalms, uſed of warlike preparations. They therefore conceive the meaning to be this, Who is able to ſtand for us, and to gather forces together ſufficient to make head, and to protect us againſt ſo great an army, as the Aſſyrian bringeth with him, that hath already over-run, and laid waſte the whole land? Chap. 36. 1. I ſhall add one other reading, and ſo leave it. The word, here uſed, ſignifies, ofttimes, alſo to fear; as Job 19. 29. Pſal. 22. 23. & 33. 8. Hoſ. 10. 5. So I conceive it may be here taken, and the words thus rendred, Who of us can but fear a devouring fire? ſuch as the Aſſyrian army is. The negative in interrogations is oft times implyed, and to be ſupplyed; as Job 20. 4. & 21. 4. whereof ſee on Jer. 31. 20. Thus read, the context would moſt clearly, and evenly run.

with devouring fire] The word with, is not in the text: and againſt, may be ſupplyed, as well as with; as Pſal. 53. 5.

Chap.32.2. a devouring fire, is attributed to the enemy here, as to the locuſts, Joel 2.3. Yet I doubt whether any alluſion be here, (as ſome conceive) to that ſacred fire, (adored, anciently, by many people, in thoſe parts, as having ſome kinde of deity) that was carried before their Kings. Of the Perſian Kings, ſee Xenophon, in the life of Cyrus, lib. 8. and of the latter Roman Emperors, Herodian, in Commodus, and in Pertinax.

everlaſting burnings] This thoſe that underſtand the paſſage of God, expound of thoſe everlaſting burnings in hell-fire, Matth.3.12. & 25.41. Mark 9.44. Yet with ſome alluſion unto that fire, that burnt night and day upon the altar, Chap.31.9. Levit.6.2. in which place, another word of very neer affinity to this, is uſed. Howbeit, the word it ſelf, properly, ſeems to ſignifie an hearth, on which fire is made; ſo it is rendred, Pſal. 102.3. no where elſe found, ſave here and there: and ſome therefore here ſo render it, hearths of perpetuity; that have fire ever on them, or never lin burning. And this others underſtand, alſo, of the Aſſyrians fury and rage, that was never ſatisfied; but as the fire that hath never enough, Prov. 30.16. was inceſſantly ſpoiling, and making havock, of countries and people, Chap. 10.7. See Chap.14.6. So hatred of antiquity, or perpetuity; for inveterate hatred, or hatred long continued, Ezek.25.15. See Chap.32.14. Yet neither do I conceive any alluſion here, to any ſuch eternal fire, as they termed it, which, at firſt, kindled from heaven, was continually kept burning on their everlaſting hearths (ſo they ſtyled them) among the Magi in the Eaſtern parts, ſome ſmall portion whereof was born anciently, before the Aſian Kings, as Ammian reporteth, lib.23. which way ſoever the words be rendred, whether, who among us can abide, or dwell, (to wit, in ſafety) with a devouring fire, with continual burnings? or who can gather forces for us againſt ſuch? or who can but fear ſuch? they may well be the words of prophane and wicked perſons diſtruſting Gods providence, and power to defend & protect them againſt the Aſſyrians: as if they ſhould ſay, The Prophets tell us, that God will protect this city, and deliver it out of the hands of the Aſſyrians, and we need not therefore to look after any aids from abroad: but who is there among us, that is able to raiſe forces ſufficient to withſtand them? or who is there of us, that can do other then fear; or that can promiſe himſelf ſafety; when he ſeeth all the land on a light fire about him, againſt one that continually burns up all before him? A learned late Writer, would have the context thus cut out, Who of us ſhall abide? the fire devoureth, who of us ſhall abide? the burnings are everlaſting. But I ſuppoſe, he walketh herein by himſelf.

V.15. He that walketh righteouſly, and ſpeaketh uprightly; he that deſpiſeth the gain of oppreſſions, that ſhaketh his hands from holding of bribes; that ſtoppeth his ears from hearing of blood, and ſhutteth his eyes from ſeeing evill:] The Prophets anſwer to thoſe diſtruſtful perſons queſtion; declaring who they are, that need not on ſuch occaſions be diſmayed, but may confidently reſt on God, with hopeful expectation of aſſured protection, and undoubted ſafety; not ſuch indeed as they were, but ſuch as were truly religious, and made conſcience of their wayes; of whom he giveth a large deſcription and portraiture to life in this place. See ſomewhat the like, Pſal. 15. and 24.4.

walk righteouſly] Liveth ſo: as Pſal.26.11. & 119.1. mans life and converſation being in Scripture compared to a way, and a walk, Pſal.1.6. Eph.2.10. & 4.1,17. & 5.8. Heb. in righteouſneſſe; in a continued courſe of righteouſneſs, and juſt dealing of all ſorts, Pſal.106.3. Chap.56.1,2. ſpeaketh uprightly] Heb. evenneſſes, or, uprightneſſes. See ch.26.10. & 45.19.

deſpiſeth] As 1 Sam.15.23. ch.30.12. or, refuſeth: as ch.7.15,16.

gain of oppreſſions] Or, deceits: but that rather, as Prov.28.16. gain, by ſuch courſes, gotten: as Luk.16.9. the mammon, or, wealth of unrighteouſneſſe, by unjuſt means procured, and compaſſed. See ch.30.12.

that ſhaketh his hands from holding of bribes] That is, as ſome, if a bribe chance to come into his hand, he ſhaketh it off, as Paul did the viper, Act.28.3,5. or rather, he ſhaketh his hands from receiving, (as it is rendred, Prov.4.4.) or taking hold of (as Prov.5.5. & 28.17.) of a gift, or a bribe: as Deut.16.19. when it is offered and tendred to him; for it is not ſo much the holding or keeping of it, (which Judas himſelf durſt not do, Matth.27.3,5. it burnt like a ſpark of hell-fire in his hand) but the taking of it, that the godly keepeth his hands free from.

from hearing of blood] Heb. bloods; that is, murther, cruelty, or any courſes, or counſels tending thereunto; any the leaſt motion to ſuch purpoſe, he endureth not to hear. See Chap.1.15.

ſhutteth his eyes] Chap.29.10.

from ſeeing of evill] The very ſight of evil in others is an eye-ſore to him, Pſal.119.158. Hab.1.3,13. 2 Pet.2.7,8. or, he carefully ſhunneth ſuch objects, by the ſight whereof, he may be enticed, or induced to any evil, Job 31.1. Pſal. 119.37. Matth.5.28.

V.16. He ſhall dwell on high: his place of defence ſhall be the munitions of rocks: bread ſhall be given him; his waters ſhall be ſure] The man deſcribed, as before, ſhall be as ſafe, as if he were in a fort impregnable, not to be taken by any force; and ſufficiently furniſhed with ſtore of proviſions to hold out any ſiege.

on high] Heb. in heights, or high places, chap.58.14. ſuch as are commonly deemed moſt ſafe, Pſal.18.33. he ſhall be as ſafe, whereſoever he be abiding, though his dwelling place be in the vale, as if he were ſeated on the higheſt rock, or hill, that is. See chap.32.18,19.

his place of defence ſhall be the munitions of the rocks] Or, his high place, or high fort, (as the word properly ſignifies. See Pſal.9.9. ch.25.12.) ſhall be rocky holds; either founded on a rock, Matth.7.24. or cut out of a rock, chap.22.16. See both joyned together, Pſal.18.2. & 31.3. impregnable, not for height only, but for ſtrength too; ſuch as rocks are, Judg.15.8. & 20.45. Job 39.28. Prov.30.26.

bread ſhall be given him] Heb. his bread ſhall be given. Such bread; that is, ſuch proviſion (ſee 1 King.4.22. Neh.5.14.) as he ſhall deſire, or ſhall have need of, (as ch.32.6.) ſhall be afforded him, 1 King.17.6. Jer.37.21.

his waters ſhall be ſure] Or, his water, (for the word is in notion, ſingular, though in form plural. See Chap.3.1.) that is, his drink; (for that was in thoſe parts, the uſual ordinary drink, Gen.24.13,14,18,19. Joh.4.7,9,11.) ſuch as he ſhall have need of, ſhall not fail him. See the contrary, Job 6.15-20. Jer.14.3. & 15.18. Chap.32.6.

V.17. Thine eyes ſhall ſee the King in his beauty, they ſhall behold the land that is very far off] A further benefit and bleſſing, that ſuch ſhould enjoy, the ſight of their King, and State, ſetled in proſperity and glory; and liberty to travel abroad unto the remoteſt parts of the land, without danger or diſturbance, in ſafety.

ſee the King] That is, God, ſay ſome, in beatifical viſion, Job 19.26,27. Matth.5.8. Heb.12.14. 1 Joh.3.2. or Chriſt coming in glory, with comfort and joy, Matth.16.27,28. & 24.30. Act.1.11. Rev.1.7. But the courſe of the context carrieth it to King Ezekiah, whom after the defeat of Sennacheribs forces, the perſons above deſcribed, ver.15. (unto whom the Prophet now turneth his ſpeech) ſhould behold, not dejected, and in a ſubmiſs and low manner ſtooping, and ſeeking to an inſolent tyrant, 2 King.18.14. chap.10.4. ver.7,8. nor in ſackcloth, and mourning weeds, as before in time of their diſtreſſe, Chap.37.2,3. but reſtored to his former ſtate and dignity; yea, raiſed up to a far greater degree of honour and magnificence, then he ever in any former time enjoyed, 2 Chr.32.22,23,27-29.

they ſhall behold] They, that is, thine eyes (it is no change of the perſon, for the word is feminine) ſhall behold, or ſee, that is, viſit; as 2 Sam.13.6. behold, would do better in the former branch; ſee, in this.

the land that is very far off] Heb. the land of far diſtances; Jer.8.19. that which ſome underſtand of Embaſſadors repairing to Jeruſalem out of countries far remote, 2 King.20.12,14. 2 Chron.32.22,23. chap.39.1,3. but that the text will not well bear. But the meaning is, ye ſhall not now remain mured up in Jeruſalem, or in any other place of defence, as formerly, not daring to ſtir out for fear of being ſnapped up, and ſurpriſed by the enemy, ver.8. Lam.5.9. but ye ſhall be at full liberty to look abroad, and to travel ſafely and quietly all over your land, to the remoteſt parts of it, Pſal.31.8. and 119.45. Yet there want not thoſe who underſtand all this ſpoken, not to the juſt, before deſcribed; but to ſome great ungodly one, and in particular, to Shebna, as telling him, that the day ſhould come, when he ſhould ſee his Soveraign, whom he now ſcorned and vilified, as a petty Prince, in regard of Sennacherib, (ſee ch.8.6.) in great ſtate and magnificence, when as himſelf ſhould be either exiled, or carried captive into a ſtrange country, as was alſo foretold of him, chap.22.18. But the former ſuiteth much better with the tenour of the Prophets ſpeech.

V.18. Thine heart ſhall meditate terrour: Where is the Scribe? where is the receiver? where is he that counted the towers?] This ſome underſtand of their terrours and affrightments that they were in, while Sennacheribs forces were maſters of the field, and they were now preparing to fortifie the city againſt his approaches; as foretelling in what diſtractions they ſhould then be, for the preſent, chap.22.7-11. & 37.1,2. Others, of their calling to mind afterward, and with ſome delight now conſidering, what fears they had formerly been poſſeſſed with, and what ſpeeches among theſe diſtractions had fallen from them; or inſulting, as ſome think, over the enemy now overthrown and diſperſed, and demanding of Sennacherib, what is now become of his great officers, that he made uſe of in his camp: and this ſeemeth to be not improbable. Though I do not concur with thoſe, who ſuppoſe this, and that of the Apoſtle, 1 Cor.1.20. to be of one and the ſame ſenſe; which to make good, the old Latine Tranſlation hath moſt unreaſonably ſtrayed here from the text.

where is the Scribe?] The word, as ſome, of people full of diſtraction, asking where is this officer, and that officer, to look after his charge. See ch.22.7-11. or, as other, demanding where the enemies officers now are. See ch.51.13. and thus far it is not unlike to that, 1 Cor. 1. 20. See ſomewhat the like alſo, Chap.19.12.

The Scribe] of the Scribes office among the Jews, See chap. 36. 3. the old Latine renders it, the lettered, or, learned man: as the word is uſed of Ezra, Ezra 7.6. But it ſeems to have bin the title of ſome Officer in the Camp: ſome would have it to be one of the Councel of War: Others, one that kept a record, and took account of the captives. I conceive it rather to be ſuch an Officer, as the Muſter-maſter is with us.

the receiver] Heb. the weigher: not, as the old Latine; he that weigheth the words of the Law. But the tribute-gatherer, or the pay-maſter, ſo called, becauſe they both received money by weight, Gen.23.16. Jer.32.9.

he that counted the towers] Or counteth, or ſurveyeth, or ſurveyed: he that ſurveyed the towers, or other parts about the city, as ſome, how to make the city moſt defenſible, by ſlighting ſome of them, and ſtrengthning the reſt, chap. 22. 10. or, as others, rather, ſuch artiſts and engineers; or others, in the Aſſyrian Camp, as took notice of ſuch forts, as were to be aſſaulted, to conſider what courſes were to be taken for the more eaſie and ſpeedy ſurpriſal of them; as alſo, of what towers and galleries were to be raiſed and uſed for the taking of any fort or city: ſee on chap.26.1. ver.20. For the old Latine tranſlator is here moſt ridiculous, rendring it, the teacher of little ones; whereas the word ſignifieth, a great tower, or fort: a tower, or fort, from its greatneſs ſo termed: whence the diverſity of reading, 2 Sam.22.51. & Pſal.18.50. Howbeit, ſome underſtand all this, as the words of diſcontented perſons, deſpairing of any likelyhood or poſſibility, of maintaining a ſiege againſt Sennacheribs forces; there is neither order taken, nor proviſion made, for the defence of the city; nor ſouldiers to muſter, nor money to pay them, nor forts wherein to lodge them. But I concur rather with thoſe, that underſtand them of the Aſſyrian Officers.

V. 19. Thou ſhalt not ſee a fierce people; a people of a deeper ſpeech then thou canſt perceive; of a ſtammering tongue, that thou canſt not underſtand.] Or, as ſome, Look not upon ſuch a people; conſider not the Aſſyrians, what a fierce and rude people they are, as Shebna, and ſome others, tell you, whereby to affright you, as if you could not but fall into the hands of ſuch, and be at their mercy, if ye ſtood out againſt them. But the received reading agreeth better with the ſequell of the context; as promiſing deliverance from the Aſſyrians, and giving them aſſurance, that they ſhould not return to moleſt them again. ſee ch.38.6.

not ſee] Within the walls of Ieruſalem, chap.37.33. or, not ſee them again within thy land, after thou art once rid of them, as Exod.14.13. thou ſhalt no more be vexed with ſuch cruell ſtrange people, they ſhall have no more acceſs to thee, chap.16.4.

fierce] As of a fierce countenance, Deut.28.50. Dan.8.23. yet ſome of the Jewiſh Criticks render it, a barbarous people, Pſalm 114. 1. by the change of a letter; the like whereunto they give inſtance of, in a word uſed for a chamber: and others of them deem it, a forrein term, of no family in their language.

of a deeper ſpeech then thou canſt perceive] Heb. of depths of lip from hearing; or more then to hear: depths or profundities: as Prov.9.18. depths, or profundities of lip, for ſpeech or language, deep, profound, or not intelligible, as Ezek.3.5,6. lip, for language, as Gen.11.1. Zeph.3.9. from hearing, that they cannot be heard or underſtood: of the phraſe, ſee on chap. 23.1. & 28.20. to hear, for to underſtand: as ch.36.11. whence alſo it appeareth, that the Jewiſh people did not commonly underſtand the Syrian tongue, which both the Aſſyrians, and the Chaldeans ordinarly uſed, Dan.2.4. the pronoun, though not amiſs ſupplyed, yet is not in the originall; ſo, Job 15. ver.7.

of a ſtammering tongue] Or, ridiculous, or barbarous, rather: ſuch ſay the Jewiſh Doctors here, as all languages are, beſides the Hebrew; as the Greeks had the like eſteem of all languages, ſave their own, Rom.1.14. yea, ſuch as any language ſeems to be unto him, that underſtandeth it not, 1 Cor.14 11. See chap.28.11. Deut.28.49,50.

that thou canſt not underſtand] Heb. whereof underſtanding is not. for there is a want, not of the pronoun only, as before, but of the relative alſo, as ver.1,11,20.

V. 20. Look upon Zion, the city of our ſolemnities] See how ſafe, and whole, Jeruſalem is ſtill, notwithſtanding all the vain and preſumptuous vaunts and menaces of the inſolent enemy, that he would do thus, and thus, unto her, chap.10.11. ſo Pſal. 48.12, 13. walk round about Zion, and tell her towers; mark well her bulwarks, and her palaces: and ſee if any one of them be wanting, or any breach, or flaw, made in any one of them, for all the enemies might, multitude, and boaſtings, Chap.37.33. See ver.16.

Zion] Jeruſalem, as ver.5.

the city of our ſolemnities] Or, ſolemn aſſemblies, or meetings, which were there held. See chap.1.14. & 14.13.

thine eyes ſhall ſee Jeruſalem a quiet habitation] Free from thoſe diſturbances, wherewith ſhe was formerly diſquieted, Chap.30.17,18. Pſal.128.6.

a tabernacle that ſhall not be taken down] Or, removed, as ſome render it: the word is no where elſe found. But a learned Writer referreth it to an Ethiopick root, that ſignifieth to bear, as a beaſt doth man or burden, Mat.21.7. Mark 11.2,7. The city is compared to a Tabernacle, as Chap.54.2. yet not like to that Tabernacle made by Moſes, which was from time to time taken down, and removed from place to place, as they journied in the Wilderneſs, Num.4.5. & 10. 17. but as the Temple built by Solomon, that ſtood conſtantly firm and fixed, Pſal. 78. 69. a type of the ſafety and ſtability of the Church, Pſal.46.5. & 48.8. & 125.1. Mat 16.18.

not one of the ſtakes thereof ſhall ever be removed, nor ſhall any of the cords thereof be broken] No one tower, or palace, or part of it, ſhall be in the leaſt degree impaired. See above, Pſal. 48.12,13. an alluſion to thoſe cords, wherewith the curtains of the tent, or pavilion, ſupported with a pole, pitched in the midſt of it, being faſtened unto pins, or ſtakes, driven into the ground, do keep them tight, and ſo help to uphold it, Chap. 54.2.

not one of the ſtakes thereof ſhall be removed] Or, no ſtake whereof ſhall be removed. Heb. the ſtakes thereof ſhall not go: the noun is ſingular, the verb plural; which juſtifies, not one, in our verſion. See Chap.26.19. and to make to go, is to remove, Job 19.10. as, to go, here, to be removed, plucked up, and pulled out of its place; the poſſeſſive, for the relative, as v. 21. Exod.18.20. Job 3.3. Pſal.11.4.

ſtake] Or, pinne: the word properly ſignifies a nail, or a pin, ſuch as we uſe to hang things on, Chap.22. 23,25. Ezek. 15.3. then ſuch pins, or ſtakes, of what matter ſoever, as were uſed about tents, Exod.27.19. Judg.4.21.

for ever] As Chap.13.20. & 25.8.

nor ſhall any of the cords thereof be broken.] Or, and whoſe cords ſhall none of them be broken. Heb. and all the cords thereof ſhall not be broken: all not, for, not any: as Ezek. 18. 22,24. See ver.24.

V. 21. But there the glorious Lord will be unto us a place of broad rivers, and ſtreams; wherein ſhall go no Galley with oars, neither ſhall gallant ſhip paſs thereby] In this verſe, and the next, the Prophet ſheweth by whoſe powerfull ſupport and ſafeguard, the city ſhould attain and enjoy this conſtant and aſſured ſafety, by God alone, and his protection of it, Chap.26.1,3. Pſal.46.5. & 48.8. Zach.2.5. compared here to a broad river, that is of much uſe and ſtrength to a city; but withall, of ſo ſtiff and ſtrong a current, that neither ſhip or galley, of any enemy, ſhall be able, with help of wind, or oars, or both, to get up thereby to it, to moleſt or annoy it; and the Prophet ſeems to allude to, and meet with the conceit of thoſe, that thought meanly of Jeruſalem, becauſe it had no ſuch great river neer it, as Nineveh and Babylon had, which the Aſſyrian boaſted of, and to which he is compared, Chap.8.7. or ſuch an one as Egypt had of Nilus, wherein they ſo much confided, Ezek. 29. 3. but a ſmall rivelet, or two only; which though they might afford water ſufficient for the city, Pſal. 46.3,4. Yet they had no great breadth of channel, to bear any great veſſel, or ran with any ſtrong ſtream, nor could afford much ſtrength or defence to the city. See Chap.8.6. But God, ſaith the Prophet, ſhall inſtead of ſuch a river, as Euphrates, or Nilus, afford more ſecurity and ſafety unto us, then any ſuch river did, or could do unto them; he will himſelf be ſuch a river to us, ſo broad, and of ſo ſtrong a ſtream, as neither the King of Aſſyria, nor any other enemy ſhall be able to paſs. See Ezek 47.5. or, as ſome expound it, he will make this city and land as Meſopotomia, that was environed with the branches of the one, as Egypt that was fenced and fed, and enriched with the ſtreams of the other.

there the glorious Lord will be unto us] Or, as ſome render it, the Lord will be (or, will appear, will ſhew himſelf) glorious, or magnificent for us; becauſe the Epithet is not wont to go before his maſter, or owner, in the Hebrew: or, will do gallantly for us; for ſo the word is afterward here rendred, to wit, in the overthrow of our enemies.

a place of broad rivers and ſtreams] Or, as ſome, in place, that is, inſtead of ſuch rivers and ſtreams, as Eccl.3.16. a defect of the copulative; as Chap.32.13. Heb. broad of hands, or ſpaces; as the word is uſed, Chap.22.16. Pſal.104.25.

wherein ſhall go no galley with oars] Heb. no ſhip of oar ſhall go in it; Of the ſyntax, ſee on ver. 20. ſhip of oar, for, bark, veſſel, or galley, rowed with oars. See Ezek. 27.5,6,26,29. ſhall go, that is, paſſe: as Pſal.104.26. there go the ſhips.

nor gallant ſhip] The term given before to God. God, as he hath done gallantly for us, in our preſent delivery; ſo he will for the future, ſo engage himſelf for our ſafety, that no enemy of what power ſoever, ſhall be able to approach us, to diſturb our peace, Pſal.91.4,9,10.

V. 22. For the Lord is our Judge, the Lord is our Law-giver, the Lord is our King, he will ſave us] God alone hath intereſt in us; to him alone we belong; and ſo long as we continue loyal to him, our Soveraign, and walk according to the Laws by him preſcribed us, we ſhall be ſure of his protection and ſafeguard, Deut.26.17-19. & 30.19,20. & 33.12,26-29. Pſal. 81.8,9,13-15. Chap.48.17-19.

our Judge] To right us againſt thoſe that wrong us, Pſal.7. 6,8,11. & 9.4. & 26.1. & 75.7. & 94.2. he ſeems to have ſome reference to thoſe Judges, that God raiſed up for the reſcuing of his people out of the hands of their oppreſſors, Judg.2.16. Act.13.20.

our Law-giver] Heb. ſtatute-maker, Gen. 49. 10. a title given to God, more eſpecially, in regard of his people, unto whom he had preſcribed ſuch ſtatutes and ordinances, as he had not to any other, Pſal. 147.19,20. See Deut. 33. 2, 21. Jam.4.12. of the term, ſee Chap.10.1.

our King] He, and not the Aſſyrian, who yet hath formerly tyrannized over us, ch.26.13. and would ſtill ſo do. See Pſal.44.4. & 74.12. & 89.18.

he will ſave us] As a Soveraign protecteth his ſubjects, that continue loyal to him, and live according to his Laws, Pſal. 7.8. & 72.4,12-14. See chap.25.9.

V. 23. Thy tacklings are looſed; they could not well ſtrengthen their maſt; they could not ſpread the ſail] The Prophet here returneth again, to foretel the defeat given to the Aſſyrian forces; whereof ſomewhat before, ver. 3. addreſſing his ſpeech unto them, or to Sennacherib their chief Commander; and he compares his vaſt army, here, to a great gallioun, in diſtreſs at ſea, and ſo inceſſantly purſued and driven with furious blaſts of boiſterous winds, that ſhe is not able to bear ſail, or keep up her maſt, and cannot therefore but miſcarry: and this reſemblance he may the rather ſeem to have made choice of, becauſe he had ſpoken before of goodly great ſhips, with top and top-gallant, ver.21. See chap.2.16. So that it is, as if he had ſaid, Your ſhipping, O Aſſyrians, is, or ſhall be, wrecked; ye have miſcarried, or ſhall miſcarry, as by ſhipwrack. See Pſal.48.7.

Thy tacklings are looſed] So the old Latine, and divers other later verſions; but that ſignification of the verb here uſed, is queſtioned; nor is there any place produced, where it is ſo uſed. The margent hath it; They have forſaken thy tacklings; and ſo ſome other, they ſhall leave thy tacklings, or, thy tacklings ſhall be left: they ſhall be let go, and given over, by thoſe that ſhould manage them; an argument of evident danger, and great likelihood of wrack approaching, when the marriners, as deſpairing of ſafety, give over the managing of their tackle, and leave the ſhip, to ſhift, as it may, for it ſelf, Act.27.30,40. And the word here uſed, doth not unuſually ſignifie ſo to leave, or give over, Exod.23.11. Judg.6.13. 1 Sam. 10.2. Pſal.27.9. Prov.17.14. Chap.2.6. But ſome other render it, with the ancient Greek, Thy tacklings are ſplit or broken; or, that which followeth thereupon, they are diſſipated, driven to and fro with the wind, or thrown about aboard the ſhip, as they conceive the word to be uſed, Chap.32.14. Ezek.31.12. See Chap.16.8. which way ſoever we take it, it ſeemeth oppoſed to that which he had ſaid before of the city, compared to a tent, that no ſtake, or cord of it, ſhould be ſtirred, verſe 20. whereas of the enemies army, compared to a ſhip, on the other ſide, he ſaith, that no maſt or tackle of it ſhould hold. For I cannot accord with thoſe, that of a tent, or pavilion, expound this whole paſſage: by maſt, in the next branch, underſtanding the pole pitched in the midſt, to bear it up. See Chap.30. 17. and much leſs with that, which a learned Annotator exhibiteth, who renders it, as ſpoken to Sion, Thy ſorrows are leaſt: thou haſt no longer cauſe to be ſorry: that the word ſignifies as well pains, as cords, Job 21.17. Pſal.18.4. & 116. 3. is undoubted; but how that ſuiteth here, appeareth not.

they could not well ſtrengthen their maſt] They, that is, the tacklings, which failing, the maſt cannot ſtand.

well] Heb. ſay ſome, the ſtreightneſs of the maſt; that is, they could not keep the maſt upright; ſuppoſing the word here uſed, to be a noun ſubſtantive; but it is hard to finde a place where it is ſo uſed. Others make it a noun, but an adjective, and render it, they could not hold, or keep the maſt ſtraight, or upright: and the word indeed ſeems ſo to be taken, Gen.42.11, 19. Prov.15.7. Eccl.8.10. nor do they miſs of the true ſenſe of the place, that here ſo underſtand it. Yet, becauſe (as was intimated on ver. 21.) the adjective is ſeldom ſet before its ſubſtantive, in Hebrew: it is conceived rather to be an adverb, here, as our Engliſh Tranſlators took it, when they rendred it, well: as alſo, it oft elſe-where ſignifies well, or aright, Exod.10.29. 2 King.7.9. Jer.8.6. & 23.10. for, as for thoſe, that would have it a note of ſimilitude, though it be commonly ſo uſed, Gen.9.7,9,11. Pſal.1.4. Yet that hath no place here; as little in mine apprehenſion that, which the fore-mentioned learned Writer ſuggeſteth, the baſis of the maſt, that is, ſaith he, of the ſtandard, whereon the banner was to be diſplayed in the field; which God would not ſuffer to be fixed, much leſs the banner to be upon it diſplayed: but the Prophet ſeemeth to be here in a diverſe reſemblance.

could not ſtrengthen]. Heb. they ſhall not; for, they could not; or, they ſhall not be able to ſtrengthen, or hold faſt, or keep firm: the indicative form, in a potential notion: as Num.23. 10. Deut.4.28. Neh.6.6. Job 9.3. & 14.4. Eſt.5.14. Chap.10.19. & 26.18. Dan.3.15. with 17. ſo alſo in the next branch.

they could not ſpread the ſail] Heb. the ſign, or flag, or enſign, as the word moſt commonly ſignifies; and ſo divers Interpreters, after the old Latine, here render it; underſtanding the word, ſome, of a flag, ſet on the top of a tent, or pavilion, to ſhew whom it belongeth to: Others, of the banner diſplayed in fight in the field: Others, of the flag on the top of the maſt of a ſhip, which, none of them, ſeem to fit well here. And others, therefore, laſtly, after the Chaldee Paraphraſt, with the Jewiſh Commenters, render it, as ours, here, the ſail: the meaning of the words being, that their tackle was all ſo ſplit, and torn, and diſſipated, as well thoſe that ſhould keep the maſt upright and ſteady, as thoſe, alſo, that ſhould hold and guide the ſail; that neither maſt nor ſail, could do them any ſervice; and their ſhip therefore deſtitute of all ſuch neceſſary furniture, muſt needs be ſwallowed up of the Sea.

Then is the prey of the great ſpoyl divided] Or, then ſhall the prey (as Gen. 49.27.) of a great ſpoil be divided. The ſpoil of the Aſſyrians Camp, after the defeat given them, and their ſudden flight thereupon, Chap.32.8,9. divided among the Jewiſh people, as the Syrians, 2 King. 7. 16. and of thoſe of Moab and Ammon, 2 Chr.20.25. and, as after a wrack of ſome great carvel, or carick, laden with abundance of rich commodities, the coaſting people are wont to ſeize on ſuch of them, as on drift, come floating to the ſhore: ſee ver.4.

prey of a great ſpoil] Or, as ſome of the Jewiſh Criticks, prey, and much ſpoil, or ſpoil in abundance: ſee Chap. 9.7. a defect of the copulative: as Chap. 32. 13. See 2 Chron. 28.8.

the lame take the prey] Or, ſhall take the prey. Heb. prey, or prey on the prey, as Chap.10.6. Ezek. 38.12, 13. the lame ſhall do as the lepers did, 2 King.7.8. The weakeſt and moſt impotent ſhall be able enough to make ſpoil of them; as the Jebuſites bragged that they could do with David and his, 2 Sam.5.6,8. or, ſhall among the reſt, ſeize on the prey, when the enemy is fled and gone, Pſal. 68. 12. Chap. 37. verſ. 36,37.

V. 24. And the Inhabitant ſhall not ſay, I am ſick] No one Inhabitant of Jeruſalem, ſhall have cauſe to complain of any infirmity, contracted by the ſiege or invaſion of Sennacherib; their health, or ability of body, ſhall not (as by long and ſtreight ſieges is uſual) be in the leaſt degree impaired: See Pſal.105.37. Others, the weak ſhall take heart; or, they ſhall have incolumity, health and ſtrength, reſtored to them, Pſal.103.3. Chap.35.6. But the former is, I take it, more agreeable to the ſcope and drift of the Prophets diſcourſe.

the inhabitant] To wit, of Jeruſalem, v. 20. inhabitant, for inhabitants: as Chap.5.3. Yet here rather diſtributively, then collectively, as there: the inhabitant ſhall not ſay, for no inhabitant ſhall ſay: ſee ver.21.

I am ſick] As 1 Sam.30.13. or feel pain: as Prov. 23.35. or am weak: as Judg.16.7,11.

the People that dwell therein ſhall be forgiven their iniquity] Or, the People dwelling therein, being diſcharged of iniquity: for ſo it runneth word for word in the Hebrew. Diſcharged, or diſburdened of iniquity: as Pſalm 32.1. or, as it may well be rendred, having iniquity taken off them; or, from them, 2 Sam.12.13. Pſalm 103. 12. being by the hand of God upon them, refined and reformed; and God, upon their repentance, now reconciled unto them, Chap. 1.25, 27. and his wrath, by their ſinnes formerly incenſed, remitted wholly, and removed, Chap. 38.27. & 43.25. & 54. 7-10. & 57.17,18. Jer.31.34. a defect of the pronoun: as Chap.13.15,22.

CHAP. XXXIV.

Verſ. 1. Come neer, ye nations, to hear and hearken, ye people; let the earth hear, and all that is therein, the world, and all things, that come forth of it.] Whether this Chapter, and the next, belong to the Prophecy, or Sermon, recorded in the fore-going Chapter, as Some would have it, or contain another ſeveral one, is not altogether ſo certain. Yet the former ſeems not improbable. Howſoever, this Chapter, for the ſubject matter of it, agreeth much with Chapter 24. and the next, with Chapter 25. this being a prophecy of the deſtruction of the enemies of Gods people; the next, of the reſtitution of the Church. And this he maketh entrance into, by a ſummons of all Nations, yea, of all creatures; as chap. 1. 2. to take notice of, and conſider, what he was about to do, as with one Nation before, Chap. 33. 13. ſo now to all of them that had bin enemies to his people; implying thereby, that what was here denounced, did neerly concern them all, and the ſeveral places of their abode.

all that is therein] Heb. the fulneſs thereof: as chap. 42. 10. Pſal. 24. 1.

the world] The habitable world: as Mar. 16. 15. or, the world that yeeldeth ought (as the word properly importeth) for the food, and uſe of man or beaſt, oppoſed to the waſte that is altogether barren, and devoid of ought, ſuch as that, Jer. 17. 6.

all things that come forth of it] Heb. all the off-ſprings, or proceeds of it, chap. 22. 24. & 42. 5.

V. 2. For the indignation of the Lord is upon all nations, and his fury upon all their armies] Or, will be againſt: as Gen. 40. 2. & 41. 10. God intendeth to proceed in wrath and vengeance againſt all thoſe Nations, that had bin enemies to his people: or, as ſome, all the wicked of the world, in generall. But theſe ſeem to enlarge it over-much; as well, as thoſe on the other ſide to over-narrow it, that reſtrain it to the King of Aſſyria, and his Subjects, or, aſſociates. See chap. 24. 1. & 26. 21. Joel. 3. 2. ver. 8.

indignation] or, boyling wrath; for the word properly ſignifieth a bubble. Hoſ. 10. 7. (where it ſeems not ſo well rendred ſcum: froth, were better there, then ſcum: for which another word is, Ezek. 24. 6, 11.) ſuch as are wont to riſe on the top of the water, when the pot boileth upon the fire, chap. 64. 2.

fury] or, fervent wrath, from a word, that ſignifieth heat. Pſal. 19. 5. & 39. 3. whence the ſun is ſo termed: chap. 24. 24.

all their armies] Heb. each army of them; that have waged, or do wage war againſt his people. See chap. 24. 21.

he hath utterly deſtroyed them, and hath delivered them to the ſlaughter] or, he will utterly deſtroy them, (make an anathema of them. Joſh. 6. 17, 21. See ver 5.) and will deliver them (Heb. give them, as Jer. 15. 9.) unto ſlaughter. He hath paſſed ſuch a doom of deſtruction upon them, as ſure to be put in Execution, as if it were executed all-ready. Chap. 14. 26, 27. Joh. 3. 18.

V. 3. Their ſlain alſo ſhall be caſt out,] To be devoured by birds and beaſts, (the multitude of the ſlain being ſuch, that they ſhal want either perſons to bury them, or places to bury them in; or, people in deteſtation of them, caſting their corps out to lye and rot above-ground, Jer. 7. 33, 34. & 22. 19.) as themſelves had formerly dealt with Gods people, Pſal. 79. 2, 3. Jer. 34. 20.

and their ſtink ſhall come up out of their carcaſſes] Heb. and their carcaſſes, the ſtink of them ſhall aſcend, or go up: a nominative put abſolutely: as Pſal. 18. 31. & 104. 17. See Exod. 8. 14. ch. 66. 24. Amos 4. 10. Joel. 2. 20.

and the mountains ſhall be melted with their blood] They ſhall run down with ſtreams of blood, as with water, Chap. 30. 25. as if they were even diſſolved into blood. See chap. 64. 2, 3. nor need we, with ſome Interpreters, by mountains, underſtand here heaps of carcaſſes, piled up like hills, as thoſe that Sampſon made of the Philiſtims, Judg. 15. 16. It is an hyperbolical form of ſpeech, uſed in like manner of great plenty, of any thing coming from the mountains, and the plants there growing, or the beaſts there grazing. So, the hills ſhall flow with milk, Joel 3. 18. and, the hills ſhall melt with wine, Amos 9. 13.

V. 4. And all the hoſt of heaven ſhall be diſſolved, and the heavens ſhall be rolled together as a ſcroll, and all their hoſt ſhall fall down, as a leaf falleth from the vine, and as a falling fig from the fig-tree.] So great ſhall their fear and terrour be, and ſo ſtrange and dreadful the judgments of God inflicted upon them, that the whole frame of the creature ſhall ſeem to be diſſolved, and the world to be at an end. See the like, chap. 13. 10, 13. & 24. 21. Rev. 6. 13, 14. Yet neither do I concur with thoſe, that underſtand theſe words of the general doomsday, though ſuch things then ſhall be, 2 Pet. 3. 10, 11. no more then thoſe in the Revelations are to be ſo underſtood; many things, in the courſe of the context, both there, and here, ſhewing, that they cannot ſo be meant; and much leſs with thoſe, who ſuppoſe no more to be meant, then the thickning and darkning of the ayr, by ſuch abundance of foggy vapours and exhalations, aſcending from the gore-bloud and putrified carcaſſes, and the production of divers meteors, conſiſting of ſuch, that ſhoot to and fro, like ſtars, and fall at length to the ground. The one go too far, and the other fall far too ſhort. It is the manner of Gods Prophets, in their deſcriptions of ſome extraordinary judgment, to ſet it forth in ſuch colours, as if they were deciphering the face of that laſt univerſal judgment, whereof, ſuch are, in ſome ſort, reſemblances and fore-runners. See Dan. 7. 9, 10. Joel 3. 12-16. as, on the other ſide, the reſtitution of Gods people after ſome grievous calamity, and long affliction, is wont to be ſhadowed and ſet forth in ſuch terms, as have cauſed many to be miſtaken in them, conceiving no other, then the general reſurrection, at the laſt day, to be therein deſcribed. See ch. 26. 19. Ezek. 37. 2, 13. Dan. 12. 1, 2.

hoſt] See Gen. 2. 1. chap. 24. 21. & 40. 26.

ſhall be diſſolved] Heb. pine, or waſte away, Lev. 26. 39. Ezek. 24. 23. & 33. 10. Zach. 14. 12. See chap. 3. 24. & 5. 24. the verb is plural, becauſe the noun is collective. See 2 Pet. 3. 10.

rolled up as a ſcrole] Heb. as a book. and ſo Rev. 6. 14. alluding to ſuch books, as were then in uſe, called rolles, or, volumes. See Chap. 8. 1. ſo that as it could not be ſeen what was written in thoſe books, when they were ſo rolled up; no more ſhould the ſtars now, as they might formerly, when the heaven was ſpread abroad, Pſal. 104. 2.

their hoſt] The Stars, Rev. 6. 13.

a leaf falleth] Or, as leaves fading, fall: as chap. 64. 6. Jer. 8. 13. for ſo the word properly importeth; as the leaves of a vine, when they are withered, fall. See chap. 1. 30. and 28. 1.

as a falling fig] The like defect of the ſubſtantive, ſee ch. 28. 4. where a fading, is for, a fading plant: ſuch green figs as come firſt; but ſhed, after a while, when others begin to put forth. See Rev. 6. 13. The old Latine, and ſome of our verſions ſupply leaf, or leaves, from the former branch; but the gender is feminine, which help to ſtrengthen (as alſo doth that of the Evangeliſt) the former; but ſome would have it taken neutrally, as is the feminine oft in Hebrew, and then it may include both.

V. 5. For my ſword ſhall be bathed in heaven] A deſcription of the great ſlaughter that ſhall be made, ver. 2. and the perſons that ſhall be ſlaughtered.

my ſword] Spoken in the perſon of God; his ſword, for his power manifeſted in the execution of juſtice, Deut. 32. 41. Jer. 50. 35-37. Ezek. 21. 1, 9.

bathed] Embrued in blood: as Jer. 46. 10. Heb. drunk: as Rev. 17. 6. or ſoaked, ſee ver. 7. or, ſatisfied: as Pſal. 36. 8. Prov. 7. 19. Jer. 31. 14, 23. ver. 6.

in heaven] According to a decree paſt concerning it in heaven, Pſal. 119. 89. See ver. 16. Though ſome of the Jewiſh Commenters read it, my ſword in heaven, or, that is in heaven, ſhall be made drunk. Which is yet more probable, then what another of them hath, of ſlaying the great Potentates firſt, that ſit aloft, as in heaven, Chap. 14. 13, 14. and after that, the inferiour ones, that ſit far below them, as on the ground, Pſal. 113. 7, 8. See Chap. 24. 21. or, what ſome of our, following the old Latine, that readeth the words in the time paſt, My ſword hath begun to rage, as drunken men uſe to do, Prov. 20. 1. in heaven, that is, in my Church, among mine own people, Ezek. 9. 6. 1 Pet. 4. 17. ſtyled heaven in Scripture, Rev. 4. 1. & 12. 1. and thence ſhall deſcend to thoſe without the Church, called the earth, Rev. 12. 12. See Jer. 25. 15, 16, 18, 29.

behold it ſhall come down upon Idumea, and upon the people of my curſe, to judgment] The people and perſons, whom this ſword is to make ſlaughter of, are more ſpecially the Edomites, and together with them, ſuch other nations, as were deſtinated to deſtruction.

come down] From heaven; as ch. 30. 30. Rom. 1. 18.

upon] come down upon, for, coming down light upon: as Exod. 19. 20. the Lord deſcended upon the Mount, for, deſcending, abode on it. Of which manner of ſpeech, ſee chap. 13. 12. & 38. 17.

Idumea] Heb. Edom; that is, Eſau. See Gen. 25. 30. & 36. 8. here put for his poſterity, and their country. See ch. 21. 11. as the Moabites, ch. 25. 10. ſo here; and Chap. 63. 1. the Edomites are marked out, as two of the principal enemies of Gods people. See Pſal. 137. 7. Lam. 4. 21.

and upon] Or, even upon: as Ezr. 1. 8. if the Edomites be in this latter branch alſo intended. See ver. 6.

the people of my curſe] Heb. Cherem, Joſh. 6. 17. Greek, anathema, 1 Cor. 16. 22. it ſignifies a thing devoted to deſtruction, Deut. 7. 26, 27. See ver. 2.

V. 6. The ſword of the Lord is filled with blood, it is made fat with fatneſſe] An intimation of a very great ſlaughter.

ſword of the Lord] As Jer.47.6. See ver.5.

is filled] Or, ſhall be filled with blood: ſhall drink its fill of blood, ver.5. Chap.15.9.

it is made fat with fatneſſe] Or, it ſhall be fatted with fat; it ſhall eat abundance of fat; a reſemblance taken from ſome greedy glutton, or other ravenous creature, that hath gotten, and eaten his, or its fill of fat beaſts.

and with the blood of lambs and goats, with the fat of the kidneys of rams] Or, even with, &c. for he relateth more particularly what blood, and fat, before, he meant.

of lambs, goats, and rams] Men of all eſtates and ranks: but theſe ſeem here mentioned, as of the meaner ſort; for the greater ſort followeth, ver.7. and it ſeems ſomewhat overnice, that ſome have of the common people, Prieſts, and wealthy ones. Howbeit, it may well be queſtioned, whether the word carim, tranſlated lambs, might not rather be rendred, bell-wethers: as it is by ſome, not amiſſe rendred, leaders of the flock, or, ſheep, 1 Sam.15.9. to the ſouldiery eſpecially, the words ſeem to have reference: as Ezek.39.18, & Rev.19.18. and to thoſe, that had ſome command among them. See on Chap.16.1.

fat of the kidneys] Which they lye enwrapt in, Levit. 3. 8. Deut.32.14.

for the Lord hath a ſacrifice in Bozrah, and a great ſlaughter in the land of Idumea] What he called a ſlaughter before, ver. 2. and hereafter again, he now calleth a ſacrifice. For the word ſignifieth as well to ſlay, as to ſacrifice, Gen.31.54. 1 Sam.28. 24. 1 King.1.9,19. Howbeit, there ſeems an alluſion here, to the beaſts offered in ſacrifice, whoſe blood, and fat, was reſerved, as for God, unto whom they were ſacrificed, Levit. 7.23-27. See chap.1.11. Deut.32.38. and to thoſe ſolemnities, in which ſo great abundance of them was ſlain, 1 King. 8.63. 2 Chron.29 31-35. & 30.24. to which ſome alſo add, as implying, that Gods vengeance executed on his enemies, and on the enemies of his people, is as pleaſing to him, as any ſacrifice whatſoever, Chap.1.24 Jer.46.10.

Bozrah] The Edomites chief city, Chap.63.1. Jer. 49. 19. 13. ſo termed, not, as the Greeks, who by an inverſion of the letters, call it, Byrſæ, as if it had its name, from an ox hide, that ſhould encompaſs the ground it ſtood on, being cut out into thongs; (for the word is the ſame, with the name of that place, of which they tell us ſuch a tale,) but from the fortifications and ſtrength of it, bearing that name, as the word importeth, chap.20.15. & 25.2. & 27.10.

Idumea] As ver.5.

V. 7. And the unicorns ſhall come down with them, and the bullocks with the bulls:] The great Potentates, and mighty Commanders, by theſe greater cattel, and wilde-beaſts, reſembled, ſhall be pulled down, and ſlain, as well as the reſt, Pſal.22.21. Ier.50.27. Rev.19.8.

unicorns] Not ſuch horned creatures like horſes, as our Painters uſually portray; or wilde aſſes, which ſome tell us of, with one ſtrait horn in the fore-head. Whereof, ſee Ariſtotle, in his hiſtory of living creatures, l.2.c.1. Elian, l.4. c.52. & l.16. c.20. & Pliny, l.8. c.21. & l.11. c.37. for ſuch in theſe dayes, no where found, are deſervedly deemed figments: and the horns we have, called unicorns horns, are well known to be the hornes, not of land-beaſts, but of ſea creatures; one, the principal of them, kept, as a royal monument with us, taken out of the head of a vaſt-bodied creature, found dead, and floting in the Sea; another of leſs note, broken off from the head of the like ſea-creature, that had run it thorow the ſhips timber, and there left it behind her; but as ſome gueſſe the rhinoceros, a vaſt beaſt, for ſhape, not unlike to the Elephant, whom he is reported to fight with, but inſtead of his trunk, furniſhed and armed with an horn, of no great length, riſing from his noſe, as engraffed on it, (whence he is ſo termed) and ſlanting ſomewhat back toward the head of the beaſt; whereof cups are made, and ſet in ſilver of no great ſize, nor ſightly; eſteemed only for rarity: and this way moſt of our Interpreters go; from whom our margent here rendreth it, rhinocerotes. But other ſtick at it, for two reaſons eſpecially: Firſt, becauſe this beaſt is not found, but in India, and in the remoteſt parts thereof; nor is it likely, that it was commonly known among the Jews, as this creature appeareth to have been, by the frequent mention of it, Num.23.22. Deut.33.17. Job 39. 9,10. Pſal.22.21. & 29.6. & 92.10. and that bred alſo with them, as may ſeem by Pſal.29.6. and again, becauſe, (to let paſſe what is ſaid of its, not horn, but horns, Deut.33.17.) the beaſt here mentioned, is elſewhere ſpoken of, as having goodly, lofty, and ſtately horns, Deut.33.17. Pſal. 92. 10. which of the Rhinoceros cannot be well ſaid. Some therefore of the Jewiſh Writers, ſuppoſe it to be that, which the Latines term Bubalus; the Italians, Bufalus: with us, ſome a bufale, ſome a buffe; from whom, again, ſome of ours, ſomewhat diſſenting ſuppoſe it rather to be that kind of wilde ox, which the Latine Writers call Vrus, partly, becauſe they find this in Scripture joyned commonly with oxen, and bulls, whereby they conceive it to be ſome beaſt of that kind, Deut.33.17. Pſal.22,12, 21. & 29.6. and partly, becauſe that, as this is of ſpecial note for ſtrength, Num.23.22. for horns, Pſal.92.10. and for untameable fierceneſs; Job 39.9,10. ſo theſe, are all reported alſo to be in the urus eminent. For beſides his remarkable ſtrength, and bigneſs, wherein ſome of them are reported, not to come much ſhort of elephants; his horns are ſaid to be ſo large, that drinking cups, or veſſels rather, of great capacity are made of them; and withal, his untameable fierceneſs to be ſuch, that being taken in pits, they will be ſlain ſooner, then maſtered; and though coming into mens hands very young, they will rather be ſtarved, then tamed. See Ceſar of the French war, l.6. & Pliny, l.8. c.15. & l.21. c. 9. but this of the urus, and that former of the Bubalus, may well be reconciled; if we ſhall obſerve what Pliny informs us, that the name Bubalus was among the common ſort of people, given to the urus, even in his dayes. See on Chap.51.20.

come down] An alluſion to beaſts ſtruck down, and laid along by the hand of the huntſmen, or the butcher.

with them] Together with the meaner ſort, mentioned ver. 6. See Pſal.68.30.

bulls] The word is uſed for ſuch as are of moſt excellency and eminency in their kind, whether of horſe, ſteeds, as we term them; and ſo Judg.5.22. Jer. 8.16. & 47.3. or, neat, bulls; and ſo here: as alſo, Pſal.22.12. & 59.13. & 68. 30. Jer.50.11.

and their land ſhall be ſoaked with blood, and the duſt thereof made fat with fatneſſe] That which was before ſaid of the ſword, employed in the ſlaughtering of them, ver.5,6. is here ſaid of the ground, receiving the blood, and the fat of the ſlaughtered. See ver.5.

their land] The Edomites Country, ver.6.

ſoaked] Heb. drunken, ſaith our margent; but the word is uſed for watering, in a plentiful manner, Pſal.65.10. Prov.11. 25. Chap.55.10. & 58.11. watered with abundance thereof, as with water.

the duſt thereof] Heb. their duſt: as, their land.

made fat with fatneſſe] Cloyed, and thickened with fat: See ver. 6.

V. 8. For it is the day of the Lords vengeance, and the yeer of recompences for the controverſie of Zion] It is the time that God hath appointed for the righting and avenging of wrongs done by them, to his people.

the day of the Lords vengeance] So Chap.63.4. for they ſtrain the words exceeding far, or pervert it rather to a clean contrary ſenſe, that would have it ſound, nothing but matter of love, and kind affection, and retribution of good in liew of evils and afflictions, formerly ſuſteined. See chap.61.2.

the yeer of recompences] Or, retributions; as, the dayes of retribution, Hoſ. 9.7. taken in the worſe ſenſe, for retribution of penalty, for wrong done: as chap.35.4. and 59. 18. Jer. 51.56.

for the controverſie of Zion] The controverſie that ſhe hath againſt you for the wrongs that ye have done her; as, the quarrel of my covenant, Levit. 26.25. for, the quarrel that I have againſt you, for the breach of Covenants. Zion, for, Jeruſalem: as Chap.1.8. and Jeruſalem, for the whole State of Judah, Chap.33.20. whereunto, the Edomites had from time to time been very injurious, and done them much miſchief, Pſal.137.12. Lam.4.22. Ezek.25.12. Amos 1.11. Obad. 10. See Chap.45.24,25. & 47.2,6. Mic.7.9,10.

V. 9. And the ſtreams thereof ſhall be turned into pitch, and the duſt thereof, into brimſtone, and the land thereof ſhall become burning pitch] A rhetorical deſcription of extream devaſtation, in way of alluſion to the deſtruction of Sodome and Gomorrah, Gen.19.24. Deut.29.23. Rev.19.20. & 20.10.

V. 10. It ſhall not be quenched night nor day; the ſmoak of it ſhall go up for ever] This devaſtation of Idumea ſhall laſt long; as of cities burned down, the ſmoke, embers, and aſhes, do a long time continue. See Jer.7.20. Rev. 14.11. and 18. 18. & 19.3.

from generation to generation, ſhall it lye waſte] That is, for many generations. See ver. 17.

it ſhall lye waſte] Heb. be waſted: as Chap.60.11. ſhall be opened, for, ſhall ſtand open; and, Neh.1.3. is broken, and are burnt, for, continue broken and burnt.

none ſhall paſſe through it, for ever, and ever] Heb. ever of evers. See the like note of extream deſolation, chap. 60.15. Jer.9.10,12.

V. 11. The cormorant and the bittern ſhall poſſeſſe it; the owl alſo, and the raven ſhall dwell in it] Such creatures, only, as haunt waſte places, ſhall be, and abide there. See the like, Chap.13.18-22. & 14.23. Zeph.2.13,14. Rev.18.2.

cormorant] Or, as ſome, the Pellicane, it is reckoned among the unclean birds, Deut.14.17. Levit. 11. 18. and noted for one, that keepeth in waſte places, Pſal.102.6. Zeph.2.14. It ſeems to be a Water-fowl, and is ſuppoſed to be ſo termed, for ſwallowing down fiſh, ſhell fiſh eſpecially, till by the heat of his gullet, or ſtomack, being in a manner concocted and made to open, he then caſts up again, and ſo picks the fiſh out of the ſhell. bittern] See on Chap.14.23.

poſſeſſe it] So, he will make it a poſſeſſion, Chap.14.23.

the owl] An unclean fowl, Levit. 11.17. Deut.14.16. ſo called, becauſe it ſhunneth the clear day-light, and flyeth abroad, in the evening, or twilight; as the adulterer doth, Job 24.15. it is rendred, the great owl, in Levit. and Deutr. See ver. 12.

raven] An unclean fowl, alſo, Levit.11. 15. Deut. 14. 14. that feedeth upon carcaſſes and carrion, Prov.30.17. Rev.19. 17, 18.

dwell] Inſtead of the former Inhabitants, chap.13.21.

and he ſhall ſtretch out upon it, the line of confuſion, and the ſtone of emptineſſe.] It ſhall by line and level, be deſigned and laid out, to be an horrible deſolation, and a waſte wilderneſſe; and in vain therefore for them, to attempt the reſtoring of it again, Mal.1.4. a metaphor taken from the manner of Maſons and Workmen, who when they are to take down ſome part of a building, are wont, by line and level, to mark out how far, or how much of it, is to be pulled down. See the like, 1 King.21. 13. Lam.2.8.

he ſhall] God ſhall; or, taking the word indefinitely, ſuch a line ſhall be ſtretched out upon it: as Chap. 22. 8. and 33.1.

ſtones] Or, plummet, or level, as we call it, from the Latine, Libella, a ſtone, plummet, or other weighty thing, hanging on the line, or cord, to keep it tight and ſtraight, Zach.4.10. See alſo, chap.28.17. and Amos 7.7,8.

confuſion and emptineſſe] The words are the ſame, uſed of that confuſed and formleſs ſhape of the lower part of the world, in its firſt production, Gen.1.2. See chap.24.10. Jer. 4.23.

V. 12. They ſhall call the Nobles thereof to the Kingdom, but they ſhall not be there, and all their Princes ſhall be nothing.] There ſhall be none of their Nobles or Princes left, to take the Government upon them, if it were offered unto them. See chap.3.6.

They ſhall call the Nobles thereof to the Kingdom] The particle to, is not in the text; and ſome therefore read it, the Kingdom ſhall call the Nobles thereof, to wit, to afford conduct, or defence to them; but the noun, and the verb, ſo joyned, agree neither in number, nor perſon; and that particle is oft wanting, chap.23.5. Pſal.45.7. howbeit, the like irregular ſyntax is in the next verſe. And a learned Writer renders it, The Nobles thereof ſhall call for a Kingdom, when there is none there; that they, under a King, enjoy their honours and places: ſo is the copulative uſed, Jer. 34. 1. Neh. 2.13. Job 21. 22, 34.

nobles] The word properly ſignifies white ones, Eccl. 10. 17. Jer.27.20. ſo called, becauſe ſuch are wont to go in white, that is, fair, goodly, and gorgeous apparel, Eccl.9.8. Luke 7.25. Rev.3.4.& 7.9,13,14.

and] Or, as ſome, according to that latter reading, but: as chap.29.13.

nothing] As chap.40.17.& 41.12. or, none: as Amos 6.10. 2 Sam.9.3.

V. 13. And thorns ſhall come up in her Palaces, briers and brambles in the fortreſſes thereof] As in the places where ſuch buildings formerly ſtood, when they ly ruined, is wont to be, chap.32.13,14.

And thorns ſhall come up] Or, thorns alſo: as chap.32.7. Some render it, a multitude of thorns; becauſe the noun is plural and maſculine; the verb ſingular and feminine.

in her palaces] The particle, in, is wanting: as chap.26.8.& 28.7.

and it ſhall be an habitation of dragons] Chap.13.22. & 35. 7. Jer.9.10,22.& 49.33. & 51.37. noted for abode in waſtes, Job 30.29. Mal.1.3. of the word, ſee chap.27.1.

and a court for owls] As if he had ſaid, owls ſhall keep court there, alluding to the courts, that were uſually before great mens houſes, 2 King.20.4. See chap.35.7.

owls] Or, oſtriches, as ſome would have it: ſee Lam.4. 3. Heb. daughters of the owl, as it is commonly, almoſt generally ſtyled: as Lev.11.16. Deut.14.15. and elſewhere: it may be, becauſe leſs then thoſe other kinds, mentioned, ver. 11,14,15. This, and the Tannin, in the branch next before, are found joyned together, Chap.43.20. as creatures, both abiding ordinarily in the Wilderneſs.

V. 14. The wild beaſts of the deſart, ſhall alſo meet with the wild beaſts of the Iland.] Heb. Zijim, and Ijim: of which, ſee chap.13.21,22.

and the ſatyre ſhall cry to his fellow] Or, his mate, ver.15. one to another: as Gen.11.3,7. See chap.13.21.

the ſcrich-owl alſo ſhall reſt there, and ſhall find for her ſelf a place of reſt] There being no body to diſturb her, Chap.13.2. Jer.7.33.

ſcrich-owl] Or, night-raven: our margent, night-monſter: ſome of the Jewiſh Doctors would have it to be a Camelion, that liveth by the ayr: Others of them, an evil ſpirit, that haunteth waſte places (Mat.12.43.) and our old Latine rendreth it Lamia, ſomewhat to that purpoſe; but the doting Talmudiſts tell us, that it is the name of Adam's firſt wife, made of the ſame mould with him, before Eva, Gen.1.27. who becauſe ſhe would not be ruled by him, ran away from him, and became an evil ſpirit; whereupon alſo they write on a parchment, which they faſten over the door of the new maried couple, Adam Evah, out Lilits. The word is no where elſe found in Scripture: it ſeems, by the name, to be ſome night-bird; for as another of the like kind, ver. 11. was ſo called of the evening: ſo is this, as being a night-haunter, of the night.

reſt] Or, reſt her. Heb. make to reſt; or, place her reſt: the word is in like manner uſed, Chap.51.4. Jer.31.4.

a place of reſt] Heb. reſt, ſimply: as Gen.8.9.

V. 15. There ſhall the great owl make her neſt, and lay, and hatch, and gather under her ſhadow] What creature this ſhould be (the word being no where elſe read) the Jewiſh Doctors agree not: ſome of them would have it the ſame with that rendred a bittern, ver.11. (concerning which, ſee on chap.14. 23.) becauſe the names differ but in a letter; and that ſuch, as enterchangeth in Chaldee forms, eſpecially, oft with the other. But other of them, deny that, and ſay it is another kind of bird: nor is it probable, that the Prophet ſhould mention the ſame twice. Our old Latine, following the Greek, rendreth it, an hedge-hog: ſome other, an owſel, of her ſolitarineſs, ſuppoſed, by ſome, to be in Latine, called, merula. The word having no known ſtem, or ſtock, it is hard giving any certain ſentence of it: for whereas ſome would have it ſo termed, of ſkipping, or hopping, Cant.2.8. the radical letters agree not; they differ as much, as ats, haſty; and az, then: Howbeit, in the Arabick, the word of leaping, or ſkipping, is ſaid to be ſo written, as this here, with az: whence, in Avicenna, is found the name of a ſerpent, ſo called, becauſe it is wont to ſpring up from the ground, to faſten upon man or beaſt; which ſome therefore ſuppoſe to be here meant. That which might ſeem very probable, the words coming ſo neer, the one to the other, hippez, and hippazah, but that the text ſeems not ſo willing to admit it, ranking this among Fowls, and deſcribing the manner of her breeding, and brooding her young, in terms peculiar to that kind. I ſhould ſuppoſe, therefore, if I may be ſo bold, to deliver my conjecture in ſo doubtful a buſineſs, that the Serpent mentioned by Avicen, had its name from the Fowl here ſpoken of, and the manner of its motion.

lay] Heb. deliver: ſo chap.66.7.

gather] Brood, her young ones, Mat.23.37.

under her ſhadow] Her wings, that ſhade and protect them, Pſal.91.1. Mat.23.37.

there ſhall the vultures alſo be gathered] Meet and flock together, as about a carkaſs ſuch are wont to do, Matth. 24. 28. Luke 21.37.

vultures] It is found among the unclean Fowl, Deut. 14. 13. and with the name a little altered, Lev.11.14. where the old Latine rendreth it, the kite: ſome other, the faulcon, ſo called of its ſwift flight, Deut.28.49. Jer.48.40. & 49. 22. but the ancient Greek, as our here, and there, a vulture: ſo called of its colour, becauſe black, as ink, Jer.36.18.

each one with her mate] Heb. a woman, and, or with her friend, or familiar, Exod.11.2. Jer.9.20. a defect of the particle: as Pſal.5.4. See ver.14,16.

V. 16. Seek ye out of the book of the Lord, and read] Look into the book of the Law, ſay ſome, wherein theſe curſes are recorded; or, as others, when the day cometh, of the execution of this judgment, take the book of this Prophecy into your hands, and read over this paſſage; and ſee if any of theſe be found wanting there: or, theſe ſhall as certainly be found all there, as if they were, by name, entred each of them into a roll of record; and there you might be ſure to find them, could ye but have the ſight of that book. Such like phraſes, alluding to rolls and regiſters, are frequent in Scripture, Exod.32.32,33. Pſal.56.8.& 69.28. Chap.4.3. Mal.3.16.

no one of theſe ſhall fail] Either of the ſeveral kinds: as, Mat.4.23. Luk.11.42. or of the whole number, and tale of each kind, entred into Gods liſt: as Chap.40.26.

none ſhall want her mate] There ſhall none of them be alone; but ſtore of each kind, ver. 14. or, none ſhall be without her mate, that they may there breed, and repleniſh the Country with ſuch kind of wild creatures: as Gen. 7. 2. Heb. a woman, or each one, and her familiar, they ſhall not viſit: that is, miſſe, or want, as the word of viſiting is uſed, Num. 31. 49. 1 Sam.25.15. in regard whereof, ſome render it, a woman, and her mate,they ſhall not miſſe: that is, neither the one, nor the other, ſhall be found miſſing, either in Gods roll, by thoſe that can come to the ſight of it, or in the countrey deſigned unto them; and ſo it ſhould, in effect, be the ſame with the former.

for my mouth it hath commanded, and his ſpirit it hath gathered them] An emphatical redundancy of the pronoun added to the noun: as Chap.8.13.& 48.6. Or, my mouth, it is, that hath commanded (or given order to have this done) and his ſpirit it is(whoſe mouth commanded it) that will gather them together, there to inhabit: the pronoun, for the verb ſubſtantive; as Eccl.1.5,10. Chap.43.10,13. a defect of the relative, as Chap.33.1,11,19. and a paſſage from perſon to perſon, as ver.5,6. Chap.33.4,6,17. he hath given out a commiſſion for it; and as by a ſecret inſtinct will bring them together, as he did ſometime to Noah, Gen. 7. 9. See Chap. 10. 6. Joel 2.11.

V. 17. And he hath caſt the lot for them, and his hand hath divided it, unto them, by line] Or, he will caſt the lot for them, and his hand will divide it to them by line. He will ſhare it out to them, and divide it among them, as an inheritance, whereof many are coheirs; or a poſſeſſion, wherein many are joynt purchaſers, is wont to be divided by line and lot, Pſal.16.5,6. Mic.2.5. the line being firſt uſed for the meting out of the parts; and the lot, for aſſigning of each one, out of the parts ſo ſet out and bounded, his ſhare: ſo was the land of promiſe ſhared, Num.26.53-56. Joſh. 13.7. & 14.1,2. & 18.4-6. which the Prophet may ſeem to allude unto, to wit, that as God had by line and lot, divided the Canaanites countrey to his people: ſo he had, in like manner, divided the Edomites land unto theſe wild and ſavage creatures, to inherit and poſſeſs it for ever, or for many deſcents; for ſo it followeth.

they ſhall poſſeſs it for ever, from generation to generation ſhall they dwell therein.] Heb. to generation and generation, that is, for many generations: as chap.60.15. See ver.10.

CHAP. XXXV.

Verſ. 1. THe wilderneſs, and the ſolitary place, ſhall be glad for them; and the deſart ſhall rejoyce, and bloſſome as a roſe.] This Chapter, and the former, are, queſtionleſs, two parts of one, and the ſame Sermon, and have coherence evident enough, the one, with the other; that being of the dreadful deſtruction of the enemies of Gods people, and the utter deſolation of their lands: this, of the joyfull and glorious reſtitution, exultation, and exaltation of Gods people, thereupon enſuing, and oppoſed thereunto. So chap.14.1,2. & 25.1-9.

wilderneſs] The land of Judah, that had before, by the enemy over-running it, bin made like a wilderneſs, Chap. 1. 7. & 8.23,24. & 14.17. & 32.12-14.

ſolitary place] Or, waſte. Heb. drineſs, that is, land of drineſs, or drought; as Pſal.63.1. chap.32.2. & 24.18. and there may be in the word, an alluſion to the name of Sion, thence derived. See Jer.30.17.

ſhall be glad for them] For the judgments of God, executed upon her malicious enemies, and her deliverance from their cruel oppreſſions, Pſalm 48.11. & 58.10.

the deſart ſhall rejoyce] Shall revive, recovering of her former devaſtations, and look as with a cheerfull and pleaſant ſurface again, Pſalm 96. 12. & 98. 8. chap. 52. 3. and 52.9.

bloſſome] Or, flouriſh: for the land or ground is not ſo properly ſaid to bloſſom, nor the roſe neither, Pſal.72.7. chap. 27.6. Hoſ.10.4.

as a roſe] Cant.2.1. ſo as a lilly, Hoſ.14.5. where the ſame verb is uſed.

V. 2. It ſhall bloſſom abundantly, and rejoyce even with joy and ſinging] As the land, ſo the State alſo (for by the recovery of fertility and pleaſantneſſe to the land, is ſhadowed out alſo the flouriſhing condition of the State. See Chap. 4. 2.) ſhall have a new face, ſhall put on a new habite. Whereas it was penſive and mournful before, it ſhall now abound with joy, Pſal.126.1,2. ver.10. Chap.61.10. whereas formerly it was in a dejected and rueful condition, it ſhall now flouriſh exceedingly, and be more glorious, then before theſe calamities befell it. See on Chap.33.17.

bloſſom abundantly] Heb. flouriſhing, flouriſh: as Levit. 13. 12. but to another purpoſe there.

rejoyce even with joy] Heb. exult, even with exultation; or, as ſome render it, even with exultation, ſhall it exult. a defect of the particle: as Chap.33.7.

and ſinging] Or, and ſinging it ſhall ſing; for the verb is an infinitive, and imployeth, frequently, a defect of the indicative, or, imperative, or rather includeth either of them in it, Exod.20.8. where the word is, Remembring, for, Remembring remember, Eccl.9.11. I returned, and ſeeing, for, ſeeing ſaw again. So Ezek.1.14. Jer. 14.5. ſinging ſing, for, ſing abundantly. So Pſal.132.16. See Jer.31.12. & 51.48.

the glory of Lebanon ſhall be given unto it, the excellency of Carmel, and Sharon] It ſhall now be, for ſtatelineſs, like Lebanon, a mountain full of lofty Cedars; for wealth and beauty like Carmel and Sharon, two places of ſpecial note, for fertility and pleaſantneſſe. See Chap.27.6. & 29.17. & 32.15. and 33.9.

they ſhall ſee the glory of the Lord, and the excellency of our God] Either his people ſhall ſee it: as Chap.33.17. & 52. 8. & 66.18. or men ſhall ſee it, others alſo ſhall ſee it, & take notice of it, as well as they: as Pſal.98.3. Chap.40.5. or taking the word indefinitely, the glorious majeſty and power of God, ſhall be moſt conſpicuouſly ſhewn and ſeen, as in the deſtruction of the enemies of his people, and the overthrow of their lands and ſtates; ſo in vindication of his people, delivery of them from their former diſtreſſes, and raiſing them to ſuch a flouriſhing and glorious eſtate, that were in ſo great contempt before, Chap.33.5,10. & 40.5. & 59.19.

V. 3. Strengthen ye the weak hands, and confirm the feeble knees] The Prophet having before declared, both what judgments God intendeth to inflict on the enemy; and unto what eſtate he is reſolved to raiſe up his people: hereupon he exhorteth, and exciteth them to hearten and encourage one another, Gods Miniſters eſpecially, the weak and feeble-minded ones, with faith and patience, to expect the fulfilling of theſe gracious promiſes, Heb.12.12.

weak hands] Hands that hang down, Job 4.3. See chap. 13. 7.

feeble knees] Knees, for feebleneſs, ready to fall. So the word importeth, Job 4.4.

V. 4. Say to them that are of a fearful heart; Be ſtrong, fear not] Be not out of heart, or diſmayed, in regard of your preſent preſſures, Chap.40.1. & 43.1.

fearful] Heb. haſty: as Chap.32.4. prone to fear; oppoſed to confidence, Chap.28.16.

behold, your God will come with vengeance, even God with a recompence; he will come, and ſave you] God will, ere long, come to execute judgment on your enemies, and to work your deliverance.

your God] Whom your enemies jeer you with; demanding where he is, or what is become of him, Deut.32.37. Pſal. 42. 3. & 115.2.

will come] Though it ſeem long before he come, as the Phyſitian to the patient, that lyeth in pain; and relief to thoſe that are in diſtreſs, Pſal. 6.3. & 10.1. & 13.1. and the wicked think he will never come, Chap.5.19. Zeph. 1.12. yet he will ſurely come, and that ere long, Chap. 30.27. & 40.10. & 66. 15. Hab. 2. 3. Heb.10.37.

with vengeance] To take vengeance on your enemies and oppreſſors, Chap.34.8. & 59. 17, 18. a defect of the particle with, both here, and in the next: as Chap.34.15.

recompence] Or, retribution. See Chap.34.8.

he will come, and ſave you] Or, when he cometh, he will ſave you: as Chap.30.20. Ruth 2.9. See Chap. 33. 22. & 50. 1. performed, and made good, in part, in many gracious deliverances, at ſundry times, from divers grievous calamities, from the Aſſyrian yoke, and from the Babylonian bondage, Chap. 37.35. & 38.6. Jer.30.8,10. but perfectly fulfilled in Chriſt, Chap.9.5,6. Matth.1.21.

V. 5. Then the eyes of the blind ſhall be opened:] The great and manifold benefits, comforts, and bleſſings, that by thoſe deliverances, ſhould accrue to Gods people, as well ſpiritual, as corporal.

Then] When by the foregoing afflictions, Gods people being now fitted for mercy, God ſhall be pleaſed to afford it, Chap.1.25. & 4.2-4. & 48.10.

the eyes of the blind ſhall be opened] They that were before moſt ſtupid and brutiſh, ſhall now evidently ſee what affection God beareth to his people, what care and regard he hath of them, Pſal.58.11. & 126.3. or, thoſe that were ſpiritually blind before, ſhall now, being illightened, ſee, conceive, and underſtand, both the myſtery of godlineſſe revealed in Gods Word, and his mercy and goodneſſe manifeſted in his works, Pſal.34.5. & 107.43. & 119.18. See Chap.29.18. & 32.3. & 42.7. & 43.8. fulfilled, corporally, in cures wrought by Chriſt, Matth.9.27. & 11.5. & 12.22. & 20.30. & 21.14. Joh.9.6,7. ſpiritually, in the Miniſtery of the Goſpel, by the efficacy of his Spirit, Act.26.18. 2 Cor.4.6. Eph. 1. 18. Rev.3.18.

and the ears of the deaf ſhall be unſtopped] They ſhall now liſten to the Word of God ſpeaking in his book, and by his meſſengers, that had no liſt to hearken unto either, before, Chap.29.18. & 30.20,21. & 32.3. & 50.5. Pſal.40.6. Job 33. 16. fulfilled in Chriſts time, both corporally, Matth. 11. 5. Mar.7.32. and ſpiritually, Act.2.37,41. & 8.6,14. & 13.42, 48. & 16.14.

opened] There is a pleaſant conſonancy between this term and the former; which our Engliſh cannot expreſſe.

V. 6. Then ſhall the lame man leap as an Hart] Even thoſe that are lame ſhall get up, and go forth, to ſee the overthrow given the enemy, and gather ſome part of the ſpoils, Ch. 33. 23,24. or men ſhall be cured of ſuch ſpiritual defects, in their ſouls, whereby they were diſabled unto ſincere, upright, conſtant, and cheerful walking in Gods wayes, Jer.6.16. fulfilled in Chriſts time, both corporally, Matth.11.5. & 15.30. & 21.14. Joh.5.8,9. Act.3.2. & 8.7. & 14.8. and ſpiritually, Rom.6.4. & 8.1. Gal.5.25. Eph.2.8.

as an hart] As men are wont to leap and ſpring up, upon ſudden occaſion of joy, Luk.1.41,44. Act.3.8. or, walking both nimbly and ſteadily, in the good wayes of God, Pſal.18. 33. & 119.32. Heb.12.13.

and the tongue of the dumb ſing] Thoſe that have leaſt tongue, or had no tongue at all, to ought that is good, Mat. 12.34. yet ſhall then, for joy, ſing, and chant out the praiſes of him, that had done ſo great things for them, Chap.26.1. & 32.4. ver.2. fulfilled in the times of the Goſpel, both corporally, Matth.9.32,33. & 12.22. & 15.30. Luk.1.64. and ſpiritually, Matth.21.16. Luk.2.20. & 19.37. & 24.50. Act.3.8,9. Rom.15.11. Col.3.16.

for in the wilderneſſe ſhall waters break out, and ſtreams in the deſart.] One main ground of their joy, and their ſinging for joy, the great alteration that ſhall be, for the better, in the Jewiſh land and State. That which was a waſte wilderneſſe before, ſhall now be a well watered, and, conſequently, a fruitful and pleaſant place. See ver.1,2. Chap.30.23,25. & 33. 15. A type of the ſpiritual watering, whereby ſuch perſons and places become fertile and fruitful, that were barren of all grace and goodneſſe before, Joh.7.38,39. 1 Cor.3.6-8. See the like promiſe to another purpoſe, chap.43.20.

ſhall break out] Heb. ſhall be cloven; that is, ſhall flow out from the earth, being cloven. So Pſal.74.15.

V. 7. And the parched ground ſhall become a pool, and the thirſty land-ſprings of water; in the habitation of dragons, where each lay, ſhall be graſſe with reeds and ruſhes] The ſame thing in other terms.

parched ground] Heb. heat, chap.49.10. or, ſcorching heat; for it hath affinity with two words, that ſignifie to ſcorch, or, burn: ſcorching heat, for, ground ſcorched with heat; as in the next branch, thirſt, for, a land of thirſt; a thirſty land: as alſo, Deut.8.15. and, drineſſe, for a land of drineſſe; a dry land, ver.1. The word, ſave in two places, this, and that other, is not found.

ſhall become] Heb. ſhall be for, or, unto: as chap.32.15. See chap.41.18.

ſprings] As Chap.49.10.

the habitation of dragons] Whoſe abode is in waſte places, See Chap.34.13.

where each lay] Heb. her couch, or reſting place: as it is rendred, Prov.24.15. Jer.50.6. where they, or each of them, lay. See the like form of ſpeech, chap.2.20. 2 King.5.13.

graſſe with reeds and ruſhes] So the particle is uſed, Ezra 1. 5. Jer.19.13. or rather, a court for reed, or, cane, and ruſh: for either word, though collective, yet is ſingular. The word here uſed, doth ſignifie, moſt commonly, graſſe, chap. 15.11. & 40.6,7. but ſometime, alſo, a court, or, large open place, wherein graſſe uſually groweth. So in another form very frequently; but in this alſo, chap.34.13. and ſo here.

reed] Or, cane: for ſo the word is; and as yet remaineth in Greek, Latine, ours, and divers other languages. See ch.19. 6. & 36.6. & 42.3.

ruſh] That uſeth to grow in moiſt and miry places, neer to pools and plaſhes, Job 8.11.

V. 8. And an high-way ſhall be there, and a way; and it ſhall be called the way of holineſſe; the unclean ſhall not paſſe over it; but it ſhall be for thoſe:] Having related the flouriſhing condition of the land and ſtate with Gods people, in the words before-going; becauſe all that were of little worth, unleſſe it might be quietly enjoyed, and were to continue ſuch: he addeth here another benefit, that Gods people ſhould be bleſſed with, to wit, peace and ſafety, chap.32.18. & 33. 20. deſcribed here by freedom of paſſage from place to place, ch.33. 17. and the excluſion of ſuch as might annoy or diſturb, chap. 29.20. & 32.5,6. & 33.19.

ſhall be there] In the lands of Gods people.

an high-way, and a way] A common road way, and a cauſey; the one for man, with beaſts and carriages; the other, for foot paſſengers: or, a cauſey, and a way; that is, a way caſt up: for ſo the word here, and no where elſe found, importeth, a cauſey, or, caſt-way: as alſo another of the ſame family doth, more commonly uſed, chap.7.3. & 40.3. & 49.10. both coming from a word that ſignifies to caſt up, chap.62.10. Jer. 18. 15. in wayes uſed for firmneſſe and ſureneſſe. Of the form of ſpeech, ſee chap.4.5. Howbeit, I ſuppoſe the word, or words here uſed, to be taken collectively, for ways, or cauſeys; as chap.40.3. the ways ſhall not be neglected and ly waſte, as formerly they did, chap.33.8. Lam.1.4. but ſhall be kept in due repair, and fitted for the conveniency of paſſengers, who ſhall travel freely and ſafely by them.

it ſhall be called] Or, it ſhall be ſimply: ſee on chap.32.5. & 62.12.

the way of holineſs] Or, a way of holineſs, that is, an holy way; as hill of holineſſe, for an holy hill, Pſalm 15.1. and city of holineſſe, for an holy city, chap.48.2. or, the way of the ſanctuary, the way of the Temple: ſo it is called, as a place of holineſs, Pſalm 20.2. Ezek.42.14. See ver.10. or, the way of men of holineſs, that is, of holy men: a way, for ſuch alone, to walk or travell in, a type of the way to heaven, Mat.7.13,14. holineſs, for holy men; as peace, for peaceable men Pſalm 120.7. charity, for charitable, Prov.10.12. righteouſneſſe, for righteous, as moſt, chap. 41.2.

the unclean ſhall not paſſe over it] Or, by which the unclean ſhall not paſſe: the poſitive, for the relative; as chap.30.6. & 47.4. unclean people, that is, ſtrangers, ſuch as the Aſſyrians, Syrians, Ethiopians, and Egyptians, ſhall have no more acceſs to the land of Judah, to paſs to and fro in it, as formerly, Lam. 1.10. nor ſhall the paſſage to Gods houſe be peſtered with unclean perſons of their own, the State being now refined and reformed, chap. 1. 25, 26. and 60. 21. and 62. 12. Revel. 21.27.

but it ſhall be for thoſe] To wit, for thoſe Saints, or holy ones. See ver.9. the pronoun, for the verb ſubſtantive, as Eccl.1.5,10. Job 28.28. the pronoun, for the noun, as chap. 33.2. Heb. and, for but; as chap.29.13. or, and, for for; as chap. 29.14. and ſo ſome here, but reading the words another way, thus; for he ſhall be with them (as ver.7.) or ſhall be to them, to wit, a guide; he ſhall accompany them, conduct, and guide them, as he did the Iſraelites in their travelling to Canaan, Exod.13.21,22. & 33.14-17. that they may neither miſs their way, nor miſcarry in it, Pſalm 23.3,4. & 25.8,9. & 119.130. Luke 1.79. And a learned late Writer, notwithſtanding the pauſe, taketh in hither from the next branch; but he ſhall be walking the way with them; He, that is, God, ſhall go along with them, and accompany them in their way. Howbeit, I encline rather to the former reading, for that which followeth, ver.9.

the wayfaring men, though fools, ſhall not erre therein] The way ſhall be ſo plain, and eaſie to find, being a cauſey caſt up, and ſo ſtrait, and right on, without windings and turnings, ſuch as other croſs ways are wont to have, Pſalm 125.5. Prov. 2.13,15. that even the ſimpleſt that are (of whom it is made a note, that they know not the way to the city, Eccl.10.15.) ſhall not miſs of it, or, through want of skill, ſtray from it, eſpecially having ſuch a guide at hand, as occaſion is, to direct them, chap. 30.21. & 59.21.

the wayfaring men] Heb. one going, or walking the way, or in the way; as chap.65.2. taken collectively.

though fools] Heb. and, which thoſe that go the laſt way above-mentioned retain: but ſo, chap.41.5. or, even fools, as chap.1.6.

therein] Wanting; as, thereof, chap.27.9. So Deut. 8. 12. Jer.6.16.

V. 9. No lion ſhall be there, nor any ravenous beaſt go up thereupon; it ſhall not be found there] The plainneſs of the way, and freedom from men ill-diſpoſed and ill-affected, was before: here is now ſecurity given, in regard of fierce or ravenous beaſts, that might annoy paſſengers, and either deſtroy, or diſturb them, in their paſſage to and fro.

no lion] This paſſage ſome expound of men, for fierce and ravenous diſpoſition, like to ſuch wild creatures, as chap. 11. 6-9. but of ſuch, he ſeems to have ſpoken before. Others, of the Devil, that roaring Lion, ravenous Woolf, and red dragon, 1 Pet.5.8. John 10.12. Rev.12.3,9. but it ſeems rather, as the words ſound, and as Job 28.8. conceiving it to be underſtood of the removal, or reſtraint of ſuch noiſome and noxious creatures, as uſe to grow numerous in thoſe places, that through want of inhabitants lye waſte, Exod.23.29. and had ſo done in many places of the land, in all likelyhood, during the time of the forepaſſed preſſures, where the inhabitants had, by the enemy, bin driven from their dwellings: but it is here ſaid, that now they ſhould be rid of ſuch, and no longer infeſted with them: ſee the like promiſe, Lev.26.6.

nor ravenous beaſt] Heb. ravenous of beaſts: the word properly ſignifieth, a burgler, one that breaketh into houſes, to rob and ſpoil, or murder and miſchief, Ezek.7.22. & 18.10. Hoſh. 4.2. Mic.2.13. more generally rendred, robbers, Jer.7.11. alluded to, John 10.1,8,10. here uſed, for any ravenous creature; ſuch, among wild beaſts, as theſe are among men: ravenous, or ravener (for the word is ſubſtantive) of beaſts, that is, not one, that in a ravenous manner maketh havock and ſpoil of other beaſts; (though ſuch commonly ſo do;) but one among beaſts, that is ſo qualified, or that ſo practiſeth; as, choice of firres and cedars, is not the choice that others make of cedars; but the choice ones among them, chapter 37. 24. Jeremiah 22. verſe 7.

ſhall go up thereon] Or, ſhall paſſe along thereby : for ſo the word is oft uſed, without ſpeciall notion of aſcent, 2 Sam. 2. 1. & 5. 19, 20. chap. 36. 10. See chap. 38. 8. Howbeit, the word may ſeem to have ſomewhat more then ſo in it here ; and to have ſome reference to the condition of the way before-mentioned, being ſaid to be a cauſey, or a way caſt up, and ſo raiſed to ſome height, ver. 8. as if he had ſaid, that though wilde beaſts might lurk in ſome by-places out of the way; yet none of them ſhould be ſo bold, as to come upon the cauſeys, to impeach travellers in their paſſage.

it ſhall not be found there] Or, it ſhall not be there : as chap. 13. 25. & 51. 3. none of thoſe ravenous creatures ſhall haunt the high-ways ; as Judg. 14. 5. 1 Kings 13. 24. Prov. 26. 13. alluded to, Jer. 5. 6.

but the redeemed ſhall walk there] The ways ſhall be free and ſafe, for thoſe that God hath reſerved for himſelf, and delivered out of the fore-going ſtreights and diſtreſſes. See v. 8.

redeemed] Or, reſerved, reſcued, delivered ; as Pſal. 107. 2. chap. 51. 10. & 62. 12. & 63. 4.

walk] Or, go, travel ; as ver. 8.

there] Or, therein ; as Deut. 8. 12. wanting in both places : but here ſupplyed from the former branch.

V. 10. And the ranſomed of the Lord ſhall return, and come to Zion with ſongs, and everlaſting joy upon their heads] Thoſe that God ſhall have delivered, either from the Aſſyrian Invaſion, or the Babylonian bondage, both types of the ſpirituall deliverance of Gods people by Chriſt, ſhould with expreſſions of much joy, repair after their wonted manner, to the ſet place of Gods ſolemn ſervice, being freed from their former tears and fears, and ſetled in an eſtate of continued joy and ſafety.

ranſomed] The word is in ſignification the ſame with that uſed, v. 9. as appeareth plainly both here, and chap. 51. 10, 11. the word ſignifieth firſt, and properly, to redeem, or buy out ; as Exod. 13. 13. & 34. 20. Num. 18. 15-17. Job 5. 20. but it is commonly uſed, in a more general notion, for reſcuing, or delivering out of danger or diſtreſs , by any means or courſe whatſoever, Deut. 9. 29. 2 Sam. 4. 9. Pſalm 55. 18. & 34. 22. & 78. 42. chap. 29. 22.

ſhall return, and come to Zion] Shall return from captivity, or come back from thoſe places , whither they had fled formerly for fear of the enemy. See Chap. 1. 27. & 10. 22. or ſhall return and come, that is, ſhall again repair (after their wonted manner, as the phraſe is uſual, Gen. 26. 18. Pſalm 78. 41. Mal. 1. 4.) to Zion, that is, to Jeruſalem, whither there was no free paſſage before, as chap. 33. 20. or to the houſe of God, the Temple there ſituate ; as Pſalm 84. 7. Chap. 2. 2.

with ſongs] Or, with a ſinging noiſe ; or, with a noiſe of exultation : ſo the word properly ſignifies, Chap. 14. 7. & 48. 20. & 51. 11. See ver. 2. either with ſuch mirth as they repaired with to their ſacred ſolemnities; See Chap. 30. 29. or with ſolemn ſongs , penned on purpoſe for their preſent deliverance, Pſalm 32. 7. Chap. 26. 1. & 38. 9, 20.

and everlaſting joy upon their heads] Or, and with everlaſting joy. See Jer. 2. 37. or, and everlaſting joy ſhall be upon their heads ; the verb wanting, as Chap. 51. 11. ſupplyed, as Chap. 61. 7.

everlaſting joy] Or, laſting joy. Heb. joy of an age, or of perpetuity, as Chap. 61. 7. joy of long continuance here, Chap. 32. 17. and to all eternity hereafter, John 16. 22.

upon their heads] Heb. head ; as chap. 51. 11. on the head of each of them, as a precious crown, 2 Tim. 4. 8. James 1. 12. Rev. 2. 10. & 4. 4. & 7. 9. or a garland, ever green, and never fading, 1 Pet. 1. 5. & 5. 4.

they ſhall obtain joy and gladneſſe] Abundance of joy, chap. 51. 3, 11. fulneſs of joy, in the light of Gods favour, manifeſted in theſe, and the like gracious works wrought for them ; but much more compleat, in the immediate enjoyment of his glorious preſence hereafter ; the one being, as a type or ſhadow, ſo a fore-runner, and earneſt of the other, Pſalm 4. 7. & 16. 11. & 89. 15, 16. & 126. 2. 1 Pet. 1. 8. 1 John 1. 5.

and ſorrow and ſighing ſhall flee away] The former griefes and groans, proceeding from their heavy foregoing preſſures ſhall utterly vaniſh, and be clean forgotten, as if they never had been, Chap. 25. 8. & 30. 19. John 16. 21. Rev. 21. 4.

CHAP. XXXVI.

Verſ. 1. NOw it came to paſſe in the fourteenth year of King Ezekiah, that Sennacherib the King of Aſſyria, came up againſt all the defenced cities of Judah, and took them] The relation of Sennacheribs Invaſion of the land of Judah, together with the deliverance of the city of Jeruſalem , and the deſtruction of a great part of his army, and the ſhameful flight of himſelf with the reſidue, and the murther of him , at home, by the hands of his own ſons ; is here inſerted, out of the records, in the books of the Kings, and Chronicles , in this Chapter and the next ; both to clear ſome of the foregoing Prophecies; and to confirm, and ſeal up the truth, both of the predictions therein contained, of thoſe evils that were to befal the Jewiſh Nation, for their ſins ; as alſo of the promiſes delivered in them, concerning Gods protection and deliverance of his faithful people among them, and of the comminations of the defeat and overthrow , therein denounced, againſt their adverſaries, Chap. 10. & 14. 24, 25. & 17. 12-14. & 24. & 25. & 30-35. See the like relations, to the like purpoſe, inſerted in the Prophecies of Jeremy, Chap. 39. and 52. And this ſtory , ſee 2 King. 18. 13. and 19. and 2 Chron. 32.

Now] Heb. And ; as 2 Chr. 36. 22. chap. 7. 1. for with the copulative, the Hebrew oft beginneth new narrations. So Ezr. 1. 1. Neh. 1. 1. Jon. 1. 1.

it came to paſſe, that] Heb. it was : with a defect of the particle carrying on the relation : as Chap. 7. 1.

in the fourteenth year] About eight years after the ſurpriſal of Samaria by Salmaneſer , and the deportation of the ten Tribes. See 2 King. 18. 10, 13.

of King Hezekiah] See Chap. 1. 1.

Sennacherib] Heb. Sancherib. Herodotus , who maketh mention of him, lib. 2. calleth him, Sanacharib.

King of Aſſyria] This Sennacherib ſeemeth to have ſucceeded Salmaneſer in the Aſſyrian Empire, either immediately, as moſt think, or mediately, as may well be deemed , Sargon coming between. See Chap. 20. 1. Herodotus ſtyleth him, King of the Arabians, and Aſſyrians ; not of the Arabians only, as Joſeph the Jew miſ-relates him, lib. 10. c. 1.

came up] A term uſed of military expeditions. See Chap. 7. 1.

againſt all the fenced Cities of Judah] In purſuit of the Conqueſt, that his predeceſſors had made, Salmaneſer of Samaria ; and Sargon of Paleſtine, (Chap. 20. 1.) he attempted now againſt Judea, upon pretence of the contribution with-held by Ezekiah, which unto Tiglath-Pileſer had, in former times, been paid in yeerly, by Ahaz his Father, 2 King. 16. 7-9, and 18. 7.

and took them] That is, either took the moſt of them ; not all ſimply, (for ſome of them he had not yet taken : See Chap. 37. 4, 8.) but all in a manner, ſome few only excepted, that ſeemed as nothing, in compariſon of the reſt : as thoſe univerſalls are frequently taken, ſee Chap. 64. 6, 7. Jer. 6. 28. & 9. 2. or, he came up againſt them all, and took them, for , he came up againſt them all, with a purpoſe to take them : as, Balak aroſe, and warred againſt Iſrael, for, roſe with a purpoſe to war againſt Iſrael, Joſh. 24. 9. againſt whom yet he never actually warred, Judg. 11. 25. his purpoſe was to ſurprize them all , whatſoever the iſſue were : and this way that ſeems to look, and to lead, that we find, 2 Chr. 32. 1. where it is ſaid, that he encamped againſt the fenced cities, and thought to take them to himſelf. Howbeit, the former ſeems to ſuit better, both with the matter of the ſtory, and the drift of the relation. Otherwiſe, no mention ſhould be of the taking of any. Beſide, that his purpoſe, there mentioned, may have a more ſpecial reference, not ſo much ſimply to the taking of them, as to the taking of them, to himſelf , that is, to have, and hold them, as his own ; wherein he fell ſhort of what his intent and purpoſe was. And he nameth expreſly , the fenced cities , both here and there : as Chap. 25. 2. to intimate the general overrunning and ſubduing of the whole country before him. For thoſe of leſs ſtrength muſt of neceſſity yeeld , when thoſe of defence were unable to hold out. See chap. 33. 8.

V. 2. And the King of Aſſyria ſent Rabſhakeh from Lachiſh, to Jeruſalem, unto King Hezekiah, with a great army :] See 2 King. 18. 17. 2 Chr. 32. 9.

the King of Aſſyria] Sennacherib, 2 Chr. 32. 9.

Rabſhakeh] 2 King. 18. 19. mention is made of two others joyned with him, to wit, Tartan (of whom, ſee alſo, chap. 20. 1.) and Rabſaris ; (of which name, ſee Jer. 39. 3.) but thoſe other two are here omitted, and notice is only taken of Rabſhakeh ; either becauſe the principal man, in the Commiſſion, though laſt named, in the relation ; or, as is moſt likely, becauſe he was the principal ſpeaker, and the beſt ſkilled of them, it may be, in the Jews language, 1 King. 18. 19. whether the term Rabſhakeh, be the proper name of the man , or the title of his place ; (as of Rabſaris is deemed) importing the Chief-Butler, or, Cub-bearer to the King , is not very certain. For as for the Jewiſh tradition , that he ſhould be an apoſtate Jew, (which ſome of them gather, becauſe he ſpake their language, ver. 13. and becauſe they rent their garments, upon his blaſpheming, ver. 22. whereof ſee more there; weak grounds to build that conceit upon) and that he ſhould be the Prophet Eſay's ſon, in relation to whoſe apoſtacy , the Prophet ſhould name his other ſon, that continued loyal and conſtant to his fathers God, and in his faith , Shear-jaſhub ; Chap. 7. 3. it may juſtly be deemed, as many other of the like, a fancy of their own framing.

from Lachiſh] A city of Judah, (of which, ſee Joſh.10.3,32. & 15.39.) againſt which he lay encamped, 2 Chr.32.9. and where Ezekiah's meſſengers found him, when they came to him, and there made an agreement with him, 2 King. 18.14. contrary whereunto, he now ſends Rabſhakeh from thence with forces, either to ſeize on him, or to beſiege him.

to Jeruſalem] The head city of the kingdom,(ſee chap.1.1.) which unleſſe it ſhould, upon the ſight of his vaſt army, and his ſummons ſent with it, ſurrender, he was reſolved to beſiege.

with a great army] Heb. heavy. So alſo, 2 King.18.17. See Chap.32.2.

and he ſtood by the conduit of the upper pool, in the high-way of the fullers field] Of this place, ſee on ch.7.3. & 22.9.

V. 3. Then came forth unto him] By the Kings appointment, ver.21. whom they had ſummoned to a parley, 2 King. 18. 18. it being neither honourable, nor ſafe, for him, to go out to them himſelf in perſon.

Then] Heb. And: as chap.30.29.

Eliakim Hilkiahs ſon, who was over the houſe,] Or, high-ſteward: advanced now to that office, which Shebna formerly held, as was by this our Prophet foretold ſhould be, Chap.22.20,22.

and Shebna the Scribe] Or, Secretary; who had been over the houſe, or high-Steward, before, Chap.22.15. and this ſeems to be the firſt ſtep to his utter down-fall, foretold, and threatned, ch.22.19. of the office, ſee 2 King. 4. 3. Beſides, hence it is not improbably conjectured, that this man Shebna, was either a ſtranger born, or of baſe and ignoble birth; for that there is no mention at all made of his parentage, when as of the other two, the one before, and the other after him, there is. See Chap.22.16.

and Joah Aſaphs ſon, the Recorder.] Or, Remembrancer: it ſeemeth to have been an office, not unlike to our Maſter of Requeſts. See 2 Sam.8.16. alluded unto, ch.62.6.

V. 4. And Rabſhakeh ſaid unto them, Say ye now to Hezekiah, Thus ſaith the great King, the King of Aſſyria; what confidence is this wherein thou truſteſt?] He beginneth this Meſſage, that he would have them deliver, from his Maſter, to Ezekiah, with his Maſters lofty title, The Great King; which the Aſſyrian Kings then arrogated, as having the largeſt extent of any known Monarch; and the Chaldean kings took up, after them, having diſſolved their Empire; (but indeed is the ſtyle beſt beſeeming him, who is abſolute Lord; and King of heaven and earth, Pſal.47.2. & 48.2. Mal.1.14.) thereby to terrifie King Ezekiah, as afterward to affright his people, ver.13. And his main drift throughout his whole ſpeech, is to ſhew, that Ezekiah could not have any ground of hope, to be able to ſtand out againſt ſo great a Potentate, as his grand Maſter was, either from any power of his own, or from any other to be expected from abroad, either from man, or from his God.

I ſay (ſaiſt thou) (but they are but vain words) I have counſel and ſtrength for war] In theſe words, his intendment ſeems plain to be this, to upbraid him with vanity, and condemn him of folly, if he ſuppoſe himſelf able to match, much more, if to out-go his Maſter, either in policy, or in power, being ſo defective in either: but the manner of ſpeaking, being very conciſe, maketh the ſentence not ſo clear.

I ſay (ſaiſt thou)] Theſe words, ſaiſt thou, muſt of neceſſity be ſupplyed, if we retain the reading, which the text here exhibiteth. But in the Hiſtory of the Kings, 2 King. 18. 20. it is, not, I ſay, but, Thou ſaiſt; the letters the ſame, and the points, or vowels alſo, all ſave one: and this if we follow, no ſupply at all will need. Thou ſaiſt, that is, thou mayſt ſay, peradventure; though it be folly for thee ſo to do: an indicative form in a potential ſenſe: as Num.23.10. Neh. 6. 6. Eſt.5.14. Job 37.23. Chap.26.9,18. Yet ſome would have it ſpoken by Rabſhakeh in his own perſon, or in the perſon of his king, I ſay, it is but a vain thing, for thee to ſay, or think thus, or thus: or, as ſome of our former verſions; I ſaid, ſurely, thou truſteſt in vain words: ſupplying that of truſt, from ver.4. But I rather take it to run here, as in the ſtory whence it is taken.

but they are but vain words] Heb. A word of lips; that is, ſay ſome, a word, that cometh from the lip only; that which he could not ſpeak from the heart; as being conſcious to himſelf, of his own deficiency in either: ſo it ſhould be, not unlike that, ch.29.13. of honouring God with the lip, and not with the heart: but it ſeems rather to import vain and windy words; and the lip, to be oppoſed here, not ſo much to the heart, as to the hand: words without fruit, or effect; and may well be rendred, matter of lips, idle talk only: for the word, word, in Hebrew, doth oft ſignifie matter; as it is alſo rendred, Prov.16.20. & 25.2. So Prov.14.23. the word, or matter of lips, is oppoſed to the labour of the hands; and profit, or advantage, ſaid to come of the one; nothing but want to proceed from the other: and, a man of lips, Job 11. 2. is put for, a talkative man; for one that talks much, but proves nothing. Nor can I accord, therefore, with thoſe, who by a word of lips, here underſtand eloquence; becauſe lip ſeems to be put, not for language alone, as Gen.11.1. Zeph.3.9. but for fineneſs of language, Job 12.20. yet ſo the Geneva verſion, rendring the text, I ſay, ſurely I have eloquence; as ſpoken in the perſon of Ezekiah: the uſe of the phraſe carries it the other way, rather.

I have counſel, and ſtrength for war] The words thus read, are ſpoken as Ezekiahs, intimating a conceit, that he ſhould have of his own ſufficiency, for ſuch requiſites as were needful to wage, and maintain war with. But ſome of our former verſions render the words, thus, but counſel, and ſtrength are for war; as ſpoken by Rabſhakeh, (but ſcoffingly) in way of advice to Ezekiah, not to rely on vain words, that would ſtand him in no ſtead; but to conſider ſeriouſly what want he had, as well of good counſel, as of forces and arms, being both alike neceſſary for war. See Prov.20.18. & 24. 6. Luk. 14. 31. And there want not thoſe, who read the whole paſſage in one continued tenour. Thou ſayeſt (that is, thinkeſt, imagineſt, with thy ſelf) that counſel, and ſtrength for war, are but a matter of words; that is, as eaſie to be had, as words are; or, as others, that ſurely lip-labour (ſo, ſay they, in ſcorn, he termeth prayer) is counſel, and ſtrength ſufficient for war: as if inſtead of theſe, he relyed upon prayer. So the Jewiſh Doctors. But theſe expoſitions ſeem over-forced.

Now in whom doſt thou truſt, that thou rebelleſt againſt me?] If thou haſt not a fond conceit of thine own ſufficiency herein, what other aid or power from abroad, is it, that thou relieſt upon? that thou dareſt offer to withdraw thy ſelf from mine obedience, whoſe Predeceſſors, thy father before thee acknowledged, 2 King.16.7. & 18.7.

V. 6. Lo thou truſteſt in the ſtaff of this broken reed, on Egypt; whereon if a man lean, it will go into his hand, and pierce it.] Having endeavoured to beat him, or ſcoff him off, rather, from confiding in any policy or power of his own: he now labours to take him off, from expectation of any ſure aſſiſtance from abroad. If he think of any forreign forces, it muſt be from Egypt; but Egypt was more like to hurt, then to help: for that was her wonted guiſe. Which he ſetteth forth, by a reſemblance taken from a bruiſed, or broken cane, which if a man lay hold on to ſuſtain him, when he is in danger of falling, will not only fail him, but maim him, with the ſharp toothed ſlivers of it, running into his hand.

in the ſtaff of this broken reed] Thus he termeth Egypt, a ſtaff, being an emblem of ſtay and ſupport, (ſee ch. 3. 1.) becauſe ſhe profeſſed and promiſed ſupport and ſuccour to other people. See on Chap.18.2. & 30.2. & 31.1. And a reed, or cane, rather, (for the Hebrew word here uſed, is the very ſame with our Engliſh; whence alſo by the Greek and Latine, it deſcended unto us) in way of alluſion, partly, to thoſe paper-canes; for which Egypt, abounding in them, and ſupplying other countries, far and neer, with them, was famous; (ſee on ch.19.6,7.) and partly, alſo, to ſuch canes, as men commonly uſed for walking-ſtaves; as we alſo do, at this day, & the weaker ſort, for ſupport. See on ch.10.20. & 50.10. but withal, to a broken, or a bruiſed one, as the word is rendred, where from broken, it is diſtinguiſhed, Chap.42.3. and therefore unable to help, or uphold, Chap.20.6. & 30.5,6. For whereas a learned late Writer would have it rendred, not broken, or bruiſed, but frail; though, as we read it a reed, it may carry the better colour; yet if the word be aright rendred, not a reed, but a cane; though the Hebrew word comprehend both; (becauſe not of reeds, but of canes, are ſtaves made) it will appear not ſo fit: ſince that the failing of it, as alſo the maiming of it, is here attributed, not to the matter of it, becauſe a cane, which being firm and entire, would afford ſtay ſufficient; but to the affection of it, becauſe bruiſed and battered, and ſcarce able, therefore, well to ſuſtain it ſelf, much leſs to ſupport another.

So is Pharao King of Egypt to all that truſt in him.] Not only, not helpful, but prejudicial and harmful. So had he been to Samaria, 2 King.17.4,5. and ſo he proved to Gods people, Chap.30.3. & 31.3. See Ezek.29.6,7.

V. 7. But if thou ſay to me, We truſt in the Lord our God: Is it not he, whoſe High places, and whoſe Altars Hezekiah hath taken away, and ſaid to Judah and Jeruſalem, Ye ſhall worſhip before this Altar?] Having endeavoured to take him off from his confidence in man, and in Egypt by name; wherein, a party, at leaſt, among them, had been very faulty, as appears, Chap.30.1,6.& 31.1,2. he now ſtriveth to ſhake him off from his hold of, and truſt in God, as one whom he had exceedingly wronged, in abridging his ſervice, and reſtraining it to one place; which yet was no other thing then God himſelf had enjoyned, Deut. 12.11,13,14. nor were thoſe high places and altars, that he took away, the moſt of them, other then high places aſſigned to idol-ſervice, 2 King. 18.4. and for thoſe other in which the true God was ſerved, it is noted as a defect in his ſon Manaſſes reformation, in his latter, and better dayes, that they were not utterly removed, 2 Chr.33.17.

But if thou ſay] Heb. And (which may here well ſtand) if (as Deut.12.21.) thou ſhalt ſay: as Jer.5.19.

ſaid to Judah and Jeruſalem] 2 Chron. 32. 12. commanded Judah and Jeruſalem, (that is, the Inhabitants of either) ſaying, before this altar] 2 Chr.32.12. before one altar; to wit, that in the Temple at Jeruſalem, Chap.31.9.

V, 8. Now therefore give pledges, I pray thee, to my Maſter the King of Aſſyria, and I will give thee two thouſand horſes, if thou be able on thy part to ſet riders upon them.]Since that thou neither haſt power ſufficient of thine own to withſtand my Maſters forces, nor haſt hope of help, either from God, or man; thy beſt courſe, is to come to agreement with my Lord, and give him ſecurity for thy future fidelity, and performance of what he ſhall further require of thee; which if thou do, I will undertake he ſhall furniſh thee with more horſes, then thou canſt find men to mannage: Or, to let thee know thine own weakneſs, do but give me good ſecurity, and I will deliver thee two thouſand horſe, upon condition, that thou ſhalt furniſh them with Riders, and do the beſt thou canſt with them; or, if thou canſt not, that then thou re-deliver them, and thy ſelf together with them; or laſtly, as Others, engage thy ſelf in fight with my Maſters forces, and I will furniſh thee with two thouſand horſe, to come forth with into the field, if thou haſt but as many Riders for them, as daring him to fight, and offering him, in ſcoffing manner, ſome helps, if he could, and durſt undertake it.

Now therefore] Heb. And now; as Chap.30.3. Yet ſome retain the copulative here.

give pledges] Or, hoſtages. Heb. mingle thy ſelf; as Ezr.9.2. Pſalm 106.35. Prov.20.19.& 24.21. and the word, in the originall, is very generall, and may as well ſignifie compound, or make agreement. Which ſome therefore underſtand of yeelding himſelf into the hands of Sennacherib, or ſuch terms, as he ſhould propound to him, and engaging himſelf for the making of them good, as v.16. Others, of giving ſecurity, for the horſes hereafter mentioned, or laying a wager upon them, becauſe of undertaking by ſuretiſhip, the word is oft uſed, Prov. 6.1.& 11.15.& 17.18. and others, of joyning battel, wherein two adverſe parties are mingled either with other; becauſe another word of the ſame notion is very commonly ſo uſed, Deut.2.5,19,24. 2 Kings 14.10. Dan.11.25.

I pray thee] The word here uſed, as alſo that which anſwers it, the ſame with it, both in Greek and Latine, is a particle, either of aſſeveration and aſſent, Gen.18.21. or of incitation, and putting on, Pſalm 118.2 - 4. or, of obſecration and entreaty, Gen.18.30,32. and hereafter, ver.11. for this place controlleth thoſe Jewiſh Criticks, who affirm, that perpetually it ſignifies now: it is here uſed, in the ſecond notion, not in the third; for Rabſhakeh would ſcorn to ſtoop ſo low, as to pray, or to entreat; and would rather therefore be rendred, go to, then I pray thee.

and I will give thee two thouſand horſes] Either my maſter will furniſh thee with horſe, for thy uſe and honour, if thou yeeld thy ſelf to him: or, I my ſelf, will at preſent, out of my own troops, afford thee ſuch a number of them, to do the beſt thou canſt with them.

if thou be able on thy part to ſet riders upon them] Implying, that he was not able to find ſo many among all his ſoldiery, that were expert and able riders. And the old Latine therefore rendreth it in the negative; and, or, but thou wilt not be able to ſet riders on them. Which howſoever it is by moſt Interpreters deemed ſuch a thing, as might probably be true; for that, ſay they, their Kings were forbidden to multiply horſes, Deut.17.16, and the land of Judah was not ſo fit, either for the breed of them; for which cauſe, they ſtored themſelves much with horſe, out of Egypt, and other lands, 2 Chr.1.16.& 9.28. or for the uſe of them, being hilly, in war: and few therefore among them had any great skill in horſemanſhip. Yet it ſeems rather to be an Aſſyrian brag and jear, ſetting light by Ezekiahs forces, in regard of his Maſters; and withall, covertly nipping them, for their ſending for ſupply of horſes to Egypt, Chap.31.1. as if he had ſaid, they ſhould not need, if they would be ruled by him, to ſend ſo far for horſes, he would furniſh them neerer at hand, with a greater number then they could well tell what to do with. See v.9. for though Egypt might have the greater plenty of horſe, and be, in ſome reſpects, the fitter for breed of them; yet was the land of Canaan well ſtored alſo with them, as appears by the multitude of charets, there recorded to have bin anciently, which could be of no uſe, without horſes. See Joſh.11.4. Judg.4.3, 13. as alſo by the number of them that Solomon kept, though he had many alſo from other parts, as what King or Country hath not, though never ſo well ſtored it ſelf, 2 Chr.1.14.& 9. 25. yea, the Land, in theſe very times, is ſaid expreſly to have bin full of horſes, and of charets in abundance, chap.2.7. nor were their Kings inhibited to keep ſtore of horſe, ſufficient for the defence of themſelves, and the State: but that they ſhould not give their mind wholly to multiply horſes, or heap up treaſure (for the charge is, concerning both, the ſame) as if their chief ſtrength conſiſted in either, Deut.17.16,17. Pſalm 20.7.& 33.16,17. Prov.21.31.

to ſet] Heb. give: but ſo the word is commonly uſed, for to put, or ſet, Exod.25.12,21,26,30. Jer.6.27. and it is the rather uſed here, in reference to the former branch, as if he had ſaid, if thou canſt find Riders, I will finde thee horſes.

V, 9. How then wilt thou turn away the face of one Captain of the leaſt of my Maſters ſervants?] How then, being ſo ſorrily furniſhed, art thou able to defeat any one of my maſters leaſt and loweſt commanders? much leſs to deal with all his forces.

How then] Heb. And how; as Dan.10.17.

wilt thou] Or, canſt thou: the future is oft potential: ſee Jer.2.23. or, dareſt thou, to wit, offer once to attempt it; as ch. 10.14. Jer.2.23. Zach.1.21.

turn away the face] Or, turn back the face: as, turn back the battel, chap.28.6. and the phraſe implieth a defeat, a cauſing to turn back without effect, as in ſuit, 1 Kings 2.16. Pſalm 132. 10. ſo in fight.

of one] Or, of any one: one, for any one, as Job 14.4. Matth. 18.10.

of the leaſt of my Maſters ſervants] As implying, that the leaſt of them was able to command, and to furniſh, far more then ſo. See chap.10.8.

and put thy truſt on Egypt for charets and for horſemen?] While thou relieſt on them that can do thee no good, but much harm. See ver.6.

and put thy truſt] Some disjoyn this branch from the former, rendring it, but thou putteſt thy truſt: but it runs better, as we have it, and would yet more ſmoothly, if it were, while thou truſteſt: for ſo the particle is uſed and rendred, Eſt.2.21. Pſalm 146.2. and ſo would be, 2 Kings 11. 25. and he vexed Iſrael, while he reigned over Syria.

charets] Heb. charet: ſee chap.21.7.& 22.7.

V. 10. And am I now come up without the Lord againſt this place to deſtroy it? the Lord ſaid unto me, go up againſt this land and deſtroy it.] The more yet to diſhearten Ezekiah and his people, by cutting off all hope of help from above, he pretendeth, that he came by command, and commiſſion from God. And it is true, that ſuch a buſineſs was determined, and paſt, in Gods ſecret diſpoſition, chap.10.6. but that was more then he ever once dreamed of, or had any intent to execute, chap. 10.7.

come up] Come up; Or, go up: as 1 Kings 22.12,15. military tearms: Heb. aſcend: ſee ver.1.

without the Lord] The name Jehovah, as we now read and render it, Exod.6.3. Pſalm 83.18. or, that Son of four Letters, that is, four lettered name, as the Jews ſtyle it; which that anſwers to, is here twice uſed: whereby it appears, that the ſame (notwithſtanding the ſuperſtitious conceit, and groundleſſe aſſertions, of not Jews alone, but ſome of ours alſo, to the contrary, concerning it) was in thoſe times in uſe, and commonly known; and that, not unto Gods people only, but unto other nations alſo. Rabſhakeh names it ſix ſeverall times in his ſpeech, ver.7. here, and ver.15,16. ſee alſo, Gen.24.50. Exod. 5.2.

and deſtroy it] This, concerning the city, God had not determined; much leſs ever ſigned him any ſuch commiſſion; ſee chap.27.33,35.

V. 11. Then ſaid Eliakim and Shebna, and Joah unto Rabſhakeh, Speak, I pray thee, unto thy ſervants in the Syrian language, for we underſtand it; and ſpeak not, in the Jews language, in the ears of the people, that are on the wall] In theſe words is related a piece of that ſubmiſſe and dejected carriage, foretold, chap. 10.4.

Then] Heb. And; as ver.9.

ſaid] The verb is ſingular, becauſe delivered but by one of them, though in the name of the reſt alſo: See verſe 12.

I pray thee] Of this particle (for ſo only it is) ſee on verſe 8. and on chap.38.3. it is rendred oh, Gen.18. 30,32. and ſo would rather be here; then, I pray thee; the rather, the ſpeech running as in the perſon of no one of them, but them all.

thy Servants] Too mean a phraſe, for a Kings Meſſengers: But ſo Ahaz himſelf, before; I am thy Servant, 2 Kings 16.7.

the Syrian language] Heb. Aramite, Ezra 4.7. Dan.2.4. by all which places (this and thoſe) put together, it appears, that this language was in ancient times moſt generally ſpoken; being in ordinary uſe under thoſe three great Monarchies, the Aſſyrian, the Chaldean, and the Perſian: and it is that, wherein ſome part of the Old Teſtament was penned; which we commonly, but cauſleſly, now call Chaldee; when as the Scripture it ſelf, terms it Aramit, or Syriack: nor was it indeed more the Chaldean, then the Perſian, or Aſſyrian language, though termed, Dan.1.4. the tongue of the Chaldeans; becauſe ſpoken with them at Babylon, and in the Kings court eſpecially: in regard whereof the Jewiſh children, being to attend the King there, were to be taught it.

we underſtand it] Heb. hear it: As Gen.11.7.& 41.15.& 42.23. So chap.33.19. The Courtiers and States-men underſtood it, having for, and by negotiations learned it, and bin acquainted with it, though the common ſort of people then did not, chap.28.11.& 33.19. howſoever, in proceſs of time, after their return from the Babylonian captivity, and in the days of our Saviour, when it was more corrupt, and had further degenerated from the Hebrew, which it had more affinity with before, it grew common among them; and is in that regard called the Hebrew tongue, in the New Teſtament, becauſe then commonly ſpoken with them, John 19.13,17. Acts 21.40.& 22.2.

ſpeak not in the Jews language] The Hebrew, their native language, Neh.13.24.

in the ears] For, in the hearing: as Chap.5.9.& 22.14. Jer. 36.6.

of the people] Herein they bewray overmuch timerouſneſs, and diffidence; thereby occaſioning the adverſary to be more peremptory with them.

upon the wals] Where the Souldiers lay, and whither the people did, in likelyhood, upon this occaſion flock, many of them, to view the King of Aſſyria's Embaſſadors, and to hear (if they could) alſo, what their meſſage might be.

V. 12. But Rabſhakeh ſaid, Hath my Maſter ſent me to thy Maſter, and to thee, to ſpeak theſe words?] Upon the diſcovery of their diffidence, manifeſted in the requeſt they made to him, he carryeth himſelf the more arrogantly and inſolently toward them; and endeavours to move the people to mutiny, whom he perceived them to be jealous of; partly by menacing them with a ſtraight ſiege, and putting them out of hope of being able to hold out; and partly, by promiſing them very fair conditions, that the King his Maſter would afford them, if they yielded themſelves up to him, v.16,17.

to thee] Hence it appears, that the former requeſt, though conceived, as in the name of them all three, yet was delivered by one of them only, as the foregoing ſpeech was uttered by Rabſhakeh alone, though two other were joyned alſo in commiſſion with him: ſee ver.2. And it may be ſurmiſed, to have bin a motion of Shebna's own contriving of purpoſe, ſuſpected to comply with the enemy, thereby to give them ſome hint of the peoples diſpoſition, and occaſion, by theſe means, to work farther upon them.

Hath he not ſent me to the men that ſit upon the wall] Heb. not to the men? with the note of interrogation only: the ſupply is from the former branch: the like whereunto, ſee 2 Chr. 10.11. Job 14 5.& 22.24. Chap.10.5.& 30.29.

that ſit] That is, are, or abide upon the wall, expecting the iſſue of the treaty: So Deut.9.9. 2 Sam.7.18. (for it is not to be imagined, that David conceived that ſo humble and ſolemn a prayer, ſitting) Jer.39.14 & 40.5,6.

that they may eat their own dung, and drink their own piſſe with you] This he ſpeaks to affright the people with expectation of a ſtraight ſiege; ſuch as that threatned, Ezek.4.9, 12,15. and as Samaria ſuſtained, 2 Kings 6.25. Not that they were then in any ſuch extremity; but that ſo they ſhould be compelled to do, unleſs they yielded up the city.

dung and piſſe] The Jews, becauſe they account the words here uſed by Rabſhakeh, no very cleanly terms, never read them, but two other in the room of them; in like manner they deal, not with Rabſhakehs only, but with the Holy Ghoſts language, 2 Kings 10.27. where they ſubſtitute another in the room of one, derived from the former of theſe, importing a common draught: Inſtead of the latter, they read the water of the feet: of which form of ſpeech, ſee on chap. 6.2.& 7.20. from Deut.28.56,57. and I find the very ſame uſed by Pliny, l.30.c.7. the water that runs by, or between the feet.

V. 13. Then Rabſhakeh ſtood, and cryed with a loud voice in the Jews language] Then: Heb. And; as ver.11. Rabſhakeh ſtood: lifted himſelf, as much as he could (for he was ſtanding, before, ver.2.) being not now to parley with them, that ſtood on even ground with him; but to ſpeak unto them, that were aloft on the wall; and cryed aloud, together with his body raiſing alſo his voice, that it might reach to the whole multitude of them, or to as many, at leaſt, as might be. See Chap. 33.7.

and ſaid, Hear the words of the great King, the King of Aſſyria] See ver.4.

V. 14. Thus ſaith the King, Let not Hezekiah deceive you: for he ſhall not be able to deliver you.] As he dealt before in his ſpeech, addreſſed to the King, by his Meſſengers; ſo now in his parley, directed to the people, he laboureth to perſwade them, that neither their King, nor their God, ſhould be able to deliver them, if they ſtood out againſt his Maſter.

to deliver you] Out of his hand; As it is more fully, 2 Kings 18.29.

V.15. Neither let Hezekiah make you truſt in the Lord] That which he both did himſelf, 2 Kings 18.5. and endeavoured to make his people alſo ſo to do, 2 Chron.32.6-8.

ſaying, the Lord will ſurely deliver us] Heb. will delivering deliver us; as Exod. 5.23. 1 Sam.30.8. So alſo, 2 Kings 18.30.

this city ſhall not be delivered into the hand of the King of Aſſyria.] This he might well aſſure them of; for God, by his Prophet, had before promiſed as much, Chap.31.4,5. and 33.20.

delivered into the hand] Heb. given into the hand: that is, the power; as 2 Kings 18.29,30. Jer.15.21. & 26.24. and ſo, deliver out of hand, that is, from the power, v.19. 1 Kings 18.29. Dan.3.15,17.

V. 16. Hearken not to Hezekiah; for thus ſaith the King of Aſſyria, Make agreement with me, by a preſent, and come out to me; and eat ye every one of his own vine, and every one of his own fig-tree, and drink ye every one the waters of his own ciſtern.] He would bear them in hand, that their condition ſhould be no way impaired, but bettered, rather, by yeelding themſelves up to his Maſter. For they ſhould quietly enjoy what they were poſſeſſed of at preſent; (which unleſſe they came out, and compounded with him, they could not do,) and when he ſhould ſee good to remove any of them into ſome other place, he would ſeat them in a land, in all reſpects, as good as their own.

make an agreement with me by a preſent] Or, ſeek my favour by a preſent. Heb. make with me a bleſſing; or, deal with me, by a bleſſing: a bleſſing, for, a gift, or preſent: as Gen. 33.11. Joſh.15.19. 1 Sam.25.27. 2 King.5.15.

come out to me] Yeild your ſelves up to me. So 2 King.24. 12. Jer.38.2,17,18.

and eat] Or, and ye ſhall, or, may eat. For that is the uſe of the imperative, in ſuch kind of ſpeeches. So Gen. 42.18. Do this, and live; that is, if ye do thus, ye ſhall live: as Luk.10. 28. Rom.10.5. See the like, Pſal.37.25. dwell for ever, 2 King. 18.32. live, and dye not. Ye ſhall freely and quietly enjoy each one his own, if ye do, as I adviſe you.

every one] Heb. a man: as Chap.9.20.

of his vine, and of his fig-tree] That is, the fruit of his vine, and the fruit of his fig-tree: as Jer.5.17. theſe plants and fruits mentioned, becauſe moſt common in thoſe parts for food and refreſhing. See 1 King.4.25. Mic.4.4. Zach.3.10. put here for all commodities and conveniencies, as well for neceſſity, as for delight.

and drink] Or, ſhall, or, may drink: as before.

the waters of his own ciſtern] Or, the water (ſee chap.1.22.) of his own pit: as Levit.11.36. Jer.14.3. ſuch as they had uſually neer unto their houſes, for receit of water, that they might have it, upon all occaſions, ready at hand, alluded unto, Prov.5.15.

V. 17. untill I come, and take you away to a land like your own land] Until I ſee good to remove you hence, as Salmaneſer did your brethren of the other ten Tribes, 2 King. 17.6. and 18.12. This being the manner of Conquerors, in thoſe times, to remove the natives of a land conquered, into ſome other country, placing others in their ſtead, to keep them the quieter, and to put them out of hope, by riſing, to recover their own again.

take you away to a land] Heb. take you to a land, for take you, and carry you unto a land: a defective, or comprehenſive ſpeech, including two ſeveral notions in one term. So Gen. 29.9. take me (for, take, and bring me) two kids, Num. 11.16. take them (for, take, and bring them) unto the Tabernacle, Prov. 25.22. take coals (for, take, and heap coals) on his head, Ezek. 17.5. he took (for, he took and placed, or ſet it) by great waters, Hoſ.11.3. he took them (for, he took, and carried them) on his arms. So the words would there be rendred. See of the like, Chap.38.17,21.

a land of corn and wine, a land of bread, and vineyards] A land that hath plenty of theſe commodities; as the land of Canaan had, Deut.8.8,9.

wine] Heb. new wine, or, ſweet wine, Chap.24.7.

V.18. Beware leſt Hezekiah perſwade you] A defective ſpeech, See the like Gen. 3.22. Deut. 8.12. Job. 36.18. Jer. 51.46.

perſwade you] or, ſeduce you; or, beguile you, as Jer. 38.22.

ſaying, the Lord will deliver us.] See on ver.15.

Hath any of the Gods of the Nations delivered his land out of the hand of the King of Aſſyria?] Either this King, or other his predeceſſors. chap.37. 11,12,19.

V. 19. Where are the Gods of Hamath, and Arphad?] What is become of them? See Chap.37.19. or, where were they, to wit, when they ſhould have ſaved thoſe that ſerved them? but indeed could not ſave themſelves. See Chap.47.1.

Hamath and Arphad] Of theſe places, ſee chap.10.9.

where are the gods of Sepharvaim?] See 2 King. 17. 24. whereby it appeareth, that this place (and ſo in likelihood the other alſo here mentioned) was not ſubdued by Sennacherib, (though he vainly arrogate the ſubduing of them to himſelf, ver. 20.) but before his time, by Salmaneſer, or ſome other of his anceſtors.

and have they delivered Samaria out of my hand?] Or, or have the gods of Samaria delivered it out of my hand? or, could they deliver it, &c. the copulative in a disjunctive notion: as Chap. 17.8. the indicative in a potential: as Job 37.23. ver. 9. and a ſupply from the former branches, as Chap. 10.5.

V. 20. Who are they amongſt all the Gods of theſe lands, that have delivered their land out of my hand, that the Lord ſhould deliver Jeruſalem out of my hand?] He boaſteth arrogantly of what had been done by others, (ſee ver. 19.) and impiouſly yoaketh the living God with dumb Idols, as of no more power then they. So Chap. 10.15.

have delivered] Or, could deliver: as ver. 14.

V. 21. But they held their peace, and anſwered not a word; for the Kings commandement was, ſaying, Anſwer him not] But. Heb. And; as ver. 7. they held their peace; both the King, Meſſengers, and the People alſo, 2 King. 18.36.

not a word] Or, ought: as Jer. 26.2. not that they ſaid nothing at all to him; for to what end then went they out? but that they made no anſwer to theſe his vain-glorious vaunts & blaſphemous menaces: the king having before hand given them inſtructions to the contrary, as well wotting that to debate, and argue thereabout with him, would but excite him to further outrage. See Prov. 9.7, 8. & 26.4. Amos 5.13.

the Kings commandment was] Heb. it, for, was: the pronoun for the verb ſubſtantive: as Chap. 34.16. & 43.10, 13.

V. 22. Then came Eliakim the ſon of Hilkiah, that was over the houſhold, and Shebna the Scribe, and Joah the ſon of Aſaph the Recorder, to Hezekiah, with their clothes rent, and told him the words of Rabſhakeh] Heb. And: as ver. 12. See ver. 3.

with their clothes rent] Heb. rent of clothes: as 2 Sam. 13. 31. & 15.32. Jer. 41.5. See the like Syntax, Chap. 63.1. Either in the deteſtation of the blaſphemies uttered by Rabſhakeh; as the High-Prieſt on the like pretence, Matth. 26. 65. or, out of perplexity of mind, and extremity of grief, ariſing as well from the conſideration of their own diſtreſſe, as of the diſhonour alſo done unto God: for this renting on ſuch occaſions was very uſual, Gen. 37.34. 2 Sam. 1.1. & 3.31. & 13.19. Joel 2.13. See Ch. 37.1. The Jewiſh Doctors would hence gather, that Rabſhakeh was a Jew by birth; becauſe, ſay they, the Jews manner was not to rent their clothes, upon the hearing of any blaſphemer, unleſſe he were a Jew. But neither doth it by the text appear, that they tare their clothes at that very time, when he ſo blaſphemed; but rather afterward, when they were come away from him: nor is there any good ground brought to prove ſuch a reſtraint of that their demeanure: and the Apoſtles practice may ſeem to controll it, Act. 14.14. See of Rabſhakeh, further before, on verſ. 2. and of the heavy plight of theſe meſſengers, Chap. 33.7.

CHAP. XXXVII.

Verſ. 1. AND it came to paſſe, when King Hezekiah heard it, that he rent his clothes, and covered himſelf with ſackcloth, and went into the houſe of the Lord] This Chapter is the ſame in ſubſtance, with 2 King. 19. It relateth Ezekiah's carriage upon the report of Sennacheribs meſſage, delivered by Rabſhakeh, ver. 1-5. Gods gracious anſwer returned thereupon, ver. 6, 7. A ſecond meſſage of Sennacherib ſent in writing, ver. 8-13. what Ezekiah did therewith, ver. 14-20. Gods ſecond anſwer thereupon, ver. 21-35. The deſtruction of Sennacheribs hoaſt, by an Angel, ver. 36. of himſelf, by his ſons, ver. 37, 38.

it came to paſſe, that] Heb. it was, —— and: as Chap. 2. 2.

heard it] A defect of the pronoun: as Chap. 31.5. ver. 9.

rent his clothes] In token of extream grief; as his meſſengers before him, Chap. 36.22.

covered himſelf with ſackcloth] Heb. ſack: which God, by the preſent judgment, called for, chap. 22.12. a further expreſſion of inward regret, humiliation, & repentance, 1 King. 21.27, 29. Jon. 3.6. this being the uſual mourning weed in thoſe times. See Chap. 15.3.

went into the houſe of the Lord] Unto the Temple, to pray there, where God had promiſed to hear, 1 King. 8.18, 19. & 9.3. 2 Chr. 7.15, 16. (as Heathen people and Princes uſed in ſuch caſes for ſuch purpoſes, to repair to the Temples of their gods, Chap. 15.2. & 16.12.) and to perform that office in perſon himſelf, which he required in his behalf, and in the behalf of the whole eſtate, from the Prophet Eſay & others, v. 4. So 2 Chr. 20.3, 5, 6. Eſt. 4.16. Jon. 4.6, 7.

V. 2. And he ſent Eliakim, who was over the houſhold, and Shebna the Scribe, and the Elders of the Prieſts, covered with ſackcloth unto Iſaiah, the Prophet, the ſon of Amoz] He reſted not in his own performances, but ſends to requeſt the aſſiſtance of others, Gods Prophet more eſpecially, in prayer. See Jer. 21.1, 2. So Paul himſelf, Rom. 15.30. 2 Cor. 1.10, 11. Eph. 6.18, 19. Col. 4.3. 2 Theſſ. 3.1.

Eliakim, and Shebna] Two in chief place about him. See Chap. 36.3.

the Elders of the Prieſts] As thoſe other two of the chief in the civil State; ſo thoſe in the Eccleſiaſtical, called the Elders of the Prieſts; to diſtinguiſh them from the Elders of the people, Num. 11.16. 1 Sam. 15. 30. Chap. 3.14. called alſo the Elders of the Congregation, Levit. 4.15. and, of the land, 1 King. 20.7. and, of Judah, or Iſrael, in general, 2 Chr. 5.4. & 34. 29. So the Centurion procured the Elders of the Jews, to repair, in his behalf, to Chriſt, Luk. 7.3.

Iſaiah the ſon of Amoz] See Chap. 1.1.

V. 3. And they ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith Hezekiah, This day is a day of trouble, and of rebuke, and of blaſphemy] A day, for, a time: as Chap. 26.1.

of trouble] Or, diſtreſſe, or, ſtreights: as Chap. 33.2.

rebuke] Whereby God rebuketh us for our ſins: as Job 33. 19. Pſal. 39.11. Hoſ. 5.9. or, taunting and reviling, wherewith the enemy taunteth and revileth, both God, and us, verſ. 4. Hab. 2.1. and ſo rather here.

blaſphemy] Or, provocation, Ezek. 35.12. or, contempt, of reproach, Neh. 9.18, 26. See Chap. 5.24.

for the children are come to the birth, and there is not ſtrength to bring forth.] We are in great diſtreſſe and extream difficulties, out of which we are by no means able to wind our ſelves; reſembled here by the condition of a woman that hath hard labour, hath been long in ſore travel, but cannot be delivered, her own ſtrength being quite ſpent, and that ſhe goeth with ſo feeble, that it cannot work for it ſelf, to procure, or further its own delivery. See Chap. 26.17, 18.

birth] Heb. breach, or breaking place: the mouth of the matrice; the neerer whereunto, the fruit of the womb approacheth, the ſtronger and ſharper the pains are. So the word I rather ſuppoſe to ſignifie, with the moſt part of the Jewiſh Interpreters, then as ſome other of them, who would have it to be the ſtool, ſpoken of, Exod. 1.16. See Chap. 66.9. Hoſ. 13.13.

V. 4. It may be the Lord thy God will hear the words of Rabſhakeh, whom the King of Aſſyria his Maſter hath ſent to reproach the living God, and will reprove the words which the Lord thy God hath heard:] It may be God, though not in regard of us, who by our ſins have deſervedly brought theſe evils upon our ſelves, yet in tender regard to his own honour and Majeſty, which theſe wicked wretches thus abuſe and inſult over, and will do ſo much more, if they prevail further againſt us, will be induced to ſhew mercy unto us, and vindicate his own honour, by delivering of us. The argument that Gods own people were wont anciently to plead with, in the like caſes: See Num. 14.13-16. Joſh. 7.9. Pſal. 74.18, 23. & 89.50, 51. & 115.1, 2. and God himſelf profeſſeth oft times to have had ſpecial regard hereunto, in the ſparing of his people, Deut. 32. 26, 27, 36-38. ver. 35. ch. 48.11. Ezek. 20.8, 9, 13, 14, 22. & 36. 20, 21, 32.

the Lord thy God] Not only the God whom thou worſhippeſt, or ſerveſt, as his ſervant at large: as Dan. 3.17, 28. but the God whom thou in a more ſpecial manner belongeſt unto, as his Prophet. So 1 Sam. 15.21. 1 King. 17.1.

will hear] Not that he doubted whether God had heard him; for he could not be ignorant (of what he alſo afterwards implies) that there is in every place, as an eye of God ſeeing, Prov. 15.3. ſo an ear of God hearing, as well bad, as good, Pſalm 94.7, 9. but to hear, is here to take notice of, and to make it by ſome ſpecial ſign, or work, to appear, that he ſo doth, Pſalm 4.1. & 65.5. & 86.17. for when God forbears to right the wrongs offered to his people, and indignities done to himſelf, he ſeems, in the eyes of fleſh and blood, not to hear, or to regard either, Pſalm 22.2. & 44.23, 24. & 94.7. Ch. 40. 27. & 49.14.

the living God] The true God. So called, Pſal. 42.2. Jer. 10. 10. in way of oppoſition, to liveleſſe, dumb, and dead idols, Pſal. 116.4-6. Jer. 10.5.

and will reprove the words] Will convince them of folly and vanity, by ſhewing, that he can do, what they ſay he cannot do, Chap. 36.20. as he convinced Nebuchadnezzars words, by delivering his three ſervants, Dan. 3.15, 17. ſo the word is uſed, Job 6.25, 26. And ſo the Chaldee here taketh it, and ſome of the Jewiſh Doctors. But the words may be referred to the King of Aſſyria, and his meſſengers, their language; and read, as thus knit, to the former, to reproach the living God, and to taunt us, or, and to taunt, (ſimply, to wit, the living God, as before,) with the words that the Lord hath heard. See ver. 3. and this way, beſides ſome of the Rabbines, go the ancient Greek Interpreters, the old Latine, and divers others. So ſome take the word, Job 15. 3. and ſo there is a defect of the particle inſtrumental; like, that, Pſalm 17. 13, 14. ſo of the other before the verb infinitive, to taunt, but ſupplyed from the former branch. Which yet alſo will not need, if with one of the Jewiſh Commenters, whom a learned late Writer therein ſecondeth, we render the text, and hath evinced, or demonſtrated, (endeavoured at leaſt ſo to do) by ſuch words, as the Lord hath heard. So he ſuppoſeth the word to be taken, Gen. 24. 14, 44. & 31. 42.

wherefore lift up thy prayer for the remnant that is left] Wherefore. Heb. And: as Chap. 29. 13.

Lift up prayer] Becauſe voice, heart, and hand, are wont all to be lift up in earneſt prayer, 2 Chron. 32. 20. Pſal. 141. 2. Lam. 3. 41.

thy prayer] Not without good ground required of Gods Prophet, whoſe office it is as well to be the tongue of Gods people, by prayer to God for them, 1 Sam. 12. 23. as to be Gods mouth to them, by delivering his word to them, Jer. 15. 19. Mal. 2. 7. Act. 6. 4. a defect of the pronoun: as Chap. 30. 23.

for the remnant] For a great part of the land was ſurpriſed and ſpoiled by the enemies forces already. See Chap. 33. 8. & 36. 1. over, and beſides the ten Tribes, gone before into captivity, 2 King. 17. 6. & 18. 11. which ſome ſuppoſe alſo here reſpected; but ſee ver. 32.

that is left] Heb. that is found: that is ſtill in being. So 2 King. 25. 19.

V. 5. So the ſervants of King Hezekiah came to Iſaiah] Heb. And (as 2 King. 3. 9.) the ſervants of the King, (as alſo ver. 1.) his courtiers, before mentioned, ver. 2.

V. 6. And Iſaiah ſaid unto them; Thus ſhall ye ſay, unto your Maſter; Thus ſaith the Lord, Be not afraid of the words which thou haſt heard, wherewith the ſervants of the King of Aſſyria have blaſphemed me.] Thus ſhall ye ſay, or, Thus ſay: as the imperative for the future, Chap. 26. 16. ſo the future for the imperative: as Gen. 32. 4. 1 Sam. 11. 9.

of the words] Heb. from the face of the words. So 2 Chron. 20. 15. Chap. 30. 17.

thou haſt heard] By the report of thy meſſengers, ver. 1. and I much more immediately by my ſelf, ver. 4.

the ſervants] The word here uſed, is, in his native ſenſe, a name of age, and ſignifieth a boy, or a youth, Gen. 37. 2. & 41. 12. Chap. 3. 5. & 7. 16. & 8. 5. but becauſe ſuch are uſually under the government, and the command of their Elders; hence both it, and the words in Greek and Latine, anſwering it, are uſed as terms of ſtate and condition, for a ſervant, Judg. 7. 11. 1 Sam. 9. 22. Eſt. 2. 2. Acts 4. 25. in both notions together, it is found uſed of one, and the ſame perſon, 2 Kings 9. 4. the young man, the Prophets Servant, (ſo the words would there be rendred) one that attended upon Eliſeus, as Eliſeus did upon Elias, 2 Kings 3. 11. In the latter notion it is here taken: yet it may well be here, not without ſome privy nip; when God uſeth this term of ambiguous notion, that might as well import his boys, as his ſervants, inſtead of that uſed elſe-where of them, 2 Chron. 32. 16.

blaſphemed] Or, reproached; as it is rendred, Num. 15. 30. Chap. 43. 28. & 51. 7. or reviled; becauſe this, and reproaching, are diſtinctly uſed, ver. 23.

V. 7. Behold, I will ſend a blaſt upon him] Or, Behold (ſo he beginneth his doom likewiſe, chap. 10. 33.) I will put a ſpirit into him. Heb. Behold I am giving (as Jer. 5. 14.) a blaſt on him, or ſpirit on him; which ſome underſtand of the report brought him, of the Ethiopian expedition. Others rather, becauſe this, and the report, ſeem here diſtinguiſhed, of a fear or terrour that God would ſtrike into him: for the word, ſpirit, is uſually taken for any ſtrong and efficacious affection and diſpoſition, of what nature or kind ſoever. See Num. 5. 14. Chap. 11. 2. & 19. 14. & 29. 10. and ſuch a fear or affrightment God is read to have ſtricken into perſo[illegible] and people, either for the reſtraint or diverſion of them, from purſuit of evill intended againſt his people, or for his peoples more eaſie prevailing againſt them, Gen. 35. 5. Exod. 23. 27. & 3. 24. 2 Chr. 14. 14. & 20. 29. Some conceive it to import only a mind to return, as if it were ſaid only, I will work in him, on ſuch news brought him, a willingneſs to return: but that ſeems not ſo full, though the Rabbines run, as with one conſent, that way, and ſome of ours alſo after them. Yet of ours, ſome other again ſuppoſe it to be meant of carrying him away headlong, as with a ſtiff blaſt, or guſt of wind; as Zach. 4. 6, 7. & 7. 14. But this ſeems too forced.

and he ſhall hear a rumour] Of this rumour, ſee ver. 9. though ſome would have it meant, of the tydings brought him of the ſlaughter made in his Army, ver. 36.

and he ſhall return to his own land] See ver. 37. that which alſo he began to do, upon the former report. See ver. 8.

and he ſhall fall by the ſword in his own land] That is, be ſlain with it: as chap. 3. 25. ſee the complement, ver. 38.

V. 8. So Rabſhakeh returned] Heb. And; as ver. 5. Whether he went back with that great Army, wherewith he came before Jeruſalem, chap. 36. 2. ſome make it a queſtion: there ſeems to me no likelyhood, that he ſhould ſo do; becauſe it appears not, that he returned to his maſter, for any other end, ſave to acquaint him, what iſſue his parley had with them of Jeruſalem, and to receive inſtructions how to proceed further with them; for which purpoſe, his own return, with ſome ſmall retinue, was ſufficient: nor was his Maſters ſecond meſſage likely to take any effect with Ezekiah, when the forces were withdrawn, that did formerly affright him.

and found the King of Aſſyria warring againſt Libnah] This Libnah was a royall city, having a King of her own, before the conqueſt of Canaan, Joſh. 12. 15. after the conqueſt whereof, it fell by lot to the tribe of Judah, Joſh. 15. 42. and was one of thoſe cities, which out of that tribe were aſſigned unto the Levites, Joſh. 21. 13. It had ſome time revolted from Judah, under Joram, 2 Kings 8. 22. 2 Chron. 21. 10. but was, it ſeems, after recovered again, though by what King of Judah, is uncertain. It ſeems to have bin ſituate not far from Lachiſh, Joſh. 10. 31.

for he had heard that he was departed from Lachiſh] From whence he had before diſpatched him, with two other Commanders, and a great part of his army, unto Jeruſalem: though whether having firſt taken it (as moſt conceive, and ſeems not unlikely) or no, is not expreſſed. But concerning the occaſion of his removal from thence to Libnah, divers conjectural reaſons are rendred. Some ſay, becauſe Libnah ſtood more towards Egypt, thereby to ſtop the paſſage of any ayd from thence. Others, that he might make towards Tirhakah, that was coming againſt him. I ſuppoſe rather, to make his approaches neerer to Jeruſalem, with the reſidue of the forces which he retained ſtill with him. So that as Joſhuah, moving from Jeruſalem-ward, and clearing the coaſt before him, went from Libnah to Lachiſh, Joſh. 10. 29, 31. So Sennacherib making onward toward Jeruſalem, went from Lachiſh to Libnah. Mean while thoſe of ours are very wide, who make Libnah here to be Peluſium, a city of Egypt, miſled by Joſeph the Jew, who in the tenth of his Antiquities, Chap. 1. miſrelateth this Story, affirming, that Sennacherib having taken all the cities of Judah and Benjamin, ſave Jeruſalem only, ſent Rabſhakeh, and ſome other with him, to take in Jeruſalem, but went himſelf, in perſon, into Egypt, where lying in ſiege before Peluſium, news was brought him of the Ethiopian forces coming againſt him, to ayd the Egyptians: for fear of whom, breaking up his Camp there, and returning into Judea, he found his forces left in thoſe parts, deſtroyed by the plague. Which relation varieth much from the ſacred Story, as that Author too oft doth.

V. 9. And he heard ſay concerning Tirhakah, King of Ethiopia, he is come forth to make war with thee] To wit, Sennacherib lying before Libnah, had ſuch tydings brought him, whether true indeed, as thoſe that came to Saul, and diverted him from the purſuit of David, 1 Sam. 23. 27, 28. or raiſed upon ſome vain and groundleſs ſurmiſe, as befell the Syrians ſometime at the ſiege of Samaria, 2 Kings 7. 6. is not certain. Whether of the twain it were, certain it is, that it put him into thoughts of leaving Judea, and withdrawing of his forces thence, with what ſpeed he might.

Tirhakah] The Greeks and Latines call him Tharaka, and Tarachus; and Euſebius telleth us, that he was an Ethiopian, but King of Egypt, which ſeems not ſo well to accord with the words of the Prophet in this place; he ſeems to have bin the ſame with that Ethiopian King, of whom Strabo ſpeaks in his Geography, lib. 2. and 15. by the name of Tearchon, or Tarchon: for that termination, the Greeks uſe much in proper names, whence Jeſua, Jaſon, 2. Mac. 2. 24. and Sarug, Sargon, Chap. 20. 1. Joſeph, more corruptly then any other, unleſs his copies be corrupted, calleth him Tharſices, or Tharſicen.

King of Ethiopia] Not of Egypt, as Euſebius, and ſome other from him. Heb. of Chuſh: whereof ſee, on Chap 11. 11.

he is come forth] Or, gone out: a term uſed commonly of warlike expeditions, as 2 Sam. 2. 13. & 11. 1. Pſalm 60. 9. chap. 42. 14. Jer. 4. 7.

to make war with thee] Either by coming to aſſiſt the Jews, as chap. 20. 5, 6. or by invading the Aſſyrians own country in his abſence, while his principal forces were in forrein employment; which ſeems the more likely of the twain, becauſe it put him into thoughts of looking home.

and when he heard it, he ſent meſſengers to Hezekiah, ſaying,] Yet before he would withdraw his forces that lay before Jeruſalem, or depart the country, as he was reſolved to do, he thought good to make tryall whether Ezekiah, whom by the ſomewhat over-baſe demeanure of ſome of his meſſengers (ſee, ch. 36. 11.) and his own former ſubmiſs carriage (2 King. 18. 14.) he ſurmiſed to be well neer utterly quailed, would, upon a ſecond ſummons, ſuddenly give all up, or no.

and when he heard it, he ſent] Heb. and he heard, and ſent. The like ſtructure, ſee Ruth 2.9. chap.30.30.& 35.4. and the like defect of the pronoun, ver.1.

meſſengers] Whether the ſame, that before, or ſome other, is not certain: the latter more likely; but the meſſage the ſame.

ſaying] Not by word of mouth, but by writing: ſee ver.14. as Zachary, yet ſpeechleſs, wrote, ſaying, Luk.1.63. whence an an ancient Father, proveth writing to be ſpeaking, againſt thoſe of his times, who deemed their ſubſcriptions no deniall of their Chriſtian profeſſion.

V. 10 Thus ſhall ye ſpeak unto Hezekiah King of Judah, ſaying,] The inſtructions given by him, to his meſſengers, are related, as ſpoken to them; but were indeed delivered to them in writing, to be delivered by their hand to Ezekiah, as a letter from him, though not directed to him, as if he ſcorned to grace him, ſo much as to write to him; but had ſent him only a copy of the inſtructions, that he had given his meſſengers, whereby he might ſufficiently underſtand his mind. See ver.14.

Let not thy God, in whom thou truſteſt, deceive thee, ſaying, Jeruſalem ſhall not be given into the hand of the King of Aſſyria] See chap.36.14,15.

thy God] As if he were the God of that nation alone, and had a finite and circumſcribed power, exerciſed only among that people. So the Syrians ſpeak of God, 1 Kings 20. 23. and ſome ſuch conceit, the Jewiſh Doctors ſuppoſe, that Jonas had, Jon.1.3.

V. 11. Behold, thou haſt heard what the Kings of Aſſyria have done unto all lands, by deſtroying them utterly; and ſhalt thou be delivered?] See Chap.36.19,20.& 10.13,14.

deſtroying them utterly] See Chap.11.15 them, that is, their Inhabitants: ſo ver.18.

V. 12. Have the Gods of the Nations delivered them, which my fathers have deſtroyed?] Or, Could the Gods of the Nations, whom my fathers deſtroyed, deliver them? See on Chap. 36. 20.

as Gozan] A City of the Medes, ſo called of the river, beſide which it was ſeated, 2 Kings 17.6.& 18.11. by Ptolomy termed, Gauzania.

and Haran] A city of Meſopotamia, called alſo, Charran, Gen.11.31. Act.7.4. it is joyned with Eden and Aſhur, Ezek. 27.23. and by Lucan, is termed, an Aſſyrian city.

and Rezeph] A city of the ſame region; in Ptolomy, called Reſapha.

and the children of Eden which were in Telaſſar] Children, that is, Inhabitants, or Natives; as chap. 11.14. Jer.2.16. of Eden, a region in Meſopotamia; or, as ſome, in Chaldea; but the former name, ſeems ſometime to include alſo the latter. (See Acts 7.2. with Gen.11.31.) ſo called from the delightſomneſs of it: for the word, it ſelf, ſignifies delicacy, or delight, Pſalm 36.8. Chap. 47.8. in the Eaſtern part thereof was that pleaſant Garden, or Paradiſe ſeated; wherein our firſt Parents at firſt were placed, Gen. 2. 8. See Ezek. 27. 23.

Telaſſar] Some, with one of the Chaldee Paraphraſts, would have this to be Reſen, a city mentioned, Gen. 10.12. Others, that Selucia, of which Strabo, lib.11. Some remains of the ancient name of it, ſeem to continue in the term, Thelda, found in Ptolomy; and Thilutha, mentioned by Marcelline, l.24. a place of great ſtrength, ſituate on an Iland, in the midſt of the River Euphrates: which yet, whether ſo called, as ſome would have it, as if it were Tell-Aſſhur, that is, a bank, ſet to keep out the Aſſyrian, may deſervedly be doubted: nor want thoſe, who ſuppoſe it to be the ſame with Elaſſar, Gen. 14.1. Of the term Tell, in the name of this, and divers other towns and cities, ſee on Jer. 30.18.

V. 13. Where is the King of Hamath, and the King of Arphad, and the King of the City of Shepharvaim, Henah, and Ivah?] Before he ſpake of their Gods, now of their Kings; whom their Gods, or Idols rather, could not ſave: nor can I accord with that learned Critick, who would have Melec, here, to be the ſame with Moloc, not a King, but an Idol. See Chap.36.19. and of Hamath, and Arphad: See chap.10.9.& 11.11. 1 Chr. 18.9. Jer.49.23.

Henah and Ivah] Theſe two, though omitted, chap.36.19. yet were before mentioned alſo in the firſt meſſage, 2 Kings 18.34. what places they were is very uncertain, little mention being made of them, ſave in this Aſſyrian Embaſſie. Some reſemblance of the one of them, to wit, of Hena, ſome deem to be found, in the term Ingiline (for the laſt letter of it, the Greeks expreſs oft, by G. ſee on chap.1.9.) the name of a territory bordering upon Meſopotamia, whence the Herïticks, called Angelici, are by ſome deemed to have had their denomination. See Epiphanius, Hereſie, 60. though ſome other ſuppoſe it to be Ange, a city of Arabia the fertile, mentioned by Ptolomy. The other of them called Ivah here, ſeems to be the ſame with that, which is termed Avah, 2 Kings 17. 24. which ſome would have to be the land of the Avits, who dwelt ſometimes in the Philiſtines country, untill driven from thence, they ſeated themſelves, as they think, in Arabia, the deſart. See Deut.2.23. for as thoſe Avits, mentioned, Joſh. 13.3. divers, both of Jewiſh Writers, and ours, deem them to be no other, then the Hivits, Exod. 23. 23. one letter being put there for another.

V. 14. And Hezekiah received the letter from the hands of the Meſſengers, and read it.] Hence it appears, that the meſſage it ſelf, was ſent to him in writing; though it be not unlikely, that the Meſſengers, as occaſion was, would, by words of mouth, be preſſing the ſame things. See ver.9,10.

letter] Heb. books, 2 Kings 5.5-7. Jer.29.1. in the plurall, as here, 1 Kings 21.8. 2 Kings 10.1.& 20.12.

went up] Becauſe it ſtood on high, and they went to it by degrees, Chap.2.3. Ezek.40.6. or, ſimply went thither, as ver.1. See Chap.7.1,6. So Chap.28.22.

and ſpread it before the Lord] Not that God might read it, as himſelf had done; as if otherwiſe he could not have notice of it, or were not ſufficiently acquainted with it already; but that by the tender of it thus, as before Gods face, he might expreſs the earneſtneſs of his deſire, that God would be pleaſed to take ſpecial notice of it, and to induce him the rather ſo to do. A learned Interpreter rendreth it, and he read it before the Lord: and a word, almoſt the ſame with that here uſed, differing only in the diverſe placing of a point (as Sibboleth, and Shibboleth, Judg.12.6.) ſignifies ſometime, to expound, Neh.8.8. whence ſome have thought, that the Phariſees had their name: but neither is that here uſed; nor is either of them found uſed for to read.

V. 15. And Hezekiah prayed unto the Lord, ſaying] Heb. before the Lord: as Pſalm 40.2.

V. 16. O Lord of Hoſts, God of Iſrael] See Chap.1.9. and 17.6.& 45.15.

that dwelleſt between the Cherubims] Who doſt in a conſpicuous manner, exhibite and manifeſt thy ſelf, in thy Temple, as in thy Palace, the place of thy reſidence among thy people, and in it, more ſpecially, upon thine Ark, therein placed, as on thy Throne, or Seat of Eſtate, where thou wilt be convened, and ſought unto; and from whence thou haſt promiſed to hear, and to help, Exod.25.22. Num.7.89. 1 Chr.7.15. Pſalm 20.2,6.& 68.28,29.& 80.2.

dwelleſt] Heb. ſitteſt, as on thy Royal Seat, or Chair of Eſtate; as 1 Kings 2.12. Pſalm.9.4. or dwelleſt, or reſideſt; as in thy Palace, 2 Sam.7.2. Pſalm 132.13,14.

between the Cherubims] Or, Cherubim, or Cherub: for one note of plurality ſufficeth. See Seraphim, Chap. 6.1. The word Cherub, is of doubtful, both original, and ſignification. Some ſuppoſe, that both this, and the word Seraph, do in the firſt place ſignifie thoſe celeſtial ſpirits, that miniſter unto, and attend upon the moſt High, the Soveraign Lord of heaven and earth; and it ſeems to be, not improbable: for what other could, or ſhould be thoſe ſo termed? Gen.3.24. Ezek. 10. 3, 8,9. Though I conceive not on what ground it ſhould be affirmed, as by ſome it is, that either of their knowledge, or the abundance of it, they ſhould be ſo termed, there being ſomewhat indeed in the word, that may ſignifie abundance, nothing that hath any notion of knowledge. But the word here, as alſo in the ſtory of the furniture of the Sanctuary, and elſewhere, is moſt commonly uſed, for certain ſymbolical Images, whereby thoſe celeſtial Miniſters, were in a bodily ſhape repreſented, Exod.25.18,19. & 26.1,31. 1 King. 6. 23, 32,35. That they had a reſemblance of ſome living creature, cannot be doubted. For mention is made of their wings, Exod. 25. 20. 1 King.6.24. And ſome would have them to have been winged calves, or oxen; becauſe that which is called, the face of a calf, or, an ox, Ezek.1.10. is called the face of a Cherub, Ezek.10.14. Others, and ſo moſt of the Jewiſh Doctors, ſuppoſe them to have been, as we decipher them, like winged boyes: and their Criticks, ſome of them, would have them ſo termed, from the particle of ſimilitude; and the word rabi, or rabia, that ſignifies a boy: for the figure they give them, it is not improbable; but for the notation of the word, there is little likelihood of it: the word though in Chaldee and Syriack, ſo ſignifying; yet in Hebrew never ſo uſed. Nor do I ſuppoſe, that any inſtance of the like compoſition can be produced. The firſt letter ſeems radical, and the word to have been deduced from ſome Hebrew root, though now unknown. That ſeems more probable, that ſome other have, who ſuppoſe, that by a tranſpoſition of letters, (whereof many inſtances may in the Hebrew be given,) the word Cherub, may be deduced from the word Recheb, that ſignifies a chariot, both, for that the Cherubs, or Angels, are called Gods chariots, Pſal.68.17. and God is ſaid to come riding on a Cherub, as a Prince, or Commander on his horſe, or in his chariot, Pſal.18. 10. and that the name of a chariot, is expreſly given to the Cherubs, here mentioned, 1 Chr.28.18.for they are thoſe two that ſtood fixed on the lid of the Ark, called the Propitiatory, Exod.25.18,19. from whence God ſpake to Moſes, Num. 7. 89.

dwelleſt between the Cherubim] The word between, is not here in the text, nor in any of thoſe places, where this phraſe is uſed, 1 Sam.4.4. 2 Sam.6.2. 2 King.19.15. Pſal.80.2. So that it is no more in the text, then that ſitteſt the Cherubs, or, dwelleſt (that is, inhabiteſt) the Cherubs; ſitteſt on them: as he is ſaid, to ſtand over them, Ezek.10.18. or, to abide among, or between them, as he is ſaid, to ſpeak from between them, Num. 7.89. a repreſentation of his Majeſtical preſence, among his glorious Troops in heaven: and I ſhould chooſe rather to render it, that reſideſt, then (as the Greek and Latine) that ſitteſt; becauſe the ark, on the lid whereof theſe Cherubs were fixed, is called Gods footſtool, Pſal.99.5.

thou art the God, even thou alone, of all the Kingdomes of the earth] And, not of ours only, as Sennacherib ſuppoſeth, ver. 10. Ch.10.10,11. See Pſal.103.19. and Nebuchadnezzars confeſſion, Dan.4.17,32,34,35.

thou art] Heb. thou he: the pronoun for the verb ſubſtantive: as Chap.9.15. & 43.10,13. ver.19.

thou alone] Deut.6.4. Pſal.86.10. Chap.43.10,11.

thou haſt made heaven and earth.] The peculiar character of the true God; whereby he is diſtinguiſhed from all counterfeit gods, Pſal.96.5. & 146.6. Chap.42.5. & 45.24. Jer. 10. 11,12. & 32.17.

V. 17. Incline thine ear, O Lord, and hear; open thine eyes, O Lord, and ſee;] Hear their words, and behold his letter, v.14. that is, make it by ſome act and work to appear, that thou haſt heard the one, and ſeen the other, and takeſt notice of either. So Dan.9.18. See on ver.4.

Encline thine ear] A metaphor taken from thoſe, that bow down the head to liſten to ſuch as ſpeak to them, from below, and in ſpecial manner therefore attributed to God, whom, as ſitting aloft in the higheſt heavens, Chap.57.15. & 66.1. we ſpeak unto, from here below, Eccl.5.2. ſo Pſal. 31.2. Dan. 9. 18. yet is it uſed more largely; for as God is ſaid to encline his ear unto us; ſo are we ſaid to enclin[illegible] ear, alſo, to him. See Chap.55.3.

and hear all the words of Sennacherib, which hath ſent to reproach the living God] Or, who hath ſent: becauſe it is ſpoken of a perſon. Or, and of him, whom he hath ſent; as ſome render it, to wit, of Rabſhakeh, Chap.36.2. ver.4. ſee 2 King.19. 16. but the former ſeems the better, becauſe it needs no ſupply, nor is any defect apparent: for Rabſhakeh's words were his Maſters, delivered in his name, ch.36.4. beſide, that Ezekiah in this clauſe ſeems rather to have reſpect to the contents of the preſent letter, then to the words of the former meſſage; which he laid open to God before, verſ. 1. The words may be read, wherewith he hath ſent to reproach the living God, ſee ver.4.

V. 18. Of a truth, Lord, the Kings of Aſſyria have laid waſte all the Nations, and their Countries] Heb. Verily, Lord, &c.

all the Nations] Before mentioned. So it is, 2 King.19.17. but the Hebrew text here hath it, all the lands; lands, for nations of thoſe lands, as it is more fully expreſſed, 2 Chr.32. 13,17. So ver.11. See Chap. 66. 8. And there is in the words, a ſylleptical, or comprehenſive form of ſpeech; whereby two divers notions, are in one word comprized; the one expreſſed, the other implyed, and to be ſupplyed, to make the ſenſe up entire; when it is ſaid, have laid waſte nations and countries, for, deſtroyed the nations, and laid waſte their countries. See the like, Exod.20.18. they ſaw the thunderings, and the lightnings, and the ſound of the trumpet, for, they ſaw the one, and heard the other, Luk.1.64. his mouth opened, and his tongue that opened, this looſed, 1 Cor.3.2. I made you drink milk, not meat; for drink milk, eat meat, 1 Tim.2.12. I permit not a woman to teach, but to be in ſilence; permit not the one, command the other, 1 Tim.4.3. forbidding to marry, to abſtain from meats; inhibiting the one, enjoyning the other.

and their countries] Heb. countrey, or land, taken collectively, for countries, or lands; or diſtributively rather, for the country and land of each of them.

V. 19. And have caſt their gods into the fire] Heb. giving, for, giving have given: a defective form, as Chap.59.13. that is, have ſurely given, or caſt; (as the more uſual phraſe is, Judg. 1.8. & 20.48. Pſal.7.47. in all which places, yet there is an hypallage, or a kind of tranſpoſition(their gods (that is, their idols: as Pſal.96.5.) into the fire: as David dealt with the Philiſtines gods, 2 Sam.5.21. giving into the fire, for, caſting into the fire: as Ezek.15.4,6.

for they were no gods] Heb. they no gods, for, they were no gods: the pronoun for the verb ſubſtantive: as ver. 16. no gods, 2 Chr.13.9. Gal.6.8.

but the work of mens hands, wood, and ſtone, therefore they have deſtroyed them.] So Pſal.115.4. & 135.15. Chap.40.19, 20. & 44.12-17. Jer:10.3,4. Dan.5.4, 23. He mentioneth thoſe, the rather, of the baſer matter, becauſe thoſe the enemy leſs regarded, and therefore burnt them; whereas they made booty of thoſe that were of ſtuff more precious, chap.46.1. See Jer.43.12.

V. 20. Now therefore, O Lord our God, ſave us from his hand] Heb. And now: as Chap.36.5. hand, for power: as ch. 36. 15,18. do thou that for us, that their gods could not do for them, ver.12.

that all the Kingdoms of the earth may know, that thou art the Lord, even thou, only.] Pſal.83.18. Chap.59.19. See ver.16. thou, thou only: as, thee, thee only, Pſal.51.4. the gemination makes the ſentence the more vigorous.

V. 21. Then Iſaiah the ſon of Amoz ſent unto Hezekiah, ſaying] Heb. And: as Chap.36.22. ſent, in likelihood, by ſome Meſſengers, that the King had ſent unto him, as before, ver.2. to underſtand whether he had any further word of anſwer from God. See Jer.37.17.

Thus ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael] So ſtyled here, in way of oppoſition to thoſe ſorry gods, of other nations, as before, ver. 16.

whereas thou haſt prayed to me againſt Sennacherib King of Aſſyria] Or, what thou haſt prayed unto me for, againſt the King of Aſſyria, I have heard: ſo it is, 2 Kings 19. 20 and the word here uſed, though of more general extent in the uſe of it, yet in its original, having a notion of judicature in it, whence the ambiguity of it, Pſ.106.30. ſignifies properly, ſuch a prayer, wherin a man, though in all ſubmiſs & lowly manner, doth as it were debate the caſe with God, and plead the equity of that, which he ſueth unto him for. Such are thoſe of Moſes, Num.14. 13-19. of Joſhuah, Joſh. 7. 7-9. ſuch are divers in the book of Pſalms, Pſalm 7. & 10. & 13. & 74. & 88. & 89. & 115. and ſuch is this of Ezekiah; and the word therefore is very ſignificantly here uſed; as alſo again, Chap. 20.2. Some joyn the words thus to the former, Thus ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael, to whom thou haſt prayed. See the like ſyntax, chap.49.23.

V. 22. This is the word which the Lord hath ſpoken concerning him:] In way of anſwer to thy latter prayer, ver.15-20. or, as ſome, This is the thing (word, for thing, as Eccl.8.3.) that God commandeth, to be returned in way of anſwer, to him; but this ſeems to be over-ſtrained.

concerning him] Or, againſt him; as Jer.49.1,7.

The virgin the daughter of Zion hath deſpiſed thee, and hath laughed thee to ſcorn; the daughter of Jeruſalem hath ſhaken her head at thee] Or, The virgin daughter of Zion, deſpiſeth thee, and derideth thee; the daughter of Jeruſalem ſhaketh the head at thee. Some underſtand the words, as ſpoken, not of the Inhabitants of Jeruſalem, ſcorning and deriding Sennacherib; but of his ſcoffing and ſcorning them, thus rendring the text, He hath deſpiſed thee, and mocked thee, O virgin, daughter of Zion, he hath ſhaken his head at thee, O daughter of Jeruſalem. But the text will not bear it; for the pronouns are maſculine, the verbs feminine.

virgin daughter of Zion] Some ſuppoſe the term of virgin to be here given unto the city of Jeruſalem, becauſe ſhe had not hitherto been ſurpriſed or forced by any forrein power. But neither is that true; for Joaſh, King of Iſrael, took it, and pillaged it in Amaziah's reign, 2 Kings 14. 13,14. or doth it ſeem to be the true notion of this title, being given to other places, whereof that cannot be ſaid: Howſoever the Jewiſh Criticks ſay, that it is always to be ſo taken, where it is applyed to place or people. Others, therefore, would have it given to the Jewiſh people, the Inhabitants of Jeruſalem, as to Gods Church, which he had as a chaſt virgin eſpouſed to himſelf, chap.54.5. Hoſ.2.19,20. 2 Chron.11.2. Rev.14.4. and had as great care of, as any man or woman had of a darling daughter, abiding yet under their wing, chap.49.15,16. Zach. 2.5,8. but conſidering, the ſame term is given, even by this Prophet alſo, to other people; as to Sidon, chap.23.12. and to Babylon, chap.47.1. I ſuppoſe, it would rather be rendred, damſel, a term given to thoſe States, as in beauty, bravery, ſtatelineſs, and delicacy, reſembling a damſell of noble birth, and according to her parentage, curiouſly educated. But of the ſtyle, ſee more, on chap.1.8. & 23.12.

daughter of Jeruſalem] As before of Zion: for the place it ſelf, or the Inhabitants of it; as Jer.2.13. Sion, and Jeruſalem, the ſame, as chap.1.27. for as for thoſe, that by the daughter of Sion, would have underſtood the people of the upper city; by the daughter of Jeruſalem, the people of the lower city, it is over-nice; nor accordeth with thoſe other places of the Prophet, where both terms are likewiſe uſed, chap.2.3. & 4.3,4. & 10.12,32. & 24.23. & 31.4,5,9. as alſo is that of a learned Writer, who by the daughter of Abel, Zach.2.11. would have underſtood the region or territory of Babylon, whereof Babel was as the mother; becauſe inferiour towns are commonly called daughters, in relation to their mother city, Joſh. 15. 31,36,41.

ſhaken her head] Heb, the head, as Pſalm 22.7. they ſhake the head: which yet is more fully, Pſalm 109.25. and Lam. 2.15.

they ſhake their head: and ſo is not amiſs here rendred; ſhe ſhaketh her head: but then her ſhould be in a diverſe character, to note a defect of the pronoun, as Deut.25.12. and as ver.23. As he ſometime ſhook his hand, in menacing manner, at her, chap.10.32. ſo ſhall ſhe ſhortly ſhake her head in ſcorn and deriſion at him: ſee Ier.18.16.Mat.27.39.

at thee] Heb. after thee: When inſtead of thine hands, wherewith thou braggedſt that thou wouldſt do great matters, v.24. thou ſhalt be glad to betake thy ſelf to thine heels, and to turn thy back to her; a ſecret gird at his ſhamefull flight, ver.37.2 Chron.32.21.

thee] Sennacherib it is, whom he ſpeaketh unto, but calleth not by his name, as not vouchſafing to name him.

V. 23. Whom haſt thou reproached and blaſphemed?] Or, reviled? ſee ver.6.

and againſt whom haſt thou exalted thy voice, and lifted up thine eyes on high?] Doſt thou well know, and conſider with thy ſelf, who it is, againſt whom thou doſt ſo inſolently advance thy ſelf: ſee Exod.5.2.& 9.16,17.

and] Or, or; as chap.36.19.

exalted thy voice] In big words, and preſumptuous language: though alluding, it may be, alſo, to Rabſhakehs loud crying, chap.36.13.Heb. the voice; as chap.13.2. a defect of the pronoun, as ver. 4,22. ſupplyed, chap. 40. 9. and 58.1.

lifted up thine eyes on high] A lofty look, a ſign of an haughty heart, chap.2.12. ſee on chap.10.12. otherwiſe, the phraſe is uſed in no evill ſenſe, Gen.19.22.chap.40.22.

evill againſt the holy one of Iſrael] In blaſpheming his name, taunting his people, and traducing and diſgracing his Annointed: ſo Exod.5.2.& 9.17.Pſalm 2.1,2.& 74.19. & 89. 51. of the ſtyle given to God here, ſee on chap.1. 4. Some end the interrogation at voice? and read the reſt of the verſe, by way of enunciation: as ſhewing either wherein, or againſt whom he had carryed himſelf ſo inſolently; in that thou liſteſt up thine eyes on high; or, thou haſt even lifted up thine eyes on high, againſt the holy one of Iſrael: and ſo the inſertion of even, in our verſion, ſhould be needleſs, which yet is very frequent, ver.16,20.chap.41.12.& 43. 10,11,25. the copulative being put for that; as chap.22.20.or, even; as chap.27.1. But the received reading ſeems the better; becauſe more agreeable to the manner of our Prophet, whoſe common cuſtome is to expreſs the ſame thing, by divers notions, laid down in diſtinct branches, as in this very argument, chap.10.12. beſides, that it ſuiteth not ſo well, to ſay, thou exalteſt thy voice, in that thou liſteſt up thine eyes: or, the queſtion, being of the former, to return anſwer to it by the latter.

V. 24. By thy ſervants haſt thou reproached the Lord] Heb. By the hand of thy ſervants: as Exod.35. 29. chap.20.2. Jer. 27.3. it is, 2 Kings 19.23. thy meſſengers. See chap.36.2.& ver. 4,14,17.

and haſt ſaid] Or, in that thou ſaiſt: for that uſe of the copulative doth not amiſs here: ſee on ver.23.

By the multitude of my chariots, am I come up to the height of the mountains, to the ſides of Lebanon:] Or, With the multitude of my chariots. I have with my chariots, not with my foot forces only, got over the higheſt mountains that lay in my way, and I have brought them all ſafe over the tops of the hils, notwithſtanding the great number of them (a matter of no ſmall difficulty) partly, by cutting out, and levelling of ways for them, where the grounds were rough and rocky, (a practice alluded to, chap.40.3,4.) and partly, by felling of ſuch trees as obſtructed their paſſage. So did Xerxes make way for his Army through Athos, in his expedition againſt Greece, Herodote, l.7. Annibal over the Alps, into Italy, Livy, l.21. Veſpaſian in his march towards Jeruſalem, over the mountains of Judea, Joſeph of the Jewiſh war, l.3.c.11. which mountains ſeem to be by the Aſſyrian alſo here ſpecially intended, together with thoſe in his way thither, and chiefly thoſe about Jeruſalem, that ſeemed to make the acceſs thither the more difficult, Pſalm 125.2.

the height of the mountains] Or, the higheſt mountains, or hils; as Pſalm 95.4. and as afterward, the talneſs of cedars, for the talleſt cedars: and the choice of firres, for the choiceſt firres.

the ſides of Lebanon] One of the famouſeſt mountains in thoſe parts, mentioned, as one of the limits of the promiſed land, Deut.3.25. & 11.24.

and I will cut down the tall cedars thereof, and the choice firre trees thereof;] Or, I will cut down the talleſt of his cedars, and the choiceſt of his firres. Heb. tallneſſe, as Chap.10.33.Ezek.31. 5,10.) and choice: as Jer.22.7. either to clear his way for his army to paſſe, or to furniſh him with timber, for works and lodgings. See Chap.14.8. the meaning ſeems to be, that nothing could, or ſhould hinder him in his paſſage toward, and his approaches to Jeruſalem, which he principally aymed at. Howſoever, as he threatens to hew down Lebanon here; ſo God threatens elſewhere to hew down his Lebanon. See Chap.10.33,34. and ſo accordingly did, verſ. 36. But the words may well be rendred, in the time paſt, I have cut down, &c. and ſo the next, I have entred, &c. as the foregoing words were; thoſe enſuing, alſo, ver.25. ſo run; for he ſeemeth in this whole paſſage to vaunt of what he had done.

and I will enter into the height of his border, and the foreſt of his Carmel.] This paſſage is ſomewhat otherwiſe read in the book of Kings, 2 King.19.23. and the readings compared, will afford us the more light, whereby to find out the right meaning of the text. What is here termed merom, that is, height, or high place, rather: as Chap. 26.5. is there called melon, that ſignifieth an inne, Gen.42.27. Exod. 4.24. or, a lodge, or lodging, Chap.10.29. Ier.9.2. by both which terms, is, undoubtedly, the ſame thing meant; and ſomewhat it muſt be, about Mount Lebanon, or, appertaining thereunto: and I conceive it to be no other, then the tower of Lebanon, ſituate on the Eaſtern ſide thereof, with its proſpect towards Syria, Cant.7.4. called an high place; becauſe it ſtood aloft, and was high built, of purpoſe, to overlook the country before it: and, a lodge, or lodging, in regard of the garriſon, that being a frontier place, was, for the ſecurity of the place, lodged in it: though it is not improbable, that the Aſſyrian might alſo, in way of contempt, ſo term it, as a place, in his reckoning, of no more ſtrength, or worth, then a ſory lodge, in a park, or garden. See of Jeruſalem, ch.1.8. and of ſome other lands, Ch.24.20. In both places it is ſaid to be the high place, or, lodge, of its end; (ſo, rather then border; for which the Hebrews have another word,) becauſe it ſtood at one end of the mountain, looking toward Damaſcus, the head city of Syria, that lay Eaſtward from Judea, Chap.7.8. & 9.12. our Engliſh renders it, lodgings; as taken collectively, and intending not ſome one, but ſuch forts and holds as were on the frontiers thereabout ſituated, for the better ſecurity of the adjacent parts: nor is this interpretation altogether improbable: but admitted there, it ſhould have been accordingly, high places, here; the words following, in both places the ſame, are by divers good Interpreters, otherwiſe rendred, then our verſion hath them, not, and the foreſt of his Carmel, but (as the Hebrew points, though by the Jews themſelves, here not obſerved, lead unto, diſtinguiſhing between the two laſt words,) his foreſt, and field, or fruitful field: as the word is rendred, Chap.32.15. it is word for word in the Hebrew; and I will go; or, have gone, (gotten up) unto the high place of the end thereof, foreſt, field, or fertile field thereof: as if he had ſaid; having felled his trees, and ſo made paſſage for my army, I will march, or, have marched, with it, to his high garriſon tower, and ſo through his foreſt, to the fertile fields that lye below it. I am not ignorant, that the Jewiſh Interpreters here underſtand by Lebanon, the land of Judea; ſo called, ſay they, becauſe it is the higheſt ground in the world; (which what ground they have for, I know not: but know it certainly to be untrue) by the tall cedars, and firres, the great men of the land: as Chap. 2.13. by the high place, or lodging, the Temple, Gods dwelling, Pſalm 78.69. & 132.13,14. as alſo, that divers of our Writers tread in the ſame track; ſome conceiving the land of Judah to be meant here, likened to Lebanon, for height and ſtatelineſs; to Carmel, for fertility and pleaſantneſs. Others, by Lebanon, underſtanding Judea; by the foreſt, the wilder part of it; by Carmel, the manured; by the lodge, or inne, as they render it, Jeruſalem: and that Jeruſalem ſeems, ſometime, to be in Scripture called Lebanon, or to be likened, at leaſt, to it, appeareth, Ier.22.23. Zach.11.1. But that which I have before delivered, ſeems to me to be the genuine ſenſe of this place.

V. 25. I have digged, and drunk water] The text, 2 King. 19.24. is ſomewhat fuller, I have digged, and drunk ſtrange waters; that is, ſprings of water, where none appeared, and which had been formerly unknown. He boaſteth of his power and policy, that could find out means, to furniſh with water, ſuch a numerous army, as emptied the pools, and dryed up the rivers wheresoever they came. The Jewiſh Doctor, as he wideneth it too much, ſo, withal, he extenuateth it not a little, when he would have the meaning to be, I undertake no work, but that I finiſh; as thoſe, that wanting water, dig, till they find what to drink: of digging for water, ſee on Gen. 26.18-22. Num.21.27,28. Pſal.84.6. and of furniſhing with water, beyond expectation, where none to be had; that whereby God, at ſundry times, hath manifeſted, and is wont to magnifie his power, and his providence, and wherein this vain boaſter profeſſeth himſelf able to do ſtrange matters; See Exod. 17.1-6. Num.20.1-11. Judg. 15.18,19. 2 King. 3. 17, 20. Neh.9.20. Pſal.74.15. & 78.15,16. & 107.35. & 114.8. Chap.41.17,18. & 43.19,20.

and with the ſole of my feet have I dryed up all the rivers of the beſieged places] As if his army had been ſo great, that with their feet alone, they were able to dry up all the pools and rivers whereſoever they came; not unlike the Syrians vaunt of his forces, that he brought men more then enough, with him, to carry all the duſt of Samaria away in their fiſts, 1 King. 20.10.

20. 10. as alſo to what the Greeks report of Xerxes his army, that they ſhould drink whole rivers dry at a dinner. Juvenal, Satyre 10. See Herodote, lib. 7. and Juſtine, lib. 2.

with the ſole of my feet] as Pſal. 57. 6. or, footſteps, as Pſalm 85. 14. that is, whereſoever I ſet footing; as Joſh. 1. 3. I do with the multitude of men and beaſts, that I bring along with me, drink all dry. So ſome of the Jewiſh commenters. But other of them, rather, I dry up all with the very footing of them. And he ſpeaks it, as if the rivers were dryed up in a trice, ſo ſoon, as he ſet but the ſole of his foot on them: as Jordan was divided and dried up ſo ſoon, as the plants of the Prieſts feet, that bare the ark of God, touched the water thereof, Joſh. 3. 15, 16. For it ſeems to come far ſhort of the Aſſyrians boaſting, that ſome would have the meaning to be, that he dried up great rivers, incloſed with high and ſtrong banks; as Cyrus did Gyndes and Euphrates, Herod. lib. 1. Jer. 50. 38. to make them fordable for his forces.

have I dried up all the rivers] As the Pſalmiſt, of God; Thou drieſt up mighty rivers, Pſal. 74. 15. See Chap. 42. 15.

the rivers of the beſieged] Or, fenced, or, incloſed. Heb. rivers of obſeſſion, ſiege, or incloſure. See Chap. 19. 6. that is, either ſuch rivers and ſtreams, as running beſide cities, make them the more difficult to beſiege, and the better able to hold out a ſiege. Or, ſuch waters derived from ſome river, into pools and encloſures, made for that purpoſe. Some Jewiſh Criticks would by the word, here uſed, underſtand Egypt; becauſe the name in Hebrew comes neer unto it: as if he ſhould brag that he had dryed up the rivers of Egypt, which God threatens to do, Chap. 11. 15. but that another of them, not undeſervedly, controlleth the whole paſſage: ſome render in the future, I will dig and drink waters, and with the ſole of my feet, dry up all the waters of the ſiege, as aiming at Jeruſalem, and the preparations made by them, to furniſh themſelves with water; expecting a ſiege, Chap. 22. 9, 11. and the courſes taken by them to keep his army from water, by obſtructing the ſprings that might afford it them, 2 Chr. 32. 3, 4. He boaſteth therefore, that their endeavours, in either kinde, ſhould prove but loſt labour; he would dry up all their ſtore, and provide water ſufficient for his forces, by digging deep, and bringing of ſprings to light, where none had ever been ſeen, or dreamed of before. And this ſo well ſuiting with the ſtory it ſelf, would not lightly be rejected. Howſoever the words be rendred or read, the ſcope of this his vain vaunting, is to imply, that no place had been, or could be able to hold out againſt him, who was able, by his power and policy, to overcome all difficulties, to level mountains, and dry up rivers, for the freer paſſage of his forces, and yet to furniſh them, alſo, with all neceſſary proviſions, where they were moſt unlikely to be had.

V. 26. Haſt thou not heard long ago, how I have done it, and of ancient times, that I have formed it?] Hitherto was Sennacherib brought in vaunting of his own deſigns and doings; now God turneth his ſpeech again to him, controlling him for his folly. And as he told Ezekiah, that he could not but have heard, what his anceſtors, the Kings of Aſſyria, and he himſelf alſo, had done, ver. 11. So God demandeth of him, whether he had not heard from his Prophets, to whom he had revealed it, and by whom he had formerly publiſhed it, c. 48. 3. That God had in his ſecret counſel, deſigned all thoſe things to be done by his progenitors and himſelf, both concerning other nations, and concerning his own people, which he fondly arrogates to his anceſſors, and to himſelf, Deut. 32. 27. Ch. 10. 13. Whereas He and They, were all but Gods inſtruments therein, and had never, without him, been able to do what they did. See Chap. 7. 17, 20. & 10. 5, 6, 15. & 20. 4. So many, both of the Jewiſh Commenters, and ours. But divers other, go another way, reading the words, Haſt thou not heard, that I long ago did it, or, made it, and, or, that of ancient time I framed it? Applying the note of time; not to the Aſſyrians ear, but to Gods act; and expounding the text, Some, of the works that God had formerly done for his people, ſuch as the Aſſyrian king, here, vaunted of, in making a paſſage for them through the red ſea, Exod. 14. 21, 22. and through Jordan, Joſh. 2. 10. & 3. 16. but this ſeems not ſo probable. Others, of the city, and State of Jeruſalem, which he had founded and eſtabliſhed, Pſal 48. 8. & 78. 68, 69. & 149. 2. Chap. 14. 32. & 22. 11. And this ſeems very probable.

long ago] Heb. from afar. It is uſed ſometime of place, 2 Chron. 26. 15. Ezr. 3. 13. ſometime of time paſt, as here, & 2 King. 19. 25. to come: as 2 Sam. 7. 19.

how] Or, that: a defect of the particle, as Pſal. 55. 2. Chap. 10. 12.

I have done] Or, I made: as Chap. 44. 2. & 46. 4.

it] Or, this; as Pſalm 109. 27. as having reference to the thing, either ſpoken by Sennacherib, or done by God, Chap. 41. 20. or, her; that is, the city of Jeruſalem. Of which before, ver. 22. though not naming her here; but ſpeaking of her, as the only her that God regarded. So Jer. 33. 2.

of ancient times] Heb. from deyes of priority, or, antiquity: as Chap. 33. 7. that is, from eternity, ſay ſome; underſtanding it of Gods purpoſe, Chap. 25. 1. In former times; long ſince, ſay others, underſtanding it of his work, Chap. 44. 2. For thoſe Jewiſh maſters do but trifle here, that tell us of the Meſſias, and Jeruſalem, made before heaven and earth; and of Tophet, made for Sennacherib on the ſecond day of the world. See Chap. 30. 33.

formed it] Or, framed it. The word is taken from the potters act and art, in framing of earthen veſſels, Jer. 18. 3, 4, 6. that is, ſay ſome, decreed, determined, that it ſhould be done; as Chap. 14. 24, 26. Act. 2. 23. & 4. 2. Eph. 1. 11. 2 Tim. 1. 9. 1 Pet. 1. 20. As the potter conceives in his minde before-hand, the faſhion of that which he intendeth to frame, See Chap. 26. 3. & 29. 16. Others, framed, and effected it by mine own might, without help of nature, or humane art, or force; as Gen. 2. 6, 8. Chap. 45. 18. But as others, rather, formed, or, framed her. This city and State, the framer whereof, he is in a more ſpecial manner, by this Prophet, oft ſaid to be, Chap. 43. 1, 21. & 44. 2, 21, 24. and 64. 8.

now have I brought it to paſs, that thou ſhouldſt be to lay waſte fenced cities, into ruinous heaps] What I formerly purpoſed, ſhould be effected concerning thoſe nations and cities, which I would have deſtroyed, that have I now done by thee, Chap. 24. 1, 10, 12. & 25. 2. & 26. 5. & 27. 10. Or, as others, reading the words, by way of interrogation, And now ſhould I bring it to be laid waſte, and fenced cities to be ruinous heaps? or, to be ruinous heaps, as fenced cities? Should I ſuffer this place, which I ſo framed, to be laid waſte, and deſtroyed by thee, as if I had founded it to no other end? See Chap. 45. 18. and that thou ſhould do with it, or the cities belonging to it, as thou haſt done with ſome others, verſ. 18. See Jer. 33. 2, 6.

have I brought it] Or, ſhould I bring her to that paſs? A potential ſenſe: as Chap. 26. 9.

that thou ſhouldeſt be to lay waſte] Or, that it, or, ſhe ſhould be laid waſte. Heb. and, (for that; as Chap. 16. 12.) thou, or, it, or, ſhe (for the ſecond perſon maſculine, and the third feminine, or neuter, are in this form the ſame) ſhall be to lay waſte, or, unto vaſtities, or, deſolations; (for ſome make it a noun, as the like word, Pſal. 73. 19. & 74. 3.) or, that thou ſhouldeſt be to lay her, or, it waſte: for ſo the words alſo may well be rendred; and the want of the pronoun is very rife, Chap. 31. 5. verſ. 22.

to lay waſte defenced cities into ruinous heaps] That is, to lay waſte, by bringing them, or by laying waſte, to bring them, to ruinous heaps. To lay them waſte in that manner, that they become ruinous heaps. A defective form of ſpeech; ſuch as ver. 18.

ruinous heaps] Or, heaps over-grown; to wit, with graſs, weeds, ſhrubs, and other-like traſh, as waſte places are wont to be. So the word not elſewhere found, ſave Jer. 4. 7. is deemed to imply, from a word of the ſame notion of neer affinity with it. See Chap. 27. 10. & 32. 14. 1 Macc. 4. 38.

defenced cities] Either of other nations, Chap. 25. 2. or, of Judah and Jeruſalem; (ſee Jer. 34. 1.) whereof, though he took many, yet he razed them not, Chap. 27. 10. or, as the defenced cities, to make this city heaps, (Pſal. 79. 1.) as ſome other, ſo ſerved by him: which albeit the Chaldeans were afterward ſuffered to do, Mic. 3. 12. yet the Aſſyrian never did. The note of ſimilitude ſupplyed; as ver. 27.

V. 27. Therefore their inhabitants were of ſmall power; they were diſmaied, and confounded] Heb. And; as ver. 20. So read, it renders a reaſon why thoſe cities were by the Kings of Aſſyria, ſo purpriſed and ruinated; to wit, becauſe the inhabitants of them had no power of hand, or courage of heart to withſtand them: and therfore they were ſo enfeebled and diſheartened, becauſe it was God that brought that evil upon them: ſo Exod. 23. 27, 28. Joſh. 2. 11, 12. & 5. 1. Howbeit, it may as well be read, Whoſe inhabitants. And they, for, whoſe; as, and he, for, who; Mal. 3. 1. compared with Mat. 11. 10. and ſo it proceeds to relate the condition of the perſons, as well as of the places, that had, by the Aſſyrians, been ſubdued.

of ſmall power] Heb. ſhort, or, ſhortened of hand; as Chap. 50. 2. & 59. 1.

they were as the graſs of the field, and as the green hearb on the houſe-tops, and as corn blaſted before it be grown up] An extream weakneſs and feebleneſs; or a ſoon and ſudden deſtruction, or both, by divers lively reſemblances copiouſly deſcribed.

as] A defect of the note of ſimilitude: very common in Scripture; that yet needed not to have been ſupplyed, ſave in the firſt branch. See the like, Pſal. 11. 1. Chap. 33. 11, 12.

the graſs of the field] Heb. hearb; as Deut. 32. 2. ſee Pſal. 90. 5, 6. & 102. 4, 11. & 103. 15. Chap. 40. 6. Mat. 6. 30. that is eaſily trodden down by the foot, not of wild beaſts onely, 2 Chr.25. 18. but of the leaſt, and feebleſt cattle. See Chap. 26. 6.

the green herb on the houſe-tops] Or, green tender herb; as it is rendred,Deut. 32.2. Job 38.26. or, tender graſs; as 2 Sam. 23.4. Prov. 27. 25. graſs; ſimply, Gen. 1. 11, 12. Job 6. 5. Chap.15.6. Jer.14.5. herb; as here,Pſal.37.2. Chap. 66. 14. It is deemed, properly, to ſignifie the firſt putting forth of ought that ſprings out of the ground,as the former; the ſame when it is come to ſome growth, as the green herb: ſo Pſal. 129. 6.

corn blaſted before it be grown up] Heb. blaſting before ſtanding; as ſtanding, for; ſtanding corn, (of which defect, ſee on Chap. 17. 5.) ſo blaſting, for,corn of blaſting; that is, blaſted. The abſtract, for the concrete,as chap.35.1, 7. the word moſt commonly is ſuppoſed to ſignifie arable ground; for which purpoſe,a dry Soyl is wont to be preferred before a moyſt. It is here only uſed for blaſting, by the Hebrew Criticks therefore deemed,through the change of a letter, to deſcend from another root,that ſignifies to blaſt, Gen.41. 6, 23. and the word indeed uſed,2 King.19.26.is apparently ſo: Whence it is alſo manifeſt,that either the Scribes pen ſlipt here in a letter,(the letters of either word being much alike)or, that both words,though differing in a radical letter, were uſed for one and the ſame thing. Howbeit,a late learned Writer,retaineth the word here in that other ſenſe, rendring it, as a land, or arable ground,before corn, to wit, be ſown in it,while it lyeth fallow. But the other term here uſed, ſignifieth properly corn,not as ſown,or ſprouting out,but ſtanding;got to height, and expecting harveſt; and the parallel place in the Story, requireth to take it the other way.

V. 28. But I know thine abode, and thy going out, and coming in,and thy rage againſt me] I am well acquainted with thy doings at home,thine enterpriſes abroad, all thy counſels, all thy courſes; and take notice of thine inſolent carriages againſt me.

I know] Not,as I know the ways of the righteous, by way of approbation, acceptation, and care to give a good iſſue to them,Pſalm 1.6.but by a general notice of them; in that they neither are,nor can be concealed from me, Pſalm 94. 11. & 139.1-4.and by a ſpecial notice, alſo, that I take of them, in due time to deal with thee, for them, as,for them, thou deſerveſt to be dealt with, Jer.17.10. & 48.30. Hoſ.5.3. Amos 5.12.

thine abode] As Gen.24.55.or thy dwelling: as Jer.9. 6. as we ſay to one,that takes overmuch upon him; we know where you dwell,Sir: or,thy ſitting: as Pſalm 139.2.Lam.3.63. thine abode at home,and what thou doſt there, becauſe oppoſed to buſineſs abroad: ſo Deut.6.7.& 11.19.

thy going out,and thy coming in] As Deut. 28.6,19. Pſalm 121.8.

thy rage againſt me] Heb. thy raiſing up of thy ſelf (in a rageing manner) againſt me: the verb is not found any where in this emphatical and reciprocal form, ſave in this argument: the prepoſition ſignifying uſually unto,is uſed here for againſt, as chap.33.11.el,for al,as Jer.47.5,7.& 50.7,26,29.& 51.1. So in the next verſe.

V. 29. Becauſe thy rage againſt me, and thy tumult is come up into mine ears] Heb. Thy raging; or,raiſing up of thy ſelf: as v.28.the verb infinitive,for the noun.

thy tumult] The word here uſed,doth moſt uſually ſignifie tranquility, Job 12.5. chap.32.11. & 33. 20. but here, and 2 Kings 19.28.tumultuation,as ſpringing from another ſtock; whence the word,that ſignifies a tumultuous noiſe,chap.13.4.& 17.12. & 66.6. and is framed with a reduplication of the laſt letter, to imply an intention of the thing thereby ſignified. Howbeit, ſome of the Jewiſh Commenters would have the word taken in his common ſenſe, reading the words (which they ſuppoſe defective) with ſupply from the former branch, and,or even,the rage of thy tranquility, that is, thence ariſing, or thereby procured; as Prov. 1. 32. but this ſeems overnice,and a nicety needleſs: not unlike the conceit of thoſe, that would deduce the word in this ſenſe,of noiſe and tumult, from that,of eaſe and tranquility; becauſe eaſe and tranquility, is wont to breed pride and inſolency,Jer.48.11.

is come up] So Pſalm 74. 23. the noiſe of thine adverſaries, the tumultuous noiſe of thoſe that riſe up againſt thee, goeth up continually. See 2 Chron.28.9.Ezr.9.6.Jon.1.2.

into mine ears] It makes ſo loud a cry, that I cannot but hear it,and take notice of it. So Gen.18.20.chap.5.9. Jam.5. 4. See ver.4.17.

I will put my hook into thy noſe,and my bridle in thy lips; and I will turn thee back, by the way, by which thou cameſt.] Becauſe thou rageſt and raveſt on this wiſe, like ſome great unruly fiſh,or ſome fierce wild beaſt,or ſome head-ſtrong horſe,I wil take thee with my hook,or,I will ring thee & bridle thee, and lead thee whither I liſt; turn thee about, and make thee go the way thou wouldeſt not, turn thee back from the place thou principally intendeſt, and with ſhame and confuſion return thee to thine own home. So chap.30.28.

hook into thy noſe] Alluding either to a fiſh-hook, wherewith fiſh taken,are drawn which way the fiſher-man pleaſeth, Job 41.1.Ezek.29.4.& 38.1.Amos 4.1.or to ſuch rings as men put into the noſes of bears and bufales, to keep them in, and over-maſter them with, Ezek.19.4,9. or,to a chain,or collar, put about the neck of a dog, or ſome other beaſt, with a cord or leaſh faſtened thereunto, whereby to lead him, as ſome of the Jewiſh Maſters would have it; but the mention of the noſe,ſeems not well to admit it; and the moſt of them go the firſt way; I ſhould rather the ſecond.

my bridle in thy lips] My bridle, or ſnaffle, or bit; as it is rendred, Pſalm 32.9. where, from bridle, it is diſtinguiſhed; and the Jewiſh Doctors affirm it to be an inſtrument made of iron to put into beaſts mouths; in thy lips, that is, in thy mouth; wherewith to rein and reſtrain thee,and to keep thee within compaſs, as the rider doth the horſe with bridle and bit,whereby he hath him at command, Pſal.32.9. & Prov.26. 3.chap.30.28.Jam.3.3. and turn thee back by the way that thou cameſt] See verſe 34.

V. 30. And this ſhall be a ſign unto thee;] God now turneth his ſpeech from Sennacherib, whoſe dimiſſion, or mittimus,he had now ſigned, ver. 29. as his miſſion,and commiſſion before,chap.10.6.unto Ezekiah,whoſe faith to confirm,in the aſſured expectation of his ſpeedy delivery, he confirmes his prediction and promiſe of it, with a ſign,though of a thing afterward to enſue. See on chap.9.6. and the like, Exod.3.12. I am not ignorant,that ſome,both of the Jewiſh Writers, and ours, ſuppoſe, that Sennacherib ſhould upon the report of Tirhakahes coming againſt him,withdraw his forces from Jeruſalem,go forth to meet him,paſſe into Egypt, having ſpent two years in that expedition, return again to the ſiege of Jeruſalem, and receive that fatall diſcomfiture there; and ſo it ſhould be, a ſign antecedent, not ſubſequent, to the main matter, to be thereby aſſured. But theſe things are ſpoken without any ground of ſtory, ſacred, or other; nor ſeem to ſuit ſo fitly with the relation of the Pen-men of Scripture, either here,or in the other holy records,2 Kings 20.& 2 Chr. 32. See ver.36.

ye ſhall eat this year that which groweth of it ſelf; and the ſecond year, that which ſpringeth of the ſame; and in the third year, ſow ye,and reap, and plant vineyards, and eat the fruit thereof.] A ſign of this nature,God was pleaſed to aſſign them;not only thereby, to aſſure them of further indemnity from the Aſſyrian, and deliverance out of their preſent difficulties and diſtreſs,but to encourage and comfort them alſo,againſt thoſe diſtracting thoughts, that might ariſe in their minds, concerning neceſſary proviſions, for them and their families, when the ſiege ſhould break up,the land being ſo waſted by the Aſſyrians,and ſuch ſpoil made of all, as by an enemy is wont to be, in a country that is not his own,chap.1.7.for God hereby engageth himſelf, ſo to provide for them,that from thoſe very returns of their land, that it ſhould of it ſelf yeeld, notwithſtanding the havock that the enemy had made, and the want of liberty and opportunity to till and manage their grounds,they ſhould have food ſufficient,both for the preſent year,and the next.

ye ſhall eat] That is,thy people, the Inhabitants of Jeruſalem and Judah, ſhall eat, that is, have food ſufficient to ſuſtain them,as chap.65.3. Heb.eating,a defective ſpeech: for eating,ye ſhall eat: ſee the like,chap.59.13.

this year] Heb. the year, as Jer.28.16.ſo,the day,for this day; or,to day, as Jer.1.10,18.

that which groweth of it ſelf] So is the word uſed, Lev. 25.5.11.where it is enjoyned, that in the Sabbatical year, or year of ceſſation,or intermiſſion, they ſhould not till their grounds, nor prune their trees, nor reap the encreaſe of the one,nor gather the fruit of the other; but let all ly common, and eat out of the field only from hand to mouth, as we ſay, that which came up of its own accord, either forth of the ground,by grain and ſeed,the year before, ſhed; or from off their trees,without any husbandry uſed about them; God engaging himſelf, by promiſe, ſo to bleſſe them with encreaſe, the fore-going year,that the proceed of it ſhould afford ſtore ſufficient,both for that year,and the next alſo, untill the harveſt time came,of what had been that year ſown, and the gathering of their fruits from the trees, that year dreſſed, Lev. 25.20-22. Now hence ſome gather, that the fourteenth year of Ezekiah (for in that year it was that Sennacherib invaded Judea) was a Sabbaticall year; and that ſhould be the reaſon,why that year, they ſhould feed upon ſuch things, as the ground,unmanaged,ſhould yeeld. Others, that not this year,but the next,was the Sabbatical year; and that this year being hindred from tilling and ſowing,by the enemies invaſion; and the land therefore affording nothing to ſuſtain them, but what the ground of it ſelf yeelded; and the next year being a Sabbatical year, wherein,by the law,they were inhibited to ear, or ſow ought, they muſt upon that year feed on that which ſprang up, from what came of it ſelf the year paſt. Others drive off the Sabbatical year, one year further, to the ſixteenth of Ezekiah, the hindrance from tilling and ſowing, ſay they, being in the fifteenth, from the enemy; in the ſixteenth, from the law. To examine ſtrictly thoſe diſſenting opinions, and compute exactly the Sabbatical years, from the firſt obſervation of them, unto theſe times, is a matter of much difficulty, and would require a far longer diſcourſe, then theſe Annotations will admit. Sufficient it is, that God here promiſeth, that for two years together, they ſhould have a competence of ſuſtenance from that, which their land, untilled and unmannaged, ſhould afford them of it ſelf, notwithſtanding the great waſte that the enemy made of it, and the fruits of it. See Iudg.6.3-5.

that which ſpringeth of the ſame] This to be the meaning of the word, here uſed, is generally, in a manner, agreed: howſoever the Rabbines, ſome of them, add frivolous fables of fruit-trees, by miracle ſuddenly ſhooting up again, and bearing fruit, where the enemy had cut them down; and of corn, in like manner, where it had been burnt down by the enemy: as alſo, Popiſh Commenters, in favour of their old Latine verſion, of their feeding the ſecond year on apples, and the like, only. The word is no where elſe found, but here, and (with a tranſpoſition of letters; the like whereunto, is in other words alſo obſerved) in 2 King.19.29.

ſow ye] Ye ſhall have liberty, without either impeachment from the enemy, or inhibition, otherwiſe, to ſow, and reap freely, and quietly to enjoy the fruits of your lands and labours. Pſal.128.2. of this uſe of the imperative form, ſee on chap.36.16. The words imply a plenty of proviſions, that their land, then tilled, ſhould afford them, with much comfort and cheerfulneſſe to be enjoyed by them, Deut.8.7-10. chap.65.13. See chap.4.2.& 30.23-25.

V. 31. And the remnant that is eſcaped of the houſe of Judah, ſhall again take root downward, and bear fruit upward] From the promiſe of a bleſſing, more then ordinary, upon their land, he paſſeth to the like, concerning the State, and themſelves; That albeit, they had been much diminiſhed and impoveriſhed, by the Aſſyrian invaſion; yet thoſe that remained of them, having eſcaped the Aſſyrian Sword, ſhould thrive and proſper; and the State that was thereby ſo ſhrewdly ſhaken, that it ſeemed ready to fall to the ground, ſhould be ſetled again, and reſtored to the ſame, or to a better and more flouriſhing condition, then it enjoyed before thoſe broils. See the like promiſe, chap.27.6. and the complement of it, 2 Chr. 32.22,23.

the remnant that is eſcaped of the houſe of Judah] Heb. the eſcaping of the houſe of Judah that remaineth, or, is left; chap. 4.2.& 10.20. Ezr.9.15.

ſhall again take root] Heb. ſhall add to root, as chap.10.20. & 52.1. to root, for to take root, as chap.40.24. Jer.12.2. a metaphor from plants or trees, that being ſorely ſhaken, and looſned with violent hands, yet ſettle, faſten, and take firm hold again at the root.

downward] As trees, which the lower they ſhoot down with the root, become the more firm. See Virgil, of the eſculus, a kind of Oke, in his Poems of Husbandry, l.2.

bear fruit upward] Shall become ſo conſpicuous, like a tree laden with fruit, that to other people abroad, their thriving and proſperity ſhall appear, Chap. 4. 2. & 60.21,22. & 61. 3,9.

V. 32. For out of Jeruſalem ſhall go forth a remnant, and they that eſcape out of mount Zion] There ſhall be a certain number of people, who having eſcaped the Aſſyrians ſword and hand, by repairing to Jeruſalem, and continuing there in ſafety, ſhall, when the ſiege is broken up, and the enemy gone out of the land, return in peace to their former poſſeſſions, and wonted places of abode, and be ſetled again in them. See the like, Jer.4.5.& 34.11.& 37.11,12.

go out] Either to view the enemies camp, now left, and to gather the ſpoyls of thoſe that came to ſpoyl them: ſo ſome, as Chap.33.23,24. or, rather, to return to their own dwellings again, from which, for fear of the enemy, they had fled; and others of the city, to their lands and poſſeſſions abroad, which, for fear of the enemy, before, they durſt not do, Chap.33.17.

a remnant] A ſmall company remaining, in regard of thoſe multitudes that had miſcarried in the troubles of the times, Chap.1.9. & 10.21,22. & 17.6.

they that eſcape] Heb. an eſcaping: as Chap. 10.20, verſ.31.

the zeal of the Lord of hoſts ſhall do this.] This God will do, out of a due regard to his own glory, and a fervent affection of love to his people: as Chap.9.7. verſ.35. Ezek.36.5.

V. 33. Therefore, thus ſaith the Lord, concerning the King of Aſſyria] Heb. unto the King of Aſſyria: as in the next words, unto this city: but ſo is the particle uſed, alſo, ch.29.22.

He ſhall not come into this City] Heb. unto this City; as Joſh. 8.5. though it be uſed alſo for into, as 2 King.7.12. but here rather, unto; he ſhall not ſo much as come at it, much leſſe enter into it, and ſurprize it, as he made full account to do. For the truth is, Sennacherib never came himſelf, in perſon, to Jeruſalem, though he ſent men and meſſengers thither. See Chap.36.1,2. ver.9,34.

nor ſhoot an arrow there] Nor ſhoot ſo much as an arrow into the city, to annoy, or hurt any there; or to ſtrike down thoſe, that, for defence, might appear upon the walls; though it is not unlikely, that his army lying before it, and neer unto it, would be exerciſing of their archery. Heb. and he ſhall not: and ſo afterward thrice repeated; adding much vehemency and vigour to the ſentence.

nor come before it with ſhields] Heb. with ſhield: not that his army came thither unarmed; or without ſhields, for defence, with ſwords and weapons of offence only: but that either he ſhould not in perſon ſo preſent himſelf with his guard of ſhield-bearers, (whereof, ſee 1 King.10.16,17. 2 Chr. 9. 15,16. & 12.9-11.) or with his forces, ſo furniſhed, to make any aſſault upon the city. Some learned, conceive by ſhields, to be meant, here, a kind of military frame, conſiſting of a great number of ſhields, joyned together, ſomewhat like the tiling, or ſhingling of a roof, by the Latines called teſtudo; becauſe their ſhield reſembled a torteiſes ſhell, under the covert whereof, being thereby ſecured againſt ſhot of arrows and ſtones, that might be caſt down upon them, they made their approaches to the walls of cities beſieged, or aſſaulted. Of this, ſee Livy, l.44. Ammian, l.26. and Vegetius, l.2. c.16. But whether this device were ſo ancient, as theſe times, or no, may be doubted.

nor caſt a bank againſt it.] So 2 Sam.20.15. or, mount; as it is ſometime rendred, Jer.6.6. Ezek.4.2. ſo the Chaldee here underſtands it: and the notation of the word may ſeem to carry it this way. For it comes of a word that ſignifies to caſt up: and it is uſed, commonly, of the caſting up of earth, to make a cauſey, or caſt-way: thence ſo termed, Chap.62.10. of the uſe thereof, in war, and ſiege of cities, ſee Hab.1.10. Howbeit, the Hebrew Doctors (whom divers of ours follow, rendring it, nor diſcharge an engine,) affirm it to be an engine; ſuch as the Romanes call baliſta; wherewith they uſed to caſt great ſtones, with much violence, either againſt the walls of cities and forts beſieged, or into the forts and cities themſelves, to this purpoſe preſſing, Jer.6.6. where mention is, of cutting down wood to make ſuch withal; and Ezek.17.17. where towers are joyned with them, from the tops whereof, they uſed to diſcharge them. Of the engine, ſee Ammian, l. 23. and Vegetius, l.4. c.22. See of the like, 2 Chron.26. 15. The word is here in the ſingular number, as thoſe, alſo, of arrow and ſhield, before; though collectively taken, to make the ſpeech more emphatical: he ſhall neither ſhoot arrow into it, nor come with ſhield before it; nor diſcharge engine againſt it: and it is alwayes joyned with a verb, that ſignifies to pour out; which helps to confirm this latter opinion, concerning the right ſignification of it; it hath its original from being lift up; its conſtruction, from the uſe of it, in throwing, or pouring out ſtones, and the like. See, beſides the places already cited, Ezek.21.27. & 26.8. Dan.11.15. and there ſeems to be a defect in the phraſe, to caſt, or, pour out the baliſt, for, to pour out ſtones with the baliſt: as, to throw out, or ſhoot the bow, for, to ſhoot arrows with the bow, Pſal.78.9. Jer.4.29. our term of diſcharging, doth very fitly expreſſe it.

V. 34. By the way that he came, by the ſame ſhall he return] So verſ.29. A proverbial form of ſpeech, having in it an intimation of ſome attempt, without iſſue, or of labour in vain. He ſhall go as he came, and loſe all his labour: as Jer.14.3. But it ſeems here to import ſomewhat more; to wit, an ignominious return, with ſome few ſcattered troops, thorow thoſe countreys, by which he had marched in great ſtate, with ſuch a gallant and numerous army, before. See Chap. 10. 8. and verſ.14, 15, 37.

and ſhall not come into this city, ſaith the Lord,] or unto: ſee verſ.33. The ſame thing is repeated, and Gods own word again given upon it: he began with it, and concludeth with it, and ſirms to it, to give the ſtronger aſſurance of it; becauſe it might ſeem a thing moſt improbable, almoſt incredible, that Sennacherib, having ſo great an hoſt with him at Libnah, not many miles from Jeruſalem, and a puiſſant army before Jeruſalem, yet ſhould not ſo much himſelf, as come thither: for what could be imagined, that ſhould ſtay, or hinder him from ſo doing? And they much diminiſh the force and weight of Gods words, when they render them, he ſhall not come into this city; beſides, both the prime and moſt proper uſe of the particle, and ſhort of that, which the ſtory it ſelf holds out.

V. 35. For I will defend this City to ſave it] Heb. I will ſhield, (for thereof cometh the word ſhield, uſed, ver.33.) or, fence, (for thereof, alſo, cometh the name of a garden, as a place fenced, and encloſed, Cant.4.4.) this City, to ſave it (ſee for mine own ſake] In regard of mine own glory; which this inſolent varlet endeavours ſo to obſcure and debaſe: ſo elſewhere, I wrought for my names ſake, Ezek.20.9,14,22,44. & 36.21,22. See ver.32.

2 Chr.32.22.) that which no other fence, without him, could effect. See Pſ.1.5.12. & 32.10. Zach.2.5.

and for my ſervant Davids ſake] See Chap.29.1. & 38.5. To ſhew thereby his entire and conſtant affection to David, and high eſteem of him, in doing good to, and taking care of, the ſafety and welfare of his ſeed, for him, Exod. 20. 6. & 34. 7. (ſee Ruth 2.20. 1 Sam.22.22,23. 2 Sam.9.3.) and to make his word and promiſes good unto him, concerning the eſtabliſhment of his houſe, 2 Sam.7.11.15,26. Pſal.89. 29, 35,36. & 132.11,12. So 1 King. 11.12,13,32,34,36,38. & 15. 4, 5. 2 King.8.19. hence the ground of thoſe prayers, 1 King. 8. 25,26. Pſal.132.1,10.

my ſervant] The ſtyle that God is wont to give unto thoſe, whom he will thereby ſhew, in more ſpecial manner, to affect and reſpect: as to Moſes, Num.12.7,8. to Job, Job 1.8. & 2. 3.& 42.7,8. to David, moſt frequently, 2 Sam.7.5,8. 1 King. 11.13,36,38. See the ſame promiſe and paſſage with this, 2 King.20.6. Chap.38.6.

V. 36. Then the Angel of the Lord went forth; and ſmote in the Camp of the Aſſyrians an hundred and fourſcore and five thouſand] The complement of that which had been more then once before threatned, Chap.10.12,16-18,33,34. & 14. 25. & 30.27-33. & 31.8. & 33.23.

Then] That is, as many Interpreters, ſome two year after the prayer of Ezekiah, and Gods promiſe, by Eſay, concerning the deliverance of his people, ver.35. For they ſuppoſe, that Sennacherib, having upon Tirakahes riſing againſt him, withdrawn his forces out of Judea, and ſpent two years in the conqueſt of Ethiopia and Egypt, returned back to Ieruſalem, to renew the ſiege of it, and then received this blow. See ver.30. But theſe be meer ſurmiſes; for which no good record of antiquity, is produced: and the courſe of the relation being carried on in this manner, by a continued thred, without interruption, both here, and in the ſacred hiſtory elſewhere, 2 Chr. 32. 20,21. ſeems not to admit any ſuch diſtance between the one, and the other. Yea, the expreſſe words in the book of Kings, putteth the matter, in mine apprehenſion, out of all doubt. For the Pen-man of that book, or that part of it, wherein this ſtory is recorded, having related Sennacheribs firſt meſſage, together with an army ſent unto Ieruſalem, from Lachiſh, 2 King.18.17. the return of his meſſengers, back from thence, unto Libnah, whither, from Lachiſh he had removed, Chap.19.8. then the tidings brought him of the Ethiopians attempt againſt him, ver.9. and his ſecond meſſage thereupon, by letter, unto Ezekiah, ver.10-14. (all which muſt needs be, before any expedition into Ethiopia, or Egypt,) Ezekiah's prayer, preſently, upon the receit of the letter, ver.14-19. and Gods gracious anſwer, by Eſay, thereunto, ver.20-34. he ſubjoyneth immediately to prevent all miſtake in this kind, and excluding all conceit of any long delay in the execution of what God, by the Prophet, had promiſed; And it came to paſſe in that night, that an Angel of the Lord went out, ver.35. What night, but the very next after the meſſage, by the Prophet, ſent from God? Thus the links of the ſtory are ſo cloſe claſped together, that there is not the leaſt gap, or flaw left, for any ſuch disjuncture of time, to be forced in, without breach made in the chain it ſelf. In the Hebrew, both here, and there, it is, And: as Chap. 36. 3,9,11.

the Angel of the Lord] Or, an Angel of the Lord: not an evil ſpirit; as yet ſome; they are no where ſo ſtyled: but one of thoſe bleſſed Spirits, that are of Gods ſouldiery; which he is wont to make uſe of, as well for the protection of his people, as for the deſtruction of his and their enemies, Gen. 32.1,2. 2 King.6.14-17. Pſal.34.7. & 68.17. & 103. 20, 21. Heb.1.14.

went forth] From heaven, where theſe glorious Troops attend on Gods Majeſty, Matth.18.10. Luk.1.19. or, from the Lord, that ſent him, 2 Chr. 32.21. See Chap. 30. 27. or, went forth, in a warlike manner, about this work. For it is a military term, 2 Sam.11.1. See ver.9. and ſo ſome take it, Gen.10.11.

and ſmote] With plague and peſtilence, ſay ſome: as 2 Sam. 24.15,17. ſo, not Beroſus, as ſome miſtake it; but Joſeph the Jew, l.10, c.2. ſaith, that Sennacherib returning from the conqueſt of Egypt, found his army thus conſumed with the peſtilence: but that ſeems not ſo likely, becauſe the noiſomneſſe of ſuch a malady, would have infected the whole country; with thunder and lightning, ſay other: which is not altogether improbable. See Chap.30.30. or, with an hidden combuſtion, that ſcorched and killed them. See Chap. 10. 16,17. which, ſay ſome of the Jewiſh Writers, did ſo conſume their bodies to aſhes, that neither the land might be annoyed with their carcaſſes, nor the people troubled with interring them; and yet neither burnt their garments, (no more then the fire did, that ſlew Aarons ſons, Levit.10.2,5.) nor defaced their ornaments, that the people might enjoy their ſpoils. See Chap.10.16. & 33.23.

In the camp of the Aſſyrians] As ſome, lying before Libnah, where Sennacherib himſelf, with a great party of it was, ver. 8. Others, ſet down before Ieruſalem, whither no ſmall body of it had been ſent to beleaguer it, while the reſidue ſtayed at Lachiſh, Chap.36.2. there being no mention, nor probability of the departure of it, as yet, from thence; though it be not unlikely, that ſome ſuch matter was intended, had not this ſudden blow prevented it: and here ſome proceed ſo far, as to particularize the place, where this blow was given; ſome affirming it, to have been in the valley of Jehoſhaphat, 2 Chr. 20.25,26. Joel 3.12. Others, in the valley of Gehinnom, Joſh. 15.8. Chap.30.33. But theſe are meer uncertainties. I ſuppoſe the ſlaughter was made, as well in the one part of his camp, as in the other; as well in that before Ieruſalem, as in that alſo before Libnah. Nor was the diſtance of place between the one, and the other, ſuch as could impeach the diſpatch of that execution; by an Angel, in an inſtant, when as within ſo ſhort a ſpace of time, an Angel, in likelihood, ſlew all the firſt born, throughout the whole land of Egypt. Compare Chap. 30.27,30-32. with this place, and Exod. 12.22, 29. with Heb.11.28. and 1 Cor.10.10. what God is ſaid to do in the one, an Angel is ſaid to do, in the other: becauſe by the Miniſtery of an Angel it was done. See Chap.31.8.

an hundred and fourſcore and five thouſand] A great ſlaughter indeed, as it is termed, Chap. 30. 25. and a ſlaughter of great ones, there termed towers; for ſo it is ſaid, 2 Chr. 32. 21. The Lord ſent an Angel, which cut off all the mighty men of valour, and the Leaders and Captains in the Camp of the King of Aſſyria. Rabſhakeh, in likelihood, with his Companions, among the reſt. See Chap. 10. 16,33. where theſe great ones are called his glory, his lofty boughes, and his tall trees; as the meaner ſort of them, that make up this reckoning, his thorns, and his thicket, ver.17,34. for I cannot believe what ſome of the Iewiſh Maſters groundleſly gather from that paſſage in the Chronicles, that this whole number ſhould conſiſt only of the former. This ſtory and remarkable paſſage of Gods providence, the Devil hath endeavoured to obſcure & deface, (as many other of the like nature, recorded in Scripture,) partly, by diſplacing of it, and partly, by blending of it with idle fictions of his own: this to effect, he hath made uſe of the Egyptians, who, therewith, to gain eſtimation to themſelves and their idols, relate, that Sennacherib invading their country, Sethon, a Prieſt of Vulcan, who was then their King, being upon ſome diſguſt deſerted by his ſouldiery, and in regard thereof, in great diſtreſſe, betook himſelf to his idol; before whom having deplored his preſent condition, he fell into a ſleep, wherein his god appearing to him, willed him to arm ſuch of the common people, as were willing to follow him, and go out the next day againſt the enemy with them, and he ſhould be ſure to do well enough. This oracle given him, his god, the night following, ſent a multitude of field-mice into Sennacheribs Camp, conſiſting of Aſſyrians and Arabians, that knawed aſunder all their bow-ſtrings, and lether thongs of their quivers & their ſhields; by which means, on the morrow, finding themſelves thus diſarmed, they were enforced to flye, and by the Egyptian (though raw) forces, fell many of them in their flight. So Herodote, l.2, from the reports of the Egyptians to him, when he was among them, by whom alſo he was ſhewed an image, ſaid to be that Sethons, with a mouſe in his hand, and this motto adjoyned to it; Let men learn devotion, by looking on me. And thus, as Sennacherib would have ranked the true God among heathen idols; as no more able to ſave his people, then they were, thoſe, that ſerved them: ſo hath the Devil, by them, endeavoured to detract from him, the honour of this admireable work, and to attribute it to their idols.

and when they aroſe early in the morning, behold they were all dead corpſes] Heb. and they aroſe—and behold. The like ſyntax, ſee Chap.35.4. ver.7.

when they] To wit, thoſe of the enemies party, that had eſcaped with their lives: as 1 King. 20. 29,30. or the people of Ieruſalem, that expected to hear further of them.

behold] A note of admiration, not without juſt cauſe prefixed, before the relation of ſo ſudden, and ſo ſtupendious a change. So in the prediction of it, Chap.10.33.

they were all dead corpſes] Yet not all ſimply, but all in a manner; the main body of the army, and the moſt of the great ones; for ſome, with Sennacherib himſelf, eſcaped. See Chap.17.14.

V. 37. So Sennacherib King of Aſſyria departed] He was not deſtroyed then, with the reſt of his forces: God reſerving him, as to be deſtroyed at home, by his own ſons, ſo ſurviving the loſſe, to ſee the power of that God, whom he had ſet ſo light by. The like have ſome deemed of Pharao, becauſe he is not expreſly mentioned, as periſhing together with his Troops, Exod.14.18. & 15.4. but we have elſewhere, as well clear Scripture againſt Pharaohs eſcape, Pſal.136.15. as for Sennacheribs eſcape here, ſee Job 21.30.

So] Heb. And: as ver.8.

and dwelt at Nineveh] the ſtrong hold, that, for fear of the ſword, he fled to; no where ſtaying by the way, as no where thinking himſelf in ſafety, until he got thither. See Chap.31. 8,9. or, and ſate down at Nineveh, 2 Sam.7.1. & 11.1. kept himſelf quiet there, and went out to war no more, ſo ſome of the Jewiſh Commenters, not amiſſe; his loſſe was ſo great, as he could not ſoon recover: his ſhame ſuch, as he had no liſt to look much abroad. See 2 Chr.32.21.

Nineveh] The chief City of Aſſyria, built there by Nimrod, Nephew to Cham, by his ſon Cuſh; after that out of the land of Shinar, or Chaldea, where he was firſt ſeated, he had broken into the country of Aſhur, the ſon of Sem; and is in Scripture conſtantly termed Nineveh, Gen.10.11,12. 2 King. 19.36. Jon.1.2. & 3.3,4,6,7. & 4.11. Nah.1.1. & 2.8. & 3.7. which name, alſo, is ſometime found in prophane Authors; as in Ptolomy, l.8. c.6. Sect.5. and in Ammian, l.18. c.9. Howbeit, the moſt Hiſtorians, both Greek and Latine, call it, Ninos, and Ninus; and report it to be ſo named, from a King of that name, who firſt founded it, which is directly contrary to the records of holy Writ. And indeed, who ſeeth not, that Ninos, or Ninus, are no other then Nineveh, moulded into a Greek and Latine form? and it is not improbable, that the Ninus, they write of, was no other then Nimrod: for ſome of them make him the firſt King of the Aſſyrians. See Diodore, l.2. c.1. who is ſaid to have been the firſt that, by war, invaded any neighbour country; (ſee Juſtine, l.1.) which is as much in effect, as of Nimrod, Moſes reporteth, Gen.10.10,11. where the word uſed, is obſerved to imply no leſſe. See on ver.36. Howbeit, the word Nineveh, may, to ſome, ſeem to come neerer to the Greek Ninuas, or Ninvas, which they ſay, was the name of their Ninus his ſon. See Diodore, ibid. c.21. and from him, might Nimrod be deemed to have given Nineveh that name; as Cain called the city that he built, by the name of his ſon Enoc, Gen.4.17. if it could be made to appear, that Nimrod had any ſon of that name. But it is more probable, that from the name of the city, the Greeks, at firſt, forged the names both of the father, and the ſon. The like whereunto, both they, and other Writers are wont to do, when the names of cities and countries, are ſuch, as they find no other certain, or probable ground of, to faſten them on ſome one man of note, or other, who ſometime bare that name, that either founded, or forced them, and ſo became Lord of them; as by a multitude of inſtances might eaſily be ſhewed. Nor can I therefore be induced to concur with that learned Writer, who preſuming, not Nimrod, but Chus, the father of Nimrod to be Ninus, ſuppoſeth, that Nimrod, building this city, called it, not by his own, but by his fathers name Nin-veh, as Ninaveh; that is, Ninus his habitation, or dwelling place, ſince, that neither is it the manner of thoſe oriental tongues, to put the governing word, after the governed; nor doth it appear, that either Cuſh, or Nimrod, were either of them, ſo anciently known by the name of Ninus. Nun, indeed, or Non, we read to have been the name of Joſhua's father, Exod.33.11. Num.13.9. 1 Chr.7.27. and, Nin, for, a ſon, or for iſſue, we find, Gen.21.23. Job 18.19. Eſay 14.24. but neither do we any where find Nin, to be a proper name of any one, or other; nor either Nun, Non, or Nin, to have been the name either of Cuſh, or Nimrod, or, of any of Chams poſterity; and conſequently, not of the firſt founder of Nineveh.

V. 38. And it came to paſſe, as he was worſhipping in the houſe of Niſroch his god, that Adrammelech, and Sharezer his ſons ſmote him with the ſword] Thus was he reſerved, as Pharao, in the ſlaughter of the firſt-born, Exod.12.30. to ſee the deliverance of Gods people, and the deſtruction of his own; and then to be ſlain at home by the hand of his own ſons, in the Temple of his god, who was not able to ſave him, as the God of Iſrael had his, from the evil that he threatned, and had intended againſt them; who alſo had foretold this his end. See ver.7.

And it came to paſſe, as he was worſhipping] Heb. And he was bowing himſelf: as 2 King 5.18.

of Niſroch] Of this idol, ſave in this ſtory, we find no mention in Scripture; nor that hitherto hath been obſerved by thoſe, that have made diligent ſearch into the monuments of antiquity in this kind, elſewhere. It may ſeem to have been the ſun, whom, moſt of thoſe Eaſtern people, chiefly adored, under divers names, Ezek.8.16. and may ſeem to have been ſo termed from his circular motion, whereby he traverſeth the heavens, between the two tropicks, from a word of that notion, Ier.2.23. For as for the conceit of a learned Writer, who would it to import a God of ſoft, or, tender, flight; anſwering to the Greek Ζεὺς ὁ Φύξιος, unto whoſe Temple, therefore, as to a Sanctuary, Sennacherib ſhould for ſuccour; it neither hath ground in ſtory, and is too far fetched; and as little probability carrieth that of another, who would bring Niſroc up to Rac, found in Shadrac, Dan.1.7. which (ſaith he, but without proof) in the Babylon language, ſignifieth, the Sun. Joſeph, l.10. c.2. calleth this idol, Araſce.

Adrammelec] The name of an idol, which thoſe of Sepharvaim adored, 2 King.17.31. the word ſignifieth a magnificent King; both titles given to the true God, Chap.33.21,22. and their manner was, as to give unto their idols, the titles of the true God; ſo to impoſe the names of their idols, on their children, or on thoſe whom they would honour, and had in eſteem. See on Chap.39.1. Dan.1.7. & 4.8.

Sharezer] An Aſſyrian name, compoſed of Shar, and Etſer; from whom, it grew to be in uſe, alſo, among Gods people: as appears, Zach.7.2. Joſeph in his antiquities, corruptly calleth him Selennar.

his ſons] Theſe words here written, are read, but not written, 1 King.19.37. and are very remarkable, much conducing to aggravate the diſmal end of this impious and inſolent miſcreant, having his life taken from him, by thoſe who had received life from him. Divers cauſes, the Jewiſh Commenters relate of this their unnatural attempt and deſign: which, becauſe they ſeem to be but fabulous fictions, ſuch as they are nothing ſparing of, I forbear to rehearſe. See Chap. 33. 1. Joſeph ſaith they were his two elder ſons; but without ground.

ſmote him with the ſword] That is, ſlew him; as Deut.20. 13. See ver.7.

and they eſcaped into the land of Armenia] So that the murther of the tyrant, by his own ſons, for the preſent, went unpuniſhed; no juſtice being done on them, for the death of him, that had unjuſtly, himſelf, done ſo many to death. See Judg.1.5. 1 Sam.15.33.

Armenia] Heb. Ararat; on the mountains whereof, the Ark, wherein the whole ſtock of man and beaſt was encloſed, reſted, after its floting ſo long to and fro, when the deluge was abated, Gen.8.4.

and Eſarhaddon his ſon reigned in his ſtead] Of this Eſarhaddon, there is mention alſo, Ezr.4.2. whence it may appear, that ſometime after, he renewed the attempts of his anceſtors, againſt the land of Iſrael. For he further emptied that country of its natives, by Salmaneſer there left, and peopled it with ſome Colonies of his own, who there profeſs to have been brought thither by him; therein proſecuting what Salmaneſer had in part done before him, 2 King. 17.4, 24. and it is not unlikely, but it was he alſo, who after Ezekiah's deceaſe, by his forces, under the command of others, (for it appears not, that in perſon he did it,) re-invaded Judea, took Manaſſes priſoner, and carried him to Babylon, which was, it ſeems, as yet, ſubject to the King of Aſſyria, 2 Chr.33.11. But he is thought to have been the laſt of that Monarchy. Some ſuppoſe him to have been the ſame with him, whom Ptolomy calleth Aſſaradinus; and the names, indeed, come very neer. Others would have him to be him, whom the Greeks call Sardanapalus; becauſe the Aſſyrian Monarchy ended in him: nor are this name and that of Eſar-haddon, much aſunder. For Sardanapalus, is no other, then Eſar, (or, Sar)-haddon-pul; a compound of thoſe three ſimples; the laſt whereof, pal, or, pil, or pol, or, pul; (for they come all to one,) is found in thoſe Aſſyrian and Chaldean names, (for it is common to both,) ſometime ſingle, as in Pul, 2 King.17.19. ſometime prefixed, as in Pil-eſer, 2 King. 15.29. ſometime inſerted, as in Nabo-pol-aſar, mentioned in Ptolomy; ſometime annexed, as in Eſar-Haddon-Pal, or, Pul; whence Sardanapalus.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

Verſ. 1. IN thoſe dayes was Ezekiah ſick unto death.] This Story, of Ezekiah's ſickneſſe and recovery, a remarkable monument, both of the uncertainty of all outward proſperity, and how ſoon and ſuddenly our greateſt joys may be blaſted; as alſo, of Gods, as well power, as pitty, in being able to bring back from the threſhold of death, and ſo doing Pſalm 9.13. is recorded alſo, in 2 King. 20.1-7. 2 Chron. 32.24.

In thoſe days] That is, ſay the Jewiſh Writers, three dayes, before that ſlaughter made in the Aſſyrian Army: for on the third night of his ſickneſſe, that, ſay they, fell out. But if Ezekiah then lay ſick of ſo dangerous a diſeaſe, how could he, with Sennacherib's letter, go up to the Temple? Chap. 37.14. when as it is apparently implyed, that by means thereof, he was reſtrained from acceſſe to Gods houſe, ver. 22. Some of ours would have it to be in Sennacherib's abſence, while he was in employment againſt the Ethiopians and Egyptians: concerning which, ſee on Chap. 37.35. from 2 Chron. 32.20, 22. and the reaſon they render, is from ver. 6. where deliverance from, and defence againſt the King of Aſſyria, is promiſed; whereby it appears, ſay they, that this ſickneſs did precede that deliverance. But this may eaſily be avoided: for the promiſe there ſeems to be, and well may be, of a continued preſervation and protection, for the future. See on the place. Others, therefore, after Joſeph the Jew, in his Antiquities, l. 10. c. 3. hold, that this ſickneſs befell Ezekiah, ſhortly after Sennacherib's defeat, and departure thereupon. Nor doth the computation of Ezekiah's years and reign, any way controll this. For in Ezekiah's fourteenth year, Sennacherib invaded Judea; and having received a ſubmiſs meſſage and moneys, according to his own demand, from Ezekiah, ſent notwithſtanding his Army, a great part of it, unto Jeruſalem, ſuppoſing it would be ſuddenly, upon the very ſight thereof, delivered up to him. This his Army had not long lien there, but that Rabſhakeh, who at his acceſs thither, had preſently ſummoned the city, receiving no ſuch anſwer, as he looked for, returned to his Lord, whom he found diſlodged from the place where he left him; and upon tidings brought him of the Ethiopian Kings expedition, ſending a letter back to Ezekiah, to try what might be done, before his Camp were broke up: and Ezekiah, upon receit of it, ſeeking by renewed ſuit unto God, that was from God, by the Prophet promiſed, which, without longer delay, was the very next night performed. Now all this might very well have been accompliſhed within the fourteenth year of the reign of Ezekiah, eſpecially if the invaſion were made about the beginning of the year: but allowing for the diſpatch of them ſome good part of the fifteenth; and this ſickneſs following very ſhortly thereupon, the reckoning of fifteen years enſuing, will well conſiſt with twenty nine of his reign fully compleat. Of the phraſe it ſelf, ſee chap. 4.1, 2. Jer. 3. 16, 18.

ſick] What kind of diſeaſe this was, is not certain: ſome deem it to be that which we call the plague: Thus much only appears, that it was ſome diſeaſe, accompanied with a malignant Ulcer, ver. 21. Much more uncertain it is, for what ſpecial cauſe it was, that God pleaſed thus to exerciſe him; about which, many are pleaſed to deliver their conjectures; ſome improbable; as thoſe, who ſuppoſe it was to chaſtiſe him for not marrying before. But neither doth it appear, that he was not before marryed; nor is any ſet term of time defined in the Law, at which men ought, in thoſe times, to enter into that eſtate; nor do we read of any, that were chaſtiſed for leading a ſingle life. Others, ſomewhat more probably, to keep him from being lifted up, after ſo great, and ſudden, & ſtrange a deliverance, that which mans nature is too prone unto, (ſee 2 Chron. 26.16. 2 Cor. 12.7.) and Ezekiah himſelf was, not long after, overtaken with, 2 Chron. 32.25. or to correct him, for coming ſhort in thankfulneſs, anſwerable to ſo high a favour; that which he was ſometime after found ſomewhat defective in, 2 Chron. 32.25. or, thereby further to refine him, and fit him for ſuch favours, as he meant further to confer on him, chap. 1.25. 2 Cor. 4.16. Heb. 12.10, 11. or thereby to enure him, to depend conſtantly upon him, and keep cloſer to him; conſidering what need he had of his continual ſupport, 2 Cor. 1.9, 10. or laſtly, to withdraw his heart and affections from the things here below, and to cauſe them to mount up, and aſpire more unto heaven, 2 Cor. 5.1, 2. And theſe, or ſome of theſe, or ſome other, not unlike theſe, might God have an aim at, in this paſſage of his providence: but which, or what, in particular, is no eaſie matter for any mortal man to divine. See Job 10.2. Rom. 11.33, 34. and it is ſafeſt for us, therefore, to be ſparing in defining ought therein.

unto death] The diſeaſe being ſuch as was deadly in its own nature. See Joh. 11.4. Phil. 2.27.

and Iſaiah the Prophet, the Son of Amoz, came unto him, and ſaid unto him; Thus ſaith the Lord,] Being ſent unto him, from God, not ſo much to give him a viſit, as to deliver him the meſſage hereafter related.

Set thine houſe in order] Command, Or, Give charge concerning thine houſe: as chap. 45.11. & 48.5. As if he had ſaid; make thy Will, and diſpoſe of thine eſtate, that there may ariſe no queſtion or controverſie about it, after thy deceaſe.

for thou ſhalt die, and not live] Heb. thou art dead; no better then a dead man; as ſure of this diſeaſe to dy, as if thou wert already dead. So Gen. 20.3. Joh. 3.18. Rom. 8.30. Yet a ſecret reſervation there was, though the ſentence ſeemed peremptory, to humble and to try him; as in that of Nineveh, Jon. 3.4. See Jer. 18.7, 8. Ezek. 3.18.

dy, and not live] As, live, and not dy, Ezek. 18.21. and, not dy, but live, Pſal. 118.17. an emphatical form of ſpeech, only; not, as ſome of the Rabbines fondly and falſly expound of it; Thou ſhalt dy in this world, and not live in the next.

V. 2. Then Hezekiah turned his face toward the wall, and prayed unto the Lord] Then, to wit, after this meſſage delivered to him, and the departure of the Prophet that brought it. See on ver. 4. Heb. And; as chap. 37.36.

turned his face to the wall] As he lay in his bed, not out of ſullenneſſe and diſcontent, as Ahab, becauſe he wanted of his will, 1 King. 21.4. not becauſe he could not endure to behold the face of Gods Prophet, that had brought him ſo ſad a meſſage, as Eliſeus telleth Joram, 2 King. 3.14. (for the Prophet departed, when he had done his errand) but, as ſome conjecture, becauſe the Temple ſtood from his houſe on that ſide, toward which, they uſed in their private houſes to pray, 1 King. 8.35, 48. Dan. 6.10. and ſo the Chaldee Paraphraſt expreſly renders it. As others, that being ſequeſtred from the company of ſuch about him, and having withdrawn himſelf from ſuch variety of objects, as might in his devotions diſtract or diſturb him, he might with the more privacy, the more intention of mind, and the more freedom and fervency of Spirit, addreſſe himſelf unto God. See ſomewhat the like, 1 King. 18.42. and the contrary, upon a diverſe occaſion, 1 King. 8.14. where it is rendred, and the King turned his face about; and ſo the word properly ſignifies. They ſwerve too much from the ſimplicity of the text, who by wall, would have the heart, here meant; becauſe the wals of the heart are mentioned, Jer. 4.19.

V. 3. And ſaid, remember now, O Lord, I beſeech thee, how I have walked before thee in truth, and with a perfect heart; and have done that which is good in thy ſight.] Thus Gods Servants, in an humble and modeſt manner, dare appeal, even to God himſelf, for the ſincerity and integrity of their hearts, and for their ſerious care, and ſedulous endeavour, to pleaſe him, and to approve themſelves and their courſes unto him, Job 10.7. & 23.10-12. Pſal. 7.3-8. & 18.22, 23. and do plead ſometime the ſame unto God, as expecting, therefore, favour and mercy at his hands; not in regard of any matter of merit in them, or of reward, deſervedly for the ſame due to them; (for they acknowledge all that they do, or can do, to be but duty, and due debt, Luk. 17.10. Rom. 8.12. 1 Joh. 2.6.) but in regard of his gracious promiſes freely made thereunto, Pſal. 5.12. & 7.10. & 33.18, 19. & 34.15, 19, 22. & 37.39, 40. & 91.1-16. See Neh. 5.19. & 13.14, 31. Pſal. 26.1-9. & 86.2. & 119.22, 31, 38, 94.

Remember] So Nehemy, in the places above-cited; and the Pſalmiſt, Pſal. 25.6, 7. & 18.32. & 89.50 Not that God can forget ought, much leſſe any good, that is done by any, or for any of his, Heb. 6.10. but then he is in a ſpecial manner, ſaid to remember either perſon, or performance, when by ſome act of mercy, or bounty, exhibited to the one, or for the other, he maketh it to appear, that he taketh notice of, mindeth, and accepteth of either. So Gen. 8.1. & 18.29. & 30.22. See the like, Chap. 37.4, 17.

now] The ſame word that was uſed before, chap. 36.11. and might better be rendred, I pray thee, here, then there. The words run thus in the text; I beſeech thee, O Lord, remember, I beſeech thee. For the word repeated, is with very little difference the ſame, Ana, and Na, and of the ſame notion uſually; and there is the very ſame repetition found twice in one verſe, in the Hoſanna, Pſal. 118.25. whence ſome, too much addicted to Jewiſh fopperies, would have Ana, to be one of the names of God; becauſe it is joyned, both here, and there, with Jehovah; and the Jews ſo uſe it in their prayers.

how] Heb. that; as ver. 7.

I have walked] Heb. I have made (that is enured, or accuſtomed) my ſelf to walk. I have ſtudiouſly and carefully applied my ſelf ſo to live, and ſo to behave my ſelf. So Gen. 24.40. or, I have conſtantly ſo converſed, and carryed my ſelf; as Lev. 26.12. 1 Sam. 12.2. See of Ezekiah, 2 King. 18.5, 6.

in truth] In ſincerity, 1 Sam. 12.24. 1 King. 2.4.

with a perfect heart] Or, an entire heart; when the heart is not divided between God and the creature, or between God, and ſome falſe God, but is entirely ſet upon him; though a man may have his failings in ſome things, as Ezekiah alſo, & ſome others had, to whom yet this commendation is given. See 1 King. 8.61. & 11.4. & 15.3, 14. 2 Chron. 25.2. whereas of ſome others, it is ſaid, that ſome good things they did, but not with an entire heart, 2 Chron. 25.2. See of Ezekiah, 2 Kings 18.6.

have done that which is good in thy ſight] Heb. the good in thine eyes; as Jer. 26.14. that which hath been acceptable and well-pleaſing to thee, and accepted of thee, 2 Chron. 29.2. as that is ſaid to be evill in Gods eyes, that he miſlikes and diſallowes, Gen. 38.10. 2 Sam. 11.27. Chap. 65.12. ſo that is ſaid to

is not expreſly mentioned, as periſhing together with his Troops, Exod.14.18. & 15.4. but we have elſewhere, as well clear Scripture againſt Pharaohs eſcape, Pſal.136.15. as for Sennacheribs eſcape here, ſee Job 21.30.

and dwelt at Nineveh] the ſtrong hold, that, for fear of the ſword, he fled to; no where ſtaying by the way, as no where thinking himſelf in ſafety, until he got thither. See Chap.31.8,9. or, and ſate down at Nineveh, 2 Sam.7.1. & 11.1. kept himſelf quiet there, and went out to war no more, ſo ſome of the Jewiſh Commenters, not amiſſe; his loſſe was ſo great, as he could not ſoon recover: his ſhame ſuch, as he had no liſt to look much abroad. See 2 Chr.32.21.

Nineveh] The chief City of Aſſyria, built there by Nimrod, Nephew to Cham, by his ſon Cuſh; after that out of the land of Shinar, or Chaldea, where he was firſt ſeated, he had broken into the country of Aſhur, the ſon of Sem; and is in Scripture conſtantly termed Nineveh, Gen.10.11,12. 2 King.19.36. Jon.1.2. & 3.3,4,6,7. & 4.11. Nah.1.1. & 2.8. & 3.7. which name, alſo, is ſometime found in prophane Authors; as in Ptolomy, l.8. c.6. Sect.5. and in Ammian, l.18. c.9. Howbeit, the moſt Hiſtorians, both Greek and Latine, call it, Ninos, and Ninus; and report it to be ſo named, from a King of that name, who firſt founded it, which is directly contrary to the records of holy Writ. And indeed, who ſeeth not, that Ninos, or Ninus, are no other then Nineveh, moulded into a Greek and Latine form? and it is not improbable, that the Ninus, they write of, was no other then Nimrod: for ſome of them make him the firſt King of the Aſſyrians. See Diodore, l.2. c.1. who is ſaid to have been the firſt that, by war, invaded any neighbour country; (ſee Juſtine, l.1.) which is as much in effect, as of Nimrod, Moſes reporteth, Gen.10.10,11. where the word uſed, is obſerved to imply no leſſe. See on ver.36. Howbeit, the word Nineveh, may, to ſome, ſeem to come neerer to the Greek Ninuas, or Ninvas, which they ſay, was the name of their Ninus his ſon. See Diodore, ibid. c.21. and from him, might Nimrod be deemed to have given Nineveh that name; as Cain called the city that he built, by the name of his ſon Enoc, Gen.4.17. if it could be made to appear, that Nimrod had any ſon of that name. But it is more probable, that from the name of the city, the Greeks, at firſt, forged the names both of the father, and the ſon. The like whereunto, both they, and other Writers are wont to do, when the names of cities and countries, are ſuch, as they find no other certain, or probable ground of, to faſten them on ſome one man of note, or other, who ſometime bare that name, that either founded, or forced them, and ſo became Lord of them; as by a multitude of inſtances might eaſily be ſhewed. Nor can I therefore be induced to concur with that learned Writer, who preſuming, not Nimrod, but Chus, the father of Nimrod to be Ninus, ſuppoſeth, that Nimrod, building this city, called it, not by his own, but by his fathers name Nin-veh, as Ninaveh; that is, Ninus his habitation, or dwelling place, ſince, that neither is it the manner of thoſe oriental tongues, to put the governing word, after the governed; nor doth it appear, that either Cuſh, or Nimrod, were either of them, ſo anciently known by the name of Ninus. Nun, indeed, or Non, we read to have been the name of Joſhua's father, Exod.33.11. Num.13.9. 1 Chr.7.27. and, Nin, for, a ſon, or for iſſue, we find, Gen.21.23. Job 18.19. Eſay 14.24. but neither do we any where find Nin, to be a proper name of any one, or other; nor either Nun, Non, or Nin, to have been the name either of Cuſh, or Nimrod, or, of any of Chams poſterity; and conſequently, not of the firſt founder of Nineveh.

V. 38. And it came to paſſe, as he was worſhipping in the houſe of Niſroch his god, that Adrammelech, and Sharezer his ſons ſmote him with the ſword] Thus was he reſerved, as Pharao, in the ſlaughter of the firſt-born, Exod.12.30. to ſee the deliverance of Gods people, and the deſtruction of his own; and then to be ſlain at home by the hand of his own ſons, in the Temple of his god, who was not able to ſave him, as the God of Iſrael had his, from the evil that he threatned, and had intended againſt them; who alſo had foretold this his end. See ver.7.

And it came to paſſe, as he was worſhipping] Heb. And he was bowing himſelf: as 2 King 5.18.

of Niſroch] Of this idol, ſave in this ſtory, we find no mention in Scripture; nor that hitherto hath been obſerved by thoſe, that have made diligent ſearch into the monuments of antiquity in this kind, elſewhere. It may ſeem to have been the ſun, whom, moſt of thoſe Eaſtern people, chiefly adored, under divers names, Ezek.8.16. and may ſeem to have been ſo termed from his circular motion, whereby he traverſeth the heavens, between the two tropicks, from a word of that notion, Ier.2.23. For as for the conceit of a learned Writer, who would it to import a God of ſoft, or, tender, flight; anſwering to the Greek Ζεὺς ὁ Φύξιος, unto whoſe Temple, therefore, as to a Sanctuary, Sennacherib ſhould for ſuccour; it neither hath ground in ſtory, and is too far fetched; and as little probability carrieth that of another, who would bring Niſroc up to Rac, found in Shadrac, Dan.1.7. which (ſaith he, but without proof) in the Babylon language, ſignifieth, the Sun. Joſeph, l.10. c.2. calleth this idol, Araſce.

Adrammelec] The name of an idol, which thoſe of Sepharvaim adored, 2 King.17.31. the word ſignifieth a magnificent King; both titles given to the true God, Chap.33.21,22. and their manner was, as to give unto their idols, the titles of the true God; ſo to impoſe the names of their idols, on their children, or on thoſe whom they would honour, and had in eſteem. See on Chap.39.1. Dan.1.7. & 4.8.

Sharezer] An Aſſyrian name, compoſed of Shar, and Etſer; from whom, it grew to be in uſe, alſo, among Gods people: as appears, Zach.7.2. Joſeph in his antiquities, corruptly calleth him Selennar.

his ſons] Theſe words here written, are read, but not written, 1 King.19.37. and are very remarkable, much conducing to aggravate the diſmal end of this impious and inſolent miſcreant, having his life taken from him, by thoſe who had received life from him. Divers cauſes, the Jewiſh Commenters relate of this their unnatural attempt and deſign: which, becauſe they ſeem to be but fabulous fictions, ſuch as they are nothing ſparing of, I forbear to rehearſe. See Chap.33.1. Joſeph ſaith they were his two elder ſons; but without ground.

ſmote him with the ſword] That is, ſlew him; as Deut.20.13. See ver.7.

and they eſcaped into the land of Armenia] So that the murther of the tyrant, by his own ſons, for the preſent, went unpuniſhed; no juſtice being done on them, for the death of him, that had unjuſtly, himſelf, done ſo many to death. See Judg.1.5. 1 Sam.15.33.

Armenia] Heb. Ararat; on the mountains whereof, the Ark, wherein the whole ſtock of man and beaſt was encloſed, reſted, after its floting ſo long to and fro, when the deluge was abated, Gen.8.4.

and Eſarhaddon his ſon reigned in his ſtead] Of this Eſarhaddon, there is mention alſo, Ezr.4.2. whence it may appear, that ſometime after, he renewed the attempts of his anceſtors, againſt the land of Iſrael. For he further emptied that country of its natives, by Salmaneſer there left, and peopled it with ſome Colonies of his own, who there profeſs to have been brought thither by him; therein proſecuting what Salmaneſer had in part done before him, 2 King.17.4,24. and it is not unlikely, but it was he alſo, who after Ezekiah's deceaſe, by his forces, under the command of others, (for it appears not, that in perſon he did it,) re-invaded Judea, took Manaſſes priſoner, and carried him to Babylon, which was, it ſeems, as yet, ſubject to the King of Aſſyria, 2 Chr.33.11. But he is thought to have been the laſt of that Monarchy. Some ſuppoſe him to have been the ſame with him, whom Ptolomy calleth Aſſaradinus; and the names, indeed, come very neer. Others would have him to be him, whom the Greeks call Sardanapalus; becauſe the Aſſyrian Monarchy ended in him: nor are this name and that of Eſar-haddon, much aſunder. For Sardanapalus, is no other, then Eſar, (or, Sar)-haddon-pul; a compound of thoſe three ſimples; the laſt whereof, pal, or, pil, or pol, or, pul; (for they come all to one,) is found in thoſe Aſſyrian and Chaldean names, (for it is common to both,) ſometime ſingle, as in Pul, 2 King.17.19. ſometime prefixed, as in Pil-eſer, 2 King.15.29. ſometime inſerted, as in Nabo-pol-aſar, mentioned in Ptolomy; ſometime annexed, as in Eſar-Haddon-Pal, or, Pul; whence Sardanapalus.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

Verſ. 1. IN thoſe dayes was Ezekiah ſick unto death.] This Story, of Ezekiah's ſickneſſe and recovery, a remarkable monument, both of the uncertainty of all outward proſperity, and how ſoon and ſuddenly our greateſt joys may be blaſted; as alſo, of Gods, as well power, as pitty, in being able to bring back from the threſhold of death, and ſo doing Pſalm 9.13. is recorded alſo, in 2 King.20.1-7. 2 Chron.32.24.

In thoſe days] That is, ſay the Jewiſh Writers, three dayes, before that ſlaughter made in the Aſſyrian Army: for on the third night of his ſickneſſe, that, ſay they, fell out. But if Ezekiah then lay ſick of ſo dangerous a diſeaſe, how could he, with Sennacherib's letter, go up to the Temple? Chap.37.14. when as it is apparently implyed, that by means thereof, he was reſtrained from acceſſe to Gods houſe, ver. 22. Some of ours would have it to be in Sennacherib's abſence, while he was in employment againſt the Ethiopians and Egyptians: concerning which, ſee on Chap.37.35. from 2 Chron.32.20, 22. and the reaſon they tender, is from ver. 6. where deliverance from, and defence againſt the King of Aſſyria, is promiſed: whereby it appears, ſay they, that this ſickneſs did precede that deliverance. But this may eaſily be avoided: for the promiſe there ſeems to be, and well may be, of a continued preſervation and protection, for the future. See on the place. Others, therefore, after Joſeph the Jew, in his Antiquities, l.10.c.3. hold, that this ſickneſs befell Ezekiah, ſhortly after Sennacherib's defeat, and departure thereupon. Nor doth the computation of Ezekiah's years and reign, any way controll this. For in Ezekiah's fourteenth year, Sennacherib invaded Judea; and having received a ſubmiſs meſſage and moneys, according to his own demand, from Ezekiah, ſent notwithſtanding his Army, a great part of it, unto Jeruſalem, ſuppoſing it would be ſuddenly, upon the very ſight thereof, delivered up to him. This his Army had not long lien there, but that Rabſhakeh, who at his acceſs thither, had preſently ſummoned the city, receiving no ſuch anſwer, as he looked for, returned to his Lord, whom he found diſlodged from the place where he left him; and upon tidings brought him of the Ethiopian Kings expedition, ſending a letter back to Ezekiah, to try what might be done, before his Camp were broke up: and Ezekiah, upon receit of it, ſeeking by renewed ſuit unto God, that was from God, by the Prophet promiſed, which, without longer delay, was the very next night performed. Now all this might very well have been accompliſhed within the fourteenth year of the reign of Ezekiah, eſpecially if the invaſion were made about the beginning of the year: but allowing for the diſpatch of them ſome good part of the fifteenth; and this ſickneſs following very ſhortly thereupon, the reckoning of fifteen years enſuing, will well conſiſt with twenty nine of his reign fully compleat. They ſwerve too much from the ſimplicity of the text, who by wall, would have the heart, here meant; becauſe the wals of the heart are mentioned, Jer.4.19.

V. 3. And ſaid, remember now, O Lord, I beſeech thee, how I have walked before thee in truth, and with a perfect heart; and have done that which is good in thy ſight.] Thus Gods Servants, in an humble and modeſt manner, dare appeal, even to God himſelf, for the ſincerity and integrity of their hearts, and for their ſerious care, and ſedulous endeavour, to pleaſe him, and to approve themſelves and their courſes unto him, Job 10.7. & 23.10 - 12. Pſal.7.3-8. & 18.22,23. and do plead ſometime the ſame unto God, as expecting, therefore, favour and mercy at his hands; not in regard of any matter of merit in them, or of reward, deſervedly for the ſame due to them; (for they acknowledge all that they do, or can do, to be but duty, and due debt, Luk.17.10. Rom.8.12. 1 Joh.2.6.) but in regard of his gracious promiſes freely made thereunto, Pſal.5.12. & 7.10. & 33.18,19. & 34.15,19,22. & 37.39,40. & 91.1-16. See Neh.5.19. & 13.14,31. Pſal.26.1-9. & 86.2. & 119.22,31,38,94.

Remember] So Nehemy, in the places above-cited; and the Pſalmiſt, Pſal.25.6,7. & 18.32. & 89.50 Not that God can forget ought, much leſſe any good, that is done by any, or for any of his, Heb.6.10. but then he is in a ſpecial manner, ſaid to remember either perſon, or performance, when by ſome act of mercy, or bounty, exhibited to the one, or for the other, he maketh it to appear, that he taketh notice of, mindeth, and accepteth of either. So Gen.8.1. & 18.29. & 30.22. See the like, Chap.37.4,17.

now] The ſame word that was uſed before, chap.36.11. and might better be rendred, I pray thee, here, then there. The words run thus in the text; I beſeech thee, O Lord, remember, I beſeech thee. For the word repeated, is with very little difference the ſame, Ana, and Na, and of the ſame notion uſually; and there is the very ſame repetition found twice in one verſe, in the Hoſanna, Pſal.118.25. whence ſome, too much addicted to Jewiſh fopperies, would have Ana, to be one of the names of God; becauſe it is joyned, both here, and there, with Jehovah; and the Jews ſo uſe it in their prayers.

I have walked] Heb. I have made (that is enured, or accuſtomed) my ſelf to walk. I have ſtudiouſly and carefully applied my ſelf ſo to live, and ſo to behave my ſelf. So Gen.24.40. or, I have conſtantly ſo converſed, and carryed my ſelf; as Lev. 26. 12. 1 Sam.12.2. See of Ezekiah, 2 King. 18. 5,6.

before thee] As in thy ſight, Gen.5.22. & 6.9. & 17.1. Pſal. 16.8. & 119.168. Luk.1.6.

with a perfect heart] Or, an entire heart; when the heart is not divided between God and the creature, or between God, and ſome falſe God, but is entirely ſet upon him; though a man may have his failings in ſome things, as Ezekiah alſo, & ſome others had, to whom yet this commendation is given. See 1 King.8.61. & 11.4. & 15.3,14. 2 Chron.25.2. whereas of ſome others, it is ſaid, that ſome good things they did, but not with an entire heart, 2 Chron.25.2. See of Ezekiah, 2 Kings 18.6.

have done that which is good in thy ſight] Heb. the good in thine eyes; as Jer.26.14. that which hath been acceptable and well-pleaſing to thee, and accepted of thee, 2 Chron.29.2. as that is ſaid to be evill in Gods eyes, that he miſlikes and diſallowes, Gen.38.10. 2 Sam.11.27. Chap.65.12. ſo that is ſaid to be good in the eyes of God, that he liketh and alloweth, Lev.10.19. Deut.6.18. 1 Sam.3.18. 1 Chron.18.13.

and Hezekiah wept ſore] Heb. wept with great weeping; as 2 Sam.13.36. This grief of Ezekiah, thus manifeſted, is ſuppoſed, to have proceeded, partly, from an apprehenſion of ſome diſpleaſure, that God had conceived againſt him; in regard whereof, he ſhould be taken away ſo ſoon, and ſo ſuddenly, after ſo great a deliverance, as one deemed unworthy to enjoy the bleſſed fruit and comfort of it, as befell that Nobleman for his unbelief, 2 King.7.2,19, 20. partly, from a foreſight and forecaſt of ſuch danger and diſturbance, as might befall Church and State; much out of frame, both when he came to the Crown; and much diſtracted and disjoynted again by the late invaſion, ſhould he then be taken away, before either were again well ſetled; eſpecially, ſince that he had then no Son to ſucceed him; and the want of an Heir-male (many, in regard thereof, taking occaſion to pretend title to the Crown) might be a means of producing much diſtraction in the State: for his Son Manaſſes, that ſucceeded him, was, as yet, unborn; as appeareth by his age, when he came to the crown; for he was but 12. years old at his Fathers deceaſe, 2 King. 21. 1. whereas his Father lived fifteen year after this ſickneſs, ver.5.

V. 4. Then came the word of the Lord to Iſaiah, ſaying,] A ſpeedy return of a gracious anſwer, agreeable to thoſe free promiſes, chap.58.9.& 65.24.

Then] Before he was gone out into the city, or unto his own houſe, while he was yet in the Kings houſe; for he was not yet gone out into the middle Court; or, as ſome read it, gone out of, to wit, the Kings houſe, which had three courts within the utmoſt wall, or compaſs of it; one, next to the chief houſe; another, next the ſtreet; and a third, between thoſe other two: (See 1 King 7.8. & Jer.36.12.& 37.15.) which Eſay had not yet entred, being ſtill in the firſt, or at leaſt, was not gone out of, when this meſſage came to him, 2 King. 20.4. where the reading is Court; but the writing is City; becauſe, ſay ſome of them, the Kings Palace was as a city; and the courts thereof, as the ſtreets of a city. And they render this, as one reaſon, why God was pleaſed to return ſuch an anſwer, by the ſame meſſenger, ſo ſpeedily, ere he were gone out of the Kings court, 2 King.20.5. that it might not be known and divulged in the city; that a doom of death had, from God, been paſſed upon their Soveraign, which might have produced ſome evill conſequences among the people. This is not improbable. Whereunto we may add, that God haſtened his anſwer, that he might not hold his dejected ſervant over-long in affliction of mind, anxiety of ſpirit, and ſolicitous ſuſpence; and by the ſame meſſenger, by whom he had ſent the former, to give the ſtronger aſſurance of the certainty of it; which might have bin more queſtionable, had the meſſage come by any other; and that the ſame party might, to others abroad, relate joyntly together, both the one, and the other. So dealt he with David; he ſent Nathan to him, at the ſame time, ere they parted, both to convince him of his ſin, and the hainouſneſs of it; and withall, upon his humble confeſſion and acknowledgment thereof, to aſſure him of pardon, 2 Sam. 12. verſ. 12,13.

came] Heb. was; as Jer.1.2,4.

the word of the Lord] By a ſecret inſpiration, a meſſage from God; as 2 King.1.15. & 3.15. Act.10.19. & 11.12.

V. 5. Go, and ſay to Hezekiah;] Return, or, Go back, 2 King. 20.5. Heb. here, Going, go; as Jer.13.1.& 28.13.

and ſay] Heb. thou ſhalt ſay; as chap.6.9.& 7.4.

thus ſaith the Lord, the God of David thy Father,] For whoſe ſake alſo, he beareth a loving and tender affection to his Iſſue; and to thee more ſpecially treading in his ſteps, 2 King. 18. 3. Chap.16.5. See Chap.37.35. Jer.13.13. & 17.25. & 33. 17,21-26.

I have heard thy prayer:] ſee chap.37.4,21.

I have ſeen thy tears:] Taken ſpeciall notice of them, and taken them to heart; as Exod.3.7. ſee Pſal.56.8. Though the Prophet had neither heard the one, nor ſeen the other; yet God, in Heaven, had, Pſal.34.15.

behold, I will add to thy days fifteen Years] I will not onely recover thee of thy preſent diſeaſe, ſo that thou ſhalt be able, within three days, to go abroad again, 2 King.20.5. But I will over and above that, aſſure unto thee a leaſe of thy life, for fifteen year longer: ſuch a favour, as we never reade the like, afforded unto any other of his ſervants, though very high in favour with him. See Gen.27.2. Pſal.39. 4. and no marvell, therefore, if it be uſhered in with a note of attention, and ſerious conſideration; behold (ſee chap.7.14.& 37.7.) and ſealed, being an unuſuall grant, with an unwonted miracle, ver.8.

I] Who before had paſſed, by my Prophet, a ſentence of death on thee, ver.[illegible] Deut.32.39. 1 Sam.2.6. Pſal.68.20. Hoſ. 6.1.

I will add] Heb. I am adding; or, I am he, that will add; as chap.19.14.

to thy days] That is, to the days, ſay ſome, that were formerly alotted thee in my ſecret purpoſe, Job 7.1. & 14.5. as if Gods counceels were not fixed, chap.25.1. & 26.3. to the days, that in the courſe of nature, he might have attained to, ſay others, but could not have attained, had he bin given up to the violence of this preſent diſeaſe, Job 15.32. Pſal. 55.23. See 1 Sam.26.10. but the meaning is plain, to thoſe years, that he had lived already.

fifteen years] The one half, in likelyhood, and it may be preciſely, of the whole time of his reign: For this is, not without ground, deemed to have fallen out, about the fourtieth year of his age, and the fifteenth year of his reign; for he was full twenty five year old, when he began his reign; and full twenty nine he reigned, 2 King.18.2. 2 Chron.29.1. ſo that the fourtieth of his age, and fifteenth of his reign, are in part, at leaſt, co-incident: In part, I ſay, becauſe they might have divers beginnings, and expirations accordingly. So that half the time of his reign, he enjoyed peace and tranquility, without interruption: ſee ver.6,15. chap.39.6.

V. 6. And I will deliver thee, and this City, out of the hand of the King of Aſſyria; and I will defend this City] Hence ſome infer, that this ſickneſs of Ezekiah befell him, before the diſſolution of the Aſſyrian camp. But of that, there is no neceſſity, in regard of ought here ſpoken. See on ver.1. The promiſe before made to them, in the time of their diſtreſs, by the Aſſyrian forces, chap.37.35. is again here renewed, to give Ezekiah aſſurance, not of his life only to be prolonged, but of peace and tranquility to be continued unto him, together with it. For Ezekiah might have ſome doubt, leſt Sennacherib, though having ſo great a blow given him; yet might in ſome ſpace of time, recover himſelf again, and either he, or ſome of his ſucceſſors, might return to moleſt him, and the State again, out of a deſire to be revenged for the former diſcomfiture; and that after his deceaſe appeareth to have been, in ſome ſort, effected, 2 Chr.33.11. Now this to meet with, and to eaſe Ezekiahs mind of all ſuch miſdoubt and dread; God promiſeth to continue this his protection, both of him and his city; and to ſafeguard them, againſt whatſoever power any King of Aſſyria ſhould be able to raiſe, or make againſt either. That which Sennacherib made account, was more then God could do, Chap. 36. 20. & 37. 10,11. Ezekiah prayed for, well knowing, that he could, Chap.37.20. and God by promiſe engaged himſelf to do, for the preſent, there, chap.27. 21,25. for the future, alſo, here. See 2 Chr.32.22.

V. 7. And this ſhall be a ſign unto thee from the Lord, that the Lord will do the thing that he hath ſpoken.] Ezekiah had craved a ſign for the ſtrengthening of his Faith, verſ. 22. and the ſign here mentioned, being put to his choice, 2 King. 20. 8, 10. Thus is God content, in mercy and goodneſſe, to comply with mans infirmity, and condeſcend to his weakneſſe: and as the nurſe leading the little child, to ſtoop down to us, when the ſhort hand or arm of our feeble Faith, is not able to reach to his, 2 Chr.32.24. See Gen.15.8-18. Judg.6.36-40. Chap.7.11,14. & 37.30.

that the Lord] The pronoun relative, for the demonſtrative particle; as ver.3.

will do the thing] Heb. word; as Gen.20.10. & 21.11.

V. 8. Behold] See before, ver.5.

I will bring again the ſhadow of the degrees, which is gone down in the Sun-dial of Ahaz, ten degrees backward] Heb. I am bringing, or do bring again; as Chap.3.1. & 44.25. Jer. 29.3,4.

the ſhadow] Made by the Sun; and the Sun, conſequently, together with it; as in the next branch is expreſſed.

of the degrees] Marked upon the ſurface of the diall, to ſhew the progreſſe of the Sun, and the proceſſe of the day together with it.

which is gone down] Or, by which it is gone forward. See more hereof on the next branch.

in the Sun-diall of Ahaz] Heb. in the degrees of Ahaz; (that is, in the diall which King Ahaz, Ezekiah's father, had for publike uſe erected, in ſome open place, about his Palace, marked out with a certain number of lines, or degrees, ſuch as before,) in the Sun, or with the Sun; on whoſe motion the ſhadow with the progreſs, or the regreſſe of it, wholly depended; the particle may be taken the latter way, as well as the former: as 1 Sam.1.24. Hoſ.5.6.

ſo the Sun returned ten degrees, by which degrees it was gone down] By the Sun, ſome here would have underſtood the ſhadow which the Sun made on the Dial; becauſe it is ſaid to have gone back by ſo many degrees, as it had gone forward on Ahaz his Diall. And ſome hence would infer, that the courſe of the univerſe was not inverted, or altered; but the ſhadow, only, upon the dial; called here the Sun, as the windows are ſo called, by which the Sun-ſhine is let in, Jer.15.9. but neither can it well be conceived, how the ſhadow made by the ſun, ſhould go backward, or forward, without the ſun; nor could forraign people, in remote places, have taken notice of it, had no alteration been in the courſe of the univerſe. See Chap. 39.1. nor is any ſuch thing found, as is intimated in that place of Jeremy: nor is it neceſſarily ſo implyed in the text, that the Sun went forward, or backward, on Ahaz his Dial, either here, or, 2 King. 20.9--11. where there is no mention of the Sun, but of the ſhadow onely. Though it be true, that the retrograde motion of the Sun, appeared by the ſhadow upon the Dial: for there may well be a tranſpoſition of the words in the text, as our Engliſh hath conceived it, or the text be otherwiſe expounded, as ſhall afterward appear.

returned] Or, went back; as is more fully before expreſſed, ſo many degrees, as it had already gone forward. Which ſome ſuppoſe to have been done in an inſtant; and then the day ſo much longer then ordinary, by ſo much of it, only, as was already ſpent. Others are of the minde, and ſo the moſt, that the Sun went back in his ordinary pace, and then the day muſt be twice ſo much longer then ordinary: as much time being ſpent in his return to the point, at which he roſe; as much more in his coming back to the point, from whence he had returned.

ten degrees] What ſpace of time was by each of theſe degrees deſcribed and limited out, is uncertain. Some would have them whole entire hours; ten of ſuch twelve, as are mentioned, Joh.11.9. and then ſhould that day have been, if the Sun went back ſuddenly, two and twenty hours long; if an ordinary pace, (as they ſeem to hold) thirty two hours long. But againſt this is objected; Firſt, that if it had been of this latter and larger ſize, it had been longer then that, when the Sun ſtood ſtill in Joſhuas day: for that was no longer then two dayes, at moſt; a day of four and twenty hours, Joſh. 10. 13. whereas this ſhould be, within four hours, as long as three dayes: and yet of that day, it is ſaid, that there was none like it before, or after it, Joſh. 10. 14. 2 Neither ſize will well ſuit with the choice that Ezekiah was put to. Of having the Sun gotten degrees forward, or backward, 2 King. 20.9,10. For if they were entire hours, the Sun was already within two hours of ſetting; and could not go, therefore, above two ſuch degrees forward; not by above two hours (which his going forward muſt do) haſten the night. Others, therefore, conceive theſe degrees to have been but half hours; and that is the opinion moſt received; and ſo the day ſhould be of ſeventeen hours, if the Sun retired in an inſtant. And ſo ſome define it; or of twenty and two hours, (two only ſhort of Joſhua's day) if he kept to his pace: for ten degrees, that is, five hours of the day were paſt, what time this miracle was wrought. So that it was about their fift hour compleat, our, eleven. Ten degrees, that is, five hours were ſpent in his regreſſe, and as many in his renewed progreſſe, unto the point from which he retired. All which put together, make twenty two hours. Yet there want not thoſe, that allow each degree but a quarter of an hour, and ſo enhance the number of them on the Dial; from twenty four, to forty eight: ſo the day ſhould be cut ſhorter by five hours, at leaſt. But it is not very probable, that the day ſhould be minced into ſo many ſmall ſhreds on the Dial. The Jewiſh Doctors tell us, (but that is one of their tales) that the day was ſhortned, juſt ſo many degrees at Ahaz his death, as it was lengthened at Ezekiah's recovery.

by which degrees it was gone down] Heb. in the degrees, or, by the degrees which it had gone down. And according to our reddition of it, therefore, ſhould be a tranſpoſition of the words in the text; by the degrees which; for, by which degrees. Some following the order of the words, as they lye in the text, render them, in the degrees; and expound them, in the Dial; thence inferring, what above is related. And it is true, that in the foregoing words, the dial of Ahaz his ſetting up, is called, Ahaz his degrees: by a Synechdochical form of ſpeech, whereby the part is put for the whole: becauſe it conſiſted of a gnomon, or, index, and a table, or, plane; marked with thoſe degrees. But the word is there without the article: whereas it is here, as in the beginning of the verſe, with the article prefixed: and is to be taken, therefore, rather, for the degrees themſelves, where with the motion of the Sun was meaſured, and diſcovered upon the Dial. And the words therefore may well be rendred, by the degrees which it (to wit, the Sun) had proceeded.

it was gone down] This if we take the word ſtrictly, and underſtand it of the Sun; it ſhould imply, that the Sun was then in his declination; and that it was paſt high-noon, or mid-day, ſo many hours, as thoſe ten degrees made up. So he ſhould return, not to his morning point, but to his Zenith, or meridian, where in Joſhuah's dayes he ſtood ſtill, Joſh. 10. 13. But this ſeems not ſo likely. Some underſtand it of the ſhadow on the Dial; ſuppoſing it to have been like our ſun-dials, againſt ſome wall, whereon the ſhadow deſcendeth, as the Sun gets up, and aſcendeth again, as the Sun declines and goes down. So the miracle might commence from ſome part of the fore-noon, according to the degrees ſpent, and paſt, from the Sun-riſing. But the Dial ſeems to have been no mural, or vertical, but an horizontal one. And ſome of the Jewiſh writers tell us, that it conſiſted of an half circle, whereon thoſe degrees were ſigned with an index, or ſtyle, ſituate in the midſt thereof; the ſhadow whereof, falling upon the verge of it, ſhewed, how, by degrees, the day went away. And to meet with ſuch doubts, the plaineſt way, is, to expound the word rendred, gone down; not ſtrictly of declination, or deſcention, but of progreſs, ſimply conſidered, without any notion of aſcent, properly ſo termed. So ye may finde it uſed, Judg. 11.37. & 15.11. 1 Sam. 23.6. 2 Sam. 23. 21. 2 King. 8. 29. Jer. 18. 2. & 22. 1. and ſo it may well be rendred here, which it had paſt; or, by which it had gone forward.

V. 9. The writing of Ezekiah, king of Judah, when he had bin ſick, & was recovered of his ſickneſs] The Inſcription, or Title of the enſuing Hymn, declaring the occaſion of it; like that, 2 Sam. 22.1. cutting off] A borrowed ſpeech, taken from the practice of Weavers; who, when their web is wrought out, cut it off from the Loom, ver. 12--14. Lam. 3. 54.

my dayes] The time of my life, Pſal. 39. 4,5. & 102. 24. See on Chap. 1. 1.

I ſhall go the gates of the grave] As the gates of death, Pſal. 9. 13. & 107. 18. Of the word grave, here uſed: ſee on Chap. 5. 14. For what the Popiſh writers, here, ſome of them, prate of their Limbo, not far from hell-gate, wherein ſome of their own, alſo, here controll them, is ridiculous. I paſſed a doom of death upon my ſelf; I looked for nothing but death, 2 Cor. 1. 9.

I am deprived of the reſidue of my years] Which I hoped to have lived, and in courſe of nature, might have done. So Pſal. 55. 23. & 89. 45. & 102. 24. Heb. I am made to miſs the reſidue of my years: ſo ſome; referring us to thoſe places, where the ſame word, but in another form, ſignifieth to miſs, or, be miſſing, 1 Sam. 20. 18. & 25. 7, 21. Or, as others, I am bereaved of the reſidue of my years; affirming it to be an elegant term, taken from the uſe of the word in the Kedaren, that is, the Arabick tongue. They ſeem to ſtrain a little too much, who would read it, the reſidue of my years, is failed from me: though they produce the like defect of the particle, Jer. 10. 20.

V. 11. I ſaid] As before, ver. 9.

I ſhall not ſee the Lord] I ſhall not viſit his temple any more, among thoſe that there worſhip, Pſalm. 27. 4. & 42. 2. & 84. 7.

even the Lord in the land of the living] Among thoſe that ſurvive, Chap. 53. 8. Pſalm 27. 13 & 116. 9. ver. 19. He redoubleth the word Jah, rendred, the Lord; (of which, ſee on Chap. 26. 4.) to expreſſe his ardent affection to Gods ſervice, and to intimate his deſire of life, to that purpoſe, ver. 22.

I ſhall behold man no more with the inhabitants of the world] I ſhall no longer converſe with men here on earth. See Gen. 27. 49. Exod. 18. 28. I deſpaired of life, 2 Cor. 1. 8. The ſtate of perſons deceaſed, is deſcribed, ſometime, by others not ſeeing of them; as Job 7. 8. ſometime, by their not ſeing of others: ſo here.

V. 12. Mine age is departed, and is removed from me, as a ſhepherds tent] Heb. My generation, (as Jer. 2. 31. Act. 13. 26.) that is, mine age, (as ours render it) or, mine iſſue, (my poſterity, as others; becauſe he had no male-iſſue then: ſee Chap. 53. 8.) or, mine habitation, (as Pſal. 84. 10.) is made to go, (as Job 4. 21.) and is carried away from me, (in a forcible manner; as one is carried away) into captivity: for ſo the word properly ſignifies, in this form no where elſe uſed. I am bereaved of my continuance, or abode here, by the violence of my diſeaſe; as one that is, in hoſtile manner, forced out of his dwelling place; is being as ſoon and ſuddenly thrown down, and I ſevered from it, as is a ſhed, that a ſhepherd ſetteth up for his ſhelter, and removeth from place to place at pleaſure, chap.24.19. Jer.4.20. Lam.2.6.

I have cut off like a Weaver my life] He returneth to the borrowed ſpeech before uſed, ver.10. taken from the Weavers practice, cutting off his web from the loom, either when the web is woven out, as uſually; or, as upon ſpeciall occaſion, at ſome times, before it be finiſhed. So again, ver. 12,13. His meaning is, as ſome, I have ſhortned my life, or provoked God to ſhorten it, by my ſins, as Gen.38.7,10. See ver.17. or, as ſome other, my life is cut off by me, that is, by God, ſome occaſion, by me, given him ſo to do, though the doing of it be ſore againſt my will; as of Judas, it is ſaid, that he purchaſed a field with the reward of iniquity, Act.1.18. though purchaſed, by the Prieſts, not by him, with the money wherewith they hired him, Mat.27.6,7. I ſuppoſe it is to be referred rather to his eſtimation and account of himſelf. I made no other account, but that my life would be ſo cut off, I ſhould bring it ſuddenly to an end. See ver.10. 2 Cor.1.9. The word rendred, cut off, is no where elſe found in Scripture: (though in the Chaldee Paraphraſt, ſometime) only a noun derived from it, that ſignifieth cutting off, Ezek.7.25. and the name of a beaſt, chap.14.23. & 34.11.

he will cut me off with pining ſickneſs:] He, (that is, God) will cut me off, (as Job 6.9.) or, I ſhall be cut off; (the word being taken indefinitely; as chap.2.19. & 17.13. & 22.8,19.) with pining ſickneſs: ſo ſome, becauſe the word cometh of a root, that ſignifieth, to attenuate; whence alſo this name is given to the poorer and meaner ſort of people, Jer. 40.7. & 52.15. but others render it, from the thrum; becauſe ſome Jewiſh Criticks hold it, to ſignifie thoſe thin and looſe threds, that hang dangling down at the end of the web; whence it is uſed alſo for locks; becauſe they reſemble ſuch, when diſſhevelled eſpecially, Cant.6.7. and ſo the metaphor from the Weavers manner of doing, is ſtill continued.

from day, even to night, wilt thou make an end of me.] Heb. from day, unto night: that is, as ſome, from morning, to evening, (as Gen.1.5.) thou wilt continually and unceſſantly purſue me, untill thou haſt made an end of me; or, this very day, before night come, thou wilt diſpatch me. See Job 4.20. there is a paſſage from perſon to perſon; as chap.21.10. & 25.5,6. & 31.7. Amos 9.1. and ſome would have inſerted, I ſaid; as ver. 10,11. but that is needleſs.

V. 13. I reckoned untill morning] Heb. I ſet, or put, or propounded to my ſelf (as the word is uſed, Pſal.16.8. & 119.30.) I thought within my ſelf, till morning, or while yet morning was, that is, as ſome expound it; I made account, over-night, that I might live untill morning; as others, rather, I made account, ere the morning were over, that an end would be made of me; that I ſhould not live, either the morning, or the day, at leaſt, (as morning is taken, Gen. 1. 5. to an end.

that as a lion, he will break all my bones:] So moſt Interpreters take it, as a relation of what his thoughts were, and what he made full account of, that this would betide him ere morning were over. Yet ſome render them; But as a lion he, or, it broke all my bones. Whereas I had conceived ſome hope of holding out till the next day, my diſeaſe, or God by it, did ſo grievouſly handle me in the night, as if ſome fierce lion had cruſht all my bones to pieces: that that hope of mine was utterly daſht and quailed. Of the ſimilitude, ſee Jer. 50.17. Lam.3,4. ſore pains are by the breaking of bones oft expreſſed, Job 7.15. Pſal.6.2. & 51.8. Prov.14.30. & 17.22.

from day, even to night, wilt thou make an end of me] See the ſame, ver. 12. From this reiteration of the ſame thing again, ſome gather, that Ezekiah was two days in this extremity; that in the former verſe, is expreſſed his firſt dayes thoughts; in this, his ſeconds: But this obſervation is of no great certainty. It may rather intimate the fixedneſs of his thoughts, and the vehemency of his affection thereupon.

V. 14. Like a crane, or, a ſwallow, ſo did I chatter: I did mourn as a dove] This, ſome apply to his prayers, as very quick and ſhort, by reaſon of his pains. Others underſtand it of his ſpeech, ſo ſuſpended, with the violence of his diſeaſe, and the exceſſe of his grief, that he was not able to utter any articulate voice: as Pſal.77.4. but this his prayer recorded, ver.2 doth ſufficiently controll. The meaning ſeems to be, that his pains and grief, both joyned together, did wring from him ſuch ſighs and groans, in the bemoaning of himſelf, as might well be compared to ſuch kind of noiſe, or mournfull ſounds, as theſe Fowls, or their young ones, or their dams, when their young are taken from them, are wont to make.

a crane, or, a ſwallow] The connexive particle is not in the text: in regard whereof, the old Latine make them but one Fowl, rendring it, the ſwallows young, or young ſwallow; and the Greek, likewiſe one, only a ſwallow: but the defect of the particle, as well in the copulative, as in the disjunctive notion, is frequent. See Chap. 5.6. & 17.6,14. & 27.7. & 28. 24. and that they are the names of two ſeverall Fowls, and both ſuch, as change their abode with the Seaſon of the year, appears from Jer.8.7.

crane] The Hebrew word is Sus, or Sis, as the Jewiſh Criticks require to have it read; which, howſoever moſt of the Jewiſh Maſters affirm to ſignifie a crane; ſome rendring the reaſon thereof, becauſe it is a tall Fowl, and goes upright, like an horſe, who bears alſo the former name; Yet there want not, (whom I rather herein accord with) that conceive it, to ſignifie a ſwallow, ſo termed from her note, or the noiſe ſhe makes, not unfitly expreſſed, by the word Sis. And I the rather hereunto encline, becauſe of the Egyptians fable of their Iſis, that was turned into a ſwallow. See Plutarch, of Iſis, and Oſiris.

a ſwallow] The Hebrew word is Agur, or Guagur (as ſome pronounce it) both here, and in Jeremy, not elſe-where found, which ſome of the Jewiſh Writers would have to be a ſwallow; ſome, apis. Yet others rather ſuppoſe it to be a crane; which from the Greek γέρανος, we ſo term. Whereunto they are the rather induced; becauſe not onely the Greek comes neer it, but the Latine, Grus, comes in a manner full home to it. And again, for that by a tranſpoſition of letters, in the holy language very uſuall, (ſee Chap. 36. 16,30.) it ſeems to come from the word Arog, or Guarog, that ſignifies to bray, as Deer do when they want food, either paſture, or water, Joel 1. 20. to whoſe voice, which a cranes, rather then a ſwallows, reſembleth, doth the Pſalmiſt compare his groaning after God, uſing the ſame term of either, Pſal.42.1. chatter] Aloud and apace, as thoſe Fowls, in parting with, or miſſing their young; or peep, as their young ones do, when they miſſe their dam, or want meat. Of the word, ſee Chap.8.20. & 10.14. & 29.4.

mourn as a dove] So Chap.59.11. Ezek.9.6. the mournfull and doleful tone, that Turtles and Doves have, is well known. See of the word, rendred mourn, Chap.8.20. Ezek.2. 10. and of his mourning, ver.2.

mine eyes fail with looking upward] Toward heaven, to God, for eaſe and relief, 2 Chr.20.12. Pſal.123.1,2.

fail] Heb. are exhauſt, or ſpent: as Job 28.4. Chap.19.6. a metaphor from rivers drawn dry, the vigour of them is waſted; my ſight faileth. So Pſal. 6.7. & 31.10. & 38.10. & 69.3, & 119. 82,123. (but ſome of the Jewiſh Commenters render it, are lift up; according to a word neer unto it, but riſing from another root, Prov.26.7. this, if we admit, there needs no ſupply: but neither is the word any where found, ſo uſed. Nor is that other word agreed on, ſo to ſignifie, in that place of the Proverbs. Nor doth the root it comes from, ſignifie to lift up, ſimply, but to draw up, uſed properly of water, out of a well or pit, Exod.2.16,19. alluded to, Prov.20.5. & Pſal.36.1,3. compared, alſo, with Pſal.40.2. I chooſe therefore, rather, to ſtick to our verſion; only rendring it, as the former, in the time paſt; mine eyes failed, or were exhauſt, with looking, or while I looked upward: a comprehenſive, or complicated kind of ſpeech, whereby two diverſe notions are enfolded and wrapped up in one word. So Pſal.89.33,34. thou haſt profaned his crown, to the ground; that is, profaned it, by caſting it down to the ground; as it is afterward there expounded: ſo Chap. 14.12. how art thou cut down to the ground? for, hewed down, and laid along on the ground; and Chap.21.9. her Gods hath he broken unto the ground, for, hath he broken and caſt down to the ground. See further on ver.17.

O Lord, I am oppreſſed;] Heb. it oppreſſeth me; to wit, my diſeaſe: it is ſo ſtrong upon me, that it preſſeth me down beyond my ſtrength, Pſal.32.3,4. & 38.2,4,6. 2 Cor.1.8. Here I ſuppoſe would fitly be inſerted, I ſaid; oft wanting, and ſupplyed; as Neh.9.25. Job 8.18. Chap.22.13. & 26.19. See ver. 10,11.

undertake for me.] He compareth his diſeaſe to a Bayliff, or Serjeant, that, from death, as a mercileſſe exactor, had ſo attached him, and taken ſuch hold on him, that unleſſe God would be pleaſed to undertake for him, as his bayl or ſurety, or to reſcue him, at leaſt, there was no means for him to eſcape. See ſomewhat the like, Job 17.3. Pſal.119.122. where the ſame word is uſed; yet ſome render it, eaſe me; and the word ſignifies, indeed, ſometime, to be ſweet, pleaſant, or pleaſing, Pſal.104.24. Prov.3.24. & 13.19. Jer.31.26. Mal.3.4. but never actively, to ſweeten; nor any where, to relieve, or eaſe. Others of ours render it, weave me out; for, becauſe they find a word of the ſame family with this, to be uſed for the woof, Lev. 13. 51. and ſome alluſions to weaving, went before, ver. 10, 12. they ſuppoſe the verb here uſed, may ſignifie to weave; and the former ſimilitude therein proſecuted; as if it had bin ſaid: though this diſeaſe would cut off the web of my life before it be compleated; yet Lord be thou pleaſed to weave it out ſtill, and lengthen it to its due period. But this ſeems ſomewhat too far fetched.

V.15. What ſhall I ſay? he hath both ſpoken to me, and himſelf hath done it.] This paſſage, Some, make part of Ezekiah's former complaint; but as checking himſelf therein, and intimating the fruitleſneſſe of his complaint, and the unlikelyhood of ſpeeding in his former requeſt; as if he had ſaid; to what end do I thus bemoan my ſelf, in vain, and ſpend words to no purpoſe? it is God that hath paſſed a doom of death; and what he hath doomed, he will do; and there is no either debating the matter with him, or murmuring againſt him, or reſtraining him from what he intendeth to do. So Job 9.12,32. & 11.10. & 23.13,14. Pſal. 39.9. Chap. 14.26. or, to what end, do I ſeek to him, to undertake for me, when it is he himſelf that doth it? But others, at the fore-going verſe, end his complaints, and relations of his ſad and forlorn condition, and at this, begin his narration of Gods unexpected mercy and goodneſſe to him, in revoking his former doom, returning a gracious meſſage in the room of it, and, accordingly, accompliſhing it; as if he had ſaid, according to ſome, what I ſaid, he ſpake, and did. What I requeſted of him, for the prolonging of my life, he promiſed to do, and accordingly did. Or, as others, what ſhall I ſay? What ſhall I make more words, in way of relating my then ſad condition? like that of David, to Mephiboſheth, 2 Sam. 19.29. Or, how can I ſufficiently, in any words, expreſſe Gods goodneſſe toward me? like that of David, to God, Pſal. 106.2. & 116.12. & 139.17,18. he hath both ſaid, and done it; both promiſed me recovery, and accompliſhed what he promiſed, 2 King. 20.5.

he hath both ſpoken] Heb. and he hath ſaid; as Jer. 17.16. & 32.44.

unto me] Or, concerning me; as chap. 36.7. either concerning my death, as ſome; or, concerning my recovery; as others, rather.

himſelf hath done it] Heb. he hath done, with a defect of the pronoun, it; as Chap. 44.23. though ſome, to exclude any ſuch ſupply, bring in the pronoun, expreſſed in the text, after the verb: which yet will not ſo well do here; becauſe the neuter, commonly, is feminine.

I ſhall go ſoftly, all my years, in the bitterneſs of my ſoul] So thoſe that underſtand the fore-going branch, of the meſſage, or doom, of death; I ſhall, hereafter, have no joy of my life; I ſhall go drooping all my life long. But this ſeems not to be his meaning. For what hope, or expectation, could he have, of living years, that deſpaired of holding out a day to an end? See ver. 12,13. Others, therefore, render it, I will be thinking on this favour that God hath ſhewed me, all the days of my life, as long as I live, ver. 20. Pſal. 34.1. & 116.2. or, I ſhall paſſe the reſt of my life peaceably and quietly, after this bitter brunt is once over, ver. 6. Chap. 39.8.

go ſoftly] That is, penſively, ſay ſome; as one oppreſſed with extremity of grief. So Ahab, 1 King. 21.27. Or, ſoftly, that is, deliberately, or conſiderately, ſaith a Rabbine, as men uſe to do, that are ſeriouſly thinking on ſome weighty matter: (to which purpoſe, the old Latine, I will reckon up to thee) As minding Gods mercy herein ſhewed him; and confeſſing to, or praiſing his name for the ſame. Or, rather, ſoftly, that is, quietly, and chearfully: as the word is uſed, alſo, Chap. 42.4. being no where elſe found: as thoſe are wont to do, that march in ſtate, ſaith one; as a Nurſe, that leadeth a child gently by the hand, ſaith another: from the uſe of it, in the Talmud, rather, as men are wont to walk leiſurely, where they fear no danger of ſurpriſall; contrary to the manner of thoſe, that are frighted, or poſſeſſed with fear, Chap. 28.16. Jer. 46.5. & 48.9.

in the bitterneſſe of my ſoul] Whereof, ver. 17. ſo Job 7.11. & 10.1. or, after my ſouls bitterneſſe, when it is paſt, and gone. So is the particle found uſed, Chap. 18.4. See chap. 53.8.

V. 16. O Lord, by theſe things men live; and in all theſe things is the life of my ſpirit; ſo wilt thou recover me, and make me to live] That is, as thoſe that admit this reading; By thy promiſes and performances of the ſame, is the life of man prolonged; and mine among the reſt, whom thou haſt reſtored to life and health, Deut. 8.3. Matth. 4.4. See Chap. 64.5. And this ſenſe the words will very well bear. Yet they are by divers, divers other wayes rendred, by ſome, thus; Other men may live beyond theſe years, that thou haſt now aſſigned me; but among them all the life of my ſpirit, by miracle thus continued to me, hath this advantage above theirs, that thou wilt maintain it in health and life; that is, in vigorouſneſs to the laſt. By others, it is thus read; Beyond thoſe years, that thou, by ſome meſſage, aſſigneſt them, men may live, and among them all, ſo may the life of my ſpirit be produced: and I hope, therefore, or entreat thee, therefore, that thou wilt yet, relieve and quicken me. By others again, unto all thoſe, that ſhall live in time to come, beyond theſe years, ſhall the life of my ſpirit be made known; how thou haſt made me to ſleep, and quickned me; brought me to deaths door, and raiſed me up again. By ſome, laſtly, to let paſs the reſt, In theſe, yea in all theſe troubles of divers ſorts, threatning death, Chap. 37.3. & 38.1. Yet, doth the life of my ſpirit live; thou haſt made me to ſleep, (or, rather recovered me,) and quickned me. The former require too many ſupplements to make them up: this laſt, leaſt of any.

by] Heb. upon; as Chap. 3.5,6. or, beyond; as Job 22.24. & 23.2. or, by; as Gen. 27.40. Pſal. 92.4.

men live] Heb. they live; an indefinite form of ſpeech.

in all] Heb. unto all; as moſt commonly; and ſo ver. 17. or, in; as Chap. 26.9. & 28.12.

the life of my ſpirit] See Gen. 2.7. Chap. 42.5. Pſal. 104.29,30.

ſo] Heb. and; or ſo; as Prov. 17.3. Chap. 53.7.

wilt recover me] Or, haſt recovered me; reſtored me to health and ſtrength; ſo Job 39.7. is the word uſed; and as ſome alſo, Pſal. 126.1. Some render it, thou haſt made me to ſleep; underſtanding thereby, ſome, (as above) the ſleep of death, Pſal. 13.3. ſome, natural reſt; as if he had been diſtempered, through want of ſleep; which God had been afterward pleaſed to afford him, Pſal. 127.2. Jer. 31.26. but the word ſignifies, ſometime, indeed, to dream, chap. 29.7,8. and ſo moſt take it, Pſal. 126.1. never to ſleep.

make me to live] Or, made me whole; as ver. 21. or, kept me alive; as Exod. 1.17.

V. 17. Behold] See what a ſudden change here was. So Chap. 21.4.

for peace I had great bitterneſſe] Or, upon my peace, (as ch. 30.6.) or, after my peace, (as Jer. 52.31.) came great bitterneſſe. Not long after my deliverance from thoſe difficulties, I had been in by the Aſſyrian King, and his forces, when I made account, that now I ſhould enjoy peace and reſt, this grievous affliction then ſuddenly ſurpriſed me. See ver. 1. ſo Job 29.18. & 30.15. Jer. 8.15. & 14.19.

for peace] That is, inſtead of it, as Gen. 11.3. or, preſently upon it, or after it; as Gen. 7.4. Heb. unto; as Gen. 50.21. whence ſome would expound it, My bittereſt afflictions became ſalvation to me; that is, they turned to my good, Pſal. 119.67,71. Rom. 8.28. Heb. 12.11. but the former ſeems the ſounder.

peace] Tranquility and proſperity, Chap. 48.18. and 57.19,21.

great bitterneſſe] Heb. bitter bitterneſſe, or, bitterneſſe bitterneſſe, for, abundance of bitterneſs, or, bitterneſs upon bitterneſs; grief upon grief: ſo, juſtice juſtice, for, exact juſtice, Deut. 16.20. peace peace, for, perfect peace, Chap. 26.3. bitterneſſe, for, matter of grief and vexation; as ver. 15. 1 Sam. 22.2. Ruth 1.20,21.

but thou haſt in love to my ſoul delivered it from the pit of corruption] Heb. and (for, but, as chap. 29.13.) thou haſt loved my ſoul from the pit of corruption; a conciſe, or comprehenſive form of ſpeech, compriſing two notions in one term; whereof, the one is expreſſed, the other is ſuppreſſed; but implyed, and to be ſupplied in the verſion, that the ſenſe may be entire; ſo Pſal. 118.4. the Lord anſwered me in largeneſſe, for, the Lord anſwered me, and ſet me in a large place; or, ſet me at large, enlarged me, Jer. 46.27. I will ſave thee from afar, for, I will ſave thee, and bring thee back; or, in ſafety bring thee back from a far country; Act. 27.44. they were ſaved to the ſhore, that is, they were ſaved, and brought, or, brought in ſafety unto the ſhore; ſo 1 Sam. 7.2. they lamented after the Lord; that is, with lamentation, they looked, or ſought after him; 1 Cor. 5.2. Ye have not mourned, that he might be taken from among you, that is, out of grief, or, in mournful manner, endeavoured, or taken a courſe, to have ſuch an one caſt out of your ſociety; as it followeth, there, ver. 13. ſee here, before, ver. 14. and after, ver. 21. as alſo, Chap. 1.4.

love] The word here ſignifieth a propenſion of affection, whereby a mans ſoul is ſtrongly carried toward ſome party, whom he is exceedingly taken with; ſee Gen. 34.8. it is frequently uſed, of Gods love to his people, Deut. 7.7. & 10.15. & 21.11. and of them to him, Pſal. 91.14.

my ſoul] For, me; as Pſal. 3.2. & 116.7,8. & 119.25.

from the pit] The grave, Pſal. 30.3. & 103.4. the word here uſed, ſignifies as well deſtruction, as a pit; whence ſome ambiguity in that latter place; and that which is here called the pit of corruption, or conſumption, is, Pſal. 55.23. called the pit of deſtruction; the ſame word being there uſed in the latter place, that is here in the former.

of corruption] Or conſumption. The word it comes of, ſignifies to waſte, and wear away; as garments, over-long worn, uſe to do, Deut. 8.4. & 29.5. Pſal. 102.26. Chap. 50.9. it is applied to mens bodies alſo, and the parts thereof, Gen. 18.12. Pſal. 32.3. Lam. 3.4. attributed here to the grave: becauſe it waſtes and rotteth mens bodies, as old clouts and rags rot; or, conſumes them, till they be not; as the Pſalmiſt ſpeaks, Pſal. 72.7. where this very word is uſed; another term of the ſame notion, ſee Chap. 10.25. where with that conſumption, the Aſſyrian is, in wrath, threatned, from which, Ezekiah is here, out of love, delivered.

for thou haſt caſt all my ſins behind thy back] Thou haſt no more minded, regarded, or taken notice of my ſins, which might juſtly have cauſed thee to deny me this favour; then as if thou hadſt caſt them behind thy back; a borrowed ſpeech, taken from the manner of men, who are wont to caſt behind their back, ſuch things as they liſt not to look on, have no regard of, nor deſire to mind, or remember, Pſal. 16. 22. & 50.17. ſee ſomewhat the like expreſſions, Pſal.85.2. Chap. 43.25. Jer.31.34. Mic.7.19. we know the common by-word of the wallets, or, two parts of the wallet; the fore-part, into which we put other mens faults; and the back-part; into which, our own. But we muſt ſet our ſins before our face, if we would have God to caſt them behind his back, Pſal.50.21. & 51.3.

V. 18. For the grave cannot praiſe thee; death cannot celebrate thee] The deceaſed cannot perform thoſe offices any more, whereby thou art honoured, thy name celebrated, and thy glory publiſhed and propagated here on earth, among the ſons of men, Pſal. 6.5. & 30.9. & 80.18. & 88.10-12. & 115. 17,18. the grave, for, the buried; and death, for, the dead: as circumciſion, for, the circumciſed, Rom.15.8. Gal.2.9. Phil.3. 5. the ſame thing repeated in divers terms.

cannot praiſe thee] Heb. will not, or, ſhall not confeſſe thee; as Pſal.6.5. & 105.1. Matth.11.25. and ſo, ver.19. the indicative form, in a potential notion; as Chap. 26.18. ſo in the next word, and the next branch.

celebrate] Or, praiſe; thence, hallelujah: the firſt, and laſt word of divers Pſalms; Pſal.106. & 146-150. Rev. 19. 1, 4,6.

they that go down into the pit, cannot hope for thy truth] Dead bodies laid up in the grave, can neither ſee nor expect; neither take notice of, nor look for thy faithfulneſſe and truth, in the performance of thy gracious promiſes, Eccl.9.4-6,10.

they that go down into the pit] So the word is uſed, Gen.37. 22,24. Exod.21.33. Chap. 14. 15,19. and why ſome ſhould here render it, a ciſtern, I ſee not: for the phraſe, ſee Pſal.88. 4. Ezek.26.26. & 31.16. & 32.24,25.

V. 19. The living, the living he ſhall praiſe thee, as I do this day] They that ſurvive, and they alone can, and each of them ſhould: the repetition is emphatical; as the like, Pſal. 51.4. & 76.7. this being the principall end to which men ſhould live, and for which they ſhould deſire life, Pſal.80.18. & 102. 21. & 115.18,28. & 119.17,88,175. Rom.14.7,8. Phil.1.20, 21. See ver.22.

as I do] A defect to be ſupplyed, from the former branch; as I now praiſe thee; as Job 14. 5. 2 Chron. 10. 11. Chap. 30. 29.

the father to the ſon ſhall make known thy truth] To tranſmit the memory thereof unto poſterity, Pſal. 78.3,4. & 145.4. Joel 1.3. The ſyntax is, as 2 Sam.3.30. Jer.40.2.

thy truth] Thy faithfulneſſe in the performance of thy promiſes; as ver.18. Pſal.25.10.

V. 20. The Lord was ready to ſave me] Of his readineſs, ſee ver.4. Heb. The Lord to ſave; a defective form: as, the ears of the people were to the book, Neh.8.3. and, thy ſervant to thy fear, or ſervice, Pſal.119.38. that is, attentive to the one, and devoted to the other.

therefore we will ſing my ſongs to the ſtringed inſtruments, all the dayes of our life, in the houſe of the Lord] As at preſent he praiſed God, by his Hymn, penned to that end, on purpoſe; ſo he doth, by ſolemn promiſe, further engage himſelf ſo to do, as well in publike, as in private, as long as he liveth: ſo Pſal. 34.1. & 104.33. The memory of Gods mercies ſhould abide with us, when the act of them is over; as the ſent of the civet doth in the box, though the civet it ſelf be gone, Pſal. 105.5. & 119.93. & 145.7.

therefore] Heb. and; ſo Chap.37.20,26.

we will ſing my ſongs to the ſtringed inſtruments] Heb. we will hand my hand-inſtruments.

we] He ſpeaks in the plural, as men of ſome note and repute do, ſometime, of themſelves; (ſo Gen.39.27. Dan.2.36. Job 18.1. Cant.1.4.) or, to imply a joyning of others together with him, in this ſacred and ſolemn action; as Pſal. 34.3. & 142.7. ſo Num.22.6. Job 18.3. Cant.1. 4.

will ſing] The word properly ſignifies to handle, or play upon ſuch an inſtrument as is managed by the hand. See on Chap.23.16.

my] Becauſe more ſpecially concerning me; or the ſong ſung to them, compoſed by me: though ſome ſuppoſe the jod here, to be no pronoun, but a paragogical production of the word only; and then there will be no my, in the text. See ſomewhat the like, Jer.22.14. Lam.1.1. & Pſal.50.10. ſo Hab.3.19.

ſtringed inſtruments] Or, hand-inſtruments, rather; for the word is more general. We find in Scripture, their ancient muſical inſtruments reduced to two heads, the Nechiloth, Pſal. 5. and the Neginoth, Pſal 6. the Nechiloth, were wind-inſtruments; ſuch as were managed by wind, or breath; as pipes, fifes, flutes, trumpets, cornets, and the like: ſo called, becauſe they are pierced, or bored thorow, & made hollow, to receive and tranſmit the wind, or breath, that produceth the ſound. See ch.5.19. & 30.29. The Neginoth were hand-inſtruments; ſuch as were managed by the hand; not the ſtringed only, whether touched with the fingers, as lute, and harp; or, ſtruck over with a quill, as the cittern; or, with a bow, as the viol; but ſuch, alſo, as are ſhaken to and fro, as the cymbal; or beaten, whether with hand, or ſtick, as the timbrel; ſo called, from the fore-mentioned word, that ſignifies to touch, ſtrike, or play upon any ſuch kind of inſtrument, whether without ſong, or ſinging thereunto, 1 Sam. 16. 16, 17, 23. & 18.10. & 19.9. 2 King.3.15. Pſal.68.25. and the word here uſed, is ſometime, therefore, put for a ſong, that is ſung thereunto: as Job 30.9. Pſal.69.12. & 77.6. Lam.3.14,63. which may help to juſtifie our verſion, that here ſo rendreth it.

all the dayes] See on Chap.1.1. no day ſhould paſſe over his head, without ſome mindfulneſſe of this mercy; or, ſo long as he lived, he would be praiſing God for it, ſo oft as he ſhould have occaſion to repair to his houſe, Pſal.145.1,2.

of our life] See before, we will ſing.

in the houſe of the Lord] The Temple: as Chap.37.14. which he deſired health to repair to, ver.22. he would praiſe God for it, as well in publike, as in private, that others might be affected alſo with it, receive ſpiritual good by it, be incited to ſerve God, truſt to him, and depend on him, with expectation of the like ſucceſs; and that as many had (no doubt) joyned together in prayer for him; ſo many might return praiſe to God with him, and in his behalf: this being the end of holy aſſemblies, as well to bleſſe God for benefits received, as to ſeek him for them, Deut.16.15. 2 Chr.20.26,28. Pſal.9.14. & 22.22,25. & 34.1-6. & 40.10. & 66.13-15. & 111.1. & 107.32. & 149.1. & 150.1. 2 Cor.1.11.

V. 21. For Iſaiah had ſaid] The Hymn reported, the Penman of this part of the book, whether Eſay himſelf, or any other, returneth again to the ſtory, annexing two paſſages of it, not before ſpecified, in this verſe, and the next. Heb. And Iſaiah ſaid; but well rendred, had ſaid: as the like, Gen.12. 1. becauſe done before his recovery, and the hymn before-related, penned by him thereupon, verſ. 9. See 2 King. 20. 7.

ſaid] No doubt, by Gods direction and appointment.

Let them take a lump of figs, and lay it for a plaiſter upon the boil] Whether this plaiſter, according to Gods appointment, by the Prophet preſcribed, had any power or vertue in it, to help forward the cure intended, is much queſtioned. Some think that it had not, no more then the clay, that our Saviour tempered, to open the mans eyes with, that was born blind, Joh.9.6,7. uſed, only, to intimate the cure, and to enhance the miracle, the cure being accompliſhed by ſuch means, as had, of themſelves, no power to produce it. Others ſuppoſe, that it might have ſome natural power, to put forward the thing intended; for that they find in good Authors, that figs are held uſeful, either for the diſſolving, or ripening of ſwellings; and thoſe alſo, that are with ſome malignity accompanied. See Celſus, l.5. c.28. & Pliny, l. 23. c. 7. Againſt which, ſome except again, that figs are deemed ſo, where no ulcer is, as here there was. But whether any ſuch efficacy were in the plaiſter, or no, certain it is, that the cure was miraculous, and the effect, in a way, extraordinary; that Ezekiah brought ſo low, by ſo violent a diſeaſe, as himſelf deſcribeth it, ver.13,14. and an ulcer of that malignity, ſhould with the uſe of ſo ſlight a remedy, be ſo raiſed up, and recovered, that he ſhould be able within three days, not to riſe from his bed, or ſit up only, but without danger to go abroad, 2 King. 20.5. God would have him, and others, hereby, learn, not to neglect the means, when God either enjoyns, or affords them, for their good, corporal, or ſpiritual, that they may not by tempting him, bereave themſelves of the benefit that they might have reaped by them. See 2 King.5.10—14. Mat.4.6, 7. & 22.4,5,8. Luk.7.29. & 14.16—24. Act. 27. 24, 25, 31.

lay it for a plaiſter upon the boil] Heb. bruiſe it (for ſo the word ſignifies, Lev.21.20. found in no other place of Scripture, but here, and there) upon the boil; bruize it upon the boil, for bruize it, and lay it, or lay it bruized upon the boil. So Prov. 26.7. can a man take fire (for, take, and carry, or taking fire, carry it) in his boſome, and not be burnt; and Prov. 25.22. where the very ſame word is, compared with Rom.12.20. ſo ſhalt thou take coals of fire (that is, take, and heap, or lay, or having taken coals, heap, or put them) upon his head. Of ſuch conciſe language, ſee before on ver.14.17. It is more fully expreſſed, 2 King.20.7. they took, and laid.

God. Otherwiſe, the Prophet could not have thus enſured the ſucceſſe of it. The complement whereof, after the thing done, is recorded, 2 King.20.7.

that I ſhall go to the houſe of the Lord?] To wit, ſo ſuddenly, ſo ſoon, being in ſo low and weak a condition, as now I am: for the promiſe of God was, that he ſhould on the third day, go abroad, and repair to Gods houſe, 2 King.20.5. and the ſame is repeated in craving a ſign, 2.King.20.8. ſo that the ſign ſeems to have been deſired, not ſo much to ſeal the leaſe of the enſuing term of his life, as the ſudden recovery of his health; which ſeemed to him, a thing ſo ſtrange, and in a manner incredible, that he deſired to have it, by ſome ſign, enſured to him: the rather, in likelyhood, encouraged to make that requeſt; becauſe God, of his own accord, had before given him a ſign to aſſure him of delivery, from the King of Aſſyria, Chap.37.30. And that learned man, that would have the word to be underrſtod, as ſpoken not by way of requeſt, but in way of wonderment only; What a miracle will this be, that I ſhall go to the Lords houſe? conſidered not the courſe of the ſtory, whence this is taken; and is controlled by the Prophets anſwer there recorded, 2 King.20.9.

go up] To wit, within theſe three days, 2 King.20.5,8. go up; as, went up, Chap.37.15.

to the houſe of the Lord] The Temple; as Chap.37.15. His firſt journey, upon his going abroad, was to the Temple; partly, to publiſh his recovery, and to make it known to the people, that hung in ſuſpence; uncertain what was, or would become of their King, whoſe continuance with them could not, but be earneſtly deſired by the better part among them; but, principally, to praiſe God, in publike, in the ſpeciall place of his ſolemn ſervice, and in the face of his people, therein joyning together with him; it being one main cauſe, for which he deſired life, and health. See ver. 20. So Pſalm 27. 4. and 42. 1, 2, 4. and 84. 2. and 122. 1. Ezek. 46. 2, 10.

CHAP. XXXIX.

Verſ. 1. AT that time Merodach Baladan, the ſon Baladan king of Babylon, ſent letters, and a preſent to Hezekiah] This ſtory is recorded alſo, 2 King. 20.12–19. briefly touched with ſome aſperſion upon Ezekiah, concerning it, 2 Chr.32.25,26,31. It is here inſerted to make way, and give ſome light unto ſome enſuing Prophecies, concerning the Babylonian captivity, and the deliverance from the ſame.

At that time] Shortly after Ezekahs recovery, 2 King. 20. 7.

Merodach] This was the name of one of their idols, Jer.50. 2. As it was an uſual thing among Gods people, to inſert ſome of Gods titles into the names of their children; ſo the manner of the Heathen people, was to impoſe their idols names on their ſons, favourites, and followers. Hence Merodach, here, and Evil-Merodac, 2 King.25.27. See Dan.1.7. & 4. 8. As alſo, Rom. 16.1, 14, 15. 1 Cor.1.12. Phil.2.25. 1 Theſſ.1. 1. His name at large is ſuppoſed to have been, Merodac-ken pad, whence Mardokempad, in Ptolomy. So his idol, Merodach ſhould be but a part of his name; as Nebo, another of them, Chap.46.1 of his fathers; Nabo-natſar, of his ſons, Nabo-pol-atſar; and of his ſons ſon, Nabu-chadnatſar. For that learned man ſeems to be miſtaken, who conceives this Merodach, to be Nabopolaſar, who underſtanding that ſo many degrees the Sun went back, in Ezekiah's Dial, began thereupon to divide the day into hours. Nor do I finde, where the Author he cites, ſaith ought of the latter; and he is expreſly againſt the former. I might add, that this croſſeth the relation of the Rabbines, of Merodacs being accuſtomed to eat the third hour of the day, and then ſleep to the ninth, and that on the day that the Sun went thus back, he found it morning ſtill when he awaked. But the one ſeems to be as Authentick as the other. He is called Berodac, 2 King.20. 12. whether by a ſlip of the Scribes pen, the letters being much alike; or by a change of the letter, in common ſpeech, is uncertain. But ſo Diman, for, Dibon, Chap.15.9. And this mans Nephew, as is ſuppoſed, commonly called, Nebuchad-netſar, is in Jeremies Prophecies, oft termed, Nebuchadretſar, Jer.25.1,9. & 37.1. & 39.1. Some would have Merodac, to be a common name to the Kings of Babylon; as Pharaoh, anciently, to the Egyptian Kings, and Ptolomy, in latter times; Candace, to the Ethiopian Queens, Act. 8.27. and Caſar, to the Romane Emperors, Act. 25.10,12. But hereof is no great probability, nor any good proof made. See on Jer.50. 2.

Baladan] So called, by his fathers name, then added, it may be, to the former, when he came to ſucceed him. The name is found mentioned, by Beroſus, a very ancient writer of the Chaldean affaires, Joſeph, antiquities, lib. 10. cap.3. It is a compound name of Bell, or, Baal, one of their deities, Chap. 46.1. (found alſo in Belſhazzar, Dan. 5. 1.) and Adan; found likewiſe in Nabuzar-adan, 2 King. 25.8.

Baladan the ſon of Baladan] As Bartimeus, the ſon of Timeus, (if we may compare Kings and beggers, together) Mark. 10. 46. added here, it may be, to diſtinguiſh him from ſome other of that name. His Father, ſome ſuppoſe, to have been Nabonaſſar, mentioned by Ptolomy, from whoſe reign, the Chronologers uſe to draw their computations of thoſe times; yet not to have been ſo called, until he came to the Crown; but Beladan, or, Baladan, by his native name before: contrary to that which is ſaid of his ſon. They walk by themſelves, that would make, either the father, or the ſon, a Mede. One of the two Baladans, ſome ſuppoſe to be him, whom Cteſias, calleth, Belitanas; whoſe ſhrine, or ſepulchre, at Babylon, was in high eſtimation, for many after-ages.

king of Babylon] Yet not ſo abſolute a king, as may ſeem, but that he held, in ſome ſort, from the king of Aſſyria, that great king, as they then termed him, Chap.36.4,13. for out of his country, the king of Aſſyria drew people to inhabit ſome part of the diſpeopled land of Samaria, 2 King.17 4. and unto his city, did the Aſſyrian Kings Captains carry King Manaſſes priſoner, 2 Chr.33.11. Howbeit, about this time, the luſtre and power of the Aſſyrian being much impeached and impaired, by the defeat given to Sennacherib, the Babylonian kings growing weary of the Aſſyrian yoke, began to entertain thoughts of ſhaking it off, and making themſelves more abſolute, as not long after they did, laying ground for a new Monarchy, as large as that other, on whoſe ruines it was reared.

ſent letters] Heb. books; as Chap.37.13.

and a preſent] See 2 Chr.32.23.

for he had heard that he had been ſick, and was recovered] The occaſion of this embaſſage is, in part, here related, (he had heard of his ſickneſs) to congratulate his recovery, 2 King. 20. 12. He had heard alſo of the defeat given by miracle, to the Aſſyrian forces; and of the miracle granted upon Eſay's prayer, for the confirming of Ezekiahs faith, concerning his recovery, 2 King.20.11. and in regard of the one of theſe two, in likelihood, of the latter, he is ſaid alſo to have ſent to enquire, 2 Chr.32.31. Which yet no way favours their fancy, who would have the ſhadow only to have gone back on Ahaz his ſun-dial, the Sun holding his ordinary courſe ſtill in the skie: for he ſent not to enquire, whether ſuch a thing were done or no, (which in his own country they could not but ſee and obſerve) but whether, upon ſuch an occaſion, it had been done, and at ſuch an ones requeſt. And for the former, the like ſeems to be implyed; where it is recorded, that upon that defeat, preſents were, from forraign Princes, ſent to Ezekiah, 2 Chr.32.21,23. He ſent, in likelihood, therefore, the rather, partly, out of his diſaffection to the king of Aſſyria, of whoſe overthrow, and power, and repute, thereby clipt, and eclipſed, he was glad; and partly, alſo, out of a deſire to curry favour with Ezekiah, and entertain amity with one, who appeared, hereby, to be highly in favour with ſo powerful a God, as could, on that wiſe, command, both in heaven, and on earth. That which one of his lineage, alſo, was enforced to confeſſe, Dan.4.35.

was recovered] Heb. grown ſtrong again.

V. 2. And Ezekiah was glad of them] Being over-much taken with, and ſomewhat puffed up with ſo ſolemn an embaſſage, from a Prince ſo remote, and of no ſmall power, with whom he had never had any commerce, or entercourſe before. And there may ſeem to have been two ſpecial cauſes of this his affection; his repute, and his profit. For he deemed it, a matter of no ſmall repute and honour to him, that the report of what had befallen him, and God had done for him, ſhould flye ſo far abroad, and that hereby occaſion was miniſtred, to make his ſtate and wealth further known, to ſuch a Potentate, as he was. And again, he might ſuppoſe, that compliance with ſuch an one, might turn to his advantage. For the Babylonian might be induced to attempt ſomewhat againſt the Aſſyrian, whom he perceived that he bare no good affection unto, if he ſhould be offering, at any time, to moleſt him again. Certain it is, that ſome ſmatch of elation and ſiniſter affection was in it. See 2 Chr. 32. 25, 31 and ſee Davids like infirmity, or, as himſelf termeth it, folly, 2 Sam.24. 1,10. Inſtead of what is here ſaid, He was glad of them, or, on them, is read, 2 King. 20.13. with change of one letter, he heard of them, or, on them: which may miniſter ſuſpition of ſome ſlip of a pen, in that place; as in Berodac, above. See ver.1.

and ſhewed them the houſe of his precious things, the ſilver, and the gold, and the ſpices, & the precious ointments, and al the houſe of his armor, and all that was found in his treaſures; there was nothing in his houſe, nor in all his dominion that Hezekiah ſhewed them not] Some of the Jewiſh writers ſay, that Ezekiah did this, not of his own accord, but at the requeſt of the Babylonian Embaſſadors, who deſired the ſight of them. And therefore underſtand theſe words, that are read, 2 King.20. 13. as they expound them, and ours render them, He hearkened to them: he condeſcended therein to them. This is but a meer conjecture of theirs. But howſoever, by the iſſue, it appears, that there was ſome ſpice of vanity, and oſtentation, in it; which afterward he ſmarted for, 2 Chr. 32. 25.

his precious things] Or, his ſpicery: or, odoriferous drugs. The ſame word is found, with little difference, in letters interchangeable, Gen.37.25. & 43.11. And it ſeems to be derived, from a word that ſignifies to pound, or, beat to powder; becauſe ſuch drugs and ſpices, are wont to be ſo dealt with, to make confections of them, Exod.30.34--36. Howbeit, ſome of the Jewiſh Doctors would have it a more comprehenſive term, and to ſignifie, as ours, in the text, render it, any pretious things, of what kinde ſoever. Which ſome, the rather, encline unto, becauſe mention is made, afterward, of ſpices, apart. But the one word, may be here uſed of odoriferous drugs, the other, of ſpices, for other uſes. And ſo the old latine ſeems to diſtinguiſh them, interpreting the former, ſpices, or, drugs; the latter, odors; as the Greek, perfumes.

pretious ointment] Heb. good oyl; as Eccl. 7. 1. So Chap. 57.9. Hoſ. 12. 1. oyl, for, ointment: becauſe the ordinary ground of them, Exod.30. 24,25.

all the houſe] Or, every houſe; for there might be divers of them. So Chap. 1.5.

of his armor] Of which, ſee Chap.22.8. Some render it, jewels; and it may as well be wardrobe: for the word is very general. See Chap.22.24. including all arms, 1 Sam.31. 9. weapons, Jer.21.4. Jewels, Gen.24. 53. garments, Deut. 22. 5. inſtruments, 1 Chr. 15. 16. veſſels, Chap.52. 11. cask, Jer.48. 11. houſehold-ſtuff, Gen.31. 37. Ezek. 12.4. of any kinde whatſoever. The firſt, which our verſion gives in the text, ſeems moſt probable in this place.

all that was found in] For all that was in: an uſual Hebraiſm. See Chap.13. 15.

his treaſures] Or, treaſuries. For the word is uſed here, as elſewhere, for places, wherein ſtores, of all ſorts, are ſtowed, 1 Chr.26.24. & 27. 25. So ver. 4.

there was nothing] Of worth, ſufficient for the ſight of ſuch perſons. Heb. not a word; for, not a thing. So Gen. 19. 21. 1 King.10.3. Pſal.141.4. ſo alſo, ver. 4.

in his houſe, nor in all his dominion] Heb. and, or, or; (as Chap.36.19.) in his whole dominion. The ſight whereof, when they were there, and report of what they had ſeen when they came home, might, in likelihood, prove a bait to the Babylonians, enciting them, in ſucceeding times, to attempt the gaining of ſo rich and flouriſhing a kingdom. For Babylon, in likelihood, was not in thoſe times, ſo goodly, and ſtately a place, as afterward: Nineveh, at that time, being the great city, Jon.1.2. & 3.2,3. the chief ſeat of the Aſſyrian Monarchy, Chap. 37. 37. by the ruine whereof, was Babylon raiſed.

V. 3. Then came Iſaiah the Prophet unto king Hezekiah, and ſaid unto him; what ſaid theſe men? and from whence came they unto thee?] By theſe queſtions, and that other, v.4. The Prophet not coming on his own head, but ſent on Gods errand, as Nathan to David, 2 Sam. 12.1. would draw from him a relation of his own inconſiderate act; and make way by his anſwer thereunto, to the meſſage, which, from God, he was to deliver unto him.

Then] Heb. And; as Chap.28.4. and ſo ver. 4. & 5. & 8.

And Ezekiah ſaid, they are come from a far country to me, even from Babylon] So it is ſaid of Babylon, Jer.4.16. And Ezekiah ſeems the rather to mention the remoteneſſe of the place, from whence they came, as implying, that he could, in common civility, do no leſſe, then ſhew all the kindneſſe, and afford the beſt and ampleſt entertainment that might be, to thoſe that had come ſo long a journey, on ſo kind and friendly an embaſſage. Of Babylon, Heb. Babel; ſee on Chap. 13. 1.

V. 4. Then ſaid he, What have they ſeen in thy houſe? And Hezekiah anſwered; All that is in mine houſe have they ſeen: there is nothing among my treaſuries, that I have not ſhewed them.] An ingenuous confeſſion. See on ver.2.

among my treaſures] Heb. in my treaſuries; ſee on ver.2.

V. 5. Then ſaid Iſaiah to Hezekiah, Hear the word of the Lord of Hoſts] Hear what, for this thine over-ſight, God now ſaith to thee: ſo Chap. 28. 14.

V. 6. Behold the dayes come, that all that is in thine houſe, and that which thy Fathers have laid up in ſtore unto this day, ſhall be carried to Babylon] A ſad meſſage, and ſuch as might well quail and quel all the joy that Ezekiah had of this ſo gloſing and wel-pleaſing an embaſſage, fulfilled, partly, in his ſon Manaſſes his dayes, 2 Chr. 33.11. but principally in the dayes of Jehojakin, and Zedekiah, 2 King. 24.12.--16. & 25. 6--21. God, thereby, ſhewing how deeply he deteſteth pride and vain glory, and how ſeverely he, ſometime, chaſtiſeth it in his own, even his deareſt, and beſt beloved. See 2 Sam.24.10--15. Not that this failing in Ezekiah, was the main cauſe of this grievous evil, here foretold; but to intimate that what he had unadviſedly done, ſhould help to whet them on to the doing of it; and by the acquainting of him with it, to ſad his ſoul, and give him occaſion, thereby, to humble himſelf for his folly therein: which, accordingly, alſo he did, 2 Chr.32. 26.

Behold] I ſhall tell thee that which thou didſt little think of, when thou ſhewedſt theſe men all thy ſtores. So Chap.29. 14. & 37.7.

the dayes come] Heb. coming, the time is a coming. So Jer.7.32.

thy Fathers] Thine Anceſtors; the Kings, thy progenitors. So Chap.37.12.

ſhall be carried to Babylon] As Chap.8.4. being ſeized on by the King of Babylon, and his miniſters. So the Syrian threatned Ahab, 1 King.20.5,6.

nothing ſhall be left, ſaith the Lord] As thou concealedſt nothing from them. See on ver.2.

V. 7. And of thy ſons that ſhall iſſue from thee, which thou ſhalt beget, ſhall they take away; and they ſhall be eunuchs in the Palace of the King of Babylon] This is news yet ſadder, and more heavy then the former; a mans ſons are much dearer to him, then his ſubſtance, and their welfare, then his wealth: this was the worſt tidings that came laſt to Job, Job 1.18,19. See alſo, 1 Sam.8.11-13. and the Prophet delivers it, in variety of terms, (as God to Abraham, Gen.21.1.) thy ſons, that ſhall iſſue from thee, and whom thou ſhalt beget; the more to move affection; and to make the deeper impreſſion.

whom thou ſhalt beget] Either immediately, as Manaſſes, 2 Chr.33.11. or, mediately, as thoſe his iſſue, and thine by him, of the blood-Royall, 2 Chron. 36. 6, 10, 20. Dan. 1. 3, 4.

ſhall they take away] That is, ſhall be taken away; the verb taken indefinitely: as Chap.8.4. Luk.12.20.

and they ſhall be] Or, that they may be; to make them ſo: ſo the particle is oft uſed, Chap.13.2. & 19.12.

eunuchs] Or, officers; for the word is uſed for either. See Gen.37.36. Chap.56.3. Jer.41.17.

V. 8. Then ſaid Hezekiah to Iſaiah, Good is the Word of the Lord which thou haſt ſpoken] A pious ſpeech of an humbled ſoul, acknowledging all that God willeth, or doth, to be juſt and good; and willingly, therefore, ſubmitting himſelf thereunto. So 1 Sam.3.18. 2 Sam.15.26. Job 1.21. Pſal.39.9. & 119.75,137. Lam.3.22. Mic.7.9.

he ſaid Moreover] Heb. and he ſaid; as Chap.30.26.

For there ſhall be peace and truth in my dayes] It is yet a great favour, that God hath vouchſafed me, in delaying this evill, that it ſhall not come in my time, (as 1 King.21.29.) and in giving me aſſurance of continued peace and ſafety, during my life. See Chap.28.6.

For there ſhall be] Or, Yet there ſhall be; as chap.9.1. or, That there ſhall be: as Job 11.6. & 22.3. to wit, is it not good? as it is more fully, 2 King.20.19. See there.

peace and truth] Or, aſſured peace. So Chap.26.3. & 20. 18. Ier.14.13. & 33.6. Howbeit, there ſeemeth to be an alluſion to the ſolemn form of ſalutation, then in uſe, peace, and truth, Eſt.9.30.

CHAP. XL.

Verſ. 1. Comfort ye, comfort ye my people, ſaith your God] In the fore-going Chapter, was an hint given of the Babylonian Captivity. And by the ſubject matter of the enſuing Prophecies, it may appear, how fitly the ſtory, therein related, was here inſerted. For the ſubſequent Sermons are generally, moſt, if not all of them, concerning that their Captivity, their delivery out of it, and the reſtitution of their State and Church, in after-times; but ſo, that they reſt not in that, but reach ſtill further, unto the ſpirituall delivery of Gods people, from the far more direful thraldom under ſin and Satan, by the Meſſias therein typified, the advancement of his Kingdome, and enlargement thereof, by the ſubduing and bringing in of thoſe nations, that had formerly been enemies thereunto. The Sermon, in this Chapter contained, the Prophet maketh entrance into, with a promulgation of Gods purpoſe, concerning his peoples deliverance; the approach whereof, he commands, for their comfort, to be publiſhed to them, by his meſſengers, ver.1-5,9-11. and the undoubted certainty of the performance of it, notwithſtanding all obſtructions and difficulties lying in the way, is confirmed; firſt, from the ſtability of Gods Word, illuſtrated by the fickleneſs & frailty of all humane excellency, ver.6-8. Secondly, from the immenſity of his power and eſſence, illuſtrate by the feebleneſs and vanity of all creatures, idols eſpecially, ver.12-ver.12-20. and concluded with a tart check to idolaters, for their impious preſumption, ver.21-26. and a gentle reproof of Gods people; for their diffidence of ſupport and deliverance, ver.27-31.

Comfort ye] It is the ſpeech of God by the Prophet, directed firſt to the Prophets, that were to live in the time of the Babylonian Captivity; as did Jeremy, Ezekiel, and Daniel; and ſecondly, alſo, to thoſe holy perſons, endued with a Prophetical Spirit, that lived neer our Saviours coming in the fleſh; as Zachary, Luk.1.67. Simeon, and Anna, Luk.2.25, 36. and to the Apoſtles, likewiſe, and their aſſiſtants, that were to publiſh the glad tidings of ſalvation by Chriſt, not to the Jews only, but to the Gentiles, Act.13.32,33,46,47. It is redoubled, to add the more emphaſis to it: as verſ. 9. Zeph.2.1.

my people] Whom I have not utterly caſt off, or forgotten; though, for the preſent, I may ſeem not to regard, ver.27.

ſaith your God] Heb. will your God ſay; and ſo divers Interpreters, not amiſſe: as fore-telling what charge and inſtructions God would give, in thoſe times, to his Miniſters and meſſengers, for their dealings with his people.

your God] Who will ſhortly ſhew himſelf ſo to be, Chap.24. 1. ver.10. Rom.3.29,30. & 10.12.

V. 2. Speak ye comfortably to Jeruſalem] Heb. Speak to the heart of Jeruſalem; as Gen.24.3. & Hoſ.2.24. Jeruſalem, that is, Gods people, ver.1. thoſe that ſometime dwelt there themſelves, or are the iſſue of them; that have ſpecial relation to Jeruſalem, either that below, or from above, Gal.1.26. So ver.9. Chap.51.17.

cry unto her] Publiſh, proclaim it; as ver.6. So Dan.3.4. Jon.3.2,4.

that her warfare is accompliſhed] The word here uſed, doth ſignifie, ſometime, a ſet term of time, Job 14.14. Sometime, ſervice in general, whether military, or other, Num.4.23. & 8.24. ſometime, a ſet term of ſervice, Job 7.1. and ſo here; the ſet term of her ſervice, or, ſervitude, is expired. Heb. fulfilled; as Gen.29.27. Act.2.1. that the time, which was by God prefixed, for the continuance of her captivity and ſervitude, under the Chaldeans, is now at an end; See Jer.25.12. & 27.7. Dan.9.2. and ſo that the term likewiſe prefixed for their ſervitude, though of another nature, under the Law, is now expired, at the bringing in of the Meſſias, Gal.4.1-4.

that her iniquity is pardoned] Gods wrath is pacified and appeaſed towards her, and he reconciled again to her; having for Chriſts ſake, in whom ſatisfaction is made for the ſins of all Gods people, forgiven, and forgotten all thoſe her tranſgreſſions, that were the procuring cauſes of her captivity, Chap.43.25. Jer.31.34. Dan.19.24. Rom.3.25,26. Heb.9.15, 26. Heb. her iniquity is accepted; or, the puniſhment of her iniquity: as the word is uſed, Gen.4.13. an alluſion to thoſe ſacrifices, or ſacred rites, uſed for expiation of ſin; which being accepted, the ſin is ſaid to be expiated, Levit.1.4.

that ſhe hath received of the Lords hand double for all her ſins] Not that ſatisfaction was by any of their ſufferings made unto Gods juſtice for their ſins; that nothing could do, but the blood of Chriſt alone, Heb.10.4-10. much leſſe, that they had ſuffered more at Gods hand, then by their ſins they had deſerved; for they confeſs, that God had puniſhed them far beneath their iniquities, Ezra 9.13. Lam.3.22. but that ſhe had in a large meaſure been chaſtiſed by God for her tranſgreſſions, endured ſo much to the full, as he deemed fit to be inflicted, Pſal.80.5. double, for, abundantly; as Chap.61.7. Jer. 16.18. & 17.18. Rev.18.6.

V. 3. The voice of him that cryeth in the wilderneſſe] Or, This ſhall be, or, Let this be the voice of him, that cryeth in the wilderneſſe. This ſhall be, or, Let this be the ſubject matter, that ſhall then be proclaimed. Yet the Prophet may ſeem here to ſpeak of it, as if in a Prophetical rapture, at preſent, he heard it. So Chap.13.4. & 66.6. Jer. 4.15,19,21,31. and 31,15.

of him that cryeth] Collectively, of thoſe that are ſent out to publiſh the return of Gods people from Babylon, unto their own country again; and of thoſe, likewiſe, that give warning of the Meſſias his coming; of John the Baptiſt more eſpecially, Mal.4.5. Matth.11.14. Mar.1.2,3. Luk.1.76,77. Joh.1.22,23.

in the Wilderneſſe] The waſtes that lay between Babylon and Judea; as implying the place where this cry ſhould be made; to the people, that dwelt neer at hand thereabout; and ſo the text runneth, both in the ancient Greek verſion, and in the Evangeliſts, who ſeem to have followed the ſame, Matth. 3.3. Mar.1.3. Luk.3.4. Joh.1.23. which yet, as it reſpecteth the appearance of the Meſſias, ſo it hath a more ſpecial relation unto the wilderneſſe of Judea, where John Baptiſt's Father lived, and wherein he began his preaching, Luk.1.39,40, 80. Matth.3.1. Mar.1.1,4. Howbeit, ſome, regarding the points of diſtinction in the Hebrew, refer this clauſe to the words following, and making them part of the cry, read the text in this manner;

In the wilderneſſe prepare ye the way of the Lord] It is a figurative ſpeech, borrowed from the practice of great Princes and Potentates, who when they are to remove from place to place with their train and attendants; or to lead military forces into forreign parts, are wont to ſend their harbingers before, to ſurvey the Coaſts, and with the help of pioneers going along with them, or the Inhabitants of places adjacent ſummoned in to aſſiſt them, to clear the way from obſtructions, and facilitate their paſſage. See on Chap.37.24. and ſee the like, Chap.62.10.

in the wilderneſſe] Becauſe in ſuch places, there being ordinarily no beaten roads, the wayes are uſually over-grown, and uneaven, and the paſſages commonly obſtructed. And it hath an eye to thoſe waſte and deſert places, that Gods people were to paſſe by, in their return from Babylon, into their own Country: as Chap.41.18,19. & 43.19,20. but withall, alluding to their travelling in former time, through the wilderneſſe, from Egypt, to Canaan, Num.10.33.

prepare ye the way] Not that the people of the countries, by which Gods people were to paſſe, in their return from Babylon, ſhould be called in, to clear and fit the way for them; but that their paſſage home, ſhould, by Gods providence, and his good hand upon them, be made as eaſie and expeditious for them, as if ſuch a thing had been done. See Cyrus his Proclamation, how well it ſuiteth herewith, Ezr.1.3,4. and the effect of it there, ver.5,6. See alſo Ezr.7.7-28. & 8.21-23,31, 32. ſpiritually, the way is prepared for Chriſts coming, by ridding mens hearts of thoſe myſtical thorns and thickets, briers and brambles, of evil concupiſcence and corruptions, wherewith they are either by inbred vitioſity, or by practice and cuſtome of ſin, wholly over-grown, Jer.4.4. Hoſ.10.12. Heb.6.8. that which in a ſpecial manner was performed by the Miniſtery of John, Mal.4.5,6. Mat.3.1,2,7-12. Mar.1.4. of the Lord] By which Gods people may paſſe under his conduct, as formerly, to the land of Canaan, Exod.13.21,22. Num.9.17-23. Pſal.68.7. Chap.58.8.

make ſtrait in the deſert an high-way for our God] The ſame thing in other forms repeated.

make ſtraight] Or, eaven, or both; make it ſtraight, and lay it level, that they may not be compelled to fetch tedious compaſſes about, and wind to and fro, to avoid the uneavenneſſe of the way. See Chap.26.7.

an high-way] Or, cauſey; a way caſt up for the more convenient paſſage. See Chap.35.8.

V. 4. Every valley ſhall be exalted, and every mountain and hill ſhall be laid low; and the crooked ſhall be made ſtraight, and the rough places plain.] Luk.3.5. The way ſhall be made eaven & eaſie, for their more convenient and commodious paſſage, all impediments and obſtructions being remedied and removed, Chap.11.15,16. & 42.16. & 45.11. Zach.3.7. The words may be read, as ſpoken by way of injunction, that ſo they may run in one tenour with the former, ver.3. Let every valley be raiſed, and every mountain and hill taken down, or laid low, made eaven and levell with the other, as much added to the one, as is taken from the other, that there may be an equality; as 2 Cor. 8. 14. (becauſe hill and dale make the paſſage more troubleſome and tedious) and let the crooked way, or place, be made a ſtraight one, and the rough places plain. Howbeit, what God willeth to be done here, he ſaith, he himſelf will do, that is, cauſe to be done, Chap.42.16.

the crooked] To wit, place, way, or paſſage: a defect of the ſubject, as Chap.34.4. Ezek. 13.15. the word may ſignifie perverſe, as we render it, Jer.17.9. or crooked, as our verſion hath it; and as another word, in a parallel place, Chap.42.16. and ſo both the Greek, and the Evangeliſt, Luk.3.5. Yet the word, in its native notion, ſignifieth a ſupplanting place, or paſſage (for ſo the verb it comes of, is conſtantly found uſed, Gen.27, 36. Hoſ.12.3. Jer. 9.3.) ſuch a way, as men are ſubject to trip and ſtumble in, as rough and ſtony ways commonly are: ſee Chap.62.10.

ſtraight] Heb. ſtraightneſſe, Pſal.45.6. or eavenneſſe, as Pſal. 26.12. for the word moſt commonly ſignifieth a plain, Deut. 3.10. & 4.43. Joſh.13.9,16,17. the abſtract for the concrete, or a defect of the regent: ſtraightneſſe, or eavenneſſe, for a place of ſtraightneſſe, or eavenneſſe, that is, a ſtraight, or eaven place, a plain: ſo alſo, Chap.42.16. Zach.3.7.

rough places] A defect of the ſubject, as before: the word here uſed, comes from a verb, which, as moſt think, ſignifies to lift up, Exod. 28. 28. & 39.21. where alone it is in Scripture found: whence a noun commonly rendred elation, or pride, Pſal. 31.20. and another uſed by the Jewiſh Doctors, for a ſtone, or peble, that lying higher then the ground, or path, makes the way rough and uneaven; and the Jewiſh Doctors therefore expound the word here, of places rough or rugged with hillocks, clods, ſtones, or other eminencies, that make it uneaven and troubleſome to travellers. Only one of them would have the verb in Moſes ſignifie to joyn, or bind together, and the ſubſtantive, in the Pſalm, a combination; and the adjective, hills joyned one to another. But the former, as the more received, ſo ſeems the more probable.

plain] Or, a plain; as we uſe the word ſubſtantively: for the word ſignifies properly, a vale, or a plain, Gen. 11.2. Deut. 11.11. Chap. 41.18. & 63.14. this clauſe may well be the ſame, in effect, with the branch next before-going: the ſum of all is, that all impediments and incumbrances, great or ſmall, ſhould be removed.

V. 5. And the glory of the Lord ſhall be revealed, and all fleſh ſhall ſee it together.] Or, That, the glory of the Lord may be revealed, and all fleſh may together ſee it. So ſome, as rendring a reaſon, why all this preparation is required, that the Lord may generally be ſeen coming in pomp and ſtate. But the clauſe annexed, confirms the received verſion. The meaning is, that Gods power manifeſted in the deliverance, reduction, and reſtitution of his people, ſhall be ſo conſpicuous, that not they alone themſelves; but others alſo of all ſorts, ſhall ſee it, and take notice of it, Pſal. 126. 2. A typicall reſemblance of Gods majeſty, and glory manifeſted in Chriſt, for the ſalvation of all his, Joh. 1.14. See Pſal. 97.6. Chap. 33. 13. & 66. 18.

all fleſh] That is, all the Elect, ſay ſome, as all fleſh, for the whole Jewiſh Nation, Jer. 45.5. but the word ſeems more generall; and to import all Nations, as well Gentiles, as Jews, as Joel 2.28.

ſee it] A defect of the pronoun; as Jer. 17.6. and ſo in the next clauſe.

for the mouth of the Lord hath ſpoken it] And it ſhall certainly therefore be effected, how improbable, or impoſſible ſoever, it may ſeem in mans ſight. So Chap. 1. 20. and 58.14.

V. 6. The voice ſaid, cry.] Heb. a voice ſaying, which ſome render in the future, A voice ſhall ſay, which they underſtand of a voice of Chriſt, ſpeaking to his Apoſtles, and ſuggeſting unto them what they ſhould preach. Others, in the preſent: There is a voice, that ſaith; which yet they expound, as ſpoken prophetically of the time to come. But we need not decline the received verſion; the Prophet relating a charge, that God had by an inward voice, in viſion given him. Howbeit, I ſhould rather render it, a voice, then the voice; partly, becauſe there is no article in the text; and partly, to diſtinguiſh it from the voice before-mentioned, ver. 3. See the like, Rev. 14.13.

And he ſaid, what ſhall I cry? He, that is, the party unto whom the voice came, and that charge was thereby given, demanding what it might be, that he was to proclaim: the Prophet Eſay himſelf, as I conceive it: for the Prophets manner is to ſpeak in the third perſon, of themſelves. So Chap. 2. 1. Howbeit, the conceit of that Jew is moſt frivolous, who ſuppoſeth the Prophet, as repenting him of his over-forwardneſſe in offering to be ſent, before he knew what his errand would be, chap. 6.8. was now grown more wary; and would firſt know what it was, that he was thus to publiſh. But this vain conceit of ſo unſutable a diſpoſition to ſo heroical a ſpirit, as this our Prophet was endowed with, I ſhould not mention, but that I find it, to have taken with ſome great ones.

All fleſh is graſſe, and all the goodlineſſe thereof is as the flower of the field.] The ſubject matter of that which he was to proclaim: which to make the text, therefore, the more clear and entire, ſome inſert, And he, or it (to wit, the voice) ſaid, Cry. The like ſupplies, ſee Neh. 13.25. Job 8.18. Pſal. 27.8. But the queſtion is, to what end, or upon what occaſion this Sermon of mans frailty, if here enjoyned to be made. Some would have it done, for the fitting of men to receive Chriſt, and the doctrine of ſalvation, by Chriſt. And, indeed, the ſerious conſideration of mans own infirmity and impotency, notwithſtanding all his naturall endowments and excellencies, to ſave himſelf, or to afford ought that may conduce thereunto, is a ſpecial means to induce, yea, enforce him, to go out of himſelf, and to make him willing to ſeek for ſalvation by Chriſt. But the ſcope of God, by the Prophet, in this place, ſeems rather to arm and confirm the hearts and minds of Gods people againſt ſuch doubts and diſtruſtful thoughts as might ariſe within them, or be ſuggeſted to them, in the time of their captivity, concerning the impoſſibility of the fore-going promiſe, of the releaſement and reſtitution, eſpecially, conſidering the great power of the Babylonians, under whom they were captives: which to remove and blow away, the Prophet is willed to proclaim, that not the Babylonians alone, but all the men in the world, were they put all together in a body, were but graſſe; and all their might and excelleney, no other, then as ſome goodly and beautiful, to look upon, Mat. 6.28, 29. but tender and fading flower, that cannot endure ſo much as the leaſt puff of wind; ſuch as God is able, with a word of his mouth, to defeat and deſtroy, yea, with the leaſt blaſt of his breath, to diſperſe and blow clean away. And ſo it hath reference to the cloſe of the fore-going diſcourſe; for the mouth of the Lord hath ſpoken it, ver. 5. that which alſo it returneth unto, in the end of this paſſage, as being the main end intended in it; but the word of our God ſhall ſtand for ever, ver. 8.

All fleſh is graſſe] So Pſal. 37.2. & 90.5, 6. & 92.7. & 103. 15. Chap. 37.27. 1 Pet. 1.24.

fleſh] Man, or Mankind, Gen. 6.12, 13. ſo ver. 5. But in the word here, is an intimation of mans infirmity and frailty; as Gen. 6.3. Pſal. 78.39. Chap. 31. 3. Jer. 17.5. and ſo it is uſed of Chriſt, Rom. 8.3. Heb. 5.7.

is graſſe] That is, is like graſs, is as graſs; as in the next branch, is as a flower: a defect of the note of ſimilitude; as Chap. 28.1. & 33.4, 11. but it is that that makes the ſentence more emphatical; as if he ſhould ſay, he is not like graſs only, he is no other then graſs, with God eſpecially. So, not like vanity only, Pſal. 144. 3. but vanity it ſelf, Pſal. 39.5. & & 62. 9. not as a wind, but a wind that paſſeth away, and returneth not, Pſal. 79. 39. See the like, Job 7. 7. & 8.9, 14. So ver. 7.

and all the goodlineſſe thereof] The Hebrew word properly ſignifieth, benignity, bounty, or goodneſs, Prov. 20. 6. and becauſe that is a thing, that uſually maketh men deſirable, & to be had in eſtimation and repute, Prov. 19.20. hence it cometh to paſs, that the ſame word is uſed for grace, or graceſulneſs, or glory, as it is here rendred in the ancient Greek, and by the Apoſtle, 1 Pet. 1.24. See Exod. 33. 19, 22. where the one is deemed to be expounded by the other; and there appeareth, therefore, no neceſſity of altering the text, as ſome would do. The word ſeems to import, whatſoever natural endowments may make men to be had in admiration, or eſtimation, with others, as perſons of eminency, and ability to effect great matters. And one of the great Jewiſh Maſters obſerveth it, to be ordinarily uſed for any excellencie, or eminencie, either in good, or in evil. See Pſal. 16.3. See alſo of mans vanity, Chap. 2.22. Thoſe, that preſſing the propriety of the word, underſtand it to be meant of piety, or moral goodneſs, I conceive to go beſide the intendment of the Prophet, in this place; as well as the Jewiſh Commenters, who expound it of the Gentiles, the enemies of Gods people eſpecially, all whoſe goodneſs, ſay they, is but ſin; (not unlike that, Rom. 14.23.) or, if they had done any good, yet it periſhed, and was not regarded, in regard of the wrongs that they did to Gods People, Ezek. 18.24. or the good that they intend, or do to any, dyeth with them, when they dy, Pſal. 146.4.

as the flower of the field] Or, as a flower of the field; as any one of them, the tendreſt, and of leaſt continuance or vigour, ſo Job 14.2. Pſal. 103.15.

The graſs withereth] Pſal. 37. 2. & 90.6. & 102.4. Chap. 15.6.

the flower fadeth] Chap. 28.1, 4. Jam. 1.10. and ſo doth man and all his excellency, together with him, Pſal. 49. 17. & 73. 19, 20. & 146. 4.

becauſe the Spirit of the Lord bloweth upon it] Or, when the breath of the Lord bloweth upon it: The flower fadeth, if but the wind blow upon it, Pſal. 103.16. Jam. 1. 11. called Gods breath, Pſal. 147.18. whence ſome of the Ancients do ſo underſtand that, Gen. 1.2. man, and his excellency, is all likewiſe blaſted, if God do but blow upon it, ver. 24. Hab. 1.9. who, as with a word, with a breath, he made and created all things at firſt, Gen. 1.2. & 2.7. Pſal. 33.6. and when they are ruined, can raiſe and renew them again, Pſal. 104.30. ſo with a bare blaſt of his breath, he can much more diſſipate, and blow clean away, both the creature it ſelf, and whatſoever might or power it is able to make, Job 34.14, 15. Pſal. 104. 29. Dan. 2.34, 35. Zach. 4.6, 7. Some expound it of the Spirit of God, diſcovering the vanity of all humane excellency. But that ſeems not ſo much intended in this place.

ſurely the people is graſs] Or, ſurely all people (as all fleſh, before, ver. 6. ſupplyed, as 1 Sam. 30.8. & Chap. 30.17. and as the like, Chap. 58.13.) are graſs. And the Babylonians, therefore, and your mightieſt adverſaries whoſoever. So Pſal. 39.5. ſurely every man, or all men, in his beſt, or ſureſt, his moſt ſetled eſtate, is all, or altogether vanity: ſee ver. 6. Some reſtrain it to Gods people; as if the meaning were, that even in them, by nature, there is no preheminence above others; but if they have any, it is of Gods free grace only, Rom. 3.9. but this ſeems to narrow the text over-much, and to be beſide the ſcope of the Prophet.

V. 8. The graſs withereth, the flower fadeth; but the word of our God ſhall ſtand for ever.] This ſome underſtand of the Jewiſh People, that, howſoever through humane failty and mortality, many of them might dy, during the time of the captivity; and ſo periſhing, not partake in the promiſed delivery; yet Gods promiſe ſhould be fulfilled, and remain firm to the reſidue, Rom. 3.3. & 9.6. & 11.1, 5. But the meaning, rather, ſeems to be; that men being but frail and infirm creatures, their plots and projects might miſcarry, and their attempts and deſigns be fruſtrate; but Gods Word and purpoſe, in whatſoever he ſpake or promiſed, ſhould be ſure to ſtand firm, and take place, maugre all the oppoſitions that man might make againſt it, Pſal.33.10,11.& 119.89,91. chap. 14.26,27.& 55.10,11.Dan.4.35.Mat.5.18.Mar.13.31. The Apoſtle Peter applyeth it to the work of regeneration, wrought in the ſoul by the miniſtery of the Word, 1 Pet.1. 23,24,25.So Joh.8.51.2 Joh.2.

ſtand] Firm. See Chap.7.7.

V. 9. O Zion, that bringeſt good tidings, get thee up into the high mountain] Or, O thou that bringeſt, or, telleſt good tidings to Zion, get thee up into an high mountain. The former reading ſome of the Jewiſh Commenters follow; and the moſt of ours; underſtanding the text, they of Jeruſalem, as being the head-city, from whence theſe good tidings were to be divulged unto the whole country, round about: ours, alſo, of the glad tidings of ſalvation by Chriſt, from thence to be publiſhed unto other people abroad, Chap.2.3. Luk.24.47. Rom.10. 18. But they conſider not that the meſſage, or tidings, concerning the diſſolution of the Jewiſh captivity by Cyrus, at Babylon, was not to come abroad from Jeruſalem, but to be carried from Babylon thither. The latter reading, after the Chaldee Paraphraſt, ſome of the Jewiſh Doctors, and after the old Greek and Latine, ſome of ours alſo admit and approve. And according to it, thoſe are called upon, that were by publike authority to be employed about the divulging of the edict made by Cyrus, for the freedom of Gods people, from their long and tedious captivity, and the liberty granted them for return into their own country, 2 Chr. 36.22,23. Ezr.1.1,2. or any other that were to go upon the like errand, to get up into places of eminency, from whence they might beſt be heard, to acquaint as many, as might be, with this comfortable news. So Chap.52.7. Nah.1.15.

Zion] The ſame here with Jeruſalem; as Chap.1.27. and 37.32.

that bringeſt good tidings] The word, here uſed, is in a feminine form. That which ſeems to have miſled many, in applying it to Sion; becauſe the names of cities are, in Hebrew, feminine. But the feminine form is uſed, in Scripture, ſometime with a maſculine notion; as Eccl.1.1,12. The Preacher (a feminine form) the ſon of David, king of Jeruſalem: and this very word, Pſalm.68.11. The Lord gave the word, and great was the company (not of women-preachers, though the form be feminine, but) of thoſe that publiſhed it. And ſo the Greek, in the maſculine, rendreth it here. For the reaſon of the phraſe; there is a twofold figure in it; a threefold, I might ſay: there is, firſt, an Ellipſis, or a defect of the ſubject; as, ſtanding, for, ſtanding corn, Chap.17.5. fading, for, a fading plant, Chap.28.4. And the word wanting, to be ſupplyed, is a feminine, to wit, nepheſh; howbeit, not ſimply, as it ſignifies, a ſoul; but as by a Synechdoche, or, comprehenſive form of ſpeech, it is put, and that very frequently, for a perſon, Gen.12.5. & 14.21. & 46.26. Rom.13.1. 1 Pet.3.20. This ſupplyed, there will appear to be a Periphraſis, or a circumlocution in it; as a preaching perſon, for, a Preacher: ſo a publiſhing, or, reporting party, or perſon; for, a publiſher, or, reporter. The word good, is not in the text; nor, neceſſarily, implyed in the word; though it be in that which the Greek here uſeth; for the word ſignifies ſimply and indefinitely, to report, or publiſh ought, without any ſpecial notion of good or evil, 2 Sam.18.19,20. Yea, it is uſed of one that brought very bad tidings of the loſs of the Ark, 1 Sam.4.17. Howbeit, becauſe it is more frequently uſed of gladſom meſſages, 1 Sam. 31.9. 1 King.1.42. Jer.20.21. And it muſt of neceſſity be ſo rendred, 2 Sam.4.10. the reading may well be here retained; though, thou that bringeſt tidings, were ſufficient: the ſubject matter of the meſſage, being not, in the preſent paſſage, expreſſed; as it is, Chap.52.7. The word here is ſingular, as there alſo, but taken collectively; and ſo comes home to that in the Pſalm.

get thee up] Heb. aſcend thee. A redundant elegancy, yet having ſome emphaſis in it; as Gen.12.1.

into the high mountain] Or, into an high mountain. Alluding, as ſome, to the ſituation of Sion, Ch.2.2. & 14.13. But that was formerly rejected. Others therefore conceive, that there is a reſpect had to their ſentinels that were ſeated, commonly, (as our beacons) on the top of ſome high hill; which ſuch as brought tidings of publike concernment, were wont to repair unto; and there having by ſome ſign, ſet up, called people together, to publiſh to them what news they brought, or meſſage they came with. So Chap.42.11. & 52.7. Apparent it is, that men uſe to get up into ſome eminent place, that deſire to be heard of many, Deut.27.12,13. Judg.9.7. 1 Sam.26.13,14. Jerem.20.22. ſo did our Saviour, Matth. 5.1.

O Jeruſalem, that bringeſt good tydings,] Or, O thou that bringeſt good tidings to Jeruſalem, as before.

lift up thy voice with ſtrength] Or, ſtrongly, Pſal.29.4. 1 Chron.25.5. Jon.3.5. Cry with all thy might, as loud as thou canſt, that as many as may be, may hear thee, having a double advantage from the height of the place, from whence thou ſpeakeſt, and from the ſhrilneſſe of thy voice: ſo Chap. 58.1.

lift it up] A reduplication emphatical; as ver.1. and a defect of the pronoun: as ver.5.

be not afraid] Make no ſcruple or doubt of publiſhing it, though the tydings ye bring may ſeem never ſo unlikely to be credited; for it is certainly true, and ſhall be undoubtedly made good, Chap.35.4.

ſay unto the Cities of Judah,] The ſometime Inhabitants of them, (as Ier.11.12.) though, at preſent, driven from them, and diſperſed here and there: but to the cities, the rather, becauſe they were to be repaired, and re-edified, upon their return to them. See Chap.44.28.

Behold your God] Your God, with whom the Heathen have ſo oft, and ſo long twitted you, during this time of your captivity, as unable to relieve you, Deut.32.37,38. Pſal.42.3. & 115.2. Ezek.36.20. and of whom your ſelves have had ſome doubtful thoughts, as if he did not regard you, but had clean forgotten you, ver.27. Chap.49.14. is now at hand, ready to ſhew forth himſelf, to their conviction, and your comfort, Deut.32.39. So Chap.12.2. & 25.9. & 41.27. & 52.6. As it hath reference to the Meſſias; Behold he that was ſo long before promiſed, and hath ſo long been expected, is now, at length, exhibited, Hag.2.7. Zach.9.9. Mal.3.1. Luk.2.15,30. Act.13.32,33. or, as ſome, behold that Jeſus, whom you denyed, and crucified, but is riſen again from the dead, received into heaven, and ſet there at the right hand of the Father, the ſame is your God, Act.2.23,32–36. & 3.14,15,20, 21. But the former ſeems to ſort better with the type here firſt intended.

V. 10. Behold] As Chap.35.4. & 62.11. Zach.9.9.

the Lord God will come with ſtrong hand] As Chap.8.8. Exod.13.3. Ezek.20.33,34. and ſo there ſhould be ſuch a defect of the ſubject, as before, ver.9. and ſo moſt of the Jewiſh Commenters on the place take it. Howbeit, becauſe the word here is maſculine, whereas the word for an hand, in Hebrew, is feminine; (howſoever one of them would ſalve that incongruity, by a place, Ezek.2.9. where a maſculine relative hath reference to it) the text is by one, (that herein diſſenteth from the reſt, whom ſome of ours alſo follow) read; The Lord God will come againſt the mighty, or ſtrong one; that is, taking the word collectively; as the like, Ier.9.23. Amos 2.14. againſt the mightieſt, and moſt powerfull enemies of his people, whether temporal, as the Babylonian, or ſpiritual, as Satan; ſo is the particle uſed, Exod.14.25. and 20.15. Num.12.1. See Chap.49.24,25. Luk.11.21,22. Col. 1.13. Heb.2.14. 1 Joh.3.8. But a late Writer ſuppoſing the particle to be here redundant, as elſewhere, readeth the words, The Lord will come ſtrong. See on Chap.26.4.

and his arm ſhall rule for him] Or, his arm ſhall rule over him; that is, prevail againſt him; to wit, the mighty one beforementioned; his power, Chap.51.5. & 53.1. of it ſelf ſufficient fully to effect his own work and will, Pſal.115.3. & 135. 6. Chap.59.16. ſhall overcome, and overſway all oppoſition, Chap.41.2. & 59.16. Rev.6.2. I ſuppoſe the term lo, that is, him, or to him, may well be here an elegant redundancy, as oft it is, Exod.18.27. he went him. See Chap.59.16. and before, ver.9.

his reward is with him] So Chap.62.11. he cometh with a recompence of mercy and bounty, unto all thoſe that have faithfully adhered unto him, conſtantly depended upon him, and patiently expected his appearance, for their delivery from their fore-paſſed thraldom, Pſal.9.18. & 58.11. Chap.28. 16. & 30.18. & 61.7. Ier.31.16. and of wrath and fury unto thoſe, that have been the afflictors and oppreſſors of them, Chap.35.4. & 59.18. & 66.15. Pſal.31.23. The Apoſtle hath the like of Chriſts coming to Judgment at the laſt day, Rev. 22.12.

his reward] This ſome refer to the Rewarder, the Lord, called his; becauſe to be given or rendred by him, Pſal. 62.12. Rom.2.6. Others, to the rewarded, the mighty, or ſtrong, before ſpoken of, as called his, or their reward; becauſe to be received by him, or them, Pſal.28.4. But the parallel place to this, Chap.62.11. not admitting this latter, carryeth it ſtrongly for the former.

with him] He comes furniſhed with rewards of either kind, to be preſently rendred without further delay, Mal.3. 17,18. & 4.1,2. Howbeit, I ſuppoſe that over-nice, that one of the Jewiſh Doctors hath, who expounds this paſſage of Gods freeneſs in working for his people, that he is not like other ſhepherds (for a ſhepherd he is compared to, ver.11.) that keepeth ſheep for hire, Hoſ.12.12. Zach.11.12. but he feedeth his freely, his hire is all with himſelf, he bringeth it with him, he demandeth nothing from them, Chap.43. ver.25.

and his work before him] This ſome refer to the mighty ones, as before; whoſe wicked works, for which God will recompence them with wrath, are ſaid to be, in Gods ſight, known to him, and obſerved by him, whatſoever they may ſurmiſe to the contrary, Pſal.94.5-11. Chap.66.18. Others, to the perſons to be rewarded in general; but by work, underſtanding recompence for work, as Ch.49.4. & 65.7. Pſal.28.4. Jer.25.14. and ſo this paſſage ſhould be the ſame with the former. But others, laſtly, refer it unto God himſelf; his work, that is, the work he cometh to effect for the deliverance of his, is before him; it lyeth open to him, ready to be accompliſhed by him, there lying nothing in his way, that may any way impeach his free paſſage to it, or progreſs in it. See the like phraſe, Gen.13.9. & 47.6. Pſal.5.8.

V. 11. He ſhall feed his flock like a Shepherd] The office that God in Scripture doth uſually make choice of, whereby to decipher his ſedulous and tender care of the good and welfare of his people, Pſal.23.1. & 77.20. & 78.52. & 80.1. applyed in more ſpecial manner to the Meſſias, Ezek.34.23. and owned by him, under the title of the good Shepherd, Ioh.10.11, 14. called alſo the great Shepherd, Heb.13.20. and the chief Shepherd, 1 Pet.5.4.

he ſhall] Or, will; as before, will come; and ſo after, will gather, will lead.

feed] Under the term of feeding, (being of large extent) is comprized all neceſſary attendance & accommodations, conducing to the ſafety and welfare of a flock; as proviſion of paſture, protection againſt rapine, prevention of ſtraying, cure of ſuch maladies, relief of ſuch infirmities as ſheep are wont to be ſubject unto, and the like. See Pſal.23.1-4. Ezek.34.2,4,11-16.

his flock] His people, Pſal.100.3. Ezek.34.31.

he ſhall gather the lambs with his arm] Or, as ſome, into, or in his arm; that is, bring them together, and take them up in his arms: a conciſe ſpeech, ſuch as Chap.38.17,21. Ier.13.6. & 36.21. and, arm, for arms; as Pſal.10.5. he will have a ſpecial care of dealing charily with weak and feeble ones, ſupporting their infirmity. So Chap.42.3. Matth.11,28.

and carry them in his boſom] Or, lap: as Chap.49.22. when they are wearied with travelling: a defect of the pronoun; as Chap.30.2.

and ſhall gently lead thoſe that are with young] So ſome of the Jewiſh Criticks take the word here uſed, as ſignifying ſuch as have been covered by the male; from a word, uſed, Gen.31.12. Some other of them, that give ſuck, 1 Sam.6.7,10. Pſal.78.71. becauſe hence the word ſignifying a ſucking-Childe, Chap.49.15. & 65.20. the ſame is found uſed, and likewiſe diverſly rendred: as 1 Sam.6.7,10. Pſal.78.71. So Gen.33.13. Where, ſee Jacob, how chary of over-driving ſuch; and as chary an hand would God cauſe to be had, in bringing his people home to their own country, fitted with all convenient accommodations, for their ſafety by the way, ch.60.4,9. & 66.20. Ezr.1.6. See how chary, alſo, Chriſt was of over-charging his novices with ought, that they could not yet well brook, Matth.9.14,17. Joh.16.12. and Paul therein imitating him, 1 Cor.3.1,2.

V. 12. who hath meaſured the waters in the hollow of his hand?] Becauſe it might be ſuggeſted, or ſuppoſed, that though no power of man were able to hinder God from working ſo ſtrange, unexpected, and as little believed a work, for the delivery of his people; Yet their gods might be able to croſſe him, in that his intended deſign; the Prophet inviteth them to the ſerious conſideration of Gods infinite and inconceiveable power and eſſence, ſuch as neither any counterfeit deity is able to imitate, nor any creatures skill is able to expreſſe. See the like, Prov.30.4.

who hath meaſured the waters in the hollow of his hand?] Or, Who can meaſure the waters (that is, the ſea, Gen.1.10.) in his fiſt? the word is uſed for an handful, 1 King.20.10. Ezek.13.19. and the indicative is oft uſed potentially, in Hebrew. See Num.23.8,10. Ier.2.23,32. Dan.3.15, with 17. who can? he, and he only, in whoſe hand are the depths of the earth, which together with the water, make but one globe, Pſal.95.4. and in whoſe fiſt, the whole air, that environeth either, is incloſed; as Agur, Prov.30.4.

and meted out heaven with a ſpan] Or, or (as ver.13.) can (as before) mete out heaven with his ſpan? a defect of the pronoun; as Job 39.21. the word is uſed, 1 Sam.17.4. Ezek.43.13. it is a borrowed ſpeech, taken from builders and carpenters, that uſe to mete out their work, ſometime by rule, and ſometime, alſo, by hand, Chap.44.13. See Chap.48.13.

and comprehendeth the duſt of the earth in a meaſure?] Or, or can comprehend (as before) the duſt of the earth (that is, the main body of it, as Chap.26.19. Dan.12.2.) in a meaſure, or, in a tierce; as the Hebrew word intimateth, derived from a term, that ſignifies three, for notation correſpondent to the Latine triental: it ſeems by the uſe of it, Pſal.80.5. to have been a drinking, or quaffing cup, as well as a meaſure; of what capacity it was, our Jewiſh Maſters tell us not: ſome of them ſay, it was a great meaſure, and cite the Pſalmiſt, not improbably, to that purpoſe, ſo termed, becauſe it contained as much as three leſſer. Other of them ſay otherwiſe, that it was no great meaſure; but it was ſo termed, becauſe it contained a third part, only, of a greater veſſel, or cask: and the one ſort, therefore, would have it, there, to comprehend the three captivities, Jehojakim, Jehojacins, & Zedekiah's; the other, to reſemble their abode in Babylon, as but a third part of their ſojourning in Egypt. Thus they leave us in meer uncertainties. I ſuppoſe it to have been uſed for a cup, with the former, of capacity more then ordinary; and by the notation of it, a cup of three, as containing ſo much, as might well make three draughts; or ſo much as three of thoſe cups, that they were ordinarily wont to drink at one draught: but for a meaſure, or veſſel, to mete out materials, whether liquid, or ſolid with; to have been among thoſe that were reckoned of the leaſt ordinary ſize; that might well be deemed a ſorry meaſure to deliver earth out by, or other like traſh, yea, or matter of more worth, that yet might be reputed of a deep and large ſize, either to offer a man to drink of, or to enforce him to take down, when the liquor is very unpleaſant, and ſuch as he likes not; it muſt here, of neceſſity, import no ſuch great veſſel, that it may, with ſome proportion, anſwer the fiſt, and the ſpan. Nor can I, therefore, ſo eaſily accord with that learned man, who would have it to ſignifie the third part of an Epha, as the Seah is ſaid to do; (ſee Chap.27.8.) becauſe by a word neer unto it, that meaſure is in the Ethiopick language expreſſed, Matth.13.33. The old Latine rendreth it, with three fingers: which would ſuit well with the former, if there were any good ground for it; but none appeareth.

and weighed the mountains in ſcales, and the hills in a balance?] Or, and weigh out the mountains by a beam, and the hills in ſcales, or, in a balance? there are two words here uſed, which, ſay our Jewiſh Maſters, ſignifie two ſorts of engines, or inſtruments, uſed for the weighing out of commodities, or wares; the one for greater quantities, the other for leſſe: but that is ſomewhat too general. And I ſuppoſe they have no other ground for it, ſave becauſe the mountains are ſaid to paſſe the one, and the hills the other: they are both found together, Prov.16.11. where the words are rendred, a juſt weight, and balance; but would rather be a juſt beam, and balance: the former word, ſave in thoſe two places, no where elſe found, is, by ſome of them, ſaid to ſignifie (and that not improbably,) ſuch a beam, as is uſed to weigh commodities, by hanging of a ſtone, or other weight, at the one end, and the material that is to be weighed, at the other; it being marked with certain notches, or figures, whereby the certain ſtint of the weight may be diſcerned; ſuch, I am told, that they uſe oft with us, to weigh hay in the field: the latter word more common, and uſed after again, ver.15. ſeems to anſwer the Latine bilanx, whence our balance; and is ſo termed, from the two ſcales, hanging at either end, which from the ſimilitude of them, the Latines call diſhes; the Hebrews, ears. The meaning is, that God can as eaſily lift up the higheſt and greateſt mountains that are, yea, all of them together, great or ſmall, as a man can do any ordinary weight, at a beam, or in a ſcale.

V. 13. Who hath directed the Spirit of the Lord; or being his Counſellor, hath taught him?] Or, who directed the Spirit of the Lord; or taught him? As there is none that can do ought of the things before-mentioned; ſo was there none aſſiſtant to him, by way of ayd, or advice, in the creating and conſtituting of theſe creatures at the firſt; nor needs he any ſuch help or direction, for the contrivance or execution of ought that he determineth to do.

directeth the Spirit of the Lord] The word ſignifieth, ſometime, to mete out; as ver.12. ſometime, to direct, or carry a thing eavenly, as mens works are, when they are cut out by rule, and ſquared by line and level. So Ezek.18.25,29. and 33.17,20. and ſo moſt here take it: ſometime, to weigh out, as Job 28.25. or, to ponder, taken metaphorically; and by weighing, or pondering of things, to explore, or examine them; or, by ſearching into them, to attain to an exact knowledg of them; as by weighing of things in the balance, or at the beam, men come exactly to know their weight, Pſal.62.9. Dan.5.27. So it is taken, Prov.16.2. & 21.2. and 24.12. So the ancient Greek by the Apoſtle retained, Rom.11.33. 1 Cor.2.16. rendreth it here, who hath known the Lords minde? Who can ſo dive into his ſecret thoughts, or purpoſes, as to come to diſcover what he intendeth to do, or by what courſes he meaneth to carry on what he intendeth? And this way alſo divers go. Howbeit ſome of the Jewiſh Doctors, to bring in the four elements; by Spirit here underſtand the air; as it ſeems to be taken, Prov.30.4. and as for the wind, Joh.3.8. And becauſe the verb ſometime ſignifieth, alſo, to diſpoſe, or, eſtabliſh, 1 Sam.2.3. they expound the words, who hath ordered, or, ſetled the air? or, who is it, that meteth, or, weigheth out the winds? Job 28.25. And there ending the queſtion, they make the anſwer to it, the Lord. But this nicety rents the text too much aſſunder. Either of the former is probable enough.

or] Heb. and; as ver. 12. ſo Chap.17.8.

being his counſellor] Of his counſel, or of counſel with him. Heb. the man of his counſel, or, his man of counſel; as Pſal.119. 24. There is a defect, either of the participle, as Rom. 1.29. 1 Pet. 2.4. which the Apoſtle expreſſeth by the verb-ſubſtantive; or of the note of ſimilitude, as ver. 6. So ſome; who read, who as his counſellor? ſuplying alſo the relative from the former branch; as the Greek, and the Apoſtle alſo doth, Rom.11.34. There is an alluſion to ſuch counſellors, as Kings uſe to have about them, and which they cannot well want, 1 Chr.26.32. & 27.33. Prov.11.14. & 24.6. See Chap.3.3. & 9.6. See the ſame term in another ſenſe, chap. 46.11.

hath taught him] Heb. made him to know; as Exod. 18. 16. Prov.22.19. Ezek.20.11. Hath inſtructed him in ought, or acquainted him with ought that he was ignorant of before: or ſhewed him what he ſhould do, or how he ſhould do it. See Job 21.22. & 36.22,23.

V. 14. With whom took he counſel, and who inſtructed him, and taught him in the path of judgement? and taught him knowledg, and ſhewed him the way of underſtanding?] Or, with whom doth he conſult, that he may (as Joſh. 24. 9. Mal.1.9.) inſtruct him; (Heb. make him to underſtand; as Pſal.119.27.) and teach him the courſe of judgement; (how to carry himſelf judiciouſly in his affairs, or uprightly, in execution of judgment) or (as ver.13.) may teach him knowledge, and acquaint him (Heb. cauſe him to know) the way of underſtanding? Heb. underſtandings; as Pſal.78.72. which ſome expound of variety and multiplicity of underſtanding: and ſo ſuch plurals, ſometime, ſeem to import, 2 Sam.22.51. Pſal.18.50. Prov.1. 20. but yet ſometime they ſeem to extenuate and diminiſh; as this very term, Chap.27.11. and ſo here, underſtandings, not for all manner, but for any manner of underſtanding. See the like, ver.29. It is, in effect, the ſame, only ſomewhat enlarged with the former, ver.13. implying, that God, in no work of his, receiveth any inſtruction, or direction, from any, as earthly Kings and Potentates are wont to do from their Counſellors, whom, in State-matters of great moment, or neer concernment, they uſually confer and conſult with, 2 Chr.30.2. Eſt.1.13.

V. 15. Behold the nations are as a drop of a bucket, and are counted as the ſmall duſt of the balance.] This is added, to ſhew the invalidity and inability of any humane power, to oppoſe God in his purpoſed work, or in the leaſt manner, to obſtruct any paſſage of his providence; and withall, to encourage his people, not to fear any might or malice of man; but to reſt ſtedfaſtly, with full confidence of heart, upon him, for the making of his promiſes good unto them, chap. 51.7,8,12. Pſal.60.11,12, & 62.8,9. & 146.3-6.

the nations] As Some, the Chaldeans, your Lords and Maſters, at preſent, chap.26.23. Or, rather, all nations, they, and others, (as before, ver.6,7. and after, ver.17.) are all there put together.

as a drop of a bucket] That hangeth on it, or falleth from it, in the drawing of it up; or that ſtayeth behind, when the water or liquor is poured out, and yet miniſheth not the meaſure: the former word is no where elſe found; the latter only, Num.24.7.

they are counted] All one here, with, they are; as it is in the former branch: ſo Chap.29.17. & 32.15. & ver.17.

as the ſmall duſt of the balance] Or, as the powder of the balance: ſuch as hangs on the ſcale, and yet altereth not the weight; or ſtayeth ſtill in it, after the ſpice weighed in it, is poured out; as a thing of no conſiderable worth, or weight: the word (in this notion no where elſe found) comes of a root, that ſignifies the breaking of clods to ſmall duſt, 2 Sam. 22. 43. Pſal. 18. 42. or the beating of ſpices to fine powder, Exod.30.36.

behold] In way of admiration, as before. So Chap.29. ver.14.

he taketh up the Iles as a very little thing.] Or, he taketh up, and throweth away (for the word includeth both: ſee chap. 63.9. with Jer.16.13. & 22.26.) the Iles (the Lands or Countries, as chap.41.1.) as powder: the word ſignifieth any thing beaten very ſmall, or thin, Exod.16.14. Lev.16.12. thin, or beaten thin, for thin powder, or powder ſo beaten: a defect of the ſubject, as ver.10. expreſſed, chap.29.5. The old Greek, by miſtake of a letter, rendreth it, he caſteth them out as ſpittle: and the letters, by reaſon of the neer affinity of their figure, are taken the one, oft, for the other. See 1 Chr.1.6,7,30,41, 50. Jer.2.20. & 15.14. See alſo, ver.12.

V. 16. And Lebanon is not ſufficient to burn; nor the beaſts thereof ſufficient for a burnt offering] Or, a ſacrifice; ſo called, becauſe it aſcendeth, or goeth up, upon the altar, Pſal.51.19. (for they narrow it too much, that render it, an whole burnt offering; from which it is there diſtinguiſhed) rather then as ſome, becauſe it goeth up all into ſmoke, Pſal.37.20. Judg.13. 20. The meaning is, no creature, or matter, is ſufficient to furniſh a ſervice of God, anſwerable to his infinite greatneſs; though all the beaſts, harbouring in that ſpacious foreſt of Lebanon, ſhould be ſlain, and all the wood growing on it, felled to fire them with, it would come far ſhort of a ſacrifice, proportionable to his greatneſs unto whom it were to be tendred. See chap.66.1. and of Lebanon, ſee Pſal.29.6, & 104.16. chap.3.13. & 37.24.

V. 17. All nations before him, are as nothing; and they are accounted to him leſſe then nothing, and vanity.] See Dan.4.35. for the former; Pſal.62.9. for the latter.

before him] In his ſight; as Job 26.6. or compared with him; as Gen.2.18,20.

are counted to him] Either are ſo deemed by him, or are ſo in reference to him. See on ver.15.

nothing, and vanity] Or, nothing, or, vanity; and, for or; as ver. 13. leſs then nothing, or a thing of nought; a thing of no ſhape, or worth, or uſe. The word is uſed of that rude, confuſed, and ſhapeleſſe maſs, out of which the creatures were afterward formed, Gen.1.2. applyed to things ſtripped of all their beauty, ſtate, endowments, and furniture, and reduced to extream deſolation and confuſion. See Chap. 24. ver. 10.

V. 18. To whom then will ye liken God?] Heb. And (as Chap.28,2,20.) to whom will ye make God like? what humane creature, or counterfeit deity, can ye imagine to be any thing like ſuch an infinite and almighty eſſence, Pſal.89.6,8. & 96. 4,5.

or what likeneſſe will ye compare unto him? Heb. and (as ver. 13.) what ſimilitude will ye ſet him up? Or, fit him with? it may well be underſtood of images, made to reſemble and repreſent God, Act.17.29. albeit the word be uſed alſo of furniſhing a table, chap. 65. 11. and of ſetting battel in array, 2 Sam.10.17. the former whereof, might well ſuit with ver. 16. the latter, with ver.17. but that the term of ſimilitude will hardly admit either. The ſcope hereof ſeems to be, not onely to diſſwade them from attempting to reſemble God, by any viſible ſhape or figure, Deut.4.12, 15-19,23,25. or to ſtrengthen them againſt the idolatry, though never ſo pompouſly ſet out, that they might be tempted unto, in Babylon, chap. 44.21. Jer.10.1-13. Dan.3.1,2, but chiefly, and principally, to confirm their faith, and to ſettle their minds in an hopeful expectation of their deliverance from God, according to his gracious purpoſe and promiſe, ver. 2. by ſetting forth, as his infinite might and majeſty; ſo, the meanneſs, baſeneſs, emptineſs, and nothingneſs, of men or idols, or ought elſe whatſoever, that might enter into competition with him, or offer to make any oppoſition againſt him. See chap. 46.5. Jer. 10. 6.

V. 19. The workman melteth a graven image;] Having laid forth Gods unconceiveable might, majeſty, & immenſity; he proceedeth now to diſcover the vanity, baſeneſs, and imbecility of idols. See the like, Chap.41.6,7. & 44.9,20. & 46.6, 7. Jer.10.3-5,8,9. Pſal.115.4-8. & 135.15-18.

workman] Or, braſier, or founder; the word is a very general term. See of it, on Chap.3.3. See alſo, ver.20. Chap.41. 7. & 44.11-13. but here, more ſpecially, one that worketh in metals; as 1 King.7.14. 2 Chron.24.12. Chap. 44. 12. & 54.16.

melteth] Or caſteth; as Chap.44.10. So their gods muſt paſs the fire, before gods they can be.

a graven image] He melteth ſome metal, either braſs, or ſome ſuch baſer ſtuff, becauſe they will not be at the coſt to have it all of maſſie Gold, or ſilver; which being melted, he caſts into a mould, and ſo maketh an image of it, to be further graven and poliſhed, before it go to the Goldſmith to be gilded, or overlaid with gold: ſo that in the words, there is a kind of anticipation, he melteth, or caſteth a graven image; that is, metal to make an image, that being melted, ſhall be graved: ſo chap. 44.10. See of the like, Chap.24.10. & 44.19. and 47.2.

and the Goldſmith] Heb. the finer; as it is rendred, Prov. 25.4. and the like, Mal.3.2. or founder; as Judg.17.4. See Chap.41.7. the term, though not ſo generall as the former, yet comprehends founders of all ſorts; though thoſe more ſpecially, that are employed in the finer ſort of metals, for the melting and refining of them. So Chap.46.6. Jer.10.9,14. & 51.7.

ſpreadeth it over with gold] Exod.39.3. beateth out gold into thin leaves, or plates; and therewith over-lays and covers what the other had produced and poliſhed, thereby to add the more ſhew and ſtate unto it, Chap. 46. 6. Jer. 10.9.

and caſteth] Heb. is burning, or melting chains; that is, ſilver to make chains, as before.

ſilver chains] Heb. chains of ſilver (as, gods of gold and ſil- ver, Dan. 5.4. for golden and ſilver Gods) therewith to adorn it; as 1 King. 6.21. or to faſten it unto ſome poſt or pillar, or ſome ſtaple driven into either, that it may not fall or ſtir, but ſtand faſt and ſteady, bolt-upright, Chap. 41.7. & 46.7. Jer. 10. 5. for of ſuch chains, alſo, is the word uſed, Ezek. 7.23. Nah. 3.10.

V. 20. He that is ſo impoveriſhed, that he hath no oblation, chooſeth a tree, that will not rot: he ſeeketh unto him, a cunning work-man, to prepare a graven image, that ſhall not be moved.] The pooreſt man that is will have ſome god, or other; a wooden one, rather then fail of one, Chap. 44. 13, 14. Deut. 28.64. and is ſo ſottiſh and ſenſeleſſe, as to imagine, that a ſilly Wright, of a ſorry piece of wood, is able to make him a god, Chap. 46.6. Jer. 10.3.

ſo impoveriſhed, that he hath no oblation] Heb. impoveriſhed, or penurious of oblation: it is a word, in this form, no where elſe found; but one neer it, for a poor man, Eccl. 4.13. & 9.15, 16. another for penury, or ſcarcity, Deut. 8.9. Howbeit, becauſe the word is here in an entire form, not ſuch as is in regiment uſual; ſome would have the text rendred, he that is impoveriſhed doth for an oblation chooſe a tree that will not rot. But this another excepting againſt, as not regarding the pauſe at oblation, rendreth it, he that is in danger, voweth an oblation. So the word is uſed in another form, for to be endangered, Eccleſ. 10. 9. and with the Rabbines (ſaith he) frequently. I adhere to the firſt, reading the words with a more familiar ſupply, To him that is impoveriſhed, an oblation is. There is no man ſo weakned in his eſtate, but he wil have ſome offering or other, he will find ſomewhat to furniſh himſelf with, in this kind.

oblation] Such as they offered toward the building of the Sanctuary, Exod. 25.2. & 30.13. hath nothing of any great value to lay out upon, or confer toward the making of his idoll.

chooſeth a tree that will not rot] Or, makes choice of ſome wood (as Deut. 4.28.) that will not rot: ſuch as the Cypres is ſaid to be, much uſed, therefore, for ſuch purpoſes. Theophraſt, l. 5. c. 5. Pliny, l. 16. c. 40, 41, 42. See Chap. 44. 14. a defect of the relative; as Chap. 33. 19. and ſo in the next branch.

cunning] Heb. wiſe; as Chap. 3.3.

Workman] Wright, Carpenter, or Carver: the word was before uſed, for one that worketh in metal, ver. 19. here, for one that worketh in timber; as alſo, Chap. 44.13.

a graven image] Or, a carved one rather, becauſe of wood; not of ſtone, or metal.

that ſhall not be moved] Or, may not ſtir; being fixed and faſtened to the wall, or ſome other ſure ſtay. See ver. 19.

V. 21. Have ye not known? Have ye not heard? Hath it not been told you from the beginning? have ye not underſtood, from the foundations of the earth?] The Prophet, in theſe words, is generally deemed to turn his ſpeech to Gods people, as charging them with extream ſtupidity, if having, not only the light of nature, and the ſight of the creature, as other people had; but the Word of God, alſo, and the Story of the creation, and the adminiſtrations of God therein related, and regiſtred, they ſhould yet entertain ſuch baſe conceits of the deity, as thoſe Heathen Idolaters did; ſo chap. 41.8, 9. & 44.21. howbeit, I ſuppoſe, that he ſtill perſiſteth in dealing with the Heathen Idolaters, whoſe folly, and ſtupidity he was laying forth before, ver. 18-20. admiring their blockiſhneſſe and brutiſhneſſe, if they never took notice of, or had never heard ought concerning God, or were not able by the very frame of the creature, though they had never word of him, to conceive a deity that had given being thereunto, and the infinite power and wiſdome of him that had ſo done, Pſal. 8.3, 4. & 19.1-3. Rom. 1.19-25.

Have ye not known?] Or, Do ye not know? as Pſal. 14.4. & 82.5. & 92.6. chap. 44.18. Heb. will ye not know? as taxing their wilful and affected ignorance: ſo Pſal. 36. 3. & 82.5. 2 Pet. 3.5. yet the future may be put for the preſent; as 2 Sam. 3.38. 2 Chron. 32.13. ſo in the next clauſe, Heb. will ye not hear? for, have ye not heard? did ye never hear ought of thoſe ſtrange paſſages of Gods providence, wrought for his people; the report whereof hath gone abroad unto other nations far and neer, Exod. 15.14-16. Num. 14.13, 14. Joſh. 2.10, 11. chap. 59.19. 2 Chron. 32.31.

from the beginning] Being underſtood of Gods people, from the time that they firſt were a people, or that God ſevered them to himſelf, Chap. 41.9. & 44.2. or if of other people, alſo, from the very beginning of the world; the notion of a deity being engraven in mans heart, at firſt, and by tradition alſo propagated and tranſmitted unto Poſterity, Heb. from the head; as chap. 41.4.

have ye not underſtood from the foundations of the earth?] The particle from is not in the text: nor doth the ancient Greek, or old Latine, therefore, own it; which divers Interpreters, therefore, following, read the words, have ye not conſidered the foundations of the earth? Or, do ye not underſtand the foundations of the earth? To wit, that they were made, or laid by God, Pſal. 102.25. But our Engliſh verſions, all of them, admit it; an it s oft omitted, where it is to be ſupplyed, as chap. 18. & 32.2. & 52.2. here to be fetched in from the clauſe next before-going: for explication, ſee Rom. 1.20. the beſt Comment upon this place.

V. 22. It is he that ſitteth upon the circle of the earth] Or, as the margent hath it, Him that ſitteth, as continuing the ſentence, underſtand, or conſider him, from the foundations of the earth, who ſitteth: or, as ſome of our former verſions, that he ſitteth: or, that it is, he who ſitteth; as ver. 28. upon the circle of the earth; or, above the circle of the earth: as Gen. 1.20. as Soveraign Lord and Ruler of it, having heaven for his throne, and the earth for his foot-pace, chap. 66.1. as, the circle of the earth, here; ſo, the circle of the deep, or the Sea, Prov. 8. 27. and the circle of heaven, Job 22.14.

and the inhabitants thereof are as Graſhoppers] Or, as locuſts; as the word is rendred, 2 Chron. 7.13. where it appeareth to be one of the creatures that made havock of their grain, which Graſhoppers are not wont to do; and it ſeemes, therefore, to be ſome kind of locuſts (from which yet it is diſtinguiſhed, Lev. 11, 22.) or of ſome other kind very neer unto it; ſuch they are, even the greateſt Giants, and the mightieſt of them, in regard of God, as the Iſraelites ſeemed ſuch to the Sons of Anak, Num. 13.33.

that ſtretcheth out the heavens as a curtain] Pſal. 104.2. Chap. 42.5. ſuch curtains, as their tents did ordinarily conſiſt of, Exod. 26.1. Cant. 1.5. Chap. 54.2. Some render it, as a Canopy: the word no where elſe uſed, ſome would have to ſignifie a fine, or thin ſheet, or veil; becauſe it cometh from a word, that hath a notion of thinneſſe. I ſuppoſe it rather to ſignifie a thin skin, or film: becauſe tents were uſually made of skins, Exod. 36.19. and a word very neer to it, of the ſame ſtock, is uſed for a film, or thin skin, overgrowing the eye, Levit. 21.20.

and ſpreadeth them out as a tent to dwell in:] Heb. to ſit in: as a General, in his pavilion, 1 King. 20.12. or, to dwell in, as his Palace, Pſal. 11.4. & 33.13, 14. & 123.1.

V. 23. That bringeth the Princes to nothing] Or, That bringeth (Heb. giveth, as Chap. 41.2.) Princes (for there is no article in the text,) to nothing. See Job 12. 21. Pſal. 107. 40. Chap. 41.11.

he maketh the Judges of the earth as vanity] the Judges, that is, the Rulers, Judg. 2.16. Act. 13.20. as vanity, or, a thing of ought. See ver. 17. Chap. 44.9.

V. 24. Yea, they ſhall not be planted; yea, they ſhall not be ſowen; yea, their ſtock ſhall not take root in the earth] Heb. Yea, they have not been planted; yea, they have not been ſowen; yea, their ſtock hath not taken root in the ground. Which ſome render in the preſent tenſe; they are not planted, nor ſowen, nor doth their ſtock take root. Which they diverſly expound; ſome applying it to idols, as having not ſo much firmneſſe, as trees, or plants, that are ſet, or ſowen, and take deep rooting in the ground; which theſe do not. Others, of Princes and Potentates, before ſpoken of, as like, not to trees, or plants, ſuch as before; but as graſſe, that is neither ſet, nor ſowen, but cometh up of it ſelf; nor taketh any deep root, as trees do, and is therefore ſoon and ſuddenly gone, Pſal. 37. 2. ver. 6-8. But I ſee no cauſe, why we ſhould alter the tenſe that the text exhibiteth. Which one of the Jewiſh Commenters underſtandeth, as that which may be ſaid of them, Surely, they were never planted, nor ſowen, nor did their ſtock ever take root: alledging to that purpoſe, Job 8.18. and the ſenſe, indeed, is no other: but the words may be rendred, as thus depending on the former; he ſo bringeth them to nothing, that they are, as if they had never been planted, as if they had never been ſowen, as if their ſtock had never taken root in the ground: albeit, like goodly oaks, or cedars, they ſeemed to have taken ſuch deep rooting before, that they could not eaſily be ſtirred, much leſſe removed, or pluckt up by the roots, Pſal. 37. 35, 36. Ezek. 31.3-14. Job 18.16, 17, 19. the particle is thrice repeated, to add the more vehemency to the ſentence; as the like, Gen. 43.8. Ezr. 8.21. Chap. 41. 26. & 48. 8. See the like ſyntax, and ſupply alſo, Chap. 10.15. Job 39.16. ſupply likewiſe, Judg. 9.30. and the contrary expreſſion, Job 14.9. eſpecially, if the term, there uſed, be (as ſome learned would have it,) a verb, not a noun.

and he ſhall alſo blow upon them, and they ſhall wither] Or, yea, let him but blow upon them, and they ſhall wither; or, for he doth but blow upon them, and they are withered. Heb. and he hath even blown upon them, and they ſhall be dryed up, or, withered. See the like, both matter, and model of ſpeech, Pſal. 103. 16. the copulative, for the cauſative: as ver. 26. See before, ver. 7.

and the whirlwind ſhall take them away as ſtubble.] A bare blaſt of Gods breath blowing upon them, ſhall be ſufficient, not to blaſt them only, and cauſe them to wither away; but to blow them away, alſo, like ſtubble, or chaff, with a whirlwind wind, ch.41.2,15,16. Job 15.30.

V. 25. To whom then will ye liken me, or ſhall I be equal?] Or, That I ſhould be like him; as Prov.26.4. and, for, that: as Chap.53.2. See ver.18. ch.46.5.

ſaith the holy One] God, who is holineſs it ſelf; and none holy as he, 1 Sam.2.2.

V. 26. Lift up your eyes on high] To the heavens, to the ſtarry ſky, ch.51.6. Job 35.5.

and behold who hath created theſe things] Heb. and ſee, that is, conſider; as 1 King.20.7. Jer.2.19,31. who it is that created theſe, to wit, the ſtarres, that numberleſſe hoſt, (Gen.15.5.) which there ye ſee; and who is, therefore, far more excellent, then they, and of an infinite power, that was able to create them, Gen.1.14-18. & 2,1. Job 26.13. Pſal.8.3. & 19.1,2. & 136.7-9. & 148.3-5.

that bringeth out their hoſt by number;] Who it is, that bringeth out their hoſt by tale; that muſtereth them, and keepeth a liſt of them, as a General, or Commander, doth of his Souldiers, and bringeth them forth, every one, in his due place, as a chieftain draweth out his ſouldiers on a training day, into the fields, each one in his proper rank and ſtation, Job 38.37. Pſal.104.19. & 147.4.

he calleth them all by names] Heb. by name; and ſo it would be rendred, as Exod.33.17. I know thee by name; for as for that, Pſal.147.4. it is not aright rendred, he calleth them by their names; it is in the Hebrew, he calleth names unto them, that is, he gives them names; or, impoſeth names on them: the ſame Syntax, that is, Gen.2.20. & 26.18.

by the greatneſſe of his might (for that he is ſtrong in power) not one faileth.] By reaſon of his infinite power and greatneſſe, he hath another manner of command over his heavenly hoſt, then any Commander hath over his companies; ſome of theirs may fail them, when they ſhould appear before them, or attend upon them: it is otherwiſe with his; they appear each one conſtantly in his place, ready preſt to do ſervice to God, his General, in whatſoever he ſhall pleaſe to aſſign him unto, Judg.5.20. Pſal.148.8. Chap.37.36. & 48.13.

of his might] Heb. mights: as Pſal.78.51. So ver.28.

for that] Heb. and: as Pſal.60.11. Chap.64.5. So ver.24.

not one] Or, no one; or, not any: to wit, of them, as ch.34.16. Heb. man faileth not; man, for, each, or any one; as Exod.25.20. Chap.41.28.

V. 27. How ſaiſt thou, O Jacob, and ſpeakeſt thou, O Iſrael?] Hitherto, the Prophet had bent his his diſcourſe againſt the ſottiſh folly, & bruitiſh ſtupidity of Idolaters, in their vain conceits concerning their baſe idols, and their ridiculous practices about them. Now he turneth the ſtream of his debate unto Gods own people, taxing them, as perſons that had bin taught better things, for their diffidence and diſtruſt, either of Gods care of them, or power to relieve them, or both: Jacob, and Iſrael, for thoſe of his poſterity: as Chap.29.22,23.

My way is hid from the Lord;] God looketh not after me, nor taketh notice of thoſe things that do befall me, no more then as if they were concealed from him, and were hidden from his ſight. So Gen.4.14. Pſal.31.22. & 94.7. Howbeit, in Scripture, the term of being hid, doth oft import difficulty, and imply ſomething hard to be done. So Deut.17.8. if a matter be hidden from thee; that is, be too hard for thee to decide, Ier.32.27. Is any thing hidden from me? that is, too hard for me to do? So alſo, Gen.18.14. & Ier.32.17. and it may likewiſe be ſo here underſtood, My way is hidden from God, or, is too hard for God; that is, the courſe to be taken for our delivery out of captivity, is a matter too difficult for God himſelf to effect: we account it a thing altogether impoſſible: Yea, this very word ſeems ſo to be taken, Job 3.23. to a man, whoſe way is hidden; that is, involved in ſuch difficulties, that he cannot poſſibly get out; for ſo it followeth, Whom God hath hedged in: See Lam.3.7. Hoſ.2.16. whether way we take it, they are the thoughts and imaginations, even of Gods own people, in the time of their captivity. See the one, Chap.49.14. and the other, Ezek.37.11. the latter I rather follow, becauſe of what followeth, ver.28,29.

my way] Not the courſe that I take; but that is taken with me: not, what I do, but what I endure: as, my wrong, Gen.16.5. See Jer.51.35. or, the courſe that is to be taken for me, or with me, for the effecting of my deliverance.

and my judgment is paſſed over from my God.] He regardeth not my cauſe, nor to right the wrong done me. So Job 27.2. & 34.5.

my judgment] That is, my cauſe, my right; as Pſal.9.4. Lam.3.59.

is paſſed from my God] Or, paſſed away from my God: as Ier.8.13. or, it is ſo paſt, that God cannot redreſſe it: it is a cure too hard for God himſelf; for in ſuch a notion, is this prepoſition oft uſed: See the places pointed to, in the former branch, ſpoken by them, as not expecting ought in this kind, from him: and that either ſuppoſing, that he did wholly neglect them, or doubting of his ability, in ſome ſort, to relieve them; their State being ſo low, and their condition ſo deſperate; for that ſome ſuch tang, and taint, theſe their complaints were couched with, appeareth by the anſwer returned thereunto, ver.28,29. See Ier.30.12,13.

V. 28. Haſt thou not known?] Or, Doſt thou not know? as 1 Cor.3.16. & 6.9,15,16,19. Are ye yet to learn that which you have been ſo oft told and taught? Or, as our Saviour to his Diſciples, Matth.15.16. Are ye alſo without underſtanding?

Haſt thou not heard?] See ver.1.

That the everlaſting God, the Lord, the Creatour of the ends of the earth fainteth not, nor is weary?] That God, as he created the world at the firſt, ſo he ſtill rules and governs it, and all things in it, from the one end of it, to the other, without toil or travel, Job 28.24. Pſal.9.7-9. Joh.5.17. and is able therefore, having all power, both to deliver you, when he ſeeth good, Chap.63.1. and, mean while, to ſupport and ſuſtain you, to keep you from fainting and failing; be ye never ſo feeble of your ſelves, ver.29,31. Phil.4.13.

that] A defect of the particle, as Chap.4.3.

the everlaſting God] Heb. God of perpetuity, or eternity: as Gen.21.33. See Pſal.9.10. & 10.16. & 90.2. & 102.12. Chap.26.4.

creator of the ends of the earth] Maker and ruler of the whole world, from the one end to the other, Chap.41.5.

he fainteth not, nor is weary] As men do oft, when they have over-wrought themſelves, Judg.4.21. 1 Sam.29.10. 2 Sam.21.15. Chap.44.12. the words may well be rendred, he is neither tired nor toiled; for that is the proper ſignification of either word.

there is no ſearching of his underſtanding] His Wiſdom in the Government of the world, and in the diſpenſation and diſpoſition of events and occurrents, concerning the creature, is ſuch, as is beyond the reach of mans ſhallow capacity, Pſal.147.5. Chap.55.8,9. Rom.11.33.

V. 29. He giveth power to the faint; and to him that hath no might, he encreaſeth ſtrength;] He maketh his might to appear in mans weakneſſe, 1 Cor.1.27,28. 2 Cor.12.9. enabling thoſe to do, and endure any thing, Phil.4.13. Col.1.11. who, of themſelves, are able to do nothing, Joh.15.5. 2 Cor.3.5. & 4.7. & 10.4,6.

to the faint] Or, the weary one, or, the tired, Chap.50.4. Ier.51.58,64.

no might] Heb. mights: as ver.26. but there, mights, for, abundance of might, or might of all ſorts; but here, mights, for, any might at all: as underſtandings, for, any underſtanding at all, Chap.27.11. thus thoſe plurals, that uſually have a notion of abundance and exceſſe; yet ſometime have on the other ſide, (which few obſerve) an intimation of ſcarcity and want: but this moſt in the negative. See Chap.26.18.

increaſeth ſtrength] Gives abundance of ſtrength. Heb. multiplyeth ſtrength, or, maketh it to abound: as of glory, Dan.11.39.

V. 30. Even the youths ſhall faint and be weary, and the young men ſhall utterly fall:] Such as are of greateſt might and ſtrength, and are beſt able, therefore, to endure labour and travel, and to hold out in ſuch works as they are employed about, yet ſhall faint and fail, when weak and feeble ones, by God aſſiſted and ſupported, ſhall ſtand faſt by it, and hold out to the laſt, Pſal.33.16. Amos 2.14. See the like frame of ſpeech, Pſal.34.10.

Even the youths ſhall faint, and be weary] Or, The youths may be even tired and toiled; for the particle, even (Heb. and: as Chap.11.6.) is joyned to the former verb, and the latter verb hath a notion of toilſome labor, Gen.31.42. Chap.49.4. & 62.8. & 65.23. and both here ſeem potential, as thoſe alſo, Pſal.34.10.

young men] Or, choice youths; for that is the notation of the word; expreſſed alſo, Ier.48.15. 1 Sam.9.2.

ſhall utterly fall] Heb. ſhall ſtumbling ſtumble; that is, ſhall be ever and anon ſtumbling: as folk, faint and feeble, or toiled and tired out, are wont to be; it is diſtinguiſhed from falling, Pſal.27.2. Chap.8.15. though it may here include both; or by the antecedent imply the conſequent; as Pſal.107.12. Chap.59.14.

V. 31. But they that wait upon the Lord] Heb. And: the copulative for the adverſative; as Chap.36.12. they that with patience and tranquility of ſpirit expect his ayd, and the performance of his promiſes in their due ſeaſon, Pſal.40.1. and 130.5,6. Chap.8.17. & 28.16. & 30.18.

ſhall renew their ſtrength] As Job 14.7. & 29.20. Eccl.8.1. or, change: as Gen.35.2. & 41.14. Chap.8.10. they ſhall have a new ſupply of ſtrength, enabling them to bear up, and hold out, when they ſeem to be clean ſpent, Pſal.73.26. & 103.3. 2 Cor.1.8,9. & 4.8-10,16. & 12.9,10. a defect of the pronoun poſſeſſive; as Chap.13.22.

they ſhall mount up with wings, as eagles] Fowls, that flye ſtrongly and ſwiftly; and that build and ſoar aloft, Deut.28.49. 1 Sam.1.23. Job 39.30. Prov.23.5. Ier.49.16. Hoſ. 8. 1. They ſhall as eaſily overcome, and get over all difficulties and obſtructions, that encounter them in their way, as if they had wings to flye over them, Exod.19.4. Deut.32.11. Rom. 8.35, 37. Rev.12.14.

with wings] Heb. with feather. So the word properly ſignifies, Pſal.68.13. & 91.4. but here, feather, for, wing; and wing, for, wings, as Pſal.55.6. Ezek.17.3.

they ſhall run, and not be weary; and they ſhall walk, and not faint.] Or, they ſhall run, and not be tired; they ſhall walk, (that is, proceed, or, go on,) and not be toiled. See ver. 28, 30.

CHAP. XLI.

Ver. 1. K*Eep ſilence before me, O Ilands*] Whether this Chapter, joyned to the former, make up one Sermon, or be an entire diſcourſe of it ſelf, is not generally agreed; ſure it is, that it is much of the ſame argument with the former. For in it God fore-telleth, by his Prophet, that it may not be aſcribed to any other, what he intendeth to do, for the reſcuing and reduction of his people; challengeth the falſe gods to do, any of them, the like; and both them, and their worſhippers, to hinder him in the execution of it, if they can, with all the power that they are able to make.

Keep ſilence before me] Heb. to me; that is, Keep ſilence, and hearken to me; or, with ſilence hearken to me. Of ſuch defective, or comprehenſive forms of ſpeech, ſee on Chap. 38. 17,21. God ſtanding up to debate his cauſe, by his Prophet, againſt the enemies of his people, with them, and their idols, directeth his ſpeech to them, rather then to their idols, that were as well deaf, as dumb, Pſal.115.5,6. and as the manner of men is, where they are about to ſpeak, unto multitudes eſpecially, Job 29.9,10. & 33.31,33. Act.21.40. requireth ſilence, that he may be heard. So Chap.48.14,16.

O Ilands] Or, lands; as Chap.20.6. & 40.15. Ye people of ſeveral countries. So after, ver.5. yet ſome would have the Ilanders and borderers on the Sea-coaſt, intended in this branch; other people in the next: But I ſuppoſe the ſame perſons intimated in either.

and let the people renew their ſtrength] Let the nations make all the power they can, for the ſupport of themſelves, & their idols, and to hinder, if they be able, the work that I foretel, and intend to effect, for the delivery of my people. Of the phraſe, and the defect of the pronoun in it, See on chap.40.31.

the people] That is, the Jewiſh people, ſay ſome, of whom, Chap.41.31. but the word is plural; and never uſed, but of Nations of divers land, Chap.17.12,13. & 43.9. & 49.1.

let them come neer, then let them ſpeak; let them come neer together in judgment] That we may parly, and debate the matter together; as Chap.1.18. they ſhall have free liberty to ſpeak, and ſay what they can for themſelves; they ſhall not ſay, that they were condemned unheard. So ver.21. ch.45.20,21. & 48.14,16.

V. 2. Who raiſed up the righteous man from the Eaſt?] The moſt Interpreters, following the Chaldee Paraphraſt, and the main ſtream of the Jewiſh Commenters, underſtand this paſſage of Abraham. Though ſome of the Jewiſh Doctors interpret them of the Meſſias; with whom, ſome of ours, alſo, therein accord. Howbeit, I ſuppoſe that the things here ſpoken, are meant of Cyrus, that was to deliver Gods people out of the Babylonian thraldome, and to reſtore them, to their country and former freedom again (though a type of Chriſt, and of ſpiritual freedom, from the thraldom of ſin and Satan, by him archieved,) to whom whatſoever is here ſaid, doth moſt exactly agree. See Chap.44.28. & 45.1.

who] Which of all your idols? or, Who but my ſelf? ver. 26. who ſo long before do now foretell it, Chap. 44.28. See ver.4.

raiſed up] Ver.25. Chap.45.13. Act.13.23. He ſpeaks in the Prophetical ſtrain, of a thing to come, as already done; and ſo in the two places pointed to: as all there agree.

the righteous man] Heb. righteouſneſſe: which thoſe that apply it to the Meſſias, expound, that juſt one, Act.22.14. our righteouſneſſe, Ier.23.6. 1 Cor.1.30. thoſe that underſtand it of Abraham, righteouſneſſe, for, a man of righteouſneſſe; that is, a righteous man, Gen.15.6. as, peace, for, a man of peace, a peaceable man, Pſal.120.7. and, wiſdome, for, a man of wiſdome, a wiſe man, Mic.6.9. But the text may well be rendred, in righteouſneſſe: as chap.42.6. and as it is expreſly ſaid of Cyrus, ch.45.13. to manifeſt my righteouſneſſe and faithfulneſſe, (for faithfulneſſe is alſo a branch of righteouſneſſe, Heb.6.10. 1 Joh.1.9.) in the fulfilling of my promiſes, and in righting the wrongs done to my people, Chap.1.27. & 46.13. 2 Theſſ.1.6,7. the defect of the particle, in, is moſt frequent. See Chap.26.8,18. & 28.7. & 33.7. & 34.2,15. but eſpecially, Chap.45.23.

from the Eaſt] Chriſt, and righteouſneſſe introduced by him, Dan.9.24. from the Eaſtern parts of the world; from Judea, Rev.16.12. ſay ſome; Abraham, from Chaldea, ſituate Eaſtward from Canaan, ſay others, Gen.11.31. & 12.4,5. But in Scripture, Chaldea is conſtantly termed, as from Canaan, North, Ier.1.13-15. & 4.6. & 6.1,22. & 10.22. But Cyrus rather, from Perſia, lying Eaſt from Babylon, ver.25. Chap. 46.11.

called him to his foot] Abraham to go to and fro at his command, and as he ſhould appoint him, Gen.12.1. Heb. 11. 8. Or, Cyrus, whom he ſingled out to do him ſervice, to be led by him, and be at his command, chap.44.28. & 45. 1, 2, 3, 4. for that is it, which this phraſe importeth, Gen.30.30. Judg.4.10. Matth.8.9.

gave the Nations before him, and made him rule over Kings?] This ſome apply to the reproach of thoſe two Kings, Pharao, and Abimelec, rebuked by God for the wronging of Abraham, Gen.12.17. & 20.3. Pſal.105.14. the moſt, to the victory that Abraham atchieved againſt thoſe four Kings, Gen.14. 14,15. But as the former hath no affinity with what here followeth; ſo, nor doth the latter ſuit well with the words enſuing: for though Abraham then overcame theſe four Kings in fight, yet that he ever ruled over any King, or country, we read not. It is rather, therefore, meant of Cyrus, who ſubdued many countries and kingdoms, with their Kings, and having ſubdued them, reigned over them, chap.41.5.

gave nations before him] To be ſubdued by him, ch.45.1. the article is not in the text.

made him rule over] Subdued to him: as Chap.40.10. a defect of the pronoun, as Hoſ.6.4.

he gave them as the duſt to his ſword, and as driven ſtubble to his bow] Or, made them (continuing the ſentence) as the duſt to his ſword, as driven ſtubble to his bow? or, whoſe ſword made them as duſt; his bow, as driven ſtubble. So that he beat them, as to duſt, Pſal.18.42. and they were no more able to ſtand before him, then ſmall duſt, or dry ſtubble before a ſtiff gale, or guſt of wind, Pſal.1.4. & 35.5. & 83.13. ver. 15, 16. chap.40.24. Ier.13.24. the demonſtrative, for the relative; as Ier.5.15.

gave] Or, made: as Ier.44.22.

them] A defect of the pronoun: as Chap.30.2. and 40. 11.

ſword, and bow] The weapons of war, then moſt in uſe, Pſal.44.3,6. chap.21.15. the one to ſmite with at hand; the other, to ſtrike with at diſtance, Pſal.37.14.

V. 3. He purſued them] As Pſal.18.37. or, ſo that he purſued them; as Pſal.109.27. carrying on the ſentence to the end of the verſe.

and paſſed in ſafety] Heb. he paſſed in peace; that is, both with ſafety, and ſucceſſe, 2 Sam. 3. 21. Judg. 18.6. without diſturbance, or reſiſtance, to any purpoſe: as Exod. 11. 7. chap.45.1.

even by the way that he had not gone with his feet] Or, a way he had not gone with his feet. For there is no more in the text; not turning back by flight, as Sennacherib, the way that he came, chap.37.29. or, rather, paſſing ſafely under Gods conduct, (as Ier.2.17.) chap.45.2. through ſuch places as he had not formerly been acquainted with; to wit, Abraham, ſay ſome, unto Damaſcus, Gen. 14.15. or, Cyrus, rather, through Aſſyria, and the countries adjacent, into Chaldea, and unto Babylon. See on Jer.50.2. & 51.46. no ſtrangeneſſe, or uncouthneſſe of way, ſhall be any impediment to his paſſage; as chap.42.16. a want of the relative there in in the text; as chap.42.16. & 55.5. Which yet will not need, if a learned late Writers note be admitted, who rendreth the text, he ſhall not go the way with his feet; that is, he ſhall proceed with that ſpeed and expedition, that he ſhall ſeem rather to flye, then to go. But this, to me, ſeems ſomewhat ſtrained.

V. 4. Who hath wrought, and done it?] Who was it, or is it, that did, or doth all this before ſpoken of, ver. 2, 3? it: as chap.31.15. or, theſe things, as Pſal.22.31. Mal.2.17.

calling the generations from the beginning?] Heb. from the head; as chap.40.21. or, Who is it that calleth the generations from the beginning? or, from the firſt? ſupplying the interrogative from the former branch. Who as he made man at firſt, ſo continueth the race of mankind throughout all ages, Gen.1.27,28. Act.17.26,28. or, that hath ruled, doth rule, and ſhall rule, the whole race of man-kind, from the beginning of the world, to the end of it: authority implyed in calling, that is, in impoſition of names, whereby perſons, or creatures, may be called, Gen.1.5,8,10. & 2. 19. Dan.1.7. and in having them at call, and command. See on Chap. 40.26.

I the Lord, the firſt, and with the laſt, I am he.] The anſwer to the former demands. It is Jehovah alone, that hath done all theſe things; and no counterfeit deity, none but he, Pſal. 136.4. chap.44.24.

the firſt, and with the laſt] Who have ever been, and ever ſhall be, Pſal.90.2. & 102.27. chap.40.28. & 43.10. & 44.6. & 48.12. Rev.1.17. & 16.5. & 21.13.

I am he] That doth all theſe things: or, I am, to wit, the firſt, and with the laſt: I am, in being: as Joh.8.58. before Abraham was, I am: the pronoun demonſtrative, for the verb ſubſtantive; as Pſal.44.4. Thou be my King, for, Thou art my King; or, I am the ſame, as Thou art he, for, Thou art the ſame, Pſal. 102.27.

with the laſt] That is, continuing with, and ruling this whole world to the end of it, Pſal.146.10. or, before whom, there was none, nor ſhall any be after, that ſhall continue as long as any creature ſhall have being, Chap.43.10. A learned late Writer, thus rendreth this verſe, Who hath wrought and done, and calleth the former generations? (that is, thoſe now paſt,) I the Lord the firſt; and the latter? (to wit, thoſe generations that are yet to come, who calleth, as before,) I the ſame. I propound it only, and leave it to the conſideration of the learned.

V. 5. The Iles ſaw it, and feared; the ends of the earth were afraid, draw neer, & came.] The effect that theſe ſtrange works of God ſet on foot, for the deliverance of his people, in raiſing up of Cyrus, and making him ſo ſucceſſeful, had upon the Idolatrous Nations, far and neer; to wit, that they were ſtricken with much amazement and affrightment; and laid their heads together, to conſult, by what means to help and ſecure themſelves; which (ſilly ſots) they could not deviſe how to effect, but by recourſe had to their counterfeit gods, and by making them more idols, as if their ſafety conſiſted in the multitude of ſuch fopperies, Chap.2.8. Jer.2.28. & 11.13. Yet the words may be, and are, by ſome, thus read and rendred; When the Iles ſee it, and are afraid, the ends of the earth are affrighted, let them draw neer and come; and ſo forward. See at the cloſe of ver.7. a defect of the adverb of time; as Chap.17. 6. & 26.10. So ver.17. See ver.1. & Chap.44.11.

Iles] Or, Countries, that is, the people of ſeveral countries. See ver.1.

ſaw it] Conſidered, or took notice of it; as Chap. 40. 6. Pſal. 119. 153, 159. a defect of the pronoun; as Chap. 37. 1,9.

feared] So Exod.15. 14,15,16. for to the circumſtances and effects of the deliverances out of Egypt, doth God oft allude, in fore-telling, and relating of that other out of Babylon. See ver.17-19.

the ends of the earth] Not the earth it ſelf; as Chap.40.28. but the inhabitants of the utmoſt parts of it, whoſe habitation reacheth to the lands end; as Pſal.65.8. & 67.7. & 98.3. v.9. Jer.50.26.

drew neer, and came] Not to God, to appear before him; but to take counſel together, how to ſecure and ſave themſelves; as Joſh.10.1-4. & 11.1-5.

V. 6. They helped every one his neighbour, and ſaid every one to his brother, Be of good courage.] They endeavoured to hearten and encourage one another to hold out, and ſtand to it, in hope of help from their idols. So Exod.14.5,6,9. 1 Sam.4.6-9. Pſal.64.4.

every one his neighbour] Or, one another. Heb. a man his neighbour; as Gen.11.3. Jer.31.34.

ſaid every one to his brother] Or, ſaid one to another; as Gen.26.31. Jer.34.17. a ſupply from the former branch; as Gen.1.16. 1 Chr.10.11.

Be of good courage.] Heb. Be ſtrong, 1 Sam.4.9. Pſal.27.14. & 31.24.

V. 7. So the Carpenter encouraged the Goldſmith] The Workmen, whoſe employment is about making idols, were right glad, and ready to take hold of the opportunity to be ſet on work about the forging and coining of new Gods; loath, with Demetrius, to have idolatry go down, and their trade to grow out of requeſt, Act.19.24-27.

So] Heb. And; yet ſo, Chap.37.5,8. howbeit, the copulative, here retained, is better.

the Carpenter] See Chap.40.19,20.

the goldſmith] Or, Finer, or Founder. See Chap.40.19. & 46.6. And ſo ſome of the Jewiſh Doctors; howbeit, ſome other of them, by the former, underſtand the Founder; by the latter, the workman, that overlayeth it with plates; as Chap. 40.19.

and he that ſmootheth with the hammer] The gold or ſilver plates, that the idoll is to be overlaid with, Chap.40.19. Jer. 10.9. a defect of the inſtrumental particle; as Pſal.17.13,14. yet ſome render it without any ſuch ſupply. See the next note.

him that ſmote the anvil] Or, as others, he that beateth out the metall on the anvil. But the former word, in Hebrew, is a noun, not a verb; and ſignifieth not a ſmiter, but ſmiting, as another of the ſame ſtock, Prov.18.6. & 19.29. and thence a term for an hamer, Judg.5.26. the latter word no where elſe in Scripture found for an anvil (though the Jewiſh Doctors, ſome of them, ſo expound it; and, ſome other of them, an hammer) cometh of a word, that ſignifieth, to ſhake, or diſturb, and trouble, Gen.41.8. Pſal.77.4. Dan.2.1,3. whence a term for a bel, Exod.28.33,34. but it is moſt commonly and frequently uſed for a courſe, or a turn; Gen.18.32. Joſh.6.3. Some, therefore, of the Jewiſh Commenters, read this paſſage thus; the Carpenter encouraged the Founder, or, the metalliſt that ſmootheth the hammer, for ſmiting on the anvil, or, for ſmiting by turns. And to confirm this, they call in the Chaldee Paraphraſe; from whence they gather, that the former word pattiſh, ſhould ſignifie an hammer of the greater ſize; a ſledge, the latter, to wit, paam, one of a ſmaller ſize; it being, ſay they, the manner of Workmen, to make uſe of the greater, for the beating out of their work at firſt; and of the leſſer, afterward, for the poliſhing of it. Whereas, other of them would have the former word to ſignifie the leſſer hammer; and the latter, the bigger: that which is more agreeable to the words of the text, wherein the former ſeems to be the poliſhing hammer. See Chap. 44. 12. But the truth is, the Chaldee ſeems not to take the word paam, for any hammer at all, either bigger, or leſs; but expoundeth it by the word zimna, that anſwereth to paam, as it ſignifieth, a turn, or courſe. It uſeth a word, indeed, withall, that in the Writings of the Talmudiſts, imports an hammer, of any ſort or ſize indifferently; whither one to beat iron out, or one to crack nuts with; as by the places, out of their diſcourſes produced, appears. But that ſeems to appertain to the expoſition of the fore-going word pattiſh. Nor do I find any place alledged, either out of ſacred Scripture, or Talmudicall Writer, wherein the word is taken, either for hammer, or anvil. I ſuppoſe, therefore, that this paſſage may well be thus rendred, and the ſmoother with the hammer, the ſmiter by courſe; that is, he that poliſheth the work, him that wrought at the forge, Heb. ſmiting, for a man of ſmiting; a ſmiter, or one that ſmiteth, as men of deriſion, for deriders: ſuch as uſe to deride, Prov. 29.8. Chap.28.14. a defect of the ſubſtantive regent. Of the like whereunto, ſee on ver. 2. Howſoever, thus muſt their gods be handled and hammered, ere they can attain their deity.

ſaying, It is ready for the ſodering] It is ſufficiently beaten out at the anvil; it is now time to put the parcels of it together, and to faſten, with ſoder, the joynts one to another. Or, as others, rather, more agreeably to the original; ſaying, of the ſoder (ſo is the particle uſed, Chap.38.15.) or, of the ſodering, (the word is no where elſe uſed, but for joynts, or junctures, in the plural, 1 Kin.22.34. 1 Chr.18.33.) It is good, the pronoun, for the verb ſubſtantive, as v.4. It is well ſodered, the joynts are well faſtened one to another.

and he faſteneth it with nails, that it ſhould not be moved.] They faſten with nails, either the frame of plates joyned together with ſoder, unto the wooden ſtock underneath it, that the joynts may keep the faſter, and hold the firmer together; (as the Jewiſh Commenters underſtand it) or the image, it ſelf, to ſome wall, poſt, or pillar, that it may ſtand faſt, in the place aſſigned it, and neither fall, nor be ſtirred; as moſt of ours take it. See chap.40.19. & 46.7.

he faſteneth] That is, ſome one of them, or other; the verb taken indefinitely, as Gen.48.1. he told (that is, one told) Joſeph.

faſteneth it.] The idoll; ſuch as is mentioned, Chap. 40. 19. the pronoun, for the noun; as Chap. 33. 2. and 35. ver.8.

that it ſhould not be moved] Or, that it ſtir not; a defect of the particle, as Pſal.93.1. It is not to be omitted, that ſome of ours read the whole paſſage, from v.5. hitherto, not as ſpoken in way of relation, what the enemies of God, and his, did; but delivered, by way of permiſſion, and provocation; as if it were ſaid, Let them, when at the ſight of theſe things, they begin to be troubled, draw neer, and convene; let them aſſiſt and encourage one another; let the idol-makers joyn together, and conſpire to make their work as firm as they can. See the like, chap. 8.9,10. Let others conſider, and judge of it.

V. 8. But thou Iſrael art my ſervant, Jacob whom I have choſen, the ſeed of Abraham my friend.] From the idolatrous Pagans, God turneth his ſpeech to his own people, endeavouring to confirm and ſtrengthen them, againſt all fear from the adverſe party; undertaking to ſecure them, and make them ſucceſſefull againſt all that ſhould oppoſe them.

thou Iſrael art my ſervant] Or, rather, thou Iſrael my ſervant; or, who art my ſervant: and ſo forward, in way of compellation, and deſcription of the party ſpoken to, unto ver. 10. of Iſrael and Jacob: ſee chap.40.27. To him was the promiſe, made before to Abraham, ſolemnly renewed, Gen. 28. 13,14.

my ſervant] Not as all men, yea, all creatures are Gods ſervants at large, Pſal.119.91. but in a more ſpecial manner, taken into his Family, to be his houſhold-ſervants, to have them neer about him, and to reſide, himſelf, among them, Lev.25. 42. & 26.11,12. Deut.9.29. Pſal.22.30. & 148.14. Eph.2.19.

See chap. 43. 1. & 44. 1.

whom I have choſen] To be a peculiar people to my ſelf, Exod.19.4,5.Deut.7.6.Pſal.135.4.Heb.whom I have choſen thee; a redundancy in that language riſe,Pſal.1.4.& 144.8. the like is in the next verſe.

the ſeed of Abraham] His Poſterity; as Pſal.105.6. 2 Cor. 11.22.whom God for his ſake regarded, Deut. 7.7. & 9.27.& 105.9.

my friend] So 2 Chr.20.7.Jam.2.23.whom I freely loved, Deut.4.37.and who entirely loved me,Gen.22.12. and with whom I was pleaſed to enter into a ſolemn league of amity, as well defenſive,as offenſive,Gen.12.2,3.& 15.1,18.& 17.2, 7. Thus is God a friend, even to his friends iſſue,as well as to himſelf,Exod.20.6.Pſal.37.26.& 115.13,14.

V. 9. Thou whom I have taken from the ends of the earth] Heb.whom I have taken thee; as before,ver.8.The word,Thou, is here needleſſe:there is,as a redundancy in the pronoun;ſo, a defect in the verb: entire and full, it is thus, Whom I have taken,or took,and brought from the ends of the earth,or,from the lands end; as Pſal.72.8.ver.5.to wit, in Abraham, their Progenitor,in whoſe loins they then were, (as Judg. 2.1. God is ſaid to have brought them out of Egypt,in their Parents,then all deceaſed, Num. 14. 29-31.) and whom God took and brought from the land of Chaldea,unto the land of Canaan, in which alſo, afterward, he ſetled his ſeed, Joſh. 24.2,3. Of the ſupply,ſee on Chap.38.17,21.and ſee the like, Gen.27.9. Jer.30.10. yet it followeth not hence, as ſome would infer, that Abraham was the party mentioned before, ver.2. for the ſequel is of no neceſſity. And the next branch doth exclude the expoſition of thoſe, who would underſtand this, of the bringing of the Iſraelites out of Egypt. Nor do they ſeem to go leſſe wide, who, either with the Jewiſh Doctors, underſtand this paſſage of the deliverance of them from the captivity of Babylon, a place far remote from their own home, Chap.39.3.Jer.30.10.Or,as ſome of ours,of the Elect, called out of all parts of the world,by Chriſt, Chap.56.6,7. Matth. 8.11.

and called thee from the chief men thereof] So is the word uſed,Exod.24.11.and it ſignifieth great ones, chief, or choice men;ſo termed, as reſerved, and ſet apart from others of leſſe reckoning; as the word, whence it cometh,importeth, Gen. 27.36.Num.11,17.Eccl.2.10. a borrowed term, from things that are kept cloſe and ſafe under the arm-holes, Ezek.13.18. Jer. 38. 12. meant of Abraham, whom God called out of Chaldea, from the great men there allied to him, or among whom he lived, Gen.12.1. Joſh.24.2,3. So rather, then as ſome,from the great men,their hard maſters in Babylon, ch. 26.13.& 43.14. Or, as others,of the Elect called, when the great Ones are paſſed by, Matth. 11.5, 25. 1 Corinth. 1. 26,27.

I will ſtrengthen thee]. Or, I ſtrengthen thee; and ſo, I help, I uphold: See ver.12.chap.40.29,31.Pſal.46.1.

yea,I will help thee] Pſal.46.5.

yea,I will uphold thee] Pſal.41.12 & 63.12.Chap.42.1,the redoubling of the particle addeth much weight to the words; as chap.40.24.importing,that no ſtrength,or aid, or ſupport, ſhall be wanting,that in any kind ſhall be needful for them, 2 Cor.12.9.

with the right hand of my righteouſneſs] Or,by my right hand of righteouſneſs: that is,my righteous right hand. See on chap. 2.20.& 30. 23. a right hand of righteouſneſs, for, a righteous right hand; Or, a right hand working righteouſly; as, a right hand of falſhood,Pſal.144.8,11 for,a falſe right hand; or, a right hand working falſly and fraudulently. Gods right hand, for his acting power, Pſal.17.7,14. & 118.15,16. his righteous right hand,for,his active power exerciſed in righting the wrongs done to his people, and in the faithful performance of his free promiſes made to them. See Chap. 1. ver.27.

V. 11. Behold,all that were incenſed againſt thee, ſhall be aſhamed and confounded:]. Of the note prefixed, ſee Chap. 10.33.& 30.27.& 40.10. Before,was a promiſe of all ſtrength, aid,and ſupport, to Gods people: Now, a denunciation of ſhame,confuſion,and utter deſtruction, to their enemies and oppoſites,Exod.23.22.Zach.12.3.

incenſed againſt thee] So chap.45.24.

aſhamed and confounded] Pſal. 25. 3. & 40. 14, 15. and 129.5.

they ſhall be as nothing] They ſhall come to nothing, or be as a thing of nought,Chap.40.17.v.12. Or, they ſhall be as if they were not,or never were,chap.40.23,24.

they that ſtrive with thee ſhall periſh] Heb. the men of thy ſtrife,or,of thy quarrel,or,thy men of ſtrife,or,quarrel; they that ſtrove or quarrelled with thee: So Job 31.35. See Pſal. 35. 1. Chap.50.8.

V.12. Thou ſhalt ſeek them,and ſhalt not find them]Or,Thou ſhalt ſeek them,but ſhalt not find them;as Cant.3.1.& 5.6. Or, Though thou ſeek them,thou ſhalt not find them. They ſhall be ſo deſtroyed, that thou ſhalt wonder to think what is become of them, Job 26.7-9.Pſal.9.5,6.and 10.15. & 37. 35, 36.Dan. 2.33.

even them that contended with thee] Heb. the men of thy contention,or,thy men of contention; thy contendents. See ver. 11. The word cometh of a verb,that ſignifieth ſometime, to fight, or brawl; as Num.26.9.ſometime, to fight,or bicker; as Pſal.60.title; it may here import either,or include both.

they that war againſt thee] Or, that warred againſt thee; that it may run in the ſame tenour with the former. Heb. the men of thy war,or,thy men of war; not, that warred with thee; but that maintained war with thee, or waged war againſt thee.

ſhall be as nothing,and as a thing of nought.] The whole paſſage may well be thus rendred; they that contended with thee, ſhall be as nothing, (Chap.40.23.Pſal.39.5.Hag.2.3.) Or, as that which is not, (Gen.30.1.Chap.37.3.) and thoſe that warred with thee, as nought; (as Chap.34.12. & 40.17.) Or, as that that is gone,or,hath failed,and is not,Gen.47.15, 16. chap. 5.8.& 16.4.& 29.20. for both the negative particles are, in ſubſtance,the ſame.

V. 13. For I the Lord thy God will hold thy right hand] Or, It is I the Lord thy God, that hold thy right hand; that is, hold thee by thy right hand, to keep thee up, Pſal.63.8. & 73.23. chap.42.6. & 45.1. & 51.18. or, go hand in hand with thee, to aſſiſt thee, as thy friend and fellow in fight,Pſal.83,8. See Prov.11.21. or, that ſtrengthen thy right hand; and enable thee to prevail againſt all thine oppoſites, Pſal. 80.17. Ezek. 30.25. Hoſ.7.15. ſo is the word uſed, Dan.11.1,6.

ſaying unto thee] Heb. that am ſaying; as before, am holding; that ſay unto thee, Lam.3.57. See on ver.9.

Fear not, I will help thee]Or, I will help thee.See ver. 10.

V. 14. Fear not] As before, ver. 10, 13. Repeated again and again, to confirm them againſt the conſideration of their powerful enemies, and their own weak and low condition.

thou worm Jacob] That art ſuch in the eye and eſtimation of thine enemies, who trample upon thee, as ſuch a contemptible creature. See Job 25.6. Pſal.22.6.

and ye men of Iſrael] Or, as ſome render it, ye few men: and ſo the ancient Greek: but then it ſhould be, men of number; as Gen.34.30. Deut.4.27. Jer.44.28. Others, ye dead men, that are as dead men, chap.26.19. Ezek.37.11-14. and ſo the old Latine. But they miſtake the vocal point; for men, and dead men, in Hebrew, differ but in a vowel. Yet had they ſaid mortals, it had not been much amiſſe. See on ch.2.9.

I will help thee] Or,I help thee: I am thine aſſiſtant, ver. 10, 13.

ſaith the Lord, and thy Redeemer, the holy One of Iſrael] Or, even thy Redeemer; that is, deliverer, and reſcuer. So is the particle uſed, chap.40.30. See chap.54.5.

V. 15. Behold] As chap.7.14. ver.11.

I will make thee a new ſharp threſhing inſtrument,having teeth] Heb. I have made thee like unto ſuch a cart, or ſled, as they uſed to threſh out their harder grain with. Of which, ſee on chap. 28.25,28. (the note of ſimilitude is wanting, as chap. 40.6.) a new one; and in that regard,the ſtronger,and ſharper, being neither worn, nor blunted with uſe: as 2 Sam. 21. 16.

ſharp threſhing inſtrument] Two words are here uſed; the former whereof, morag, ſignifies a ſled, in general, 2 Sam. 24. 22. 1 Chr.21.23. not found elſewhere: the latter, charuts, more peculiarly ſuch an one, as was uſed, commonly, for threſhing out of corn, chap.28.25,28. as alſo, ſometime, to torture men with, 2 Sam.12.31. Amos 1.3. ſo called, from a verb that ſignifies to cut; yet not, as cut, as ſome would have it; though the form be paſſive; and it is ſo, when taken for a ditch, Dan.9.25. but of cutting, becauſe it cutteth the ſtraw, in threſhing out of the grain: nor is it an adjective, as our verſion maketh it, rendring it ſharp; but a ſubſtantive, either joyned to the former, by appoſition, as his fellow, in way of ſpecification, as a damſel, a virgin, Deut.22.28. a woman, a widow, 2 Sam.14.5. a woman, an harlot, Judg.11.1. a man, an eunuch, Act.8.28. and ſo here, a ſled, a threſhing one; or, ruled by the former, as Joel 3.14. the valley of the threſhing, or, of the threſhing ſled; or, as ſome there render it, of conciſion, or cutting: and ſo here, a ſled of cutting, or threſhing; that is, a cutting, or threſhing ſled; to diſtinguiſh it from other ſleds, that are uſed for other purpoſes.

having teeth] Heb. a maſter, or owner of mouthes; as, an owner of wing, for, a winged fowl; or, one that hath wing, Prov. 1.17. and, an owner of horn, for, an horned creature, or one that hath horns, Dan.8.6. mouthes, for teeth, or the like: here, a ſled, whoſe wheels are furniſhed with iron-ſpokes, or teeth, as we commonly term them, Chap.28.28. Amos 1.3. as, a ſword of mouthes, for, a double-edged ſword, Pſal.149.6. Prov.5. 4. and a two-mouthed, for, a two-edged ſword, Heb.4.12. and, to fall on, or, by, the mouth, for, the edge of the ſword, Gen. 34. 26. Exod.17.13. Luk.21.24.

thou ſhalt threſh the mountains] I will make thee able, not to withſtand only, but to over-maſter, ſubdue, and deſtroy all thine enemies, (ſee Judg.6.7. 2 King.13.7. chap.25.10. Amos 1.3.) be they never ſo great, or ſtrong, ſo lofty, or mighty, chap.2.14. Zach.4.7. fulfilled, as in many glorious victories, as well as deliverances, at ſundry times vouchſafed Gods people, after their return from captivity, Zach.2.5. & 12.2,3,6. ſo principally, and more fully, accompliſhed in the reign of the Meſſias, Dan.2.34,35,44,45. 2 Cor.10.4,5.

and ſhalt beat them ſmall] Or, to ſmall duſt, or powder. So the word properly ſignifieth, Exod.32.20. & 30.36. 2 King. 23.7,15. chap.29.5. thou ſhalt threſh them in another manner then corn is wont to be threſhed. See Chap.28.28. See alſo, Matth. 21.44. a defect of the pronoun, as our reading yeelds it; ſuch as Chap.40.15. yet it may be rendred without ſuch ſupply; thou ſhalt threſh, and beat, or grinde to duſt, or, powder, the mountains.

and ſhalt make the hills as chaff.] See ver. 2, 16. Pſal. 18.42.

V. 16. Thou ſhalt fan them, and the wind ſhall carry them away, and the whirlwind ſhall ſcatter them] Thou ſhalt diſperſe them, and make an utter riddance of them; not like chaff, that ſtayeth in the floor when the grain is there winnowed, reſerved for ſome further uſe; but that, which upon winnowing in ſome open and high place, in a ſtiff wind, is carried clean away; or, upon winnowing on the floor, is, by the whisking of the wind, blown out of the floor, and ſo ſcattered, that it cannot be recollected. See Jer. 4.11. & 15.7. & 51.1,2. Dan.2.35.

and thou ſhalt rejoyce in the Lord, and glory in the holy One of Iſrael.] Or, but (as ver. 8.) thou ſhalt rejoyce in the Lord, (as Pſal.9.14. & 13.5. & 14.6.) thou ſhalt glory, (as chap.42.14.) or, boaſt thy ſelf, (as Jer.9.22,23.) of the holy One of Iſrael, ver.14, 16. aſcribing to him, whatſoever he hath enabled thee to do, or hath done for thee, ch.12.1-6. & 25.1-5. & 26.1-6.

V. 17. When the poor and needy ſeek water, and there is none, and their tongue faileth for thirſt, I the Lord will hear them, I the God of Iſrael will not forſake them] When my people, detained in captivity at Babylon, or elſewhere, Zach. 9.12. or by the way in their return home from thence, thorow waſte places, ver.18,19. ſhall be in diſtreſſe, through want of water, or other neceſſaries; and conſequently, when any poor ſoul ſhall be in perplexity for want of any ſpiritual conſolation, I the Lord will not be wanting unto them, for any neceſſary ſupply, Chap.12.3. Joh.4.10. & 7.37. 2 Cor.12.9. A defect of the particle when: as chap.17.6. & 26.10. ver.5.

hear them] By a gracious ſupply, ſhew, that I have heard them, even by ſatisfying their deſires, chap.59.9,10. Pſal.107. 5,6,9. Hoſ.2.22.

their tongue faileth for thirſt] Sticking to the roof of their mouth, for want of moiſture, Pſal.22.15. & 137.6. Lam.2.11. faileth, as chap.19.5. Jer.51.30.

the God of Iſrael] Hereby ſhewing himſelf ſo to be, ver. 10, 13.

will not forſake them] Gen.28.15. Joſh.1.5. 1 Sam.12.22. Heb.13.5. ver.9.

V. 18. I will open rivers in high places, and fountains in the midſt of the valleys: I will make the wilderneſſe a pool of water, and the dry land ſprings of water] I will alter the very courſe of nature, and cauſe thoſe places to yeeld water, where none ordinarily is, rather then my people ſhall want means of comfortable ſubſiſtance; an alluſion to thoſe extraordinary courſes taken by him, for the ſupply of his with water in the wilderneſſe, what time they travelled from Egypt to Canaan, Exod.17.6,7. Num.20.10,11. Pſal.105.41. & 107.35. & 114. 8. chap.35.7. & 44.3.

high places] See Jer.12.12. & 14.6. Howbeit, a learned late Writer, would have it rather, in low places; as after, in the valleys, in the plains. See chap.13.1. Jer.3.2. But it is rather in high places, in oppoſition to the valleys; in places as well of the one condition, as the other. See chap. 30.25. a place parallel to this.

in the midſt of the valleys] Or, in the valleys; as ch. 19.19. & 24.13. See Deut.8.7. Pſal.104.8,10.

ſprings] Heb. goings out, or, iſſues: and ſo, Pſal.107.33, 35. for there is another term for ſprings, or fountains, as before. See Pſal.74.14. & 84.9. chap.12.3.

V. 19. I will plant in the Wilderneſſe, the Cedar, the Shittah-tree, and the Myrtle, and the Oyl-tree; I will ſet in the deſert the firre-tree, the Pine, and the Box-tree together.] I will not furniſh them (only) with water, to quench their thirſt; but beſet the way which they are to paſſe by, (where the heat of the Sun might, for want of ſhade, annoy them, as in wilde waſtes, it oft falleth out,) with ſuch ſhrowdy trees, as ſhall afford them ſhade, and may much refreſh them in their travel, chap. 55. 12,13. Yet the meaning is not, that God would, by miracle, cauſe ſuch kind of trees to ſpring up in the way, where no ſuch were before; but that he would, by his providence and proviſion, make their paſſage as convenient and commodious unto them, as if ſuch a thing had been done. So ver. 3. ſee Pſal.105.39. chap.4.5,6. & 32.2.

plant] Or, place, or, ſet. Heb. give: as Gen.39.20. 2 Chr. 6.13. & 16.10.

Cedar] A goodly tree for ſhroud and ſhade, Ezek.31.3.

Shittah-tree] Divers conceits concerning this kind of tree, what it ſhould be, becauſe groundleſſe, I ſpare to relate. The moſt of the Jewiſh Commenters ſuppoſe it to be a choice kind of Cedar; in regard whereof, ſome of them make the Cedar here mentioned, and it, but one and the ſame tree; as if it were ſaid, the Cedar of Shittah; that is, the cedar that yeeldeth the Shittah-wood; which appeareth to have been a wood of ſome ſpecial note and worth. See Exod.25.5. & 35.7,24. but they ſeem rather to be reckoned up here, as trees diſtinct, in like manner, as the reſt. It is no where found mentioned in Scripture, ſave here, and about the furniture of the Tabernacle. Concerning which, what fables the Talmudiſts tell us, of the Iſraelites planting them in Egypt, by Jacobs admonition, and their carrying the wood thereof out of Egypt, by Moſes his direction; and of an whole wood of them, growing neer to Mount Sinai, that the people ſhould fell, wherewith to make them Tabernacles, I forbear to inſiſt on.

myrtle] A very pleaſant and delightful tree, of a fragrant ſmell; in regard whereof, it was, by the painims, dedicated to Venus: thence had Eſter her name, Hadaſſah, Eſt. 2.7. by the Greek Hiſtorians termed Atoſſa; the branches whereof, travellers, for their refreſhment, (and as by them deemed to have ſome efficacy to keep from wearineſſe in travel) uſed to carry in their hands, by the way. See Pliny, l.15. c.29. it is reckoned among the ſhadowy trees, Neh. 8.15. See Zach.1.8.

oyl-tree] Heb. tree of oyl; the olive tree, whoſe fruit yeeldeth oyl, Exod.30.24. Judg.9.9. Rom.11.17. hence the ſucking of oyl out of the flinty rock; that is, from thoſe rocky places, on which the olive trees grew, Deut.32.13. of the beauty and ſhadineſſe of it, ſee Hoſ.14.6,7.

firre] About this tree, alſo, there is ſome diſſent among the Jewiſh Maſters; but the moſt agree it to be a firre: which is the more likely, becauſe muſicall inſtruments were made of the wood thereof, as at this day with us, 2 Sam.6.5. It is joyned oft with the Cedar, chap.14.8. & 37.24. Zach.11.2. See chap.55.13. & 60.13. in which place, all theſe latter three trees are mentioned, and joyned, as here, together.

Pine] This word being no where elſe found, but here, and chap.60.13. is very ambiguous; the Rabbines, after their manner, where they are as uncertain, as others, ſay, it is a kind of cedar, and ſo leave us at randome. Moſt of ours take it to be the pine, or the pitch tree: which ſome gueſſe to be ſo called, from the noiſe that the branches thereof make, when they are ſhaken with the wind: and the root, whence it ſeems to ſpring, is uſed of ſuch a noiſe, as horſes uſe to make, trampling, or prancing with their feet, Judg. 5.22. Nahum. 3.2. Others derive it from an Arabick word, that ſignifies eternity; either becauſe it holdeth his verdure all the year long, as ſome kind of flower, thence called by the Greeks, Amaranthum, alluded to, 1 Pet. 5.4. and with us, everlaſting; or, becauſe, though the wood, or timber thereof, is of long continuance; for they ſeem to ſtray further, who, by change of a letter, yet not altogether unuſual, would have it deduced, either from the rozen, that it yeeldeth, or from another Arabick word, found in that verſion, Hoſ.14.6. that ſignifies to flouriſh.

box-tree] Of this, alſo, the Rabbines tell us, that it is a kind of cedar. Yet ſome of them ſay, that it is the braſil tree; and ſome, as our verſion hath it, the box: it is no oftner found, then the former. Nor can I aſſent to a Writer of great note, who, in his verſion, renders it, ſhadowy trees, ſuch, as groves commonly conſiſt of, whence he would have them ſo named; as if it denoted no particular kind of tree; but ſuch, in general, as yeelds much ſhade: ſuch as thoſe reckoned up, Neh. 8. 15. and thoſe pointed to, Hoſ.4.13.

V. 20. That they may ſee, and know, and conſider, and underſtand together, that the hand of the Lord hath done this, and the Holy One of Iſrael hath created it] Or, That men may ſee, and know, &c. other people, as well as Gods own: for the verbs are indefinite. So Pſal.109.27. a place parallel to this. See Chap.40.26. ver.4.

conſider] Heb. lay; to wit, their heart, to theſe things, or theſe things to heart: as it is more fully, ver.22. chap.42.25. Hag.1.5,7.

the Holy One of Iſrael] Ver.14,16.

created it] Hath appointed it ſo to be: as chap. 37.26. or, hath effected it; the word is uſed, as of the creation and production of the creatures at firſt, chap.40.26. & 45. 12,18. ſo, of ſtrange works, that may juſtly be deemed as works of creation, ch.4.5. Jer.31.22.

V. 21. Produce your cauſe, ſaith the Lord;] Heb. Cauſe to come neer: as chap.46.13.

bring forth your ſtrong reaſons] Heb. make to come neer (as Exod.21.6. 1 Sam.14.18. for the words are both of the ſame notion,) your ſtrong, to wit, reaſons, or arguments: a defect of the ſubject: as chap.40.10.

ſaith the King of Jacob] Pſal.44.4. & 89.18. & 149.2. ch.33. 22. God turneth his ſpeech to the idolatrous people, challenging them to produce the ſtrongeſt pleas they can, in the behalf of their idols; and to prove the truth of their religion, by producing the like works foretold firſt, and effected afterward, by thoſe whom they adore, to thoſe of his beforementioned, when they ſhall ſee them accompliſhed; and withal, take notice, how long before, warning had been given of them. See ver.1,2.

V. 22. Let them bring them forth, and ſhew what ſhall happen] A defect of the pronoun, as ver.15. or, rather, without any ſupply, here needleſſe; Let them come forth, and declare what will happen. Let your Idols do it. He challenged the Idolaters, before, to ſay what they could, for their Idols. He telleth them here, what he would have their idols to do. See ver.23. There is an elegant conſonancy in the Hebrew words, which our language cannot well expreſſe.

Let them ſhew the former things what they be] Let them ſhew what they can foretel, or effect; or have formerly foretold and effected. So Chap. 44. 7. & 45.20,21. & 46. 10. and 48.14.

that we may conſider them] Heb. and we will (as Chap. 37. 26. & 53.2.) ſet our heart upon them. See ver.21.

and know the latter end of them] Or, the iſſue of them, how they came afterward to paſſe. Heb. the poſterity of them; as Deut.32.20.

or declare us things for to come] Heb. make us to hear (as ver. 26. Pſal.51.8.) things to come, as Gen.41.35.

V. 23. Shew the things that are to come hereafter; that we may know that ye are gods:] As ver.2. ſee ver. 20. Heb. And we ſhall know; which may well be retained, elſe, as before, v.22. the copulative, for the finitive.

yea, do good, or do evil] To your friends, the one; to your enemies, the other: as I, for mine, v. 10 - 20. but neither of both can ye do, Jer.10.5. & 14.22.

that we may be diſmayed, and behold it together] Heb. and we ſhall be aſtoniſhed, or amazed, or diſmayed (as v.5. and here, before) and we ſhall know, and behold it; a defect of the pronoun, it; ſuch as Chap.37,1,9. Or, (becauſe ſight goeth, in nature, before aſtoniſhment, or amazement, as v.5.) when we ſee it; as chap. 31.3. & 43.12 Jer.34.1. Zach. 12.2.

V. 24. Behold, ye are of nothing] See 1 Cor.8.1. Or, ye are leſſe, or worſe then nothing: the particle is oft uſed, in a comparative notion: as Pſal.8.5. Job 11.6. the pronoun, for the verb ſubſtantive: as v.10,29.

and your work of nought] The work that is done about you, or by you: all that is done with you, or that your ſelves do, is leſſ, or worſe then nought, as ver.29. or worſe then that of a viper: ſo the word lengthened with one ſubſervient letter, is found uſed, Job 20.16. Chap.30.6. & 59.5. they are of leſſe worth, then the hiſſing of ſuch a Serpent; or they do not only no good nor benefit, but much miſchief to thoſe that adore them, and adhere to them, Pſal.16.4.

an abomination is he that chooſeth you] To worſhip as gods, chap.44.17. or, most abominable (as Lev.18.22. chap.1.13.) is he that (a defect both of the verb ſubſtantive, antecedent, and relative, as Jer.2.8,11.) delighteth in you: as Chap.1.29. and 58. 5,6.

V. 25. I have raiſed up one from the North, and he ſhall come] God having challenged the falſe gods, to ſhew what they have done, or can do; doth now again relate, what himſelf had done. Some render the verbs, both, in the time to come, I will raiſe up, and he ſhall come. And they ſupply, for want of the noun following, the former verb, not one, as our verſion, as of a particular perſon; but a people; which doth not recede much from the former, ſince that that party, albeit he were but one, it is certain that he brought people, yea, peoples along with him. But we need not depart from the words of the original, that runs thus; I raiſed up one, and he came; (for ſo it was before, v.2. in the queſtion there, which this anſwereth to, here; and it is ſpoken here, as of a thing already accompliſhed, as there: ſo Chap.43.14. & 45.13.) or, I raiſed up one——that he might come, or to come: as ver.22,24. to wit, at my call.

from the riſing of the ſun ſhall he call upon my name:] Or, from the riſing of the ſun, one that might proclaim, or to proclaim my name: as Exod. 33. 14. Now, this ſome underſtand of Nebuchadnezzar the former, that ſubdued and captived Gods people, ſaid, every where, to come from the North, Jer. 1.13,15. & 4. 6. of Cyrus, the latter, that delivered them out of captivity, and is ſaid to come from the Eaſt, chap.46.11. to ſhew, ſay they, that both their captivity by the one, and delivery by the other, were of Gods appointment and diſpoſall. But I conceive, rather, with others, that Cyrus is the party intended in either, who was a Medo-Perſian, himſelf, of a medley race; a Perſian, by Cambyſes his Father; and a Mede, by Mandane his Mother; and carryed along with him, in his expedition againſt Babylon, of his Subjects out of both Kingdoms; ſome out of Media, that lay more northerly to it, Jer. 50.3,9. others, out of Perſia, that lay more to the Eaſt of it, ver. 2. Chap.46.11. Yet ſome expound it of Chriſt, that ſhould gather his diſperſed out of all parts of the world, Pſal. 107. 3. Chap.43.5,6. & 49.12. Mat.8.11. Joh.11.52. of whom Cyrus was a type. Howbeit, they make over-large reckonings, who by the ſun-riſing, would underſtand Eaſt and Weſt; by the North, North and South, to hook in the whole world.

call upon my name] So did Cyrus, ſay ſome, becauſe the Perſians worſhipped no idols: but, rather, proclaim my name; as did Nebuchadnezzar, ſay ſome; who both praiſed him, himſelf, and proclaimed him to others, Jer.39.11,12. & 40.2, 3. Dan.3.28,29. & 4.2,3,34. but it ſeems rather to have reference to that ſolemn proclamation of Cyrus: whereof, ſee 2 Chr.36.22,23. Ezr.1.1,2.

and he ſhall come upon Princes, as upon morter, and as the Potter treadeth clay] Or, that he might come (as the like before) or go (as Gen.7.1. Ezek.36.20.) and tread down, or trample upon Princes (See the like defective, or comprehenſive forms of ſpeech, ch.38.17.21. howbeit, the ſupply, here, is from the branch enſuing, as ch.23.5.) as morter, and be as a potter that treadeth clay: a defect of the relative; as ver.24. ſee Pſal. 18. 42. Nah.3.14.

Princes] Such as God ſhall ſubdue to him; as Aſtyages, Creſus, Baltaſar, and others. See ver.2. chap.45.1.

V. 26. Who hath declared from the beginning, that we may know? and before time, that we may ſay, he is righteous?] Which of your gods did, or could, fore-tel this, that I fore-told above one hundred, well neer two hundred yeer, before it came to paſs; and, ye ſee, at length, fulfilled? See on ch.13.22. See alſo, ch.43.9.

declared] See v.22,23. or declared this: as ch. 45.21. & 48. 14. See the like defect, 1 Cor.9.10.

from the beginning] Heb. head: as ch.40.21. & 48. 16. that is, long before: as in the next branch, before time; or from before time. Heb. from before; or, from to the face: as Jer. 7.24.

that we may know] Heb. and we ſhall know: as ver.23. and ſo afterward, and we ſhall ſay.

He is righteous?] He is to be juſtified and allowed of, in his claim, to a deity; he may juſtly go for a god; or may, deſervedly, claim the name of a god, Deut.25.1. ch.43.9. See v.23. and the like defect, 2 King.10.9. Prov.24.24. ch.3.10,11. & 43.10,11. A late learned Writer would rather have it rendred, he is true; becauſe the word, in Arabick, is ſo commonly uſed; and righteouſneſs, where it is given to God, doth oft ſignifie truth, as ch.42. 21. & 45. 23. So the Chaldee, and the Greek, here, it is truth, the one; true, the other. And he rendreth thus the whole paſſage, who will declare former things? we will know (or acknowledge him, or them) and thoſe things that were before? we will ſay, he is true. Let others judge of it.

yea, there is none that ſheweth, yea, there is none that declareth, yea, there is none that heareth your words] There is never an idol of you, that fore-told ought of it; nor Prieſt, or Prophet, belonging unto either of them, that reported it (Heb. making to hear: as ver.22.ch. 52.7. & 53.1.) from them; nor any of your worſhippers, that hath heard ought of it, either from your ſelves, or from any of you, by any of them; ſince neither your ſelves can ſpeak ought, Pſal.115.5. & 135. 16. nor are any of your Prieſts and Interpreters able to ſay ought thereof, ch. 47.12,13. The repetition of the particle, makes the ſpeech more emphatical: as ch.40.24. So ver.20.

V. 27. The firſt ſhall ſay to Zion; Behold, behold them, and I will give to Jeruſalem one that bringeth good tidings] Or, as ſome, I the firſt (that is, God, v.4.) will ſay to Zion; Behold, behold them: Or, as others, I will give a prime, or chief one to Zion, to wit, Chriſt, Cant.5.10.) and a bringer of good tidings to Jeruſalem, who ſhall ſay, Behold, behold them. Or, as others, again, I will firſt give to Sion, and to Jeruſalem, one joyfully publiſhing, Behold, behold them. But theſe, all, invert the words of the text too much. I ſuppoſe the words may be beſt thus rendred, with leaſt force to the text, and moſt fitneſs with the context; I ſay firſt to Zion, Behold, behold them; and give to Jeruſalem, a bringer of glad tidings.

The firſt ſhall ſay] Or, I firſt ſay, or ſaid; I am the firſt that ſignified ought to Sion; either concerning her deliverance, or the deſtruction of Babylon; and the perſons, by whom either of theſe ſhould be effected; that which none of your Idols or Wizzards, could do, ver.26. a defect of the verb: as Pſal.27.8.

Behold, behold them] That is, ſay ſome, the things now foretold, and then fulfilled: but the pronoun is not a neuter, but a maſculine; as our verſion well rendreth it: which ſome expound of the people under Cyrus his command, coming to ruine Babylon, and to releaſe Gods people. See Chap.13.4,5. & 21.9. Jer.51.41,44. Others, of the Jews returning in flocks, and troops, from captivity. See ch.49.12. the repetition addeth more vehemency and evidence to it; as Chap.65.1.

will give] Or, do give: do ſend; do aſſign.

to Jeruſalem] This, and Sion, here, are all one: as Chap.1. 27.& 40.9.

one that bringeth good tidings] That is, Cyrus, ſay ſome, Ezr. 1.1,2. Chriſt, ſay other, Chap.42.1.& 61.1. John Baptiſt, ſay other, chap.40.3. the Prophet Eſay, ſay others, who fore-told all this, ſee chap.61. 1. But I conceive that no peculiar, or particular meſſenger, is here meant; but that the word is uſed collectively, meſſenger, for meſſengers: as Chap. 40. 9. and 52.6,7.

V. 28. For I beheld, and there was no man even among them; and there was no counſellor, that when I asked of them, could anſwer a word] God here drawing to a concluſion of the controverſie, concerning the deity, or divine power of idols; and having formerly ſummoned all their proctors and patrons, to come in and plead for them, v.1,21. doth now addreſſe himſelf to paſſe ſentence, as a Judge, where none appeareth in behalf of the party queſtioned, neither himſelf, nor any for him; that ſince they are not able to produce ought in their own defence; nor any other, in their behalf; he therefore concludeth againſt them, that there is no matter of deity in them; but that they are meer vanity, counterfeit gods, and baſe idols, ver.29.

For I beheld] Heb. And I beheld; that is, But I looked about, as ch.31.2. Or, Now when I looked about, to ſee whether any would make appearance: as v.17.ch.30.20. & 35.4.& 37.9, 36. Pſal.142.4. ſo afterward.

there was no man] Or, not any, ch. 40.20. for it is uſed, not of man alone; but of any creature whatſoever.

even amongſt them] As v.12. any of their idols. For I cannot agree with thoſe, that underſtand it of Gods people: as ch.59.16. & 63.3. the whole courſe of the context runs another way.

no Counſeller] None that could give any advice what was fit to be done, ch.45.21.

that when I asked of them, could anſwer a word] Heb. and I asked of them, and they returned (the ſame conſtruction with that before) a word, or ought, Job 13.22. Jer.26.2. Mat.22.46. the verb taken potentially: as Jer.2.23,32.

V.29. Behold, they are all vanity] Jer.10.3,15.

their molten images are wind and confuſion] Molten images, diſtinguiſhed from graven images, chap.48.5. but put here for images of all ſorts, both the one, and the other, promiſcuouſly; as Jer.10 14.& 51.17.

wind] Of no ſolidity, ſtability, efficacy, or utility; but ſuch as cauſe much ſorrow and vexation to thoſe that have dealing with them, Pſal.16.3. v.24. Jer.10.15. in regard whereof, they are ſometime termed by a word that ſignifieth ſorrow & pain, chap.10.10.& 48.5. like a puff of wind that paſſeth away, and cannot be held or kept, Pſal.78.39. Prov.10.15. & 27. 16. and blaſteth, ſometime, in its paſſage, Pſal.103.16. chap.40.7. Ezek. 17.10. being no ſolid ſubſtance, cannot feed or nouriſh, Prov. 11.29. Hoſ.12.1. yea, being incloſed in the body and bowels, not only affordeth no nutriment, and is a fit emblem, therefore, of labour in vain, whereof cometh no emolument, Eccl. 5.16. Hoſ.8.7. but diſturbeth digeſtion, hindreth concoction, and produceth, oft, pain, and torments intollerable, Chap. 26.18.

confuſion] Of this term, ſee on chap.24.10.& 34.11. & 40. 17,23.

CHAP. XLII.

Ver.1. THis Chapter, and the two next enſuing, which together make up but one Sermon; are much of one ſubject, relating and fore-telling the bleſſings that God would confer upon his people; partly, by Cyrus; and partly, yea, principally by Chriſt; diſcovering the vanity of idols, and ſottiſhneſſe of idolaters; taxing his people, for their incredulity, blindneſſe, exceſſes, and obſtinacy, the cauſes of their captivity; and yet promiſing pardon and reſtitution, upon their ſincere repentance.

Behold my ſervant] The words of God the Father, ſpeaking of Chriſt, as the Evangeliſt expoundeth and applieth it, Mat. 12.18. ſo called, in regard of his humane nature, and office of Mediatorſhip, Ch.49.3.& 53.11. Phil.2.7. Rom.15.8. on whom are all the promiſes of God founded, Gen.22,18. and ratified in him, 2 Cor.1.20. And of the Meſſias doth the Chaldee Paraphraſt expound it, and ſome of the Jewiſh Commenters, after him. Howbeit, ſome of them expound it of Cyrus; which ſome of ours, alſo, but as a type of Chriſt, admit. See Chap.44.28.& 45.1. And if it be objected, that ſome things, hereafter ſpoken, will not agree to Cyrus; it is by them anſwered, that in the like Prophecies, ſome particulars argee to the type, and not to the truth; as Pſalm 22.6. & 40.12. Some to the truth, and not to the type: as Pſalm 16.10. with Act.2. 29.& 13.36,37. Or, to the type, in one ſenſe; to the truth, in another. So in thoſe Pſalms, wherein David is a type of Chriſt: as Pſalm 2.& 16.& 22. and thoſe, in which Solomon; as Pſalm 45.& 72. Some things are ſpoken, that muſt, of neceſſity, be underſtood of them, in one notion; of Chriſt, in another. Of Pharao's daughter, eſpouſed to Solomon; and the Church, to Chriſt; the one typified by the other, Pſalm 45. the ſame may be ſaid. Others of them, again, underſtand it of Jacob, & Iſrael (which the ancient Greek, therefore, hath over-boldly thruſt into the text) and the godly of his Poſterity; becauſe the term is ſo oft given unto them, Chap.41.8, 9.& 44.1,2.& 21.24. & 45.4. & 48.20. And others, of the Prophet Eſay; unto whom they apply thoſe places. Ch.43.10. & 44.26.& 49.5. which a late Writer alſo avoweth. But theſe two latter carry no probability at all with them.

whom I uphold] Whom I am with, to ſtrengthen, ſupport, and enable him, unto the office and work that I have aſſigned him, Ch.49.5,8. Chriſt principally, Ch.53.10. John 16. 32.& 17.4. Cyrus, as a type of him. Ch.45.1,2,5. Or, as the Jewiſh Doctors read it, whom I lean upon; as Kings do on thoſe that ſerve them, 2 King.5.18.& 7.2,13. whom I truſt unto, or rely upon, for the performance of what I entruſt him with; and this, alſo, many of ours admit. See of Chriſt, Heb.3.2. of Cyrus, Chap.44.28. But I find not where the word, here uſed, hath this notion; the former, very commonly and conſtantly, Exod.17.12. Pſalm 16.5.& 17.5.& 41.12.& 63.8. Chap.33. 15.& 41.10,13. and to that, therefore, I adhere. Heb. I will uphold him; the demonſtrative, for the relative: as Ch. 33. 20,21.

mine Elect] Or, choice one: the term is uſed of Moſes, Pſal. 106.23. of Saul, 2 Sam.21.6. of Iſrael and Jacob, and his Poſterity, Pſalm 105.6,43.& 106.5. Ch.43.20.& 45.4. & 65.9,15. See Ch.14.1. & 41.8,9. & 44 1, 2. of Chriſt true, in a more ſpecial manner, ſet apart by God, for the work of mediation, ch.43.10. John 6.27,29.& 10.36. 1 Pet.1.20.& 2.4. of Cyrus, as a type, deſigned for the deliverance of Gods people, Ch. 44.28.& 45.3,4.

in whom my ſoul delighteth:] Or, is well pleaſed, Deut.33. 11,24. Ezek.20.40. who alone is in ſpecial manner acceptable to me. Mat.3.17.& 17. 5. and no means of reconcilement, or free acceſſe to me, but by him, John 14.6. Eph.1.4,6. & 2.14, 18. a defect of the relative; as Gen.39.4. Chap.40.20. & 41. 3. ver.5. and by a metaphorical reſpect had to man, his ſoul, for himſelf; as Chap.1.14. Amos 6.8. with Heb.6.13. which yet may have ſome reference to Cyrus, in regard of the work done by him, and, by God, accepted of, for the good of his people, Chap.45.3,4. and whom he is, therefore, ſaid to affect. See Chap.48.14.

I have put my ſpirit upon him] Or, on whom I have put my ſpirit: the like defect, with that in the firſt branch. Of Chriſt, ſee ch.11.2.& 61.1. John 1.33,34.& 3.34. of Cyrus, ſee Ezr. 1.1. as of Sampſon, Judg.13.25. and of Saul, 1 Samuel 10. 9,10.

he ſhall bring forth judgment to the Gentiles] He ſhall be their Governor, executing judgment upon them, & among them, calling, converting, conquering, ſubduing, ruling, and over-ruling them by his Word and Spirit, Pſalm 2.8. & 45.4,5. & 110.2. chap.2.3,4. & 49.6. Rev.6.2. & 19.11-16. So of Chriſt. Of Cyrus, as proclaiming Gods mind and purpoſe to all people, concerning the reſtitution of his people, and executing of his judgment on thoſe that detained Gods people in captivity, and ſuch as adhered to them, Ezra. 1. 1. See ver.3.

V.2. He ſhall not cry, nor lift up, nor cauſe his voice to be heard in the ſtreets] Of Chriſt, ſome expound it, that he ſhall not come with noiſe and ſtir, or with pomp and ſtate, as Worldly Princes and Potentates are wont to do; but in a meek, ſtill, quiet, and lowly manner, Zach.9.9. Matth.12.14,19. & 21.5. Others, that he ſhall not carry himſelf contentiouſly, and clamorouſly, with paſſion and perturbation; (for anger and clamour, go commonly together, Eph.4.31. and perſons poſſeſſed with wrath and rage, are ſo loud, many times, that they may be heard abroad in the ſtreets. Therefore Matthew rendreth it, he ſhall not contend) but ſhall adviſedly and conſiderately demean himſelf, and diſpoſe things with tranquility and calmneſſe of Spirit, Ch.11.2. (in which ſenſe, alſo, ſome apply it to Cyrus) The Hebrew Commenters conceive it to have reſpect unto worldly Judges; who, in keeping Courts, are fain to ſpeak with extention of voice and vehemency, to cauſe men to keep ſilence, and attend to their dooms; which the Meſſias ſhall not need, men being of themſelves ready to hear and obey him, though ſpeaking calmly and quietly to them, Gen. 49. 10. 1 King. 19. 12. Pſal. 18. 44, 45. Chap. 2. 3.

lift up] his voice : to be ſupplyed from the following branch; as Chap.30.17. So v.11. Yet ſome of the Rabbines ſupply, face : He ſhall not lift up faces. That is, He ſhall not reſpect the perſon of any, Exod.23.3. Deut.16.19. 2 Chr.19.7. Matth.22.16. Rom.2.8–11. But the former ſeems the plain and genuine ſenſe of the place.

V. 3. A bruiſed reed he ſhall not break, and the ſmoking flax ſhall he not quench :] Either, as the Jewiſh Commenters, he ſhall not tyrannize over, but nouriſh and cheriſh the poor and feeble ones, ſuch are wont, by great ones, to be oppreſſed, Pſal.72.2,4,12–14. Ezek.34.21,22. Or, as moſt of ours, He ſhall not deal roughly and rigorouſly with weak and tender ſouls, but ſhall ſupport and ſtrengthen them, deal mildly and gently with them, and be tender-hearted towards them, Chap. 40.11,29–31. Ezek. 34.24. Some apply it to Cyrus, as an inſtrument of delivering and reſcuing Gods then poor and feeble ones, as a ſhepherd his ſheep, out of the hands of their oppreſſors, and from thoſe countries, into which, by their cruelty, they had been ſcattered, Ch.44. 28. & 45. 13. Ezek. 34. 4–6, 12,13.

the ſmoking flax] Flax, that is, a weik of flax; as flax, for, ſtrings, or, threds of flax, Judg.15.14. And ſo fully, threds of tow, Judg.16.9. ſmoking; having more ſmoke, then light, ch. 50.10. or, burning dimly; almoſt ſpent, and ready to go out; as thoſe that are dim-ſighted, and can hardly ſee, having almoſt loſt their ey-ſight; of whom the word is uſed, Gen.27.1. 1 Sam.3.2. Zach.11.17.

not quench] As ch.43.17. Heb. not quench it : a redundancy; as Gen.2.17. Matth.21.41. He ſhall not blow out, but blow up, raiſe, trim, ſupply, ſnuff, and make to burn brighter, Exod.27.21. 1 Sam.3.3. The poſſitive implyed in the privative; as in the branch fore-going.

he ſhall bring forth judgement unto truth] Though he favour the weak, yet ſhall he not ſpare the wicked, but judge according to truth and equity, Exod. 23.2,3,6. Levit.19.15. Deut. 16.20. Ch.11.3,4. Joh.7.24. See ver.1,4. truth is uſed ſometime for, equity and fidelity, Judg. 9. 16. Ch. 38. 3. & 48. 1. ſometime, for the due and ful performance of ought, Joſh. 2. 12. 2 Sam.7.28. Joh. 1. 14, 17. It may well be taken either way here.

V. 4. He ſhall not fail, nor be diſcouraged, until he have ſet judgement in the earth] He ſhall not faint, nor be diſheartned, in regard of thoſe difficulties that ſhall encounter him, in his purſuit of the work enjoyned him, but go on couragiouſly, until he have diſpatcht it. See Joh. 17.4. Heb.12.2,3. See alſo ch 45.1,2,5,13. The Evangeliſt rendreth it, Matth.12. 20. until he bring forth judgement unto victory. That is, until he have overcome all oppoſitions that he ſhall meet withal, in the execution of the judgement to be executed by him, according to Gods purpoſe and appointment; and ſubdued all the enemies and oppreſſors of Gods people. This of Chriſt, ſee Rom.8.36. & 16. 20. 1 Cor. 15. 25. Rev.3.21. & 6.2. Of Cyrus, Ch.44. 28. & 45. 1.

fail] As a Lamp, or Taper, doth when it is even ſpent, and the oyl, or wax, that fed it, faileth. For it is the ſame word that was of a weik, ver.3. And ſome, therefore, expound it of ſeeing clearly, and diſcerning things aright in judgement, ch. 11. 2, 3. See Deut. 34 7. Zach. 11.17. And they expound the whole paſſage thus, He ſhall be neither miſled by ignorance and miſtake, nor forced aſide through fear. But I conceive the former here intended, when men faint, their eyeſight faileth, 1 Sam.14.29. Lam. 5.17. For they are wide, who expound it, He ſhall do nothing in paſſion, or anger; becauſe of that, Pſal.6.7. For the word there ſignifieth, not anger, but grief; as Eccl.7.3.

be diſcouraged] Heb. be broken. The ſame word that was uſed of a reed, or, cane, ver. 3. or, bruiſed. For it differeth ſomewhat from broken, ver. 3. and it is uſed in a notion of oppreſſion, 1 Sam.12.3,4. ch.58.6. Hoſ.5.11. Amos 4.1. whence ſome here expound it actively, He ſhall not oppreſs. But the word is uſed paſſively, in the former ſenſe, Eccl.12.6. Others, He ſhall not run; referring it to another root; and expounding it, either of timidity and cowardiſe, that ſetteth men on running, ch.21.14,15. Jer.48.9. or of temerity and turbulency, that maketh men run on head, Job 5. 13. Prov. 19. 2. and ſo the meaning ſhould be; He ſhall do all things conſiderately and adviſedly, not haſtily, or raſhly. See ver. 2. But I concur rather with the firſt.

in the earth] Or, on the earth; here below; as Pſal.135.6. Mat.6. 10. & 18.18. Or, in the land, to wit, of Gods people; as diſtinguiſhed from other nations, mentioned in the next clauſe. So ch. 4.2. & 14. 2. & 16.1. & 19.24. But whether way we take it, I cannot aſſent unto that late learned Annotator, who, by judgement, underſtanding condemnation; (as the like term is uſed, Joh. 5.24, 29.) would have the words to be rendred, until he lay condemnation along on the ground; as ſome, ſaith he, are ſaid to lay juſtice on the ground, Hoſh. 10. 7. that is, until he hath utterly abandoned and aboliſhed it. But this ſenſe ſeemeth too coact, nor to fit ſo well in this place, and the Iles ſhall wait for his Law] The Iles, or, Lands; as ver. 10. ch. 41. 1. & 51.5. and lands, for, people, or, nations; as ch.37.18. Not the Jews onely, but the Gentiles alſo; the people of divers countries, ſhall willingly, and readily receive and embrace his doctrine and dictates. Law, for, doctrine; as Ch.1.10. See Gen. 49.10. Pſal.18.43,44. Ch. 2.3,4. Act.2. 42. & 13. 48. & 14. 1.

V. 5. Thus ſaith God the Lord] The former word ſignifies might and power : and ſo the Greek, ſometime; as Exod. 20.5. And ſome of ours conſtantly expreſs it, the mighty God : tho that in a verſion need not; no more then for us, in engliſh, to ſay ever, for God, the good God; albeit the term of God be deemed, not without good ground, to come from the word, good. Of the latter, ſee on Ch. 1. 2. ver.8. This large deſcription of God is here inſerted, as well to intimate his ability to go thorow with whatſoever he undertakes, as his fidelity in making good all his Promiſes.

he that ſpread forth the earth] Made it appear above the water wherein it lay, as buried and drowned before, Gen.1.9. Pſal. 136. 6. ch.40. 28. & 44.24. 2 Pet.3.3. The ſame word that is uſed of the skie that over-ſpreadeth the earth, Gen. 1. 6.– 8.

and that which cometh out of it] Heb. the off-ſprings, or, the proceeds of it; as ch.34.1. See Gen.1. 11.

he that giveth breath unto the people upon it, and ſpirit to them that walk therein] Or, thereon, rather; as ver. 4. breath, and ſpirit of life, Gen. 2. 7. & 6. 17. Prov.24.27. Job 33. 4. Act. 17. 25, 28.

V. 6. I the Lord have called thee] Chriſt my Son, and Servant, Pſal. 2.8. Heb.5.4,5. See ver. 1.

in righteouſneſs] In a juſt and righteous courſe; or, in faithfulneſs, to fulfil my promiſe, Ch.1.27. & 46. 13. Act.13. 23,32,33. See ch.41 2. & 45.13.

and give thee for a covenant of the people] To be the Mediator and a ratifier of the covenant, plighted between me and my people the Jews, Gen.17.4,17. & 22. 18. Deut.5.3. & 29.10–12. Ch.49. 8. Rom.15. 8. 2 Cor. 1.20. Hebr. 7. 22. & 11.24.

for a light to the Gentiles] Or, to the Gentiles. To comfort and cheer them up; as light is cheerful and delightful, Eccl. 11. 7. Pſal. 27. 1. Or to bring them out of ſpiritual darkneſs, into the light of grace and life, Ch. 9.2. & 49. 6. Luk. 2. 32. Act. 13. 47. & 26.18, 23. Col. 1. 13. Or, to go before them, and conduct them in the way that tends and leads to life eternal, Luke 2.32. A metaphor taken from ſuch as go before paſſengers, journeying in the dark, with a light: or to the pillar, that by night, conducted the children of Iſrael in the deſart, Exod. 13. 21, 22. Num. 9. 15. & 10. 33. Pſal. 105. 39.

V. 7. To open the blinde eyes] To illighten the minds of thoſe that were, by nature, ſpiritual blinde, with the ſound knowledg of ſaving truth, Ch.35. 5. Act.26.18. 2 Cor.4.4,6. Eph.1.18. & 4. 18,19. Rev.3.18.

to bring out the priſoners from the priſon, and them that ſit in darkneſs out of the priſon-houſe] The ſame thing, in divers terms repeated, to deliver them from the thraldom of ſin and ſatan, whereof their captivity in Babylon, was a type, Ch.45. 13. & 49. 9. & 61.1. Zach. 9.11. Luke 4. 18. Rom.6. 6, 14. Col.1.13. 2 Tim.2.26. Tit. 2. 14. Hebr.2.14,15.

priſoners] Heb. priſoner. But taken collectively; as Pſal. 79. 11. & 102. 20. Ch. 10. 4. & 24.22. properly, a bound one, Pſal.68.6. Whence alſo the priſon-houſe is called an houſe of bond, or, bonds, Jer.37.15.

priſon] Heb. cloſure; or houſe of cloſure; or, ſhutting up; as Pſal. 142. 5. Ch.24.22. where the notation of the word is, cloſure; for an houſe, or place of encloſure; as reſtraint; for an houſe, or place of reſtraint, 2 Kings 25.29. Jer. 52. 33.

priſon-houſe] Heb. houſe, or, place, (for the word is in Hebrew, a very general term, Job 8.17. 2 Sam. 15. 17, Pſal.84. 3. Prov. 8.2. Ezek. 1. 27.) of reſtraint; as 1 Kings 22. 27. 2 Kings. 17. 4. Jerm. 37. 4. & 52. 31. ver. 22. It is uſed with an ellipſis either way, ſometime, houſe, or, place alone, as ſome take it, Ch.14.17. ſometime, reſtraint alone, for houſe, or, place of reſtraint; as above.

V. 8. I am the Lord, that is my name] Or, This, to wit, Jehovah, Exod.15.3. Is my name, Pſal.83. 18. the name, whereby I am, and will be diſcerned, and diſtinguiſhed, as having my being of my ſelf, from all idols, and falſe gods, that have their being from others, Exod.3.14. Deut.6.4. 1 Kings 19. 21, 22. And thereby I will alſo, in a more ſpecial manner, be known to my people, in making good all my gratious promiſes to them for their good, Exod. 6. 3. For the Talmudiſts, and thoſe that follow them, are here moſt ridiculous; who read the words, Hu is my name; and thence coin us a new name of God, which they uſe in ſome of their prayers; as they do alſo, Aphhu, from 2 Kings 2.14. Whereas the word ſignifies no more then this, or, that, here; he alſo, there.

and my glory will I not give to another, nor my praiſe to graven images] I am jealous of my glory, and will not ſuffer it, therefore, to be imparted to any other, but will ſeverely avenge my ſelf on any that ſhall ſo do, Exod.20.5. Deut.4 15--19,23,24. Or, I will not ſuffer my glory to be impaired, as it would be, ſhould I fail in the performance of any of my predictions, or promiſes, and ſo give idolaters occaſion to advance their idols above me. See Ch. 48. 11.

to another] To any other, ſimply. Or, to any other (that is, ſtrange; as Mar.16.17.) another, for, another god; or, a ſtrange god; as Pſal. 16.4. A defect of the ſubſtantive, (as Ch.43. 12.) taken collectively in either.

graven images] For images of all ſorts. See on Chap. 41. 29.

V. 9. Behold the former things are come to paſs, and new things do I declare: before they ſpring forth I tell you of them] As in times paſt I have been true in my promiſes, ſo will I be for time to come, Joſh.7.5. & 23.3,5. 1 Kings 8. 23--25. Or, as my predictions to Ezekiah, concerning the Babylonian deportation ſo long before delivered, have already been effected. So now I fore-tel other things, concerning the downfal of Babylon, and the deliverance of my people, temporally, by Cyrus; ſpiritually, by Chriſt; long before any ſeeds, or ſigns of either, appear. That which before he challenged any of their falſe gods to do; and whereby he confirmeth his own divine power, and convinceth them as counterfeits. See Ch. 41. 22--24,26,28,29.

ſpring forth] Or, bud out, Gen. 2. 5. And as there, when no ſight of any ſuch matter yet appeared, or means that might produce it.

tell you] Heb. make you hear; as Ch. 41. 26.

V. 10. Sing unto the Lord a new ſong;] A new ſong. That is, ſay ſome, an excellent one: or rather, a new ſong, of a new matter, for a new mercy, upon a new occaſion. For it hath reference to thoſe new matters, mentioned, ver. 9. See Ch. 43.19. Jer.31, 22. Pſal. 32.7. & 33.3. & 96.1. & 98. 1.

and his praiſe from the end of the earth] Or, from the lands end; as Pſal. 72. 8. Ch.24.16. Either from all parts, where Gods people remained as exiles, Ch. 11. 12. or where Babylon had exerciſed here rigor, Ch.14.5--7,16,17.

ye that go down to ſea] That are employed in ſhipping, as merchants, or, as mariners, Pſal.107.23. Let all praiſe God every where, both by ſea and land, Pſal.96.11,12.

and all that is therein] Heb. the fulneſs thereof; as Pſal. 96. 11. & 98. 7. Yet not fiſhes, but men, that trade and trafick there. For that ſeems over-nice that ſome here have, that the Ilands themſelves ſhould be called the filling of the ſea, as being ſet in the ſea, like pearls, or precious ſtones, in the hollow of a ring, or other jewels. Becauſe of ſuch the word is ſometime uſed, Exod.25.7. & 28. 17.

the Iles, and the Inhabitants thereof] Or, Lands: as ver. 4. or, ſea-coaſts, and thoſe that border upon the Sea: as Chap. 24. 15.

V. 11. Let the wilderneſſe, and the cities thereof, lift up their voice] See the like defect, ver.2. See Chap. 35.1.

the villages that Kedar doth inhabit] The Arabians, or Iſhmaelites that dwelt in ſcattered villages, or in tents, Gen. 25 13. Chap.21.17.

let the Inhabitants of the rock ſing] Or, of Petra; the chief city of Arabia. See Chap.16.1.

let them ſhout from the top of the mountains] That is, as ſome, thoſe that are moſt ſavage, ſuch as mountainees commonly are, Jer.3.2. but to be civilized under the Kingdom of Chriſt, chap.2.4. & 11.6-9. Others think it an alluſion to thoſe ſentinels, or, watch-towers, ſituate on the tops of high hills, or other eminencies, from whence meſſengers uſed to call people together, to acquaint them with what good tidings they brought. See Chap. 40.9.

top] Heb. head: as chap.2.1.

V. 12. Let them give glory to the Lord, and declare his praiſe in the Ilands] Or, Lands, or Countries. See ver.10.

as a mighty man] Or, a mighty one: ſo Job 16.14. Pſal. 78. 65.

he ſhall ſtir up jealouſie] Or, his jealouſie; that is, his raging wrath, and fierce indignation, Prov.6.34. ſo Deut. 19. 20. chap.59.17. fitly termed jealouſie, becauſe proceeding from a vehement and ardent affection, both of love to his people, and regard to his own honour, Deut.4.19. Chap. 37. 32. Zach. 1. 14. a defect of the pronoun; as Chap.40. 12. he will ſet with much fury and fierceneſſe upon them. See Pſalm 78. 38.

like a man of war] Heb. a man of warres, as 1 Chron.28.3. a man much exerciſed in wars, that hath fought many battles. See Exod.15.3.

he ſhall cry] Or, ſhout, Pſal.78.65. as military men uſe to do, in giving the onſet, in joyning battle in the field, or onſlaught in the aſſault of a city. See Jer.48.33. Amos 1.14.

yea, roar,] Like a mighty fierce Lion, that breaketh in with violence upon the flock; and with his hideous roaring, affrighteth both ſheep and ſhepherd, Amos 1.2. & 3.8. or, make an hideous cry; for the word that ſignifieth roaring properly, is another; this is no where found, but here, and Zeph. 1. 14. and imports a louder and more hideous cry, then the ſhout before-mentioned.

he ſhall prevail againſt his enemies] Or, behave himſelf mightily, or, play the valiant man, Job 13. 25. See Pſal. 118. 15, 16.

V. 14. I have long time holden my peace, I have been ſtill, and refrained my ſelf:] Or, I have refrained my ſelf; for there is no copulative in the text: ſo chap.41.16. The words of God himſelf, (in regard whereof, ſome prefix the word, ſaying; as Pſal.105.15. Act.7.32.) profeſſing, that he had long forborn to execute judgment, and take vengeance in the behalf of his people, (as Pſal. 50.21. & 83.1.) reſtraining his wrath, (ch. 48.9. & 62.1.) like a woman in travel, ſtriving to hold in her breath; for the next branch ſeems to imply ſome alluſion thereunto, ſee Jer.44.22. the word is uſed of Joſeph, Gen. 43.31. & 45.1.

long time] Heb. from an age. So Gen.6.4. Jer.5.15.

now will I cry like a travelling woman] Or, cry out; (the word is no where elſe found) as a woman in pain, that being not able to hold her breath any longer, cryeth out in her travel, and can have no eaſe, or reſt, untill ſhe be delivered, Chap.26.17. Rev.12.2. Hence, ſome would have one of the Hebrew Mid-wives, in Egypt, termed Pua, Exod.1.15. which may not be altogether improbable, becauſe they are converſant about women, in ſuch caſes; or rather, becauſe with much cry, her mother had been delivered of her; as Jabez his mother, of him, with much pain, 1 Chr.4.9. for they ſeem to miſ-tranſlate the word, who render it, to hiſſe, as ſome kind of ſerpent, whoſe name cometh neer it, Chap.14.29. & 59.5. for that name is deemed to come from another root: nor ruling them by his Word and Spirit, Pſalm 2.8. & 45.4,5. & 110.2. chap.2.3,4. & 49.6. Rev.6.2. & 19.11-16. So of Chriſt. Of Cyrus, as proclaiming Gods mind and purpoſe to all people, concerning the reſtitution of his people, and executing of his judgment on thoſe that detained Gods people in captivity, and ſuch as adhered to them, Ezra. 1. 1. See ver.3.

V.2. He ſhall not cry, nor lift up, nor cauſe his voice to be heard in the ſtreets] Of Chriſt, ſome expound it, that he ſhall not come with noiſe and ſtir, or with pomp and ſtate, as Worldly Princes and Potentates are wont to do; but in a meek, ſtill, quiet, and lowly manner, Zach.9.9. Matth.12.14,19. & 21.5. Others, that he ſhall not carry himſelf contentiouſly, and clamorouſly, with paſſion and perturbation; (for anger and clamour, go commonly together, Eph.4.31. and perſons poſſeſſed with wrath and rage, are ſo loud, many times, that they may be heard abroad in the ſtreets. Therefore Mattthew rendreth it, he ſhall not contend) but ſhall adviſedly and conſiderately demean himſelf, and diſpoſe things with tranquility and calmneſſe of Spirit, Ch.11.2. (in which ſenſe, alſo, ſome apply it to Cyrus) The Hebrew Commenters conceive it to have reſpect unto worldly Judges; who, in keeping Courts, are fain to ſpeak with extention of voice and vehemency, to cauſe men to keep ſilence, and attend to their dooms; which the Meſſias ſhall not need, men being of themſelves ready to hear and obey him, though ſpeaking calmly and quietly to them, Gen. 49. 10. 1 King. 19. 12. Pſal. 18. 44, 45. Chap. 2.3.

lift up] his voice: to be ſupplyed from the following branch; as Chap.30.17. So v.11. Yet ſome of the Rabbines ſupply, face: He ſhall not lift up faces. That is, He ſhall not reſpect the perſon of any, Exod.23.3. Deut.16.19. 2 Chr.19.7. Matth.22.16. Rom.2.8–11. But the former ſeems the plain and genuine ſenſe of the place.

V. 3. A bruiſed reed he ſhall not break, and the ſmoking flax ſhall he not quench:] Either, as the Jewiſh Commenters, he ſhall not tyrannize over, but nouriſh and cheriſh the poor and feeble ones, ſuch are wont, by great ones, to be oppreſſed, Pſal.72.2,4,12--14. Ezek.34.21,22. Or, as moſt of ours, He ſhall not deal roughly and rigorouſly with weak and tender ſouls, but ſhall ſupport and ſtrengthen them, deal mildly and gently with them, and be tender-hearted towards them, Chap. 40.11,29-31. Ezek. 34.24. Some apply it to Cyrus, as an inſtrument of delivering and reſcuing Gods then poor and feeble ones, as a ſhepherd his ſheep, out of the hands of their oppreſſors, and from thoſe countries, into which, by their cruelty, they had been ſcattered, Ch.44. 28. & 45. 13. Ezek. 34. 4-6, 12,13.

the ſmoking flax] Flax, that is, a weik of flax; as flax, for, ſtrings, or, threds of flax, Judg.15.14. And ſo fully, threds of tow, Judg.16.9. ſmoking; having more ſmoke, then light, ch. 50.10. or, burning dimly; almoſt ſpent, and ready to go out; as thoſe that are dim-ſighted, and can hardly ſee, having almoſt loſt their ey-ſight; of whom the word is uſed, Gen.27.1. 1 Sam.3.2. Zach.11.17.

not quench] As ch.43.17. Heb. not quench it; a redundancy; as Gen.2.17. Matth.21.41. He ſhall not blow out, but blow up, raiſe, trim, ſupply, ſnuff, and make to burn brighter, Exod.27.21. 1 Sam.3.3. The poſſitive implyed in the privative; as in the branch fore-going.

he ſhall bring forth judgement unto truth] Though he favour the weak, yet ſhall he not ſpare the wicked, but judge according to truth and equity, Exod. 23.2,3,6. Levit.19.15. Deut. 16.20. Ch.11.3,4. Joh.7.24. See ver.1,4. truth is uſed ſometime for, equity and fidelity, Judg. 9. 16. Ch. 38. 3. & 48. 1. ſometime, for the due and ful performance of ought, Joſh. 2. 12. 2 Sam.7.28. Joh. 1. 14, 17. It may well be taken either way here.

V. 4. He ſhall not fail, nor be diſcouraged, until he have ſet judgement in the earth] He ſhall not faint, nor be diſheartned, in regard of thoſe difficulties that ſhall encounter him, in his purſuit of the work enjoyned him, but go on couragiouſly, until he have diſpatcht it. See Joh. 17.4. Heb.12.2,3. See alſo ch 45.1,2,5,13. The Evangeliſt rendreth it, Matth.12. 20. until he bring forth judgement unto victory. That is, until he have overcome all oppoſitions that he ſhall meet withal, in the execution of the judgement to be executed by him, according to Gods purpoſe and appointment; and ſubdued all the enemies and oppreſſors of Gods people. This of Chriſt, ſee Rom.8.36. & 16. 20. 1 Cor. 15. 25. Rev.3.21. & 6.2. Of Cyrus, Ch.44. 28. & 45. 1.

fail] As a Lamp, or Taper, doth when it is even ſpent, and the oyl, or wax, that fed it, faileth. For it is the ſame word that was of a weik, ver.3. And ſome, therefore, expound it of ſeeing clearly, and diſcerning things aright in judgement, ch. 11. 2,3. See Deut. 34 7. Zach.11.17. And they expound the whole paſſage thus, He ſhall be neither miſled by ignorance and miſtake, nor forced aſide through fear. But I conceive the former here intended, when men faint, their eyeſight faileth, 1 Sam.14.29. Lam.5.17. For they are wide, who expound it, He ſhall do nothing in paſſion, or anger; becauſe of that, Pſal.6.7. For the word there ſignifieth, not anger, but grief; as Eccl.7.3.

be diſcouraged] Heb. be broken. The ſame word that was uſed of a reed, or, cane, ver. 3. or, bruiſed. For it differeth ſomewhat from broken, ver. 3. and it is uſed in a notion of oppreſſion, 1 Sam.12.3,4. ch.58.6. Hoſ.5.11. Amos 4.1. whence ſome here expound it actively, He ſhall not oppreſs. But the word is uſed paſſively, in the former ſenſe, Eccl.12.6. Others, He ſhall not run; referring it to another root; and expounding it, either of timidity and cowardiſe, that ſetteth men on running, ch.21.14,15. Jer.48.9. or of temerity and turbulency, that maketh men run on head, Job 5. 13. Prov. 19. 2. and ſo the meaning ſhould be; He ſhall do all things conſiderately and adviſedly, not haſtily, or raſhly. See ver. 2. But I concur rather with the firſt.

until] This particle is here taken, not in way determination, as if he ſhould then begin to faint and fail, though not before; as Gen.24.19,33. & 27.44. & 49. 10. 1 Sam. 1.22. Pſal. 132. 5. ch. 36. 17. but in way of continuation; that ſo long he ſhould perſiſt and hold out, without fainting or failing; there being no needful mention of not fainting, or failing, any longer, then till then; becauſe from thence forward, all difficulties being now utterly removed, there could be no ſuſpition, or fear of ought in that kinde. So Gen. 28. 15. Pſal. 71. 18. Cant.3. 4. ch.22 14. Matth. 1.25. & 13. 33.

in the earth] Or, on the earth, here below; as Pſal.135.6. Mat.6. 10. & 18.18. Or, in the land, to wit, of Gods people; as diſtinguiſhed from other nations, mentioned in the next clauſe. So ch. 4.2. & 14. 2. & 16.1. & 19.24. But whether way we take it, I cannot aſſent unto that late learned Annotator, who, by judgement, underſtanding condemnation; (as the like term is uſed, Joh. 5.24, 29.) would have the words to be rendred, until he lay condemnation along on the ground; as ſome, ſaith he, are ſaid to lay juſtice on the ground, Hoſh. 10. 7. that is, until he hath utterly abandoned and aboliſhed it. But this ſenſe ſeemeth too coact, nor to fit ſo well in this place.

and the Iles ſhall wait for his Law] The Iles, or, Lands; as ver. 10. ch. 41. 1. & 51.5. and lands, for, people, or, nations; as ch.37.18. Not the Jews onely, but the Gentiles alſo; the people of divers countries, ſhall willingly, and readily receive and embrace his doctrine and dictates. Law, for, doctrine; as Ch.1.10. See Gen. 49.10. Pſal.18.43,44. Ch. 2.3,4. Act.2. 42. & 13. 48. & 14. 1.

V. 5. Thus ſaith God the Lord] The former word ſignifies might and power; and ſo the Greek, ſometime; as Exod. 20.5. And ſome of ours conſtantly expreſs it, the mighty God: tho that in a verſion need not; no more then for us, in engliſh, to ſay ever, for God, the good God; albeit the term of God be deemed, not without good ground, to come from the word, good. Of the latter, ſee on Ch. 1. 2. ver.8. This large deſcription of God is here inſerted, as well to intimate his ability to go thorow with whatſoever he undertakes, as his fidelity in making good all his Promiſes.

he that ſpread forth the earth] Made it appear above the water wherein it lay, as buried and drowned before, Gen.1.9. Pſal. 136. 6. ch.40. 28. & 44.24. 2 Pet.3.3. The ſame word that is uſed of the skie that over-ſpreadeth the earth, Gen. 1. 6.- 8.

and that which cometh out of it] Heb. the off-ſprings, or, the proceeds of it; as ch.34.1. See Gen.1. 11.

he that giveth breath unto the people upon it, and ſpirit to them that walk therein] Or, thereon, rather; as ver. 4. breath, and ſpirit of life, Gen. 2. 7. & 6. 17. Prov.24.27. Job 33. 4. Act. 17. 25, 28.

V. 6. I the Lord have called thee] Chriſt my Son, and Servant, Pſal. 2.8. Heb.5.4,5. See ver. 1.

in righteouſneſs] In a juſt and righteous courſe; or, in faithfulneſs, to fulfil my promiſe, Ch.1.27. & 46. 13. Act.13. 23,32,33. See ch.41 2. & 45.13.

and give thee for a covenant of the people] To be the Mediator and a ratifier of the covenant, plighted between me and my people the Jews, Gen.17.4,17. & 22. 18. Deut.5.3. & 29.10–12. Ch.49. 8. Rom.15. 8. 2 Cor. 1.20. Hebr. 7. 22. & 12.24.

for a light to the Gentiles] Or, to the Gentiles. To comfort and cheer them up; as light is cheerful and delightful, Eccl. 11. 9. Pſal. 27. 1. Or to bring them out of ſpiritual darkneſſe, into the light of grace and life, Ch. 9. 2. & 49. 6. Luk. 2. 32. Act. 13. 47. & 26. 18, 23. Col. 1. 13. Or, to go before them, and conduct them in the way that tends and leads to life eternal, Luke 2. 32. A metaphor taken from ſuch as go before paſſengers, journeying in the dark, with a light: or to the pillar, that by night, conducted the children of Iſrael in the deſart, Exod. 13. 21, 22. Num. 9. 15. & 10. 33. Pſal. 105. 39.

V. 7. To open the blinde eyes] To illighten the minds of thoſe that were, by nature, ſpiritual blinde, with the ſound knowledg of ſaving truth, Ch. 35. 5. Act. 26. 18. 2 Cor. 4. 4, 6. Eph. 1. 18. & 4. 18, 19. Rev. 3. 18.

to bring out the priſoners from the priſon, and them that ſit in darkneſs out of the priſon-houſe] The ſame thing, in divers terms repeated, to deliver them from the thraldom of ſin and ſatan, whereof their captivity in Babylon, was a type, Ch. 45. 13. & 49. 9. & 61. 1. Zach. 9. 11. Luke 4. 18. Rom. 6. 6, 14. Col. 1. 13. 2 Tim. 2. 26. Tit. 2. 14. Hebr. 2. 14, 15.

priſoners] Heb. priſoner. But taken collectively; as Pſal. 79. 11. & 102. 20. Ch. 10. 4. & 24. 22. properly, a bound one, Pſal. 68. 6. Whence alſo the priſon-houſe is called an houſe of bond, or, bonds, Jer. 37. 15.

priſon] Heb. cloſure; or houſe of cloſure; or, ſhutting up; as Pſal. 142. 5. Ch. 24. 22. where the notation of the word is, cloſure; for an houſe, or place of encloſure; as reſtraint; for an houſe, or place of reſtraint, 2 Kings 25. 29. Jer. 52. 33.

priſon-houſe] Heb. houſe, or, place, (for the word is in Hebrew, a very general term, Job 8. 17. 2 Sam. 15. 17, Pſal. 84. 3. Prov. 8. 2. Ezek. 1. 27.) of reſtraint; as 1 Kings 22. 27. 2 Kings. 17. 4. Jerm. 37. 4. & 52. 31. ver. 22. It is uſed with an ellipſis either way, ſometime houſe, or, place alone, as ſome take it, Ch. 14. 17. ſometime, reſtraint alone, for houſe, or, place of reſtraint; as above.

V. 8. I am the Lord, that is my name] Or, This, to wit, Jehovah, Exod. 15. 3. Is my name, Pſal. 83. 18. the name, whereby I am, and will be diſcerned, and diſtinguiſhed, as having my being of my ſelf, from all idols, and falſe gods, that have their being from others, Exod. 3. 14. Deut. 6. 4. 1 Kings. 19. 21, 22. And thereby I will alſo, in a more ſpecial manner, be known to my people, in making good all my gratious promiſes to them for their good, Exod. 6. 3. For the Talmudiſts, and thoſe that follow them, are here moſt ridiculous; who read the words, Hu is my name; and thence coin us a new name of God, which they uſe in ſome of their prayers; as they do alſo, Aphhu, from 2 Kings 2. 14. Whereas the word ſignifies no more then this, or, that, here; he alſo, there.

and my glory will I not give to another, nor my praiſe to graven images] I am jealous of my glory, and will not ſuffer it, therefore, to be imparted to any other, but will ſeverely avenge my ſelf on any that ſhall ſo do, Exod. 20. 5. Deut. 4. 15--19, 23, 24. Or, I will not ſuffer my glory to be impaired, as it would be, ſhould I fail in the performance of any of my predictions, or promiſes, and ſo give idolaters occaſion to advance their idols above me. See Ch. 48. 11.

to another] To any other, ſimply. Or, to any other (that is, ſtrange; as Mar. 16. 17.) another, for, another god; or, a ſtrange god; as Pſal. 16. 4. A defect of the ſubſtantive, (as Ch. 43. 12.) taken collectively in either.

V. 9. Behold the former things are come to paſs, and new things do I declare: before they ſpring forth I tell you of them] As in times paſt I have been true in my promiſes, ſo will I be for time to come, Joſh. 7. 5. & 23. 3, 5. 1 Kings 8. 23--25. Or, as my predictions to Ezekiah, concerning the Babylonian deportation ſo long before delivered, have already been effected. So now I fore-tel other things, concerning the downfal of Babylon, and the deliverance of my people, temporally, by Cyrus; ſpiritually, by Chriſt; long before any ſeeds, or ſigns of either, appear. That which before he challenged any of their falſe gods to do; and whereby he confirmeth his own divine power, and convinceth them as counterfeits. See Ch. 41. 22--24, 26, 28, 29.

ſpring forth] Or, bud out, Gen. 2. 5. And as there, when no ſight of any ſuch matter yet appeared, or means that might produce it.

tell you] Heb. make you hear; as Ch. 41. 26.

V. 10. Sing unto the Lord a new ſong;] A new ſong. That is, ſay ſome, an excellent one: or rather, a new ſong, of a new matter, for a new mercy, upon a new occaſion. For it hath reference to thoſe new matters, mentioned, ver. 9. See Ch. 43. 19. Jer. 31, 22. Pſal. 32. 7. & 33. 3. & 96. 1. & 98. 1.

and his praiſe from the end of the earth] Or, from the lands end; as Pſal. 72. 8. Ch. 24. 16. Either from all parts, where Gods people remained as exiles, Ch. 11. 12. or where Babylon had exerciſed here rigor, Ch. 14. 5--7, 16, 17.

ye that go down to ſea] That are employed in ſhipping, as merchants, or, as mariners, Pſal. 107. 23. Let all praiſe God every where, both by ſea and land, Pſal. 96. 11, 12.

and all that is therein] Heb. the fulneſs thereof; as Pſal. 96. 11. & 98. 7. Yet not fiſhes, but men, that trade and trafick there. For that ſeems over-nice that ſome here have, that the Ilands themſelves ſhould be called the filling of the ſea, as being ſet in the ſea, like pearls, or precious ſtones, in the hollow of a ring, or other jewels. Becauſe of ſuch the word is ſometime uſed, Exod. 25. 7. & 28. 17.

the Iles, and the Inhabitants thereof] Or, Lands: as ver. 4. or, ſea-coaſts, and thoſe that border upon the Sea; as Chap. 24. 15.

V. 11. Let the wilderneſſe, and the cities thereof, lift up their voice] See the like defect, ver. 2. See Chap. 35. 1.

the villages that Kedar doth inhabit] The Arabians, or Iſhmaelites that dwelt in ſcattered villages, or in tents, Gen. 25 13. Chap. 21. 17.

let them ſhout from the top of the mountains] That is, as ſome, thoſe that are moſt ſavage, ſuch as mountainees commonly are, Jer. 3. 2. but to be civilized under the Kingdom of Chriſt, chap. 2. 4. & 11. 6-9. Others think it an alluſion to thoſe ſentinels, or, watch-towers, ſituate on the tops of high hills, or other eminencies, from whence meſſengers uſed to call people together, to acquaint them with what good tidings they brought. See Chap. 40. 9.

V. 12. Let them give glory to the Lord, and declare his praiſe in the Ilands] Or, Lands, or Countries. See ver. 10.

he ſhall ſtir up jealouſie] Or, his jealouſie; that is, his raging wrath, and fierce indignation, Prov. 6. 34. ſo Deut. 19. 20. chap. 59. 17. fitly termed jealouſie, becauſe proceeding from a vehement and ardent affection, both of love to his people, and regard to his own honour, Deut. 4. 19. Chap. 37. 32. Zach. 1. 14. a defect of the pronoun; as Chap. 40. 12. he will ſet with much fury and fierceneſſe upon them. See Pſalm 78. 38.

like a man of war] Heb. a man of warres, as 1 Chron. 28. 3. a man much exerciſed in wars, that hath fought many battles. See Exod. 15. 3.

he ſhall cry] Or, ſhout, Pſal. 78. 65. as military men uſe to do, in giving the onſet, in joyning battle in the field, or onſlaught in the aſſault of a city. See Jer. 48. 33. Amos 1. 14.

yea, roar,] Like a mighty fierce Lion, that breaketh in with violence upon the flock; and with his hideous roaring, affrighteth both ſheep and ſhepherd, Amos 1. 2. & 3. 8. or, make an hideous cry; for the word that ſignifieth roaring properly, is another; this is no where found, but here, and Zeph. 1. 14. and imports a louder and more hideous cry, then the ſhout before-mentioned.

he ſhall prevail againſt his enemies] Or, behave himſelf mightily, or, play the valiant man, Job 13. 25. See Pſal. 118. 15, 16.

V. 14. I have long time holden my peace, I have been ſtill, and refrained my ſelf:] Or, I have refrained my ſelf; for there is no copulative in the text: ſo chap. 41. 16. The words of God himſelf, (in regard whereof, ſome prefix the word, ſaying; as Pſal. 105. 15. Act. 7. 32.) profeſſing, that he had long forborn to execute judgment, and take vengeance in the behalf of his people, (as Pſal. 50. 21. & 83. 1.) reſtraining his wrath, (ch. 48. 9. & 62. 1.) like a woman in travel, ſtriving to hold in her breath; for the next branch ſeems to imply ſome alluſion thereunto, ſee Jer. 44. 22. the word is uſed of Joſeph, Gen. 43. 31. & 45. 1.

long time] Heb. from an age. So Gen. 6. 4. Jer. 5. 15.

now will I cry like a travelling woman] Or, cry out; (the word is no where elſe found) as a woman in pain, that being not able to hold her breath any longer, cryeth out in her travel, and can have no eaſe, or reſt, untill ſhe be delivered, Chap. 26. 17. Rev. 12. 2. Hence, ſome would have one of the Hebrew Mid-wives, in Egypt, termed Pua, Exod. 1. 15. which may not be altogether improbable, becauſe they are converſant about women, in ſuch caſes; or rather, becauſe with much cry, her mother had been delivered of her; as Jabez his mother, of him, with much pain, 1 Chr. 4. 9. for they ſeem to miſ-tranſlate the word, who render it, to hiſſe, as ſome kind of ſerpent, whoſe name cometh neer it, Chap. 14. 29. & 59. 5. for that name is deemed to come from another root: not doth that ſeem to be the tone of women in travel. See chap. 29.4. The meaning is, I will now haſten the execution of my wrath, with all ſpeed, without further delay; as if I travelled, and were in pain, until it were executed. See Chap. 1. 24. & 65.6. Luk.12.50.

I will deſtroy, and devour at once] Heb. ſwallow down; as Job 5.5. or, ſup up, as Ier. 2. 24. & 14.6. An alluſion to ſuch ravenous wilde beaſts, as do ſo ſuddenly ſwallow down what they have ſlain, that they may ſeem to go quick down their throats, or to be ſlain, and ſwallowed at once, Pſal.124. 3. yet becauſe the former word ſignifies, properly, to lay waſte, or, make deſolate; ſome apply the former word, to the lands, or countries; the latter, to the Inhabitants. See Ezek. 36. 3. where both words are joyned together, as here.

V. 15. I will make waſte mountains, and hills, and dry up all their herbs] The herbage that the mountains afford to man and beaſt, Pſal.50.10,11. & 65.12. & 72.3,15. & 104.13,14. & 147.8. The meaning is, he will lay deſolate the whole country of Chaldea, and of thoſe that were adjacent and adjutant to it, Chap.13.9. Accompliſhed by Cyrus, in his expedition againſt Babylon. He compareth the vengeance that he intendeth to execute upon Babylon, to a devouring fire, that conſumeth all before it. See Deut.32.22. Pſal.83.13. & 97. 3. Joel 2.3. They ſeem to wring the text needleſly, who by mountains, and hills, here, underſtand cities and towns; by the herbage, their Inhabitants.

and I will make the rivers Ilands, and will dry up the pools] Chap.50.2. It was ſo done by Cyrus, in the ſiege of Babylon. See Jer.50.38. & 51.32.

ilands] Or, dry lands; as Ier.47.4. ver.10.

V. 16. And I will bring the blind by a way, that they knew not; I will lead them in pathes that they have not known] Meant, partly, of the Jewiſh people, that had lived ſo long in grief and perplexity, that their very ey-ſight ſeemed to fail them, with long expectation, for their fore-promiſed deliverance; (as Pſal.6.7. & 31.9. & 38.10. & 119.81,82,123. Lam. 4. 17. & 5.17.) and whom, after their deliverance, God would bring home into their own country, by ſuch wayes, as they had not gone, nor been acquainted with, before, Chap.43.19. & 49.9,11. Jer.31.9. & 50.5. as he did before-time, in their paſſage from Egypt to Canaan, Jer. 2. 17. partly, of thoſe converts, either Jew, or Gentile, who being by nature blind, but illightened by the Spirit of grace, Chap.35.5. & 43.8. Joh. 9.13,17. 2 Cor.4.5,6. Eph.1.18. & 4.18. & 5.8. Heb.6.4. and 10.30. Rev.3.17,18. ſhould be entred into, and led on, in a new way, that tended to life and peace, Chap.11.16. & 35.8. Luk.1.79. Heb. 10.10. ſuch a way, as they had never walked in, nor had heard of, before, Joh.14.6. Rom.15.20. a defect of the relative; as Pſal.81.5. Prov.5.6. Chap.55.5. Jer.5.15.

lead] Heb. make to go: ſo Pſal.25.5. & 107.7. Prov. 4.11. Chap.48.17.

I will make darkneſſe light before them] Turn their adverſity into proſperity, ſay ſome; and ſo the metaphor is oft uſed, Eſt.8.16,17. Pſal.112.4. but becauſe the ſpeech is of a way, the meaning is, rather, of making their paſſage cleer, thorow obſcure and dark places; as with light he went before his people, in their journey, through the wilderneſſe, Exod. 13. 21. for the ſpiritual ſenſe, of directing the godly thorow the dark and blind wayes of this world; ſee Pſal.89.15. chap.11. 1. Joh.8.12. & 12.35. Eph.5.8. 1 Joh.1.5,6.

and crooked things ſtraight] Heb. into ſtraightneſſe; or, turn uneven wayes into a plain. I will remove all the impediments that may impeach their free paſſage. See Chap. 40. 4. & 45.2.

Theſe things will I do unto them] Or, for them, Chap. 26. 12.

and not forſake them] But as well conduct them, and bring them ſafe home, as deliver them out of thraldome. See chap. 41.17.

V. 17. They ſhall be turned back, they ſhall be greatly aſhamed, that truſt in graven images, that ſay to molten images, Ye are our gods.] The idolatrous people ſhall be utterly confounded, when they finde how unable their ſorry gods are to ſave them; and ſee what the true God hath done for his, Pſal.97. 7. Chap.1.27. & 44.11. & 45.15.

be turned back] As men that are forced to flee, and turn their back, in fight, to their foes, Joſh. 7.8. Pſal. 44. 10. or, that turn their faces back, from being ſeen, for ſhame, Pſal.40.14. & 129.5. or that ſhuffle, and traverſe their wayes, out of ſhame and repentance for what they have done, Ier.2.18,36,37. or, that turn back, with ſhame, the ſame way they came, when they fail of their expectation, Pſal.6.10. Chap.37.29,37.

graven, and molten images] See chap.41.29.

Ye are our gods] Exod. 32. 4. Chap. 44.15,17. Jer.2.26,27. Hoſ.14.3.

V. 18. Hear ye deaf, and look ye blind, that ye may ſee] Theſe words ſome ſuppoſe to be ſpoken to the Gentiles, blinded with ſottiſh ſuperſtition, and erroneous conceits concerning their idols; and that notwithſtanding what they had heard, and ſeen done by the true God, in the behalf of his people, in deſpight of their idols, chap.42.21. & 44.18-20. Ier. 10.14. But moſt take them, as ſpoken to the Jews themſelves, of whom many ſtill continued ſuch, notwithſtanding all that from time to time they had heard, and ſeen, concerning God, and the wondrous works wrought by him, Ier.4.22. Ezek.12. 2. Chap.6.9.

V. 19. Who is blind, but my ſervant? or deaf, as my meſſenger, that I ſent? who is blind, as he that is perfect? and blind, as the Lords ſervant?] This ſome underſtand, as ſpoken in way of correction of, or diverſion from what he had ſpoken before, ver.18. as if he ſhould ſay, what do I blame and tax the Gentiles for their deafneſſe and blindneſſe, when as mine own people, and their leaders, alſo, are herein as bad and defective as any. See the like, chap.28.1-7. Mat.15.14,16. But the moſt, by way of confirmation, as rendring a reaſon, why he gave his own people theſe titles, becauſe they deſerved them as well, yea, rather, then any other. See ver.20. Rom.11.25. 2 Cor.3.14.

my ſervant] Iſrael, who ſhould have more light, and better ſight, then other people, having the light of my Law among them, Pſal.19.7,8. & 119.105,130. Prov.7.23. Pſal.147.19,20. Rom.3.1,2. See ver.21.

my meſſenger] Collectively taken for meſſengers: as Chap. 40.9. & 41.27. their Prophets, and Teachers, that ſhould be Gods meſſengers to hear from God, and declare to his people, what from him they have heard, Deut.33.10. Mal.2.7,8. 2 Cor.5.20.

that I ſent] A defect of the relative; as ver.16.

he that is perfect] The Prieſts, and Prophets, that ſhould be unblameable, and of better abilities, then the common ſort of men, that they might be lights and types to others, Joh.5.35. 1 Tim.3.2. & 4.12. Tit.2.7. but were, many of them, blind and bad guides, Chap.3.12. & 28.7. & 56.10,11. Matth. 15.14. & 23.16,17,19. or Gods people in general, whom by his gifts and favours, wherewith he had furniſhed them, he had made compleat, Ezek.16.14. and ought to have been perfect, as God their Father, whoſe children they profeſſed themſelves to be, is perfect, Gen.17.1. Deut.18.13. & 32.4,5. Matth. 5.48. Joh.10.41. Hence ſome ſuppoſe the Turks to be called Muſſalmans, as perfect ones; though others, as reconciled, or ſaved. Howbeit, Others render the word here, he that hath been recompenced, or rewarded; or, on whom many benefits have been beſtowed; (for the word ſometime ſignifieth, ſimply, to deal well, or ill, with one, Pſal.7.4. Joel 2.25.) the Jewiſh people, on whom God had conferred ſo many bleſſings, above any other people, Exod.19.4,5. Deut.4.7. Amos 3.2.

as the Lords ſervant] In a ſpecial manner. See Chap. 41. 8.

V. 20. Seeing many things, but obſerveſt not; opening the ears, but he heareth not] Deut.29.3,4. chap.6.9.

Seeing] Or, Seeing he ſeeth; and ſo after, opening, he openeth; a defective, but emphatical form; as if he ſhould ſay, he ſeeth well enough; and, ſet your ears wide open. See ver. 22.

many things] So many wonderful works of God wrought for you, and among you, Deut.4.3,4.

but] Heb. And; as Chap. 29. 13. and ſo in the next branch.

obſerveſt not] Doſt not duly conſider them, as a wiſe people would do, Pſal.106.7. & 107.43. Chap.1.3. Some ſeem to underſtand it, of obſervation in practice: as Rom. 2. 19-23. but the former ſeems more probable, as the peculiar office, for which the mind makes uſe of the eye: there is a defect of the pronoun: as Chap.41.15.

opening the ears] Liſtening, in ſhew, at leaſt, as if they did hearken, and deſire to hear and attend. Chap.58.2. Ier.42.2, 5,6. Ezek.14.1,3. & 33.30,31.

he heareth not] No more regardeth, or obſerveth, then as if he heard not at all, Ezek.33.32. heareth with the outward ear, but not with the inward: Of which, chap.50.4,5. Mat. 13. 9,14. there is a tranſition from perſon to perſon; as if God ſpake in the firſt to them, as by way of reproof: in the latter, to others of them, as in way of complaint. See Chap.29. Ier.6. 16. & 7.26.

V. 21. The Lord is well pleaſed for his righteouſneſſe ſake, he will magnifie his law, and make it honourable] Or, to magnifie his law, and make it honourable. The like ſyntax is, 1 Sam.2.3. Prov. 23.35. Eccl.10.1. Hoſ.1.6. & 9.9. Gods pleaſure is to magnifie and honour his law, as well by execution of juſtice upon the tranſgreſſors of it, as by making good his promiſes unto thoſe that obſerve it, Deut.29.19,20. & 32.47. & 33.2. Or, as ſome other read it, God was pleaſed for the making of him (to wit, that people) righteous, to give him a great (a large, or excellent) Law (that is, many precious inſtructions and precepts) to make him illuſtrious, Deut.4.7,8. Or, as others, again, God delighted in him (ſet his love and affection upon him, Pſal. 149. 4. Ch.62.4.) for his righteouſneſſe ſake; (his fidelity, ver.6. in fulfilling his promiſes made to their Fathers, Deut. 7. 8,) he magnified and dignified him with his Law, Pſalm 147. 19,20. Chap.43.4. Rom.3.2. there is a defect of the pronoun, it, in the firſt of theſe; as Chap.41.23. and his; as ver.13. and ſo alſo in the third, of him; in the ſecond and third: as Hoſ. 6.3. in the third, alſo, of the prepoſition, with; as Pſal.17.13,14. The firſt and laſt, ſeem moſt probable, to me, eſpecially, the laſt.

V. 22. But this is a people robbed and ſpoiled] Or, Yet. Heb. And; as Ch.29. 2. Yet after all theſe favours and honours conferred upon them, ſee what calamities and miſeries are now befallen them, for their neglect of God, and their wilful obſtinacy againſt him and his precepts, ver.19,24. who hath therefore expoſed them to direption and thraldome, without relief or releaſe, hitherto: For he ſpeaks, as to the Jewiſh people, yet remaining in thraldome, Ch.10.6. & 28,13. howbeit, ſome expound this of the Samaritans, or ten Tribes, then in captivity, when this was ſpoken, without hope of releaſe, or return: See 2 Kings 27.

ſpoiled] Or, trodden down: Chap.17.14. See the laſt branch.

they are all of them ſnared in holes, and they are hidden in priſon-houſes] They are taken, as beaſts or birds, in ſnares and pit-fals, Pſalm 35.7. & 124.7. Ch.8.15,16. & 28.13. Lam.4.20. Ezek.17.20. & 19.4,8,9. and caſt into Dungeons, where they remain in ſtrict cuſtody, as cloſe priſoners, Pſalm 88.8. Chap. 24.17. Lam.3.2,6,7.

ſnared] Or, enſnaring, he hath enſnared, all of them: as ver. 20. Ch.59.13. Jer.14.5. Ezek.1.14. ſo is the word taken, Prov. 29.8. that is, they are all faſt enſnared: either by God: as ver. 24. Lam.3.6,7. Or, by the enemy: as 2 Kings 25.5,7. for the verb is here taken indefinitely: as Ch. 18. 5. they are kept manacled and fettered, as birds, or beaſts, enſnared, Pſal. 107. 10. howbeit, a learned late Writer would have it rendred, they ſigh all of them; from another root that ſo ſignifies, Ier.4.31. but the former is more regular.

in holes] Or, dungeons under ground; an alluſion to ſuch pits or holes in the ground, as either are made to catch beaſts in, or that beaſts themſelves uſe to harbour in, 1 Sam. 4. 11. Job 30.6. Ch.11.8. Ezek. 19.8. Nah.2.12. Yet ſome reade it, in enſnaring the young men; or, choice ones, all of them: ſuppoſing the word here uſed, to be the ſame with that, 1 Sam.9.2. Ch.40.30. but the Jewiſh Commenters, generally, make it two words, and render it, as our text doth, and as the courſe of the context evidently leadeth: Onely they acknowledge the alteration of one tittle, from the uſual pointing of it; and underſtand it, ſome of them, of ſuch holes and caves, as for ſuccour and ſafety they had betaken themſelves unto, to ſhroud and ſhelter themſelves in: See Judg.6.2. 1 Sam.13.6. Ch.19.21. where yet they ſhould be ſurpriſed: but the former is more agreeable to what followeth.

hidden] Encloſed, or cloſe ſhut up; as Joſh. 10. ver. 16,18.

in priſon-houſes] Heb. houſes of reſtraints; or, of perſons reſtrained. See ver.7. they are for a prey, and none delivereth; for a ſpoil, and none ſaith, Reſtore.] They are in a ſtrait captivity, and none, either by word or deed, endeavoureth to right or releaſe them, Chap.14.17.

a ſpoil] Or, a treading: but the former, rather, here, for the word following: ſo Ier.30.16.

ſaith, Reſtore] As Gen.20.7. 2 Kings 8.6.

V. 23. Who among you will give ear to this? who will hearken, and hear, for time to come?] To amend and reform himſelf, and to grow wiſer and warier, for time to come, by the preſent afflictions; conſidering from whom, and for what they come, Jer.9.12. Mic.6.9. Or, as ſome, by looking backward on judgments formerly inflicted, Joſh.22.17. Neh.13.18. Zach. 1.5,6. Or, as others, again; how few are there, that hearing theſe judgments denounced, do, for the preventing, or averting of them, timely reform themſelves, 2 Chron. 36.15,16. Jer.5.12.

for time to come] Heb. for after: Or, for backward: as Chap.1.4.

V.24. Who gave Jacob for a ſpoil, and Iſrael to the robbers?] Jacob, and Iſrael; the ſame: as Ch.41.8. See ver.22.

did not the Lord, he againſt whom we have ſinned?] Or, had ſinned: See Judg.2.11—14. and 3.12. and 4.1,2. 2 Chron. 36.16.

for they would not walk in his ways, neither were they obedient to his law] Heb. And; which may well ſtand, as continuing the ſentence; and would not walk in his ways, nor obey his law. Howbeit, the copulative is ſometime uſed for the cauſative: for, or becauſe: as Ch.64.5. or the diſcretive, yet; as v.20,25. and ſo it is an aggravation of their ſin, by their obſtinacy and ſenſleſsneſs under it, Ch.57.1,17. Jer.5.3.

be obedient] Heb. hear: as 1 Sam.15.22. Pſalm 81.11.

V. 25. Therefore hath he poured upon him the furie of his anger, and the ſtrength of battel] Therefore, in the fervour and fierceneſſe of his wrath, did he ſend in a powerful enemy upon him, that, with fire and ſword, over-ran him and his country, and deſtroyed all on every ſide, 2 Kings 23. 33. and 24. and 25.

he poured out] As Pſalm 79.6. Jer.10.25. an alluſion to great ſtorms, that pour down ſuch ſpouts of rain, as thoſe in the Levant Seas, and in Egypt, where a whole cloud, ſometime, ſuddenly diſſolving, doth not drip, or deſcend in drops, (that is eſteemed a prodigy with them) but falleth flat down, in a violent manner, with a continued ſtream: Or, unto the pouring of water out of ſome great veſſel; not by ſmal parcels, as in watering of grounds in a gentle manner; but violently, all at once, in an inſtant, Rev. 16.1. See 1 Sam. 7.6.

the furie of his anger] Or, his anger with fervour; or, in heat; or, (as others, keeping more ſtrictly to the order of the terms in the text) fervour in his anger: a want of the prepoſition; as ver.21. Ch.41.2. Elſe the word entire is uſed in regiment, as ſometime, for the contract. See Jer.10.10. ſo our verſion taketh it; and then it would be rendred, the heat of his anger, word for word, of his noſe. See Chap. 13.9. and 51.17.

ſtrength of battel] Or, war, Chap.21.15. & 36.1.

and it hath ſet him on fire round about] Set city and country, all on a light fire, Chap.9.18,19. Jer.39.8. & 52.13.

yet he knew not] Heb. And (as ver.20, 22.) he knew not; he took no notice of it: as Chap.1.3. Jer.3.13. Hoſ.7.9. a defect of the pronoun, it; as ver.21. and ſo in the laſt clauſe.

and it burnt him] Or, and though it burnt him: a defect of the latter particle; as Chap. 30.20. Job 19.26. Prov.29.19. Some refer the former to the country round about the city; this, to the city it ſelf, Ier.37.8.

Yet he laid it not to heart] Heb. upon heart: as Job 22. 22. their extream ſtupidity, not ſenſible of, or affected with Gods judgments preſent upon them; nor repenting of their ſins, though ſcorched with the fire of Gods wrath for them, Ier.35. 3. Amos 4.11. Rev.9.18-21. & 16.8-11.

CHAP. XLIII.

Ver.1. But now] Or, Yet now. Heb. And now: as Chap. 42.22,25. Which entrance, ſheweth, that this Chapter hath dependance upon the former; and, that therein the Prophet continueth on his diſcourſe, begun in the former; as, alſo, the ſame thereby appears to be held on in the next. See Chap.44.1. It is, as if he had ſaid, Though a great part of my people, yea, the main body of them continue ſtill, notwithſtanding my wrath thus poured forth upon them, thus obſtinate and impenitent, Chap.42.25. yet will I have care of my choſen ones among them, whom I will protect, and in my due time, reſtore. Or, as ſome, though the other ten Tribes continue in thraldome, and are like ſtill ſo to do; yet have I more ſpecial care of you, my people. See Chap.42.22. But the former agreeth better with the main courſe of the context.

thus ſaith the Lord, that created thee, O Jacob; and he that formed thee, O Iſrael;] Who at firſt made thee, and moulded thee into a National Church and State, at the bringing thee out of Egypt, Chap.37.11. & 41.8 - 10. & 44.1,2. Jacob and Iſrael, one, and the ſame; as Chap.41.8. yet, here, taken, not for the promiſcuous multitude; as Chap. 42.24. but for the true Iſrael, the Iſrael of God, Pſalm 125.4,5. Joh.1.47. Rom.9. 6. Gal.6. 16. the rather, termed by the name of Jacob and Iſrael; becauſe the whole iſſue of Jacob were comprehended in the Covenant, Deut.33.5,28,29. Rev.7.4. whereas Iſmael and Eſau, with their iſſue, loſt their intereſt therein, Gen. 17.21. & 21.12. & 25.34. Gal.4.30. Heb.12.17.

for I have redeemed thee,] Chap.41.14. & 44.22.

I have called thee by thy name] I have taken ſpeciall notice of thee, and have a ſpecial care of thee: as Exod.33.17. ch.40.26. Pſalm 147.4. Or, I have choſen thee, and called thee to be my people, and by that title, diſtinguiſhed thee from all other people, Exod.19.5,6. chap.1.9. & 42.6. So Exod.35.30. For that ſeems too ſlight, that ſome would have to be the meaning, that God gave Jacob the name of Iſrael, Geneſis,32. 28.

thou art mine] Chap.41.8,9. So Pſalm 119. 94. and this confirmeth the latter expoſition of the former words; thou art mine; both becauſe I have made thee, Pſalm 100.3. and becauſe I have bought thee, 1 Cor.6.20. and becauſe I have called thee out, and called and taken thee to my ſelf, Deut.7. 6. & 26.18. See ver.7.

V. 2. When thou paſſeſt thorow the waters, I will be with thee; and thorow the rivers, they ſhall not overflow thee: when thou walkeſt thorow the fire,thou ſhalt not be burnt ; neither ſhall the flame kindle upon thee :] I will ſecure and ſafeguard thee, amidſt all dangers and difficulties, meant, here, by fire and water,as Pſalm 66.12.

the waters] Or,water : as chap. 3.1. as when thorow the red-ſea,Exod.14.22.for thereunto, he here alludes.

I will be with thee] Some read it,I was with thee ; as relating what he had formerly done, as ver.3. but I ſuppoſe the former rather, here, intended : as chap.41.10. I will be with thee,to preſerve thee from drowning, Pſalm 78.53.and 106.10.

and thorow the rivers] And when thou paſſeſt thorow the rivers : to be ſupplyed from the former branch ; as 2 Chron. 10. 11. thorow rivers ; as thorow Jordan, ſometime, Joſh. 3.17.

walkeſt thorow the fire] Goeſt thorow, or, walkeſt in the fire ; as thoſe three in the furnace ; with whom, the Angel was in the fire ; which, though it burnt up thoſe that caſt them in, yet, could not ſo much as ſinge their apparel, Dan.3.21,22, 25,27.

V. 3. For I am the Lord thy God,the holy one of Iſrael,thy Saviour] Chap.4.13,14.& 49.26.& 60.16,

I gave Egypt for thy ranſome, Ethiopia, and Seba, for thee.] Heb.inſtead of thee : as ver. 4. to ſave thee from deſtruction, which might otherwiſe have befallen thee : as Prov. 11.8. & 21.18. This moſt underſtand of Gods turning Sennacheribs forces againſt Egypt and Ethiopia,upon the tidings brought him of Tirhaka's coming againſt him , when he was making toward Jeruſalem to beſiege it , and ſo ſaving it from being ſacked thereby,chap.37.9. But I cannot conceive this to be the meaning of the place. For though it be true, that that rumour ſtartled him,and made him think upon retiring ; yet was it not that , but the fright that he took,upon the unexpected blow given in his Camp, that enforced him to flight ; not to invade Egypt or Ethiopia, which he was in ſorry caſe then to do ; but to get him home, with as much ſpeed as he could,into his own country, Chap.31.8,9.& 37.36,37. Only one of the Jewiſh Commenters expoundeth it,of the Egyptian firſt-born,whom God deſtroyed, when he ſaved the firſt-born of Iſrael,in lieu of whom,afterward,he took the Levites, Exod.12.12,13,23,29. Num.3.12,13. which though it come not full home to,yet giveth an hint of that,which I conceive here intended ; to wit, that God deſtroyed the Egyptians,for the ſaving and reſcuing of his people , when he drowned them in the red-ſea,being upon eager purſuit of them, Exod. 14.20-38.& 15.9,10. and as for that of the Ethiopians,or Cuſhites,and the Sabeans,their brethren,Gen.10.7.and living,in likelyhood, not far aſunder, it may well have reference to that remarkable defeat of that vaſt Army,the greateſt, upon record,in Scripture, given to the Cuſhites and their complices, under King Aſa , together with the ſpoyl of the cities ; among which is mentioned, the plundering of their tents, with their camels and cattel , the common commodities of the Arabians, among whom theſe Sabeans ſeem to have been ſituate,as well as the Cuſhites, chapter 45.14.Jer.49.29.See 2 Chr.14.9-15.

V. 4. Since thou haſt been precious in my ſight,thou haſt been honourable,and I have loved thee ; therefore will I give men for thee,and people for thy life] Or, Becauſe thou waſt precious in my ſight,waſt honourable, and I loved thee : Therefore have I given men for thee,and people for thy ſake. So it may well be the ſame,in effect,that he had ſaid before ; with an adjection of the reaſon,why he had ſo done.

Since] Or, Since that ; Or,For that ; Or,Becauſe : Heb. From that,for,Becauſe of : as Numb.14.16.Pſalm 12.5.

haſt been precious in my ſight] As Pſalm 116. 15. but the word, here, is a verb ; and ſo the next : So alſo, 1 Samuel, 26.21. 2 Kings 1.13,14. Pſalm 72. 14. See further, chap. 60.9.

I have loved thee] Or,I loved thee ; Or, do love thee, Deut. 7.7,8.Jer.31.3.Hoſ.11.1.Mal.1.2.

will I give] Or,gave I ; as ver.3.

men] Heb. Adam : Of which name, ſee on chap.2.9. here taken at large,for men indefinitely,or any man whatſoever : as chap 2.22.

for thee] Heb. in thy room ; or,in thy ſtead : as ver.3.

nations] Whole countries,or people : ſee ver. 3. for the time paſt ; and ver.14 for time to come.

for thy life] Or, for thee ; for thy perſon : as Pſalm 3. 2. & 7.5.Heb.for thy ſoul : So rather,as 1 Sam.26.21. then,as ſome here,at thy deſire : as Deut.23.25.

V.5. Fear not,for I am with thee] Ver.1,2.chap.41.10,11.& 44.1,2.Jer.30.10.& 46.27.

I will bring thy ſeed from the Eaſt, and gather thee from the weſt] I will bring you home from all thoſe places, where, in captivity,any of you do abide, chap.11.11,17. fulfilled,temporally, by Cyrus,Ezr.1.1.verſe 14.chap.45.4. according to Gods promiſe,Deut.30.3,5.ſpiritually by Chriſt, chap.66.19. Zach.8.7.

thy ſeed———thee] Both the ſame ; you, the ſeed of Iſrael, Pſalm 22.23. Ier.23.8. Or,you,and your children, Jer.30.10. & 46.27.

weſt] Heb.Evening-coaſt, chap.45.6. from all parts of the world, chap.11.12.for the other two follow,ver.6.

V.6. I will ſay to the North,give up;and to the South,keep not back :bring my ſons from far, and my daughters from the ends of the earth] No remoteneſſe of place ſhall hinder their return, Deut.30.5.chap.11.12.Jer.46.27.

ſons and daughters] All of either ſex, Deut. 32.19. 2 Cor. 6. 18.

V. 7. Even every one that is called by my name] See on ver. 1. Chap.63.19.

I have created him for my glory ; I have formed him, yea,I have made him] To wit, this people, ver. 21. See alſo, ver. 1. or, whom I have created——and formed——and made; the poſitive, for the relative, as chap.33.20,21. & 42.1. & 46.4.

V. 8. Bring forth the blind people,that have eyes ; and the deaf, that have ears] Some conceive this, as ſpoken by way of challenge to the Gentiles,who were as blind and deaf,for all their eyes and ears, as their idols, which they adored, Pſal.115.5, 6,8. and ſee , if they can yet produce ought, in defence of their idols, ver.9. Others, as ſpoken by way of reproof, to thoſe wilfully obſtinate among Gods own people : Of whom, ch.42.19,20. as called upon, to ſee now, what they would not formerly believe: So Hab.1.5. Act. 13.41. But ſome again, applying it to the former promiſe, ver. 5,6. read the words in this manner, I will bring forth the blind people ; and, or, with, them that have eyes ; and the deaf with them , that have ears : I will bring them out,of all ſorts, as well ſick,and defective, as ſound, and entire, Ier.31.9. or, as others, I will bring forth the blind, and they ſhall have eyes ; and the deaf, and they ſhall have ears : Thoſe that were naturally blind, ſhall then be illightened ; and thoſe that were naturally deaf,ſhall have their ears then opened, ch.29.18. & 35.5. & 42. 7, 16. The word may be rendred, either, Bring forth ; or, Bringing forth : for the infinitive, and the imparative, are here all one; and it may, therefore, by an uſual Hebraiſm, be read, either, Bringing, bring ye forth ; or, Bringing, I will bring forth : the like form, ſee Eccl.4.2. & 9.11. Ier.14.5. But the firſt expoſition ſeems cleereſt, and moſt agreeable to the courſe of the context.

V. 9. Let all the Nations be gathered together, and let the people be aſſembled] See Chap.41.1.

who among them can declare this, and ſhew us former things ?] Heb. firſt ; as ver.18,27. Which of their idols could fore-tel theſe, or the like things ? See ch.41.21,22. & 44.7.

let them bring their witneſſes, that they may be juſtified] Let them produce witneſſes , to teſtifie that they have foretold things, as I am able to do, that ſo they may be proved to be gods indeed, and no counterfeits. See ch.41.23,25.

bring] Heb.give, or, give in ; as verſ.6.

or let them hear, and ſay, It is truth] Otherwiſe , let them acknowledge that, which they are hereby convinced of,to be true, to wit, that the Lord alone is the true God, and they all but baſe idols, ch.41.29. & 42.8. or, let them hear ſuch witneſſes, as I am able to produce, and they will be convinced of the truth of what I ſay, and compelled to acknowledge it.

or] Heb. and : as ch.40.13,17.

It is truth] See the like conciſe ſpeech, ch. 41.26. truth, that is; moſt true : as Pſal.119.142. Joh.17.17.

V. 10. Ye are my witneſſes, ſaith the Lord] Ye my people, (for to them he now turneth his ſpeech,) who have had from time to time, ſo pregnant and plentiful proofs of my divine power and providence, are able to give teſtimony ſufficient for me. For I cannot accord with thoſe, who expound it of the Gentiles, who by the preaching of the Goſpel , ſhould give teſtimony unto Gods truth, which formerly they did not believe, Chap.52.14,15. 1 Joh.5.10. but adhere to the former ; for that which followeth, ch.44.8. where the ſame thing is repeated.

and my ſervant whom I have choſen] This is diverſly expounded by Interpreters, as well Jewiſh, as Chriſtians. Some expound it of the Jewiſh people,with whom the Gentiles ſhould atteſt, ch.41.8. & 42.19. Others, of each of Gods ſervants, whom he ſhould hereafter chooſe and call, Joh.3.33. 1 Joh. 5.10. Others, of Eſay the Prophet, by whom God had foretold theſe things ; ſo the Jewiſh Commenters, moſt of them, and ſome others. Others, of the Prophets, and other Gods Miniſters and meſſengers, taking the word collectively, Joh. 1.7. Act.1.8. & 5.32. 1 Joh.4.14. Others, of Cyrus , who by his edict, and act, alſo, gave teſtimony thereunto, 2 Chr. 36.21,22. Ezra 1.1-4. ch.44.26,28. & 45.1. Others, laſtly, of the Meſſias the Lord Jeſus; and ſo the Chaldee Paraphraſt, and moſt of ours, chap.42.1. & 55.4. Joh.18.37. Theſe two laſt are moſt probable; and the latter of theſe two, the principal.

that ye my know, and believe me, and underſtand that I am be] Theſe things, and many other, have been from time to time foretold you; yea, many of them, long before told you, ye have ſeen already accompliſhed, and the reſidue ſhall, in their due time, be effected, by ſuch inſtruments as I have deſigned thereunto, my Meſſias eſpecially, that you may be further confirmed in the faith and belief of that, which I now call you to atteſt.

know, and believe] As Joh.6.69. 1 Joh.4.16.

that I am be] The only true God, ver. 11, 12. chap.41. 4. Joh.17.3. or, as ſome, that I am; that I have an exiſtence; which theſe idols have not, 1 Cor.8.4. the pronoun demonſtrative, for the verb ſubſtantive; as ch.9.15. ver.3. yet here I cleave to the former; for that which here followeth, before me there was no God formed, neither ſhall there be after me] Chap.44.8. & 45.22. none before him, becauſe from eternity; before idol, or ought elſe was, Gen.1.1. Ioh. 1. 3. Col.1.16,17. nor any after him; becauſe he is unto eternity, and ſhall be, when all idols ſhall be aboliſhed, Pſal.90.2. Ier. 10. 15.

no God formed] Or, nothing formed of God: he ſeems to give a privy nip to the Heathens idols, as being of mans making, and a time, therefore, when they were not; receiving their being from another: whereas the true God having his being in himſelf, and from no other, muſt of neceſſity be before all other. See chap.44.10.

V. 1. I, even I am the Lord] Deut.6.4. Pſal.83.18, & 86. 10. ch.42.8. & 45.21. there is an emphaſis in the redoubling of it, as ver.2[illegible].

and beſide me there is no Saviour] None that is abſolutely able to ſave, chap.45.21. & 63.1. Hoſ.13.4. Iam.4.12.

V. 12. I have declared, and have ſaved] I have foretold the deliverance of my people, and have fulfilled what I foretold, chap.37.35,36. & 46.10. Some of the Jewiſh Writers reſtrain it to their deliverance out of Egypt. I promiſed it long before, and in due time, made it good, Gen. 15. 13-16. Exod. 12. 40, 41. but of ſuch reſtraint, there appears no neceſſity.

I have ſhewed, when there was no ſtrange God among you:] I made known to you, what I intended to do, what time I brought you, by mine own power, out of Egypt, and had no other God therein aſſiſting me, nor you any other, either to foretel what was intended to you, and much leſſe, that could effect it for you, Deut. 32.12. Ier.2.2. or, as ſome read the words, by way of tranſpoſition, I, and no ſtrange, or, other, God, among you, did cauſe you to hear (as chap.41.22,23.) theſe things: a defect of the pronouns; as ch.1.15. the one; and chap.41.26. the other.

when there was no] Heb. and there was no: and, for, when, as chap.33.1. or, and no; for this particle is ſometime a bare negative: as 1 Sam.21.8. Ier.38.5.

ſtrange God] A defect of the ſubſtantive; as ch.42.8. Pſal. 16.4. Some of the Jewiſh Writers underſtand it, of Gods ſpeaking to them, in Mount Sinai, rendring the words, I made you to hear, (my voice in the mount) and there was no ſtranger among you: there was none there, but you my people, Deut.4. 10,12,13,33,36. & 5.24,26. But the former ſeems more probable, and more agreeable to Gods preſent purpoſe. See Deut.32.12. Ier.2.2.

therefore ye are my witneſſes, ſaith the Lord, that I am God] Ye, to whom I made ſuch things known before, and afterward fulfilled them, ver.20.

therefore] Heb. and: as chap.42.15.

that I am God] Heb. and I am God: as Chap.22.20. and 37. 26.

V. 13. Yea, before the day was, I am be] Heb. Since day, (as Exod.10.6. Ier.36.2. ſince any day was,) I am; (as Joh.8.58.) the pronoun demonſtrative, for the verb ſubſtantive; (as Pſal.24.10. & 44.4. 2 Kings 7.7,19.) or, I am the ſame, as Pſal.102.27. Chap.46.4. The middle way I like beſt.

and there is none that can deliver out of my hand] Heb. no deliverer; or, none that delivereth. So Job 10. 7. and ſo of the ram, Dan.8.4. but there the meaning is, no man, and for that time; for of the goat is the ſame afterward ſaid, ver. 7. that none could deliver the ram out of his hand, (that is, his power, as Pſal.22.20. & 49.15.) but here it is, none, either God or man. Which though Nebuchadnezzar preſumed to ſay of himſelf, yet he ſhortly after found falſe; and was enforced to confeſſe, that no god could deliver ſo, as the true God did, Dan.3.15,17,29.

I will work, and who ſhall let it?] I will work, as Ezek. 20. 14,22. or, I wrought; the word is the ſame. Heb. and who ſhall turn it back? or, reverſe it? or, what I do, who can undo? the indicative, for the potential, as in the former branch. See Job 9.12. ch.14,24,27. Dan.4.35.

V. 14. Thus ſaith the Lord our Redeemer] That reſcueth, and delivereth thee out of thy troubles, Gen.48.17. Chap.41.14. & 44.24.

the holy One of Iſrael] Ver.3. chap.47.4. & 48.17.

For your ſake I have ſent to Babylon] Or, I will ſend to Babylon: The Medes and Perſians, under the conduct and command of Cyrus, Chap.13.3,17. & 14.1. & 21.9. & 44.28. & 45.1,4.

and have brought down] Or, will bring down, by them.

all their nobles] Heb. barres, Pſal. 137. 13. either bring down their great ones, and nobles, chap.13.4. Ier.51.35. or, break open, and caſt down their forts, and ſtrong holds, chap. 45.2. See Ier.51.56. or, as ſome, will bring them all down flying; or, all their flyers; for ſo the word, alſo, ſometime ſignifieth; as chap.15.5. enforced by flight to ſhift for themſelves. See chap.27. 1. The pronoun is wanting in the text: as chap.40.31.

and the Chaldeans, whoſe cry is in the ſhips] Heb. their outcry, or, ſhout, is in the ſhips; or, as ſome, to the ſhips: the poſitive, for the relative: as Ch.41.1. the ſhips, for, their ſhips; as, their barres, before.

whoſe cry] The word is ambiguous; and ſignifieth, ſometime, a ſhout of exultation and joy, ch.35.10. & 51. 1. To which purpoſe, ſome read the words, together with their ſhips, or ſhipping, (ſo the particle is uſed, Pſal.35.16. Hoſ.5.6.) which they vaunt of. Sometime, it is put for any loud cry, in general, 1 Kings 22.36. and more ſpecially, for an out-cry in prayer, 1 Kings 8.24. Pſal.17.1. & 142.6. or other the like, proceeding from confuſion, diſtreſſe, or grief, Ier.14.12. Lam. 2. 19. and ſo moſt here take it, either whoſe cry is to the ſhips; (ſo is the particle uſed, chap.10.22. & 8.8. & 30.29.) all whoſe cry is, to the ſhips, to the ſhips; as chap. 22. 5. to the hills, to the hills: or, that cry out aboard their ſhips, and ſhallops, by which they ſeek to eſcape; the city being taken, when they find the water ſo ſhallow, being turned away, and ſo drained by Cyrus, that it is not deep enough to bear the veſſels wherein they have embarked themſelves. See Ier.50.38. & 51. 32.

V. 15. I am the Lord, your holy one] As ver.11. or, Even I the Lord: as the note of continuation is there ſupplyed: as if he had ſaid, It is even, I the Lord, I ſay, your holy One, &c. that have done, or will do this; that ſent, or will ſend, Cyrus; he went not of his own head, to Babylon, but on mine errand: though he had other ends of his own, yet I ſent him, for your ſake, ver.14. See the like, Gen. 45.5,7,8. & 50. 20. Chap. 10.6,7.

the Creator of Iſrael] ver.7.

your King] To ſave you, Pſal.44.4. & 74.12. & 149.2. chap. 33.22. for that is the office of a King, to protect his people, to ſave his ſubjects, 1 Sam.10.19,27. Hoſ.10.3. & 13.10,11. Mic.4.9.

V. 16. Thus ſaith the Lord which maketh a way in the Sea, and a path in the mighty waters] Or, that made a way in the Sea, when he made the red ſea paſſable for his people, Exod. 14. 22, 29. and a path in the mighty waters, when he made Jordan fordable for them, being then at the higheſt, Joſh.3. 7,10. Zach.11.3. as if there had been a beaten path through either of them, as on ſome plain, Ch.63.11,13,14. See Pſalm 77.19,20. Ch.44.27. Thus Interpreters generally; implying, that no difficulty in the way, ſhould hinder the paſſage of his people, in their return from Babylon to their own country, no more then ought did, or could, in their journey thither, at firſt. Howbeit, I ſuppoſe that the Sea, and mighty waters, are here, one and the ſame; as Exod. 15.1,10. and the rather, for that which followeth, verſ. 17. which no way agreeth to Jordan, wherein none were deſtroyed.

V. 17. Which bringeth forth the chariot, and horſe, the army, and the power; they ſhall lye together, they ſhall not riſe; they are extinct, they are quenched, as tow] Or, Who brought forth the chariot, and horſe, the army, and the power; (who drew out all Pharao's horſe, and forces, out of his own country into the wilderneſſe; the like whereunto, ſee Judg. 4. 7. & from off the land into the ſea, Exod. 14.4-9,23.) that they might lye together, (in the bottom of the ſea, Exod. 14. 27, 28. & 15. 1, 14. like a lump of lead, Exod.15.10.) and not riſe; (Exod. 14. 13, 28. Pſal.106,11.) that they might be extinct, even quenched, as a weik. Heb. as flax; Exod. 9. 31. Hoſ. 2. 5. ſo rather then tow; for there is another word for that, Judg.16.9. Ch.1.31. as flax; for, as a candle-weik made of flax, Ch. 42. 3. when water is caſt on it, or it is caſt into the water. In which term, ſome ſuppoſe an alluſion to that commodity of flax, which Egypt was famous for, Ch. 19. 9. & 23. 3. Thus the text floweth ſmoothly, that ſounded harſhly, and ran abruptly before. The defect of the final, or finitive particle, is not unuſual. See Pſal. 93. 1. Ch. 40. 27. & 41.7. And the defect of the copulatives no leſſe; which oftentimes make the ſentence the quicker, and more emphatical. See Exod. 15. 9. Judg. 5. 17. Ch.33.22. & 37. 27. & 40. 24. Some of the Jewiſh Commenters, expound this of Sennacherib, and his forces, whom God drew out of Aſſyria to their deſtruction, Ch. 7.18. & 37. 36. Others, of the Babylonians and Chaldeans, whom God would draw out into the field to fight with the Perſians, to their own ruine. As alſo ſome, of Gods drawing out the Medes and Perſians, to deſtroy the Chaldeans, Ch. 13. 17. But theſe regard not the connexion of this verſe with the former. That of the Egyptian is here related, to ſhew, how able God is, both to deliver his people, be they never ſo diſtreſſed; and to deſtroy their adverſaries, be they never ſo powerful, by wayes, and courſes, unexpected.

V. 18. Remember ye not the former things, neither conſider the things of old] Not that Gods former mercies ſhould not be remembred, or regarded, for thoſe they are every where called upon to keep in mind, and think upon, Exod.12.42. & 13. 3. Deut.4.9,10. & 9.7. & 16.3. & 32.7. Pſal.78.6,7. & 105.5. and reproved for forgetting, and not regarding them, Pſal. 78.11,42. & 106.7,21. But the meaning, is, that thoſe things, which he now foretelleth, and intends to do, partly, in their temporal deliverance, by Cyrus, but principally, in their ſpiritual deliverance by Chriſt, ſhould be ſo great, and ſo remarkable, that they might be ſufficient, of themſelves, to aſſert his divine power, though all the former were clean forgotten; or, as the moſt, that in regard of them, the former, though great and wonderful, ſhould, in a manner, neither be minded ſo much, nor regarded. See Ier.16.14,15. and 23. 7,8.

former] Heb. firſt, ver.9,27. So Rev.2.5.

V. 19. Behold, I will do a new thing] Heb. Behold, I am doing a new thing. This ſome expound, of the renewing, or making all things new, 2 Cor. 5.17. Rev.21.5. but neither the text it ſelf, nor the intendment thereof, will admit it: they alſo ſeem to ſtrain the word, needleſly, too far, who by new, would have meant excellent. It is apparent, that the meaning is, that he will do ſome new thing, beſide, and divers from what he had formerly done, ſome ſuch thing as he had not done before; as Ier.31.22. Num.16.30. So, ſing a new ſong; a ſong newly compoſed, not made, nor ſung before, for a new benefit, a new deliverance, chap.42.10.

now it ſhall ſpring forth] Or, it is even now ſpringing forth; it is even working already: as 2 Theſſ.2.7. it is a metaphor, from plants, that bud and bloſſom before they bear fruit; and the former giveth warning of the approach of the latter, Num.17.8. ſo Pſal.8.11. Zach.6.12. See chap.13.22.

ſhall ye not know it] Or, do ye not perceive it? This he ſeems to ſay, as ſpeaking to thoſe that remained in captivity at Babylon, about the time of Cyrus his preparation for that expedition, or when he was now upon his way thither: For his preparations were great, and took up ſome time, chap. 13.2, 4. as, alſo, his way long, and paſſage difficult, that took him up a year or two, at leaſt: See chap.13.5. Jer.51.46.

I will even make a way in the wilderneſſe] A way, that is, a plain, or a free way in the wilderneſſe; where the ways are wont to be uneaven with hils and dales, and obſtructed with thickets, and overgrown with brambles and briers: I will make a convenient and eaſie paſſage for my people returning, by waſte places from Babylon, to their own country, free from all ſuch lets and impediments, as might hinder or impeach their paſſage: See chap.40.3,4. & 49.11.

and rivers in a deſart] I will furniſh them with a plentifull ſupply of all neceſſaries, that they may not faint by the way, Chap.41.17,18,19. & 49.9,10. Jer.31.9. He alludeth to the water, that he gave before time, from the rock, in the wilderderneſſe, Exod.17.6. Num.20.8-11. Pſalm 105.41.

deſart] Heb. waſte: for ſo the word properly ſignifieth, Pſalm 106.14. & 107,4. So ver.20.

V.20. The beaſts of the field ſhall honour me, the dragons, and the owls; becauſe I give waters in the wilderneſſe, and rivers in the deſart, to give drink to my people, my choſen] The very bruit beaſts, and wild creatures, ſhall fare the better for the paſſage of my people through the waſtes they abide in, being cheered with the refreſhments that they ſhall receive from the water wherewith I ſupply my people; as the water that God, in former times, gave, in like caſe, to his people, was a refreſhment to their cattel as well as to themſelves, Num. 20.8. and the wilde beaſts, alſo, had benefit thereby, as well as by the Egyptian carcaſſes that they fed upon, Pſalm 74.14.

beaſt] For beaſts: taken collectively; as Pſalm 50. 10. 2 Sam.21.10. they ſeem wide, that underſtand by wild beaſts, here, ſavage people.

honour me] In their kind: who as they are ſaid to cry to God, when they lament for want of food, Pſalm 104.2. & 147. 9. ſo are they ſaid to praiſe him, Pſalm 145.9,10. & 148.7,10 when they are cheerfully affected, upon ſuch refreſhments afforded to them; as implying what they would do, had they that Reaſon and Underſtanding, that man hath, to conceive from whom ſuch things come.

dragons] See chap.27.1.

Owls] Or, Oſtriches: as ſome: ſee Lam.4.3. Heb. the Owls daughters: as chap.34.13.

to give drink to my people] Heb. to make my people drink: as Jer.25.17.

my choſen] See ver.10. Ch.41.8. & 44.1.

V. 21. This people I have formed for my ſelf; they ſhall ſhew forth my praiſe] Or, The people that I formed for my ſelf ſhall recount, or ſhould recount (as Chap.26.9.) my praiſe: the poſitive, or demonſtrative, for the relative: as Pſalm 74.2. & 104. 8. & 142.4. This ſome underſtand, as to be done of the people refined, and reformed by their afflictions, Chap.48.10. and returned from captivity, Pſalm 102.18. Others, of the duty that was required of Gods people, whom, for that end, he had formed, ver. 7. but they had exceedingly failed in; and this agreeth well, both with the ſequel, wherein God complaineth of their default, and failings herein, ver.22-24. and with Gods intendment, in this place, to ſet forth the freeneſſe of his mercy, in this their delivery, ver 25. and it is, as if he had ſaid, having an eye back to the former words, ver. 20. the very bruit-beaſts ſhall, in their kind, and as well as they can, do that which many of you, whom I formed for that purpoſe, do not.

V. 22. But thou haſt not called upon me, O Jacob:] Or, Yet: Heb. And; as ver.1. Chap.44.1. Thou haſt not been ſo careful to ſerve and worſhip me, as thou ſhouldeſt and oughteſt to have been, being for that end and purpoſe formed into a Church and State, by me, that thou mighteſt ſerve and worſhip me; the invocation of Gods name, being put for his whole ſervice and worſhip: as Pſalm 79.6. Ier.10.25. though ſome underſtand it of not ſeeking to God, in their troubles and diſtreſſes, 2 Chron.28.22. chap.9.13. & 22.8-13. & 64.7. Dan. 9.13. Hoſ.5.13. & 7.7,14. Amos 4.6-11. But the former ſeems the genuine ſenſe of the place.

but thou haſt been weary of me, O Iſrael] Thou haſt been weary of me and my ſervice; thou haſt counted it, not a benefit, but a burden to thee, Pſalm 81.11. Mal.1.13. But ſome read the words, thou haſt wearied me; as, ſay they, the word is taken, Eccl.10.15. Mal.2.17. and that is ſaid, indeed, ver.24. but the verb is here, in another form, then there; or then in either of the places produced. Others read them, when thou waſt afflicted by me. Of which before. Others, when thou tookeſt pains with me; as if the meaning were, that when they did take much pains in outward obſervances, they did not ſerve God, but an idoll of their own framing; a God that would accept of ſuch formal courtings and complements; though neither proceeding from inward devotion, nor accompanied with a religious courſe of life: that which ſeems aimed at, Prov.21.27. Jer.7.9,10. Hoſ.7.14. Zach.7.5,6. and the particle, indeed, ſignifies, as well when, as, but: and ſo Ch. 36.10. Joel 2 10. But the verſe ſeems to conſiſt of two propoſitions, joyned, though much to the ſame, in effect, with a diſcretive; the name of Jacob, annexed, to the one; of Iſrael, to the other; but both ſignifying the ſame people: as ver.1. chap.44.1.

V. 23. Thou haſt not brought me the ſmall cattel of thy burnt-offerings; neither haſt thou honoured me with thy ſacrifices:] Thou haſt not offered them to me, but to ſtrange gods, to idols, which thou choſed'ſt, rather then me, and preferred'ſt before me, Deut.32.17. Judg.2.12,13. & 5.8. & 10.6,13,14. Pſalm 106.35-39. Jer.2.11,13,28. Amos 5.25,26. or, as ſome other, Thou haſt offered them, indeed, as to me; but ſo, as no way pleaſing to me; becauſe without true piety, or ſincere repentance: See Chap.1.11-15. But this ſeems, here, not ſo natural.

the ſmal cattel of thy burnt offerings] Or, thy burnt offerings of ſmal cattel; that is, kids, or lambs; as Exod.12.5. Of the phraſe, ſee ch.2.20.

burnt-offerings, and ſacrifices] See ch.1.11.

I have not cauſed thee to ſerve with an offering; nor wearied thee with incenſe] I have not exacted of thee ſuch abundance of theſe kind of oblations, that thou ſhouldeſt deem it to be ſuch a burden to thee, or to make thee weary of me and my ſervice; and ſo it hath reference to that, verſe 22. or, It is not I, but thine idols, that have been at ſo much coſt with thee, and have made thee a ſlave to them, tiring thee out with ſuch ſervices, as they have from time to time exacted from thee: See chap.57.5-10. Ier.3.24 and this I take to be the genuine ſenſe of the place. Though moſt Interpreters go another way, to wit, that theſe things God had not required of them, being performed by them in ſuch manner, and for ſuch ends as they did them. See Chap.1.11,12,13. of offering, or oblation, and incenſe, ſee alſo there. Some of the Jewiſh Commenters refer all this to the time of the captivity, wherein the Temple being deſtroyed, the only place where they might ſacrifice, Deut.12.13,14. theſe were neither done by them, nor required of them. Others reſtrain them to Achaz his time, 2 Chr. 28. 24. but the one ſeems impertinent, the other too narrow.

V. 24. Thou haſt bought me no ſweet cane with money; neither haſt thou filled me with the fat of thy ſacrifices:] This goeth on in the ſelf-ſame notion with the former, ver. 22, 23.

ſweet cane] Heb. cane, or canel, as it is uſually termed (for ſweet is not in the text) or, calamus; as it is rendred, Ezek. 27. 19. but, ſweet cane, as here; ſo Jer. 6. 20. either for the compoſition of the ſweet ointment, Exod. 30. 34. or, for the incenſe, Exod. 30. 7. there is an elegant conſonancy in the originall, between buy, and cane, which our Engliſh cannot expreſs.

filled me] Heb. made me drunk; or, made me drink; or moiſtned me abundantly; for the word doth not only ſignifie, to be drunk, or, make drunk (if, at leaſt, it do at all ſo ſignifie, which to me doth not yet appear, nor can I light on any place that doth neceſſarily evince it) but ſometime to bedew, as chap. 16. 9. or, to bathe, as chap. 34. 5. or, to ſoak, chap. 34. 7. Jer. 46. 10. or, to water plentifully, Pſal. 65. 10. ch. 55. 10. whence it is applyed to beneficence, Prov. 11. 25. and ſo it may have reference to Gods altar, that was patiently bedewed with the blood, and the fat of the beaſts that were ſacrificed thereon, Lev. 3. 13-17. ſometime, to drink largely, or, liberally, or, to full ſatisfaction; and the word that is commonly uſed for drunkenneſs, doth ſometime import the like, as of Joſephs brethren, Gen. 43. 34. for it is not to be thought, that they would ſo far forth forget themſelves, as to be drunk in his preſence; and the Greek word, in like manner, that anſwereth thereunto, Joh. 2. 10. as alſo, 1 Cor. 11. 21. for it is ſcarce imaginable, that any of them were ſo extreamly profane, as to be drunk openly in the Congregation at ſuch times; nor doth the oppoſite member of hunger intimate any more: And by conſequence, alſo, the word here uſed, doth ſignifie, to take ones fill of ought; or, to take large or full ſatisfaction, or delight, in ought, Prov. 1. 19. and 7. 18. Pſal. 36. 8. where the term of watering, is not ſo ſuitable: and in the active form, to ſatiate, refreſh, or cauſe to drink, or feed liberally, even to full contentment, Jer. 13. 14, 25. or, to make one drink, or take in largely of that, which yet they take little delight or contentment in, Lam. 3. 15. Thus, here, reſpecting God, it implyeth a large or liberal expence in ſacrifice, for the ſupply of his ſervice at the Altar, which is called his Table; as the ſacrifices offered on it, his meat, Ezek. 41. 22. Mal. 1. 7, 12. Yet withall, not without ſome hint of that groſſe conceit, which ſome Heathen had, that their gods fed on the ſteam that aſcended from their ſacrifices, which ſome among the Jews might have, alſo, ſome taint of. See Deut. 32. 38. Pſal. 50. 13.

but thou haſt made me to ſerve with thy ſins; thou haſt wearied me with thine iniquities] Hitherto he had minded them of their failings, in performance of duty; he now telleth them of their faults. They had not only neglected him, as weary of his ſervice, which they eſteemed of no better, then as ſome ſlaviſh condition. ver. 22, 23. but had alſo ſo vexed and grieved him with their ſins, that his bearing with them, and enduring of them, was as grievous and burdenſome to him, as an hard ſervice, under ſome harſh and rigorous maſter, ch. 7. 13. & 63. 10. Jer. 44. 22. Ezek. 6. 9. Amos 1. 13. And this latter, eſpecially, was it, that he took to heart. To which purpoſe it is, that God ſaith elſewhere, that he did not ſo much command the former, Jer. 7. 22. or, complain of the want thereof, Pſal. 50. 8. as well becauſe he regarded not ſo much their failings in the one, as in the other: and again, becauſe they were ſometime free, and forward enough in the one, when they were wholly regardleſſe of the other, Mic. 6. 6-8. All this, to ſhew, that the deliverance of them from their thraldom, was of his own free favour and mercy; not from any matter of merit, or deſert, on their part, ver. 25.

V. 25. I, even I, am he, that blotteth out thy tranſgreſſions,] Or, I, even I, (a paſſionate and emphatical expreſſion, as Gen. 6. 16. ver. 11.) do blot out; (Heb. he blotting out, or, am blotting out; the pronoun, for the verb ſubſtantive: as ver. 13. for there is no article prefixed before the participle.) and there is in the term of blotting out, a metaphor taken from the blotting of ſome thing out of a book, as Exod. 32. 32, 33. and more ſpecially, of a debt out of a debt-book, Col. 2. 14. and our ſins are as debts, Matth. 6. 12, 14, 15. & 18. 24, 27, 33. Luk. 7. 41-43, 47, 48. & 11. 4. which being once blotted out, and done away, neither are we any more charged with them, Ezek. 18. 22. nor God any more wroth with us, for them, chap. 54. 9. See chap. 44. 22.

for mine own ſake] Heb. for my ſelf; as Job 18. 4. Prov. 16. 4. out of a reſpect to his own honour, chap. 52. 5. Ezek. 20. 14, 22. & 30. 9. & 36. 20-23. his mercy, Deut. 4. 27. Jer. 3. 12. his fidelity, Pſal. 106. 45. Chap. 1. 27. & 56. 1. and his free love and affection to them and their Anceſtors, Deut. 7. 7, 8. verſ. 4. Jer. 31. 3. Mal. 1. 2. not in regard of any deſert of theirs, who had ſo extreamly, from time to time, both neglected and wronged him, Chap. 44. 8, 9. Ezek. 36. 22, 32.

and will not remember thy ſins] As that which is blotted, or razed out, cannot now be read, or repeated, and conſequently, is not regarded, nor remembred, Exod. 17. 14. Pſal. 9. 5, 6. and ſo a debt, when the bond cancelled, or the book croſſed, is then no more thought on, or looked after. In like manner, God having remitted the ſins of his, doth no more now regard them, then as if he had forgotten them; (for ſo is the term of forgetting, or, not remembring, frequently uſed, both in Scripture, and common ſpeech, Pſal. 45. 10. Phil. 3. 13.) ſee Pſal. 25. 7. & 79. 8. Jer. 31. 34. Hoſ. 4. 6.

V. 26. Put me in remembrance.] If I have omitted, or not taken notice of ought, that thou ſuppoſeſt might make for thy juſtification, mind me of it.

let us plead together] See Chap. 1. 19.

declare thou, that thou mayſt be juſtified] Or, cleered, or, cleer thy ſelf; as ver. 9. Say what thou canſt for thy ſelf, thou haſt liberty ſo to do: as Act. 26. 1. The ancient Greek rendreth it, Remember, that we may be judged; tell thy ſins firſt, that thou mayſt be juſtified: and this the Greek Fathers commonly produce, and preſſe, to prove, that confeſſion and acknowledgment of ſin goeth before juſtification, and is the way to remiſſion, Luk. 18. 13, 14. a point not unſound, but a place impertinent; for the verſion forceth that into the text that is not there.

V. 27. Thy firſt father hath ſinned] This ſome underſtand of Adam, from whom all mankind is deſcended, and from whom ſin was propagated unto all his iſſue; yea, of whoſe actual ſin, as moſt hold, all men ſtand guilty: and to this purpoſe, they apply that, chap. 48. 8. Rom. 5. 12. and that all men, for that corruption traduced to them from Adam, ſtand guilty of ſin, and liable to Gods wrath, cannot be denyed, Pſal. 50. 5. Rom. 5. 12. & 6. 23. Eph. 2. 2, 3. But this charg ſeems to be more ſpecial, and ſuch, as in a more peculiar manner concerneth this people. Others, of Abraham, the principal Patriarch, with whom God entred into a ſpecial covenant, ſealed up with that ſolemn rite of Circumciſion, Gen. 17. 2, 7, 11, 13. Rom. 5. 11. named, as the head and root of their ſtock, chap. 41. 8. & 51. 2. and the ſin of his here hinted, ſome make the deniall of his wife, chap. 12. 15. and 20. 2. Others, the doubting of Gods promiſe, in demanding a ſigne Gen. 15. 8. Or, becauſe theſe may ſeem to have bin ſlips of humane frailty; the moſt, therefore, conceive it to have been his idolatry, before his call; which they ground upon Joſh. 24. 2, 3. But of Abraham, no ſuch thing is there ſaid; and the Jews traditional ſtory, of Abrahams eſcaping the fire, that he was thrown into, becauſe he would not worſhip idols (which they build on the word ur, that ſignifies fire, Neh. 9. 7.) telleth us a contrary tale: but the truth is, the one is as groundleſſe as the other. Others, Terah, Abrahams Father, the firſt, ſay they, of that line, that fell off to idolatry, which circumſtance, though uncertain; yet, that ſometime an idolater, is apparent, Joſh. 24. 2. Others, Jeroboam, who ſet up idolatry among the ten Tribes, 2 King. 12. 28, 30. But this ſeems to concern Judah, as well as Iſrael, which that did not, 2 Chron. 13. 10, 11, Others, Ahaz, 2 Chr. 28. and others, Manaſſes, 2 King. 21. & 23. 26. & 24. 3. Now Kings, ſay theſe laſt, are as Fathers to their people. But how, or why, either of theſe ſhould be termed their firſt-father, after ſo many fore-going them, they ſhew not. I ſuppoſe, therefore, that thy firſt-father, is no more here, then thy fore-fathers, thine anceſtors. The word father, is ſometime taken collectively: ſo Ezek. 16. 3. Thy father, for thy fathers; and the word firſt, is frequently uſed for former: ſo, the firſt age, for the former age, or the age before-going, Job 8. 8. and, the firſt things, for former things, v. 9. 18. and ſo would it be rendred, 1 Tim. 5. 12. Rev. 2. 4. So the meaning is, not you alone, but your fore-fathers, alſo, have been grievous tranſgreſſors, as well as your ſelves; and there is no cauſe, therefore, why I ſhould do ſo great a favour for you, as this is; in regard either of your ſelves, or of them. See Ch. 1. 4. Pſal. 78. 8. & 106. 6, 7. Jer. 3. 24, 25. & 7. 22-26. Zach. 1. 4. Mal. 3. 7.

and thy Teachers have tranſgreſſed againſt me] Heb. thine Interpreters, Gen. 42. 23. Job 33. 23. or embaſſadors, 2 Chron. 32. 31. Their Prieſts and Prophets, ſo termed; becauſe they are as embaſſadors between God and his People; and their office is, to open and make known Gods will and pleaſure unto them, Deut. 33. 10. Jer. 15. 19. Mal. 2. 7. and are called his embaſſadors, becauſe ſent by him; their embaſſadors, becauſe ſent to them, 2 Cor. 5. 19, 20. They that ſhould have taught others better, have been, themſelves, as bad as any. See 2 Chron. 36. 14. Jer. 5. 30, 31. and 8. 10, 11. & 23. 13, 14. Dan. 9. 8, 11.

V. 28. Therefore] Heb. And; as ver. 4.

have I profaned the Princes of the Sanctuary] Or, of holineſſe, as Ch. 62. 9. that is, the holy Princes; as their land was termed the holy land, Ch. 63. 19. Jeruſalem, the holy city, Neh. 1. 11, 18. the people, an holy ſeed, Ezr. 9. 1. the ſanctuary, an holy place, Pſalm 5. 7. & 68. 5. Either the Rulers of the Temple, Jer. 20. 1. Or, their Kings annointed with holy oil, Pſalm 89. 20. and Princes, Governours of the holy people, becauſe taken into ſpecial covenant with God, Deut. 26. 19. Pſalm 114. 2. theſe is God ſaid to have profaned, becauſe he had rejected, abhorred, deſtroyed them, expoſed them to a curſe, to ſhame, to reproach, Pſalm 44. 13, 14. Jer. 23. 40. & 24. 9. or dealt with them, as with profane and common perſons, not regarding the dignity of their places, Pſalm 89.39. Chap.47.6. Ier.22.18,19, 24-28.& 39.6,7.Lam.2.2. For they ſeem to ſtep aſide here, who expound the words,as if God ſhould not ſay, that he had ſo done,but that he might juſtly deal ſo with them.

and have given Jacob to the curſe] Or, made Jacob a curſe; or,an accurſed thing, Chap.65.11. cauſed him to be deſtroyed, as an accurſed thing, Ioſh.6.16, 18, 21. for that is the word here uſed.

and Iſrael to reproaches] Expoſed them, by their ſervitude and bondage,to moſt ſhameful reproach, Zeph.2.8. Ier.24.9. Jacob and Iſrael,the ſame,as ver.22.

CHAP. XLIV.

Verſ. 1. YEt now hear] This Chapter dependeth upon the next before-going,as that on the next before it; God ſignifying unto his people, that though they, and their fore-fathers,had deſerved ſo evil of him;and that he had therefore,therein intending, as well the chaſtiſement, as the amendment of them, given them up into their enemies hands, and ſuffered them to endure a long and tedious captivity; yet he would now,at length, relieve and refreſh them, reſtore them, and cauſe them to thrive and proſper again.

Yet] Heb. And; as Chap.43.1.

O Jacob,my ſervant; and Iſrael,whom I have choſen] See Chap.41.8.

V. 2. Thus ſaith the Lord, that made thee,and formed thee] See Chap.43.1,7,21.

from the womb] From thy nativity,ſay ſome; as Pſalm 22.9,10. & 71.6. before thou waſt able to do, much leſſe to deſerve ought, Rom.9.11.But rather from thy firſt beginning, to be a Nation ſevered from others, an entire people of thy ſelf. It is a metaphor, taken, not ſo much from the forming of the body in the womb, Pſalm 119.73.& 139.13-16. Job 10.8-11. Jer.1.3.as from the practice of Midwives, that receiving the birth from the womb,do compoſe and frame it,and each limb of it,unto its due poſture; and ſo did God with this people, when he moulded them up, into a proportionable frame of Church and State. So ver.24.Chap.46.3. See, alſo, Chap.48.8.Ier.2.2.

which will help thee] A defect of the relative; as Chap.42.1,5. Or, as the words may well be read, Thus ſaith the Lord; he that made thee, and formed thee from the womb, will keep thee. See Chap.41.10,13,14.

Fear not,O Jacob, my ſervant] Chap.41.8,10.

and thou Jeſurun, whom I have choſen] Heb. Jeſhurun: a name given to Iſrael and his Poſterity, in regard of the uprightneſſe that was in him, and ought to have bin in them, Deut.32.15.& 33.26.choſen; as ver.1.

V. 3. For I will pour water on him that is thirſty] That is, as ſome, the ſpiritual water of grace, in abundance, upon thoſe, that finding, and feeling the want of it, in themſelves, do hunger and thirſt after it; and ſo the metaphor ſhould be taken from water, or drink, that a man is ſupplyed with, for the ſlaking of his drought, and the quenching of his thirſt: as Chap.12.3. & 55.1. Jer.31.25. Matth.5.6. Joh.4.14. & 7.37,38. Rev.22.17. But neither will the word, of pouring out, well admit that metaphor here, no more, then in other the like places, to the like purpoſe produced, Joel 2.28. Act.2.18. (which rather ſeem to allude to the pouring out of the oyl, upon the head of King, of Prieſt, Lev.8.12. Pſal.133.2. 1 Sam.10.1. 2 Kings 9.3.) ſince that we uſe not to pour water, or drink, upon men, or beaſts either,when they are thirſty; but rather pour it out to them, or for them, 2 King.4.20. ch.58.10. and the tenure of the text carrieth it to ſuch water, rain, or other, wherewith dry and parched grounds are wont to be watered,to refreſh them & make them fertile and fruitful; and I conceive it ought not to be rendred, him that is thirſty, but, the thirſty place; as, after, the dry, for the dry land: a defect of the ſubject in either. By a like metaphor, is a land of thirſt and dryneſſe, or, a thirſty and dry land, Chap.35.7. & Ezek.19.13. for, a land that is dry, for want of water; as a man a thirſt for want of drink, Pſal.63.1.

and floods upon the dry ground] Heb. dry: as Gen.1.9. a defect of the ſubject, as before; floods, for abundance of water: as chap.30.25. Pſal.119.136. an alluſion here, partly, to rain, that the clouds pour down, Pſal.77.17. and partly, to ſuch rivers, as overflowing the lands that lye neer them, make them fertile. See on ch.19.5,6. & 23.3.

I will pour my Spirit upon thy ſeed, and my bleſſing upon thine off-ſpring] My Spirit, that is, my bleſſing, (the one expoundeth the other) whereby they and their State ſhould thrive and flouriſh, and multiply, and increaſe, that had been almoſt clean exhauſt,& exceedingly impaired, in a manner,beyond all hope of recovery,before,ch.26.19.Ezek.37.3,11-14. So of their land, ch.32.15.and of their ſeed,ch.61.9.he followeth ſtill the compariſon taken from grounds well watered, as ch.58.11. and the ſeed ſown in ſuch ſoil, ch.32.10. A type of that ſpiritual growth, and increaſe of Gods Church, and the members of it, under the Meſſias, by the graces and comforts of his Spirit, Act.9.31. Eph.4.12-15. Col.2.19. 2 Pet.3.18. See ch.27.6. & 37.31. & 61.9,21.

V. 4. And they ſhall ſpring up as among the graſſe, as willows by the water-courſes] Heb. in among; and then there ſeems a defect of the note of ſimilitude,to be ſupplyed from the latter clauſe: but ſome rather read it, as among; and then there is no defect. Howbeit, there want not, that read it in a continued ſentence, but with ſome tranſpoſition of the words, They ſhall ſpring up, or ſhoot up; or, That they may ſhoot up (as chap.41.20.) as willows beſide the ſtreams, (as it is rendred, ch.30.25.) or, water-courſes amidſt the graſſe; that is,as willows, that ſhoot up ſpeedily in watery places, and ſoon overtop the graſſe among which they grow. See Chap.15.7. Job 40.22. Ezek.17.5. the trees here mentioned,are reckoned up among thoſe fair,ſhrowdy,and flouriſhing ones,that they uſed to make booths of, in the Feaſt of Tabernacles, Levit.23.40. Howſoever we read the text, a proſecution it is of the former reſemblance. See the like, Numb.24.6. Pſal.1.3. Jer.17.8.

V. 5. One ſhall ſay,I am the Lords;and another ſhall call himſelf by the name of Jacob;and another ſhall ſubſcribe with his hand to the Lord, and ſirname himſelf by the name of Iſrael] The future encreaſe of Gods people is intimated, not only by his bleſſing, in making them fruitful, and multiplying their iſſue,chap.60.22. & 61.9. Ier.31.27. as he did ſometime in Egypt, Exod.1.12. but by addition, alſo, of many Proſelytes, from other parts, to them, who ſhould give up their names to God, to be entred into his muſter-roll, and regiſtred in his Church-book, among the faithfull, that belong to him, and are liſted for his ſervice. See the like, Pſal.87.5,6. See alſo, ch.40.26. This, in likelihood, was, in part, fulfilled, upon the diſſolution of the Babylonian captivity; many thereupon adjoyning themſelves to Gods people; as the like was ſometime done on the like occaſions, both before, and after,upon their departure out of Egypt, Exod.12.38. and upon their deliverance from Hamans miſchievous plot againſt them,Eſt.8.17. But more fully, in the converſion of the Gentiles, by the preaching of the Goſpel. See Chap.2.3.

I am the Lords] Souldier, or ſervant; as, the Lords, and Gideons, for, the ſword of the Lord, and of Gideon, Judg.7.18, and 20.

ſubſcribe with his hand] A defect of the particle inſtrumental, as Pſal.17.13,14. a metaphor from ſuch volunteers, as do, of their own accord, under their hand-writing, liſt,and enrol themſelves, for ſervice, Pſal.110.3. or, as ſome render it, write on his hand, unto the Lord; or, I am the Lords: and ſo the ancient Greek hath it: as, I unto thee, Pſal.119.94. that is, I am thine; or, belong to thee; which they conceive to allude unto the manner of ſouldiers, or ſervants, that did bear the Captains, or Maſters name,to whom they belonged, imprinted on one of their hands: which,though it might be alluded unto, Rev.3.12. & 14.9. yet I doubt, whether that cuſtome was ſo ancient as Eſay's dayes.

ſirname] Shall take on him that name,inſtead of that which he had from his original; or, ſhall aſſume it, as an additional unto it. Heb. ſhall entitle himſelf. See Chap.45.4. thereby intimating, that he is one of the Iſrael of God, Gal.6.16. a member of Gods Church, a ſubject of that kingdome whereof he is King, ver.6. Chap.33.23.

V. 6. Thus ſaith the Lord,the King of Iſrael, and his Redeemer] See Chap.43.14,15.

the Lord of hoſts] See Chap.1.9. One,as willing to deliver you; ſo,able to do it.

I am the firſt,and I am the laſt] Chap.41.4.& 48.12. Rev.1,8,17,& 22.13. the firſt,ſay ſome,from whom all things are; and the laſt,unto whom,all is to be referred, Rom.11.36. But I conceive Gods eternity,only,to be here implyed, Pſal.90.2.

and beſides me there is no God.] Or, more conciſely, no god beſides Me, Deut.4.35,39.& 6.4. & 32.39. Chap.43.10, 11. and 45.6,21.ver.8.Joh.17.3.1 Cor.8.5,6.

V. 7. And who, as I, ſhall call,and ſhall declare it, and ſet it in order for me,ſince I appointed the ancient people? and the things that are coming,and ſhall come? let them ſhew unto them.] Or, who is like unto me,(Pſalm 35.10.& 89.8. to wit, among the gods that the heathen ſo account,Pſalm 89.6.) that can call, and declare it,and ſet it me in order, ſince I appointed a people of old? or,let them (that is, their idols) ſhew unto them (to wit, that take them for their gods)the things to come,& ſuch as iſſue from them;to wit,if they will be accounted gods, Chap.41.23.

ſhall call] Or, can call; potentially,as Chap.40.12.& 41.26.& 43.8. This, ſome expound of Gods calling of the Iſraelites to be his people,Chap.41.9. Others, of calling and deſigning of certain perſons, as Cyrus and his forces,to deliver his people,Chap.44.28.& 45.1,4. I ſuppoſe the former here intended.

and ſhall declare it] Or, and declare it; that is, tell before-hand, what ſhall, in future times, befall that people; or, as ſome other, who ſhall tell me, or direct me, how I ſhould, in the managing of theſe affairs, proceed? as Chap.40. 13. and 45. 11.

and ſet it in order for me] Or, ſet it me in order; or, ſet it in order to me: relate it to me, in a conſtant courſe and tenour, what ſhall, from time to time, betide them; as I have done with my people, both concerning the Egyptian bondage, with the bringing them out from thence, and the ſetling of them in the land of Canaan, Gen.15.13,14,16. as alſo concerning the Babylonian captivity, together with their deliverance out of it, and the reſtoring them to their own land again, Chap. 39. 6,7. & 40.2. & 43.5,6,14. & 45-47. See alſo, Ier. 25.9, 11, 12.

ſince I appointed the ancient people] Or, an ancient people; that is, the lineage of Abraham, in the poſterity of Jacob, to be a numerous nation, and my peculiar people; which long ſince he both foretold, and fulfilled, Gen.13.16. & 15.5. & 22. 17. Num.1.45,46. Deut.1.10. Heb. a people of antiquity, or, of perpetuity, or, of eternity; for the word is uſed, (as the Latine olim alſo, ſuppoſed, by ſome, to come from it,) as well of the time paſt, chap.42.14. Ier.48.8. as of the time to come; in which latter ſenſe, alſo, ſome here taking it, expound the text of Gods elect, from the worlds beginning, yea, from all eternity, choſen, and ſet apart, and in time, culled out, and called to inherit eternity, Gen.3.15. Rom.8.29,30. Eph. 1. 4, 5. 1 Pet.1.3,4. Rev.13.8. & 17.8. but I ſuppoſe the former, here, principally intended; becauſe God here points unto ſuch conſpicuous evidences of his divine power, as lay open, even to any natural mans eye, Chap.41.20. Nor do they ſeem to conjecture aright, who refer it to the creation of mankind, at the firſt. See Chap.40.21. & 41.4.

things that are coming, and ſhall come] things to come, as ch.45. 11.) ſuch as ſhall come to paſſe; the copulative for the relative, as ch.3.6. & 5.4. or, things to come, and ſuch as ſhall proceed, or ſpring, from them. See Chap.43.19. a defect of the relative, as ver.2. that is, things to come, in a continued courſe, from the firſt to the laſt, like links of a chain, hanging one upon another. See Chap.41.22,23,26. & 46.10. & 48.14.

V. 8. Fear ye not, neither be afraid] As if, either I were not able to fulfil what I foretel, ver.6. or, any counterfeit deity were able to over-power me, in what I foretel, and intend; the vanity of whom he layeth forth, at large, in the words following; together with the ſenſeleſs ſottiſhneſs of thoſe that are bewitched with them, ver.9-20.

have I not told thee, from that time, and have declared it?] Remember, that theſe things were told you before; as Joh.16.1. Matth.26.6,7. Luk.24.6-8. whereof ye ſee ſome part already fulfilled, and the reſidue ſhall, in their due time, be accompliſhed. So Luk.1.31,36,37.

told thee] Heb. made thee to hear; as Chap.41.26.

from that time] At that time, when I appointed thee to be a people, ver.7. or, in a more large ſenſe, formerly, or, in time paſt. Heb. from then: as Chap.16.23. & 48.3.

declared it] A defect of the pronoun it: as Chap. 42. 21, 25.

ye are even my witneſſes] Or, and ye are my witneſſes hereof: See Chap.43.10.

Is there a god beſides me?] The interrogative affirmatively delivered, doth more vehemently deny: as Job 7.1. See ver. 6.

there is no god] That is, no other god; no god beſides me; to be ſupplyed from the former branch. Heb. no rock, Pſal. 19.14. no ſuch rock, as is able to protect and ſecure thoſe that repair to it for ſhelter and ſafety, as God doth thoſe, that betake themſelves to him, Deut. 4.35,39. & 32. 4, 32,39. 1 Sam.2.2. Pſal.18.31. Prov.18.10,11. Chap.26.4. & 43. 11. & 45.5. & 46.9. it is a metaphor taken from ſuch caves, or places of receit, in rocks, that either men in diſtreſs and danger, or, the feebler ſort of creatures, for better ſecurity againſt, the ravenous kind of them, are wont to reſort unto, or to make their conſtant abode in, Judg.15.8. & 20.47. Pſal.104.18. Prov.30.26. Cant.2.14.

I know not any] Who yet ſhould, if any ſuch were. Howbeit, ſome read the words of the text, as a continued ſentence; there is no God, that I know not; and there ſhould then be a defect of the relative; as before, ver.7. but the former reading ſeems the more probable.

V. 9. They that make a graven image, are all of them vanity;] See Chap.41.29. ſome read the words, They that frame a graven image, are all of them framers of a vain thing: The word in the latter part ſupplyed from the former; as 2 Chron. 10.14.

and their delectable things ſhall not profit:] The Hebrew word ſignifieth as well delectable, or delightful, as deſireable. See Chap.64.11. their idols, which they ſo dearly affect, and delight ſo much in, (ſee Chap.1.29. & 57.5. Jer.17.1, 2.) ſhall not profit, or, cannot profit: as Chap. 30.5,6. they ſhall not ſtand them in any ſtead, when they need their help, ch.45. 20. Jer.2.28. or, they are altogether unprofitable, they are good for nothing, Chap.41.29. ver.10.

and they are their own witneſſes, they ſee not, nor know; that they may be aſhamed.]. Or, even themſelves are their own witneſſes to their ſhame that they neither ſee, nor know ought; a defect of the particle that: as Chap. 37. 26. The makers of them, who know whereof they are made, and how handled in the making, are the beſt witneſſes, that can be, againſt them, to teſtifie that they have neither ſight, nor ſenſe; & may juſtly therefore be aſhamed of adoring ſuch trumpery, as they, of all others, cannot but know them to be, Pſal.97.7. ver.11. or, they cannot but ſee their own ſottiſhneſs and ſenſeleſneſs, if they had the wit to conſider it, in worſhipping thoſe as gods, whom they ſee and know to be ſuch, ver.18,19. But the former ſeems the better.

V. 10. Who hath formed a god, or molten a graven image, that is profitable for nothing?] Who, but a mad-man, would deem ought that man makes, or that himſelf hath made, to be god? or account that to be God, that is good for nought? ver. 9. Hoſ.8.6. Hab.2.18. See Jer.16.20.

or] Heb. and: as Chap.43.9.

molten a graven image] Caſt materials, or metals, in a mould, to frame thereof an image, that may, by graving, afterward be poliſhed, and perfected. See Chap.49.19. ſuch images put here, for all of all ſorts; as Chap.41.29.

that is profitable for nothing] Heb. not to profit: as Jer. 7. 11. and how then fit to be Lay-mens books? being unprofitable, Hab.2.18. abominable, Chap. 41.24. the fruit of errours, Jer. 10. 15. and lying teachers, Jer.10.8. & 16.19. Hab.2.18.

V. 11. Behold all his fellows ſhall be aſhamed; and the workmen, they are of men.] Or, and the workmen, they more then any. See the like phraſe, Chap.52.19. Heb. Adam; a man, for, any man, or any one; as ver.15. and as iſh, Jer. 5.1. the whole ſociety, or fraternity of them, that have ought to do about them, or dealings with them, may juſtly be aſhamed of them; as they ſhall alſo be confounded, when they expect help from them, Pſal.97.7. Chap. 1. 29. & 42.17. & 45.16. and none more then the workmen, (of which term, ſee on Chap.40.19.) the makers of them, that have been beſt acquainted with them, and the nature and condition of them. See on ver.9.

Let them all be gathered together, let them ſtand up, yet they ſhall fear, and ſhall be aſhamed together] Let them convene, and combine, as Demetrius, and his fellows, Act. 19. 24-29. ſtand ſtoutly to it, and make all the power they can; yet ſhall they never be able to maintain their forged deities, nor to acquit themſelves from fear and ſhame, in ſeeking to ſupport them. See Chap.41.1,5,21,22.

ſtand up] As parties to be tryed at the barr, Numb. 35. 12. or, as Patrons to plead for their clients, Act. 24. 1.

yet] A defect of the diſcretive; as Pſal.119.8,9. Job 14.9.

V. 12. The Smith with the tongs both worketh in the coals, and faſhioneth it with hammers, and worketh it with the ſtrength of his arms:] See Chap.40.19. & 46.6. Jer.10.3.

Smith] Heb. workman of iron: as 2 Chr.24.12. He ſpeaketh firſt of the Smith, that maketh idols of metal: then of the Carpenter, that frameth them of wood. ver.13.

with the tongs] The word here uſed, ſeems rather to ſignifie an axe. See Jer.10.3. and ſo the Jewiſh Maſters commonly expound it, an axe, or, an hatchet; nor is the particle with, in the text. Others, therefore, read the words, The Smith maketh an axe; to wit, ſay they, for the Carpenter, to uſe for the ſame purpoſe, for the framing of ſuch idols of wood, as he doth of iron; or, as ſome other, He maketh his idols, as he doth an ax, or, an hatchet, or, any other inſtrument for ordinary employment. Others, laſtly, expound the whole verſe of the making of an axe, ſimply, as deſcribing what pains he taketh about the forming of an axe only; which the hewer of wood, or feller of trees, taking from him, or buying of him, maketh uſe of, for matter to make an idol with, Jer.10.3. this may ſeem the more probable, becauſe, elſewhere, ſpeaking of molten, or metal images, he mentioneth gold and ſilver only, paſſing by thoſe baſer metals, as pointing to the gold-Smith, or ſilver-ſmith, rather then to the iron-workman, or, the blackſmith, Chap.40.19. & 46.6. Jer. 10.4,9. Howbeit, they had, even the greateſt of them, gods alſo, as well of braſſe and iron, as of gold and ſilver, Dan.5.4. and much art and curious workmanſhip may be ſhewed, as well in the one, as in the other.

both worketh in the coals] Heb. coal; taken collectively: as we do oft uſe it; coal, for coals: and it is uſed, ſometime, for coal, ſimply, or dead coal, as Prov.26.21. ſometime, for quick coal; as chap.54.16. and ſo here: either, he worketh in the coals, to wit, the metal, to make his idol, ver.10. or, which he worketh in the coal; to wit, the axe before-mentioned; the copulative, for the relative, in this latter, as ver.7.

and faſhioneth it] Either the idol, or the axe. See verſ.9, 10. Chap.41.7. and the text may be read, without any ſupply, The Smith an ax both worketh in the coals, and faſhioneth it with hammers: a trajection of the copulative; ſuch as is found, Gen.22.4. Chap.17.14. 2 King.2.14. Job 23.12. Prov. 23.4. & 24.27.

with hammers] So the word ſignifies, as appeareth, Judg. 4.21. joyned with nails, Ier.10.4. which it cannot therefore ſignifie; though it come from a word, that ſignifies to bore, or to pierce; which is not the proper, or principal uſe of an hammer: but to that is anſwered, that the hammer thereby ſignified, was ſomewhat like the twi-bil, ſharp, to ſtrike thorow with, at the one end; and flat, to beat out with, at the other: hammers, in the plural; becauſe ſeveral ſorts of them: ſome to beat out, and ſome to poliſh, Chap.41.7.

with the ſtrength of his arms] He putteth all his might to it; either in regard of the toughneſſe of the metal he works upon; (ſee ſomewhat the like, Eccl.10.10.) or, out of an earneſt deſire to make him an idol.

yea, he is hungry, and his ſtrength faileth; he drinketh no water, and is faint] This ſome, alſo, refer to their eagerneſſe upon the work they are about, that it maketh them forget the neceſſities of nature, out of devotion even to their yet unmade idols, ver.20. Others, to ſhew the unuſefulneſſe and inability of their idols, whom they take ſo much pains about, to relieve them; they may work, and faſt, until they faint, for ought they are able to do for them, ver.10. they cannot refreſh them, or renew ſtrength to them, when they are tired out, and ready to faint, as God can do, and doth, to his, Chap.40.29. they cannot ſupply them with food, as God did his people, with manna from heaven, Exod.16.13-15. nor with drink, as with water from the rock he did his, Exod.17.6. Heb. and he is hungry, and his ſtrength faileth; he drinketh no water, and is faint. Which ſome therefore thus render, when he is hungry, (wanting bread) his ſtrength faileth; and if he drink not water, he is faint; that is, if he want bread and water, he may faint, and his ſtrength fail him, for any proviſion his idol is able to afford him. See the like conſtruction, Chap.30.20. & 35.4. & 37.9,26. and of fainting and failing, Chap. 40. 30,31. for, his ſtrength faileth; the Hebrew hath it, ſtrength is not to him: as 2 Chr.20.12. Or ſimply, he laboureth hard at the forge, and about the fire, until he be faint, and his ſtrength fail him, for want of refreſhing; as in that employment workmen, the meaner ſort of them eſpecially, oft do.

V. 13. The Carpenter ſtretcheth out his rule] From the Smith, he paſſeth to the Wright. Heb. The workman of trees, or wood, or timber; as 1 Chr.14.1. & 22.15. carpenter, cutter, or carver. See Chap.40.20.

ſtretcheth out] Upon the piece of timber, whereof he meaneth to make his idol.

rule] Heb. line. So the word properly ſignifies; nor is a rule ſo properly ſaid to be ſtretched out. See Chap.28.17.

he marketh it with the line:] The word, ſay the Jewiſh Doctors, ſignifieth vermilion; though for that, another word ſeemeth uſed, Ier.22.14. and it may, peradventure, rather be oker; but by a metonymy, a ſtring, or, thred, therein dipt; or, therewith coloured: not unlike the ſame, that our workmen uſe; the word is no where elſe found in Scripture: but ſo a ſcarlet ſtring, or thred, Cant.4.3. for that which is rendred, a ſcarlet thred, Gen.38.28. and Joſh. 2. 18. ſeems to have a far other notion; ſomewhat the ſame with that, Prov. 31.21. The ſame thing, in effect, is this with the former; for he ſtretcheth a line over it, therewith to mark it, where, and how far, to cut of it.

he fitteth it with planes] Heb. he maketh it with planes, or, to work it with planes; that being the end of his marking the timber, to direct him, and ſhew what is to be taken away of it, the word cometh from a root, that ſignifies to ſcrape, or pare away, Levit.14.41. the verb found in that notion there; and the noun in this, only here: and it is uſed here, in the plural number; becauſe they uſed two ſorts of planes, a bigger, and ſtronger, to fetch off the rougher and more rugged matter firſt; and a leſs, or finer afterward, to ſmooth and poliſh the more exactly the remainder.

and he marketh it out with the compaſſe] The word comes from a verb uſed, Job 26.10. the verb there only, and the noun here.

and maketh it after the figure of a man, according to the beauty of a man,] Or, to make it after the model (for the word is properly, of buildings, Exod.25.40. 1 Chr.28.12.) of a man, according to the comelineſſe, (comely proportion) or, goodlineſs of a man; with ſuch outward limbs and lineaments, as a man hath, Pſal.115.5-7. & 135.16,17. or, according to the excellency of a man, as ſome; referring it to that which followeth. Of the word, ſee on Chap.4.2. But I conceive it, rather, to be here taken the other way; becauſe it is the word Adam, that is here uſed; which uſually goeth for an ordinary man. See on Chap.2.29. Howſoever, that is the end of uſing the compaſs about his idol; as the planes before, to ſmooth and poliſh, ſo this, to give it its due proportions and lineaments.

that it may remain in the houſe] Heb. to ſit, or dwell, or ſtay, or abide, in the houſe; for all theſe, the word of ſitting, importeth, in Scripture, Deut.9.9. 2 Sam.7.18. Pſal.23.6. chap. 13.20. to dwell in ſome Temple, as ſome King in his Palace, or ſome great man in his houſe, Dan.1.2. or to ſtay and abide in ſome houſe, either publike, or private, Deut.27. 15. Judg. 17.5. becauſe it is not able to ſtir out, Chap.41.7. Jer.10.4,5.

V. 14. He heweth him down Cedars, and taketh the cypreſs and the oak] Such trees as afford timber of longeſt continuance. See Chap.40.10. Heb. to hew down, as Deut.19.5. 1 Kings 5.6. which may well be retained, and the text thus read, He taketh courage alſo to himſelf, among the trees of the foreſt, or, he uſeth his ſtrength upon the trees of the wood, to hew him down cedars, and to take the cypreſs, or the oak; or, to wave all the trajections, and take the words, as they lye in the text, In hewing he heweth him down, (as Jer.3.1.) that is, He is buſie in hewing him down (ſee on Chap. 59. 13.) cedars; he taketh alſo the cypreſſe and the oak, or, the cypreſſe, or the oak: Or, as a learned late Writer, Cedars are to be cut down by him. See on Chap. 45.1.

cypreſſe] The name of this tree is no where elſe found; and our Jewiſh Maſters ſay little of it, but that it is the name of a fruitleſs tree. Some of ours would have it, to be a pine: ſo the Greek ſeems to render either this, or that, in the laſt clauſe mentioned. Some, a kind of oak, that which is uſually called the holm; ſo the old Latine. Some, a kind of cedar; becauſe the name of the cedar, and this, differ but in one, and that a ſervile letter: it may well be the cypreſſe, partly, becauſe ſome remarkable places of pleaſure ſeem to have had their name of Thirſah, from it, as being planted with pleaſant groves of it, 1 King.16.9. Cant.6.4. now the cypreſſe is a very graceful tree; and the timber of it, both for the beauty, and the dureableneſs of it, much uſed, in times paſt, for images. See on Chap.40.20. Howbeit, ſome are of the mind, that Gopher, which Noah built the Ark with, Gen. 6.14. to be the Cypres tree; and the names come very neer; and this then ſome other. See Bochart in his Phaleg, l.1. c.4.

and the oak] Or, or the oak: as ver.10. of the tree, ſee on Chap.2.13. & 6.13.

which he ſtrengtheneth for himſelf among the trees of the foreſt] So reading the words, the copulative is put for the relative; as ver.7. But the trees of the foreſt are not of any mans planting; nor is mans care uſually employed about them, to further their growth. See Pſal.104.16. Beſides that thoſe trees, as they are of long continuance, ſo of ſlow growth, beyond a mans ordinary age, ere they come to be fit for timber. I ſuppoſe, therefore, the marginal reading to be the better; and he taketh courage to himſelf, or, he employeth his ſtrength among, or, upon, the trees of the foreſt; or, if we admit the former change, that would be more probable that ſome other have, which hath lift up it ſelf, or, ſtrengthened it ſelf, among the trees of the wood. See of Aſhur, Ezek.31.5.

he planteth an aſh] Either he ſeeketh out ſome fair tree in the foreſt, or taketh ſome one of his own planting, (the original whereof, therefore, he cannot but well know,) that is now, what by his own induſtry about it, and what by the rain from above, Deut.11.10,11. grown to ſome bulk, that may well afford matter for ſuch a purpoſe.

aſh] The name of this tree, likewiſe, is no where elſe found in Scripture; and the Jewiſh Maſters leave us here, alſo, at a loſs: telling us only, that it is a good timber tree. The old Latine, and ſo it may be the Greek alſo, render it, a pine. But many, in regard of the identity of the name, conceive it to be a kind of aſh, that hath leaves broader then the ordinary, by the Latines called ornus, which cometh full home to the Hebrew; though I ſuppoſe that conſonancy between the two words, oren, and ornus, to be but caſual; and that this latter came rather from the Greek ὀρεινὸς; and was by the Latines ſo termed, becauſe it thrived beſt on hills: as Pliny reporteth of it, l.16. c.18. it ſeemeth, that cheſts, or arks, were uſually made of it; for the names of, either, this, and that of a cheſt, or ark, in Hebrew, are of the ſame ſtock, differ not much, Oren, and Aron.

and the rain doth nouriſh it] Or, which when the rain hath brought up. Heb. made big, or great; as Chap.1.3. Ezek.31. 4. of the Syntax, ſee Chap.37.9,36.

V. 15. Then ſhall it be for a man to burn:] Heb. And: as Chap.30.20. and 35.4. & 40.18. when it is thus grown up, it ſerveth any one for fuel: a man, for, any one: as ver.11.

for he will take thereof, and warm himſelf] Heb. and he will take (as ver.14.) Or, yea, he will take (as Chap.29.23.) Or, even he himſelf will take (as Chap.40.30.) of them, (of any of thoſe trees before-mentioned, or of the chips that he heweth off) and be warm; that is, that he may be warm; as Chap. 53. 2. or, wherewith to warm himſelf; as Job 30. 4. Chap. 47. 14. he himſelf maketh fuel of part of that, whereof, afterward, he maketh him a god, ver. 17.

yea, he kindleth it, and baketh bread] Or, he kindleth it, alſo, to bake bread; he maketh uſe of it, as well for the oven, as for the chimney: the ſame ſyntax, as before, and Joſh. 24. 9: a defect of the pronoun, it; as ver. 8, 13.

yea, he maketh a god, and worſhippeth it; he maketh it a graven image, and falleth down thereto] Or, he maketh alſo (as 2 King. 2. 13.) or, yet (as Chap. 44. 10.) he maketh of it a god, to bow himſelf down to; (as Exod. 20. 5.) he maketh it a graven (or, carved, as Chap. 40. 20.) image, to fall down to: the Prophet uſeth of purpoſe, as ſome think, a Chaldee term, both here, and again, ver. 17, 19. and chap. 46. 6. It is found eleven times, in the Syriack of Daniel, Chap. 3.

V. 16. He burneth part thereof in the fire; with part thereof he eateth fleſh: he roaſteth roaſt, and is ſatisfied; yea, he warmeth himſelf, and ſaith, I am warm, I have ſeen the fire] See ver. 15, 19.

part] Heb. half; as Zach. 14. 4. and ſo both the ancient Greek and Latine, and our former Engliſh: which needed not have bin altered: the one half of the timber lightly goeth away, in hewing, ſquaring, planing, faſhioning, and the like.

with part thereof he eateth] Or, as ſome, on part thereof he eateth; having made him a table, or trenchers of it: but the Prophet ſeems, throughout this whole paſſage, to intend fuel only. I read the words, therefore, partly, as in the text; and, partly, as before; with half thereof he eateth fleſh: that is, he dreſſeth fleſh, or meat, to eat. See the like comprehenſive forms of ſpeech, Ch. 38. 17, 21, to which add, becauſe it comes neer to this, that, Prov. 12. 27. the ſlack, or, the deceitfull man ſhall not roaſt his veniſon: that is, he ſhall not roaſt and eat it: ſee ver. 19. not, that he ſpendeth one half of his materials, in roaſting, or dreſſing him, a joynt of meat only; But that which he had before, in the firſt branch, laid down in general, of burning the one half, that he now repeateth after his wonted manner, illuſtrated by a more particular enumeration of the ſeveral employments, whereabout, for fewel, he maketh uſe thereof, to wit, for dreſſing of his meat, his roaſt, eſpecially, and for the warming of himſelf. See ver. 19.

he roaſteth roaſt, and is ſatisfied] Or, with half of it (I ſay) he eateth fleſh, having roaſted roaſt, to his fill. So Pſalm 22. 26. The meek ſhall eat, and be ſatisfied; that is, ſhall eat to their fill.

yea, he warmeth himſelf] Or, he warmeth himſelf alſo, as ver. 15. Heb. he is warm: but thoſe neuters, and paſſives, have oft a reciprocal ſenſe, as this before. See on ver. 15. and the word himſelf, therefore, need not be in a different character, being included in the verb. See Chap. 45. 8.

and ſaith, aha] An interjection, intimating joy and comfort, Pſal. 35. 25, 26. & 70. 3.

I have ſeen the fire] I have been at a good fire; I have felt the fire; to ſee, for to feel; as Pſal. 34. 8. and ſo for, to enjoy, as Pſalm 34. 12. and to ſuffer, or endure: as Pſalm 89. ver. 48.

V. 17. And the reſidue thereof he maketh a god, even his graven image] Of the one half of that ſtuff which he burnt of before, ver. 15, 16.

he falleth down unto it, and worſhippeth it] Or, he falleth down (before it) and boweth to it, ver. 15. to his own workmanſhip, Chap. 2. 8.

and prayeth unto it, and ſaith; Deliver me, for thou art my god.] See Jer. 2. 27, 28. Hoſ. 14. 3.

Deliver me] He ſeeketh for ſafety to them that are not able to ſave, either him, or themſelves. See Chap. 46. verſ. 1, 7.

V. 18. They have not known, nor underſtood] Or, They have no knowledge nor underſtanding: they neither know, nor underſtand ought, as Pſal. 14. 4. Chap. 27. 11. See ver. 19, 20. Chap. 45. 20. Jer. 10. 8, 4.

for he hath ſhut their eyes, that they cannot ſee; and their hearts, that they cannot underſtand] Heb. he hath dawbed (as Ezek. 13. 10, 13.) their eyes from ſeeing, their hearts from underſtanding. Of which form, ſee on Chap. 5. 6. & 23. 1. He, that is, the Idol, ſay ſome; God, in juſt judgment, ſay others; Chap. 6. 9, 10. But more ſimply, the verb being taken indefinitely, Their eyes are dawbed up, or ſhut. See the like, Gen. 41. 13. 2 Sam. 24. 1. Luk. 6. 38. & 10. 20.

V. 19. And none conſidereth in his heart] Or, So that (as Pſal. 78. 5. Jer. 14. 19. none conſidereth in his heart. Heb. ſetteth it on, or returneth, or reduceth it to his heart, as Chap. 46. 8.

neither is there Knowledge, nor Underſtanding] See verſ. 18.

to ſay] To reaſon and debate the matter, thus, with themſelves.

I have burnt part of it in the fire; yea, alſo, I have baked bread upon the coals thereof; I have roaſted fleſh, and eaten it.] See ver. 15, 16.

baked bread] That is, baked dough, to make bread of it, or to make it bread. So Levit. 26. 26. as, grind meal, for grind grain, or corn, whereof to make meal; or, that by grinding, may produce meal, Chap. 47. 2.

part] Heb. half; as ver. 16.

roaſted] Or, I have roaſted fleſh therewith, and eaten thereof. See ver. 16. the like defects are, Chap. 27. 9. & 30. 27.

and ſhall I make the reſidue thereof an abomination?] A moſt abominable thing: ſo Deut. 27. 15. Chap. 41. 24.

ſhall I fall down to the ſtock of a tree?] And that one of mine own planting too? ver. 14. Heb. to that which cometh of a tree? as Job 40. 20. See ver. 15. Jer. 2. 27. Hoſ. 4. 12.

V. 20. He feedeth on aſhes] He is groſly deluded, like one that would feed on aſhes, to ſlake his hunger; or his idoll feeds and entertains him with nothing but aſhes, matter of ſorrow and mourning, Pſal. 16. 4. as Pſal. 102. 9. or, he feedeth himſelf with fooliſh hopes of benefit, from a thing of no worth, no better then aſhes; from a piece of wood, that may eaſily be turned to aſhes, Chap. 37. 19. See ſomewhat the like, Hoſ. 12. 1. aſhes is here, what wind there. Howſoever, there ſeems an alluſion to the aſhes, that the one moity of his ſtuff made, ſhewing of what worth the other half was, whereof his god was made.

a deceived heart hath turned him aſide] Or, a deluded heart, (as Judg. 16. 10, 13. Job 17. 3.) hath ſeduced him. See Hoſ. 4. 12. & 7. 11. 2 Theſ. 2. 11.

that he cannot deliver his ſoul] Heb. and he will not, or ſhall not deliver his ſoul; and, for ſo that: as ver. 19. the verb taken potentially; as ver. 7. his ſoul, for himſelf: as Pſal. 3. 2. he is not able to wind himſelf out of this fooliſh errour, and ſuperſtitious conceit, he is ſo bewitched and beſotted with it, Rom. 1. 21-25, 28.

and ſay] Think within himſelf: as Pſal. 14. 1. & 39. 1.

Is there not a lie in my right hand?] Is not this mine Idoll, which I hold in mine hand, a bare figment, a meer fancy and falſhood? Do not I ſee it, and feel it, and find it to be ſuch? See Jer. 10. 8. Rom. 1. 25.

V. 21. Remember theſe (O Jacob and Iſrael) for thou art my ſervant.] An admonition to Gods people, adviſing them to conſider, ſeriouſly, the ſottiſhneſſe of thoſe perſons beforementioned, and to learn wiſdome, by their folly; that which they are the rather engaged to do, and ſhunning, carefully, ſuch vanities and abominations, to keep cloſe to the true God, becauſe he hath taken them in ſpecial to himſelf, and hath dealt very freely and bountifully with them, above others, as well in ſetling their eſtate, and his Church among them, as in paſſing by, and pardoning their manifold defections, and reſtoring them, after a long and tedious captivity, unto their former ſtate again. The words, in the tranſlation, are not ſo diſtinguiſhed, as they are in the text: they lye there thus; Remember theſe, O Jacob, and Iſrael; for thou art my ſervant.

theſe] Either things, or perſons, or both; for the term is common to either. See Chap. 45. 7. & 60. 8.

Jacob, and Iſrael] The ſame, as before, ver. 1, 23. Pſal. 14. 7.

thou art my ſervant] Chap. 41. 8.

I have formed thee, thou art my ſervant, O Iſrael; thou ſhalt not be forgotten of me] The words ſhould, rather, according to the ſtops and points in the Hebrew, be thus diſtinguiſhed; I have formed thee; thou art a ſervant to me, O Iſrael, thou ſhalt not be forgotten of me. Of the former branch, ſee Chap. 43. 1. ver. 1, 2. Of the latter, Chap. 48. 15.

thou ſhalt not be forgotten of me] Or, thou art not, or, canſt not be forgotten by me. I neither do, nor can, forget thee, though, for a time, I may ſeem ſo to do, Chap. 49. 14, 15.

V. 22. I have blotted out, as a thick cloud, thy tranſgreſſions; and, as a cloud, thy ſins] Or, I blot out: as Chap. 43. 25. As the Sun, when it breaketh forth, diſpelleth the miſts and clouds with his bright beams, Job 37. 11. Pſal. 18. 12. Or, as the wind diſperſeth them, be they never ſo thick, Pſal. 68. 2. Prov. 25. 23. or, as a cloud, or vapour, vaniſheth and appeareth no more, then if it never had been, Job 7. 9. & 30. 15. Hoſ. 6. 4. & 13. 3. Jam. 4. 14. ſo do I put away thy ſins, that riſe up as a cloud between thee and me, Chap. 59. 2. hindring the light of my countenance from ſhining forth upon thee, Chap. 57. 17. and thy prayers from finding acceſſe unto me, and acceptance with me, Lam. 3. 44. Chap. 1. 15. Howbeit, Some render the words another way, on this manner; I wipe away, as with a thick cloud, thy tranſgreſſions, and as with a cloud, thy ſins: the prepoſition being omitted, as Chap. 34. 15. & 35. 4. & 42. 21. So the ſenſe ſhould be; I waſh away thy ſins and thy pollutions, c. 4. 4. as the clouds, by pouring down ſhowrs of rain, Eccl. 12. 3. do waſh away the filth and ſlime of the earth, Ezek. 22. 24. and ſo it might have ſome reference to the general deluge. Of which, the word is uſed, Gen. 6. 7. & 7. 4. But the former ſeems the fitter, return unto me; for I have redeemed thee] And have therefore beſt right unto thee: ſo Pſal.31.5. 1 Cor.6.19,20. See Chap.43.1,3,4. They ſeem to ſtrain the text,needleſly, that render it,return unto me,that I may redeem thee; as Chap.45.22. But the ſyntax is not the ſame.

V. 23. Sing O ye heavens, for the Lord hath done it: ſhout ye lower parts of the earth; break forth into ſinging, ye mountains,O foreſt,and every tree therein: for the Lord hath redeemed Jacob, and glorified himſelf in Iſrael.] As the whole World, Heaven and Earth, and all the creatures in either, are invited to rejoyce,upon the ruine and deſtruction of Babel,Chap.14.7,8. Rev.18.20.ſo are they likewiſe here incited all to the like,upon the redemption and deliverance of Gods people, enſuing thereupon, Chap.14.1.& 35.1.& 42.10,11.& 45.8. & 49.13. & 52.9. See the like rhetorical expreſſions, Pſal. 96.11. & 98.7,8. All implying ſuch abundant matter of joy,as might well affect the whole creation, were it all ſenſible of it. See ſomewhat the like in another kind,Rom.8.21,22.

lower parts of the earth] Heb. low; a defect of the ſubject, for low parts,or places; as Pſal.63.9.& 139.15. or, lower; as Eph.4.9. that is,the earth below; oppoſed to the heavens,before,as there;or here, the valleys oppoſed to the mountains,in the words enſuing. See Chap.24.15.

the Lord hath done it] A defect of the pronoun; as Mal.3.17. Or, the Lord hath been working. See Chapter, 48. ver.11.

glorifie himſelf] As well in the deſtruction of his enemies, as in the deliverance of his people,Chap.49.3. & 60.21.& 61.3. Heb.ſhew himſelf gallant: for the word properly importeth bravery,or,gallantry,Chap.3.18.

V. 24. Thus ſaith the Lord thy redeemer.] Chapter, 43. ver.14.

and he that formed thee from the womb] See ver.2.

I am the Lord that maketh all things] Or, that made all things,as before,that formed thee, Gen.1.1. & 2.1. Joh.1.3. Heb.3.4.

that ſtretcheth out the heavens alone] Or, ſtretched out; ſee Chap.42.5.Jer.10.12.

alone] Without help of any; as in the next branch.

that ſpreadeth abroad the earth by my ſelf] Or,ſpread. See Chap.42.5.

V. 25. That fruſtrateth the tokens of the liars, and maketh diviners mad] Or,That fruſtrate, and make mad; make them at their wits end,by croſſing them in their predictions:thoſe, eſpecially, whereby they promiſed long continuance to the Babylonian Monarchy. See of theſe. Chap. 47. ver. 12,—14.

liars] The word ſignifies,firſt,lies, Chap.16.7. Jer.48.30. then lyers; that is, men of lyes; as wine, for a man of wine; that is,given to wine, a drunkard, Prov. 20.1. it is given to wizzards,here, and Jer.50.36. and it ſeems to come from a word that ſignifies,to invent,or deviſe,1 King.12.33. or, feign, Neh.6.8.

that turneth wiſe men backward] Or, turn: by confounding them in their councels and courſes, in their plots and projects,Job 5.12-14.& 12.12,13,16,17. Pſal.2.1-4. & 33.10,11.& 37.12-15. Chap.19.3,11,13,14.

and maketh their knowledge fooliſh] Or, make, as before, 2 Sam.15.31.Chap.29.14. 1 Cor.1.20.& 3.19.

V. 26. That confirmeth the word of his ſervant,and performeth the councel of his meſſengers] Or, Confirm the word of my ſervant,and perform the councel of my meſſengers. For the perſons do oft interchange. See Chap.1.29. of Eſay, and other of his Prophets; as Jeremy,Ezekiel, and the reſt, that foretold the downfal of Babylon, and the deliverance of Gods people.

that ſaith to Jeruſalem, Thou ſhalt be inhabited; and to the cities of Judah, ye ſhall be built; and I will raiſe up the decayed places thereof:] Or,That ſay; that give my people, by my Prophets,aſſurance of theſe things, to be undoubtedly effected. For what God ſaith ſhall be, ſhall undoubtedly come to paſſe: Much more what he ſaith himſelf will do, whoſe Word is his Will,and his Will his Work. What he will have done,no power or policy of man,can prevent,avert, or avoid. He can fruſtrate all their deſigns;none can defeat his, Pſalm 33.11,12.& 115.3.& 135.6, cities of Judah] Pſal.69.35.

decayed places] Heb. waſtes; as Neh.1.5,8.& 2.1,2.

V. 27. That ſaith to the deep,Be dry; and I will dry up thy rivers:] Or, That ſay; and ſo ver. 28. who with a word of my mouth,can dry up the Sea,and his ſtreams. He ſeems to have an eye to what he did at the red-ſea; as Chap. 43.16. & 51.10,11.and, withall, to allude unto Cyrus his draining of Euphrates,at the taking of Babylon, Jer.50.38. & 51. 32,36. See Rev.16.12.

Be dry] A word of authority and ability conjoyned, producing,irreſiſtibly and inſtantly, an effect anſwerable to either. See the like of our Saviour,Mar.4.39. to the Sea likewiſe,Be ſtill. The argument ſeems to run thus, for the confirmation of Gods people. He that can with a word only lay the deep dry,Pſal.106.9. can as eaſily ſet his people free, and remove all obſtructions that may hinder them,either in their way homeward; or their ſetling there. See Chap. 40. 3,4. Zach.4.6,7.

V. 28. That ſaith of Cyrus, He is my Shepherd] Or, That ſay to Cyrus, (for the particle is the very ſame that was before) Thou art my ſhepherd: for in the text,there is no more, then,my ſhepherd. See the like conciſe form of ſpeech, Chap. 41.26.& 43.9.

Cyrus] To aſſure them of deliverance, he nameth the party by whom it ſhould be effected, about two hundred years before he was born. See Chap.13.22. and the like, 1 King. 13.2. This name he had from a Perſian word, in that language ſaid to ſignifie the Sun; which they honoured as a God; and ſome ſuppoſe that this word Cores, or Cyrus, was derived from the Hebrew Cheres, or Chares; that is uſed ſometime for the Sun. See on Chap.16.11. and Jer. 19,2. it being not unuſual with the Perſians and Arabians, as ſome learned affirm,to turn the Hebrew Chet into Caph. That the Sun is by the Perſians ſo called, Plutarch, in the life of Artaxerxes, from Cteſias,and upon his credit, relateth. But Joſeph Scaliger,in his emendation of times,l.6. ſuppoſeth,that Cteſias, being a Greek, was miſtaken, by the ſimilitude of ſound, between Corſhed, which, in Perſick, ſignifies the Sun; and Coreſh,which,in that language,ſaith he,ſignifies food. Yet from the neerneſs of theſe two, ſome other learned ſeek to confirm the truth of the former. Howbeit,it may not unjuſtly be queſtioned,whether either of thoſe words, Coreſh, or Corſhed,had ſuch uſe, or ſignification,in thoſe ancient times, that in the vulgar Perſian, they have at this day; any more, then the word Aphtab, which now, alſo, they are ſaid to uſe for the Sun. One main cauſe of my doubt is, becauſe the Sun was among the ancient Perſians, commonly known, called, adored, and atteſted, by the name of Mithra; or, as the Greeks are wont to pronounce it, Mithras, and Mithres; which appeareth by records undeniable, out of Strabo, l.15. Plutarch,in the life of Alexander,and of Artaxerxes,his diſcourſe of Iſis, & Oſiris, and oft elſe-where. Hence the Mithriaca, or feaſts and rites, held and performed in honour of the Sun; and the name Mithridata, or Mithridates, common among them, Ezr.1.8. & 4.7. whereas of either of thoſe two, or of any of thoſe three names above-mentioned, I find no ſuch ancient and authentick record produced. If it be ſaid, that the Sun might have more names then one, or two, either among them, in thoſe times, as in the Hebrew text of Scripture it hath; that is true indeed; but ſome ſolid proof muſt be brought for particulars; whereby it may appear, that theſe were then names thereof with them. But ſee further, on Chap.45.4.

Shepherd] Heb.Paſtor,or Feeder; a title given uſually to Rulers and Governours, both in Church and State, Chap. 56.11.& 63.11.Jer.2.8.& 23.1-4.Eph.4.11. that which may admoniſh them of their office and duty; not to rule, only, as the word ſometime ſignifieth,Pſal.78.71,72. Mic.1.14. but to feed, alſo, Chap.40.11. Jer.3.15, & 23.14. Ezek.34.2,23. 1 Pet.5.2. And if the word Coreſh, did in the Perſick tongue, anciently,ſignifie food,the name of Cyrus,might have a notion of feeding in it, anſwerable to that title that is here given him in the Hebrew.

my ſhepherd] Not as David, of God,Pſal.23.1.but as God, of Chriſt.Zach.13.7.

and ſhall perform all my pleaſure] Both concerning Babylon,Chap.48.14.and concerning Jeruſalem, and his Temple there,in the next words. God will do all his pleaſure himſelf,Chap.46.10.but not in theſe particulars,by himſelf, as he ſpread the earth,ver.24.but by Cyrus, Chap.13,3,17. & 45.13.& 46.11.Jer.51.20-24.

even ſaying to Jeruſalem] Heb. and ſaying; or, and that ſaying,ſay: that ſay confidently,giving good aſſurance of what I ſay.See the like before,ver.14.& Jer.3.1.

Thou ſhalt be built] Chap.46.13.2 Chron. 36.22,23. Ezr.1. 1-3. and to the Temple, Thy foundation ſhall be laid] Ezr. 3. 10,11.

CHAP. XLV.

Verſ.1. T*Hus ſaith the Lord*] This Chapter is alſo of the ſame ſubject with the former, and may not,without good probability, ſeem to be part of that prolix Sermon,or Prophecy,that began with the fourtieth Chapter, and endeth with this; apparent it is,that this Chapter beginneth, where that next before ended,Chap.44.28.

to his annointed,to Cyrus] Among the people of God, two ſorts of perſons were annointed Kings, 1 Sam.10.1. & 16. 13.

2 Sam. 2.4. 1 King. 1.39. 2 King. 9.6. & 23.30. Pſal. 89. 20. and Prieſts, Lev. 8.12. & 16.32. Num. 3.3. & 35.25. Pſal. 133.2. as for the annointing of Prophets, with material oyl, there is no record extant in Scripture. Elias is willed to annoint Eliſeus, Prophet in his ſtead, to ſucceed him; but that he put in execution, only, by caſting his mantle on him, 1 King. 19.16, 19. So that there to annoint, as it concerned Eliſeus, yea, and Hazael too, for ought we finde in the Story, and comparing 1 King. 19.15. with 2 King. 8.13. ſignifieth no more then to aſſign, or deſign one to ſome ſpecial office or function, though no drop of material oyl be ſhed on him to that purpoſe: ſo is Abſolom ſaid to have bin annointed, by the people, for their King, 2 Sam. 19.10. though we read not, that that Ceremony was uſed about him; and Chriſt is ſaid to have bin annointed, though not with any ſuch material, Chap. 61.1. and ſo Cyrus, here, though no ſuch cuſtome of oyling Kings were in his Country. But he is called Gods Annointed; becauſe he was, as certainly, as ſufficiently, and as efficaciouſly deſigned by God, and enabled unto the execution of thoſe offices that God had appointed to be done by him, as if he had, at Gods command, in the ſolemneſt manner, been annointed by the hand of the higheſt Prieſt, or holyeſt Prophet. For thoſe Jewiſh Maſters are wide and wild here, (whom yet ſome Chriſtian Writers ſeem fondly to abet) by his annointed, underſtanding not Cyrus, but the Lords Meſſias, or, the Lord Meſſias, peculiarly ſo termed, Chriſt; as if the meaning were, Thus ſaith the Lord, to his Meſſias, concerning Cyrus. But the text is plain, to his Meſſias, or, to his annointed, to Cyrus, as to his Meſſias, or, to his annointed, to David, Pſal. 18. 50. there is an emphaſis in it; here eſpecially: to him, whom I now name, ſo long before he is in beeing. See Chap. 44. 28. and verſ. 4.

whoſe right hand I have holden] Or, ſtrengthened; or, I do, or will hold, or, ſtrengthen; for the word ſignifieth, ſometime, to hold, Chap. 41.6, 13. & 42.6. ſometime, to ſtrengthen, 2 King. 15.19. Dan. 11.1. But the particle, here uſed, carryeth it rather to the former; as Chap. 64.7. Yet ſo, as the latter is alſo implyed; as if it were ſaid, whom I by holding his right hand ſtrengthen, or enable, to ſubdue nations. Of ſuch conciſe and comprehenſive manner of ſpeech, ſee on Chap. 38. 17, 21. Of the metaphor, Pſalm 73. 22. and 89. 21. Chap. 41. ver. 10.

to ſubdue nations before him] Or, as a late learned Writer, nations are to be overthrown, or laid long before him: that, ſaith he, is the frequent uſe of the particle here uſed, as Chap. 44. 14. But the received verſion may well ſtand. Nations, that is, the Babylonians, and others, that either lay in his way thither, or were aſſiſtant unto them, Jer. 50.21. & 51.9. So Pſal. 144.2. & Chap. 41.2. where the ſame word is uſed.

and I will looſe the loins of Kings] Or, and that I may looſe the loins of Kings, or, when I ſhall have looſed the loins of Kings, or, of their Kings. See the like uſe of the copulative, Pſal. 99.8. chap. 8.21. & 33.1. & 43.12. Neh. 2.13. Job 11.3. and the defect of the pronoun poſſeſſive; chap. 40. 31. & 43. 14. & 49. 22. Heb. open them; as if their joynts opened, and ſo were looſened one from another. Either by ſtriking with the ſword, thorow the loins, where wounds are deadly, Deut. 33.11. and where the ſeat of ſtrength is, Job 40. 16. Nah. 2. 1. or, by ſmiting them with terrour, and with pains and anguiſh, thence proceeding, Ezek. 21.6. Dan. 5.6. ch. 21.3. or, as ſome of the Jewiſh Commenters, by looſing the girdle from their loins, the emblem of ſtrength and authority, Job 12.18. Chap. 11.5. & 22.21. & 23.10. See ver. 5.

to open unto him the two-leaved gates] Or, that doors, ſuch as great mens houſes and Palaces are wont to have, Deut. 3. 5. Ezek. 41.24. Mal. 1.10. See Chap. 13.2. may be opened to him, or, doores are to be opened to him, as before, nations to be ſubdued.

and the gates ſhall not be ſhut.] Or, that the gates may not ſtand ſhut. The gates of great towns and cities: for of them is the word moſt commonly uſed, Joſh. 2.5. 2 King. 7. 1, 3, 10. put oft times alſo, therefore, for the city it ſelf, Exod. 20. 10. Deut. 16.11. & 28.52. no gates, or bars, ſhall be able to keep him out: all ſhall fly open before him; as Act. 12. 10. See ver. 20. The whole paſſage may thus be rendred. Whom holding by the right hand, I will enable to ſubdue Nations before him, when I have looſed the loins of Kings; and to open the two-leaved doors unto him, ſo that no gates ſhall ſhut. Or, Whom I hold by my right hand, to ſubdue nations before him, whoſe Kings loins I have looſed; the copulative for the relative; as Chap. 4.6. & 17.2. and to open the two-leaved doors unto him, ſo that no gates ſhall ſtand ſhut. Of this uſe of the copulative, ſee Chap. 44.20. Be ſhut, for ſtand ſhut; as, be open, for ſtand open; chap. 60.11. and be built, for, ſtand built, Dan. 9. 25.

V. 2. I will go before thee, and make the crooked places ſtraight] or, uneaven ways, eaven; the word rendred crooked is no where elſe found, and ambiguous, therefore: the root it ſhould come from, hath a notion of goodlineſſe, and gloriouſneſſe: nor want there thoſe, who not improbably conjecture, that it ſignifieth hilly places: two letters, reſh and daleth, being in ſhape ſo neer the one to the other, that they may eaſily be taken, and ſo are, ſometime, the one for the other; as Diphath, and Rodanim, for Riphath, and Dodanim, 1 Chr. 1.6, 7. with Gen. 10.3, 4. See alſo, Chap. 40.15. Jer. 2.20. & 31.40. So the ſenſe ſhould be, I will lay the hilly places level: for the verb doth manifeſtly ſignifie, to level, or make plain and eaven, chap. 28.25. I will go before thee to conduct thee (as Exod. 13.21. chap. 58.8.) and to cleer all thy paſſages for thee. See chap. 40.4. & 42.16. ver. 13.

I will break in pieces the gates of braſſe, and cut in ſunder the bars of iron.] No ſtrength ſhall be able to withſtand thee, or keep thee out, Pſal. 107.16. & 147.13. Prov. 18. 19.

V. 3. And I will give thee the treaſures of darkneſſe, and hidden riches of ſecret places:] The rich treaſures, as of other Kingdoms, ſo of Babylon, eſpecially, Jer. 50.37. & 51.13. that have a long time been laid up, and lien out of ſight; but thou ſhalt now ſeize on, and receive as a reward for thy work done, for me and my people. See the like of Nebuchadnezzar, Ezek. 29.18-20.

that thou maiſt know, that I the Lord, who call thee by thy name, am the God of Iſrael] Or, that it is I the Lord, who call thee by name, even the God of Iſrael. Heb. I have called thee by thy name. See before, on chap. 44.28. and ver. 4. See alſo before, Chap. 43.1.

V. 4. For Jacob my ſervants ſake, and Iſrael mine Elect] See on Chap. 41.8. it is out of Gods love to his Elect, that he doth all this, Chap. 14.1. & 43.4, 14.

I have even called thee by thy name: I have ſirnamed thee, though thou haſt not known me] That is, I have taken ſpeciall notice of thee, ſay ſome, as Exod. 34.12, 17. Chap. 43.1. Joh. 10.3. but it ſeems to intimate withal, a ſpecial denomination of him; becauſe it is here more fully, then before, ver. 3. I have called thee, or, call to thee, by thy name, Exod. 31.2. and becauſe there is mention of a name, and, a ſirname; ſome refer it unto that, which, of Cyrus, ſay they, is reported by Herodote, l. 1. and by Juſtine after him, that being caſt out by his Grandfathers command, he was found ſucking a bitch, and was thereupon called Spaco, which in the Perſick tongue, ſignifieth a dog; but after, coming to years, and to place of command, withal, was then called Cyrus, a name, that hath a notion of power and authority in it, as they ſuppoſe may appear, by the Greek Κῦρος, that ſignifieth authority; thence derived, and from it, Κύριος, a Lord; ſo that his firſt name ſhould be Spaco, and his ſirname, Cyrus, before-mentioned, in the laſt of the foregoing Chapter, and the firſt of this. But of theſe fables, rather then ſtories, antiquity yeeldeth us not a few; as of Telephus, nurſed by an Hinde, or a Doe; Romulus, and Remus, by a female Woolf, and the like. Howbeit, the truth is, that the Authors produced do not ſo report, as is related; for the former ſaith only, that the herdſman's wife was called Spaco, which in the Median tongue, anſwereth the Greek Cyno; ſo termed, of a word that ſignifieth a dog, or bitch; and that thence aroſe the idle figment, of his being ſuckled by a bitch, becauſe he had been nurſed by her; as from Romulus, and Remus his nurſe, called Lyca, or Lupa, the like report was raiſed: and the latter, though he tell the tale, as a truth, yet he affirmeth the name Cyrus, to have been given him, while he lived in the herdſmans houſe: nor indeed is it ſo certain, what the name Cyrus importeth; and much leſs, that thoſe Greek terms had their original from the Perſees: nor ſeems it ſo ſafe, to build expoſitions of Scripture, on ſuch ſandy ground: nor, laſtly, doth the word here uſed, ſignifie that which we uſually call a ſirname. The word ſignifieth, properly, to enſtile, or entitle one, to give him ſome eminent, or honourable, title: ſo Elihu telleth Job, that he could not, nor durſt give titles, as, in way of flattery, men uſe to do, Job 32.21, 22. & Chap. 44.5. it is ſaid, one ſhall entitle himſelf by the name of Iſrael; call himſelf one of thoſe that belongeth to Iſrael: as our Saviour calleth Nathaneel, a true Iſraelite, Joh. 1.47. and two of his Apoſtles, James and John, the ſons of thunder, Mar. 3.17. the word therefore, here, hath no reference to the term Cyrus; (for that was his proper, and peculiar name,) but to thoſe other high, and honourable titles, that God here giveth him; and would rather be rendred, I have entituled, or ſtyled, thee; or, I have given thee an honourable ſtile, or title; to wit, in calling thee Cyrus my ſhepherd, Chap. 44.28. and, Cyrus, mine anointed; for that is the ſtyle, and thoſe the titles, that God here faſteneth upon him. The words may be rendred, either by connexion with the former verſe, That thou maiſt know, that it is I the Lord, that call thee by name, the God of Iſrael, for Jacob my ſervants ſake, and Iſrael mine Elect, (for ſo the verſes, ſometime, break, in the middle of a ſentence: as Pſal. 96.12, 13. & 98.8, 9. Chap. 64.1. Jer. 41.18. & 50.13.) I both call thee by thy name, and give thee honourable titles. So is the copulative oft uſed, Pſal. 76.7. Jer. 17.26. howſoever, the latter part of this verſe; ſeems moſt fitly, either thus rendred, or, I then called thee, &c. —when thou kneweſt not me: as Chap.31.3.& 44.14.

though thou haſt not known me] Heb. and thou kneweſt me not; or, when thou kneweſt me not: as Chap.33.1. & 43.12. before ever thou hadſt any notice at all of me; but waſt, by means thereof, afterward brought thereunto. See Ezr. 1. 1.

V. 5. I am the Lord, and there is none elſe; there is no God beſides me] Chap.43.11. & 44.6,8.

I girded thee with ſtrength, though thou haſt not known me.] I gave thee power and might, (as Pſal. 18.32. Chap. 11.5. a metaphor from perſons girt, who are in that regard, both more active and ſtronger. See on ver.1.) or, I ſtirred thee up, to gird, and get on thine armour, to make warlike preparations, and ſet upon an expedition, (as 1 King.20.11. 1 Sam. 25.13. Pſal.45.3,4.) though thou then little thoughteſt on me, or who it was, that did ſet on work, or that did ſo proſper and ſtrengthen thee, ver.1,2. or, when as yet, thou waſt altogether ignorant of me: as ver.4. See alſo, Chap.13.3-5, 17. & 10.6,7.

V. 6. That they may know from the riſing of the Sun, and from the Weſt, that there is none beſides me; I am the Lord, and there is none elſe.] Or, That it may be known; as Chap.59.19. See Mal.1.11. That by the deliverance of my people, which I will effect by thee, my name, and renown, may paſſe thorow the whole world, and men in all parts, come to the notice of it, by occaſion of thy proclamations concerning it, and thine acknowledgment thereof therein publiſhed, Ezr.1.1,2.

the Weſt] Heb. evening-coaſt: as Pſal. 113. 3. Chap. 43. 5.

I am the Lord] Or, that I am the Lord: as Chap. 41.7. and 43. 17.

V. 7. I form the light, and create darkneſſe] Heb. Framing light, and creating darkneſſe; or, That frame light, and create darkneſſe. That ſend proſperity, and adverſity; the one, at ſome times; the other, at other time: and the one, to ſome; the other, to others, Eſt.4.3. & 8.16,17. Pſal.97.11. & 112.4. Eccleſ.3.1,4. as by the motion of the celeſtial bodies, I make the ayr, either lightſome, or dark, Gen.1.2-5. Pſal. 19.1,2. & 74.16. & 104.20. Jer.31.35. & 33.20. for thereunto he here alludeth.

I make peace, and create evil] Heb. making, or, that make; and create, or, that create peace, that is, proſperous ſucceſſe and ſafety; as Judg.18.6. Chap. 48.18. as to Cyrus and his forces; ſo to his own people by him, and them, Chap.26.3. & 57.18,19. Evils, that is, calamities to the Babylonians, and their complices, chap.47.9,11.

I the Lord do all theſe things] Or, that (as before) I the Lord do, or, that it is, I the Lord, who do all theſe things; as chap.44. 21. See Lam.3.37,38. Amos 3. 6.

V. 8. Drop down ye heavens from above; and let the skies pour down righteouſneſs: let the earth open, and let them bring forth ſalvation; and let righteouſneſs ſpring up together] Theſe words are diverſly expounded. Some underſtand them, as a calling upon heaven and earth, the whole world, to rejoyce, upon the deliverance of Gods people; as chap.44.23. So the ancient Greek, and thoſe that follow it; Though ſome ſuppoſe that this reading came there by a miſtake of the Tranſcriber. Others, of their concurring, and conſpiring together, in carrying on that work, that God was now, by Cyrus, ſetting on foot for the deſtruction of Babylon, and the deliverance of Gods people, according to his judgement, the one, to his faithfulneſſe, the other. See Joſh. 10.13. Judg. 5. 20. 1 Sam.7.10. Pſal.18. 9—14. & 85. 11. Others make it a deſcription of Cyrus his proſperous and plentiful reign, accompanied with juſtice, clemency and bounty: in regard whereof, the Perſians were wont to call Cyrus a father, Cambyſes, his ſon, a Lord, and Darius, his ſucceſſor, a Merchant, or, a Trader: ſo Herodote, lib. 3. And indeed ſomewhat after this manner, is Solomons reign deſcribed, Pſal.72.6,7. Some draw it all to a ſpiritual ſenſe, as a promiſe from God, that holineſs and righteouſneſs, ſhould abound as plentifully among them, after their return from captivity, (the people being thereby refined, and reformed, Chap. 48.10.) as the earth is wont to abound with fruit, when it hath been liberally watered with rain from above, Pſal.65.10-13. & 68.9. For they ſeem to dive over-deep, that finde Chriſt, and the Virgin Mary, here: as many alſo do the like, Pſal.72. 6. & 85. 11. Thoſe ſeem to come neerer to the true ſenſe of the text, who ſuppoſe, therein to be intimated an abundant bleſſing of God upon his people, in their ſtate now again to be reſtored; and that ſet forth in certain metaphorical phraſes, borrowed from thoſe means, whereby lands are wont to become fertile and fruitful, and the benefits of plenty, peace, proſperity and ſafety, that unto people from thence accrew. See the like, Pſal.72.3,6,7,16. & 85.9--12. Chap.35.1,2, 9. Hoſ.2.21--23. Howbeit, I conceive the genuine ſenſe of the place to be this; That Gods mercy and goodneſs, ſhould ſo manifeſtly, and plentifully appear, in the deliverance of his people, and diſpoſing all things for their behoof; as if the heavens rained down whole ſhowers of it upon them, and the earth, having received it, ſhould return a plentiful improvement of it. That which ſeems to be the proper intendment of the like paſſages, in thoſe places, Pſal. 85. 11. and Chap. 61. 1.

Drop down] Not a prayer for a bleſſing, (as ſome would have it) by man: but a command, rather, of a bleſſing from God, Deut.28.8,12. Pſal.78,23. Ezek.34.26. Mal. 3. 10. as a counter-mand on the other ſide, croſſe thereunto, Chap. 5.6.

pour down righteouſneſs] Or, in righteouſneſs; as Pſal.72.3. & Joel 2.23. two parallel places: that is, in a due, juſt, and full meaſure: or, ſhowers of righteouſneſs; as, rain of liberalities, Pſal.68.9. and ſhowers of benediction, Ezek. 34. 26. for large and plentiful rain; or, of righteouſneſs; that is, of mercy, bounty and goodneſſe: for ſo the word is, in Scripture, very frequently uſed, Pſal. 112.3,9. 2 Cor.9.9,10.

let the earth open] Or, open it ſelf; for ſuch verbs, neutrally taken, have oft a reciprocal ſenſe: ſee Chap. 44.16. So to be hard, or, to harden; (as the forme of the verb carries it) for, to harden ones ſelf, Job 9.4. & 39. 16. or, open, by a defective form, for, open its mouth; as it is at full, Gen.4.11. and Num. 16.30,32. But ſo it is alſo, Pſal.106. 17. the earth opened; to wit, her mouth; as, I opened, to wit, the door, Cant. 5. 6. open, to receive, and take in, what cometh down upon it from above, Deut. 11.11.

let them bring forth ſalvation, and let righteouſneſs ſpring up together] That is, ſay ſome, Let the things on earth, bring forth ſalvation. Others, that ſalvation and righteouſnes, may ſpring forth; and it, (to wit, the earth) may produce them together. But I finde not where the former verb is ſo uſed, as may well warrant this verſion. I ſuppoſe the text may not, amiſs, be thus rendred, That (as ver. 1.) they (that is, heaven and earth, as it were between them) may bring forth ſalvation; (that is, deliverance, or ſafety: as Chap.26.1. & 60.18. to my people,) and it (that is, the earth, as Gen.3.18. Deut. 29.23. ſo watered from above,) may cauſe righteouſneſſe to ſprout forth together with it; either Gods goodneſs, or his faithfulneſſe, therein manifeſted, and magnified. See theſe two joyned, Chap.56.1.

I the Lord have created it.] Or, as ſome, God will create it: as Chap.41.20. That God, who hath an abſolute command and power over heaven and earth, hath appointed theſe things to be done; or, is he that will do them: as Pſal. 109.27. But others, rather, (becauſe the pronoun is a maſculine,) I have created him; to wit, Cyrus: I have fitted and furniſhed him with parts and abilities, for this purpoſe, to deliver my people, and to do execution on their enemies, Chap. 44.28. So Chap.43.7.

V. 9. Wo unto him that ſtriveth with his Maker:] This paſſage is here inſerted, as ſome think, to curb and reſtrain the impatiency of ſome ſpirits among Gods own people, who growing weary of their long continuance in captivity, began to murmur againſt God, and complain of him, as if he dealt not ſo equally with them, nor ſo adviſedly, in delivering them up to the will, and detaining them ſo long in the hands of thoſe that thereby took occaſion to blaſpheme his name, Ch.52.5. Ezek.36.20. and refuſing, withal, to await Gods leiſure, & abide his pleaſure, either for their continuance, in that dejected eſtate, or their deliverance out of it; as by him, in his wiſdome, ſhould be deemed meet. See Chap.28.16. As others, to check and controll the pride and preſumption of their enemies, the Babylonians eſpecially, who made account to keep Gods people in an everlaſting ſlavery, chap. 14. 17. Yea, to make their part good againſt God himſelf, if he ſhould attempt to reſcue them out of their hands. See Chap.10.11. & 37.10. Dan.3.15. It may well intend either, or both rather, with many other paſſages of Gods providence, concerning the affairs of thoſe times; which fleſh and blood would be over-prone to be quarrelling with God about, and controlling his carriage of them. See Chap.40.27. & 49.14.

ſtriveth with his Maker] Either by oppoſing his intentions, or by controlling his diſpenſations. Some taint whereof, in heavy preſſures, taketh hold, ſometime, even of the godly, though they check, recall, reprove, and recover themſelves, eftſoons, again. See Job 21.7-13. Pſal.73.1-22. Ier.12.1,2. Hab.1.2-4,13,14.

his Maker] Heb. his potter; or, him that framed him, chap. 44.14. & 64.8. an alluſion to the matter, and manner, of mans firſt creation; where the ſame term is uſed, Gen. 2. 7.

let the potſherd ſtrive with the potſherds of the earth] That is, with earthen potſherds, like it ſelf: as if he had ſaid, if frail man, who is but an earthen pot, 2 Cor.4.7. made out of the earth, Gen.2.7. & 3. 19. will needs be contending, let him pick out his match to contend with, let him cope with man like himſelf; but let him take heed how he attempt to be dealing with his Maker, how he enter into the liſts with him, who is infinitely ſtronger then himſelf, Eccl. 6.10. 1 Cor.1. 25. & 10.22. See Ier. 18. 3, 4, 6. or, as ſome render the words, as the potſherd, with earthen potſherds; as if it were ſaid, that contendeth with his potter, as if he were, being but an earthen pot, at the beſt, contending and quarrelling with ſome other ſuch as himſelf: the defect of the note of ſimilitude is frequent. See Chap.21.8. & 28.1, 4. and the ſupply of the verb from a former paſſage, no leſs uſual. See Chap. 44.11, 18. Some would render it, the potſherd with the workers of the earth: that is, with ſome one of the potters. But I find not the word any where ſo uſed: that for a workman, Chap.44.12, 13. differeth from this, as Shibboleth, from Sibbolet, Judg.12.6.

ſhall the clay ſay to him that faſhioneth it, What makeſt thou?] What is it, that thou intendeſt to make? as controlling his intentions, either as not fit, or, as not feacible; or, why didſt thou frame me in this, or that manner, in other manner then I would have had thee to have done? See Ier.18.4, 6. Rom.9. 20. and ſomewhat the like, Chap.10.15.

or thy work, it hath no hands] That is, thou haſt not ſufficiently poliſhed thy work, thou haſt not done it ſo exactly, as thou ſhouldeſt; it hath not yet the laſt hand, as we ſay, put to it. But the words may rather be read, or, (Heb. and: as Chap.44.10.) For thy work there are not hands; thou wanteſt hands, that is, power, and ability, to go thorow, with what thou intendeſt; thou foretelleſt, or promiſeſt, more then thou art able to perform, or bring about. See 2 King. 7. 2. But I rather here encline to that late learned Annotator, who, from the former branch, rendreth the words, or ſhall thy work ſay, (to wit, of the workman,) he hath not hands? ſhall it deny him to have hands, by whoſe hands it was made?

V. 10. Wo unto him, that ſaith to his father, What begetteſt thou? and to the woman, What haſt thou brought forth?] Another ſimilitude, whereby God illuſtrateth the unreaſonableneſs of thoſe, that will take upon them, to controll, or quarrel, with their Maker; either charging him with impotency, or challenging him of indiſcretion: as if the childe ſhould quarrel with his parents, about the breeding of him, in ſuch and ſuch times, or in ſuch and ſuch manner; (ſee Job. 3. 3-12. Ier.15.10. & 20.14-18.) or rather, (and ſo it anſwers fitly to the latter branch of the former verſe,) to what end do ye breed, or attempt to breed? ye will never be able to bear, or bring forth, much leſs to bring up; and ye were beſt, therefore, to forbear. See Chap.66.9. the iſſue is introduced by an allegory, ſpeaking to the parents here, as the clay to the workman, there.

the woman] woman, for, mother; as Chap.49.15. and this term is the rather uſed here; becauſe the ſpeech is conceived, as with ſome kind of ſcorn; as our Saviour alſo uſed it, to his mother, in ſomewhat a tart reproof, for her a little over-much preſumption, Joh.2.4.

V. 11. Thus ſaith the Lord, the Holy One of Iſrael, and his Maker;] Chap.43.15. & 44.2.

Ask me of things to come concerning my ſons; and concerning the work of my hands, command ye me.] Or, as ſome, ſomewhat allaying the harſhneſs of the term, commend unto me (to wit, by prayer) my children, and the work of my hands; that is, your ſelves, Chap.60.21. my new-creatures, 2 Cor.5.17. my workmanſhip in Chriſt, Eph.2.10. Seek ye to me, for the accompliſhment of my promiſe, concerning my children themſelves, my handy-work, or concerning thoſe works, that are to be wrought for them; and you ſhall find me as ready to do you ſervice, as if ye had me at command, (ſee Joſh.10. 14.) ye ſhall not fail, to obtain whatſoever ye requeſt, 1 Joh. 5.14. But the words ſeem ſpoken rather by way of reproof, directed unto the idolaters, and enemies of Gods people: And ſome therefore would thus read them; Ask me of things to come, and concerning my children, and the work of my hands enjoyn me; as if it were ſaid, ſeek for information concerning things to come, to me the true God, who am able to foretel them, Chap.42.9. & 43.12. & 44.7. and not to your idols, who are not able to foretel you ought, Chap. 41.22, 23, 26. & 43.9. & 44.7. See the like, Ier.33.3. Zach.10.1, 2. and try, withal, if ye can countermand, inhibite, or hinder me, in thoſe things, that I intend to do, concerning my people. So the word of enjoyning, is uſed ſometime, in a notion of inhibition; as Deut.2.37. Chap.5.6. But I ſuppoſe the words may well be read, as ſpoken by way of interrogation, and thus rendred, Do ye queſtion me (as Chap.41.28.) concerning the things to come? (concerning thoſe things that I intend to do,) concerning my ſons, (or, children) and concerning the work of my hands, will ye enjoyn me? or, order me? as the word is uſed, chap. 38.1. will ye preſume to appoint, and direct me, what I ſhall do, and how I ſhall carry matters concerning the diſpoſition of my people? See chap.40.13, 14. Rom.11.33, 34. ſo it agreeth very fitly with verſ.9. & 10. and ſpeaketh more plainly what thoſe ſimilitudes there intimate; to wit, that it is over-much boldneſs for man to take upon him, to teach, or control God in ought.

V. 12. I have made the earth, and created man upon it:] See Gen. 1. 1, 27. Pſal.102.25. chap.42.5. & 48.13. verſ.18. I framed at firſt, this vaſt univerſe, without advice, or ayd of any; and have, by mine infinite power and wiſdome, ſupported, and ruled it, ever ſince, to this day: and want not, therefore, either ability to go through with; or skill, to manage whatſoever I undertake. See Chap.41.4.

I even my hands have ſtretched out the heavens] Pſal. 8.3. & 104.2. chap.42.5.

and all their hoſt have I commanded] Or, do I command; have I continually at command, chap.40.26.

V. 13. I have raiſed him up in righteouſneſſe] Cyrus, he meaneth, Ezr.1.1. to manifeſt the faithfulneſs of his promiſes, in the deliverance of his people, ver.1, 4. See Chap.41. 2. & 42.6. or, in truth, as ver.23. See Chap.41.26.

and I will direct all his wayes] Heb. make ſtraight, or, make even. I will level all his wayes: I will give him free paſſage, and ready ſucceſs, in all his undertakings; I will facilitate for him all his deſigns. See ver.2. & chap.26.7.

he ſhall build my city] Chap.44.28. that is, give order for the building of it; the Temple eſpecially, the principal part of it, Ezr.1.1. as the like is ſaid of Solomon, Act.7.47.

and he ſhall let go my captives,] Heb. captivity; as chap.20. 4. my people remaining in captivity under the Chaldeans.

not for price, nor reward, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.] Freely, without ranſome, or any conſideration. An argument of a royal mind, and of a right generous diſpoſition. See Chap. 13.17.

V. 14. Thus ſaith the Lord; the labour of Egypt, and merchandiſe of Ethiopia, and of the Sabeans, men of ſtature ſhall come over unto thee] Before, he told of their deliverance out of captivity, and the ſetting of them at liberty; now, he proceeds to ſhew how, and by whom, they ſhould be furniſhed with a rich and plentiful ſupply of ſuch commodities, as ſhould be requiſite for the convenient ſetling of them, in their land again, and the furtherance of them, in thoſe works, that were there to be wrought by them; fulfilled, as moſt imagine, in the contribution that theſe people, being tributary to Cyrus, ſhould, at his command, plentifully afford unto Gods people returning home from exilement, into their land, and towards the building of Gods Temple, Ezr.1.4. & 7. 21, 22. See chap.60.5-7. Howbeit, ſome other, not without ſome ſhew of probability, expound this whole paſſage of Cyrus himſelf; of whom he ſpake before, ver.13. to wit, that becauſe he had dealt ſo freely with Gods people, as was before intimated, God would therefore give him, as a reward of this his generous carriage, the wealth of thoſe rich Kingdoms and Countries, which, together with Babylon, of whom they formerly held, at the fall of that ſtate, fell alſo into his hands. See ver.3. Againſt which is objected, that the pronoun is in the feminine gender; which thoſe, therefore, that ſtand for the former Interpretation, refer either to the word captivity, in the former verſe; or to the word city; but neither is needful: for of ſtates doth the Scripture ſpeak uſually, as of women, damſels, ladies, wives, or widows, Chap.47.1, 7, 8. & 52.2. & 54.1. & 60.4-7. where the like promiſes are made unto the Jewiſh State, reſtored, with thoſe here: which ſeems to carry it with the former. The Tranſition from perſon to perſon, which either expoſition preſumeth, is not unuſual. See verſ. 17. Chap. 31. 6, 7. & 32. 11, 12. & 34. 5, 6. and 42.13, 14.

the labour] That is, the fruit of their labour, their wealth thereby gotten; as Pſal.128.2. Ier.3.24.

Egypt] A very rich kingdom, 1 King.10.28, 29. and ſo the other two rich countries. See Job 28.19. Pſal. 72.10, 15. of them, ſee on chap.43.5. where, becauſe the ſelf-ſame people are mentioned, ſome would have theſe two places parallel; and refer both to the diverſion of Sennacherib: but of that, ſee there. Sure it is, that it can have no place here.

men of ſtature] Heb. meaſure, or, dimenſion; as Numb. 13. 32. 2 Sam.21.20. 1 Chr.11.23. & 20.6. So Ier.22.14. Men, tall, and big. Such are the Sabeans reported to have been, Agatharchides, l.5. c.50.

they ſhall come over unto thee] Yeeld themſelves unto thee, whether to Cyrus, or to the Church, and to Chriſt (of whom Cyrus a type.) in his Church. See Pſal.45.12. & 68.31. & 72.9, 10, 11, 15. chap.18.7. & 19.21. Zeph.3.9.

and they ſhall be thine;] Thy ſubjects. See chap. 19. 23-25.

they ſhall come after thee] As captives are wont to follow a conquerer, in triumph.

in chains they ſhall come over;] As priſoners, or, captives, Job 36.8. 2 Chr.36.6. which concerning thoſe, that were, by Cyrus, ſubdued corporally, is literally plain enough; but applyed to thoſe, that are brought in, by the Miniſtry of the Goſpel, unto Chriſt, and his Church, muſt be ſpiritually underſtood, derſtood, Pſal. 45.5. and 149.6-8.

and they ſhall fall down unto thee] After the manner of adoration, in uſe among the Eaſtern people; which yet Calliſthenes, in Arrian, l.4. reporteth, not to have been received in Perſia, before Cyrus his dayes. See chap.49.23. & 60.14. Pſal.72.9,11.

they ſhall make ſupplication unto thee] So Pſal.45. 12. and 72.15.

ſaying] A defect of the participle; as Pſal.105.15. Chap. 26.19.

ſurely God is in thee] Either in thee, or with thee; O Cyrus, ſhewing it ſo to be, by giving thee ſuch ſucceſs; as ſome. See ver.1,2. or, in a peculiar manner, in, and with Chriſt, of whom Cyrus a type, Exod.23.21. Joh.1.2. & 14.10. & 16.32. & 17.23. Act.10.38. Col.2.3,9. and both God and Chriſt, in his Church, Ezek.48.35. Zach.8.23. 1 Cor.14.25.

and there is none elſe, there is no god.] That God, who is the only true; and beſides whom, there is none, ver.6,21. Chap. 44.6.

V. 15. Verily thou art a God that hideſt thy ſelf] The Prophets words, admiring the hidden depths of Gods diſpenſations; as if he had ſaid, Thou Lord doſt, for ſome time, ſeem to hide and withdraw thy ſelf, to ſtand aloof off in thy peoples afflictions, Pſal.10.1. Chap.57.17. and they muſt, therefore, with patience, wait for their deliverance, though for a while it be delayed, Chap.8.17. & 28.16. for they that ſo do, ſhall not repent them of their patience, but ſhall be delivered, when the wicked Idol-worſhippers ſhall fail of their expectation, and be deſtroyed, ver.15. Chap.30.18. & 44.23. Or, thou doſt carry thy ſelf ſo cloſely and covertly, in thy diſpenſations, and in the paſſages of thy providence, that thy ways and judgments are unſearchable, and thine intentions oft times undiſcernable; and men ought not, therefore, to take upon them, to controll and cenſure thoſe things, that are paſt their ſhallow reach, Pſal.77.19. Rom.11.33,34. and ſo it hath reference to ver.9,10,11.

O God of Iſrael, the Saviour] Chap.43.3.

V. 16. They ſhall be aſhamed, and alſo confounded all of them; they ſhall go to confuſion together that are makers of idols] Or, The workmen of images ſhall be aſhamed, and even confounded all of them; they ſhall go together to confuſion, Pſal.97.7. & 115.8. Chap.44.11.

idols] So called, either of a word that ſignifieth pains and throws, Chap.13.8. & 21.3. becauſe they procure to men nothing but ſorrow and diſtreſs. See Chap.10.10. & 46. 1. or, from another, that ſignifieth the figure and faſhion of ought, Pſal.49.14. Ezek.43.11. See Chap.44.13. Ezek.8.10.

V. 17. But Iſrael ſhall be ſaved in the Lord with an everlaſting ſalvation] In the Lord, ver.25. or, By the Lord, as Pſal.33.16. & Chap.30. 15. Heb. with a ſalvation of ages, or, perpetuities, or, eternities; as Chap. 26. 4. Dan. 9. 24. See Chap. 54. 6-8.

ye ſhall not be aſhamed, nor confounded, world without end.] Heb. unto ages of perpetuity, Pſal.25.3. Joel 2.26,27. Rom.9. 33. See the like paſſage from perſon to perſon, Chap.1.29. & 46.1.

V. 18. For thus ſaith the Lord, that created the heavens] Gen.1.1. ver.12.

God himſelf, that formed the earth, and made it] Or, that God, as 2 Chron. 28.22.) or, the ſame, (as Pſal. 102. 27.) that faſhioned the earth, and made it: who (not made it of nothing, but) out of that true maſs, which at firſt it was, wrought it into that faſhion, that now it beareth, Gen.1.1,2,9,11.

he hath eſtabliſhed it] Or, he that eſtabliſhed it, Pſal.93.1. & 119.90,91. Eccl.1.4. or, that prepared, or fitted, or furniſhed it; as Pſal.119.73. Thy hands have made me, and fitted me, or, furniſhed me, with abilities, for employment: So the word is frequently uſed, Exod.19.11,15. Joſh.8.4. Job 8.8. Pſal.7.12. & 21.12. fitted it for mans uſe, by laying it dry, and furniſhed it with all neceſſaries for his ſupport, Gen.1.9,11,29.

he created it not in vain;] Or, who created it not in vain. The ſame word is here uſed, that is found, Gen.1.2. as if he had ſaid, who though of nothing he made it a rude maſs, and miſhapen lump, or a vaſt and waſte body, at firſt, yet did not intend that it ſhould ſo continue: the ſame term is uſed, Chap.24.10. & 34. 11 & 44.9. A defect of the relative; as Chap.44.2.

he formed it to be inhabited] Or, who formed it to be inhabited: by man principally, Pſal.115.16. and of mankind, chiefly, for his Church, 1 Cor.3.22,23. Heb. to inhabit, for man to inhabit, or, to be inhabited. See Chap. 13. 20. Some apply this, more ſpecially, to the land of Judea, which he had aſſigned, for his people, and fitted and furniſhed it accordingly for them, Gen.12.7. & 13,15. & 15.18. Deut.11.10-12. Pſal.136. 21,22. But the text ſeems larger.

I am the Lord, and there is none elſe] Ver.14,21,22.

V. 19. I have not ſpoken in ſecret, in a dark place of the earth.] I have delivered my oracles, from time to time, openly, in publike, and that plainly and perſpicuouſly, for the moſt part, as I now alſo do, Deut.4.11-13,14. and 5.22. & 30.11-14. Chap.48.16. Jer.3.12. Joh.18.20. not as your falſe gods, that deliver their oracles in dark caves and corners, from under the ground, places fit for deceit; and in obſcure and ambiguous terms, ſuch as may bear contrary ſenſes, that their fraud and ignorance may not be diſcovered, Chap. 8. 19. and 29. 4.

in a dark place of the earth] Heb. in a place of the earth of darkneſs, for ſome dark place of the earth; as Pſal.74.20.

I ſaid not to the ſeed of Jacob, Seek ye me in vain:] Or, I have not ſaid, &c.

the ſeed of Jacob] All whoſe iſſue God took to be in covenant; that which he did not with the whole iſſue, either of Abraham, or Iſaac, Pſal.22.23. ſo ver.25.

Seek ye me] Pſal.27.8. & 105.4.

in vain:] The ſame word uſed before, ver.18. Not in vain, becauſe I perform what I promiſe, and do not fruſtrate their expectations; being both able to do for them, what they ſeek to me for; and faithful to keep touch with them, Pſal.9.10. & 22.4,5. whatſoever worldlings think of me, Job 21.15. & 22. 17. Mal. 3. 14. that which the Heathen-gods are not able to do for thoſe that ſeek to them, ver.20. Chap.46.7.

I the Lord ſpeak righteouſneſs; I declare things that are right.] Or, I am the Lord (as Chap.44.24.) that ſpeak righteouſneſs, (that is, righteous things, as chap.56.1.) or, in righteouſneſs, (as ver.13. that is, righteouſly, faithfully, firmly; See chap.63.1.) or, that ſpeak truth (as chap 41.26. ver.23.) that declare things equal. Heb. even, or right, and ſtraight. See chap. 26.7. & 33. 15. I neither require, nor deliver ought, but what is juſt and equal, Pſal.19.7-10. & 111.7,8.

V. 20. Aſſemble your ſelves, and come; draw neer together, ye that are eſcaped of the nations.] This ſome underſtand of the Jews returned from the Babylonian captivity, having eſcaped the Chaldean ſword, chap.43.6. & 66.19. Jer.50.28. Others, of Proſelytes converted to Judaiſm, upon the diſſolution of the Jewiſh captivity, chap.44.5. or, converted to chriſtianity, by the miniſtery of the Goſpel, Zach.8.21,22. Eph.2.12,13, 19. Col.1.21. But I concur rather with thoſe, who expound it of thoſe Chaldeans; or, rather, Nations, that had eſcaped the ſword of Cyrus, and were now, having by experience been taught it, able to ſee, how much God was able to do for his people; how little their idols, for thoſe that them ſerved. Jer.51.50. See chap.43.9.

they have no knowledge, that ſet up the wood of their graven image] That ſet up (alluding either to the poſture of their images, or to the bearing of them in pomp on their ſhoulders, chap.46.18. Jer.10.13.) their wooden idols, or their graven or carved (ſee chap.40.20.) images of wood, Dan.5.4,23. But the phraſe is emphatical; that ſet up a piece of wood for their god, as a piece of braſs, or brazen ſtuff, 2 King.18.4. and bricks, or brick-ſtuff, chap.65.3. See chap.44.15-20.

and pray unto a god that cannot ſave] Heb. to a god, will not, or, ſhall not ſave; as, to a people, will not, or, ſhall not ſave, Lam. 4.17. and, to a people, will not, or, ſhall not profit, chap.30.5,6. a defect of the relative; and a future taken potentially. See chap.44.17. Jer.2.27. Hoſ.4.12.

V. 21. Tell ye, and bring them neer; yea, let them take counſel together.] Or, Declare, and draw neer, (there is an elegant conſonancy in the words) or, approach; (ſo is the word uſed, Amos 9.10.) yea, let them conſult together; as Pſal.71.10. Some expound it, of coming home to God, and bringing of others with them; as chap. 2.3. Zach.8.23. but that followeth, v.22. this is rather of coming to debate. See chap.41.22,23,28. & 48.14.

who hath declared this from ancient time? who hath told it from that time?] Heb. who hath made to hear this? (as chap. 41.22.) or, cauſed this to be heard, (as ver.18. to be inhabited) from antiquity? or, from before? (of old, as Pſal.68.33. & 74.12. Hab.1.12.) hath told it from then? as ch.44.8. See chap.41.26. & 48.14. he uttereth this, as ſpoken in thoſe times, when Cyrus had won Babylon, and ſet Gods people free.

Have not I the Lord? and there is no god elſe, beſides me, a juſt god and a Saviour, there is none beſide me.] Or, have not I the Lord, beſide whom there is no god elſe, a juſt and ſaving god; beſide whom (I ſay) there is none: the pronoun indicative, for the relative; as chap.37.27. nor need, there is, be in a different character, becauſe that negative, of courſe, includes the verb ſubſtantive. See chap.43.12.

no god elſe] Ver.5,18.

V.22. Look unto me, and be ye ſaved all the ends of the earth.] Conſidering the iſſue of theſe things, and how therein, as well my power and deity, as the imbecillity and vanity of your idols, hath moſt evidently appeared; leaving them out of all parts, as far as the world is wide, betake your ſelves to me, who am the only true God, and able to afford you that ſafety which your idols cannot. See ver.16,17.

Look unto me] As to a place of ſafe receit,and ſure refuge, Pſal.34.5.chap.17.7,8.or,as the Jews, ſometime, to the brazen Serpent,Num.29.8,9.Joh.3.14,15.& 6.40.

be ye ſaved] Or,ye ſhall be ſaved: the imperative, for the future; as,do this,and live,Gen.42.18.that is,ye ſhall live,Luk. 8.28.ſo Pſal.37.27.chap.36.16.

all the ends of the earth] All the inhabitants of the world, from one end to another,Pſal.22.27.& 65.8.

for I am God,and there is none elſe.] Ver. 21. and that ye are now convinced of,by what ye have ſeen,ver.26.

V.23. I have ſworn by my ſelf;] Gen.22.16.having no greater to ſwear by,Heb.6.13.So Jer.22.5.& 49.13.

the word is gone out of my mouth in righteouſneſs,] A defect of the prepoſition; as chap.41.2. in righteouſneſs; that is,juſtly, upon good ground, and agreeable to right and equity: one of the conditions required in an oath, Jer.4. 2. in righteouſneſs; that is,righteouſly,firmly,and faithfully; ſo as what I ſay,ſhall be certainly fulfilled: and this ſenſe, the words next following,confirm, See chap.63.1. ſome reade it, out of my mouth,a mouth of righteouſneſs (as a right hand of righteouſneſs, chap.41.10.) that is,out of my righteous,or,out of a moſt righteous mouth,Pſal.119.172.ver.19. and ſome, by righteouſneſs,here,underſtand truth; as, alſo, chap.41. 26. ver.13.

and ſhall not return;] What I have uttered, ſhall not be revoked or reverſed,being, eſpecially, bound thus with a ſolemn oath,Pſal.89.34,35.& 132.9.or,it ſhall not return without effect; but ſhall moſt ſurely and certainly be performed and fulfilled, chap. 48. 3. & 55. 10,11. even to him ſhall men come, and all that are incenſed againſt him ſhall be aſhamed.] Moſt men reade theſe words, as two diſtinct ſentences; the former, concerning thoſe, who perceiving all power and faithfulneſs to be in the true God alone, ſhall voluntarily repair unto him, and adjoyn themſelves to his people, embracing the advice given them, ver. 22.Pſal.65.2 Jer.16.19. The other, concerning thoſe, that obſtinately ſtand out againſt him, and provoke him thereby to wrath, that ſuch ſhall be put to everlaſting ſhame and confuſion, ver.16. Jer.17.13. Yet ſome, in regard of ſome diſtinctions in the original, make them, in effect at leaſt, but one; and theſe render them two ways. Some, as ſpoken of perſons reclaimed,and affected with a religious ſhame,ariſing from the conſideration of their former follies. To him ſhall they come,and be aſhamed,all that have been incenſed againſt him, Jer. 31.18,19. Others, as ſpoken of the obſtinate and impenitent wicked,and thoſe only; To him ſhall they come, (that is, before his tribunal they ſhall appear,Rom.14.10,11. 2 Cor.5. 12.) and ſhall (there,and then) be aſhamed, (and confounded,Chap.1.29-31.& 2.19-21. Rev. 6.15 - 17.) as many as are incenſed againſt him,Pſal.2.1,2,12.& 21.8-12. & 92.9. For as for thoſe,that underſtanding the words of the ſame perſons, do thus read them,as a ſpeech of the former parties, ſpeaking on ſtill of God; Let him come to him,to bicker with him; they ſhall be aſhamed, all that are in heat againſt him. It ſeems to me,to force the text too much; as,alſo,ſome other do, whom I therefore let paſs.

Howbeit, I ſuppoſe it may be underſtood of Gods juſtifying of his people, by approving their ſincerity,as he did Jobs, againſt Satans calumnies, and the groundleſs ſurmiſes of his friends, Job 2.3.& 13.18.& 23.10. and declaring their innocency and unjuſt ſufferings, in regard of thoſe, at whoſe hands they ſuffered: as he juſtified David,againſt the falſe charges and ſuggeſtions of Saul, and his flatterers, 1 Sam.24. 9-18. To cleer this a little more,becauſe moſt, if not all, run the other way; The enemies of Gods people pretended, that they had juſt cauſe,and good ground,to deal with them, as they did; they are lawful prize, ſaid they, and we may juſtly keep them: and there is no juſt cauſe, or reaſon, that we ſhould be compelled to part with them, chap.49. 24. Jer.40.33. yea,they took occaſion to juſtiſie their extream cruel dealing with them, chap.47.6. by a pretence of doing juſtice, in Gods behalf, on them; We offend not (ſay they) in deſtroying,and devouring them; for they have treſpaſſed grievouſly againſt their God,Jer.50.7. But God telleth both his people, and them, that he would plead the cauſe of his people againſt them, and both cleer their innocency, by diſcovering the vanity of theſe their frivolous pretences, and do them right on them, as well by reſcuing them out of the hands of thoſe that held them, as by taking vengeance on them, for the wrongs done to his people, chap.46.13. & 49,25,26. & 51.5,22,36. Thus Gods people preſume, that God would cleer the righteouſneſſe of their cauſe, as the light, Mic. 7. 9, 10. compared with Pſal.37.6. and upon the diſſolution of the captivity,they, acknowledg that God had ſo done, Jer.51.10,24. CHAP. XLVI.

Verſ. 1. B*El boweth down, and Nebo ſtoopeth*;] In this Chapter, and the next to it, (as in the thirteenth, and fourteenth before,) is laid down a very pregnant Prophecy againſt Babylon, containing in it, a prediction of her utter and unavoidable overthrow,together with a general deliverance of Gods people, that had been long in thraldome under her. Wherein, alſo, by the way, is inſerted, an aſſertion of Gods incomparable divine power, therein manifeſted, illuſtrate by the vanity and imbecility of the Babylonian idols, that ſhould fall, and come down together with that State. In regard whereof, ſome Interpreters deem this to be but a part of the precedent Prophecy, and make them one continued context. This Chapter begins with the ruine of their idols, as the next with the ruine of their State; which their idols were not able to ſupport, being unable to keep up themſelves.

Bel] Bel, and Nebo, were idols of much note among the Babylonians; and Bel ſeems to have been their chiefeſt and choiceſt god. See Jer.50.2. & 51.44. The name, divers Writers of ſpecial note, ſuppoſe to be the ſame with Baal,conceived in a different dialect. And that this title, ſignifying Lord, was ſometime given to the true God, as the Lord of heaven and earth, Matth.11.25. in like manner, as the Phenicians called their god, Baal-ſamen, that is, the Lord of heaven; as out of Sanchuniathon, and Philo, his tranſlater, Euſebius relateth in his Goſpel-preparative: but that afterward, God refuſed ſo to be ſtyled,becauſe the name had been ſo commonly given unto idols, Hoſ.2.16. and true it is, that the name of Baal, as it ſignifieth a Lord, doth, in regard of Gods abſolute Soveraignty, beſt agree unto God: but in that regard, he is in Scripture rather termed Adonai. Whereas that of

Baal, both in the term it ſelf, there parallel'd with Iſh, that ſignifieth an husband; as alſo, in the uſe of the word from whence it cometh, is attributed to God, not ſo much in regard of that his general dominion, which he hath over the whole creation, Pſal.103.19. as in regard of that ſpecial relation which he hath to his Church, as he hath contracted her to himſelf, in a conjugal bond, and ſhe ſtandeth ſo eſpouſed, and united unto him. See Chap.54.5. & 62.4. Jer. 3.14. & 31.32. though it be not denyed, that the name Adon, or Lord, is ſometime alſo given to the husband, Gen.18.12. 1 Pet.3. 6. Howbeit, apparent it is, that this name of Baal, (though whether taken up from the uſe of Gods people, uncertain, who are not read, to have called God, uſually, by that name,) was very anciently given by the Moabites, Ammonites, Canaanites, Philiſtines, Sidonians, Phenicians, and other neighbouring nations, as alſo by the idolatrous Iſraelites themſelves, treading in their ſteps, to ſuch idols, as both the one, & the other adored, Num.22.41. 1 King.16.31,32. whence the mention of many Baals, Judg.3.5,7. & 10. 6,10. and thoſe oft-times diſtinguiſhed, either by the places where their Temples ſtood, or by ſome peculiar attribute; as Baal-Zephon, Exod.14 2. Baal-Peor, Num.25.3. Baal-Zebub, 2 King. 1. 1. Baal-Meon, Joſh.17.17. ſee on Chap.15.2. and the like: as alſo names impoſed as well on perſons, as on places, from thoſe their idols, as Ethbaal, the king of Sidon, Jezebels father, 1 King. 16.31. Baal-hanan, Gen. 36.38. the ſame, in a manner, with Hannibal reverſed; and Hierombal the Prieſt, of whom, out of Porphyrie Euſebius, in the place beforementioned, the ſame, it may be, with Jerub-baal, Judg.6.32. as Ambakum, for Abakkuk, and Ambuba, for Abuba: or, as ſome, with Hirombaal. That Baal therefore was a name common to many forged deities, is a thing undeniable; and from thence, divers learned men deem, that the name Bel, here uſed, did at firſt deſcend, being the ſame in notion, the one with the other, nor differing but in manner of pronunciation, not as two divers words, but two dialects of one word; as Zen, and Zan, in Greek; for that, ſay they, which the Phenicians, following the Hebrews, pronounced Baal; that the Babylonians, after the Chaldean guiſe, pronounced Bel. Howbeit, ſome difference I obſerve between thoſe great ones, that enforceth me here to make a ſtand; for ſome of them ſay, that Baal, and Bel, are written with the ſelf-ſame letters, בַּעַל the one; and בְּעֵל the other: Which if it be true, then the בֵּל here mentioned, wanting the middle letter, ſeems not the ſame with Baal, in the Chaldee dialect. Other of them ſay, that the middle letter in Bel, is caſt away, after the manner of the Chaldee dialect: but albeit, of the manner of the Chaldean, or Babylonian pronunciation, in ſome other words, ſome examples are produced, and in Greek and Latine, it be a common courſe, to clip off, or cut out that letter, becauſe they want one whereby fitly to expreſs it, as in other words, Ozias, Matth.1.9. Eſaias, Rom.10.20. Pharao, Rom.9.17. and the like; ſo in this: yet neither is there any the like neceſſity of ſo doing, in the Chaldee dialect; which is ſo far from ordinary caſhiering of it, that it changeth other Hebrew ones, oft, into it. Neither do I meet with any inſtance, given out of any monument of that language, of Baal, thus contracted; the contrary rather doth appear, by thoſe portions of Scripture, penned in the Syriack, (which we commonly call the Chaldee,) Ezr. 4.8,9,17. where the word בְּעֵל without any ſuch contraction, is found. Nor do I find, either in the Targum, or Chaldee Paraphraſe, (as it is commonly called,) of the Old Teſtament, or in the Syrian verſion of the New, either the name of Baal, in any place, without that letter, or the name of Bel with it. It ſeems to me, therefore, not improbable, that Bel and Baal, are two ſeveral names; though by Greek and Latine Writers, commonly confounded; and that Bel was a proper name, in ancient times not unuſual; as Bela, Gen. 36. 32. & 46. 21. and other the like: and that of that name, ſome eminent perſons, in divers places, had, after their deceaſe, been deified. Whence it came to paſs, that as there were divers Herculeſſes, in ſeveral countries, and thoſe of ſeveral ages, and ſeveral breeds; See Tully of the deity, l.3. and Herodote, l.2. ſo were there likewiſe, ſundry Bels, or Beluſſes, the Egyptian, the Tyrian, the Aſſyrian, and many more, whoſe pedigrees are related in Apollodorus, l. 1. Diodore, l. 1. Euſebius his preparative, l.1. & 9. from Phylo Byblius his verſion of Sancuniathon, and others: yea, therefore, many the more; becauſe Bel, and Baal, are both by Greek and Latine Writers, as is not denyed, ſo commonly confounded. Again, that which hath been ſuggeſted concerning this Bel, or Belus, as being ſometime a great Potentate, and after his deceaſe deified, may receive further ſtrength from hence; in that as the Tyrian Belus, is acknowledged to have been no other, then an ancient King of that Country, whoſe cup, therefore, the Poet ſaith, Dido drank in, to Æneas. Æneid. l.1. ſo is the like alſo averred, of the Babylonian Belus, whom Nebuchadnezzar, therefore, calleth his Progenitor, in that ſpeech of his uttered in a fit of rapture, from Megaſthenes reported by Abydenus, in his Aſſyrian Hiſtory, and by Euſebius recorded out of him, in his Goſpel preparative, l.9. wherein he foretelleth his Babylonians, of an evil that ſhould befal them, which, ſaith he, neither Belus my progenitor, nor Queen Beltis, are able to induce the Fates to avert. Thus he; whereby it appeareth, that this Belus had been a King, one of his Anceſtors; and Beltis, in times paſt, a Queen. This Bel, therefore, whom the Prophet here mentioneth, is not unlikely to be that Belus, unto whom ancient Writers attribute the building of Babylon; though about that, there be no good agreement among them. But in regard thereof, ſome conclude Bel, or Belus, to be Nimrod, ſo called, at firſt, ſay they, for his rebellion againſt his Superiours, or his Peers; afterward, Baal, or Lord, when he was ſetled in his Empire; and that the Chaldeans kept the latter name of him, in their records, ſuppreſſing the former, as containing matter of reproach. Yet ſeem not theſe things altogether ſo cleer, as is conceived. For howſoever it be certain, that Nimrod, at firſt, built Babylon, Gen. 10. 10, 11. and it be very probable, that this Bel, whom the Babylonians thus adored, was ſome ſuch great one, as Nimrod, in his life-time; yet it is well known, that the name of the firſt founder of a city, is, in continuance of time, oft loſt, and devolved from thoſe that firſt began it, unto thoſe, that in ſucceeding ages, repaired its ruines, or raiſed it to a more flouriſhing and glorious condition. So it is ſaid of a later Pharao, after Joſephs death; that by the Hebrews he built Rameſes, Exod.1.11. though it appears, that it was built by ſome other before, Gen 47.11. and Hiel is ſaid to have built Jericho, which he re-edified, 1 King.16.34. and of Babylon it ſelf, Nebuchadnezzar ſaith, that he built it, that is, did ſo beautifie and enlarge it, that it might well ſeem a new city, Dan.4.30. See Joſephs antiquities, l.10. c.11. and ſo might this Belus, or Bel, have done many ages after Nimrods dayes; as of Semiramis alſo the like is related, to whom many Authors therefore aſcribe the building of Babylon, as Cteſias, Diodore, l.2. Strabo, l.16. and others, not a few: albeit, ſome again ſay, that ſhe only performed ſome works about it: nor doth Abyden, one of the ancienteſt Authors, whoſe remains we have, ſay any more of Belus, in Euſebius his preparative, l. 9. but that he encompaſſed Babylon with a wall. Beſides that, as it may juſtly be doubted, whether Nimrod were upon any ſuch occaſion, at firſt, ſo called, (which is not very likely, though not much to the preſent purpoſe:) and not by his father, upon ſome other ground, ſo named from his birth; ſo there ſeems as little likelihood, that from the Hebrew Baal, this name was given either to him, or any other, whom the Scripture ſo termeth; it being not the manner of Scripture, ſo to corrupt names, as other languages are forced to do, for the reaſon before-expreſſed. But the Scripture conſtantly ſtyleth this idol, neither בַּעַל nor בְּעֵל but בֵּל ſimply; nor do we ever find, either this, or that name, in Scripture, ever given unto Nimrod. But whoſoever he was that bare the name, or upon what ground ſoever the name was given him, certain it is, that this Bel was a principal god with the Babylonians; under which name, ſome tell us, that they adored the Sun. Howbeit, the ancienteſt Authors, of whom we find ſome few fragments, in the relations of former Writers; as Abydenus, and Megaſthenes, (of whom, ſome remains are found here, and there, in Joſephus his Antiquities, and Euſebius his Preparative,) tell us of two counterfeit Deities, King Bel, or Belus, and Queen Beltis, that ſeem to have been unto them, as Jupiter, and Juno, unto the Latines, and Greeks: the former of them we find in the name of Belſhatſar, Dan.5. 1. the latter, in the name of Beltſhatſar, Dan.4.8. nor is that which they ſay concerning this latter, contrary to what is there ſaid by the Babylonian Monarch, that Daniel was ſo called, according to the name of his God; for the name of God, with them, might well comprehend deities, ſuch as thoſe were, of either ſex, as well, as θεὸς doth in Greek: nor is is in the one, any more, then a ſyllabical adjection; as os, or us, is in the other: nor doth this Babylonian Beltis ſeem to be the ſame with that Phenician Baaltis, whom they make the daughter of Celus, and ſiſter to Aſtarte, or Venus, by the Greeks termed Dione. See Philo Byblienſis in Euſebius his Preparative.

Nebo] Another of their idols, whoſe name is found in the appellations of many of their Kings and Nobles, mentioned as well in Scripture, as in other writings. Of this ſort, are Nabonaſſar, Nabo-pelaſar, Nabuchadnetſar, Nabuzaradan his chief Marſhal, Jer.39.1,9. and many other. As the former ſeems to have been ſome Martial man, or great Monarch; ſo this latter, to have been ſome famous falſe Prophet, from whom, after his death, deified, they expected Oracles by his Prieſts; for his name imports Prophecy: and as among both Greeks and Latines, though Jupiter were deemed their chief god; yet not he, but Apollo, was the god, whom they repaired moſt to, for anſwer by Oracle: ſo it ſeemeth, that with the Babylonians, albeit, Bel, were their Jupiter; yet Nebo was their Apollo; whoſe Oracle that may well be, which Stephen the Byzantine ſaith, was among the Chaldeans, in like requeſt, as Apollo's at Delphos, was among the Greeks. Howſoever, I am not ignorant, that ſome learned underſtand him, of the Oracle of Belus; whereof Arrian, in the life of Alexander, lib. 7.

boweth down] Or, is bowed down; not only failing thoſe that expected help from them; but being pulled down, and carried away, either to be born about, as a conqueſt being made, as well of their gods, as of the people themſelves, and their perſons; or to make monuments of them, or money of the rich metals whereof they were made. See Chap. 10. 10, 11. Jer. 43. 12, 13. & 50. 2.

their idols were upon the beaſts, and upon the cattel: your carriages were heavy laden; they are a burden to the weary beaſt] Or, their idols were for the beaſts, and for the cattle. So the words are in the Hebrew; as if he had ſaid, they went to the bruit beaſts, as fitteſt companions for them; on whoſe backs the Medes and Perſians beſtowed them, to carry them away with them, into their own country, among other their carriages; or they that had wont to be born about in proceſſion, on mens ſhoulders, or, in chariots, with much pomp and ſtate, are now packed up, and laid as luggage on the backs of beaſts, without any reſpect, or regard. See Chap. 15. 7. Heb. beaſt, and cattle, collectively; as Gen. 7. 21. Ezek. 33. 27.

idols] The word, in his firſt notion, ſignifieth pain and ſorrow. See on chap. 10. 10. & 45. 16. uſed the rather, here, as hinting what they were; not to thoſe only, that had adored them, but to the beaſts, alſo, that did now bear them. Though ſome expound it of the heavy burdens, that they had formerly been to the beaſts, that uſed either to bear them about, or to draw the chariots, wherein they had wont to be born; like that, Chap. 14. 7, 8. but the former ſeemes the better.

your carriages] He turneth his ſpeech, as ſome, to the Medes and Perſians, that carryed them away with them; as relating how heavy their carriages would be, with the weight of them: As others, to their idolaters, in way of deriſion, telling them, that they were heavy gods indeed, heavy burdens both to man and beaſt. See the like change of the perſon, chap. 45. 17.

heavy laden] With the weight of them. See ver. 1. and of the maſſineſs of their idols, Dan. 3. 1.

they are a burden] Or, were; that it may agree with the former.

the weary beaſt] Tired with the carriage of them; a defect of the ſubject: as Chap. 28. 12. & 40. 29. and that taken collectively, as before.

V. 2. They ſtoop, they bow down together;] Either the Babylonians themſelves, that looked ſo big, and ſtrutted it ſo before, do now hang the head, and go with dejected looks. See the like, Chap. 3. 16. & 10. 3, 4. & 51. 23. or, the images of their gods all alike, in the pillaging of their Temples. For the words are the ſame, that were before uſed of them, ver. 1. and there is an elegant conſonancy in the words, which our Engliſh cannot ſo fitly expreſs; as if it were ſaid, they droop, they ſtoop, or the like.

they could not deliver the burden;] That was carryed away upon the beaſts, ver. 1. The Babylonians were not able to ſave their idols, that ſhould have ſaved them, Chap. 44. 17. nor could their idols ſave themſelves, that ought to have ſaved others. See ver. 7. The words may well be rendred, the burden could not be delivered; either by others, or themſelves: for the verb is indefinite. See the like, Chap. 2. 19. & 45. 24. Mal. 1. 4.

but themſelves are gone into captivity] To wit, their idols, or gods themſelves. See Jer. 48. 7. Heb. and; (as Chap. 29. 13.) their ſoul went into captivity; as Pſal. 105. 18. his ſoul went into iron; and the word ſoul, is ſometime metaphorically applyed, even to things not endued with any ſenſitive faculty; as ch. 10. 18.

V. 3. Hearken unto me, O houſe of Jacob,] God, by the Prophet, turneth his ſpeech to his people, minding them of his divine power manifeſted in his ſupport of them, from their very firſt original; thereby to ſtrengthen their faith, in the aſſurance of his deity, and in a conſtant expectation of deliverance from captivity; and withall, laying before them, the vanity of idols, and extream folly of idolaters; partly, to diſſwade them from the practice of any ſuch fond fopperies; and partly, to arm them againſt the fear of them. See the like, Ch. 41. 8, 9. & 43. 1, 10. & 44. 1, 8, 21.

houſe of Jacob] See Chap. 2. 5.

and all the remnant of the houſe of Iſrael;] That yet ſurvive after the Chaldean Invaſion, and Babylonian deportation, Chap. 10. 21, 22. & 11. 11, 12. & 28. 5.

which are born by me from the belly, which are carried from the womb.] Or, which have been born, and have been carryed; becauſe he ſpeaketh of the time paſt: Which from your firſt original, have been ſupported, and tenderly tended by me: A metaphor from Parents, or Nurſes, that carry younglings, not yet able to go well, in their arms, or in their lap, Chap. 63. 9. See Pſal. 91. 12. Hoſ. 11. 3. and he uſeth both the terms of bearing and carrying, before uſed of their idols, ver. 1. as thereby purpoſely to difference the true God, from thoſe counterfeit gods, in that they needed bearing, and were born by thoſe that worſhipped them, ver. 7. whereas the true God did himſelf ſupport and bear thoſe that adored him, and depended on him, Exod. 19. 4. Deut. 32. 11. Chap. 40. 11. where by other reſemblances, alſo, is the ſame thing ſet forth.

from the belly] See Chap. 44. 2, 24. and ſomewhat the like; even that, from whence this ſeems borrowed, Pſal. 22. 9-12. & 71. 6.

V. 4. And even to your old age, I am he, and even to hoary hairs will I carry you: I have made, and I will bear; even I will carry, and will deliver you.] I am he; or, I am the ſame; as 2 Chron. 28. 22. Pſal. 102. 27. See Mal. 3. 6. Jam. 1. 17. He promiſeth the like tender affection toward them, conſtant care for them, and ſupport of them, as he had formerly afforded them, and uſed about them, (therein ſurpaſſing the wonted practiſe of Parents and Nurſes) even to the laſt, Gen. 28. 15. Joſh. 1. 5. Jer. 32. 40. Joh. 13. 1. Heb. 13. 5. See Pſal. 48. 14. & 71. 9. the pronoun, both poſitive, and poſſeſſive, is wanting; as Chap. 1. 15. & 30. 3.

I have made, and I will bear] A faithful Creator, 1 Pet. 4. 19. Another difference betwen the true God, and the falſe; he is the maker of thoſe that worſhip him, Pſal. 100. 3. Chap. 44. 2. whereas, they are made by thoſe that worſhip them, ver. 6. Chap. 44. 15.

I will deliver] The main ſcope of all, to aſcertain them of deliverance out of their thraldome at Babylon, Chap. 43. 14. & 45. 13.

V. 5. To whom will ye liken me, and make me equal, and compare me, that we may be like?] Or, To whom will ye make me like, or equal? or compare me, that we ſhould be like? To wit, the one to the other. Heb. and we ſhall be like. The copulative, for the disjunctive; as Chap. 45. 9. and for the finitive; as Chap. 43. 12. See Chap. 40. 18, 25. and ver. 9.

V. 6. They laviſh gold out of their bag, and weigh ſilver in the balance; and they hire a goldſmith, and he maketh it a god:] Having laid before them his own approved power, he proceedeth to lay open the ſilly and ſorry condition of thoſe idols, whereon the Babylonians, their enemies, relyed; and theſe to render the more, both deteſtable, and deſpicable to them; he mindeth them, both of the original of them, and their inability to help, either others, or themſelves. See the like, Chap. 40. 19, 20. and 44. 12-19. Jer. 10. 3-5, 9.

laviſh gold] The word here uſed, ſignifieth properly, to waſte, or ſpend riotouſly, more peculiarly, fleſh, and dainty fare: whence the term zolel, for, a glutton, or a great waſter of fleſh; as ſobe, for a drunkard, or deep drinker of wine, joyned oft together, Deut. 21. 20. Prov. 23. 20, 21. and to waſte it, whatſoever it be, as ſome matter of no worth: For that notion, alſo, the word includeth, as appeareth, Jer. 15. 19. Lam. 1. 8, 11. where it is uſed. The meaning is, they ſpare no coſt in making them idols; but ſpend waſtfully, as if they ſet light by their treaſure, upon that that is, in truth, of no uſe or worth, ſave what the metal gives it. Of their laviſh waſtfulneſs in this kind, ſee in that vaſt coloſſus, Dan. 3. 1.

bag] Or, purſe; ſuch as they uſed to put, keep, or carry money about them in, Prov. 1. 14. It is alſo uſed for ſuch bags as they kept their weights in, Deut. 25. 13. Prov. 16. 11. Mic. 6. 11.

weigh ſilver] As in payments they uſed to do, Jer. 32. 9, 10. The whole text may thus be rendred; (becauſe the verbs are indefinite, as thoſe, alſo, ver. 7.) Gold is laviſhed, or, waſtfully ſpent; and, ſilver is weighed. Gold, whereof to make the idoll; and ſilver, wherewith to pay the work-man; or either, to make an idol of it, Chap. 30. 22.

in the balance] Or, by the beam, or, at the beam. Heb. reed, or, cane; whereof it was oft made: the beam, put for the balance; a principal part of, for the whole. And thence it may be the Hebrew word to buy, Chap. 43. 24. becauſe they uſed to buy and ſell by it. Of their ſeverall ſorts of beams, and ſcales, or balances. See on Chap. 40. 12.

they hire a gold-ſmith] Heb. Founder, or Finer, Chap. 40. 19, 20. & 41. 7.

and he maketh it a god] Or, to make it a god; as ver. 5. or, to make a god of it; of that ſilver, or that gold, that they deliver him to work upon, Chap. 2. 20. or, as before, a goldſmith is hired, that may make it a god; as Chap. 44. 14. as if the workman were able to make a god of that, which was nothing leſs before, Jer.10.3,9.& 16.20.

they fall down, yea, they worſhip] It, the idol ſo made. See chap.44.17. or, which they may fall down to, and worſhip; a defect of the relative; as Chap.42.1.& 44.2.

V. 7. They bear him upon the ſhoulder] Or, he is born upon the ſhoulder, on mens ſhoulders; either unto the place where he is to ſtand; or from thence, ſometime, abroad to be ſeen. See on ver.3.

they carry him, and ſet him in his place;] Or, and carried, and ſet. See Chap.44.13. Thus have their gods need of help from them, as they had their being from them at firſt, Jer. 10. 3-5.

and he ſtandeth] Or, there he ſtandeth, Jer.10.5. or, that he may abide there, as before, ver.6. to make it a god: To ſtand, for, to abide, or ſtay; as Deut.5.31. Chap. 66.22. ſo, to ſit, Chap. 44.13.

from his place ſhall he not remove] Or, can he not ſtir, Chap. 40.20.& 41.7. Jer.10.5. the indicative, in a potential notion; as in thoſe other places, and ſo in the next clauſe.

yea, one ſhall cry unto him, yet can he not anſwer] Or, yea, though one cry unto him, yet can he not anſwer; becauſe he can neither hear, nor ſpeak, Pſal,125.6,7. Heb. yea, he ſhall cry, and he ſhall not anſwer; and, for yet; as Neh. 5.18. Pſal.44.18. Ch. 29.2. and the verb potential, as before.

nor ſave him out of his trouble] Or, from his ſtreights; becauſe he can neither do good, nor evil; he can neither help, nor hurt, Chap.41.23,24. Jer. 10.5. Heb. he ſhall not ſave: ſo Chap.45.20.

V. 8. Remember this] Chap.44.21.

and ſhew your ſelves men] Not beaſts, like thoſe idolaters, Chap.45.20. Jer.10.14. or, not women-like, timorous, for fear, to comply with them, or, to ſtand in aw of ought from their idols, Jer.10.1,11. So 1 Cor.16.13.

bring it again to mind, O ye tranſgreſſors.] Heb. bring back to heart: That is, conſider well of it, ye of my people, that have in this kind gone aſtray: a defect of the particle it; as chap. 44.19. Yet ſome reade the text, reduce to wiſdome ſuch as have tranſgreſſed: and the verb ſignifieth, commonly, to reclaim, or reduce, Jer.31.18. Lam.5.21. Ezek.18.30. and the heart is likewiſe put, as uſually, for wit, or wiſedome, Prov. 6.32. & 7.7. Hoſ.7.11. Howbeit, this form of ſpeech is moſt frequently uſed, in the former notion, Deut. 4. 39. & 30.1. So ſomewhat the like form, Chap. 41. 22. Hagg. 1. 5, 7. and 2. 15,18.

V. 9. Remember the former things of old:] Chap. 42.9. & 48. 3. what things I have in former ages, from time to time, done among you, whereby I have evinced my power, and my deity, ver.3. Pſal.77.11,12. Chap.40.21,22.& 43.16,17. & 44. 7,8.

for I am God, and there is none elſe;] Or, that I am God, and none elſe; whereby it ſo appeareth, chap.45.5,6,21,22.

I am God] Or, that I am God: that, ſupplyed from the former branch, as chap.45.6.

and there is none like me.] Or, as ſome, nothing like me. See ver.5. Act.17.29. But here, rather, the former, as chap.43. 7. becauſe of that which followeth, ver. 10. that can both fore-tell, and effect things, as I have done, and ſtill do.

V. 10. Declaring the end from the beginning, and from ancient times, the things that are not yet done;] Foretelling the iſſue of things, long before they come to be executed, and the proceedings or paſſages of them, in a continued courſe and progreſs, from the firſt to the laſt; and ſuch things, at preſent, which though, as yet, they are not in being; yet ſhall ſurely, in their due time, be effected; that which no other then my ſelf can do, chap.41.22,23.& 42.12.& 45.5,6.& 48.2.

ſaying, my Councel ſhall ſtand] Pſal.33.11. Prov. 19.21. & 21.30. chap.14.21,26.

and I will do all my pleaſure] Pſal.115.3.& 136.5. Dan.4.35. applyed, in particular, to Gods will and pleaſure, accompliſhed by Cyrus, in the deſtruction of Babylon, the deliverance of his people, and ſetling them in their land again, chap. 44.28. So ver.11.

V. 11. Calling a ravenous bird from the Eaſt,] Cyrus from Perſia, lying to the Eaſt of Babylon, chap.41.2,25. who ſhould come ſwiftly, and ſeiz upon Babylon, as an Eagle, or vultur, upon his prey, Job 9.26. By either of which, alſo, Cyrus might be reſembled, in regard of his hooked noſe, like an Eagles, or Vultures beak; which was in him ſo notable, that it brought men ſo marked, into much repute among the Perſians. See the like ſimilitude of an Eagle, Ezek.17.3,10. Jer.48.40. & 49.22. Hoſ.8.1. Hab.1.8.

a ravenous bird] Heb. a fowl: but the word coming from a root, that ſignifies, properly, to flee, or fall forcibly (as a Greek word alſo fetcht from it) upon prey: So uſed, 1 Sam.14.33. and, metaphorically, to fall foul upon a man with bad language, 1 Sam. 25. 14. it is more ſpecially uſed for wild Fowl, and thoſe of prey. See inſtances, on Chapter 18. ver.6.

the man that executeth my counſel] Heb. the man of my counſel; as chap.40.13. yet not whom he taketh counſell of for ought; for, ſuch God hath none, chap. 40.14. But whom he intendeth to make uſe of, for the execution of his counſels and purpoſes, concerning the deſtruction of Babylon, and the deliverance of his people, chap. 44. 28. Jer. 50. ver. 45.

from a far country:] For Perſia lay far off, both from Babylon, (Aſſyria, and ſome other Provinces lying between them) and from Judea. See chap.13.5.

yea, I have ſpoken it, I will alſo bring it to paſs; I have purpoſed it, I will alſo do it.] Or, as ſure as I have ſpoken it, I will bring it to paſs; as I have contrived it, I will alſo do it. See ver. 10. chap.14.24,26. a defect of the pronoun it; as chap. 44. 13, 15.

purpoſed] Heb. framed, formed, or, moulded; not only as the potter doth the clay with his hands, Gen.2.7. chap.63.8. but as either he, or any other workman, alſo, is wont to contrive, and conceive in his mind, the faſhion of that work, which he intendeth to produce: for thereunto, alſo, it is oft applyed, Gen.6.5.& 8.21. 1 Chron.28.9. chap.26.3.

V. 12. Hearken unto me ye ſtout-hearted] Or, men of great ſtomacks, Pſal.76.5. He ſeemeth to ſpeak, rather, to the enemy, that out of the pride of their heart, and height of their ſtomack, thought to carry things, as they liſted themſelves, contrary to Gods predictions and purpoſes; (as chap.10.12.) then to thoſe of Gods people, who, either out of imbecility, or incredulity, made doubt of, or denied the truth of Gods promiſes: the term doth not ſo well fit theſe.

that are far from righteouſneſſe] That is, ſay ſome, the tranſgreſſors among Gods people; who by their impenitency, and contumacy, made themſelves altogether unworthy of the favour, by God, intended them, ver.8. Chap.43.22-24. But I ſuppoſe it, rather, meant of their adverſaries, who had dealt moſt unjuſtly and cruelly with his people, whatſoever they pretended, Chap.47.6. Jer.50.7,33. & 51.35.

V. 13. I bring neer my righteouſneſſe] Heb. make to approach, as Chap.41.21. my righteouſneſſe; that is, as ſome, the righteouſneſſe, which my people receive from me, for their juſtification, and acquital from their ſins, Chap.33.24. & 43.25. & 45.24, 25. As others, my faithfulneſſe, my fidelity, in keeping my word, in making good my promiſes, Chap.1.27.& 41.2. & 45. 8.& 51.5. which no might, malice, or unbelief, of any, ſhall hinder from taking effect, Rom.3.3. 2 Tim.2.13. or, as I conceive, my righteouſneſſe, which I ſhall ſhew, in executing judgment on the oppreſſors of my people, and righting the wrongs that by their adverſaries have been done them; as if he had ſaid, though ye have been far from all juſtice and equity, in thoſe things that ye have done unto my people; yet I will deal juſtly with you, and cauſe my juſtice ſpeedily to approach, and take hold on you ere long, Pſal.146.7-9. chap. 59.14-18. Jer.51.35,36. See on chap.45.25.

and my ſalvation ſhall not tarry:] The deliverance of my people, depending upon, and conjoyned with the deſtruction of their foes. See chap.14.1. theſe two go together, as here, ſo Pſal.98.2. chap.56.1.& 59.16,17.

and I will place ſalvation in Zion, for Iſrael, my glory.] I will make Jeruſalem a place of ſafety, chap.26.1,2.& 33.20. Zach. 2.5. for my people; by whoſe deliverance and reſtitution, I will gain to my ſelf much glory. So Exod.15.1,6,11. chap. 60. 21.& 63.14.& 66.18. or, as ſome read the words, and in Iſrael my magnificence; as chap. 4.2,5. & 24.23. & 60.7,19. but the change of the particle carryeth it rather the former way.

CHAP. XLVII.

Verſ.1. C*Ome down, and ſit in the duſt, O Virgin daughter of Babylon*;] In this Chapter is proſecuted the denunciation of Babylons deſtruction, entred upon in the beginning of the Chapter before-going, with a relation of the ruine and captivity of their idols; and after ſome windings, and occaſional digreſſions, now returned unto again. In this Chapter, is her dejected and deſpicable condition, upon her overthrow, together with the procuring cauſes, the ſuddenneſs and unavoidableneſs of it, very pithily and pregnantly deſcribed.

Come down] From thy throne, from thy former height and ſtate. So Jer.13.18.& 48.18.& 51.25. Lam.1.14.

ſit in the duſt] Sit on the ground, as one of low and mean condition; having neither throne, nor ſeat, to ſit on, Pſal.113. 7. But that in the next branch; here rather, ſit in duſt and aſhes, after the manner of mourners, on ſpecial occaſions of great and ſolemn mournings, much uſed in thoſe times, Job 2.8. and 42. 6. Matth. 11. 21. See Chap.52. 2. Jer. 13. ver.18.

O virgin daughter of Babylon] Or, O virgin daughter Babylon: thou Babylon, ſay ſome, that haſt hitherto been unſubdued, chap. 23. 12. but rather, that art like unto a beautifull young damſel, tender and delicate, in diet and dreſſings, gorgeous in attire, ſumptuous in furniture, and priding thy ſelf in the goodlineſs of thy glorious eſtate, Jer. 46. 11. See on Chap. 1. 8. & 23. 12.

ſit on the ground,] As before: ſo Lam. 2. 10.

there is no throne,] For thee to ſit on, in ſtate: thy government is gone; throne, for government; as Pſal. 89. 14, 29. & 122. 5. ſo of Tyre, chap. 23. 10. there is no girdle: there is no power, or trade, left thee; thy might, or merchandize, is gone.

O daughter of the Chaldeans,] O thou Babylon, the beauty and glory of the Chaldean State, chap. 13. 19. So ver. 5.

for thou ſhalt no more be called tender, and delicate.] Heb. thou ſhalt no more add, they ſhall call thee: or, that they ſhall call thee; a form of ſpeech, in other languages, unuſual; but, in Hebrew, very common: ſo 1 Sam. 2. 3. ver. 5. chap. 23. 12. to be called, for, to be, ſimply; or, to be accounted; ſuch, as chap. 4. 3. & 54. 5. & 56. 7. thou ſhalt no longer enjoy that delicacy and daintineſs, that formerly thou didſt. See a deſcription of ſuch; and of ſuch an alteration, Deut. 32. 56, 57. See, alſo, ver. 8.

V. 2. Take the mill-ſtones, and grind meal;] Prepare and fit thy ſelf for all ſervile offices; of which, the turning of, or grinding at the mill, was accounted one of the meaneſt, aſſigned commonly, as in many countries at this day, inſtead of beaſts, unto the ſorrieſt ſort of ſlaves and captives, Exod. 11. 5. Judg. 16. 21. Job 31. 10. Lam. 5. 13. and was ordinarily womens work, Exod. 11. 5. Job 31. 10. Matth. 24. 41. Luk. 17. 35.

take the mill-ſtones] Betake thy ſelf to the mill, as we uſe to ſay, take thy bed; when our meaning is, betake thy ſelf to thy bed.

the mill-ſtones] The word here uſed, and ſo alſo, Exod. 11. 5. Num. 11. 8. and elſe-where, is of a duall form; becauſe the mill conſiſteth of two ſtones, the upper, and the lower: the former called, in Hebrew, receb, or, the rider; as in ſome places, with us, the runner, becauſe it rideth, or runneth about, upon the lower, Deut. 24. 6. the latter, in the writings of the Rabbines (for in the Scripture it is not found) is called ſheceb, the bedred, or the reſter; becauſe it ſtirreth not, but lyeth down, and reſteth under the former. In the law forbidding the taking of the mill-ſtones to pledge, it might be deemed by our tranſlation, where the word rechajim here uſed, ſtandeth in the firſt place, and the word receb in the ſecond, that the former ſhould ſignifie the upper mill-ſtone only; and the latter, the lower: but the former comprehendeth the whole mill, conſiſting, as of two principal parts, of both: the latter, the upper only: the intent of the Law-giver, being to inhibite any to take, for pledge, either the whole mill, both ſtones, or the one of them only; yet, by name, expreſſing only the uppermoſt; becauſe that lying looſe, might the more readily be taken off, and carryed away upon any ſuch occaſion; whereas the other being ordinarily fixed, could not ſo eaſily be removed; and without it, the other would be altogether unuſeful. That of grinding, ſome of the Jews Doctors, both here, and in other the places above-cited, writhe, and wreſt, to an obſcene ſenſe, not worthy to be related.

grind meal:] That is, grind grain or corn, whereof to make meal; or, by grinding of it, make meal; as in that proverbiall ſpeech running elegantly, in Hebrew, their bud ſhall make, or, yeeld no meal, Hoſ. 8. 7. So, he baketh bread, for, he baketh dough, thereof to make bread, chap. 44. 19. there is a kind of prolepſis, or anticipation, in it; as in that, the workman melteth a graven image, chap. 40. 19. that is, metal, whereof a graven image is afterward to be made; otherwiſe, the Founder no more melteth the one, then the Miller grindeth the other.

uncover thy locks] That is, ſay ſome ſhave thy ſelf, as mourners uſe to do, Job 1. 20. See chap. 22. 12. or, as ſlaves and captives are wont to be uſed. See on chap. 3. 24. But that were rather to uncover the head, then the hair, or the locks; to make the head bare, by taking away of the hair: and the like exception may be taken againſt the expoſition of thoſe, that by the word here uſed, would have to be underſtood, certain rich or curious fillets, wherewith the hair is wont to be wound, and bound up, among great ones eſpecially. The word rather ſignifies the locks, or treſſes, that the hair of ſuch uſeth to be made up in, their fore-locks, eſpecially, on either ſide of their temples, as appears, by Cant. 4. 1, 3. & 6. 7. now thoſe of note and ſtate, Queens and Princeſſes, eſpecially, had goodly rich tires and diadems, which did not only cover and adorn their heads; but did bind in alſo, and keep up theſe their locks, from falling down upon their faces: Of which, ſee chap. 3. 23. & 62. 3. Eſt. 1. 11. & 2. 17. Jer. 13. 18. The meaning therefore is, that being ſtript of, or having caſt off, her coſtly and ſtately head-tire, and head-bands, ſhe ſhould go bare-head, with her hair hanging down about her ears, as captives and drudges are wont to do. See Ezek. 21. 16. Lam. 5. 16. So chap. 3. 24.

make bare the leg; uncover the thigh; paſſe over the rivers.] Truſſe up thy clothes about thee, not as thoſe that are to travel, only, Exod. 12. 11. 1 King. 18. 46. but higher then ordinary, as thoſe that are to wade thorow deep waters, to paſſe thorow thick and thin, Pſal. 66. 12. & 69. 1, 2. the leg, and the thigh, for, thy legs, and thy thighes: a defect of the pronoun; as Chap. 37. 4, 23. and the nouns collective; as Chap. 29. 2. the former whereof, I ſuppoſe, might better be rendred foot, then leg; as the plural is footſteps, or paths, Pſal. 77. 19. Jer. 18. 15. the latter, knee, rather then thigh; becauſe it is expreſly diſtinguiſhed from the thigh, Judg. 15. 8. where it is rendred hip, as I conceive, not ſo fitly: but if it be ſo taken here, it ſhould intimate a further degree of diſgrace. Of which, Chap. 3. 17. & 20. 4. but of that, the Prophet ſpeaketh in the next verſe: and the laſt clauſe leadeth rather to the former ſenſe, as ſpoken unto one that was to wade up to the knees. Some ſuppoſe an alluſion in it, to the river Euphrates; over whoſe ſtreams the Babylonians ſhould paſſe captive into Media and Perſia: which it may be, is ſomewhat too nice, and to me ſeems needleſſe.

V. 3. Thy nakedneſſe ſhall be uncovered, and thy ſhame ſhall be ſeen] Either thou ſhalt want wherewith to cover thoſe parts that womanly modeſty abhorreth to have ſeen, and to lye open to common view; or, thou ſhalt, in ſcorn and deriſion, be ſo diſgracefully uſed, as women-priſoners, taken captive, oft-times are, by thoſe uncivil and inhumane perſons into whoſe hands they fall. See, beſides the places pointed to, on the former verſe, Jer. 13. 21, 26. Ezek. 16. 37. & 23. 29. Nah. 3. 5.

I will take vengeance;] To wit, on thee, to be ſupplyed from the latter clauſe; as Chap. 48. 9. as if he had ſaid, it is not ſo much Cyrus, as God by him, that cometh to take vengeance upon thee, Chap. 13. 3-5, 9, 11, 17. & 14. 22. Jer. 50. 9, 15, 21, 25, 28. & 51. 6, 11, 14, 24, 25, 44. for the wrongs done to his people, verſ. 6. Jer. 51. 35, 36. See Chap. 34. 8. & 46. 13.

and will not meet thee as a man] But in full wrath, without any pity, or commiſeration, ſuch as men are wont to ſhew, ſometime, unto the weaker ſex. I will deal with thee, as thou haſt dealt with mine, ver. 6. 2 Chr. 36. 17. Judg. 8. 18-21. Jer. 50. 15. Jam. 2. 13. or, in full power, as God, one of might unconceiveable. See Pſal. 90. 11. Chap. 31. 3. To this purpoſe, the Latine, and thoſe that follow it, read the words, and man ſhall not withſtand me; but that ſenſe the words will not admit. Again, ſome of the Jewiſh Doctors, as alſo of ours, treading in their ſteps, encline much to the former notion, and render it, I will not admit any mans interceſſion for thee; for the word here uſed, ſay they, ſignifies, ſometime, to intercede, ſometime, to admit interceſſion: and in the former ſenſe, indeed, it ſeemeth taken, Gen. 23. 8. Jer. 7. 16. & 27. 18. but for the latter ſenſe, it is not ſo eaſie to find a place, that may fit it: they alledge, Chap. 64. 5. but that ſeems not ſo clear to this purpoſe.

as a man] A defect of the note of ſimilitude; as Chap. 40. 6. & 41. 15.

V. 4. As for our Redeemer, the Lord of hoſts is his name, the holy One of Iſrael.] Or, Saith our redeemer, (for As for, is not in the text, nor doth ſo well fit here; and ſaith, or ſaying, is oft ſuppreſſed, but to be ſupplyed, as 1 King. 20. 34. Pſal. 27. 8. & 105. 15. Ch. 5. 9. & 26. 19. & 45. 14. Nah. 2. 8.) our redeemer, (our reſcuer out of dangers, difficulties, and diſtreſſes, Gen. 48. 16. Chap. 43. 14.) whoſe name is the Lord of hoſts, (as Chap. 48. 2. & 54. 5. the poſitive for the relative; as ch. 33. 21. & 42. 1. ver. 11.) the holy One of Iſrael. See Chap. 1. 4. Spoken in the perſon of Gods people, acknowledging all this done, by God, for their deliverance, out of Gods free favour and mercy unto them, Chap. 14. 1. & 43. 14. & 45. 4.

V. 5. Sit thou ſilent, and get thee into darkneſſe] Having broke off his ſpeech to Babylon wherein he had begun to tell her what ſhe muſt do, and what ſhould betide her, to give her to underſtand, who it was that ſpoke it, and would enforce her to do it, ver. 3, 4. he returns in this verſe again to her; enjoyning her further, for ſhame, and confuſion, to be mute, and to get into ſome dark corner out of ſight. Sit ſilent, or, Sit dumb, (for that is the very word in the Hebrew; as alſo, Lam. 3. 23.) as one confounded, and not able to ſpeak, Pſal. 77. 4. & 107. 42. Mat. 22. 12. and go into the dark, (the abſtract for the concrete; as Job 3. 3.) as one aſhamed of thy ſelf, and not enduring to be ſeen, in ſuch ſorry condition, as thou ſhalt be in ſhortly, ver. 3. Lam. 1. 9. & 2. 10.

O daughter of the Chaldeans.] See on ver. 1.

for thou ſhalt no more be called the Lady of Kingdoms] As the State of Judah, ſometime, the Princes of Provinces, Lam. 1. 1. and as Babylon it ſelf alſo, the glory of Kingdoms, Chap. 13. 19. not only, as a moſt ſtately and glorious one among them, but as one that ruled over them, Jer. 27. 7, 8, 9. Dan. 2. 37, 38.

V. 6. I was wroth with my people; I have polluted mine inheritance, and given them into thine hand: thou didſt ſhew them no mercy; upon the ancient haſt thou very heavily laid thy yoke.]

One cauſe of Babylons overthrow, before hinted, ver.4. their extream cruelty exerciſed upon Gods people; which howſoever, through the juſt judgment of God, it befel them for their ſins, Chap.10.5,6. Jer.1.15,16. yet it did no more excuſe them, who intended nothing leſs, then the execution of Gods juſt deſigns, Chap.10.7. then Gods counſel, and purpoſe, concerning the giving up of his Son, for the Salvation of his Elect, did acquit any of thoſe from wicked hearts, and hands, that had ought to do, either as procurers, or actors, in the putting of him to death, Act.2.23. & 4.27,28. See on chap. 45.24,25.

I was wroth with my people] Chap.57.17. & 64.5. Zach.1. 15. of the term, ſee on Chap.34.2.

I have polluted mine inheritance] Or, I polluted; that it may run in the ſame tenour with the former; as in the original it doth. I dealt with my people, whom I had adopted, and taken unto my ſelf, for a peculiar, Exod.19.5. Deut.7.6. and was as deer to me, as to an heir his inheritance is wont to be, 1 King.21.3. Chap.19.25. as with ſome profane, or unclean thing, Chap.43.28. Lam.1.17.

and given them into thine hand] Or, gave them (as before) into thine hand; that is, into thy power: as ver. 14. Jer. 12. 7. Lam.1.14.

thou didſt ſhew them no mercy] Inſtead of pitying, and compaſſionating their miſery, thou didſt exceedingly aggravate it, by thine extream hard, and cruel uſage of them, 2 Chr. 36.17. Pſal.69.26. Heb. thou didſt ſet them no bowels: bowels, for, mercy; or, tender mercy: as Chap.54.7. Dan.9.9. Zach.1. 16. So Luk.1.78. Phil.2.1.

upon the ancient] Who for age ſhould have been pitied; but with thee found no mercy: thou dealteſt unmercifully, with old and young alike, Deut. 28. 50. Lam. 2. 21. and 5. 12,13.

haſt thou very heavily laid the yoke.] Or, didſt thou; as in the former branch. Heb. make thy yoke very heavy: for the pronoun expreſſed in the Hebrew, ſhould not be omitted: thy yoke; not that thou didſt thy ſelf wear, or bear: as 1 King.12. 4. Jer.2.20. but that thou laidſt upon, and didſt compel them, to bear, and wear, as Jer. 27.7,10. a metaphor taken from ſuch yokes, as beaſts are wonted to draw in. See Jer. 28.48. Lam.1.14.

V. 7. And thou ſaidſt] Thoughteſt with thy ſelf; as Pſal. 10.11. & 94.7. Chap.10.10. See alſo, ver.8.

I ſhall be a Lady for ever.] Another cauſe of her ruine, her inſolent, and confident preſumption, imagining her power and ſettlement to be ſuch, as ſhe never ſhould, nor could, by any means, be pulled down, or diſmounted, from the top, or height of her ſtate. So Pſal. 10. 6. Rev. 18.7. See the like preſumption of Edom, Obad.3. of Ammon, Jer.49.6. of Gods own people, Jer.21.13. yea, ſome tang of it, in one, after Gods own heart, Pſal.30.6.

So that thou didſt not lay theſe things to thine heart] Heb. hitherto, or, as yet, thou haſt not ſet theſe things upon thine heart: as Chap.57.1. thou little thoughteſt of any ſuch matter, as is now befallen thee. See on Chap.46.8.

nor didſt remember the latter end of it] Heb. nor haſt remembred her latter end; as Lam.1.9. that is, thy latter end; as Job 18.4. a permutation of perſons, or paſſage from perſon to perſon; the like whereunto, ſee Chap.1.29. & 31.7. & 34. 16. Jer.17.1. Thou little thoughteſt what would be the iſſue of theſe things, or what would, at length, befall thee, Deut.32. 29. the cauſe, likewiſe, of the ruine of Gods own people, Lam.1.9.

V. 8. Therefore hear now this, thou that art given to pleaſures, that dwelleſt careleſly] Heb. And now hear this: and, for therefore; the copulative, for the illative: as Chap.42.25. or, But now hear this: the copulative, for the adverſative; as Chap. 40.31. thou delicate, or delitious one: it comes from that root, from which the land, or garden of Eden, had its name, Gen.2. 15. See ver.1. that dwelleſt careleſly, or, ſitteſt ſecurely, or, confidently, Judg.18.7. Jer.49.31.

that ſayſt in thine heart,] See ver.7.

I am, and none elſe beſides me;] The like, ſee of Nineveh, Zeph.2.15. An inſolent and arrogant expreſſion, of proud and preſumptuous perſons, imitating what God is wont to ſay of himſelf, Chap.41.4 & 43.10,11,12,13. & 44.6. & 45.5, 6,22. Some ſupply it; I am a Lady, (the peculiar one, ver. 5,7.) and there is none (no Lady worth ſpeaking of) beſides me; as ver.10. But the words here next following, carry it rather to the former, as ſpoken, rather of her unmoveable ſubſiſtence, then of her matchleſs magnificence. See ver.7. Howbeit, a learned late Critick, controlleth this generally received verſion; and would have it rendred, either by way of aſſertion, I am; and I only (as Deut. 15. 4. Num. 22. 35. 2 Sam.12.14.) hereafter: or, by way of interrogation, I am; and is there any more beſides me? And this his rejection of the received reddition to ſtrengthen, he obſerveth, that another form of ſpeech is uſed in the like, concerning God, Chap.45. 6. But that very place, if the manner of the Hebrew language be well obſerved, will help to juſtifie the received verſion here; for it is a thing very uſual in Hebrew, to ſwallow up the prepoſition intervenient between the verb or the noun, and the pronoun affixed to either, which yet muſt of neceſſity be reſtored, or ſupplyed, to make the ſenſe entire. Hereof, ſee inſtances, not a few, on Chap.28.15. & 48.10. & 49.24. & 65.5. the particle beſides then, expreſſed there, being (as of neceſſity it muſt, to make the ſenſe entire,) ſupplyed here; the verſion there is none I, that is, but I, or beſide me, will be warrantable, becauſe ſuitable to that parallel place, and agreeable to many other the like conſtructions.

I ſhall not ſit as a widow, neither ſhall I know the loſſe of children.] Thou thoughteſt it impoſſible, ever to be deprived of thy King, and Kingdome, whereunto thou ſeemeſt to be wedded, as to an husband, by an indiſſoluble band; or, of thy people, that are as thy children, or, as ſome, thy poſterity, thine iſſue, that ſhould ſucceed conſtantly, in thy Kingdom. See Rev.18.7.

ſit as a widow] Heb. ſit a widow; as Gen. 38. 11. or, ſit as a widow; the note of ſimilitude ſupplyed: as Lam. 1. 1. which here wanteth, as ver.3. I ſhall not ſit deſolate, as widows uſe to do.

know] Experimentally; ſuſtain, or ſuffer, as Gen. 2. 9. Eccl. 8.5. 2 Cor.5.21.

V. 9. But theſe two things ſhall come unto thee, in a moment, in one day, the loſſe of children, and widow-hood] It ſhall befal thee clean contrary to thine expectation, or preſumption rather, in both, and in both at once; yea, both ſhall betide thee, ſuddenly, and in as much extremity as may be, the loſs both of Soveraignty, and of ſubjects together; or, of poſterity, to ſway the ſcepter of thy State ſucceſſively, the line of Nebuchadnezzar being with Balraſar cut off, Dan. 5. 30, 31. See the like Chap.51.19.

But] Or, Yet. Heb. And. So Chap. 40. 31. and 42. 20, 25.

in a moment] Or, ſuddenly. When it is leaſt thought on, or, looked for, Job. 21. 13. & 34. 20. Pſal. 73. 19. See verſ. 11.

in one day] At one time, together; not ſo preciſely: as 1 Sam.2.34. but as Rev.18.8.

they ſhall come upon thee, in their perfection] They ſhall come full, or fully upon thee. Heb. according to their entireneſs, or, perfection; thy calamities, in either kind, ſhall be exceeding great. See the next clauſe.

for the multitude of thy ſorceries, and for the great abundance of thine enchantments.] for, or with, thy manifold witch-crafts, for thy mighty enchantments, ſhall they come upon thee exceedingly; for the laſt word is an adverb, and ſignifies, very much, very greatly, abundantly, exceedingly; and is uſed commonly, to expreſs the ſuperlative degree, which the Hebrews want, Gen.1.31. Exod.1.7. Pſal.119.4. and there is a pauſe at the word next before it; which ſheweth, that it hath reference to ſomewhat elſe before that, and to no noun ſubſtantive, which it will not fitly accord with, but ſome verb, which out of the former branch, therefore, is to be ſupplyed; as Gen.1.16,30. 2 Chr.10.11. Prov.15.15. Chap.43.2. And ſo our ancient verſions had it, they ſhall mightily fall upon thee.

for] As the particle is uſed, Gen.18.28. Jer. 18. 18. and then are her ſorceries, or witchcrafts, and enchantments, here mentioned, as one procuring cauſe, alſo, of her downfal; or, with, that is, together with; as 1 Sam.1.24. Jer.11.19. Hoſ. 5.6. and then the meaning is, that all her magical ſlights, and cunning fetches, ſhould ſtand her in no ſtead, but ſhould all fail, and fall together, with her, and her State, ver. 12,14,15.

ſorceries] Or, witchcrafts; (for thence the word for a witch, Exod.22.17.) whereby is underſtood, as well her politick devices, wherewith ſhe circumvented, and deluded; and ſo either won to her, or kept with her, great Princes and potent people; as if they had been bewitched, and enchanted by her: but her magical arts, and practiſes alſo, wherein that State abounded, ver. 12,13. therein treading, and tracing the ſteps of Nineveh, by whoſe ruine ſhe roſe, called, a Miſtreſs of witchcrafts, Nah.3.4. as alſo the ſpiritual Babylon, that ſucceeded the ſecular, did herein alſo, not come ſhort of either. See Rev.17.2,3. & 18.23.

the great abundance of thine enchantments] Heb. the might, or power, of thine enchantments; for ſo the word ſignifies, and is ſo rendred, Chap.40.29. Nah.3.9. derived from a word, that ſignifieth a bone, and is uſed, alſo, for ſtrength; becauſe the bones are the ſtrength of the body, Job 21.23. It is true, that the verb is uſed, as well for to abound, or, to be many; as to be ſtrong, or mighty, Pſal.40.5,12. Chap.31.1. and the adjective from it, deſcending likewiſe, Chap.60.22. but the ſubſtantive here uſed, for might, rather then for multitude; as in the places pointed to, where alone it is found; ſo that not only the variety and numeroſity of her ſlights and policies; but the powerfulneſſe and prevalency of them is here alſo intimated: neither whereof, yet, ſhould be able to ſecure her againſt God: For there is no power, or policy; no might, or ſlight of any, that can prevail againſt him, Prov. 21.30. Chap. 28.15, 17, 18.

V. 10. For thou haſt truſted in thy wickedneſſe] Or, Becauſe (Heb. And, as Chap. 64.5.) thou haſt truſted, in thy wicked courſes, thy wiles and ſlights before-mentioned: or, thy means and might thereby acquired, Pſal. 52.7. Chap. 28.15.

thou haſt ſaid, None ſeeth me.] Thou haſt deemed thy ſelf even out of Gods eye-ſight; and thy deſigns and projects ſo cunningly contrived, ſo cloſely and covertly carried, that they could not poſſibly be deſcryed, or diſcovered by any, Pſal. 64.5. & 94.3. Chap. 29.15.

Thy wiſdome and thy knowledge, it hath perverted thee:] Or, hath made thee to turn away; or, hath turned thee aſide, Chap. 57.19. Thou didſt imagine, but vainly, as by experience it will appear, that thy ſlight and skill would ſecure thee; and thy truſting thereunto, made thee tranſgreſs the more freely: that which Solomon, therefore, forewarns his ſon, to beware of, Prov. 3.5 ſuch wiſdome and knowledg, falſly ſo termed, 1 Tim. 6.20. puffeth up, 1 Cor. 8.1.

and thou haſt ſaid in thy heart, I am, and none elſe beſides me.] See ver. 8.

V. 11. Therefore ſhall evil come upon thee; and thou ſhalt not know from whence it ariſeth:] Heb. thou ſhalt not know the morning thereof, or, the riſing of it; that is, the morning, or riſing, whereof thou ſhalt not know: as ver. 4. morning, for, riſing: as, evening, for, ſun-ſetting; oppoſed to ſun-riſing, Chap. 45.6. Thou ſhalt not know, either from what region it ſhall ariſe; or, on what day it ſhall come: alluding to the riſing of the Sun, whoſe approach produceth morning; and withal, giving a privy nip to the practice and profeſſion of their wizzards, by that State ſo much relyed upon, who by the courſe of the Stars, and the riſing and ſetting of them, undertook to preſage, and foretel, what would every day fall out; and by whoſe help, they made account that they might eaſily foreſee, and prevent, conſequently, any evil, that was on foot, or intended againſt them, ver. 12, 13. It may have reference alſo to Cyrus his ſudden ſurprizal of them, ere they were aware of him. The Babylonians little dreamed, when they aroſe at Court, from their up-ſitting at their revels, that their city was ſurprized; and the tidings of the unexpected ſurpriſal of it, was even then poſting apace to them. See Jer. 51.31.

and miſchief ſhall befall thee; and thou ſhalt not be able to put it off] Or, which thou ſhalt not be able to avoid, or to avert: as Chap. 37.27. Heb. to expiate, Chap. 28.18. a metaphor from ſuch expiations, as being duly performed, did free the party ſo expiated from penalty, Numb. 16.46-48. thou ſhalt neither be able to foreſee it, nor to free thy ſelf from it, Jer. 50.24.

and deſolation ſhall come upon thee ſuddenly, which thou ſhalt not know]: Or, which thou doſt not know; as Prov. 27.1. a defect of the relative, as Chap. 44.4. or, when thou ſhalt not know it; what time thou thinkeſt not of it: as Matth. 24.39, 50. the adverb of time ſupplyed: as Chap. 17.6. & 26.19. & 41.17.

V. 12. Stand now with thine enchantments, and with the multitude of thy ſorceries] Or, witchcrafts, or witcheries: as ver. 9. In way of deriſion he calleth upon them to muſter up all their deviliſh arts and devices, to try what, in their diſtreſſe, they are able to do for their indemnity, and deliverance by them. Some, both here, and ver. 9. would have read inſtead of enchantments, and witcheries; enchanters, and witches: but theſe terms in Scripture are no where ſo uſed; two other words of the ſame ſtock, with theſe, are uſed for either, Pſal. 58.5. Jer. 27.9. Howbeit, there may in this place, be an Ellipſis, or want of the ſubject; as in divers places, the like is found: enchantments, for, men, or maſters, of enchantments and witcheries, for men, or women, maſters, or miſtreſſes, of witcheries; that is, profeſſors, or practiſers, of ſuch helliſh arts; enchanters, or charmers; wizzards, or witches: as Nineveh is called, a miſtreſſe of witcheries; that is, a great practitioner in ſuch kind of abominations, Nah. 3.4. ſo is the harveſt, put for the harveſt-man, Chap. 17.5. See more there. If we take it for the arts, or practiſes themſelves, the text would be rendred, ſtand up now with them; as armed, and furniſhed with them: as 1 King. 11.11. See ver. 13. if for the profeſſors, & practiſers of them, it would be rendred, Stand now among them; as conſulting with them, or ſeeking ayd and advice from them, ver. 13.

wherein thou haſt laboured from thy youth:] Or, with whom, as ver. 15. having reference, either to the practiſes themſelves, or to the practiſers of them. Theſe kind of arts, the Chaldeans were anciently ſo much addicted unto, that the profeſſors of them, were, among other nations, known, and called commonly, by the name of Chaldeans. See Diodore, l. 3. c. 8. and Tully of divination, l. 1. and their Magicians were highly eſteemed with them, and great men in the State. See Dan. 2.2. & 4.6, 7. & 5.7, 8.

from thy youth] From thy firſt beginning to riſe, and grow up into a State. See the like, Jer. 22.21.

if ſo be thou ſhalt be able to profit, if ſo be thou mayſt prevail.] Try whether the one, or the other, be able to do thee any good, or to ſtand thee in any ſtead, to avail thee in ought, or to prevail ought for thee, againſt the evil that is coming upon thee. So Chap. 30.5, 6. & 45.20. Lam. 4.17. See the like ironies, Jer. 22.20. & 46.11. ver. 13.

V. 13. Thou art wearied in the multitude of thy counſels] Thou doſt but tire out thy ſelf in vain, in ſtudying how to ſave thy ſelf, one while by one courſe, another while by another. So Chap. 16.12. Jer. 2.36, 37. & 4.14.

let now the aſtrologers, the ſtar-gazers, the monethly prognoſticators ſtand up, and ſave thee, from thoſe things that ſhall come upon thee] Call for all thy wizzards to ſtand up for thee, and to improve their skill, and power, to the utmoſt, in thy behalf. So Chap. 41.1. & 43.9. Balthaſar called for them all; but none of them all knew what to adviſe him, or how to ſave him, Dan. 5.7, 8.

aſtrologers] Heb. viewers of the heavens: not ſuch, as view ſo as David did, Pſal. 8.3. and as Gods people and others, are willed to do, Chap. 40.26. to conſider, and contemplate the incomparable glory, wiſdom, power, and providence of God, diſcovered, and brightly ſhining forth in them, Pſal. 8.1. & 19.1-4. & 104.1-4. Rom. 1.21. but that gaze on them, to read the fates, and fortunes (as they term them) of men, and ſtates, perſons, and people in them; and to foretel thence, what good, or evil, ſhall betide them: building upon ſuch fond, groundleſs, ſuperſtitious, and ridiculous principles, as by the Devils ſuggeſtion, (ſuch are the good Angels that theſe ſeducers and deluders of people tell us of, if they have them from any that pretend ſo to be,) or from the flaſhy fancies of their own addle brains, that they have framed and forged to themſelves, Jer. 10.1. and the Hebrew Doctors, therefore, affirm the term here uſed, to come from an Arabick word, that ſignifieth to decide; and to denote ſuch, as take upon them, to decide, and determine things of future contingency, by the view of the sky. Howbeit, ſome take upon them, here, to alter the text; and, becauſe this word is in Scripture no where elſe found, to read inſtead of it, the word uſed elſewhere, for an enchanter, or charmer, Deut. 18.11. Pſal. 58.5. of the ſame ſtock with that, ver. 9, 12. but taken in another ſenſe; ſo as it is no where, ſave in a feminine form, found uſed in Scripture, as it ſignifieth a conſociater, or, conjoyner; expounding the words, by an inverſion of terms; ſuch as conſociate, or conjoyn the ſtars, (that obſerve the conjunctions of them, for the drawing of dooms and predictions from them) by contemplating of the heavens: ſuch an inverſion of terms, ſome alſo would have, Pſal. 35.7. But theſe ſeem to be ſomewhat over-bold with the text.

ſtar-gazers] Heb. thoſe that gaze upon the ſtars. Another term given to the ſame perſons, to thoſe of the ſame profeſſion, among whom there were thoſe, as Tully reporteth, that vaunted of skill, gathered from the obſervation of the courſes and conjunctions of the ſtars, for above, or about, as ſome, fourty, yea, as ſome, ſeventy thouſands of years; ſo many thouſands, before there were either ſtars to be obſerved, or men to obſerve them, the world having not, as yet, ſeen neer ſix thouſand years.

monethly prognoſticators] Heb. that give notice, inſtruct, or make to know things concerning the moneths: the word properly ſignifies the new moon, Pſal. 81.3. Ezek. 46.3. but is uſed commonly for the moneth: becauſe the new moon, among the Jews, began the moneth. Thoſe that take upon them, to tell beforehand, the occurrents of each moneth, as our Prognoſticators alſo do.

ſtand up, and ſave thee] Heb. ſtand up, and ſave thee; for the copulative is in the text: Or, ſtand up to ſave thee: as that particle is alſo uſed, Joſh. 2.9. Chap. 19.12. & 33.2.

V. 14. Behold they ſhall be as ſtubble; the fire ſhall burn them] They ſhall be as ſtubble to the fire, in the day of Gods wrath; Chap. 1.31. & 5.24. Exod. 15.7. Nahum 1.10. Zeph. 2.2. and it may be, alſo, made fuel, matter for ordinary fire, as the Philiſtines idols, 2 Sam. 5.21. and the Jewiſh falſe Prophets, Jer. 29.22.

they ſhall not deliver themſelves from the power of the flame.] Heb. their ſouls (as Chap. 44.20. Ezek. 14.14.) from the hand (as Pſal. 22.20. & 49.15.) of the flame, that is, of the fire; as Luk. 16.24. they ſhall not be able to ſave themſelves; much leſſe to ſave others, ver. 13, 15. Chap. 46.2. Pſal. 146.3, 4.

there ſhall not be a coal to warm at, nor fire to ſit before it.] They ſhall utterly periſh, and nothing of them remain; that may yeeld the leaſt help, or hope; that may afford the leaſt conſort ; a metaphor taken from wood, or fewel, ſo burnt and conſumed to aſhes, that not ſo much as any coal, cinder, or ember, is left, that may be of any uſe, afford any heat, of help, to kindle a new fire again. See the like in another notion, Chap. 50. 14. or, as ſome render it, it ſhall not be a coal to warm with, or, fire to ſit before it ; that is, ſay they, the fire which the Medes and Perſians ſhall kindle at Babylon, among the Chaldeans, ſhall not be ſuch a fire, as men are wont to ſit by for warmth in winter, Jer. 36. 21. but ſuch a waſting and conſuming fire, as ſhall deſtroy and devour all before it, Pſal. 50. 3. & 97. 3. chap. 9. 18. & 10. 16. & 24. 6. & 26. 11. Jer. 51. 25, 31. But the former ſenſe ſeems the ſounder, both for what went before, and for what followeth after, ver. 15. However, the negative is to be ſupplyed from the former branch ; or the disjunctive inſtead of it to be inſerted ; as Pſal. 9. 18. See on chap. 28. 28.

V. 15. Thus ſhall they be unto thee, with whom thou haſt laboured, even thy merchants from thy youth.] Or, Thus ſhall thy merchants be unto thee, (that is, in like manner ſhall it be with thee, as in regard of thy wizzards, ſo in regard of thy merchants) with whom thou haſt tired thy ſelf (as Jer. 51. 58.) from thy youth. For there ſeems to be a trajection in the words of the text. The like, whereunto, is found Rev. 13. 8. compared with chap. 17. 8. there ; as this, with ver. 12. here ; either of theſe readings doth well fit thoſe, who, by merchants, here underſtand her wizzards. Howbeit, if we regard the diſtinctions in the Hebrew, the text would thus be read ; Thus ſhall it be with thee, in regard of thoſe, with whom thou haſt tired out thy ſelf : (for there is the middle diſtinction) that is, of thy wizzards : and then followeth ; thy merchants, or, thy traders, thoſe that have traded with thee, (as thy campers, for thoſe that camp againſt thee, Pſal. 55. 5.) from thy youth ſhall wander every one to his quarter : and this I take to be the genuine reading of the place.

thy merchants] All that had any trading with her, from forreign parts, which were not a few, (as with Nineveh before, Nah. 3. 16.) partly, in regard that ſhe was now become the head-city of the Empire ; and partly, alſo, in regard of her convenient ſituation for trade, by reaſon of the great rivers, upon which, and neer unto which, ſhe was ſeated. See the like of the myſtical Babylon, Rev. 18. 11.

from thy youth] Since thou beganneſt to riſe to a more abſolute empire, by the declination of the Aſſyrian Monarchy, the trade of Nineveh, that fell with it, being then transferred, and devolved unto thee. See ver. 12.

they ſhall wander every one to his own quarter :] Heb. paſſage. They ſhall flee away as faſt as they can, each one to his own home, to his own country, when they ſee how it goeth, or is like to go with thee. Or, they ſhall flee each one any way, that they can find free paſſage by, for his own ſafety, unto any place, where they ſuppoſe they may be ſecured, and leave thee alone, to ſhift, as thou canſt, for thy ſelf. See the like of her Souldiery, Jer. 51. 9.

none ſhall ſave thee.] Neither thy merchants ; for they ſhall forſake thee : nor thy wizzards ; for they ſhall periſh together with thee, ver. 14.

CHAP. XLVIII.

Verſ. 1. HEar ye this,] This Chapter is, alſo, much of the ſame, both ſubject and frame, with divers of the former, eſpecially the 43. and 44. For in it, the Lord reproveth the diſobedience, rebelliouſneſs, and obſtinacy of his own people ; layeth before them, his power, and his providence, whereof by many evidences, they might be convinced ; ſheweth, by what means they might have prevented many miſchiefs that had befallen them ; and yet promiſeth, having refined them, by ſuch afflictions as they had undergone, by Cyrus ſoon to ſet them free, and reſtore them again.

Hear ye this, O houſe of Jacob,] Ch. 44. 1. & 46. 3.

which are called by the name of Iſrael,] Which profeſs your ſelves to be Iſraelites, and bear that name, but do not anſwer your name, are not ſo in truth, Rom. 2. 17. & 9. 6. They vaunted themſelves of Iſrael, as of Abraham, Matth. 3. 9. Joh. 8. 33. whereas, indeed, they neither reſembled, nor imitated, either Iſrael, or Abraham, Mat. 3. 7. Joh. 8. 37, 39, 40.

and are come forth out of the waters of Judah ;] That are of the lineage, or off-ſpring of Judah ; deſcending and iſſuing from him, as ſtreams, or rivulets, from a well-head, or ſpring, Deut. 33. 28. Pſal. 68. 26. See the like metaphor, Prov. 5. 15-18. And this is an higher degree of honour and dignity, that theſe men arrogated to themſelves : for all the twelve Tribes were deſcended of Jacob ; but we, ſay they, are of the ſtock of Judah, the royall Tribe, Gen. 49. 8, 10. which had retained the ſervice and worſhip of God with them, when the other fell away to idolatry, 2 Chron. 11. 13-16. & 13. 8-10.

which ſwear by the name of the Lord, and make mention of the God of Iſrael,] That ſwear by the true God, as profeſſing to ſerve him, Chap. 19. 18. & 45. 23. as every nation is wont to ſwear by that god they ſerve and worſhip, Gen. 31. 53. when as yet they yeeld him no obedience, but abuſe his name to evil purpoſes, Jer. 5. 2. Hoſ. 4. 15. Zeph. 1. 5. and make mention of him, when they ſwear, Exod. 23. 13. Joſh. 23. 17. or more generally have the name of God oft in their mouths ; as well out of oaths, as in oaths ; as if they reverenced and regarded him, when, indeed, they do nothing leſs, Chap. 29. 13. Jer. 12. 2.

but not in truth, nor in righteouſneſs.] As an oath ought to be taken, and Gods name to be uſed. See Jer. 4. 2. and 5. 2.

V. 2. For they call themſelves of the Holy City,] As it is ſtyled, Mat. 4. 5. & 27. 53. Heb. here, the city of holineſs, or, rather, the city of the ſanctuary. For there is an article of ſpecial deſignation before the noun governed ; and ſo Chap. 52. 1. which, indeed, was the main ground why it was called and accounted, by an eminency, the holy city, in regard of Gods Sanctuary there ſeated, and his name or worſhip there ſetled, Deut. 12. 11. 2 Chron. 7. 12, 16. of this city Jeruſalem, Ch. 52. 1. they profeſſed themſelves to be citizens, even fellow-citizens, with Gods holy ones, Eph. 2. 19. Now as the text is here read, it ſeems to render a further reaſon, of what they were formerly ſaid to profeſs, to wit, that they were of Jacobs Family, and Judahs iſſue ; for they were of Jeruſalem, the head city of Judah ; which being yet a further matter of honour, and an higher dignity, to be citizens of ſo honourable and holy a city, might well help to confirm the former ; becauſe it was an adjection thereunto. But Some read the words rather, Though they call themſelves of that city ; as having reference to the laſt words of the former verſe, not in truth, nor in righteouſneſs : though, or, albeit, they profeſs themſelves to be ſuch, as is hereafter mentioned ; and the particle here uſed, is very frequently thus taken, in a diſcretive notion ; which, not obſerved, hath made ſome places the more obſcure ; as that, Gen. 8. 21. & 48. 14. Pſal. 25. 11. but ſo clearly, Joſh. 17. 18. Pſal. 23. 4. Chap. 12. 1. See the like, Chap. 58. 2.

and ſtay themſelves upon the God of Iſrael,] Make as if they truſted, and relied upon God, Mic. 3. 11. Rom. 2. 17. Joh. 2. 23-25. & 6. 64. Act. 8. 13, 23. a metaphor taken from ſome ſtay, that a man leaneth upon for ſupport. See Chap. 36. 6.

the Lord of hoſts is his name.] Or, whoſe name is the Lord of hoſts ; as Chap. 47. 4. Jer. 48. 15.

V. 3. I have declared the former things from the beginning, and they went forth out of my mouth, and I ſhewed them : I did them ſuddenly, and they came to paſs.] Or, The former things which I declared in times paſt, and which came out of my mouth, and which I ſhewed, I did ſuddenly, and they came to paſs. This is here mentioned, as oft before ; partly, to aſſert Gods divine power and providence ; partly, to tax them, for not adhering ſincerely and conſtantly to him, notwithſtanding thoſe evident proofs thereof exhibited unto them ; and partly, to ſtrengthen the faith of the godly party, in firm expectation of the future performance of thoſe things that now he promiſed. See Chap. 41. 22, 26. & 42. 9. & 43. 9-13. & 45. 21. & 46. 10. The relative is wanting in the two firſt branches, as chap. 47. 10. ſupplyed by the poſitive in the third ; as chap. 46. 4. ver. 4.

former] Heb. firſt ; as chap. 46. 9.

from the beginning] Heb. from then ; as chap. 44. 7. verſe 5. Since the time that I firſt took you to be my people, chap. 43. 4. or, rather, more generally, in times paſt, chap. 46. 9.

went out of my mouth] Either by way of prediction, Pſal. 89. 34. or, by way of determination, Lam. 3. 37, 38. chap. 45. 23. See ver. 5.

ſhewed] Heb. made to hear, or, to be heard ; as chap. 41. 22. & 42. 9. ver. 20.

I did] Whatſoever I fore-told, or promiſed, I failed not in due time to effect, Joſh. 21. 45. & 23. 14. chap. 45. 23.

ſuddenly] Either when they were leaſt expected and looked for, chap. 30. 13. & 47. 11. or at the very inſtant of time prefixed, Exod. 12. 41. So Mal. 3. 1.

V. 4. Becauſe I knew that thou art obſtinate, and thy neck is an iron ſinew, and thy brow braſs.] A reaſon why God was pleaſed to fore-tel things to his people, long before he did them ; that they might not, when they were done, be aſcribed to any other beſide himſelf, by them ; which he fore-knew that they would be too prone to do.

Becauſe I knew] Heb. From my knowing ; as chap. 31. 4. & 53. 5. Pſal. 12. 5. where the particle is uſed in a cauſal notion. See it in another, concerning the ſame ſubject, that is here inſiſted on, Deut. 9. 24.

obſtinate] Heb. hard ; Exod. 32. 9. & 33. 3, 5. & 34. 9. Deut. 9. 6, 13. & 31. 27.

thy neck is an iron ſinew] Or, an iron ſinew is in thy neck ; a defect of the prepoſition ; as chap. 34. 13. & 44. 12. Heb. a ſinew of iron, as a yoke of iron, Deut. 28. 48. and, a rod of iron, Pſal.2.9. for, an iron yoke, and, an iron rod; an iron ſinew, for, a ſtiff, hard, tough one; as it is expounded in the places above-mentioned.

thy brow braſs] Or, as ſome, ſteel; as the word is ſuppoſed to ſignifie, Judg.16.21. Jer.15.12. Lam.3.7. Heb. brazen; as we ſay, a brazen brow; or, a ſteely, as the word is uſed, Lev.26.19. Job 6.12. & Pſal.18.34. a bow of ſteel; a brow of ſteel, or, a ſteely brow, for, a brow as hard, as if it were of braſs, or ſteel, that is, exceeding hard. See the like phraſes of rocky-faces, Jer.5.3. and of ſtony, and flinty hearts, expreſſing an extremity of obſtinacy, Ezek.36.26. Zach.7.12.

V. 5. I have even from the beginning declared it to thee; before it came to paſs, I ſhewed it thee.] See on ver.3. the pronoun it, is here wanting; as chap. 46. 11. See, alſo, ver.6.

leſt thou ſhouldeſt ſay, Mine idoll hath done them;] The proneneſs even of many among gods people, to aſcribe unto their falſe gods, what God himſelf had done for them, Jer. 44.17,18. Hoſ.2.5,8. as the Heathen people uſed to do, Judg. 16.23. Of the word idol, here uſed, ſee on Chap.10.10.

and my graven image, and my molten image hath commanded them.] Or, given them in charge; as Chap.38.1. & 45.11. appointed them thus to come to paſs. See before, Gone out of my mouth, ver.3.

and] Or, or; the copulative disjunctively; as Chap.44.10. & 45.9. Some one, or other of mine idols.

V. 6. Thou haſt heard; ſee all this; and will not ye declare it?] Or, Conſider all this, which thou haſt heard; (all that I have ſhewed thee, or made thee to hear, ver.3,5.) a defect of the relative, as ver. 3. and will ye diſſemble what ye have heard from me ſo long before, and not acknowledge it your ſelves, and acquaint others with it, that ye may be witneſſes in my behalf, of the truth thereof unto them? Chap. 43. 10. & 44.8. See Chap.43.19. Some would read the words; and do not you your ſelves publiſh it? that is, publikely acknowledge it, in the celebration of your ſolemn rites and feaſts, which you obſerve as memorials thereof, Pſal.81.1,2,3. Exod.12.25-27. Lev.23.16. Deut.16. See the like of Chriſts death, 1 Cor.11. 26. And this ſenſe ſeems not improbable. Others would have it read; and have ye declared it? that is, have ye by the help of any of your idols —— fore-told, any of that, that I have ſo fore-ſhewed to you, Chap.43.9. & 44.7. So the negative ſhould be taken for an interrogative, as ſome would have it, Mal. 1. 10. But I ſuppoſe it no more ſo in the one place, then in the other; and doubt much, whether ſo in any. There might be ſome better colour for ſuch a form, from our verſion, 2 King. 1. 3. if it were right: but the double negative ſeems there more vehemently to aver; as that triple one, Heb.13.5.

I have ſhewed thee new things from this time, even hidden things, and thou didſt not know them. Or, I ſhew thee (Heb. make thee hear, as ver.5. at preſent. (Heb. from now, as Chap. 59.21. as before, from then, ver.3.5.) new things (as Chap. 43. 19.) and hidden, Heb. kept cloſe, or reſerved, Prov.7.10. Jer. 33.3. which thou knoweſt not, to wit, before, as ver.7. the copulative, with the poſitive, put for the relative, as Chap.37.27.& 44.14. Some read the words, and there are things reſerved (to be revealed, and done hereafter) which thou knoweſt not; but art as yet ignorant of. But the former runs more ſmoothly: Yet further to convince thee of thy wilfull obſtinacy, I acquaint thee again, with other of my ſecret counſels, which ſhall alſo in their due time be fulfilled.

V. 7. They are created now, and not from the beginning, even before the day, when thou heardeſt them not, leſt thou ſhouldeſt ſay, Behold I knew them.] Or, They are brought to light now, (as things are, when created) and not in time paſt, (not formerly. Heb. from then, as ver.3,5,8.) or before this day, (the copulative disjunctively, as ver.5. and the pronoun wanting, as Joſh.22. 16,18,29. 2 Chron.35.25.) when thou hadſt not heard of them. Heb. and thou heardeſt not of them; as Chap.33.1.& 43.12. leſt thou ſhouldeſt pretend that ſome other way, or from ſome of thine idols, thou hadſt been made acquainted with them before, ver.5. knew, for, knew before, as ver.6,8.

V. 8. Yea, thou heardeſt not, yea, thou kneweſt not; yea, from that time, that thine ear was not opened] Or, Even when (ſupplyed from verſ.7. to carry on the ſentence depending upon it,) thou hadſt not heard, even, when thou kneweſt not; even when thine ear had not formerly (Heb. from then: as ver. 7.) opened; that is, opened it ſelf, as chap.45.8. Cant.7.12. or, been open, as Chap.60.11. to wit, to hear ought from any other concerning theſe things, that are now by me revealed to thee. The repetition of the particle, yea, or even, doth much quicken the ſentence, and make it more emphatical; as the like, Chap.40.24. Moſt Interpreters underſtand it of the ſpiritual opening of the inward ear, Deut. 29.4. chap. 50.5. as if God ſhould intimate his free favour unto them, in revealing theſe things, yea, and in making them good to them, even when they continued in their obſtinacy, when they ſtopped their ears, and would not hear, Pſal.58.4,5. Chap.28.12. Zach. 7.12. But the former ſenſe is the plainer.

for I knew that thou wouldeſt deal very treacherouſly] That thou wouldeſt be aſcribing them, and the foreknowledge of them, either to thine idols, and thy Sooth-ſayers, or to thy ſelf, ver.5,7. Heb. wouldeſt dealing treacherouſly, deal treacherouſly; as chap.24.16. or, Becauſe (as chap. 59.14.) I knew, (that is, fore-knew, knew before-hand, as verſ. 7.) that thou wouldeſt deal very treacherouſly.

and waſt called a tranſgreſſor from the womb] Heb. a tranſgreſſor, or, a revolter, (as Chap.53.12.) was called upon thee; as ch.62.2. to be called, for, to be, or, to be accounted, and commonly known to be: as chap.58.12. & 60.3. I might well deem, that in future times, thou wouldeſt ſo demean thy ſelf; becauſe thou hadſt been prone (as was well known) to ſuch carriage of thy ſelf, from thy beginning, Deut. 9.7,24. Chap.63.10.

from the womb] From the time that I brought thee out of Egypt; which was as the birth of that State and Church, chap.46.3. Jer. 2.2. & 22.21. & 31.30. an alluſion to mans natural birth, Pſal.51.5. & 58.3. of which alſo, ſome, but without good ground, underſtand it; this paſſage implying ſomewhat, not common to all, but peculiar to that people.

V. 9. For my names ſake will I defer mine anger; and for my praiſe, will I refrain for thee, that I cut thee not off] Or, for my names ſake; (that is, for mine own ſelf, ver.11. Chap.43. 25. Pſal.25.11. & 106.8. Ezek.36.31.) Or, becauſe of my name, (whereby thou art called, verſ.1. being accounted my people, Chap.64.9. Jer.14.9. Ezek.20.9. & 36.20.) do I foreſlow, or, ſtay my anger, or, I am ſo ſlow to anger. Heb. will I prolong, or, do I prolong mine anger: Now to prolong anger, may be taken two wayes, either for to lengthen it, that is, to continue long in it: as Pſal.85.5. wilt thou draw out thy wrath from age to age? though another word be there uſed; and ſo one of the Jewiſh Writers would have it here taken, but renders no reaſon of it: and it ſeems directly contrary to the main ſcope of the place; but it may be taken alſo for to ſtay it, and ſuppreſs it, that it break not forth; that it ſtir not: as of the Ark it is ſaid, Num. 9.19,22. when it ſtayed, and ſtirred not; where the ſame word is uſed, that we have here: and ſo it is uſed in this place; as alſo, Prov. 19. 11. the diſcretion of a man doth ſtay, and repreſſe his anger; or make him ſlow to anger; not maketh him defer, or put it off, till he find opportunity to vent it: and thence, ſlow to anger, Deut.34.6. Num.14.18. and for my praiſe, (as ſome, that I may have a people to ſerve and praiſe me, Pſal. 102.18. and 130.3,4. Chap.43.21. & 64.11. or rather, that I may gain thereby to my ſelf, the praiſe of my might, and my mercy, Pſal.65.1. & 75.1. Chap.12.1. for mine honour, and my glory, Pſal.106.8. ver.11.) do I refrain it (to wit, mine anger, ſupplyed, as the particle, for, alſo, from the former clauſe: ſee Pſal.78.38.) from thee, (that is, from ſeizing upon thee,) or, for thee, (that is, for thy good) that I deſtroy thee not, Jer. 30.11. As it was of my free favour, that I choſe you at firſt, Deut.7.7,8. & 9.4-6. ſo is it of my meer mercy, and reſpect to mine own honour, that I have hitherto ſpared you, and not utterly deſtroyed you, and that I ſtill forbear ſo to do, Num.14.12-18. Pſal.106.45. Lam.3.22. Some read the words, I will ſeal unto thee, that I will not cut thee off: and it is true, that the word which ſignifies to ſeal, differeth but in one letter from this; but yet in ſuch a letter as makes ſeveral roots; and the Jewiſh Criticks enform us, that this word, which, as they ſpeak, hath no mate in Scripture, is a word of the Eaſtern, that is, of the Syrian language; and ſignifieth to obſtruct, ſtop, or reſtrain; and that more ſpecially, the noſe; which among them, therefore, is alſo ſo termed: that which ſuiteth paſſing well with the words of the former branch, where the word rendred anger, as it is very commonly uſed, doth properly ſignifie the noſe; becauſe by puffing at the noſe, anger is uſually diſcovered: and God is ſaid to ſmoke at the noſtrils, when he ſheweth himſelf angry, Pſal.18.7,8. and ſo on the contrary, he is ſaid to foreſlow, and reſtrain his breathing out at the noſe, as if his noſtrils were obſtructed, and ſtopped, that he could not freely breath at them; when he keepeth in, and reſtraineth his anger, and ſuffereth it not to break out, or flye out ſo freely and fiercely, as otherwiſe it would do; hence the phraſe, a man long, or, ſlow of breath; that is, one that breathes ſlowly; oppoſed to one that breatheth high, and big, Eccl.7.8. and a man of long, or ſlow, noſtrils; that breathes ſlowly at the noſtrils, Prov.15.18. & 16.32. oppoſed to one of ſhort breath, or quick of breath, Prov.14. 17. and, of ſhort, or quick noſtrils, Prov.14.29. that is, one that breatheth at the noſtrils, ſhort, and quick: the former, uſed for one that is ſlow to wrath; the latter, for one that is of an haſty diſpoſition. See further, on Jer.15.15.

V. 10. Behold I have refined thee, but not with ſilver] Some render it, as here, in the time paſt; I have refined thee by many afflictions already, and yet art thou never the better for them, Jer.5.3. Others rather, in the future, I will refine thee, chap.1.25. Jer.9.7.

not with ſilver] Or, as ſilver; as ſilver, in ſome reſpects, Pſal.66.10. to purge, and purifie them, Dan.11.35. Mal.3.2,3. yet in ſome reſpects, not as ſilver, that is, not ſo exactly, and exquiſitely, as ſilver is wont to be fined, which the finer uſeth to keep in the fire, until all the droſſe be waſted, and wrought out of it; intimating, that he would not deal over-ſtrictly, and ſeverely with them; but uſe much moderation in chaſtiſing of them; regarding their infirmity, who would be themſelves utterly conſumed, if God ſhould hold them ſo long in the furnace, until their droſſie matter were all melted out of them. See Pſal.103.9,14. & 118.18. chap.27.7,8. & 57.16. Jer.10.24. & 30.11. Some render it, not into ſilver; as if he had ſaid, all my melting of you, ſo full of droſs and other baſe metal you are, hath not hitherto made you, nor will ever make you become good ſilver, chap.1.22. Jer.6.27-30. Ezek.22.18-22. Others, and ſo the ancient Greek, not for ſilver; as if he had ſaid, I have got nothing by ſending you into Babylon, ſuch another furnace as Egypt was, Deut.4.20. and melting you there. So Pſal.44.12. chap.52.3. But theſe two latter ſeem not ſo natural.

I have choſen thee in the furnace of affliction] Or, as others, I will chooſe thee; that is, make a choice one of thee, by purifying of thee through afflictions, and fitting thee thereby for my ſelf, chap.1.25. Dan.12.10. Mal.3.2,3. Act.14.23. Heb.12.10. 2 Tim.2.20,21. 1 Pet.1.6,7. Rom.7.14. See Chap.49.7. But ſome other read the words, I have ſelected, or, ſet thee apart, for the furnace of affliction; to be therein tryed, and purified more and more, better then thou haſt hitherto been. I ſuppoſe that to be moſt genuine, which the Jewiſh Commenters, moſt of them, on the place give, I have made choice of a furnace, or a melting-pot, rather, of affliction for thee. Heb. I have choſen thee; that is, choſen for thee: as, given me, for, given to me, Joſh.15.19. Judg.1.15. as we alſo ſpeak conciſely, in either: ſo, come us, for come at us, Chap.28.15. dwell thee, for, dwell with thee, Pſal.5.4. and many other the like: in the furnace, or, a furnace, or, melting-pot; for the verb of chooſing here uſed, hath this prepoſition (as another alſo) prefixed before the noun after it, vacant, according to the manner of that language. So Deut.7.7. & 14.2. the Lord choſe to thee, for, the Lord choſe thee: and 1 Sam.10.16. and Pſal.105.26. hath choſen in him, for, choſen him, a melting-pot (for ſo the word properly ſignifieth, Prov.17.3. & 26.21.) of affliction; that is, affliction to be as, or for, a melting-pot: as the ſign of circumciſion, Rom.4.11. that is, circumciſion to be a ſign. So that the meaning is, that God had appointed their affliction in Babylon, during the time of their captivity there, to be as a melting-pot unto them; as the like in Jeruſalem had formerly been, during the ſiege, Ezek.22.18,19.

V. 11. For mine own ſake, even for mine own ſake will I do it] That which he ſaith elſewhere, I wrought for my names ſake, that it might not be polluted in the ſight of heathen people, Ezek.20.9,14,22. where the word is the ſame, as alſo, chap.43.13. and the word may well be ſo rendred here; For mine own ſake will I work. I will have a regard to mine own honour and credit, though you deſerve nothing leſs, then what I intend to do; and then there needs no ſupply; otherwiſe it, or, this, is to be ſupplyed; as chap.10.13. ver.5,6. Ezek.36.37. Mal.3.17. See ch.44.23. there is an emphaſis in the repetition; as Pſal.115.1. Chap.43.25. as if he had ſaid, for my ſelf alone, as Pſal.51.4. and not for you, or for any deſert of yours, Ezek.36.32. See ver.9.

for how ſhould my name be polluted?] Heb. how ſhould it be polluted? to wit, my name; ſupplyed from ver.9. otherwiſe, how would mine honour be eclipſed & obſcured in the minds of people; as if I were not able to ſave, or to deliver my people? See Numb.14.15,16. Deut.32.27,37,38. Joſh.7.8,9. Pſal.42.10. & 115.1,2. & 106.8. Ezek.36.20.

and I will not give my glory to another] Or, to any other: as Exod.34.14. I am very chary, and jealous of mine honour, and cannot endure any corrival in it, Exod.20.5. & 34.7. Deut.4.24. & 5.9.

V. 12. Hearken unto me, O Jacob, and Iſrael my called] Whom I called out of Egypt, Hoſ.11.1. or, whom I have called to be my peculiar people, Chap.44.1. 1 Cor.1.14,26,27. or, that are called by my name, as my people, Chap.43.7. & 63.19. as, the called of Jeſus Chriſt; that is, not called by him onely, but to be his, and by calling made his, Rom.1.6. See ch.44.1. & 46.3.

I am he] Or, I am; or, I am the ſame. See Chap.41.4. & 43.10. & 46.4. & 47.8.

I am the firſt, I alſo am the laſt] Chap.41.4. & 44.6.

V. 13. My hand hath alſo laid the foundation of the earth] Pſal.102.25. Chap.42.5. & 45.12. & 51.13.

and my right hand hath ſpanned the heavens] Or, doth ſpan the heavens; doth mete them out, as a workman doth his work; in meting whereof, when he maketh uſe of the hand, he doth it with the right hand, rather then with the left. Or, as ſome, the palm of my right hand hath ſpread out the heavens; the word is uſed, Lam.2.22. of mothers, or nurſes, that either dandle their little ones in their hands, or lay them out to ſtretch their limbs: and it cometh from a word, that ſignifies the meaſure of an hand ſpread out, or a ſpan, Exod.25.24. Pſal.39.5. See Chap.40.12.

when I call unto them, they ſtand up together] Or, I call them, and they ſtand up together; according to the former reading, a defect of the adverb: as Chap.41.17. ver.21. according to the latter, of the copulative; then which, nothing more frequent. The celeſtial bodies are as ſervants, that ſtand attending on Princes, or great perſons, 1 King.1.2. & 10.8. Prov.22.29. ready preſt at a word, or a beck, to obey me their Soveraign Lord, Maker, and Maſter; and to go inſtantly about whatſoever I enjoyn them, Pſal.119.91. & 148.8. Mat.8.9. See Chap.40.26. All this is here related, to aſſure them of Gods power, and al-ſufficient ability, to effect their deliverance according to his promiſe. So chap.40.26,27.

V. 14. All ye aſſemble your ſelves, and hear] Theſe words ſeem to be ſpoken by the Prophet in his own perſon; and ſo moſt take them; becauſe the Lord is ſpoken of in the third perſon, in the latter end of this verſe: and the Prophet ſpeaketh of himſelf in the firſt perſon, in the latter end of verſe 16. But there is no neceſſity thereof; for God ſpeaketh of himſelf oft in the third perſon, as Chap.37.24,32. & 40.29,31. in the next verſe, God himſelf ſtill ſpeaketh in his own perſon: and the Prophet oft paſſeth ſuddenly from perſon to perſon, in that 16. verſe, as appeareth plainly by the fifteenth, interjected at leaſt, if not in the ſixteenth it ſelf. The words therefore I ſuppoſe to be ſpoken, as by God himſelf; and that to his people, to convince them of his divine power, ſhewed in foretelling of things ſo long before; and to be further manifeſted in the fulfilling of them. So verſ.12,16. and ſo to the nations, chap.41.1. & 43.9.

Which among them hath declared theſe things?] Which of the heathen idols hath foretold ought of them? Chap.41.22,23. & 44.7. & 45.21.

The Lord hath loved him] The Lord, that is, I (as ver.15. the noun, for the pronoun; as ch.2.1. & 3.4,5,6,8. 2 Tim.1.18.) do love him, to wit, Cyrus: as, he faſtened it, to wit, the Smith, the image; So, he ſaid, for, God ſaid, Gen.15.13. and, he wrote, for, God wrote, Exod.34.28. and, he went, for, the King went, 2 King.25.4. I do ſo far forth affect, and favour Cyrus, as to proſper him in his proceedings, and to honour him with glorious ſucceſs in his undertakings, having made choice of him, to overthrow Babylon, and to free my people there detained, ch.45.1-4. See ch.52.1.

he will do his pleaſure on Babylon, and his arm ſhall be on the Chaldeans.] Or, he (that is, Cyrus, as before) ſhall (as in the next clauſe) do his (that is, the Lords) pleaſure, Chap.44.28. See there; and his arm (that is, his warlike power, as ch.30.30. & 59.16.) ſhall be upon the Chaldeans; ſhall light [illegible] upon them, to diſperſe, and deſtroy them. See Chap. [illegible]

V. 15. I, even I have ſpoken] Or, I, even I, (as ch.43.25.) have ſpoken it: a defect of the pronoun; as chap.46.11. and a return again to the firſt perſon.

yea, I have called him;] I have raiſed him up, according to my purpoſe and counſel, by a ſecret inſtinct, Chap.45.4,13. & 46.11.

I have brought him] Heb. made him to go, or, cauſed him to come; ſent him to Babylon, ch.43.14. on mine errand; to do me ſervice there, ver.14.

he ſhall make his way proſperous] That is, I will make his way proſperous; the third perſon for the firſt; as before, verſ.14. or, his way ſhall be made proſperous; the verb taken indefinitely, as Chap.46.6,7. or, he ſhall proſper in his way; the verb taken neutrally; and the prepoſition ſupplyed, as Chap.55.11. which I take to be the genuine ſyntax, as well here, as there.

V. 16. Come ye near unto me, hear ye this] See on ver.14.

I have not ſpoken in ſecret from the beginning] Heb. from the head, as ch.41.26. This ſome underſtand of God; as ch.45.19. that he had in publike, and openly, delivered his oracles from time to time, unto his people, ever ſince that he took them, at firſt, to himſelf, Num.11.25,26. Jer.7.25. Others, of the Prophet Eſay, as profeſſing of himſelf, that he had openly delivered, and publikely declared Gods Mind and Will unto them, ever ſince God had called him unto that office, Chap.6.8,9. & 50.4,5. I rather follow the former, the very ſame being proteſted by God, concerning himſelf, in the place there pointed to.

from the time, that I was, there am I] This, thoſe that conceive it to be ſpoken of God, underſtand two ſeveral wayes; ſome, in the time paſt; as if it were ſaid, ever ſince that ought was, or had being, I was there; to wit, at the creating of them: as noting Gods eternity, Prov.8.22-30. ch.43.10,13. & 44.6. or, from the time, when that was, (to wit, of my taking you unto me)

I have been there; preſent among you, in my Prophets, by my Spirit, Deut.18.15,16. Chap. 59. 21. & 63. 11. Some rather, whom I concur with, of the time to come; from the time that this ſhall be, (when the time appointed ſhall come, wherein this great work, which is now foretold you, is to be put in execution,) there will I be preſent, and ready at hand, to carry on the work, and to cauſe it to be accompliſhed: the ſame, in effect, with that, Chap. 46.11. & verſ. 15. Thoſe that underſtand it of the Prophet, take it alſo two ſeverall wayes; Some, from the time before which it was done, there I was: ſo the old Latine, and they that follow it, that is, ſay they, I foreſaw things to come, as evidently, as if I were preſent at the doing of them, Ch.13.1,3. ſo Joh.8.56. but I ſee not how the words will admit this reading. Others, ever ſince Gods charge came to me, (as Hoſ.1.1.) I have conſtantly attended it, Chap.21.8. So Jer.6.27. Hab.2.1. For that is moſt ridiculous, that ſome of the Jewiſh Commenters here ſuggeſt, of all the Prophets being preſent with Moſes, on Mount Sinai, at the giving of the Law, and ſo Eſay among the reſt, Deut.33.2.

and now the Lord God, and his Spirit hath ſent me] This likewiſe, ſome conceive ſpoken by Chriſt, the word, Joh.1.1.and Wiſdom of the Father, Prov.8.1,23. by whom he revealeth himſelf, and his Will and purpoſes to his people, Matth. 11, 27. Joh.1.18. Zach.2.9,11. 1 Pet.1.10,12. ſent by the Father, and the Spirit, to acquaint them with thoſe gracious promiſes, as well the ſpirituall ones, as the temporal, that were types of the ſpiritual, Chap.61.1. Luk.4.18, 21. But others, whom I rather accord with, conceive this clauſe to be ſpoken by the Prophet of himſelf, ſent by the three Perſons joyntly, about the delivery, as of other Gods meſſages, ſo of this in ſpecial; added here the more expreſly, to give the greater aſſurance of the truth and certainty of it, and of the accompliſhment thereof. So Jer.26.12,15. See Chap. 6.8, 9. The Prophet doth many times paſſe ſuddenly, and (as may ſeem, to perſons not acquainted with ſpiritual raptures, and eceſtaſies) ſomewhat abruptly, in the heat of delivery, from one perſon to another.

V. 17. Thus ſaith the Lord thy Redeemer, the Holy One of Iſrael] See Chap.43.14.

I am the Lord thy God, which teacheth thee to profit] Heb. teaching thee, or, who do teach thee (as Chap.44.24.) to profit; Who teach thee ſuch things, as are for thy welfare, that conduce to thy peace and proſperity, ver. 18. Deut. 4.1,40. & 5. 29. & 6.3. Job 22.21. Luk.19.42.

which leadeth thee, by the way that thou ſhouldeſt go.] Heb. making thee to tread (that is, teaching thee and directing thee to go, as Pſal.25.5. & 43.10.as a guide doth a traveller, ch.30. 21. or, as a nurſe doth a child, Hoſ.11.3.) in the way, thou ſhalt walk; that is, wherein thou ſhouldeſt walk: the relative wanting, as Chap.47.11. and as frequently with us; and the verb taken in ſignification of duty; as chap.26.9. ſo Pſal. 25. 12,13,14.

V. 18. O that thou hadſt hearkened to my commandements;] Deut.5.29. & 32.29. Pſal.81.13. implying, that then they had eſcaped many evils, and much ſorrow, that melting-pot of affliction, that in the captivity of Babylon, they had ſo long lien in, among the reſt, ver.10. which, by their ſinful exceſſes, wilful diſobedience, and obſtinacy therein, they procured to themſelves, Pſal.81.11,12. Jer.7.23-28. & 26.2-6.

then had thy peace been as a river] thy peace; that is, thy proſperity, as Pſal.119.165. ſhould have abounded, as thoſe rivers that flow with great ſtreams; and do, oft-times, overflow their banks. So Chap.59.19. Jer.12.5. and becauſe of the article encloſed in the note of ſimilitude; as the river; ſome of the Rabbines ſuppoſe, that Euphrates is here, more ſpecially pointed at: as Pſal.72.8. Chap.7.20.

and thy righteouſneſſe, as the waves of the Sea] This is the ſame, in effect, though in other terms, with the former. By righteouſneſſe, is here meant, not any moral vertue, or gracious diſpoſition; as the word properly, and moſt commonly, ſignifieth, Pſal.11.7. & 45.7. Eph.4.24. but, as ſome, a State well compoſed, & wanting nothing that is due unto it, or requiſite to its compleat happineſſe, Pſal. 72.3. Joel 2.23. Others, proſperity, as before; ſo called, becauſe the fruit of peace, as ſome, Rom.14.17. Heb.12.11. Jam.3.18. the reward of righteouſneſſe, as others, Gen.30.33. as iniquity, for, puniſhment, the fruit and reward of it, Gen.4.13. or, which I take to be the genuine ſenſe of it, a confluence of all good things, which God, out of his benignity, is wont, in way of beneficence, (for that alſo, by the word of righteouſneſſe, is oft underſtood, Pſal. 112.3,4,9. 2 Cor.9.9,10.) to impart unto, and confer upon, a people. So is the word uſed, 2 Sam.12.7. Pſal.36.5,6,10, where benignity, and righteouſneſſe are twice joyned together, as things very neer, if not the ſame; as alſo, Pſal. 75.9, 10. See alſo, Pſal.48.9,10. compared with Prov. 3. 16,17. Chap. 54.17. and 58.8. & 63.7. and this is called Gods, Pſal.36.6,10. becauſe it cometh from him, Chap.54.17. and yet theirs alſo, Chap.54.17. & 58.8. becauſe conferred upon them, Chap.45. 24. Deut.28.1-13.

as the waves of the Sea] As great plenty of all good, as of water in the ſea, or, in the main ocean, where waves wallow moſt at large. See the like, chap.11.9. So the Greeks uſe to ſay, A ſea of good things, for great abundance thereof.

V. 19. Thy ſeed alſo had been as the ſand] Thine iſſue ſhould have been not numerous only, but numberleſſe, Gen. 13. 16. & 15.5. & 22.17. & 32.12. Jer.33.22. Hoſ.1.10. See the like expreſſion, chap.10.22. Gen.41.49. 1 Sam.13.5. 2 Sam. 17.11. 1 King.4.20,29. Job 29.18. Pſal.78.27. & 139.18. Jer.15.8. Hab.1.9.

and the Off-ſpring of thy bowels, like the gravel thereof] Off-ſpring, ſee chap.44.3. Heb. the comings out; as chap.34.1. & 42.5. put for iſſue, Job 5.25. & 21.8. & 27.14. & 31.8. ch.61.9. & 65.23. ſo called, becauſe they are ſaid to come out of the bowels of their parents, Gen.15.4. & 25.23. 2 Sam.16.11. in alluſion whereunto, the gravel-ſtones, or beach, that lye on the ſhore, by the ſea ſide, are in the Hebrew here ſtyled, the bowels thereof, to wit, of the Sea; to be ſupplyed from ver.18. the pronoun, for the noun, as ver.14.

his name ſhould not have been cut off, nor deſtroyed, from before me] His name; that is, the memory of him, (name, for memorial; as Pſal.83.4. Prov.10.7.) or their poſterity (in whom, mens names are continued, Num.27.4.) ſhould alwayes have been acceptable with me; or, as others, This thy proſperous eſtate had continued with thee, and thy poſterity, without interruption, Pſal.81.14,15. Zeph.3.7. or, Thou hadſt not been caſt out of thy land, and thy name, that is, the glory of thy State, and the renown thereof, cut off, Jer. 22.30. & 36. 30. Lam.5.16. (ſee Ezek.16.13,14.) nor hadſt thou been removed out of my ſight, the Temple being defaced, and deſtroyed, wherein thou waſt wont to appear before me, and to attend me, and have communion, as my people, with me, Pſal. 42.2. & 84.7. See Jer.35.19. Howbeit, others (the rather for that gracious promiſe of never cutting off, or caſting off the whole ſeed of Iſrael, Jer.31.37.) read the words, as ſpoken not in way of commination, or intimation of what ſhould ſometime befall them; but in way of mitigation, and of a favourable exception, with ſupply of a diſcretive particle, thus; Yet ſhall not his name be cut off, nor deſtroyed from before me, or, out of my ſight, Jer.33.18. See chap.49.15,16. Jer.30.11. & 31.37. & 46.28. in which laſt place, God promiſeth, that notwithſtanding all the ſins and abominations committed by them, yet he would not utterly either cut, or caſt, them off. See the like defect of the like particle, Job 14.9. chap. 44.11. And this ſenſe ſeemeth the more probable, becauſe preſently followeth a promiſe of deliverance, and reſtitution again, ver. 20. See the like, 2 King.14.24,26,27. The words run in the Hebrew ſomewhat otherwiſe, then they are in our verſion; He ſhould not have been, or, ſhall not be, cut off, nor his name deſtroyed out of my ſight. But the difference is not much material; ſave that the cutting off of their perſons, ſeems imported (whether implyed, or denyed,) in the one; the caſting off all care of them, or ſpecial relation to them, in the other: an alluſion, it may be deemed, to enrolment of ſervants, and retinue in ſome great mans family; ſouldiers in an army; penſioners in a State, or the like. See the like, Exod. 32.32,33. Pſal.69.28. chap.34.26,27.

V. 20. Go ye forth of Babylon; flee ye from the Chaldeans, with a voice of ſinging]. A promiſe of deliverance from the Babylonian thraldome, not by a timerous and hazardous flight; as when ſervants and captives break away from their hard Maſters, by ſtealth, Gen.31.20,27. Exod.14.5-9. 1 Sam. 25. 10. but freely and cheerfully, without fear of ſtay, or purſuit; as merrily as a ſlave, or captive, that is reſcued out of thraldome and bondage, and ſet at full liberty. See chap. 52.12. Howbeit, ſome underſtand the words, as an admonition unto the Jews, abiding in Babylon, to get out of the city, and eſcape by flight, ſo ſoon as they hear tydings of Cyrus his entrance into Chaldea, or approach to the city, and not ſtay the ſurpriſal of it, chap.51.14. & 52.11. Jer.50.8. & 51.6,45. Zach.2.6. Rev.18.4. See the like, Gen. 19.15. Jer. 46.5. & 47.3. & 48.9. Matth.24.15-19. Luk. 17. 31.32. But the ſinging here mentioned, ſeems rather to import their departure, with free and full liberty, upon Cyrus his proclamation, Ezr.1.1. See Pſal.14.7. & 126.1,2. chap.12.1,5. & 26. 1. & 35.10.

declare it; tell this; utter it, even to the end of the earth;] See the like, chap.12.4,5.

declare it] Some joyn the former clauſe, with ſinging, to this; as if it were ſaid, with joy tell it, or talk of it, one to, or with another; but the pauſes annex it rather to the former: and this, with what followeth, ſeems to require the publiſhing of it to others, Pſal.9.11.

tell] Heb. make it to be heard; as ver.3,5,6.

utter it] Heb. make it to go forth, or to paſſe; as Pſal.19.4.

Joy

ſay ye, The Lord hath redeemed his ſervant Jacob] Hath reſcued, and delivered him out of the Chaldean Captivity, Pſal. 107. 2, 3. as formerly, out of the Egyptian bondage, Exod. 19. 4-6. A type of their ſpirituall deliverance by Chriſt, Luk. 1. 68. Col. 1. 13. Some would have it read in the future, The Lord will redeem; and parallel it with that, Luk. 21. 28. but it ſeems ſpoken rather to the people, as telling what they ſhould ſay, when they were ſet at large; as Chap. 12. 4.

his ſervant] As Chap. 41. 8. & 44. 1.

V. 28. And they thirſted not, when he led them thorow the deſarts; he cauſed the waters to flow out of the rock for them; he clave the rock alſo, and the waters guſhed out.] This may well be read in the future; And they ſhall not thirſt, as when he led them thorow the deſarts. For the Prophet returneth to ſpeak, in his own perſon, and to tell them, how it ſhall be with them, after their enlargment. For whereas it might be ſaid, how ſhall we go with ſo much mirth and jollity, when we have ſo long and tedious a way to travel, before we can get home into our own country, and are to paſs thorow ſo many wild and waſte places, wherein, through want of neceſſaries, we may periſh and miſcarry by the way. The Prophet, therefore, telleth them, that God will look to that, he will furniſh them, with all neceſſaries, one way or other: and to put them out of fear and doubt thereof, to wit, of his power to make proviſion ſufficient for them, he mindeth them of what he did in former times, when he led them thorow the wilderneſs to the land of Canaan; how he furniſhed them with water, the greateſt matter of want in thoſe places, and moſt neceſſary for mans ſuſtenance in travell, in thoſe hot regions eſpecially, Exod. 17. 6. Num. 20. 11, 12. Pſal. 78. 15. & 105. 41. implying withall, that what God had then done, he could now do; yea, and would do; he would as well and ſufficiently ſupply them, with that, and all other neceſſary accommodations, as if he had done the very ſelf-ſame thing again. See Chap. 41. 18. & 49. 10.

they thirſted not] Or, they ſhall not thirſt; as Chap. 49. 10. not that they ſhould not at all thirſt; for hunger, and thirſt, are natural affections, ſo far from being of themſelves ſimply any annoyance; that they are as ſauce, to give reliſh to our food; but that they ſhould not, when they were athirſt, want wherewith to ſlake and quench it. So Joh. 4. 14. & 6. 35. & 7. 37, 38.

when he lead] Or, as when he lead; a defect of the adverb of time; as ver. 13. Chap. 41. 17. of the note of ſimilitude; as Chap. 33. 4, 11. See Chap. 17. 5.

V. 22. There is no peace, ſaith the Lord, unto the wicked.] Or, as Some render it, But; or, yet no peace ſhall be to the wicked: no peace, that is, no proſperity: no proſperous ſucceſs in ought; as ver. 18. See Pſal. 1. 3, 4. the diſcretive is ſupplyed; as Chap. 44. 11. This ſome underſtand of the profane and wicked party among the Jews, that they ſhould have no part or ſhare in the proſperity promiſed to Gods people, Chap. 65. 21. Others, of the Babylonians, the enemies of Gods people, that all things ſhould go croſs with them, Chap. 13. 11-16. Others, both of the one, and of the other; and of the unquiet and reſtleſs condition of either; yea, of all wicked ones in generall, Job 15. 20, 21. & 20. 20. See Chap. 57. 20, 21.

CHAP. XLIX.

Verſ. 1. L*iſten, O Iles, unto me; and hearken, O people, from far.*] The Prophecy delivered, and recorded in this Chapter, runneth on in the ſame ſtrain with the former, relating the reſtauration, and enlargment, of Gods Church, conſiſting both of Jews and Gentiles, under a type of the Jews releaſement from the Babylonian deportation; and the re-eſtabliſhment of them in their former eſtate, with much honour and encreaſe, by acceſſion of other nations unto them; both effected by the mighty power of the Lord Jeſus, the Meſſias. In theſe firſt words is contained a preamble, prefixed before the delivery of the Prophecy, inviting people, far and near, to hear it; and inciting them to give due attention, unto the things therein delivered. See the like, Chap. 41. 1.

Liſten] Heb. Hear; as Chap. 1. 2. or, hearken; as Chap. 51. 1. a duty required, as in regard of all Gods Prophets in generall, Amos 3. 1. & 4. 1. Zach. 7. 7. ſo, more ſpecially, in regard of Chriſt, that principal Prophet, or Prince of Prophets, Deut. 18. 18, 19. Act. 3. 22, 23. by whom, the Father revealeth himſelf, his mind, and his myſteries, both to his Prophets, and to his people, Mat. 11. 27. & 17. 5. Joh. 1. 18. & 3. 13. Heb. 1. 1, 2. & 2. 1-3. & 3. 1, 7, 15. & 4. 2, 7. & 12. 25.

O iles] Or, lands, countries, Chap. 41. 1. Some expound it, ſimply, Ilands, being remote, ſay they, from the countries ſituate in the continent. Others, tranſmarine regions; ſuch of them, eſpecially, as coaſt upon the ſea: but the word ſeems more general; as Chap. 20. 6. & Jer. 47. 4. ſo here: and the lands are put for the Inhabitants, or thoſe that abide therein; as the next clauſe ſheweth.

unto me] The Jewiſh Commenters underſtand this, as ſpoken in the perſon of the Prophet Eſay himſelf, calling upon them, to give ear to Gods meſſage, which he was to deliver, wherein alſo ſome of ours concur with them: and it is not improbable, that divers paſſages in theſe Prophecies, might have ſome reference to him, as in part verified in him, but in a more peculiar, and tranſcendent manner, to be accompliſhed in Chriſt, of whom therefore principally intended; of Eſay only, as what was done either by him, or about him, might hold out ſome ſhadowy reſemblance of ſuch excellent graces, as were to be conferred upon Chriſt; and glorious works, as were to be effected by him. See Chap. 50. 4. & 61. 1. So divers of ours, underſtand this; though the moſt, of Chriſt alone, without relation to any other; as the perſon, by whom was to be wrought whatſoever benefit God intended to beſtow upon his people, either in thoſe times, or in theſe: and who, as by the Prophets he then foretold them; ſo was to be depended upon, both now, and then, for the making of them good, ch. 11. 10. Rom. 15. 8-12. 2 Cor. 1. 20. & 5. 18, 19, 20. Eph. 1. 3. & 2. 13-17. Col. 1. 19, 20. & 2. 3, 9.

and hearken] Or, attend; for the word ſignifieth a ſedulous, and ſerious attention, to ought, either heard, or ſeen, chap. 21. 7. & 28. 24. So Chap. 34. 1. & 51. 4.

O people] Not ye Jews alone, but ye people alſo abroad; either becauſe the Jewiſh people were to be diſperſed among them, and to be thence again recollected, ver. 12. chap. 11. 11, 12. or becauſe the ſalvation in this Prophecy foretold, ſhould concern the Gentiles, as well as the Jews, ver. 6. chap. 60. 3. & 66. 19, 20.

from far] Either in regard of diſtance of place, ver. 12. ch. 60. 4. or, of diſpoſition, and affection, Eph. 2. 13, 17. Some of the Jewiſh Writers underſtand it of the enſuing ages: not ye alone, that now are; but thoſe that ſhall be in after times, as ſome alſo expound the like, Act. 2. 39. but this ſeems here not ſo fit.

The Lord hath called me from the womb;] Here followeth the matter, or meſſage, unto the hearing whereof, ſuch attention was required. And it is principally of Chriſt, his office to be the Saviour, both of Jew and Gentile, and Gods calling him thereunto; which in regard it was the main foundation of that work, wherein he was to be employed, Heb. 5. 4-6, 9, 10. the Prophet begins firſt with it.

called me from the wombe] God the Father, who, from eternity, had fore-aſſigned me to this office, 1 Pet. 1. 20. did, both while I was yet in the womb, and ſo ſoon as I was come out of it, manifeſt and make known this his purpoſe concerning me, both to men and angels, Mat. 1. 21-23. Luk. 2. 10, 11, 13. Heb. 1. 6. the like is, in reſpect of their office and employment, in their inferiour ſphere, ſpoken alſo of other the ſervants of God, extraordinary ones eſpecially, Jer. 1. 5. Luk. 1. 15. Gal. 1. 15. and may be verified alſo of this our Prophet.

from the bowels of my mother] While I was yet unborn, or ſo ſoon as I was conceived in the womb of the virgin, Mat. 1. 20. Luk. 1. 35. ver. 5. See Act. 13. 32, 33.

hath he made mention of my name.] Or, he recorded, or, entred upon record my name; he made a ſolemn record of it, as chap. 12. 4. whence the term, that ſignifieth, a Recorder, or, Remembrancer, Chap. 36. 3. or, he mentioned (that is, aſſigned me) my name, and called me thereby to give notice of that work and office, that he had deſigned me unto, Mat. 1. 21. Luk. 1. 31. & 2. 21. The like hereunto was even before conception, birth much more, done with ſome ſpecial inſtruments, by God intended for remarkable employments; as Joſias, 1 King. 13. 2. Cyrus, Chap. 44. 28. & 45. 1. 3. and John the Baptiſt, Luk. 1. 13, 60, 63. that which the Hebrew Doctors, ſome of them affirm alſo, of this our Prophet; to wit, that (as Johns name was by God aſſigned him, importing that Grace of God, which he was to publiſh, Luk. 1. 17, 76-79. ſo) the Prophet Eſays name, was, before his birth, impoſed on him by God, thereby to import that Salvation of God, which he was to foretell. See Chap. 1. 1. But of this their aſſertion, we have no aſſurance: albeit we are not able to ſay, that it was not ſo; and leave it therefore in ſuſpence.

V. 2. And he hath made my mouth like a ſharp ſword] Having avouched Chriſts calling to the work of mans redemption; he proceedeth, now, to a relation, of Gods fitting, and furniſhing of him, with abilities ſufficient, for ſo important a work: together with his ſuſtaining and ſupporting of him, in the performance of the ſame.

he] The Father, from whom all power is derived, and communicated unto Chriſt, chap. 50. 4. & 61. 1. Mat. 11. 27. & 28. 18. Joh. 3. 34, 35. & 5. 19-23. Col. 1. 19. & 2. 3, 9. 2 Pet. 1. 16, 17.

hath made] All, ſo far as concerneth Chriſt, revealed in the fleſh, 1 Tim. 3. 16. runneth in a Prophetical ſtrain; ſpeaking of things future, as preſent, or paſt. So Chap. 7. 14. and 45. 5. & 51. 16.

my mouth like a ſharp ſword] The word of Chriſt is a ſword of all-ſufficient power and efficacy, as for the ſubduing of mens ſouls to the obedience of it; ſo for the cutting off, of whomſoever, or whatſoever ſhall oppoſe, or withſtand it: compared, therefore, to a ſword, and ſaid to be ſharper then any two-edged ſword whatſoever, Chap.11.4. Eph.6.17. Heb.4.12. Rev.1.16. & 6.2. this alſo ſome apply to the Prophet, whom God, by his Word, and Spirit, enabled, to the cutting down, and killing of ſin in mens ſouls. See the Apoſtle, what he ſaith of his miniſtry, 2 Cor.2.14-16. & 4.7. & 10.4-6. There is an elegant alluſion in the original, which, in other languages, cannot be ſo fully, or fitly expreſſed; for the word mouth, in the Hebrew, is ambiguous, and ſignifies as well the edge of the ſword, as the mouth of man, or beaſt: hence, a ſword of mouthes, for, a ſword of divers edges, Pſal.149.6. Prov.5.4. and, they ſhall fall by the mouth, that is, the edge of the ſword, Luk.21.24. and, with the Greeks, as a ſharp-mouthed, for, a ſharp edged; ſo, a double-mouthed, for, a double edged, ſword, Heb.4.12. Rev.1.16. that which the Latines call, a double-headed one: but each Language hath its peculiar properties: the ſpeech ſeems to be defective; for it is more fully, as if it had been ſaid; he hath made my mouth, like the mouth (that is, the edge) of a ſharp ſword: as Dan.4.33. till his hairs were grown like eagles, (that is, like the feathers of eagles,) and his nails like birds; that is, like the claws of birds: mouth, for word, frequently, Gen.45.21. Levit.24.12. Num.3.16. but here more ſpecially, in alluſion to the term, no leſs commonly uſed of the ſword, Judg.1.8,25. and 4.15,16. & 18.27. and 20.37.

in the ſhadow of his hand hath he hid me] in, or with, as Pſal.17.7. chap.37.38. He hath taken me into his powerful protection, chap.51.16. ſhadow, for, protection; as Numb.14.9. Pſal.17.8. & 31.20. & 91.1,2. Eccl.7.12. hand, for, power: as chap.10.10,13. & 11.12. & 23.11. & 26.11. verified, as of other his Prophets, and Servants, Jer.1.18,19. & 15.20,21. & 20.11. ſo in more ſpecial manner, of his Meſſias, Pſal.2.1-4. chap.42.1. whom the Lord ſo protected, againſt all the might and malice of his capital enemies, that they neither could lay hold on him, or do ought to him, before the time, by God fore-deſigned, was come, Joh.7.30,44. Luk.22.53. nor yet keep him under, when that time was once over, though they endeavoured what they could, to do it, Mat.27.62-66. & 28.2-6. Act.2.23,24.

and made me a poliſhed ſhaft] As before, a ſword to cut; ſo here, a ſhaft to pierce; that, at hand; this, at diſtance, that none may eſcape him: though I approve not the niceety of ſome Jewiſh Writers, that would have him termed a ſword, for the Jewiſh nation, near at hand, Pſal.148.14. a ſhaft, for the Heathen people, to reach them further abroad, verſ.1. See chap.41.2. as before; not a dull, but a ſharp ſword, Rev.1.16. to cut the quicker; ſo here, a ſhaft trimmed, Ezek.21.22. and ſo ſharpned, to make it pierce the deeper. See Pſal.45.5. a ſhaft poliſhed, reſpecting the head, or point of it; as a ſword furbiſhed, in reference to the edge of it, Ezek.21.9. of this piercing power of the Word, (the efficacy whereof, is in both ſimilitudes implyed,) ſee Act.2.37. Some render it, (and ſo both the old Latine, and the Greek) as a choiſe arrow, ſuch an one, as may both flye far, and pierce deep: and the word ſometime, indeed, ſeems to ſignifie choiſe, or chief, 1 Chr.7.40. & 16.41. Neh.5.18. Cant.6.10. but here rather, as elſewhere, when applyed to ſhafts, or arrows, by whetting, or poliſhing, made bright, and ſharp. See Jer.51.11. See alſo of Gods ſword, Ezek.21.28. and the like ſpoken of Gods people, what is here ſaid of Chriſt, Zach.9.13.

in his quiver hath he hid me] The quiver, the place, wherein ſhafts are, both for ſafety and readineſs to hand, wont to be diſpoſed, Pſal.127.5. Chap.22.6. Jer.5.16. (as the ſword in the ſheath or ſcabbard, Jer.47.6.) and hence, therefore, the ſons, or, children of the quiver; becauſe uſually put up in it, and drawn out of it, as occaſion is, to the uſe of them, Lam.3.13. In this reſemblance therefore ſeemeth to be implyed, as Gods providence, ſo Chriſts obedience; as Gods protection, for the ſafeguard of Chriſt, ſo Chriſts readineſs to do all faithful ſervice to God his Father, Pſal.40.7,8. Heb.10.5-7. chap.50.4,5. & 50.5-7. John 4.34. & 6.38. Heb.3.2,5,6. but the former more ſpecially. And the like protection will the Lord afford unto all his true and faithful ſervants, Pſal.31.19,20. But I ſuppoſe them over curious, who by the quiver, would have underſtood, here, Chriſts humanity; by the ſhaft, his deity.

V. 3. And ſaid unto me] Or, And he (the Lord, ver.1.) ſaid unto me; or, Whereupon; as, Chap.6.1. becauſe it begins with a new relation of a further matter, he ſaid unto me. The words of God follow, who having called the Meſſias, ſet him apart, ſanctified him, and ſent him into the world, for the executing of that office, whereunto he had aſſigned him, Chap.61.1,2. Joh.6.27,29. & 10.36. doth, by his ſpeech, to him, in the words enſuing related, encourage him to ſet upon it, and to go on chearfully, and conſtantly, in it, with aſſurance of ſucceſs.

Thou art my Servant, O Iſrael, in whom I will be glorified.] Thus moſt read the words; or, with little variation, by way not of compellation, but of appoſition, ſome, Iſrael in whom I will be glorified; but much divided in their expoſitions. Some, by Iſrael, here, underſtand Chriſt: ſo called, ſay ſome, becauſe he was of the ſtock of Iſrael. Which though it cannot be doubted of, much leſs denyed; yet they produce us no place of Scripture, where the word Iſrael, is uſed for an Iſraelite: though for the body of the people, or the better part of them, it is frequently found, Chap.43.1,14. & 44.1,21. or, becauſe the head of the Elect, the Iſrael of God, Gal.6.16. who are one body with him, Joh.17.20,21. Eph.1.22,23. but this is alſo liable to the ſame exception with the former: for albeit, in regard of the conjunction of the faithful with Chriſt, by inſition into him, Rom.11.17,24. yea, of thoſe alſo, in ſome ſort, that profeſs the faith of Chriſt, by external adherence unto him, Joh.15.2. the name of Chriſt, is ſometime given as well to the one, Gal.3.16. as to the other, 1 Cor.12.12. Yet I no where find, that the name of Iſrael, is given unto Chriſt; for, as for that place, Luk.1.54. which ſome Popiſh Authors produce, it looketh plainly another way: or, ſay ſome again, as the true Iſrael, that ſhould wreſtle with the wrath of God, and prevail againſt it, as Jacob did with the Angel, and thence gained that name, Gen.32.26,28. But this, alſo, ſeemeth over-quaint. Others, therefore, who retain this reading, underſtand it of Eſay; ſo called, ſay they, as a right Iſraelite: ſuch an one, as Nathaniel, Joh.1.47. yea, as the only Iſrael, in a manner, that God, in thoſe times of general defection, had loyal to him, and conſtant with him, chap.59.15,16. & 64.6,7. Mic.7.1,2. But this expoſition laboureth with as many difficulties as the former. Others, again, of the whole ſeed of the true Iſrael, conſiſting joyntly of the faithful, both of Jew, and Gentile, Rom.9.6. & 11.26. and it is true, that Iſrael, is ſtyled Gods ſervant, Chap.44.1. but they that, after this reading, do here ſo underſtand it, conſider not the coherence of this verſe with the former, wherein ſome particular perſon is apparently deciphered, and ſo make the context very abrupt. This to ſalve, and make the text run the ſmoother, ſome thus render the words; Thou art my ſervant, to Iſrael, or, for Iſrael; that is, for Iſraels good; for my peoples behoof. Which they expound, ſome of Eſay; of whom it is, queſtionleſs, true: the Prophet being principally ſent on Gods errand, to them, Chap.1.1. & 2.1. Others, of Chriſt, who as he came of them, Rom.9.5. and had been formerly promiſed to them, Act.2.30. and 13.23,32. ſo was, in the firſt place, ſent unto them, Matth.4.23,24. and 10.6. Luk.24.47. Act.3.26. and 13.23,46. and 28.25. to which purpoſe it is, that Chriſt is ſaid to be a miniſter to the Circumciſion (that is, to the circumciſed, the Jews, as Gal.2.9.) Rom.15.8. and (as ſome alſo would expound it, but that queſtionable) a ſervant to Iſrael, Hoſ.11.1. And this I ſhould encline to, did not the Hebrew pauſe ſtay me, that makes a ſtop, between ſervant, and Iſrael. Thoſe therefore I concur with, who read the words in two diſtinct clauſes, thus; Thou art my ſervant (as having relation to his calling, mentioned, ver.1. and pointing unto the office, whereunto he was called; of which branch, ſee Chap.42.1.) Iſrael it is, in whom I will be glorified, (or, will glorifie my ſelf, as Chap.44.23.) by thee. For it is the true Iſrael, the Iſrael of God, Rom.9.6. Gal.6.16. the body of the faithful, in the ſalvation of whom, by Chriſt, God will glorifie the riches of his grace, Rom.9.23,33. & 11.26,26. Eph.1.6,12,14. See Chap.46.13. Nor doth that late learned Annotators obſervation here, ſtay me from adhering to this verſion, who, with the Tigurine, would have, whom in thee, to be no more then, in whom, according to a good and uſeful rule given by him, that in Hebrew, when one ſpeaketh to another, the pronoun affixed, following the relative, and having reference thereunto, is not wont to be in the third perſon; but either in the firſt, if it relate to the perſon ſpeaking, as ver.23. or in the ſecond, if it relate to the perſon ſpoken to, as here: for although it be granted ſo to be there, where the affix hath reference to the relative, by an elegant redundancy, in that language very frequent; yet is there no neceſſity, of admitting either that reference, or that redundancy, in this place.

V. 4. Then I ſaid, I have laboured in vain, I have ſpent my ſtrength for nought, and in vain] Heb. And I ſaid, which if it be rendred, Then, as Chap.40.18. it ſhould then be as an inference upon the former; as if he had ſaid, Then I make account that all my labour is loſt, if it be Iſrael, by whom I ſhall bring glory to thee. I ſuppoſe, therefore, it ſhould rather be rendred, But I ſaid: for it ſeems to be in nature of a reply, or counter-plea, in ſome ſort returned to Gods former ſpeech of encouragement, ver.4. complaining of the paucity, and ſmall number of thoſe, that his miniſtry had hitherto any gracious work upon, among his people. That which ſome conceive to be ſpoken of,and by Eſay; others of,by Chriſt; and a third ſort, to concern both; but the one in a lower degree, as a leſs perfect portraiture, and delineation of the other. See the like complaint,in the perſon of Gods Miniſters, his Prophets and Apoſtles, Chap.53.1. and of Chriſt, Joh.1.11. & 7.5. & 12. 37-41.

in vain] As Lev.26.16. Job 29.16. Chap. 65.23. the word properly ſignifieth emptineſs; whence, an empty veſſell, Jer. 51.34.

I have ſpent my ſtrength,] Or, conſumed it; as Chap. 10.18.

for nought] Of this word,ſee on Chap.40.17.

and in vain] Heb. for vanity, Eccl.1.2. not that his pains, with Gods people, were wholly in vain, either in regard of God,that ſent him, unto whom glory ſhould accrew, as well by his juſtice manifeſted in the deſtruction of the obſtinate; as by his mercy magnified in the ſalvation of ſincere Converts,2 Cor.2.15,16. Or,in regard of the perſons,unto whom he was ſent,as if not any at all of them were converted; for a remnant of them ſtill were reſerved,Chap.6.9,10,13.& 8.16. or,in regard of himſelf, as if loſs or prejudice ſhould thereby accrew unto him. For his work was not the leſs,either regarded with God,or to be rewarded by God, as the words following import; but in regard of the ſlender effect, that his labours had hitherto found, for the benefit and behoof of thoſe, about whom he had laboured; and the welfare of their ſouls, which he principally therein aimed at, and did more earneſtly affect. See Mat.23.35. Mar.3.5. Luk.13.34. & 19.41,42. Phil.4.1. 1 Theſ.2.19,20.& 3.8.Heb.13.17.

yet ſurely my judgment is with the Lord, and my work with my God] The adverſative particle, yet,though it may ſeem wanting in the original,yet is not amiſs ſupplyed, as it is alſo elſewhere. Job 14.19. Chap.44.11. becauſe in the words enſuing,as by way of recollection; for the better ſupport, and reencouraging of himſelf, to perſiſt in his employment, he oppoſeth unto the want of the chiefly deſired ſucceſs of his labours with men, the gracious acceptance of them with God, (ſee 1 Cor.15.58.) though the particle, yet, may as well be ſubſtituted in the room of the word, ſurely, which may here be omitted. Since,that albeit,ſometime it ſignifie ſurely, as being a note of aſſeveration, Gen.28.16. 1 Sam.15.32. yet it is oft rendred,yet, or,but,as in a notion of oppoſition, as Job 32. 8,Pſal.82.7. yea, it may well include both, as the Latine veruntamen ſeems to do; by which ſome render it both here,and Chap.53.4.

my judgment] That is, as ſome, mine office: ſo is the word taken, 1 Sam.10.25. 1 Chr.6.32. and ſo it ſhould have a reſpect to his vocation, to Gods calling him to his office, verſ.1, as other rather,my manner,to wit, of carriage in my place (as the word is uſed,1 Sam.2. 13.& 8.11.) is well known to God, and approved of by him. So Paul of himſelf, 1 Cor. 4.3-5. 2 Cor.1.12. & 2.17. or, it may well be rendred,my cauſe, as Job 23.4.& 31.6. God will juſtifie me,and make it to appear, that it hath not been through any default of mine,that my labours have had no better ſucceſs. See Chap. 50.8.

my work] Or,my reward; as Chap.40.10, my wages for my work, which God will render unto me, not according to the iſſue, or ſucceſs of my labours; but according to my pains therein taken, and the faithful diſcharge of my duty therein, 1 Cor.3.8. See Joh.17.4,5. 2 Tim.4.7,8.

V.5. And now ſaith the Lord that formed me from the womb to be his ſervant, to bring Jacob again to him;] A further matter of encouragement is here adjoyned, by a ſpeech of God himſelf,either to the Prophet, as the Jews, and ſome of ours, therein following them; or, as moſt of ours, unto Chriſt, related, partly,in this verſe,in a promiſe not of ſufficiency of ſupport,and protection of him, only, in the work of his miniſtery; but of making him glorious in it, and by it; though it ſhould not prove ſo ſucceſsful among his own people,as he deſired; and, partly, in the verſes following, wherein he ſheweth, how his miniſtery ſhould become ſo glorious, by the efficacy of it, among, and upon the Gentiles, far and neer, throughout the whole world before-mentioned, ver.1.

that formed me from the womb] This ſome expound of Chriſts humane nature, framed in the womb of the virgin, Luk.1.35.Gal.4.4. Others,the Jews eſpecially; of the moulding of the Prophets body, to ſuch an exact temperature and conſtitution, as might be fit to receive a prophetical ſpirit, as the like of Jeremy,Jer.1.5. but this may well go among their Cabaliſtical fancies. Others (whom I agree unto) underſtand it of a deſtination unto, and if you will alſo, a preparation of the perſon ſpoken of,for the work, that he had a purpoſe to employ him about. For the word of forming, or framing, is ſometime found ſo uſed. See Chap.26.3. & 37.26. and 46. 11. See alſo, Chap. 43. 21. and 44. 21. verſ. 1, 2. to be his ſervant] See ver.3.

to bring Jacob again to him,] To convert and reduce them back to God,that were ſtrayed away from him, by the miniſtery of the Word, the office principally of Chriſt, the Archſhepherd, Ezek.34.11-16,23,24. Mat.18.11-13. Heb.13.20. 1 Pet.2.25. & 5.18. & 5.4. and of others alſo under him, in their ſeveral places,Ezek.34.4-6.

Jacob] The ſame with Iſrael; as Chap.44.1. ver. 6. the Jewiſh people,unto whom he was in the firſt place ſent, Mat. 15.24.Act.3.26. See on ver.3.

Though Iſrael be not gathered] There is a two-fold reading in this place, as the like in divers other places, even in this Prophecy,Chap.9.3. & 63.9. the one in the margent, the other in the text. The Jewiſh Maſters, for the moſt part, are wont to follow the margent; and ſo do the moſt of them here,though ſome admit both. Thoſe that keep to the text, reade the words in the negatiue; but ſo, that for the ſenſe they concur,in effect, with thoſe, who admitting that in the margent as the genuine reading,take them in the affirmative, and reade them,Iſrael ſhall be gathered to him: for either they conceive them, as uttered by way of interrogation, and ſhall not Iſrael be gathered? as if it were ſaid, Shall God ſend his Prophet,or Meſſenger,to reduce a people; and ſhall they not firſt,or laſt be reduced? or they take the word of gathering in another ſenſe, for taking away,or deſtroying; as it is oft uſed, Chap.4.1.& 16.10.& 57.1.& 60.20.Jer.8.13. Zeph.1.2. as if it were ſaid,and Iſrael ſhall not be taken away,or deſtroyed. Our former tranſlations have ſtuck to the text: our laſt verſion exhibiteth both; the one in the margent, the other in the body of the text,as they were found in the Hebrew: neither reading,as they render them; but carryeth with it very good probability, and fit conſonance with the reſt of the context; though the one onely can be genuine.For to paſs by all other interpretations,according to the textual reading, the words may well be thus rendred,Though,or,Albeit, (as Chap.10.5.) Iſrael be not gathered (that is, reclaimed and brought home unto God; a metaphor from ſtraying or ſtragling ſheep, as Pſal.27.10. Chap.11.12.) or,will not be gathered; (as ſome of our former verſions,agreeable to Mat.23.37.) yet (Heb. and; as Chap. 42. 25.) ſhall I be glorious as in the eyes of the Lord, (God will have me in high eſteem for the faithful diſcharge of my duty,and confer glory upon me, Joh.5.20,23. & 10.15, 17. & 12.28. & 17.1,5. Phil. 2. 9.) and my God ſhall be my ſtrength: he will enable me to go thorow with, whatſoever ſhall be required of me, in the place whereunto he hath aſſigned me,and protect me againſt the might and malice, both of men and divels, of all oppoſites whomſoever. See of Chriſt, Joh.10.15,18. & 16.32. of other his faithful miniſters and meſſengers,Jer.1.18,19.and 15.20,21.& 20.11. According to the marginal reading they run very aptly and ſmoothly thus, (to give you the whole entire paſſage together) And now ſaith the Lord, that formed me in the womb, to be his ſervant, for the reducing of Jacob to him, that Iſrael may be gathered to him, and I may be glorified in the eyes of the Lord, even my God that hath been my ſtrength. Who hath hitherto ſupported me; for the verb ſubſtantive (as they term it) is in the time paſt; and, for even, as Chap. 40. 30. and the relative ſupplyed, as Chap.44.2. a place parallel to this; either reading ſo well ſuiteth with the ſequel of the context, that I can hardly reſolve,whether of the twain to adhere to, onely the ſpeech running along throughout, in the perſon of the reporter,not as ſpoken to him by another,but ſpeaking of himſelf, ſeems to ſpeak for the latter. I ſhall only add what I ſince find in a learned Annotator oft mentioned, who in this manner carryeth on the file of the context; but following the other, reading with the negative, rendreth that paſſage, To reduce to him Iſrael,who is not gathered; that is,who is diſperſed, and his ſhepherds look not after him. And this verſion ſeems alſo very probable,as rendring a reaſon, why there was great need of ſending one to gather them. See Ezek. 34.4-6,11, 12. Mat. 9.36. the defect of the relative, as verſ. 25. is frequent.

V.6. And he ſaid;] Following the latter reading, it would be rendred,Even he (of whom before, ver.5.) now ſaith, or,(as ſome render it) He, I ſay, (the Lord my God, ver.5.) ſaith. The Hebrew particle is oft ſo uſed, in returning after ſome other matter interpoſed, to the relation of what had been begun before, 2 Sam. 23.1. But according to the former, He alſo,or,He further ſaid,as Chap.8. 5. & 39.6. becauſe it ſhould then uſher in a ſecond ſpeech.

It is a light thing,that thou ſhouldeſt be my ſervant to raiſe up the tribes of Jacob, and to reſtore the preſerved of Iſrael:] As if he had ſaid, It is but a ſmall matter, or,too ſmall a matter for thee to reduce and reſtore this handful of people, though thou ſhouldeſt have as ample ſucceſs with them, as thou deſireſt, in compariſon of what further work I intend to effect by thee; and for which, I have accordingly fitted and furniſhed thee,Col.1.19,20. Thus, according to the reading held forth in the text. Howbeit, the Jewiſh Commenters, and not a few of our own Interpreters alſo read them, as ſpoken by way of demand; Is it a light matter for thee to be my ſervant to this purpoſe? So the Jewiſh Doctors expounding it of Eſay; of whom God ſhould demand, whether it were a ſlight matter to be put upon ſuch an employment. And thoſe of ours, that go this way; Art thou lighter, or viler (of leſs account, to wit, in the eyes of thy people, as ver.7.) then that thou ſhouldeſt be my ſervant, an inſtrument uſed by me, for the raiſing and recovery of my people? But the former interpretation ſeemes the more familiar, and not to need any ſuch ſupply.

a light thing that thou ſhouldeſt be] Or, too light for thee to be. Or, a lighter thing then for thee to be. Heb. light from being. See 1 Sam.18.23. 1 King.16.31. 2 King.13.18. Ezek.8.17. and of the uſe of the particle thus in way of compariſon, Job 11. 6. Chap.41.24.

my ſervant] As ver.6.

to raiſe up the Tribes of Jacob] The Jewiſh people fallen from me; my Church among them decayed by their deſertion of me; and their State ruined by their ſin, Amos 9.11. Act.15, 16. This the Jewiſh Writers, and divers of ours, alſo, apply, ſome to Eſay, as the foreteller of it; and ſome to Cyrus, as the effecter of the reſtitution of Gods people, here pointed to, in the diſſolution of the Babylonian Captivity. But whatſoever dusky draught of it, might be deſcried in either, the full accompliſhment of it, is moſt cleerly in Chriſt. See Chap. 44. 26.

to reſtore] Heb. to reduce, or, bring back, or, cauſe to return, as ver.5. Neh.9.26. for I find not where it is uſed of reſtitution, or reparation of decays in building.

the preſerved of Iſrael] Or, as ſome, the reſerved: the Elect of God among that people, whom God had from time to time protected and preſerved in times of common calamity, as a remnant reſerved for himſelf, Chap.1.9. & 6.13. & 8.14. & 10. 20-22. Ezek.11.16,17. Mat.24.22,24. Rom.9.27,29. & 11. 1,2,4,5,7. Jud.1. Howbeit, our margent here affordeth us another reading, to wit, deſolations; that which the Rabbines alſo here hold forth, calling in, for the juſtification of it, divers places, where they ſuppoſe the word ſo to ſignifie, as Chap.1.8. & 65.4. Prov.7.10. But theſe places, ſome of them, ſeem queſtionable; and though the reſtoring of Waſtes be oft mentioned, and promiſed in this Prophecy, ver.19. Chap.44.26. & 51.3. & 52.9. & 58.12. & 61.4. Yet neither is this word found in any of them; nor the verb here joyned with it, uſed of them. Beſides, that the gender of the word carryeth it rather unto perſons, then unto places.

I will alſo give thee for a light to the Gentiles, that thou mayeſt be my ſalvation unto the end of the earth.] This likewiſe not the Jews alone, but of ours alſo, apply, ſome to Eſay; from whoſe Prophecies, much light ſhone forth, not to the Jews alone, but to other people, when they ſaw them fulfilled, and were many of them, as they preſume, thereby converted: ſome to Cyrus, by whoſe diſſolution of the Babylonian Empire, much light of joy, accrewed not to the Jewes alone (as by Hamans downfal, Eſt.8.16,17.) Pſal.126.1,2. Chap.9.2,3. & 12.3,6. & 35.10. but to all thoſe people, that lived formerly, either in ſlavery, or in ſlaviſh fear, under it, Chap.7.16. But theſe things ſeem too much ſtrained. Evident it is, that Chriſt was ſent by God, to illighten, by the ſaving light of the Goſpel, not thoſe of his own nation alone, Chap.9.2. Mat. 4.15,16. Luk.1.78,79. Joh.1.4,5. & 8.12. & 9.5. & 12.35,36, 46. but people of all parts throughout the whole world, Chap. 42.6. & 51.4. Luk.2.32. Act.13.47. & 22.21. & 26.17,18. Rom. 10.18. 2 Cor.4.4, 6. and to effect ſalvation, as well for the one, as the other, Pſal.98.3. Chap.45.22. Mar.16.15,16. Luk. 24.47. Joh.10.16. & 11.51,52. & 12.32. Rom.3.9,23-25,29, 30. & 10.12, 13. Gal.3.28. Epheſ.2.13—16. 1 John 2.2.

V. 7. Thus ſaith the Lord, the Redeemer of Iſrael, and his holy one] Another ſpeech of God, unto his anointed one, followeth; to give him further encouragement, againſt that ſorry conceit, and mean eſtimation, that the world ſhould have of him, with a more ample aſſurance of good ſucceſs in his miniſtery, and an iſſue, beyond expectation, of the work to be undertaken by him, for the deliverance of his people.

the Redeemer of Iſrael, and his holy one] See Chap. 48.17.

to him, whom man deſpiſeth; to him, whom the nation abhorreth; to a Servant of Rulers;] A lively deſcription of the condition of our bleſſed Saviour, in the time of his humiliation, in the days of his fleſh. See the like, Chap.52.14. & 53. 2,3. Howſoever the Hebrew Commenters would turn it all another way, applying it all, ſome of them, to the Prophet Eſay, and ſome to the body of their people.

to him, whom man deſpiſeth] Heb. to the contempt of ſoul; as ſome, that make the word a noun: or, as others, ſuppoſing it to be a verb, to him, who is ready, for a ſoul to contemn: or, as a third ſort, who take it for a participial of a paſſive ſenſe, to the deſpiſed of a ſoul. Herein they all agree, that by the word ſoul, is underſtood man, or perſon; as it is frequently uſed in either Teſtament, Exod.1.5. Act.7.14. 1 Pet.3.20. and in a kind of generality here, ſoul, or a ſoul, for every one, every ſoul, as Lev. 4.2. & 5.1. though the note of univerſality be not expreſſed. So the meaning is, one that is generally expoſed to contempt, as our bleſſed Saviour was here on earth, in the eyes and minds of the moſt, Pſal.22.6,7. Chap.52.14. & 53.3. Mat.13. 55-57. Mar.6.3. Joh.7.48,49. Our margent rendreth it, To him that is deſpiſed in ſoul; that is, as ſome, to a contemptible creature, one whoſe ſoul is filled, or cloyed with ſcorn and contempt, Pſal.123.3,4. expounding it of the Jewiſh people, under the Babylonian bondage, Pſal.137.1-3. And thus it was indeed alſo both with Chriſt himſelf, when he was here on earth, Mat.27.38-44. Mar.15.28. and with his members and miniſters after him, 1 Cor.4.9-13. Again, ſome other render it, to him that ſetteth light by his own ſoul; as all true Chriſtians are both admoniſhed to do, Mat.16.24,25. Luk.14.26. and are, ſaid ſome of them, to have done, Rev.12.11. See Act.20. 24. applying it to our Prophet, who expoſed himſelf to hazard, by his freedom of ſpeech, in oppoſing of Shebna, and other the great ones of the times. That which is true, alſo, of Chriſt, who expoſed, and gave up his life, or ſoul, unto death, as an expiatory ſacrifice for the ſins and ſafety of Gods people, Chap.53.10,12. Joh.10.15,18. But the ſenſe firſt given ſeems genuine, which way ſoever the Grammar reſolution, there given, go. Howbeit, a late learned Annotator propoundeth here two other Interpretations. The word, ſaith he, is a verb infinite, which with the particle here prefixed, oft anſwereth the Latine gerund in dum, as Chap. 44. 14. and upon this ground he rendreth the text, either thus; thy ſoul must be deſpiſed, or, ſet light by, for him, or, thoſe (collectively taking it) whom people abhor, (a defect of the relative, as Chap.65.1.) and is, or are, in ſervitude to Rulers. Or, thus, thou muſt contemn, or, ſet light by, the will, or, deſire, (ſo is the word ſoul uſed, Pſal.27.12.) of him that abhorreth the Nation, and is a Servant to Rulers; that is, of Pilate, who abhorred the Jewiſh people, and was a ſervant to the Ceſars. I propound them onely, and leave them, as himſelf doth, to be weighed by others.

to him whom the nation abhorreth] Heb. no more then, to an abhorring nation; which ſome render, to an abominable nation; that is, a people, ſay they, who in regard of their preſent, baſe, and calamitous condition, are generally abominated, Lam.1.17. But others, and ſo the Jewiſh Commenters, alſo, to one abhorring a nation; that is, who abhorreth the Nation, either of the Jews for their wickedneſs; or other, for their impieties and wrongs to Gods people: or, as they alſo, to one, whom the nation is abhorring; that is, whom this Nation, the Jewiſh people, (the rather ſo termed, as ſome obſerve on the place, becauſe by their wicked practices, they had made themſelves no other then as other nations, and ſuch alſo in Gods ſight, Ezek.5.6. Hoſ.1.9. See Chap.1.4.) do for the moſt of them even abhor. See Chap.53.3. Matth. 11.19. & 26.65. Joh.5.12,18. & 7.12,20. & 8.28,52. & 10.20. Act.3.14. The defect of the relative is not unuſual. See on ver. 5. nor the placing of the nominative after the verb, or, participle commonly uſed for the verb. So Gen.25.21. Of which place, ſee on Chap.21.8.

to a Servant of Rulers] This ſome underſtand of Eſay, being a ſubject, and ſo a ſervant to the Kings of Judah, under whom he prophecied, Chap.1.1. Others, of the Jewiſh people, in ſervitude under forrein Governours, during the time of their captivity, Chap.26.13. But the moſt, and beſt, of Chriſt, uſed in a baſe ſort, and in a ſervile manner, by the Rulers in thoſe times, when he was here upon earth, and put, by them, to ſuch a death, as ſlaves among the Romans were wont to undergo, Mat.26.27. & 27.20,22,26-38. Luk.22.63-65. & 23.11,23. Joh.19.1,2,5.

Kings ſhall ſee, and ariſe, Princes alſo ſhall worſhip, becauſe of the Lord, who is faithful, and the holy one of Iſrael, and he ſhall chooſe thee] Thou that waſt ſometime contemned, and ſcorned, both by Princes, and people, ſhalt, through the faithfull procurement of God, who made choice of thee for this office, be advanced to that height of honour, that thou ſhalt be worſhipped, and adored by the greateſt Potentates in the world, Eph.1.19-21. Phil.2.7-11. Heb.2.9. A pregnant Prophecy of the Kings and Princes of the earth, ſubmitting their crowns and ſcepters, to the Kingdom, and Soveraignty of Chriſt, Pſal.2.8-12. & 72.10,11. & 110.2,5. Chap.52.13,15. Rev.11. 15. Though ſome expound it of this Prophet alſo, at the reading of whoſe Prophecies, Cyrus ſhould ſtand amazed; and other Princes admire, when they ſhould ſee them fulfilled. Others, of the Church reſtored by Chriſt; of which, ſomewhat the like, ſee hereafter, ver.23. Chap. 60. 3,10,11, 12. for ſhe partaketh alſo in ſome degree with Chriſt, as his Spouſe, in his honour, Mat.19.18. Luk.22.29,30. Rev.3.21. & 12.1. & 19.7,8. but this place is principally concerning Chriſt himſelf.

See] Or, See thee; the pronoun wanting: as ver.18. They ſee him, with the eye of faith, as Abraham foreſaw him, Joh. 8.56. and behold the glory and dignity of Chriſt, now exalted, in the marvellous works, wrought by him, upon, and among his people, Chap.52.15.

and ariſe] Or, ariſe to thee; as before: in token of reverence, as Levit.19.32. Judg.3.20. 1 King.2.19. Job 29.8.

ſhall worſhip]. Or, ſhall ariſe, and bow down: as ver.23. (ſee Gen.23.7. 1 Sam. 25.41.) or, do obeyſance to thee; in token of ſubmiſſion, Chap.45.23. Phil.2.10. chap.60,14.Rev. 3.7. a repetition of the former verb, from the former branch: as chap.41.25. & 43.2. and ſupply of the pronoun attending the latter; as chap.58.9.

becauſe of the Lord, who is faithful] Conſidering Gods faithfulneſſe, which ſhall then appear in the performance of all his promiſes, made both unto thee, and unto his people, by thee, Rom.15.8,9. 2 Cor.1.20.

and the holy One] Or, for the holy One; the prepoſition repeated from the former branch; as the verb before: the holy one, that ſpeaks this. See before.

and he ſhall chooſe thee] Or, ſhall make thee a choice one: as Chap.48.10. Zach.1.17. or, who hath choſen thee: the copulative, for the relative; as Chap.44.14. Jer.14.18. or, becauſe he ſhall have choſen thee: the copulative, in a cauſative notion, as Chap.64.5. becauſe he ſhall make it then to appear, that it was he that had formerly made choice of thee, and deſigned thee unto this office, to be the Saviour of his people, as well Jew, as Gentile. See ch.43.10.

V. 8. Thus ſaith the Lord] God the Father ſpeaking again unto Chriſt, as Pſal.2.7. & 110.1. For they ſtrain the text unreaſonably, that either reſtrain, or apply, all this, alſo, to Eſay.

In an acceptable time have I heard thee, and in a day of ſalvation have I helped thee] Or, becauſe it runneth as the former did, ver.6,7. I will hear thee; I will help thee: when the time appointed ſhall come, wherein I have determined to manifeſt my free favour, and gracious good will unto them, by working by thee ſalvation and deliverance for them, I will then accept thy ſuits, and interceſſion for them, and will be aſſiſtant unto thee, in that work. See 2 Cor.6.2.

an acceptable time] Heb. a time of good-will, or acceptance, as Pſal.69.13. See Chap.61.2.

heard] Or, will hear. Heb. anſwer. God is then ſaid, as to hear, ſo to anſwer, when he granteth requeſts, and makes it appear, that he ſo doth, Chap.65.24. Pſal.118.5. See his ſolemn ſuit for his, Joh.17.

helped] Or, will help: as Chriſt is with his at hand, alwayes, to hear, and help them, Mat.28.20. ſo was God the Father, ever at hand with Chriſt, to hear, and help him. See Joh.11.41,42. & 16.32. Act.10.38. 2 Cor.5.19. See the like promiſes made to Gods people, chap.41.10,13,14.

and I will preſerve thee] Both in thy perſon, and in the execution of thine office. See Chap.42.1,6. ver.2.

and give thee for a covenant to the people] Not only make thee the Mediatour of the new Covenant between me and my people, Heb.7.22. & 8.6. but make good by thee, all my promiſes made to my people, concerning their deliverance, either corporal, out of the Babylonian bondage; or ſpiritual, from the ſervice of ſin, and Satan, 2 Cor.1.20. the one, being as a type and ſymbol; ſo a pledge, or pawn, alſo, in ſome ſort, of the other: and the latter therefore, being uſually ſhadowed out by the former, as well in this place, as elſewhere. See Chap.61.1,2.

to eſtabliſh the earth] Or, to raiſe up (as ver.6.) the land: as Chap.57.13. to wit, of Judah; to reſtore, and ſettle the State of it again, after their return from the captivity: a type of the reſtitution, and eſtabliſhment of the Church by Chriſt, chap.2.2.

to cauſe to inherit the deſolate heritages:] That my people returning again to their poſſeſſions, out of which they had forformerly been ejected, may repair, and re-edifie thoſe places that had lien waſte a long time, during the time of their abſence from them; and being repoſſeſſed of them, enjoy them, as in former dayes they had done, ver.6. ch.51.3. & 58.12.& 61.4. Ezek.36.3,4,34,35.a type of the reſtitution of the faithful, to their eſtate, and condition, forfeited through the fraud of Satan, and the default and defection, both of their parents, and themſelves, Rom.3.23. & 5.12.

V. 9. That thou mayſt ſay to the priſoners, Go forth; to them that ſit in darkneſſe, Shew your ſelves] That thou mayſt not only ſay it; but do it. For Gods Word is his Will; and his Will, is his Work, Pſal.11.3.& 135.6. Chap.44.26. that thou mayſt not only proclaim, or preach, liberty to them; but procure it for them; liberty corporal, from Babels bonds, Ezr.1. 1-4. Chap.43.14. & 44.28. & 45.13. & 51.14. Pſal.107.10—14. liberty ſpiritual, from Satans bonds, Luk. 13.16. Joh.8. 31,32,34. Act.26.18. Col.1.13. 2 Tim.2.26. Heb. 2. 14, 15. 1 Joh.3.8. See ch.42.7. & 61.1.

in darkneſſe] In dark dungeons, Pſa. 88. 6. & 107.10,14. Chap.42.7,22. a type of ſpiritual darkneſs, ch.9.2. Mat.4.16. Luk.1.79. & 22,53.

Shew your ſelves] Heb. Be revealed: as 1 Sam.14.8,11. come forth into the light.

They ſhall feed in the wayes; and their paſtures ſhall be in all high places] To the promiſe of delivery from their captivity, is adjoyned a further promiſe of a competent ſupply, and proviſion of all neceſſaries for them by the way, in their travelling home to their own country; ſet forth in an alluſion to the manner of ſheep, (and Gods people are ſtyled his ſheep, Pſal. 100.3. ch.40.11. Ezek.34.31.) or other cattle, that being removed (as in Spain, and ſome other parts) at time of yeer, from one ſide of the country, to the other, are permitted by the way, to graſe on the roads, and drift-walls, that they paſſe by; together with an intimation of ſufficiency of food, that ſhould, by Gods procurement and providence, be found for them, even in the places moſt waſte and barren, by which they were to paſſe. See Chap. 35.1. & 41.18,19. and 43. 19,20.

high places] That are uſually dry and barren, Chap.41.18. Jer.12.12. albeit, a learned late Writer would have it ſignifie, not high, but low places, valleys, or plains. See Chap. 13.1. & 41.18.

V. 10. They ſhall not hunger, nor thirſt] Having proviſion ſufficient, of either ſort, made for them; as thoſe that travel thorow deſerts, are compelled oft to do, Pſal. 107. 4,5. See Pſal.105.40,41. Chap.41.17. & 48.21. Rev.7.16.

neither ſhall the heat, nor Sun, ſmite them] They ſhall not be troubled with ſuch inconveniencies, and annoyances, as travellers, in torrid regions, waſte places eſpecially, where no ſhade, or ſhelter is, are wont to be expoſed unto, and moleſted with, Pſal.105.37,39. ch.32.2. & 41.19.

heat, nor Sun] Heb. burning, or, ſcorching heat, and ſun, for, burning, or ſcorching heat of the ſun. See chap.5.6. or, ſcorching heat, (ariſing from the nature of the ſoyl; as ch.35. 7. or other like occaſions,) or ſun; that is, ſun-ſhine: becauſe they are alſo, ſo diſtinctly ſet down, Rev.7.16. though the Sun put firſt there: the copulative for the disjunctive; as Chap.44.10,14.

ſmite] As Pſal.121.6.

for he that hath mercy on them, ſhall lead them; even by the ſprings of water ſhall he guide them] The reaſon of this affluence of neceſſaries for them, in their way homeward; becauſe the ſame God, who out of his meer mercy, had wrought their deliverance from Babylon, Chap. 14.1. will go along with them, and conduct them, as he did their fathers formerly, thorow the wilderneſs, after he had brought them out of Egypt, Exod.13.21,22. and will ſee that nothing be wanting unto them by the way: and becauſe water is one of the moſt neceſſary ſupports of mans life, and means of his refreſhment, the want whereof, therefore, unto travellers eſpecially in hot regions, and through waſte places, might moſt of all diſtreſs; mention is particularly made of proviſion for it, God promiſing to lead them along by ſuch paſſages, where plenty of Springs ſhould be found. See Chap.41.18,19.& 43. 19,20. Pſal.23.1-3. Jer.31.9.

Springs] As Chap. 35.7.

V. 11. And I will make all my mountains a way, and my high-ways ſhall be exalted.] Another means of facilitating their journey for them, by making their way ſafe, and eaven before them, and by removal of ſuch impediments as might hinder them in their paſſage. See Chap.40.4. & 51.10.

I will] A change of the perſon; as oft elſe-where. So Chap.41.19,20. & 42.13,14.

my mountains] Thoſe by which my people are to paſs, Ch. 40.4. Or, therefore, mine; becauſe I am the Maker of them, and can, therefore, diſpoſe of them as I pleaſe, Pſal.95.4. See Zach.4.6,7. I will cauſe them to paſs with as much eaſe, as if all the mountains were taken away, that ſtand in their way.

my high-way ſhall be exalted] Or, my cauſey (that is, ſuch ways as ſhall be caſt up for the more convenient paſſage of my people) ſhall be heightened. See Chap.35.8. & 62.10. Of the word, ſee Chap.19.23. Howbeit, ſome expound the words, I will make my mountains a plain way, by depreſſing them, and my high-ways, or roads, in the valley, ſhall be raiſed, to make them eaven with the other, and ſo lay all levell, as Chap. 40. 4.

V. 12. Behold theſe ſhall come from far:] To aſſure them of return to their own country again, he telleth them, that no remoteneſs of place from their own land; nor diſtance of regions one from another, into which they had been diſperſed, ſhould impeach their paſſage, or hinder their concurrence and meeting together, in their own land again, Deut.30.3,4. See Chap.11.11,12.

from far] From places moſt remote, Chap.43.6. & 60.4. Jer.30.10. Howbeit, in regard that ſome ſpecial regions are in particular after related, lying towards the four quarters of the world, and the Weſtern coaſt, next but one to this, moſt Interpreters here, by the far country, underſtand the Eaſt, or Sun-riſing, the Perſian land, Chap.41.2,25. as moſt diſtant from the land of Judah, that lay ſo far Weſt, on the brink of the Weſtern Sea.

and lo theſe from the North] From Media, ſay ſome, Chap. 41.25. From Babylon, rather, others, Chap.14.31. Jer.1.14, 15. for it is not probable, that the principal place of their captivity ſhould be omitted. See Zach. 2.6,7.

and from the Weſt] Heb. from the Sea, as Joſh.16.6,8. ſo called, becauſe the Midland-ſea lay Weſt of them; that is, as ſome, from the Philiſtines land, into which they had ſometime fled, See Chap.9.12. as others, from the tranſmarine parts, and Weſtern Ilands, Cyprus, Candy, Macedonia.

and theſe from the land of Sini] Or, of the Sinites; whereby ſome underſtand ſuch as lived in the deſart of Sin, or about Mount Sinai, Exod.16.1. & 19.1. But there ſeems to have been little dwelling in thoſe deſarts. Others, the Sinites, reckoned among the poſterity of Canaan, Gen.10.17. But theſe were, in likelyhood, Families, inhabiting among the reſt of that Stock in the land, where the Iſraelites themſelves were afterward ſeated. Others, would carry them, as far as China, by Ptolomy; called Sina: But that country was not in thoſe times, yet, in likelyhood, known to theſe parts. The moſt probable opinion, therefore, is, that by the Sinites is here meant, the Inhabitants of Sin, a chief city of Egypt, called, therefore, Sin, the ſtrength of Egypt, Ezek.30.15,16, having its name Sin, from a Syriack word, that ſignifies, mire, or dirt; as by the Greeks alſo, it is therefore termed Peluſium, from a Greek word of the ſame notion, in regard of its ſituation, being envirorſed with marſhes and quaggy grounds; as Strabo, l.17. put here for Egypt, becauſe one of its head cities; which land, lying to the South of Judah, Chap. 30.6. cometh in to make up the fourth quarter. The return of the Jewiſh people, out of all theſe parts, into which they had been ſcattered, Ezek.5. 10. being a type of thoſe, that out of all parts of the world, ſhould be converted, and come in unto Chriſt, Pſal.107.3. ver. 18. Chap.43.5,6. & 66.19,20.

V. 13 Sing, O heaven; and be joyfull, O earth; and break forth into crying, O mountains:] A calling upon all the creatures, both above, and below, to rejoyce, upon the deliverance of Gods people, Chap.44.23. & 55.12. as the whole frame of the creature is ſaid to droop and mourn, untill their deliverance be fully compleated, Rom.8.19-22.

for the Lord hath comforted his people, and will have mercy upon his afflicted.] Or, and had mercy, Chap.14.1. ver.10. Chap. 51.3. & 52.9.

V. 14. But Zion ſaid, The Lord hath forſaken me; and my Lord hath forgotten me.] Or, Jehovah hath forſaken me; and Adonai, or, my Lord, hath forgotten me; as two diſtinct expreſſions of the ſame perſon, which at ſeveral times they had frequently in their mouths; the one, ſometime; and ſometime the other. The laments of Gods people bemoaning themſelves, in the time of their long and tedious captivity; and complaining of God, through humane frailty, as if he had utterly caſt off all care for, and thought of them. See the like, ch.40.27. Pſal.13.1. & 31.22. & 88.14.

Zion] Gods people, ver.13. who had wont to meet together at Zion, to ſerve God there, Pſal. 84. 7. So Chap. 1.27. and 40.9.

my Lord] That was in times paſt, ſo: my good Lord, my gracious Soveraign, ſo forward to protect me, ſo ready to relieve me; whom, alone, I had wont to repair unto, and rely upon, for ſuccour and ſhelter, for ſafety and delivery in all my diſtreſſes; he now failsme, and looks not after me; that which much aggravated their preſent affliction, and added much aloes thereunto, Pſal.44.7-9.

V. 15. Can a woman forget her ſucking child, that ſhe ſhould not have compaſſion on the ſon of her womb?] Gods affectionate anſwer to his peoples lamentable, but erroneous, and groundleſs, complaint.

Can a woman forget?] Heb. will a woman forget? But theſe enunciatives are oft uſed in a potential notion. So Jer. 2.32. & 11.12.

her ſucking child] That hangeth on her breaſt. Such as mothers are wont to be moſt chary of, and to be moſt tenderly affected towards them. Or, her young child, her youngling: For the word ſeems to be ſomewhat larger, and to ſignifie any young infant, or child; like a tender branch, or cluſter, as the words of neer affinity to it import, Chap.13.16. & 24.12. diſtinguiſhed from ſucklings, Pſal.8.2. Jer.6.11. See the word it ſelf uſed, chap.65.20. Job 19.18. & 21.11. which latter places cannot well be underſtood of ſucking babes. See chap.40. 11. A learned Annotator obſerveth, that the ſame word in the Ethiopick verſion, is uſed for a colt, Mat.21.2.

that ſhe ſhould not have compaſſion] Heb. from having compaſſion; as chap.23.1. & 50.2. & 59.1.

on the ſon of her womb] Heb. of her belly; an affectionate form of ſpeech, Prov.31.2. and emphatical, Mic.6.7. uſed as well of the male, as of the female parent, Deut. 28.4,18. Pſal. 132. 11. not unlike that, my ſon which came out of my bowels, 2 Sam.16.11.

yea, they may forget; yet will not I forget thee.] Though ſome of them ſhould be ſo unnatural, Lam.4.3. Rom. 1.31. yet I cannot prove ſo towards thee, Pſal.103.13.

yea] Or, though; as Neh.6.1.

they] Heb. theſe; as ver.11,21.

may forget] Heb. will forget; to wit, her ſucking-babe, or her youngling, as the Oſtritch doth, Job 39.14-16. But the word is taken here potentially; as Chap. 39.15.

yet] Heb. and; as chap.42.25.

will not I forget thee.] Chap.44.21. Jer.31.20. or, cannot I forget thee; that it may anſwer the foregoing member.

V. 16. Behold, I have graven thee upon the palms of my hands:] Or, I have drawn thee (portraid thee, as Ezek.4.1.) on my hands, as Pſal.119.48. Lam.3.41. an alluſion, as ſome, to the manner of thoſe, that ſet ſome mark, or ty ſome ſtring upon their hand, or about ſome of their fingers, to mind them of ſome buſineſs, that they may not forget it. See Exod.13.16. Prov.6. 21. or; as others, to the manner of builders, that uſe to draw models, of thoſe ſtructures, that they intend to erect; which ſuits well with the wals mentioned in the next clauſe. Or, as others again, preſſing the word, graven, (though not indeed found there) to thoſe, that carry about with them engraven, on ſome tablet, or on the ſtone of ſome ring, which they wear on their finger, the mark, name, or picture of ſome perſon, whom they entirely affect. See Cant.8.6. Jer.22,24. whereunto ſome add as a probable conjecture; that the Jews, the citizens of Jeruſalem eſpecially, ſhould uſually have the figure of that city engraven on their rings; and that thereunto ſome alluſion ſhould be, Pſal. 137.5. of ſome of their coins, ſome ſuch thing is reported and exhibited: of their rings, I read nothing: a defect of the pronoun poſſeſſive; as Job 13.18.

the walls are continually before me.] Either mine eyes are continually upon thy wals now demoliſhed and ruined, Lam. 2.7,8. a ruful ſpectacle, to move me, out of pitty and compaſſion, to be mindful of the raiſing and re-edifying of them, Pſal.102.14. or, the model and frame of that goodly ſtructure, that I intend to raiſe Sion unto (for he ſpeaketh of Church, and People, as of a ſtately ſtructure, chap.55.11,12. Rev.21. 10-26.) is continually in my thoughts, as the workman hath his model, or pattern, conſtantly, either before his eye, or in his brain, that he is for to work by. See Exod.25.9. Pſal.39.16. Ezek.40.2. & 43.11.

V. 17. Thy children ſhall make haſte] They ſhall ſpeedily return, Chap.51.14. Jer. 50.8. or, as ſome read it, Thy builders ſhall make haſte: Thy walls ſhall be ſpeedily built up again, Chap.44.28. & 60.10.

and they that made thee waſte, ſhall go forth of thee] They that razed thy walls, and laid thee waſte, ſhall be expelled, and driven again out of thy land, whereof they had formerly diſpoſſeſſed thee, ver.19. Chap.14.2,6. & 16.4. & 54.14. & 60.18. Zach.1.21.

V. 18. Lift up thine eyes round about, and behold; all theſe gather themſelves together, and come to thee:] God ſpeaks to Sion, by the Prophet, following the former allegory: as to a mother, or mother-city; and as of a preſent viſible confluence of multitudes of people, from all parts on every ſide, flowing in to her; partly, of her own natives; and partly, of others joyned to them, and deſirous to be enfranchiſed with them; a type of thoſe numerous, or numberleſs rather, numbers of perſons, that ſhould be brought home to the Church of God, under Chriſt, by the miniſtery of the Goſpel; and have their names enrolled in Gods Regiſter, as fellow-citizens, with the Saints, Chap.2.2,3. & 14.1. & 60.11. Pſal.87.4-6. Hoſ.1.10. Act.2.41,47. & 4.4. & 19.18-20. & 21.20. Rom. 9.24,25. Eph. 2.12,13,19. Rev.3.12. See ch.60.4.

Lift up thine eyes] An ordinary form of ſpeech uſed in Scripture, to expreſs a ſerious and adviſed conſideration, or contemplation of ought that offereth it ſelf unto view, Gen. 13.10. & 22.4. & 31.10,12.

gather themſelves together] Heb. are gathered together: as chap.43.9. out of ſeveral parts and places, wherein formerly they abode.

and come to thee] Or, they come to thee; or, to come to thee: as Judg.9.48. make haſte, do as I do, for, make haſte to do, as I do: and ſo, Pſal,106.13. they made haſte, they forgat; and the like.

as I live, ſaith the Lord,] A ſolemn form of an oath; that God himſelf, upon ſpecial occaſions, oft uſeth: as ſure as I live, Ezek.33.11. Jer.22.24.

thou ſhalt ſurely clothe thee with them all, as with an ornament; and binde them to thee, as a bride doth.] They ſhall all joyn themſelves to thee; and being joyned to thee, ſhall not be a bare burdenſome multitude, hanging upon thee; or as ignominious troops of baſe ſorry people, that are no better then blots, and blemiſhes to a State; but they are ſuch, as ſhall be as jewels, and ornaments, matter of much honour to thee, being perſons endowed with ſuch ſpiritual graces, as ſhall make them, and thee, by them, through thoſe precious endowments, reſplendent in them, of high eſteem, in the eyes both of God, and man, 1 Cor.12.4-11. Tit.2.10. Jam.2.5. 1 Pet.1.7. & 3.4. 2 Pet.1.1,4. Rev.19.8,14.

thou ſhalt ſurely] So the particle ſeems uſed, Chap. 5.7. & 7.9,16. or, that thou ſhalt, &c. As ſure as I live, ſo ſure it is, that thou ſhalt. So 1 Sam.20.3.

clothe thee with them] Heb. clothe them on, or, put them on; as Exod.29.30. as one is ſaid to be clad, or clothed with that, which makes him conſpicuous in the eyes and eſteem of others, Pſal.93.1. & 104.2. & 132.9,16. Rom.13.12,14. Eph. 4.24. Col.3.10,12,14.

as with an ornament] The word is a very general term, comprehending all rich, and gorgeous raiment, or other ornaments, that people are wont to wear about them, Exod.33. 4–6.

bind them to thee] Or, bind them on: as Jewels are wont to be for more ſecurity, Prov.3.3. & 7.3. it ſeems uſed more ſpecially of head-attire, the head-band, or, diadem, Jer. 2.32. the pronoun is not in the text: but may be ſupplyed; as ver.7. Job 11.18.

as a bride doth] As a bride is wont, of all other, in moſt ſpecious and curious manner, to attire, and ſet out her ſelf, Chap.61.10. Jer.2.32. Rev.21.2. as a bride bindeth on her ornaments, or, her head-attire, which ſhe hath ſpecial care of: the verb is to be ſupplyed, from the member before-going, as Prov.25.23. & 26.9,14.

V. 19. For thy waſte, and thy deſolate places, and the land of thy deſtruction, ſhall even now be too narrow, by reaſon of the Inhabitants:] Or, carrying on the text in a continued tenour, (which I take to be the right,) That thy waſte, and deſolate places, and thy land deſtroyed, ſhall be too ſtrait for the Inhabitant: for ſo it runs word for word; as certain, as I ſaid before, it is, that thy land, formerly exhauſted with deſtructions, and deportations, ſhall now be ſo repleniſhed with people, that there ſhall hardly be room for them, to dwell one by another. See Jer.31.27. Ezek.36.37,38. Zach.2.4. or, as a learned late Writer, For in thy deſolate places, and in thy waſtes, and in thy land deſtroyed, thou ſhalt now ſurely be ſtreitned, by reaſon of Inhabitants: a double ci, in a two-fold notion, as Gen. 22.16. and a defect of the particle, in, very frequent; as Chap.44.12. & 48.4. And this I concur with; adding only, that according to this interpretation, the tenour of the context, may run on as before, That in all thoſe places thou ſhalt be ſtraitned. See ver.20.

thy waſte, and thy deſolate places] Heb. thy waſtneſſes, and thy deſolations: as Ezr.9.9.

the land of thy deſtruction] Or, rather, thy land of deſtruction; that is, thy deſtroyed land. See Chap.19.18.

by reaſon of the Inhabitants] Heb. Inhabitant: as chap. 5.3. and they that ſwallowed thee up, ſhall be far away] To wit, from thee: a ſupply of the pronoun: as ver.18. Being either driven away, or deſtroyed, ver.17.

ſwallowed thee up] Or, deſtroyed thee; that waſted and ſpoiled thee, thy lands, cities, and people, ch.3.12. & 19.3. & 25.7. Jer.51.34,44. a metaphor from ſuch ravenous beaſts, as devour, what they deſtroy, Gen.37.33. Pſal.124.3. Jon. 1. 17. Chap.42.14.

V. 20. The children which thou ſhalt have, after thou haſt loſt the other, ſhall ſay again in thine ears, The place is too ſtraight for me; give place to me, that I may dwell] The great fruitfulneſs of the people, returned from captivity; not unlike that, wherewith God bleſſed them, ſometime, in Egypt, Exod.1.12, 20. a type of the fertility of Gods Church, under the Meſſias, Chap.54.1.

after thou haſt loſt the other] Either cut off by the enemy, Jer.31.15. or caſt off, for their incredulity, Rom. 11. 15,20. which theſe latter ſhall, in number, far exceed, Rev. 7.4-9. Heb. the children of thine orbity, or, thy childleſſe, or, deſtitute, eſtate. See Chap.47.9. & ver.21.

ſhall ſay again] Or, yet; or, further.

in thine ears] Or, in thy hearing; as Jer.48.7.

the place is too ſtraight for me] As 2 King.6.1. we want room, Zach.10.10.

give place for me, that I may dwell] Or, make room for me, that I may have where to abide; as chap.5.8. Jer.39.14. See chap.54.1.

V. 21. Then ſhalt thou ſay in thine heart] Heb. And: as chap 38.2,4. thou ſhalt think with thy ſelf; as 1 Sam. 27.1. Pſal.14.1.

Who hath begotten me theſe, ſeeing I have loſt my children, and am deſolate, a captive, and removing to and fro? and who hath brought up theſe? behold, I was left alone: theſe where had they been?] A ſpeech, or thought, of much wonder, upon the ſight of her exceeding great, and that ſudden, alſo, encreaſe, with her, after her return; having been ſo long a time, like a lone woman, and loſt ſo many of her children, partly, in the ſiege, and ſurpriſal of the city, (for as of Sion, or Jeruſalem, ver.14. he ſtill ſpeaketh,) before the captivity; and partly, during the time of their abode therein. See Chap. 66.7,8.

I have loſt my children] Heb. I am childleſſe; or, have been ſtript of my children: for the word ſignifieth childleſſe; yet not at large; not ſo, as Mical, 2 Sam.6.23. one that had never had childe; but more ſtrictly, ſuch an one, as hath had children, but hath miſcarried with them, either, by abortion, before birth, Cant.4.2. & 6.6. Hoſ.9.14. or, by loſſe of them, afterward, 2 Sam.17.8. Hoſ.13.8.

and deſolate] So is the word uſed, in the male-form, Job 15. 34. & 30.3. here, in the female, it is put for a lone woman, (as we ſpeak) or, a widow; as appeareth by thoſe parallel places, where the judgments, here mentioned, are (as here) joyned together, ch.47.8,9. Jer.18.21. ſeeing I have bin a long time husbandleſs; not one, that never had any, (for God had been married to her, Jer.3.14. & 31.32. Ezek.16.8.) but as one that liveth ſevered, and divorced from her husband; as ſhe ſeemed to do, during the time of her captivity, and the intermiſſion of her wonted ſolemn communion with God, in his Temple-ordinances, wholly for that whole time abandoned, together with the only place, thereunto appropriated, chap.50.1. See Lam.1.1.

removing to and fro] a pilgrim, or, a vagrant; one that goeth aſide, and flitteth from place to place, ſo the ſtock it comes from, gives it. Howbeit, not ſuch an one here, as roveth to and fro, of his own accord, like Cain, whom none, ſave his own guilty conſcience, drave up and down, Gen. 4.14. but ſuch an one, as is hurried from quarter to quarter, at the pleaſure of thoſe, in whoſe power, he, or ſhe is; and can find reſt in no place; (ſee Lam.1.3.) a juſt fruit of their wilfull wandring from God, Jer.14.10. the word in this notion, is not elſewhere read; in another it is, Jer.2.21. and in a third, moſt proper, Jer.17.13.

theſe where had they been] Or, where were they, or, have they been, all this while? and from whence now come they? Heb, theſe where they? that is, where were theſe? the pronoun, for the verb ſubſtantive: as Eccl.1.10. chap.50.1.

V. 22. Thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I will lift up my hand to the Gentiles; and ſet up my ſtandard to the people:] Becauſe it might be demanded, by what means ſuch multitudes ſhould be brought together, and brought home; the diſperſed ones of Gods people, being ſcattered, and ſevered, ſo far aſunder one from another, and by reaſon of their low and bare condition, deſtitute of all neceſſary means of conveyance; God telleth them therefore here, that he himſelf would take a courſe for the due, and full effecting hereof: for he would, by a ſecret inſtinct, work ſo upon the hearts of people in all places, where any of his were, that they ſhould not only help to bring them together, but accommodate them, alſo, ſo ſufficiently, with all neceſſaries for their journey, that it ſhould be with as much eaſe performed by them, as if they were brought home in the arms, or on the ſhoulders, of others, Pſal.147.2. chap.11.11.

lift up my hand to the Gentiles] As men uſe to do to thoſe, whom they call to them, or ſpeak unto, for the doing of ought, that they deſire to have done by them, chap.13.2.

ſet up my ſtandard] See chap.11.12. & 66.19.

and they ſhall bring thy ſons in their arms, and thy daughters ſhall be carried upon their ſhoulders] Or, they ſhall bring thy ſons in arms; (Heb, as ſome, boſome: ſo it is rendred, Pſal. 129. 7. as others, lap, Neh.5.13. ſee chap.40.11. arm, may well be retained; the rather, becauſe little ones are wont to be ſo carried, Pſal.91.11. though a learned late Writer, would rather have it in the plural, arms; not only becauſe the term is here collectively taken, but becauſe it ſignifieth, properly, as he ſuppoſeth, the folding of both arms together, to embrace ought; as the Ethiopick verſion uſeth it, Mark 9. 36. & 10. 16. Luk.2.28.) and thy daughters ſhall be brought on ſhoulders: with as much eaſe either, and with as much conveniency, as if carried in arms, or born on ſhoulders; for the pronoun is in neither branch: yet may not amiſſe be ſupplyed here; as it is, chap.41.31. and may be, chap.43.14. See the like notion in a divers expreſſion, chap.66.20.

V. 23. And Kings ſhall be thy nurſing Fathers, and Queens thy nurſing Mothers] Fulfilled in thoſe Perſian Potentates, Cyrus, Artaxerxes, Darius, Aſſuerus; with the Queens alſo of ſome of them, that patroniſed, and protected Gods people, and promoted Gods work with them, Ezr.1.1-4. & 6. 3-12. & 7.12-26. Neh.2.6-8. Eſt.8.3-8. and much more in other Emperours and Kings, together with their Queens, as Conſtantine, Theodoſius, and the like, who both embraced the Chriſtian Faith themſelves, and maintained the profeſſion of it. Of ſome whereof, ſee Rev.17.12,16,17. Yet ſome would have it underſtood of Nebuchadnezzar, and his Iſſue, under whom Gods people were preſerved, though not in ſo full liberty, Jer. 29. 5-7. yea, divers of them liberally provided for at the royal charge, Dan. 1. 3-5. and ſome of them advanced to places of honour, Dan.2. 48, 49. and ſo it ſhould be as an anſwer to the Queſtion, where her children had been bred, and brought up, and by whom, ver. 21. And ſome, again, would have it to imply no more, then that her children ſhould be daintily fed and brought up, as Kings and great mens children are wont to be, Gen.49.20. Mat.11.8. but neither of theſe ſeems to fit ſo well as the firſt, with the ſcope and tenour of the context. See chap.60.6,7,16.

nurſing Fathers]Or, nouriſhers : ſuch as have the charge of educating great mens children, 2 King.10.1.

Queens] Heb. Princeſſes, Sarães; they ſhall be to thy children, as Sarah was to Iſaac, Gen.21.7. nurſing mothers. Heb. nurſes, ſuch as give children milk, Exod. 2.7. and ſo the word ſignifies.

they ſhall bow down to thee with their face to the earth]Heb. faces of the earth, or, to the earth ſhall bow down to thee; which ſyntax, becauſe it is not ſo uſual, ſome would thus render the text; the faces of the earth (the entire put for the contract, as Jer.10.10.) ſhall bow down to thee; that is, ſay they, the honourable, or great men of the earth, ſhall do obeyſance to thee. To which purpoſe they alledge a portion of faces , for an honourable portion; 1 Sam.1.5. but that place is not ſo cleer, and the phraſe very frequent; though ſuch as requires ſome ſupply here, as it doth alſo elſewhere, carrieth it rather the plainer and ordinary way, with face, or faces; (for the word, though dual, becauſe the face hath two ſides, the right, and the left; yet is uſed of any one alſo alone, as Gen.19.1.) Or, with their face, or faces (for there is a want both of the prepoſition, and of the pronoun alſo, as here: So Gen.42.6. 1 Sam.24.8.& 28.14. 2 Chron. 7.3. though the latter expreſſed, Gen. 48.12. 2 Sam.24.20. and the former, on, or, upon the face, Num.22.31. 1 King.1.23.) to the earth, or to the ground : the noun for the adverb, found fully and expreſly in moſt of the places before recited, and 1 Sam.20.41. 2 Sam.14.4.& 18.28. This is, by ſome, ſuppoſed to be meant of ſuch Princes, of Moab, and Edom, as were in the time of the Jews reſtored eſtate, after their return from captivity, by force of arms ſubdued unto them. Others, of ſuch Chriſtian Kings and Princes, as entertaining the Faith of Chriſt , ſubmitted themſelves unto the Scepter of Chriſt, and to his Ordinances ſetled in the Chriſtian Church. It is an alluſion to that ordinary expreſſion of ſubmiſſion and reverence, uſually practiced of old in thoſe parts; as by the places above pointed to, may appear. See v. 7.Rev.3. 9. and it may have alluſion to Pharao, and his followers, their bowing down, in ſuppliant ſort, unto Moſes and Aaron, and Gods people, Exod.11.8.& 12.31.

and lick up the duſt of thy feet;] Or, ſtoop ſo low to thee, as if they would even lick up the duſt under thy feet; an expreſſion of the loweſt ſubmiſſion that may be: they ſhall deem no office too mean, wherein they may be helpful and uſeful to Gods Church; or whereby they may teſtifie their high eſtimation of Gods ordinances in it, together with their free and full ſubjection, and entire ſubmiſſion thereunto. And it is an alluſion , to the peculiar manner of the Perſian adoration, with whom the manner was anciently in worſhipping their Kings, to kiſs their very foot-ſteps , or thoſe places of the pavement on which, their feet either did ſtand, or had ſtood, ſee Pſal.89.51.& 99.5. Howbeit, becauſe the phraſe is elſewhere uſed of perſons ſubdued, and ſo brought under; ſome would have it rather meant of ſuch Princes , before ſpoken of, as were conquered by the Jewiſh armies. See Pſal. 72.9. & 110.1 .Mal.4.2. but nothing hinders, but that in a ſpiritual ſenſe, it may be underſtood as before, Pſal.45.5. and 66.3. and 110.1,2. and thou ſhalt know that I am the Lord.] Thou ſhalt, by due proof, and experience, find, that I am the true God Jehovah, able to perform and make good all my promiſes to thee, Ezek.36.38.& 37.14,28. Rev.3.9.

for they ſhall not be aſhamed, that wait for me] Or, and that (as chap.38.7.) they ſhall not be aſhamed, that wait on me. Or, as ſome, on whom, thoſe that wait, ſhall not be aſhamed of me. Or, ſhall not be aſhamed : For in the firſt perſon, ſometime, ſuch ſpeeches run, as Gen.45.4. chap. 37.21. See on ver.3. The meaning is, that it ſhall evidently be made to appear, that whoſoever they be , that, through faith and patience, expect me, and ſalvation to be wrought by me, chap.8.17. & 28.16.& 30.18. Luk.2.25,38. their hopes and expectations, being never fruſtrate, ſhall never ſhame them, Pſal.9.10. & 25.3. & 34.22. Rom.5.5. & 9.33. as the hopes and expectations of all thoſe, ſhall do , that rely and depend upon any other beſides me, Pſal.20.7,8. chap.30.3.& 30.5,6.

V. 24. Shall the prey be taken from the mighty, or the lawfull captive delivered?] A two-fold objection is here met with, that might be made againſt this promiſed delivery of Gods people; and a two-fold plea, that their adverſaries might alledge, for the detention of them ſtill, with them, Jer.50.33. the one, taken from their might; that they were able enough to detain them: the other, from their right, they had a due intereſt in them; being lawfully poſſeſſed of them , by law of arms, and right of conqueſt, Gen.48.22. Judg.11.21-23. unto both which, God returneth anſwer, in the next verſe; but pitching mainly upon the former.

prey be taken] There is, in the Hebrew, an elegancy of ſound in the words, as if it were ſaid; Shall from the mighty their taking be taken? For as we uſe the word, takings, for gain, gotten by trade and traffique; ſo do the Hebrewes the word of taking, for prey, or booty, taken in war, Num.31.11,12. So, the taking of the terrible, ver.25.

the lawfull captive] Heb. the captivity of the juſt. See Jer. 50.7.

V. 25. But] Or, yet; as chap.31.4.

thus ſaith the Lord,] In way of anſwer, or counter-plea, unto the enemies allegations; to give ground of comfort and aſſurance of deliverance to his people and the prey of the terrible ſhall be delivered] Heb. the taking of the terrible : as ver.24. No power of any ſhall be able to detain what God will have to be redelivered, and reſtored, chap.43.6. Jer.51.44.

The captives of the mighty ſhall be taken away] Heb. captivity, as ver.24. Pſal.126.1.

and I will contend with him, that contendeth with thee] Heb. I will contend with he ſhall contend thee : with he ſhall contend, (a defect of the relative, as chap.47.11.) for, with him, that ſhall, or, with whoſo ſhall contend thee; that is, contend with thee : as, dwell thee, for, dwell with thee, Pſal.5.4. ſo alſo, chap.7.8. Howbeit, the word may be (as ſome make it) not a verb, but a verbal; and then it is word for word, with thy contender : as the plural, from ſuch a form, is uſed, Pſal. 35. 1. Jer.18.19. Whither way we take it, (and this latter ſeemeth the more expedite) it is delivered in the ſingular number, to aſſure them of protection againſt any whoſoever, that ſhould offer to be medling, or quarrelling with them. So Gen.12.3. Pſal.35.1. chap.41.11. & 50.8,9. and this ſeems to have ſome reference to the latter part of the enemies plea, concerning their pretended right, ver.24. as undertaking alſo, to cleer that againſt them, in behalf of his people, though there were no other to do it for them, chap.51.22. Mic.7.9. as if he had ſaid; I will debate with them, in thy behalf, and put them beſide their groundleſſe claim, Jer.50.34.& 51.36. See God himſelf ſo doing, ch.52.3-5.

and I will ſave thy children] Jer.30.10.

V. 26. And I will feed them, that oppreſſe thee, with their own fleſh; and they ſhall be drunk with their own blood, as with ſweet wine.] I will cauſe them to deſtroy one another, and ſhed the blood of each other, as eagerly, and greedily, as if it were meat and drink to them; yea, the moſt delightful drink to them, that could be, to be making havock of, and ſpilling the blood, either of other. Thus God had, at divers times, formerly done, Judg.7.22. 1 Sam.14.20. 2 Chr.20.23. and the like he threatens, as to the Egyptians, chap.19.2. ſo here, to other the enemies, and oppreſſors of his people, thoſe nations, that had ſerved under the Chaldeans, againſt them, one by another, 2 King.24.2. and the Chaldeans alſo, by factions, and diviſions amongſt themſelves. For Xenophon reporteth, that many of the Chaldeans fell off from the Babylonian King, and joyned themſelves to Cyrus, and were of the forwardeſt, both in the ſurpriſal of the city, and of the Kings Palace eſpecially, where they ſlew him themſelves , and all that were about him. For that which ſome would have to be hereby intimated, of the Babylonians feeding one upon another for famine, during the ſiege of their city, is of no probability; ſince that, as Herodotus reports, they had laid in abundance of victual before, as expecting a far longer ſiege then it proved; and on that very day, wherein the city was taken, they had a great general feaſting, both in publike, and private, throughout the whole city, as thoſe two Writers both record. See on Jer.51.39,57. See alſo the like judgment, to that here mentioned, chap.9.20.

them that oppreſſe thee] So moſt render it, thine oppreſſors; as coming from a verb, that ſignifies to oppreſſe, Ezek.18.10. & 22.7. See chap.51.23. yet ſome of the Jewiſh Criticks, and others after them, render it, thy numberers, or, thoſe that numbered thee : as coming of a word, that ſignifieth to number, reckon, or keep account: as it is uſed, Pſal.147.4. thoſe that numbered thee out to the ſword, as God himſelf ſpeaks, chap.65.12. and they ſuppoſe it to have ſome reference, either unto ſuch officers, as are appointed to take tale of captives, or priſoners; ſuch as the field-marſhal, chap.33.18. or, as ſome of them, to thoſe that take tale of ſheep, or other cattel, Jer.33.13.(where the word alſo is read) & Ezek. 20. 37. and this way they turn it the rather, becauſe Gods people are called his ſheep. See on ver.11. But the numbring of cattel looks another way; and the former ſenſe ſeems the plainer, and better.

drunk with bloud] A phraſe uſed of bloud in great abundance ſhed, Chap.34.5-7. by ſuch eſpecially, as much deſire it, and take delight in it, Rev.14.10.& 16.6.

as with ſweet wine] Such, as with the pleaſantneſs of it, enticeth men to drink much: the word ſeems to ſignifie, in the firſt place, new-wine, or muſt, as newly troden out, coming of a word that ſo ſignifies, Mal.4. 2. and in the next place, ſweet wine, becauſe the new is uſually ſuch, Joel 1.5. & 3.18. Amos 9.13. See Chap.62.6.

and all fleſh ſhall know, that I the Lord am thy Saviour, thy Redeemer, the mighty one of Jacob.] So remarkable ſhall thy deliverance be, and the deſtruction of thine enemies ſo ſtrange, that all people ſhall take notice of a ſpecial hand of thy God in it. See Chap 60.16.

all fleſh] As Chap.40.5.

the mighty one] So called here, in oppoſition to the mighty ones, before-mentioned, ver.24.

CHAP. L.

Verſ. 1. T*Hus ſaith the Lord,*] This Chapter, and the next, are not improbably deemed to make one Sermon, ſpent in a conviction of the Jewiſh people, as Authors of their own forlorn condition; together with a juſtification of God and his miniſters, againſt them, ver.1—9. an exhortation to the godly party, among them, to reſt and rely upon God, in theſe calamitous times; with a ſad commination to thoſe that truſted to ought elſe, ver. 10, 11. a conſolation and encouragement, by promiſed protection, againſt their enemies power, unto thoſe, that ſo did, Chap.51.1-8. a pathetical ſupplication of them, unto God, to manifeſt his power, formerly ſhewed in their delivery; together with a gracious anſwer of God thereunto, ver. 9-- 16. and a compellation of Gods people thereupon, calling upon them, to raiſe up themſelves, and come out of that deſolate condition, in which they had a long time lain, ver.17 - 23.

Where is the bill of your Mothers divorcement, whom I have put away?] The people of the Jews, during the time of their captivity, ſeemed to be in a manner divorced from God, and by God, whom they had been formerly joyned to in marriage, Jer.3.8,14. See Chap.49.21. Now whereas, among that people, many times, for very frivolous occaſions, men were wont to put away their wives, Mat. 19. 3. but the Law then commanded that a writing, or bill of divorce ſhould be given them, Deut.24.1. wherein alſo ſome ſuppoſe (but that without ground) that for ſaving the womans reputation in ſuch caſe, there ſhould, if not, the particular ground of the divorce be declared; yet a cleering of her from any imputation of diſloyalty. But howſoever it be for the latter, in alluſion to the thing it ſelf, God here calleth upon his people to produce the bill of divorce, by which he had diſcharged them, and himſelf of them; as implying, that either none ſuch could be produced, for that he had not, in any ſuch manner, put them away; but they had wilfully, of their own accord, gone away from him, Chap.1.4. Or, if any ſuch were extant, and could be produced, it would thereby appear, that the breach began on their part; that they had rather forſaken him, then he them; & that it was not for any ſlight occaſion, but for their diſloyalty, that they had been caſt off, Jer.3.1,2,20.Hoſ.2.2,5. For whereas ſome Interpreters would ſo mince the matter, as if the Jewiſh people, though they had been, by God, ſevered, as from bed and boord only for a time, during their deportation, and the deſtruction of the Temple; yet they had not been divorced from him, nor had joyned themſelves in marriage to any other, though they were defiled with many, which therefore nothing hindred, but that they might be received again by God, upon their return: Yet the contrary hereunto appears, both that God had put them away, as by a bill of divorce; and that their carriage had been ſuch, as came within compaſs of that Law; and that God, notwithſtanding, as not obliged thereby, nor taking advantage of it, would again receive ſuch; as he had ſo repudiated upon their return, Jer. 3. 1, 2, 6, 7, 8, 12, 14. Nor will that hold, which the Jewiſh Doctors have here, that Jeremy ſpeaks of Iſrael, the ten Tribes, that were never to return, or have King again, & are therefore ſaid to have had a bill of divorce given them; whereas Eſay ſpeaks of Judah, that were to return from captivity, and to have Meſſias for their King: For return is both proffered, and promiſed, as well to the one, as the other; and Chriſt as a common King to them both, Jer 3. 12,14. & 31.1,4-6.Ezek.37.16-25.Hoſ.3.4,5. Yet true it is, that God did never utterly caſt off the whole body of his people, but had his reſerved ones, in all times, among them, Rom. 11.1-5.

where is] Heb. where that: But the pronoun demonſtrative, is put for the verb ſubſtantive, as Chap. 49. 21. and 66. 1.

your Mothers] The Jewiſh Church and State, is reſembled by a woman, a mother; whoſe ſons, her people are ſaid to be, Chap.49.20,21. So Hoſ.2.2.

bill of divorcement] Heb. book of obſciſſion, or cutting off, Deut.24.1. ſo called, becauſe the woman was thereby declared to be cut off from her husband, unto whom ſhe had formerly been joyned in wedlock.

I have put away] Heb. ſent away, or diſmiſſed, Deut.24.1,3, 4. So of Iſrael, or the ten Tribes, Jer. 3. 8, 9. Hoſ. 2. ver.2.

or which of my creditors is it, to which I have ſold you?] Among the Jews, Parents many times falling behind hand, or being in want, did ſell their children to help themſelves, or pay their debts, Exod.21.7. and their creditors, unto whom, they were not able to make ſatisfaction otherwiſe, took their children for their debt, 2 King.4.1.Mat.18.25. God alluding therefore thereunto, willeth them to name the creditor, to whom, upon ſuch occaſion, he had ſold them; which was a thing that could not be, God being not a debter, or owing ought unto any, Rom.11,35,36.

behold, for your iniquities have you ſold your ſelves;] They rather had ſold themſelves unto ſin, to purchaſe liberty for their inordinate deſires and delights, 1 King.21.25.Chap.52. 3.Joh.8,34.Rom.6.15,16.2 Pet.2.19. Or, ye are ſold: For in the Hebrew it is no more; and although the paſſive form is in Hebrew uſed ſometime in a reciprocal notion, as Chap.1. 15.24. & 45.20. yet there is no neceſſity of it here: for it is well known, that for ſome offences, men were ſometime, by Law, ſold, Exod.22. 3. But the ground, and cauſe of the ſale, was then from themſelves. And ſo was it with this people, when God ſold them, ſometime, unto ſlavery, for their ſins, Judg.2.13,14.& 3.7,8. Pſal.44.11,12.

and for your tranſgreſſions is your mother put away.] Or, diſmiſſed, as ver.1. for your tranſgreſſions is your mother diſmiſſed; as if the children were ſo exceedingly unruly, and rebellious, and the mother ſo fondly addicted to them, that without caſting out both, no quietneſs could be had, Gen.21. 10. Gal.4. 30.or, indeed, becauſe the State or Church, reſembled by the perſon of a mother, and the perſons, or people, in the generality, at leaſt, of whom the Church and State did conſiſt, as of limbs a body, 1 Cor. 12. 12. but reſembled by ſons, or children, are, in effect, one and the ſame. See on Chap. 62. 5. howſoever we take it, the meaning is, that God had not out of any peeviſh, or ſelfiſh humour, caſt off their mother, and them with her; but for her, and their diſloyal and rebellious carriages; which yet, if they put away, repented of, and reformed, they might be received, and taken in again, Jer. 3.1, 12,14.Hoſ.2.2-5.

V.2. Wherefore, when I came, was there no man? when I called was there none to anſwer?] Heb. Why came I, and there was not a man? or, not any one? (as Jer. 5. 1. implying a generall defection, Chap.59.16.& 64.6,7.) I called, and there was no anſwerer, or, none that would anſwer: a note of wilful obſtinacy, Prov.29.19. for the ſyntax, ſee the like, Gen.14.14. Chap.30. 20.& 44.14. As their refractory, and rebellious courſes, not any unkindneſs, or harſh carriage, on Gods part, had procured their captivity, and brought them into that deſolate and diſconſolate condition; ſo it was not any unwillingneſs thereunto, or inability on Gods part, who had never willingly caſt them off, that retarded their delivery. It was their obſtinate refuſal to return to God by repentance, though by his Prophets, oft and earneſtly inviting, and inciting them thereunto, that kept them ſtill in this deplorable plight, Chap.53.1.& 65.2. Jer.5.3,23,25. & 8.6. & 11.7,8. Zach.7. 11,12.

I came] He came to them, by his miniſters, and meſſengers, 2 Chron.36.15. Jer.25.19. & 35.14. as to thoſe other, Eph.2.17. 1 Pet.3.20. yea, not by his Servants only, but by his Son, Mat.21.34,37. Joh.1.11. unto which coming (but groundleſly) ſome reſtrain this.

Is my hand ſhortned, at all, that it cannot redeem? or have I no power to deliver?] Am I not as well able to reſcue and deliver you out of the hands of thoſe, that hold you in thraldome now, as in time paſt? out of Babylon, as out of Egypt? See Chap.59.1,2.

ſhortned at all] Or, any whit ſhortned. Heb. ſhortning ſhortned. See Num.11.21.

that it cannot redeem] Or, reſcue: as Pſal. 107. 2. Heb. from reſcuſe, or redemption: as, from ſaving, from hearing, Chap. 59. 1.

Behold, at my rebuke, I dry up the ſea] Or, with my rebuke, I can dry up the ſea; for theſe futures, have oft a potential notion tion in them. See on Chap.49.15. I am able to do it with a word of my mouth; and to reſcue your fore-fathers from eminent, and imminent deſtruction: I ſometime did it, Exod. 14.21,29. chap.51.10. He rebuked the red ſea, and it was dryed up, Pſal.106.9. for though Gods rebuke be not a verbal, but a real rebuke, yet what therein he doth, he doth it with as much eaſe, as if he did it with a word, Pſal.76.6.

I make the rivers a wilderneſſe] Or, I can make (as before; to wit, with my rebuke, to be ſupplyed from the former branch, as ch.47.9.) the floods (as Pſal.93.3. the floods, both of the red ſea, and of Jordan, Joſh.2.10. & 3.14. though the former principally here intended,) as a wilderneſſe: (as dry as waſtes are wont to be) or, as a plain; as eaſie to paſſe, as any plain ground. See Lam.5.9. So Pſal.107.33. He turneth floods into a wilderneſſe; and, chap.42.15. *I will make floods, Iland*s, or, dry lands: and, ch.63.13. He led them through the deep, as an horſe in the wilderneſſe, or, in the plain. See Chap. 51.10.

their fiſh ſtinketh, becauſe there is no water, and dyeth for thirſt] The like is intimated, ch.19.5-8,10. Ezek.29.4,5. Hoſ.4.3. Zeph.1.3.

their fiſh ſtinketh] So when the waters were turned into blood, Exod.7.18.

becauſe there is no water] For want of water. Heb. from no water being: as Chap.5.9. from no Inhabitant being.

dieth for thirſt] Heb. with thirſt: as Hoſ.2.5. See Pſal. 105.29.

V. 3. I clothe the heavens with blackneſſe, and make ſackcloth their covering] Or, I can clothe (as before, ver.2.) the heavens with blackneſſe. I can cauſe the heavenly bodies to withdraw all their light, as if they were turned into darkneſs, in token of my diſpleaſure, chap.13.10. Ezek.32.7. Joel 2. 31. Amos 5.8. Mat.24.29. & 27.45. as I did alſo ſometime in Egypt, Exod.10.21-23.

make ſackcloth their covering] Make them as black, as if they were covered over with ſackcloth; ſuch ſtuff, as the Kedaren curtains were made of, Cant.1.5. and as they uſed to cover themſelves with, in time of ſolemn humiliation and mourning, Pſal.35.9,10. Jon.3.6,8. So Rev.6.12. the Sun became black as ſackcloth of hair; as ſackcloth made of goats black hair. Heb. ſack; as chap.3.24.

V. 4. The Lord God hath given me the tongue of the learned] In the paſſage enſuing, the Prophet maintaineth his own miniſtery, by relating of Gods furniſhing him with endowments fit for it, and his faithful diſcharge of his duty therein: and that, partly, to juſtifie God himſelf; of whom before, verſ. 2. who had come to them, and called upon them, to reclaim, and reduce them, by no ſorry ſely perſon; but ſuch as whom, having aſſigned unto that office, he had ſufficiently qualified for the ſame; and who had accordingly applyed themſelves diligently and conſtantly thereunto, notwithſtanding all the obſtructions and oppoſitions they had met with, in the execution thereof: and there was nothing, therefore, wanting on his part, for the bringing of them home again to him, chap.5. 4. and withal, to cleer himſelf, concerning his own carriage in his place, againſt all his oppoſites, corrupt Princes, falſe Prophets, and refractory people, that had bandied together, and bent themſelves joyntly againſt him, uſing him with all ſcorn and contempt: and ſo it hath reference to his former diſcourſe; and partly, alſo, to ſtrengthen thereby, the pious party among them, in firmer aſſurance of thoſe gracious promiſes of God, wherewith he was ſent unto them, that his meſſages, concerning them, might be the more efficacious with them, for their conſolation and encouragement: and ſo it looketh forward to what enſueth, ver. 10. ch.51.1,4,7. See the like paſſages in the Apoſtle Paul, concerning his Apoſtleſhip, Rom.11.13. 1 Cor.4.1-19. & 9.1,2. & 15.10. 2 Cor.1. 12. & 2.14-17. & 3.—& 4.1,2. & 5.20. & 6.1-10. & 10. & 11. & 12. & 13.1-10. It is true, that divers Interpreters underſtand all this, as ſpoken in the perſon of Chriſt; and there are divers paſſages, that very fitly agree to him, and whereof concerning Eſay, there is no mention in the holy Story: but as ſome other, of prime note, well obſerve, the ſame may be ſaid of ſundry particulars, in Pſal.22. & 40. & 69. applyed expreſly unto our Saviour Chriſt, in the New Teſtament, Mat.27.34,35,43,46. & Heb.10.5-10, and yet none make doubt, but that thoſe Pſalms, as they were by David compoſed; ſo, in his own perſon, they concerned him: and that, in all likelihood, in ſome particulars, which yet are not found expreſly recorded in the ſtory of him.

The Lord God] Heb. Adonai Jehovah; the Sovereign Self-being: and ſo ver.5.

hath given me] He, from whom every good gift, and endowment cometh, Joh.3.27. Rom.12.3,6. 1 Cor.4.7. & 7.25. & 12.4-6. Jam.1.17.

me] The Prophet Eſay. See chap.8.11. & 49.1,2. and Jeſus Chriſt much more, Joh.3.34. Col.2.3,9. whom he ſent furniſhed, beyond meaſure, with all abilities, requiſite, for information, and conſolation, of his flock.

the tongue of the learned] The word ſignifieth one well ſkilled in ſpiritual doctrine, in divine ſtudies. Such an one, as our Saviour ſpeaketh of, Mat.13.52. for the word there uſed, fitly anſwereth this. See on Chap.8.16.

that I might know how to ſpeak a word in ſeaſon to him that is weary] Heb. to ſeaſon a word, or, timely, or, ſeaſonably, to deal a word, (for the word, no where elſe found, comes from that which ſignifieth time, or ſeaſon, Eccl.3.1,7. and importeth the timely, or, ſeaſonable, doing of ought;) to the weary; that is, to miniſter a word of comfort and conſolation to a ſoul, that lyeth under heavy preſſures, and is almoſt tired out with them, ch.61.1,2. Mat.11.28. as another Barnabas, a ſon of conſolation, Act.4.36. and do it, in due ſeaſon, when it is moſt needful, and may be moſt advantagious to the poor diſtreſſed ſoul. See Prov.25.11. Eccl.3.11. Some render it, to him that is thirſty, expounding it, to ſuch as thirſt after knowledg, are deſirous to hear, and learn: but the word ſignifieth, not thirſty, but faint, and weary, Pſal.107.5. Chap.40.28,29.

he awakeneth morning by morning] Or, he wakeneth me morning by morning: the pronoun wanting, as ch.48.3. or it may be carried on to the next clauſe; he wakeneth, or ſtirreth up, (as Hag.1.14. Zech.4.1.) morning by morning, or, morning after morning, (Heb. in the morning, in the morning; that is, every morning: as chap.28.19.) he ſtirreth up, or, raiſeth up (I ſay) mine ear (every morning) to hear as the learned. He doth inceſſantly, day after day, and very early, every day, not by fits and ſtarts only, ſtir up my ſpirit, and inſtruct me, Pſal.16.7. Joh.5.20. & 8.28.

he wakeneth mine ear] He ſtirreth up my ſpirit; as Ezra, 1. 1.

to hear] To liſten, and attend diligently, to what he is pleaſed to diſcloſe unto me, Pſal.85.8. Hab.2.1. Act.16.14. Rev.2.7,11.

as the learned] As teachers are wont to excite, and ſtir up their Scholars; and Doctors, their Diſciples: and ſo the word of ſtirring up, is to be ſupplyed from the former branch; or, as thoſe that are not learners only, but learned; and that affect, and deſire to be further taught, and more learned, are wont to hearken, and attend: and then is the word of hearing, to be thence ſupplyed, as the learned uſe to hear. The word firſt, and properly, ſignifieth one taught; in the next place, one learned. See ch.8.16. & 54.13.

V. 5. The Lord God] As before, ver.4.

hath opened mine ear] Or, opened mine ear; to wit, then, when he called me to this office; as he touched my tongue, then to refine it, and thereby to enable me, to ſpeak in fit, and due manner to his people, ch.6.7. Jer.1.9. & 15.19. ſo he opened mine ear, alſo, to hearken to him; to receive the Word from him, as ch.35.5. and to be dutiful and obedient to him, in whatſoever he ſhould require of me, or ſet me about, as Jer.1. 7. for hearing, in theſe, and the like phraſes, implyeth as well obedience, as attention, 1 Sam.15.22,23. Pſal.81.8,11,13. See ſomewhat the like, of David, and of Chriſt, Pſal.40.6. though the word there uſed, be divers from this, and, by ſome, deemed to look another way. But of Chriſts obedience to God his Father, ſee Luk.2.49. Joh.4.34. & 5.19,36. & 6.48. & 8.26-29. & 12.49,50. Phil.2.7,8. Heb.5.8. of perſons diſpoſed the contrary way, Pſal.58.4,5. chap.28.11,12. & 30.9. & 33.15. & 42.18-20. Jer.6.10. Zech.7.11. Act.7.51,57.

and I was not rebellious, neither turned away back] Or, I was not diſobedient, (as Pſal.105.28.) nor turned backward, Pſal.44. 18. I did neither hang back, (as Moſes ſometime, Exod.3. 11,13. & 4.1,10,13.) nor refuſe to go, when God ſent me; as Jonas, Jon.1.3. but offered my ſelf freely, and readily, to his call: nor did I afterward flinch, or ſhrink back, for any oppoſition, or evil uſage, I met with: as Jeremy ſometime, Jer.20.7,9. See ch.6.8. See alſo of David, and of Chriſt, Pſal.40.7,8. Joh.14.31. Phil.2.8. Heb.10.5. of Paul, Act.26. 19. Gal.1.15,16.

V. 6. I gave my back to the ſmiters, and my cheeks to them, that plucked off my hair:] How theſe particular evil uſages were by Eſay endured, no ſtory enforms us; yet that he did undergo much opprobrious uſage, and many affronts, in the proſecution of his Prophetical employment, from the prophane great ones of the times, under Ahaz eſpecially, there need no great doubt be made. See chap.28.14. But of our Saviour, we have expreſs and pregnant relations of what in this kind he endured, Mat.26.27. & 27.26. Luk.22.63,64. Joh.18.22. See on ver.4.

my cheeks] Job 16.10. Lam.3.30. Mic.5.1.

plucked off the hair] To wit, of the beard, Ezr.9.2. which doth clothe the cheeks alſo, as well as the chin; for though the word hair, be not expreſſed in the original, which hath reference only to the pluckers off, yet the word doth properly and peculiarly, ſignifie a plucking off of hair; and is well, therefore, ſo rendred, both here, and Neh.13.25.

I hid not my face from ſhame, and ſpitting] Shame, for, ſhameful and opprobrious uſage, Mic.2.6.

ſpitting] Heb. ſpittle, Job 7.19. See Num.12.14. Luk.18.32. Job 30.10. a practice uſed, as well in way of deteſtation, as of contempt, Mat.26.67. & 27.30. Mar.14.65.

V. 7. For the Lord God will help me] Or, But, or, Yet, the Lord, or, Soveraign, Jehovah; as before, ver.4,5. and again, ver.9. Heb. And; as Chap.42.25. His encouragement to perſevere, from aſſurance of Gods aſſiſtance. So ver.9. See the like, Pſal.118.7. Jer.15.26. Chap.42.10,13,14.

therefore ſhall I not be confounded] Or, aſhamed; as chap.54.4. Jer.3.3. & 8.12. for it is the ſame word, in notion, and notation, with that which was rendred ſhame before, ver.7. and hath reference thereunto; as if he had ſaid, their ſhameful uſage of me, ſhall never ſhame me, ſhall never make me aſhamed. See Act.5.41.

therefore have I ſet my face, as a flint] A form of ſpeech, noting extream obſtinacy in ſome, Jer.5.3. Zach.7.12. ſetled and fixed conſtancy in others, Ezek.3.8,9. and ſo here.

and I know that I ſhall not be aſhamed] Or, bluſh; which comes neer to the Hebrew term here uſed; in notion the ſame with the former. See Pſal.25.2,3. & 119.6. Chap.29.22.

V. 8. He is neer, that juſtifieth me] God is ready to juſtifie me, by approving my miſſion, and his acceptance of mine employments, againſt thoſe that oppoſe my Miniſtery, and traduce me, as a falſe Prophet, as many did Paul, for a counterfeit Apoſtle, 1 Cor.4.2,3. 2 Cor.13.6,7. for ſo the word, much miſtaken by many, doth there properly ſignifie. This ſome underſtand of Chriſt, according to thoſe places, Joh.16.10. 1 Tim.3.16. See Chap.49.4. Others, becauſe of the Apoſtles, either allegation, or alluſion rather, to it, Rom.8.33,34. underſtand it, as ſpoken in the perſon of Gods people, in general; as chap.29.22. & 41.10-14. & 45.24,25. & 46.13. & 49.25. & 54.19. where the ſame things, in effect, here ſpoken, are applyed unto the body of that people. But the Apoſtles manner is, to enlarge the promiſes of God, made to ſome particular perſons, as to Jacob, Joſhuah, David, and others, Gen.28.15. Joſh.1.5. Pſal.23.1. extending them unto all the faithful in general, as having a joynt intereſt therein with them, Heb.13.5,6. and the Apoſtles argument, borrowed hence, ſtands firm and good, in general, that whom God juſtifies, it is in vain for any man to attaint, or condemn.

who will contend with me?] Enter plea againſt me, or implead me, Chap.49.25. & 54.17.

let us ſtand together: As the accuſer, or plaintiff, and the defendant, ſuch as have ſuits in Law, one with another, are wont to do before the Judge, Exod.22.9. Deut.19.17.

who is mine adverſary?] Heb. as ſome render it, the maſter, or, owner of my cauſe, or of my judgment: but rather, my maſter, or, owner of ſuit: judgment, for cauſe, or Law-ſuit, as 2 Chron.6.35. Job 9.19. and maſter, or owner of ſuit, for, one that ſueth; as maſter, or owner of buſineſs, for, one that hath buſineſs, Exod.24.14. and, my maſter, or owner of ſuit, for, one that hath any ſuit againſt me: mine impleader, or he that entreth any action againſt me; ſo thy men of ſtrife, for, they that ſtrive with thee, Chap.41.11.

let him come neer to me.] Let him joyn iſſue with me; as Chap.41.1.

V. 9. Behold, the Lord God will help me:] As ver.7.

who is he, that ſhall condemn me?] Or, who is it, that ſhall, or, can condemn me? Heb. make me guilty, convince, or condemn me, as guilty, Deut.25.1. Prov.17.15. Rom.8.34. the pronoun, for the verb ſubſtantive, as Eccleſ.1.10. Chap.50.1. the relative wanting; as Chap.49.25. and the future, in a potential notion, as ver.2.

Lo, they ſhall all wax old as a garment;] All mine oppoſites ſhall be worn out; I ſhall ſurvive to out-wear them, to ſee an end of them; a proverbial form of ſpeech, Pſal.102.26. Chap.51.6. Heb.1.11. a garment, for an old or over-worn-garment; ſuch, as Joſh.9.4,5. Jer.38.11. or a moth-eaten garment; as the next clauſe implyeth, a defect of the adjunct, as Chap.1.18. & 5.6. wax old, that is, be conſumed, or waſted, as Pſal.32.3. or, periſh; as it is expounded, Pſal.102.26. So Chap.41.11. thoſe that contend with thee, ſhall periſh.

the moth ſhall eat them up] Another proverbial form, Pſal.39.11. Chap.51.8.

V. 10. Who is among you that feareth the Lord,] He turneth his ſpeech from thoſe obſtinate, and oppoſite ones, to the pious and obedient; as endeavouring to ſupport and ſuſtain them amids the common calamities, that were to befall the nation; ſo withall implying the ſmall number of ſuch among them. So Pſal.25.12 & 90.11. Chap.53.1. Joh.12.37,38.

that obeyeth the voice of his ſervant,] Heb. that heareth: but to hear, for to obey. See on ver. 4. that yeeldeth obedience to the word of his Servant; Chriſt, as ſome, chap.42.1. & 53.11. ſpeaking either by himſelf, Luk.4.18,21,22. Heb.1.1,2. Or, by his miniſters, Luk.10.16. 2 Cor.5.20. & 13.3. Eph.2.17. or, as others, the Prophet Eſay himſelf, ſent by God, to enform, and inſtruct his people, and to acquaint them with his Will, Chap.44.26. A note of one that ſincerely feareth God, as to tremble at his Word, Chap.66.2. ſo to yeeld obedience thereunto, Eccleſ.12.13.

that walketh in darkneſſe, and hath no light?] Heb. no ſhine; as Amos 5.20. no light ſhining (as Prov.4.18.) upon him, or into him; as a man in a dungeon, where no glimpſe of light ſtriketh in: to walk in darkneſs, is ſometime to live in wickedneſs, 1 Joh.1.6. and ſo the Jewiſh Commenters, ſome of them, here underſtand it; as if it were ſaid, ye that walk in blind paths, and take wicked courſes, return to God, and truſt in him; ſometime to live in miſery and diſtreſs, Pſal.23.4. and ſo rather here; as other of them alſo much better, and moſt of the beſt with us; that is, in the greateſt depth of miſery and calamity that may be, without any means of relief or comfort. Sparce light and darkneſs oft taken, Pſal.18.28. & 112.4. Chap.9.1,2. See Chap.8.22 & 9.19. Amos 5.18. Some obſerving the Hebrew pauſes, end the demand at the foregoing branch, where the midling ſtop ſtandeth in the original; and joyning this limb to the next following, read the words thus; Let him, that walketh in darkneſs, having no light, truſt in the Lord. Or, he that walketh in darkneſs, &c. let him truſt in the Lord; which comes all to one; Let ſuch as you, or ſo many of you, as are in ſtraights and difficulties, as well as others, partaking with the reſt, in the common calamities of the times.

let him truſt in the name of the Lord] Let him live by faith, and ſuſtain himſelf by confidence in, and aſſurance of, Gods powerful protection; who is able to draw light out of darkneſs, to give light in darkneſs, to turn darkneſs into light, and to bring out of darkneſs into the light; to give inward joy and comfort amids all calamities, to ſupport and ſuſtain under all heavy preſſures, and to deliver out of all diſtreſſes, Gen,1.2,3. Exod.10.22,23. Eſt.3.15. & 4.3. & 8.16,17. Pſal.18.28. & 112.4,7. Chap.9.2. & 49.9. & 60.2. Luk.1.79. 2 Cor.4.6. See 1 Sam.30.6. Hab.2.4. & 3.17,18. Heb.10.38.

and ſtay upon his God.] As a man ſtayeth up himſelf with a ſtaff, that he reſteth upon for ſupport, Pſal.18.18. & 23.4. Ch.10.20. (for thence is the metaphor taken. See Chap.3.1. & 36.6.) ſo let him rely, and reſt himſelf upon his God, whom he cleaveth cloſe, and continueth loyal unto, (Deut.4.3,4. & 26.17,19. chap.28.16. Pſal.73.25-28.) by conſtant dependance upon him, ſtaying up, and ſupporting himſelf from ſinking down, and fainting away through incredulity and deſpair, Pſal.27.13. So may ſuch, and ſuch only, boldly do, their expectation never failing them, Pſal.125.1,2. Chap.28.16. & 49.23. their ſincere confidence in God being here oppoſed, as well to the folly and vanity of thoſe that withdraw themſelves from God, and truſt to other ſtays, Jer.17.5,6. Jon.2.8. ver.11. as alſo to the groundleſs preſumption of ſuch, as promiſe to themſelves protection and ſafeguard from him, while they carry themſelves diſloyally, and rebelliouſly towards him, chap.48.1,2. Jer.7.8-10.

V. 11. Behold, all ye that kindle a fire,] The expoſitions of this paſſage, are ſo numerous, and ſo various, that it would be overlong to relate, and much more to diſcuſs them all. I will pitch only upon one or two of the principal, and moſt probable. By the fire therefore here mentioned, ſome underſtand the fire of Gods wrath, which wicked perſons, and obſtinate wretches, do incenſe againſt themſelves by their ſins. So ſome of the Jewiſh Commenters, and moſt of ours alſo, pointing us to thoſe places, Deut.32.22. Jer.15.14. & 17.4. But others, rather, underſtand by it ſuch other means of light, ſupport, relief, and comfort, as the wicked Worldlings of thoſe times relyed upon, for their ſuccour and ſafeguard, in, and againſt thoſe evils and calamities, that were denounced againſt them and the State, by the Prophet. See Chap.28.15. & 30.7,12,15,16. for to theſe, the Prophets oppoſites, that ſcorned Gods Word, and refuſed to hear it, or yeeld obedience unto it, chap.28.12,14. & 30.9,12. doth the Prophet here direct his ſpeech. So in the word, here, is an alluſion, not to ſuch a fire, as burns and conſumes; as chap.9.18. & 26.11. but to ſuch a fire, as men kindle in cold, wet, and winter weather, to warm, relieve, comfort, and cheriſh themſelves with, chap.44.16. Jer.36.22. Joh.18.18. Act.28.2. See the like alluſion, chap.47.14.

that compaſs your ſelves about with ſparks] Heb. girders on of ſparks, or, brands: that begirt your ſelves with ſuch; as ſome are ſaid to gird on ſtrength, or, to begirt themſelves with ſtrength, 1 Sam.2.4. Moſt render the word, here uſed, ſparks; and ſuppoſe an alluſion to ſuch ſparklings, as upon colliſion of ſteel and ſtone, are wont to ſtart out; or, to ſuch ſparkles as are wont to fly about folk, upon the blowing up of brands: no unfit reſemblance of ſuch, as by their rebellious provocations, ſo incenſe and blow up the fire of Gods wrath, that the ſparks fly about their ears. See chap.42.24,25. and this way may that ſeem to encline, that in Chaldee, and Syriack, a word from this deduced, is deemed to ſignifie, ſparks, in the Paraphraſe, on Exod.24.18.and on Hab.3.4.in which latter place, yet it ſeems rather to import ſuch coruſcations, or flaſhes of light, as uſe to ſhoot out of the clouds, ſomewhat like unto horns; for ſo the Hebrew word there uſed ſignifies; as alſo a Greek and Latine, correſpondent thereunto; whence ſome ambiguous verſions, and fabulous conſtructions of them, Exod.34.29. But to let that paſs, the word it ſelf here uſed ſeemeth rather to ſignifie brands, then ſparks: It is no where elſe found in Scripture, ſave here, and Prov.26.18. where it is well rendred in the text, fire-brands; not ſo well in the margent, flames, or ſparks; for ſuch as play the mad-men, or, make themſelves mad, (that is, fain themſelves ſuch, as make thy ſelf ſick, that is fain thy ſelf to be ſo, 2 Sam. 13.5. for of ſuch the wiſe-man there ſpeaks) are not wont to fling flams and ſparks; but to caſt fire-brands about. And the Chaldee there rendreth it, torches, or tapers; as alſo one of the Jewiſh Criticks upon this place enformeth us, that the term is uſed for ſuch parcels of wood, or coal, as being fired at one end, were out of Engines diſcharged in fight againſt the enemy, or ſhot into places beſieged; the uſe of guns, and gun-powder, being in his times, and long after, in theſe parts of the world, at leaſt, unknown: and it ſeems therefore to be a term parallel to that other elſewhere uſed, that ſignifies, a fire-brand, Judg. 15.4. Amos 4.11. Thoſe ſhifts, therefore, and fetches, which theſe profane wretches relyed upon, and from whence they promiſed ſufficient warmth of relief, comfort, yea, and ſafety to themſelves, being on every ſide therewith begirt, the Prophet compares unto brands, that ſhould afford them little heat, or light; but ſmoke enough, to vex and choak them with. See chap.7.4.

walk in the light of your fire, and of the ſparks, which ye have kindled.] Brands here again, not Sparks: for men uſe not to kindle ſparks, though upon kindling of fire, in brands, eſpecially, ſparks are wont to fly about. Some, becauſe the former word here uſed, is ſometime uſed for a furnace, or a flame, (See chap. 31.9.) would have it rendred, Go into the furnace, or flame of the fire, ye have kindled; as foretelling, that thereby they ſhould be conſumed; to wit, by the fire of Gods wrath; which themſelves had kindled, and heated, as an oven, to conſume themſelves, Pſal. 21.9. But I ſuppoſe rather that the Prophet, in way of deriſion, willeth them to make tryal, when time ſhall be, and need require, what light of comfort their own fire, with all the muſter of brands kindled by them, and ſet about them, will be able to afford them. See ver. 10. no, the light of the wicked ſhall be put out in darkneſs, and go away in a ſtifling ſtench, Job 18.5,6. & 21.17. Prov.20.20. & 24.20. a defect of the relative, as chap.49.25.

This ſhall ye have of mine hand;] This take from me Gods meſſenger, that now ſpeak unto you; hand, for miniſtery; as Mal.1.1. Or, as moſt take it, ſpoken in the perſon of God; which ſome therefore read, as in the preſent tenſe, This is unto you from mine hand; that is, this obcecation of mind, and obduration of heart, is, through my juſt judgment, for your former obſtinacy, befallen you, ch. 6.10. & 29.10. Mat.13.14. But others, rather, in the future, as our verſion gives it: this that I now tell you, ſhall, in concluſion, befall you, whatſoever you now fondly flatter your ſelves with, Chap. 28. 15, 17,18.

ye ſhall ly down in ſorrow.] Ye that have refuſed to walk in the light of Gods favour, Pſal.89.15. and in obedience to his Word, that holy fire, that affords both light and heat, Pſal. 119.105,92,93. Luk.24.32. Joh. 12. 35,36. ſhall, notwithſtanding all the fire that ye kindle, and vain lights that ye ſet up for your ſelves, wander in the dark, and meet with nothing but perplexity and confuſion in the end, Pſal. 16. 4. Chap. 8. 21, 22. and 28. 19. and 30. 12 — 14. Jer. 13.16.

ly down in ſorrow] A metaphor from an uneaſie bed, whereon, one that made account to eaſe and refreſh himſelf, findes nothing but diſeaſe and pain, and is in worſe caſe, by reaſon of the uneaſineſs of it, then he was before he betook himſelf to it, Job 7.3,4, 13-15. Chap.28.19,20. or, to bed cloths, wherein a man lies enfolded, and wrapt up over head and ears. So Jer.3.25. we ly down in our ſhame, and our confuſion covereth us; and 1 Joh.5.19. the whole world lyeth down in evill. Howbeit, ſome, both of the Jewiſh Commenters, and Others, conceive in it, an intimation of death and deſtruction; becauſe of deceaſe the word is oft uſed, Gen.47.30. 1 King.20.10. Job 7.21. chap.14.8.

CHAP. LI.

Verſ. 1. HEarken to me ye that follow after righteouſnes, ye that ſeek the Lord*] The Prophet returnes here, to comfort, and encourage the godly party again, endeavouring to keep them from being diſmayd, and diſcouraged, either by the conſideration of their own fewneſs and feebleneſs, ver.2,3. or by the apprehenſion of the ſuppoſed might, together with the joynt malice, and multitude of the adverſe party, ver.4-8.

Hearken to me] As chap.41.1. & 44.1. & 49.1.

ye that follow after righteouſneſſe] Heb. purſuers of righteouſneſſe: as, purſuers of miſchief, Pſal.119.150. that continue conſtant in the ſerious and ſedulous practice of holineſs, and righteouſneſs, Prov.21.21. or, as ſome, that ſeek righteouſneſs by faith in Chriſt, Rom.9.31,32. but the former here rather; as alſo, chap.56.1,2. Mat.5.20. & 6.33. there ſeems in the phraſe a metaphor, either from a worldly mans eagerneſs, in following the world, in ſome gainful trade, whereof he never hath enough, Eccl.5.10. or, the inſtancy of huntſmen, or military perſons, in purſuit of their foe, or prey, 2 Sam.2.19. So Pſal.37.15. chap.1.22. Heb.12.14.

that ſeek the Lord] The Character of a true Iſraelite, Pſal. 24.6. See chap.55.6. Zeph.2.3.

look unto the rock, whence ye are hewen] Or, were hewen, rather. Abraham and Sarah, from whom, they came, as ſtones cut out of a rock, or digged out of a quarrey, Dan. 2. 34. Some would have Abraham here termed a rock, as a dead, and dry, rocky ſubſtance, unfit to yeeld iſſue, Rom.4.19. Others, for the firmneſs of his faith, Gen.15.6. Rom.4.3,18-22. as Peter was a rock, or a ſtone, Mat.10.2. & 16. 18. Joh.1.42. Neither ſeems neceſſary; and the latter of the twain the leſs: as not ſeeming at all, in this reſemblance, to be regarded: Since that it is not the firmneſs of Abrahams faith, that is here propounded for imitation; but the bareneſſe, and barrenneſſe of him, and his wife, in regard of iſſue, and the improbability, yea, in humane apprehenſion, impoſſibility, of attaining to any increaſe, in that kind; ſuch, much leſſe, as afterward iſſued from them: not what Abraham upon Gods Word believed, but what God did for Abraham, ver.2. and to the hole of the pit, whence ye were digged] Or, to the hollow of the ciſtern, whence ye were digged, Jer.2.13. to Sara; and to her womb, deemed as dead, and utterly diſabled unto iſſue, Gen.11.30. & 16.1. & 18.11,12. Rom.4.19. (for from the word here uſed, hath a woman her name in Hebrew; and to a Well, or ciſtern, is the wife compared, Prov. 5. 15.) untill God, beyond the courſe, or power of nature, opened her womb, as he did that hollow place in Lehi, Judg.15.19. and gave her power to conceive iſſue, Heb.11.11. There is a want of the relative, either pronoun, or adverb, as well in this branch, as in the former alſo.

V. 2. Look unto Abraham your father, and unto Sarah, that bare you] The explication of the former words, in plainer terms: a want again of the relative, in the latter branch; as chap.50.11.

Abraham] The name then given him, when a large iſſue was promiſed him; at which time, with an enlargement, he was by God himſelf, ſo named; as the father of a great multitude: whereas he was called Abram only, as an high, or lofty father, before, Gen.17.5.

your father] Theirs in a more ſpecial manner, becauſe deſcended from him, both by Iſaac, in whom his ſeed was to be reckoned, Gen.17.21. & 21.12. and by Jacob, to whom the birth-right, and bleſſing was devolved from Eſau, Gen. 25. 33,34. & 27.29,30,33,35,36. and was, through him, derived unto all his poſterity, Gen. 49. Exod.24.4. & 27.11,21. Deut.33. Otherwiſe, there were divers nations alſo, beſides the Iſraelites, of the lineage of Abraham; as the Iſmaelites, the Edomites, and others. See Gen.17.20. & 21.13. & 25. 2-4, 12-18. & 36. and of him, therefore, as more peculiarly their father, did the Jews much vaunt, Mat.3.9. Joh.8.33,39.

Sarah] The name likewiſe given her, at the ſame time with Abrahams; ſignifying a Lady, or Princeſſe, without limitation, or reſtriction, at large: whereas ſhe was formerly termed Sarai, ſignifying my Lady, or, my Princeſſe; as with a relation to Abram, her husband, and Lord, or Prince, alone: for the one title ſhe gave him, Gen. 18.12. 1 Pet. 3.6. and the Hethites, the other, Gen.23.6. her Ladiſhip, or Princeſſedoom, being now to be enlarged, Gen.17.15,16.

that bare you] The word implies the pains of breeding, and birth; in Rebecca more remarkable, Gen. 25. 23. the ſame word is found, Pſal.51.5. that bare you; not immediately, but mediately in Iſaac to Abraham, Gen.17.21. a defect of the relative; as before, Ver.1. Chap.47.11.

for I called him alone] Or, how I called him alone: as the particle is uſed, Exod.19.4. Pſal.119.159. Chap.66.24. Lam.1. 9. or, how, when he was but one, I called him. Heb. when one, I called him: one, for, one only, or, but one; as Deut.6.4. Zach. 14.9. one only, or, a lone man: becauſe though married, yet childleſs; and in regard of iſſue, as wife-leſs: ſhe being barren, and aged, in courſe of nature paſt childing, and not without iſſue only, but paſt hope of any by her, Gen.15.2. & 16.1. See Ezek.33.24. and above, on ver.1.

and bleſſed him, and increaſed him] Gods bleſſing is no verbal, but a real bleſſing; the beſtowing of a bleſſing. So Gen. 1.28. & 9.1. and this bleſſing of multiplication, and encreaſe, was more ſpecially, though, among many other bleſſings, conferred upon Abraham, Gen.12.2,3. & 15.5.& 17.2.& 18.18. & 22.17,18. here pointed to, as picked out of the whole heap, to ſtrengthen the faith of Gods people, againſt the conceit and apprehenſion of their paucity, and imbecility, by ſetting before their eyes, a pregnant pattern of Gods power, able to raiſe up, of one, and that one, not a decayed only, but, in ſome ſort, as a dead one, an iſſue, for multitude, like the ſtars of the sky, and ſands of the ſea, beyond number, Heb.11.12. and no leſs able, therefore, to do the like alſo for them. See Chap.49.19-21. Jer.31.27. Ezek.37.11-14,26.

V. 3. For the Lord ſhall comfort Zion, he will comfort all her waſte places] God can do, and will do as much for his Church, as he ſometime did for Abraham.

ſhall comfort Zion] Or, will; as in the next branch.

comfort Zion] He will comfort his people; (ſo is Zion taken, Chap.1.27. & 49.14.) not by ſpeaking only comfortably to them, Chap.40.1. Hoſ.2.14. but by relieving, and refreſhing of them, Chap.12.1. & 49.13. & 54.9.

he will comfort all her waſte places] Or, waſtes, Chap. 49. 19. By reſtoring the ruined city, and State, to her wonted beauty and luſter again, Chap.49.8. & 54.3. & 58.11.

and he will make her wilderneſs like Eden] He will raiſe her up to a flouriſhing eſtate, make her land as pleaſant and plentiful, as Paradiſe; called Eden, for the daintineſs, and delightfulneſſe of it, Gen.2.8,9. & 13.10. Ezek.36.35. See on Chap.4.2. & 35.1.

and her deſart] Or, champion, as Joſh.11.2. & 12.3.

like the garden of the Lord] As a Garden of God; that is, a moſt excellent one: as mountains of God, for, goodly great mountains, Pſal.36.6. and, cedars of God, for, goodly tall cedars, Pſal.104.16. and, an hoſt of God, for, a mighty great hoſt, 1 Chr.12.22. or, as the garden of Eden, (the ſame thing in other terms,) ſo called, Gen.13.10. Ezek.28.13. becauſe of Gods own planting, Gen.2.8. See Chap.60.21. & 61.3.

joy, and gladneſſe ſhall be found therein; thankſgiving and the voice of melody] So Jer.33.11. See Chap.35.10.

ſhall be found there] Or, ſhall be there: as Eſt.1.5. chap. 35. 9.

V. 4. Hearken unto me, O my People; and give ear unto me, O my Nation] My peculiar people, whom, from all other Nations, I have ſet apart, and ſingled out for my ſelf, Exod.19.5. Deut.7.6. See chap.28.23. & 44.1.

for a law ſhall proceed from me] As a Law ſometime proceeded from me in Mount Sinai, Deut.33.2,4. ſo a ſecond Law, in the doctrine of the Goſpel, not for the reſtitution of my Church, among you only, but for the information, and direction of other people alſo, ſhall hereafter go abroad from me, Chap.2.3. Pſal.110.2.

and I will make my judgment to reſt for a light of the people.] The judgment, here ſpoken of, is no other, then the Law, or Doctrine before mentioned. For, Law, doctrine, judgment, word, precept, ſtatute, are words promiſcuouſly uſed oft one for another. See Pſal.19.7,8,9. and Pſalm 119. throughout.

make to reſt] So ſome render it, that is, I will ſettle it there, to wit, in my Church; becauſe the word ſignifieth ſometime to reſt, Chap.34.14. Jer.50.34. Others, I will ſuddenly execute judgment. I will ſpeedily do, what I now ſpeak; becauſe this ſtock hath oft-times a notion of ſuddenneſſe, Jer.4.20. & 18.7. ſee ver.5. and others, again, becauſe it ſignifieth ſometime to break: as Job 7.5. & 26.12. render it, I will cauſe my judgment, that is, my doctrine, to break forth; as light is ſaid to break out. See Pſal.119.130. Hoſ.6.5. and this, to me, ſeems the moſt probable. For the Jewiſh Doctors here ſeem to run counter to the text; as if the meaning were, that God would cauſe his people to reſt a while, while he executed judgment upon the Gentiles; as Chap. 26. 20, 21. Jer. 50. 34.

for the light of the people] Heb. peoples; as Pſal.117.1. to illighten their minds with the ſaving knowledg of Gods truth, Pſal.19.7,8. & 119.103,130. Prov.6.23. 2 Cor.4.6. Rev.1.20. See chap.49.6.

V. 5. My righteouſneſſe is neer] The time approacheth, of accompliſhing my promiſe, in the deliverance of my people, chap.1.27. & 48.13. & 56.1. an effect of my faithfulneſſe, and righteouſneſs, 1 Theſſ.5.24. 2 Theſſ.1.6,7. Heb. 6.9,10. 1 Joh.1.9. See Chap.13.22. they force it over-much, that would have it, my righteouſneſſe; that is, my righteous one: applying it to Cyrus; as moſt do, as forcedly expounding the like of Abraham, Chap.41.2.

my ſalvation is gone forth] The decree is gone out for my peoples deliverance, which ſhall ſpeedily be accompliſhed; either as having reſpect to Gods purpoſe revealed unto the Prophet, and by him, to his people, chap. 14.24-27. or to Cyrus his Edict, as ready to go out, or gone out already, Ezr. 1.1,2. See ch.13.22. & 43.19.

and mine arms ſhall judge the people;] Heb. peoples; as ver.4. Arms, in the plural, to intimate the greatneſs of Gods power, and the large extent of the exerciſe thereof; either in the ſubduing and taking vengeance of thoſe that had been enemies to his Church, and oppreſſors of his people, chap.25.10, 11,12. & 52.2-8. & 49.25,26. or in the managing of his Church, and the nations out of all parts gathered into it, chap.2.4. See chap.59.16.

the Iles ſhall wait upon me] Or, Ilands, countries (even thoſe about, and beyond the ſeas, as chap.49.1. See Chap.42.4. & 60.9.

and on mine arm ſhall they truſt] On his power and might, manifeſted, in the execution of judgment upon the enemies of his people, and in the reſcuing of them, out of their hands, chap.59.16. & 49.16,19. Pſal.98.1,2. or, on his Word, and Goſpel, by which, having ſubdued them, and brought them in to himſelf, he ſhall, alſo, as by his mighty arm, and powerful ſcepter, rule and reign, in the midſt of them, chap. 53. 1. Pſal.110.2. Ezek.20.33,34. Rom.1.16. 1 Cor.1.16.

V. 6. Lift up your eyes to the heavens; and look upon the earth beneath] Conſider how firm and ſtable they ſeem to be. See chap.40.26. Pſal.24.1. & 93.1. & 104.5.

for the heavens ſhall vaniſh away like ſmoke] Heb. be diſſolved, or melted, as ſalt; ſo the word properly ſignifieth. See Jer.38.11. and ſo doth a late learned Writer expound the Greek word preciſely anſwering it, Mark. 9.49. every ſacrifice ſhall be ſalted, or conſumed, with fire; and ſo paſſe into ſmoke, Pſal.37.20. Chap.34.4. Mat.24.35. 2 Pet.3.10. Rev. 6. 14.

and the earth ſhall wax old like a garment] Pſal. 102.26. Heb. 1.11. Mat.13.31. See Chap.50.9. ver.8.

and they that dwell therein] Or, thereon; as Mat.6.10. Heb. her inhabitants.

Art not thou it that hath cut Rahab?] Or,that did cut, or hew Rahab: that by Rahab is meant Egypt; ſo far as I know, no doubt is made. But how Egypt came to be ſo termed, is not altogether ſo generally agreed. Moſt are of opinion, that from her pride,and power pretended,at leaſt, (chap.30.2,3,7.) that name was given her. See Ezek. 30. 6. and the word may well import either. See Job 9.13. Pſal. 90.13. Howbeit,a learned Author conceiveth Egypt to be ſo termed, from the figure,or form,of the lower part of that country; which the River Nilus,having with one entire ſtream attained unto, doth at the head thereof, where it is ſharpeſt and narroweſt, divide it ſelf into two main chanels; and ſo ſhooting down on either ſide of the land, growing wider and wider,encloſeth it in that manner,till it arrive at the Sea,that it makes it to be of a pyramidal,or triangular, form, with the point upward, and the baſi[illegible]neath, to the Sea-ward. Hence the Greeks term this part of Egypt, Delta; becauſe it had the ſhape of their D. thus drawn Δ, and the Egyptians themſelves called it Riph, or Rib, by a word that ſignifieth a pear, the faſhion it bare: whence the head city of the middlemoſt canton, within that Iland, was named Athribis, which ſignifieth, the heart of a pear; and ſome late Authors,alſo, make mention of the name Errif,with the Arabick article prefixed.Rib,and Rahab therefore he holdeth to be all one; as Nahal, and Nilus. And theſe things,indeed, carry ſome good ſhew of probability with them. Howbeit,it may be doubted,whether this Rif, or Rib,for a pear,be an home-bred Egyptian word or no. For it may not,without ſome good ground, be ſuſpected, that as the Arabian Phil, or Pil, and with their article Elphil, for an Elephant, ſprung,as moſt learned deem, either from the Hebrew Eleph,for an Ox; or the Greeks and Latines Elephas, reciſed and reverſed; ſo that this Egyptian Rib, or Riph, for a pear,was taken from the Latine Pyrum: The Latine termination being cut off, and the term it ſelf inverted; that which the rather may be ſuppoſed; becauſe in thoſe pieces of the Egyptian language, which learned men have of late acquainted us with, words,as well Latine, as Greek, are found not a few. And the Arabian Errif,may more juſtly be deemed to deſcend from the Hebrew Rahab, then the Hebrew Rahab to have flown from it; as Nilus,from Nahal; not Nahal from it. I ſhould therefore rather encline to the received notation of this name, given unto Egypt, being a proud and potent State, from a ready Hebrew original; then to one ſo far fetcht about,from grounds, neither of any great certainty, nor of approved antiquity; and appliable,in compariſon, but to a ſmall part of the countrey.

V. 14. The captive exile haſteneth that he may be looſed, and that he ſhould not die in the pit, nor that his bread ſhould fail.] Or,The exile (he that is gone, to wit,out of his country, as Jer. 48,12. for the word Captive,is not in the original) is haſtening to be looſed. (Heb.to be opened,as ch.14.17. Job 12.18.& 39.5. to have the priſon-dore opened to him, and to be ſet free from his bonds and reſtraint; is haſtening to be looſed,for, ſhall haſtily,or *ſpeedily be looſed.*So Gen.41.32. God is making haſte to do it,that is,will do it ſpeedily,out of hand,) and he ſhall not die in the pit, (but ſhall be timely releaſed) nor ſhall his bread fail; as in ſieges,and ſuch reſtraint,it oft doth.See Jer.37.22.& 38. 9,10.that which ſome apply here to that ſpiritual food, Joh. 6.27.See Chap.33.16. See chap.49.9,10. Yet I cannot omit,that ſome here reade the words; He (to wit,the oppreſſor, that now holdeth you in bondage,ver.13.) ſhall haſten, (that is, haſtily bring out, as 1 King.22.9.) the exile that is to be looſed. Or, as with an alluſion to the Egyptian deliverance, He haſteneth,or ſhall make haſte, the oppreſſour going to and fro, or running up and down, (ſo the word ſeems to be taken,chap.63. 1,Jer.2.20.) to ſet at liberty; and ſo it is ſaid of the Egyptians,that God ſaid, that Pharao and his followers ſhould (as alſo accordingly they did) come to Moſes, and to his people, and inſtantly preſs them to be gone from among them,Exod. 11.8.& 12.31-33. and ſo the meaning ſhould be, that God would enforce the Babylonians to do the like by them. But this ſeems not to flow ſo freely from the text, as the former.

in the pit] That is,in the hole,or the dungeon, as chap.42.22. Zach.9.2: but the word,here uſed,is applyed commonly to the grave, Job 33.18,24,33. Pſal. 30. 9.& 55.23. the rather here made uſe of,becauſe the place of their captivity, ſeemed to be unto them, as a grave; and the getting out of the one, as impoſſible, as the riſing from the other, Chap. 26.19. Ezek. 37. 11,12.

V. 15. For I am the Lord thy God, that divided the Sea, whoſe waves roared:] Heb. And; as Chap. 40.26. or, I the Lord thy God, am he, that divided the Sea, when his waves roared; and ſo read, it ſhould have reference to that of the red-ſea, before ſpoken of, ver. 10. which being effected, by a ſtiff and ſtrong blaſt of wind, beating back the current of it, Exod. 14.21. could not be done, ſay thoſe, that ſo render it, but with an hideous roaring noiſe: But I find not where the word here uſed doth ſignifie, to divide; ſave, as any thing, that is crackt or broken, may be ſaid to be divided: and ſo Job ſaith, Job 7.5. my skin cracketh, or breaketh: and of the Sea, it is ſaid, Job 26.12. By his power he breaketh the Sea; as it is commonly rendred; where Interpreters diſpute much what ſhould be meant by breaking of the Sea: For it cannot be there underſtood of the dividing of the red-ſea; it being generally agreed, that Job was ancienter then thoſe times: and the moſt therefore underſtand it, of troubling the Sea, and ſetting it on working, as Pſal. 107.25. Jon. 1.4,13. and ſo, alſo, both the ancient Greek, and the old Latine, here render it, reading the words, that trouble the Sea, and the waves thereof roar. Pſal. 93.3. Howbeit, becauſe the word, uſed both here, and there, hath oft in it a notion of quietneſs, and reſt; (See on ver. 4.) of troubling, or diſturbing, that I can find no where; I ſuppoſe the words may rather, in either place, be rendred; and ſo alſo, Jer. 31.35. I the Lord thy God, am he that ſtilleth the Sea, (that maketh it calm and quiet) when the waves of it roar; and being able to rule, and ſtill the raging Sea, am much more able to curb and quiet the rage of man; and to ſuppreſs and quell the power and fury of any oppreſſour, ver. 13. Pſal. 76.10. chap. 25.5. this expoſition the latter branch much ſtrengthens; nor is there any thing wherein the power of God ordinarily more appears, nor whereby in Scripture it is more frequently extolled, then by the quieting and laying of ſtorms and tempeſts at Sea, and the keeping of that vaſt and unruly creature within compaſs, Job 38.8-11. Pſal. 65.7. & 77.16,19. & 93.3,4. & 104.6-9. & 107.23-29. Jer. 5.22. Jon. 1.4-16. Mat. 8.24-27. Mar. 4.39,41. Luk. 8.24,25.

whoſe waves roared] Or, when the waves thereof roar. Heb. and its waves roar. So Prov. 3.24. Chap. 44.14. See Gods people on this ground ſtrengthning their faith, in aſſurance of all-ſufficient protection from God, amidſt all troubles, turmoils, and tumults whatſoever, Pſal. 46.1—3. & 65.7. & 93.3,4.

the Lord of hoſts is his name.] Or, whoſe name is the Lord of hoſts, as Chap. 47.4. & 48. 2. and doth not therefore vainly boaſt of more then he is able to do, having all creatures at command. See Chap. 1.9.

V. 16. And I have put my words in thy mouth,] Or, as ſome, I will put, &c. There is much doubt, and debate, whom theſe words ſhould be ſpoken to. Some would have it ſpoken to the Church of God, to Sion, or Jeruſalem: but to it he ſpeaketh in the feminine gender, ver. 12,17. whereas here, in the maſculine. Others, therefore, to the people; of whom the Church conſiſteth; in the laſt clauſe of the verſe, to Iſrael, or Jacob; out of whoſe mouth, God promiſeth that his Word ſhould never depart, Chap. 59.20,21. Others, and ſo moſt of the Jewiſh, and ſome alſo of ours, conceive, that God turneth his ſpeech to the Prophet, whom he had acquainted with his Will, and made choice of to deliver it unto his people; and that in ſuch words and terms, as he had preſcribed him, or dictated to him. See the like, Num. 22.35. & 23.5,16. Jer. 1.9. and others, laſtly, to Chriſt, whom the Father had fully opened all his mind unto, concerning what was to be done, in behalf of his Church, and appointed him to acquaint his people with it, Joh. 3.32,34. & 5.19,20. & 8.26,28. Or, of all the Prophets in general, Chriſt himſelf not excluded, by whom, God, through his gracious promiſes, comforteth his Church, Chap. 40. 1, ver. 12. Luk. 24.25. I concur with thoſe, who take the whole paſſage, as ſpoken to Eſay in particular, thereby to aſſure his people of the undoubted performance of the things foretold by him, as coming from God himſelf, who was able to effect them. Yet ſo, as that they have a further reſpect to Chriſt, whom, in an higher, and more eminent manner, they alſo concern. See Chap. 49.2. & 61.1,2.

that I may plant the heavens, and lay the foundations of the earth,] Heb. to plant an heaven, and to found an earth: To make a new world, a new heaven, and a new earth, Chap. 65.17. & 66.22. 2 Cor. 5.17,18. 2 Pet. 3.13. Rev. 21.1. that which may not amiſs be here underſtood, as ſaid to be done, by Eſay miniſterially, or prophetically; as the like is ſaid of Jeremy, by preaching, publiſhing, prophecying, and giving aſſurance of the doing of it. See Jer. 1. 10. & 18. 9. and the next clauſe here, by Chriſt Jeſus actually, and effectually, as being the perſon, by whom the Church is planted and built, Jer. 31.28. Mat. 16.18. all things in it are made new, Rev. 21. 5. and all things both in heaven and earth are reſtored and ſetled, Eph. 1.10. Col. 1.20. Some, with the ancient Greek, render it, wherewith (referring it to the word, hand, before mentioned) I planted the heaven (or, ſtretched it out, by change of a letter, as ver. 13.) and founded the earth, as if he had ſaid; I will protect thee with the ſame hand, wherewith heaven and earth were built: and ſome, ſo long as the heaven ſhall continue built, and the earth founded: as containing a promiſe of an everlaſting protection. See on ver. 6,8. But I ſee not how the words of the text, though never ſo much tortured, will yeeld either of theſe two.

and to ſay to Zion, Thou art my people.] Or, Thou ſhalt again be my people. See Hoſ. 1.10. & 2.1,23. Eſay, by foretelling; Chriſt, by fulfilling the reſtitution of the Church, Rom. 9. 24-26.

V. 17. Awake, awake,] Or, Ariſe, ariſe. Heb. Raiſe, or roux up thy ſelf, as Chap. 64.6. The Prophet, or God, by the Prophet, calling upon the people, as ſome, to awake and roux up themſelves from the ſleep of ſin, and the drowſineſs of ſecurity, 1 Cor. 15. 34. becauſe the Apoſtle ſeemeth ſo to apply it, Eph. 5. 14. though I ſuppoſe another place there alluded to; or, as others, rather, in the firſt place, at leaſt, and in the literal ſenſe, to raiſe and roux up themſelves, from that drooping and diſconſolate eſtate and condition, wherein they had long continued, being much dejected and diſheartned, during the time of their captivity. See Chap. 26.19. & 52.1. implying, that there ſhould be out of hand, a ſtrange and ſudden alteration of that their condition.

See Chap. 42.25. then anger, or, wrath; as we alſo uſe the word heat, when we ſay, the man is in an heat: becauſe anger, cauſing the blood to boil about the heart, heats, and enflames; while his heart is hot, Deut. 19. 6. whence alſo the Latine, excandeſcentia. See Chap. 5.25. and yet further, becauſe poiſon heats, and enflames, the ſame word is uſed alſo for poiſon, Deut. 32.24,33. Pſal. 140.4. applyed to the Lords arrows, Job 6.4. as here, to his cup; and to the wine, in his cup, Jer. 25.5. and I ſee not what ſhould inhibit the rendring of it ſo here; his cup of poiſon; that is, his cup tempered with poiſon: it hath, at leaſt, ſure, ſome alluſion thereunto. thou haſt drunk the dregs of the cup of trembling, and wrung them out.] Or, that haſt drunk, (a defect of the relative; as ver. 12.) and ſucked out, or, in drinking, ſucked out (as Pſal. 75. 8. the dregs thereof ſhall they ſuck out, drink; that is, in drinking ſuck out: for there is no copulative in either place,) the dregs, or lees, (the word in this paſſage only uſed, ſignifieth ſuch thick ſtuff, as ſticketh uſually to the bottom, and comes not ſo eaſily away,) of the cup of trembling, or of concuſſion, or, horror: as the word it comes of, is well rendred, Nah. 2. 3. the firre trees ſhall be terribly ſhaken: a potion ſo ſtangely ſtrong, as makes all that drink it, to ſtagger, and quake, and ſhake, in terrible manner, every limb and joynt of them. See an inſtance of it in Baltaſar, Dan. 5.6. yea, in Habakkuk himſelf, Hab. 3.16. at the ſight only of the character, that forewarned it, with the one; at the bare report of it, with the other. So Pſal. 60.2,3. ſuch a potion as made the whole land to ſhake, as made a terrible earthquake in the whole State; (ſee chap. 2.19.) and ſo Zach.12.2. where ſome alſo render it poiſon; as others, aſtoniſhment, in the Pſalm; for they that render it ſlumbering, as if it imported ſome ſoporiferous potion, ſeem to warp from the words original: ſuch a cup they had before drunk, when they were poſſeſſed with a ſpirit of ſlumber, and ſecurity, Chap. 29.9,10. which was a means to bring on this, that not only rouzed them out of that ſecurity, but caſt them into a clean contrary fit, and plight of terror and aſtoniſhment; and of this latter, it is here intimated, that ſhe had drunk very deep, when ſhe is ſaid to have drunk it down to the very dregs; yea, to have drained, or ſucked out the very loweſt of it, the lees, after the reſt, that are uſually the ſtrongeſt, and are reſerved for the worſt of wicked ones, Pſal.76.8. as the Jewiſh State is ſaid to have done, both here, and Ezek.23.34.

V. 18. There is none to guide her among all her ſons, whom ſhe hath brought forth; neither is there any that taketh her by the hand, of all her ſons, that ſhe hath brought up] Either that guideth her, in the former branch; or, to take her by the hand, in the latter branch: for the form is the ſame, to wit, a participle, as alſo, of, or, from, all her ſons, in either. She had not any one of all thoſe, that had been bred, and brought up in her, neither King, Prince, nor Prophet, that was able to ſuſtain, and hold her up, or direct her what courſe to take, when that dreadful concuſſion, from that direful potion, before-mentioned, ver.17. befel her. See Chap. 3.6-8. An alluſion to one, that being over-maſtered with ſome ſtrong headdy drink, hath none to lead him, or to lend him an hand, to keep him from falling down to the ground, Jer.30.12-14.

none to guide her] Heb. none leading, or, no leader to her.

brought up] Or, reared. Heb. made great, as Chap.1.2.

V. 19. Theſe two things are come unto thee] Heb. are happened to thee: for the Holy Ghoſt doth not wave that term. See Eccl.8.14. & 9.11. not our Saviour himſelf, Luk.10.31. and it is uſed of thoſe things, that fall out beyond mans expectation, and foreſight, without his contrivement, or beſide his intent and purpoſe. See the like, Chap.47.9.

who ſhall be ſorry for thee?] Or, as ſome, Who is ſorry for thee? as if it were ſaid, and yet who takes thine afflictions to heart? or is at all affected with them? as implying, that ſhe had been utterly abandoned in them, Jer. 15.5. Lam.1.12. & 2.15. or, who ſhall mourn, (as it is expreſſed, Job 2. 11.) or, lament (as Pſal.69.20. with thee; or, who ſhall bemoan thee? as it is rendred, Jer.15.5. Nah.3.7. for it hath not a bare notion of ſorrow, or grief: but ſuch an expreſſion of a fellow-feeling of the miſeries of another, whereby the ſame is made known unto him, and that for this end, to help, if it may be, in ſome degree, to lighten, and leſſen his heavineſs and grief: and theſe two, are ordinarily yoked together, condoling, and comforting; both in ſome of the places before-mentioned, Job 2.11. Pſal.69.20. Jer.15.5. and in this.

deſolation, and deſtruction, and the famine, and the ſword.] Heb. devaſtation, and contrition, or breaking, as we ſay, to ſhivers: for from hence our ſhiver ſeems to come. So Chap.1. 28. & 30.13,14. He ſpake of two, he reckoneth up four; the queſtion is, how this ſeeming difference may be reconciled? Some, by the two, at firſt propounded, underſtand thoſe two before related, deſolation, or affliction, from the wrath of God, by the enemy, from abroad; called alſo, Gods cup, Jer.51.7. ver.17. and want of conſolation, of means to relieve and ſupport her, from any of her own, at home: none of them affording her, or being able to tender unto her, the cup of conſolation, Jer.16.7. ver.18. both alſo here intimated: in the numeration of evils, the one; in the queſtions concerning the condoling with her, and comforting of her, the other. See Chap.54.11. Others ſuppoſe, that thoſe two evils, are contained in theſe four terms; the evils comprized in them, though branched into four ſprigs, yet reducible to two heads; to wit, either, evils during the ſiege of the city, hunger, and ſword; and evils, enſuing the ſurpriſal of it, devaſtation, and deſtruction: or, evils concerning the city, devaſtation, and deſtruction; and evils concerning the citizens, famine, and ſword: or, as ſome others, ſuppoſing them to be twice repeated, deſolation, and deſtruction: and again, as the ſame, in effect, with the former, famine, and the ſword; that is, as if he had ſaid, deſolation by famine, and deſtruction by the ſword: but theſe latter ſeem more coact: the firſt to have leaſt force; the rather, for that theſe four here mentioned, were all ingredients of that cup of wrath, that poiſonful potion, that God in his juſt judgment, had deſervedly reached out to them.

by whom ſhall I comfort thee?] Or, whom ſhould I make to comfort thee? as ſome: but that without example; rather as our verſion, By whom: a defect of the particle, as chap.63.12. By whoſe help, or ayd, ſhould relief be procured for thee? as Nah.3.7. or, by what example of others, that have been in like diſtreſſe, ſhould I aſſay to miniſter comfort to thee. as implying, that her calamity was matchleſs, without example, or precedent. So Lam.2.13. The former ſuits better with that before, ver.18. and that after, ver.20. The prepoſition is wanting; as Pſal.17.14. Now all this is here inſerted, to ſhew, that notwithſtanding this her forlorn, and deſperate condition, God was able to raiſe, and reſtore her, and would do it.

V. 20. Thy ſons] Of whom, ver.18.

have fainted,] Or, do faint: as Jon.4.8. Amos 8.13. they that ſhould help to relieve, and ſuſtain thee, ver.18. or, to condole with thee, and comfort thee, ver. 19. are in as bad plight, as thy ſelf, Lam.1.11,12. & 2.11,12.

they lye] they faint; they lye; that is, they lye fainting: as, they haſted, they forgat, for, they ſoon forgat, Pſal.106.13.

in the head of all the ſtreets] That is, in the city of Jeruſalem, at the end, beginning, or entrance of every ſtreet there, where they either had been ſurpriſed, and ſeized on, by the enemy, like beaſts, taken in a toil, Lam.4.18-20. Ezek.19.4,8. or, lay ſtarved, and pining with famine, for want of food, Lam.2.19. & 4.5. head of the ſtreets, Nah.3.10. as, head of the wayes, Ezek. 16.25,31.

as a wilde bull in a net] As that fierce creature, when he is taken in the huntſmans toil, and ſo maſhed, and entangled in it, that he is by no means able to wind himſelf out, though having clean ſpent himſelf, by ſtriving ſo to do: what creature it ſhould be, that is here mentioned, the Jewiſh Doctors themſelves are very uncertain. Some of them tell us, it is a kind of bird, or fowl; but of what kind they ſay not: and that is apparently falſe; for it is mentioned among the beaſts allowed for food, Deut.14.5. and it is therefore moſt generally agreed on, to be a beaſt; which ſome of the Jewiſh Maſters affirm to be a kind of wild ox, or bull; which our verſion followeth: nor do thoſe ſeem to have ſwerved from the ſame notion, that render it, Bubalus, Buffal, or, a Bugel: for howſoever the word Bubalus, is, with the ancient Greeks and Latines, the name of a beaſt in Affrick, not much bigger then a calf, and ſhaped ſomewhat like a ſtag; whereof, ſee Oppian, l. 2. Yet Pliny telleth us, l.8. c.15. that even in his time, the common ſort of people had begun to give that name to the uri, a kind of wild oxen, that Germany bred; whereof Ceſar, in his firſt book of his war with the Galles, telleth, that ſome were not much leſs then an Elephant. See on Chap. 34.7. The ancient Greek verſion, and old Latine Tranſlation in Moſes, render it Oryx. This Ariſtotle, in his hiſtory of living creatures, l.2. c.1. ſaith, is ſingle-horned, and cloven-footed: and ſo Pliny, in his natural ſtory, l. 11. c. 46. who further, l.8. c.53. affirmeth it, to be a kind of wild goat, whoſe hair groweth toward his head. But Oppian, in his hunting-treatiſes, l.2. deſcribeth it, as a very fierce beaſt; not much leſs then the Rhinoceros, (for height I ſuppoſe he meaneth, rather, then for bulk of body) with upright, maſſy, exceeding hard, and ſharp horns, wherewith he would venture upon any beaſt, wild boar, wild bul, leopard, or lion: and this Author may the better be herein credited; becauſe in his times, this beaſt came to be exhibited, in publike ſhews, at Rome; where Martial telleth us, it coſt the price of many a dog, l.13. Epigr. 95. for thoſe things that Ælian, and Orus relate of it, ſeem fabulous. But the conjecture of ſome other, to me, ſeems more probable; who conceive the Hebrew, Ta, or, Tho; (for that is the name of it, both here, and in Moſes,) To be the ſame with that, as in name they agree, which the Greeks, and from them, the Latines call Thos; reported to be a kind of Wolf; longer tailed, but ſhorter legged, and yet ſwifter; becauſe nimbler then the ordinary wolf, living by prey, not of himſelf prone to ſet on man, though not fearing him neither; but fighting with dogs, and lions, Ariſtotle, l.2. c.17. & l.6. c.35. & l.9. c.44. Pliny, l.8. c.34. & l.10. c.74. Oppian addeth in his hunting-treatiſes, l.3. and in his fiſhing treatiſes, l. 1. that they are a mungrel kind, bred between a wolf, and an ounce; and do prey much upon Deer.

in a net] The word ſignifieth a net, or toil, ſet to take beaſts in, Pſalm 141. 10. the prepoſition is wanting, as Pſalm 35.7.

they are full of the fury of the Lord,] Heb. being full of heat, or wrath of the Lord. See on ver.17. that is, of calamities, thence proceeding, Chap.9.19. Rom.2.8,9.

of the rebuke of thy God.] See on Chap.50.2.

V. 21. Therefore] Or, Notwithſtanding. So the courſe of the context neceſſarily requireth it to be rendred. Notwithſtanding this thy forlorn, helpleſs, and hopeleſs eſtate, that in mans eyes may ſeem altogether irrecoverable, yet the Lord will alter thy condition, and raiſe thee up out of it, and reſtore thee to thy former luſtre again. See the like uſe of this particle, Ch. 30.18. Jer.16.14. & 30.16.

hear now this, thou afflicted, and drunken, but not with wine.] Not drunk, at preſent, with ordinary wine, or ſtrong drink, as thy people had too much wont to be, when they revelled it in the times of thy better ſtate, ch 5.11,12. & 22.2,13. & 28.1,3, 7. Hoſ.4.11. what time thou waſt drunk alſo, as well with pride and ſecurity proceeding from the height of thy proſperity, Chap.29.9,10. Jer.2.31. & 22.21. as thou art now, with anguiſh and vexation of mind and ſpirit,ariſing from the depth of thine adverſity, Lam.3.15,19. but with that ſtrong potion, in Gods cup of wrath, ver. 17. and the diſmal effects of it, which makes all that drink deep of it,as thou with others haſt done; not drunk only, but even mad drunk, and to fare as perſons diſtracted,Jer.25.16.& 51. 7. Ezek.23.33,34.

V. 22. *Thus ſaith the Lord,the Lord and thy God,*that pleadeth the cauſe of his people;] Whom,being their Soveraign Lord, he hath undertaken to protect. See Chap. 49. 14. & 50.7,9, 10. Heb. will plead. So Chap. 49. 25. Jer. 50.34. not, by a meer verbal,or vocal; but by a real,and active plea, as Ezek. 38.22.a defect of the relative,as ver.18.

Behold,] A note prefixed,to ſtir up,not attention only;but admiration, upon conſideration, and contemplation, of the ſtrange change and alteration that was now to enſue.So Ch. 10. 33.

I have taken out of thine hand] Or, I will take out of thine hand: that which I put formerly into thine hand, Ier. 25.17, 18. I will do that for thee, that none of thine can do, ver.18, 20. I will alter thy condition.

the cup of trembling] Whereof, ſee on ver.17.

even,the dregs of the cup of my fury :] Or, with the dregs of my cup of wrath. See ver. 17. that is,together with the dregs thereof: the noun repeated for the pronoun, as Jer. 18. 4. 2 Tim. 1. 18. the former particle ſupplyed, as chap. 5.9. this latter,as chap.34.15.& 35.4.

thou ſhalt no more drink it again.] Heb. thou ſhalt not add to drink it further; that is, either thou ſhalt drink it no longer, as chap.23 12.or,thou ſhalt not drink it any more,as Gen.8.21.See Chap.54.9. But the former rather.

V.23. But I will put it into the hand of them that afflict thee:] I will remove my wrath from thee; and I will pour it out upon them,that have been thine oppreſſours,Chap.49.26.See Lam.4.21.

But] Heb. And; which may alſo be here retained.

that afflict thee] Or,vex thee; as Job 19.2. or, as ſome, oppreſs thee; ſuppoſing it to be the ſame with that, Chap. 49.26. altered only by a ſmall ſlip of the Scribes pen : but there is no need to queſtion,or alter the reading ; the word whereof it comes regularly,being oft uſed for to vex,or afflict, Lam.1. 5,12. & 3.32.

which have ſaid to thy ſoul] That is, to thee; as Pſal. 3. 2. & 11. 1.

Bow down,that we may go over :] That have trodden thee down,and trampled upon thee as a deſpicable people: an alluſion to the inſolent uſage of thoſe Eaſtern Kings , to ſet their feet upon the necks,backs, and bodies, of conquered perſons, and to make them,as their foot-ſtools.See Joſh.10.24.Pſal.66. 12.& 110.1.Chap.10.6. Jer.12.10.

go over] Or,go over thee: the pronoun ſupplyed; as Chap. 49.7.& 58.9.

and thou haſt laid thy body as the ground,] Or, and lay (the words ſtill of her inſolent maſters; the future, as oft, in an imperative notion : ſo 1 Sam.2.3.) thy back (as Ch. 38. 17.& 50.6. Prov.10.13. & 19.29. & 26.3.) as the ground, for us to tread on. See Pſal.44.25 & 119.25. Chap.52.2.

and as the ſtreet to them that went over.] Or, as the ſtreet to paſſengers ; that we may as freely tread upon thee, and go over thee,as men go along the ſtreets.

CHAP. LII.

Verſ. 1. A*Wake,awake,*] The former part of this Chapter, unto ver. 13. ſeems to be no other, then an appendix to the foregoing Prophecy, or Sermon, running all along in the ſame tenour, with the latter part of it, and very aptly cloſing with it.

Awake,] Or,Ariſe. The Prophet calleth upon Sion to do that her ſelf here, which ſhe had called upon God to do for her before,Chap.51.9. to wit,to rouz up her ſelf, and pluck up her ſpirits. See Chap.51.12.& 60.1.

put on thy ſtrength,O Zion :] Be of good courage,and make it to appear that thou art ſo. See ch.51.9.

put on thy beautifull garments,O Jeruſalem,] Heb. thy garments of beauty,or bravery; as it is rendred, chap. 3.18. put off thy priſon garments, thy captive attire,thy mourning weeds, thy ſervile garb; lay aſide now thy wonted rayment,and put on thy beſt and braveſt apparel; thine eſtate being clean altered,and changed for the better. See Gen.27.15. & 38.14. & 41. 24. Ruth 3. 3. Chap. 61. 10. Jer. 52. 33. Zach. 3. 4, 5.

the holy city] Heb. city of holineſſe; as Chap. 48. 2. Now being purged and refined , as having paſſed thorow the furnace, by the fire of affliction, to be reſtored to her former purity again, Chap.1.25. & 4.3,4. & 62.12.

from henceforth there ſhall no more come into thee the uncircumciſed, and the unclean] Heb. there ſhall not add that ſhall come into thee, or, againſt thee : as the particle is uſed, Num. 23.21, 23: for the ſyntax, ſee the like, Chap.29.1. & 47.5. Hoſ. 1.6. Thou ſhalt no longer be poſſeſſed, nor ſhalt any more be invaded by heathen people, as by the Syrians, Aſſyrians,Egyptians, and Chaldeans, thou haſt been, 2 King. 16. 18,23, 24, 25.ch.63.18.Lam.1.10.See Ch.60.18. & 62.8.or,wicked ones ſhall not harbour with thee, Chap.35.8. & 60.21. & 62. 12. Rev.21.27. But the former here rather.

V. 2. Shake thy ſelf from the duſt] That thou ſateſt in before, as a mourner, Job 2.8. & 42.6. or, layeſt along in, as a priſoner, or captive, that are wont to lye , diſregarded, and il-intreated, on the bare ground, and in the duſt, Pſal. 7.5.& 44.25. & 119.25. or, ſhake the duſt from thee, which thou haſt gathered, by lying flat on the ground, while thou waſt made as a common foot-ſtool, for thy proud, and ſtately Lords, and Maſters to tread upon. See Chap.51.23. which this may well reflect upon : and there ſeems an hypallage, or, inverſion in the words; Shake thee from the duſt, for ſhake the duſt from thee. So in the next clauſe.

Ariſe, and ſit down O Jeruſalem:] Rather, Ariſe, ſit up, O Jeruſalem : for the copulative is not in the text; and the word of ſitting, is here uſed, not for ſitting down ; but for ſitting up, as Gen.27.19. where Eſau to his Father Iſaac, that lay bedrid, ariſe, ſit up. As Babylon is commanded, to come down, and ſit in the duſt, Chap.47.1. ſo is Jeruſalem here willed, to riſe from the duſt, and ſit up.

looſe thy ſelf from the bands of thy neck,] That is , looſe the bands from off thy neck : an hypallage, as before, ſuch bands,or chains, as priſoners,or captives,are wont to be faſtened with, by the neck,to ſome poſt,or ſtaple,or one to another,as beaſts in a yoke. See Jer.27.2,8,12. & 28.23,24. Lam. 1. 14. So Jer.40.4. I looſe thee from the bands on thy hands, or, I looſe the bands from off thy hands; or, them, from off thee.

O captive daughter of Zion.] Or , Daughter Sion. See Chap.1.8.

V. 3. For thus ſaith the Lord , Ye have ſold your ſelves for nought] I ſold you not; but ye ſold your ſelves by your ſins; or, ye were ſold for nought : for the Hebrew text ſaith no more: the Babylonians to whom ye were ſold, paid me, whoſe ſervants ye were, nothing for you, not ſo much as thanks, Pſal. 44.12. ſo that I gained nothing by the ſale of you , but reproach from the hands, and mouthes of thoſe, unto whom ye were ſold, ver.5. Dan.1.2. & 5.2,3,24.

and ye ſhall be redeemed without money. Heb. without ſilver: as Exod.21.11.Chap.55.1. I will require you back from them again, without ranſome, Chap.45.13. So that Gods argument runs thus; Ye were my people; I had intereſt in you ; the Babylonians have gotten you into their hands ; they pretend to hold you, as good purchaſe; but I had never ought of them for you : and there is no reaſon, therefore,but that you ſhould be reſtored without ranſome. Thus doth God plead the cauſe of his people. See Chap.49.24,25. & 51.22.

V. 4. For thus ſaith the Lord God] Heb. the Lord Jehovah : as Chap.50.4,9.

my people went down aforetime, into Egypt , to ſojourn there,] In time of famine, Jacob went with his whole houſhold thither, Gen.46.6.

went down] See Chap.30.2. & 31.1.

into Egypt] The particle is wanting , as alſo in thoſe texts.

and the Aſſyrian oppreſſed them without cauſe] The Interpreters do exceedingly diſſent about the ſenſe of theſe words : Some by Aſſur, here , would have Pharao underſtood, the Egyptian King, for his cruelty towards Gods people, and his evil uſage of them, termed Aſſur; becauſe therein reſembling the Aſſyrian King. Some of them proceed ſo far, as to affirm, that that Pharao, which oppreſſed Gods people in Egypt, was no Egyptian ; for he would there have known Joſeph ; but an Aſſyrian, Exod.1.8. So the meaning ſhould be, My people did not invade Egypt in warlike manner,but came thither to ſojourn ; and during their abode there,did them no wrong,but were beneficial to them,preſerved them alive from periſhing through famine, by their foreſight, and built them divers cities, Gen.47.19. Exod.1.11. and yet they oppreſſed them,and dealt very cruelly with them, Exod.1.13,14,16.But this expoſition is built upon a very forced interpretation, and a meer groundleſs, yea, an improbable,conjecture. Others, by Aſſur, here, underſtand the King,or Kings of Aſſyria ; and ſome, Salmaneſer, that had carried captive the ten Tribes, 2 King. 17. 11. Some, Tiglath-Pileſer, and Sennacherib, that pilledged and plundered the other two, 2 King.16.8,17, 18. & 18.13-17. the one called in by Ahaz ; the other indeed, becauſe Ezekiah had at firſt revolted from him ; yet after his ſubmiſſion, and compoſition made, contrary to his covenant, beſetting, and diſtreſſing Jeruſalem, Chap. 33.8. Others again, by Aſſur, or the Aſſyrian King,underſtand the Babylonian, Nebuchadnezzar ; ſo called, ſay they, becauſe

Babylon was ſometime ſubject to the Aſſyrian, and the kingdome of Babylon, a branch of that Empire. See 2 King. 17. 24. 2 Chr. 33. 11. and the Babylonian was afterward poſſeſſed of that Monarchy, which the Aſſyrian Kings had held before. Now again among them, there is ſome diſſent about the connexion of this latter branch of the verſe, with the former; for ſome knit them together, as our verſion, with a copulative, ſo the firſt; they went down into Egypt, and Pharao cauſleſly wronged them: and ſo ſome of thoſe alſo, that go with the latter, ſupplying from the latter branch, what was implyed, but not expreſſed in the former; the Egyptians, at firſt, wrongfully oppreſſed them, when they ſojourned with them, & the Aſſyrians, and the Babylonians have of late done the like. Others give the copulative, an adverſative notion; and, for, but, as ch. 29. 13. & 53. 5. and they conceive the context to run thus: My people did, of their own accord, ſometime, go down into Egypt, where they had means afforded them, that kept them from periſhing by famine, and were there ſeated in the beſt, and richeſt part of that land, Gen. 47. 4, 6, 11, 12, 27. now, by this means, they became Pharao's Subjects, and he might juſtly claim ſome intereſt in them, and refuſe therefore to part with them: but you Aſſyrians, and Babylonians, can make no ſuch claim; you have violently invaded them; by force tranſported them out of their own land, into your dominions. If I compelled them to deliver them, and plagued them, for their evil uſage of them, Deut. 26. 5, 6. I may much more juſtly both conſtrain you to redeliver them, and that freely too; and take vengeance alſo upon you, for the wrongs that you have done them, having, for nothing, without any juſt cauſe on their part given you, afflicted, and oppreſſed them: and it may indeed be ſo underſtood; for howſoever it be true, that Gods people had, at his hand, deſerved whatſoever at their enemies hands they had endured; and that God had, for their ſins, juſtly given them up into their hands; yet they intended nothing leſs, whatſoever they might pretend, then the executing of Gods judgment, or the righting of the wrongs done to him, whom they both otherwiſe, and even therein alſo, wronged much more themſelves; they minded nothing but the ſatisfaction of their own ambitious humours, the wrecking of their wrath; and the exerciſing of their cruelty upon them, Chap. 10. 5-14. & 47. 6. Jer. 50. 7, 17. So in the Pſalms, Gods people complain to God, of their cauſeleſs ſufferings, in regard of their enemies; becauſe, though they had treſpaſſed againſt him, yet, they had not treſpaſſed againſt them, Pſal. 7. 3-5, 8. & 25. 16, 19, 21. & 35. 7, 12, 24. & 41. 4-9. & 69. 4, 5. Among this great variety, all circumſtances weighed, I concur with thoſe, who underſtand this latter of the Aſſyrians, as the words expreſly give it; which I ſuppoſe, may well comprehend the whole race of thoſe Kings above mentioned, with their iſſue, that had from time to time infeſted either houſe, as well that of Judah, as that alſo of Iſrael; as the like is thereby deſigned, Jer. 50. 17. and I conceive, that the ſufferings of Gods people by the Egyptians, are intimated, as well in the former branch of the verſe, as by the Aſſyrians in the latter: yet not ſo much the cauſeleſneſs of the wrongs done them, as the fruitleſneſs of their ſufferings, in regard of any gain that God got thereby, to be intimated in the word, for nought: as Pſal. 44. 12. for nothing of wealth, or worth.

V. 5. Now therefore what have I here, ſaith the Lord, that my people is taken away for nought?] The words are in the Hebrew word for word, And now what to me here, that (as Job 11. 6. ver. 6.) or, when (as Job 3. 22. for the word may ſignifie either) my people is taken away freely? Now this moſt Interpreters take, as reflecting upon the words foregoing. Some expounding it, what ſhould I do? ſhould I ſit ſtill, and do nothing, when my people are thus cauſleſly oppreſſed, and detained from me injuriouſly? or, what ſhould I do, but deliver my people, as formerly, in the like caſe, I have done? Others, what do I here, to wit, at Jeruſalem, when my people are in Babylon, and do not rather haſte thither to deliver them thence? Others again, What do I here, to wit, at Babylon, as kept in captivity with my people, in a prophane country, in a ſtrange land, from my Temple at Jeruſalem, Pſal. 137. 4? I conceive this verſe to be of a diſtinct ſubject from what was mentioned in the former: he had pointed at two ſeveral oppreſſions of his people, in the words foregoing, both paſt, and gone; the one, by the Egyptian; the other, by the Aſſyrian: he now paſſeth on to the third, that was preſent, and concerning which he was dealing with his people, at preſent: for the Prophecy is delivered, as to the people held by the Babylonian in captivity, aſſuring them of ſpeedy deliverance out of it.

Now therefore] Or, And now: as the Hebrews is, at this preſent.

what have I here,] Heb. what to me here? what accrueth unto me? what gain get I by this preſent oppreſſion of my people, more then by either of the former?

that my people is taken away for nought?] Or, when, or, ſince that: as Job 38. 5. or, as ſome, for my people is taken away for nought; and ſo the particle is taken, Chap. 28. 27. but I adhere rather to the former.

is taken away] So the word ſignifies, Pſal. 51. 12. Hoſ. 4. 11. & 13. 22. or, (for ſo it may very well be rendred,) is led away, or, is carried away: as Gen. 12. 15. to wit, captive; as Jer. 48. 46. oppoſed here, to their voluntary deſcent into Egypt, verſ. 4.

for nought] As before, ver. 3. my people are taken from me, and carried away, and I receive nothing at all for them. I have no more now from the Chaldeans, then from the Aſſyrians before.

they that rule over them, make them to howl, ſaith the Lord;] Their Lord-like Maſters (Chap. 26. 13. & 49. 7.) uſe them with extream cruelty, Chap. 47. 6. they ſuffer much, and I receive nothing, for all the hard ſervice, my ſervants endure.

and my name continually every day is blaſphemed] That is all I had from the Aſſyrian before, Chap. 37. 4, 6, 17, 23, 24, 29. and that is all I get from the Babylonian now, Dan. 3. 15. & 5. 23. Chap. 14. 13, 14. Ezek. 36. 20, 23. As my people ſuffer in their perſons, ſo I my ſelf, in my reputation, being deemed unable to deliver my people. Thus prophane perſons, by the ſufferings of Gods people, take occaſion to blaſpheme, and to inſult, even over God himſelf, Pſal. 3. 2. & 42. 3. & 74. 22, 23. & 89. 50, 51.

every day] Or, all the day long: and thus rather for the article as Gen. 6. 5. Pſal. 44. 22. Chap. 51. 13. Rom. 8. 36. which is wanting; whence it is, every day; as Pſal. 7. 11. & 140. 2. and 145. 2.

V. 6. Therefore my people ſhall know my name:] I will no longer endure this loſs and reproach; but I will make my power known, by the deliverance of my people, Pſal. 106. 8. Chap. 49. 26. & 63. 14. it may ſeem to have an eye to Gods words unto Moſes, Exod. 6. 3. I will make my ſelf known to my people, by my name Jehovah, as I did to them in Egypt, by making my Word good, by fulfilling my promiſes.

therefore they ſhall know in that day] A ſupply from the former branch; as Gen. 1. 16, 30. 1 King. 10. 11.

in that day] At that time, when this is effected; as Chap. 26. 1.

that I am he that doth ſpeak: behold it is I.] That it is not Eſay, or any other my meſſenger, but I the Lord, that ſpeak by him; who now foretell and promiſe, what I will then fulfill and perform, Chap. 42. 9. & 48. 3, 5. or, that it is I that do ſpeak, ſaying, (ſupplyed, as Pſal. 105. 14, 15.) Lo, here I am, ready to do what I have undertaken, and by promiſe, engaged my ſelf to make good. See Chap. 42. 27. & 65. 1. There is a trajection in the words, with a repetition of the particle intervenient, not unlike that, Ch. 59. 18.

V. 7. How beautifull upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings,] The joyous and gladſome entertainment of thoſe that ſhould bring tidings into Judea, and unto Jeruſalem, of the diſſolution of the Babylonian captivity, Nah. 1. 15. and of thoſe, much more, that ſhould publiſh ſalvation, purchaſed by Chriſt, Rom. 10. 15. Gal. 4. 15, 16.

how beautiful] Or, comely, or ſightly; as Prov. 19. 10. & 26. 1. Cant. 1. 5, 10. & 2. 14. or, delightful, or deſireable, Jer. 6. 2. for that, the root it ſpringeth from, doth firſt, and properly ſignifie.

are the feet] How welcome will ſuch be when they come; foot, or feet, for the perſon himſelf, ſay ſome, as Pſal. 38. 16. & 119. 59. Prov. 6. 18. & 7. 11. or, how welcome will their coming be? foot, and feet, for coming, ſay others; as Gen. 30. 27. 2 King. 6. 32. yet there ſeems here to be ſome emphaſis in it; as if it were ſaid, the very feet of ſuch, though ſweaty, duſty, and dirty with travel, yet will be deemed deſireable, and amiable unto Gods people, in regard of the tidings they bring to them; and they ready to fall down at them, as ready even to kiſs them. See Act. 10. 25.

upon the mountains] Alluding either unto ſuch high places, on which beacons, and watch-towers, were ſituate, which thoſe were wont to get up unto, thence, by ſome ſign given, to call people together, that had ſome meſſage, or tidings, to publiſh unto them, Chap. 40. 9. or, to the mountains, rather, that Jeruſalem was environed with, Pſal. 121. 1. & 125. 2. and he ſeems to ſpeak, as if he ſaw meſſengers coming over theſe hills, to bring tidings from Babylon to Jeruſalem, of the captivity broken up. See the like, Chap. 13. 4.

of him that bringeth good tidings] The word good, ſhould be in a different character; for the word is indefinite to good, or bad. See Chap. 40. 9. of him that bringeth good tidings; that is, of the Prophet Jeremy, ſaith one, that defined the time of the captivity, Jer. 25. 12. & 29. 10. Dan. 9. 3. but poor Jeremy found but very ſorry entertainment among his people, for all that his determination: Nor is it probable, that people would be ſo much taken, and ſo deeply affected with a prediction of a deliverance; to come ſeventy years after, from a very calamitous captivity, that they were then ſuddenly to enter into. The word is rather taken collectively, and indefinitely, not aiming at, or pointing to, any one in particular; but intending any whatſoever, one, or more, that ſhould come with ſuch tidings. See Chap.40.9.& 41.27. as in ſuch caſes men are wont to contend, to go one before another, and to ſtrive who ſhall bring the good news firſt, 2 Sam. 18.19-23. See Jer.50.8.

that publiſheth peace] Heb. maketh to hear; as Neh. 8.15. peace, that is, proſperity and welfare; as Chap.48.18.

that bringeth good tidings of good,] A ſuperfluous repetition; it would be ſimply rendred; of him that bringeth good, or glad tidings: for the word here uſed ſignifieth either, 1 King.22.8. Prov.15.15.Zach.9.17.

that publiſheth ſalvation,] Deliverance, corporal, by Cyrus; ſpiritual, by Chriſt, Chap.51.5. Heb. that maketh to hear; as before.

that ſaith to Zion, Thy God reigneth] Thy God hath manifeſted, and magnified his royal power, by the deſtruction of his enemies, and the deliverance of his people; but chiefly, and principally, in his ſpiritual Kingdom erected, and exerciſed by his Chriſt, Pſal.93.1.& 97.1.& 99.1. & 110.1-7.& 146. 10.Rev.6.2.& 11.15.& 19.6.

V. 8. Thy watch-men ſhall lift up their voice] Heb. the voice: the pronoun wanting, as Chap.49.22,23. Of another ſyntax, ſee anon. Thy Prophets and Teachers, (Chap.60.10.Ezek. 3.17.& 33.7. Heb.13.17.) ſhall with much joy, and loud voice, publiſh thy deliverance. See Chap.40.9. an alluſion, as there, and ver.7. ſo here, as ſome think, to the manner of thoſe that bring tidings, and tell them aloud, in high places, that as many as may be, may hear them; but the term of watch-men, ſuits not ſo well to ſuch. I rather take it, to have an eye to thoſe, that are placed upon watch-towers, to eſpy, and give notice of the approach, or coming afar off, of any that may be deemed to come for relief, in ſtraits, or with good tidings, after ſome great battel fought, conqueſt atchieved, or the like. See 2 Sam. 18. 24-27. as the former ſort, the tiding-bringers are ſaid to appear on the hils, not far diſtant from the city, v. 7. ſo the watchmen from the wals, and turrets, about the city, who either deſcrying them afar off, and by their geſture, or other ſigns, diſcerning that they come with good tidings, or receiving, as the uſual manner is, the report of things firſt from them, ſhall, in the manner here mentioned, publiſh it to others. See 2 King.7. 10,11.

with the voice together ſhall they ſing;] So Chap. 51. 11. they ſhall come with ſong, or ſinging to Sion: But the particle expreſſed there, is wanting here; as Chap.33.5. and oft elſewhere. But ſome therefore thus render the context; As for the voice of thy watchmen; or, as others, The voice of thy watchmen, without ought elſe prefixed (which I take to be the better, as Cant.2.8. as if he heard the one now; ſaw the other before, ver.7. and were raviſhed at the hearing of the one, at the ſight of the other,) they lift up the voice, they ſing together; and this reading the points, and pauſes, in the Hebrew, encline to. Some think it hath ſome reference, either to the ſinging and ſhouting of the Prieſts and Levites, and others, at the founding of the Temple, Ezr.3. 10,11. or to their ſinging together afterward in the Temple, at the dedication of it after it was built, Ezr.6.16. but they were works of a later date, then this here reſpected.

for they ſhall ſee eye to eye, when the Lord ſhall bring again Zion.] They ſhall cleerly, and evidently behold thoſe things fulfilled, that had, by them, been foretold, thoſe things performed, that had been before promiſed, 1 Pet.1. 10-12.

eye to eye] Num.14.14. as face to face, Gen. 32. 30. and mouth to mouth, Num.12.12. See Jer.32.4.

when the Lord ſhall bring again Zion.] So is the word generally rendred, both here, and Pſal.14.7,& 53.6.& 126. 1. in all which places, yet it ſeemeth to be word for word in the text, when the Lord ſhall return to Sion, with a want of the particle to, as Ch.35.10.& 51.11. and it may well be ſo rendred alſo in thoſe places of the Pſalms; when the Lord ſhall turn to the captivity of his people; and, when the Lord turned unto the captivity of Sion: when, in mercy and favour, he turned again to them; as Num.10.36.Pſal.90.13.ch.63.17. ſo the ſenſe will be, when the Lord ſhall return unto Sion again; either to his people that had ſometime held it, but had been diſpoſſeſſed of it, & detained long from it; or, to the place it ſelf, to take up his abode, and make his reſidence again there, as in former time he did, Pſal.132.13,14. ch.31.9. for God is ſaid to come along with his people, in the front of them, at their return, ver.12. they ſhall cleerly ſee God himſelf returning, in conſpicuous manner, together with his redeemed ones unto Sion. And this way the moſt of the Jewiſh Commenters go: Nor can it be denied, but that the word, in the form here uſed, is commonly, almoſt generally, intranſitive; and ſignifieth, not to reduce, as in another form, but to return. Howbeit, ſome places there are, wherein it ſeemeth to require a tranſitive notion, as Job 42. 18 the Lord turned the captivity of Job; and, Nahum 2. 2. The Lord hath turned the pride of the excellency of Jacob; and ſo without any ſupply, it may well be here as our verſion hath it. See Jer.30.3,18.

V. 9. Break forth into joy, ſing together, ye waſte places of Jeruſalem:] That have lien long ruined, but ſhall now be reedified, Chap.44.28. Heb. waſtes; as Chap.49.19. & 51.3. See Chap.14.7. and 35.1. and 44. 23. and 49. 13. and 54. 1. and 55. 12.

for the Lord hath comforted his people,] Returning in mercy to them, ver.8. See Chap. 51.3.

he hath redeemed Jeruſalem.] Set her at liberty again, ver.3. See Chap.44.23. & 48. 20. Luk.1.68.

V. 10. The Lord hath made bare his holy arm in the eyes of all the nations:] Or, hath ſtripped up his arm; as alluding to the geſture of thoſe, that ſtrip up the ſleeve of the arm, to ſtrike the more readily with it. See Ezek.4. 7. Chap.53.1. arm, for power; as Chap. 51. 9. which place this ſeems to reflect upon. The Lord according to your deſire, and ſuit to him there, hath raiſed up himſelf, and ſheweth forth his might, in moſt conſpicuous manner, in the ſight of other people, as well as your own, that they cannot but take notice of his handy-work, both in your adverſaries deſtruction, and in your deliverance, Pſal.98.2. Chap.26.11.

holy arm] Heb, arm of holineſs; as Pſal.98.1.

in the eyes] For, in the ſight, Pſal.98.2. as, in the ears, for, in the hearing, Chap.36.11.

and all the ends of the earth ſhall ſee the ſalvation of the Lord.] Or, that all the ends of the earth may ſee; as Chap.41.20,22. or, ſo that all the ends of the earth have ſeen; as Pſal. 98. 3. the ſalvation of the Lord; which he hath wrought for his people, Chap.49.26. which ſhall be ſo remarkable, that notice ſhall be taken of it, even in the remoteſt parts of the world, on every ſide, unto the lands end, Pſal.67.8.& 98. 3. Mic. 5. 4. Luk. 3. 6.

V. 11. Depart ye, depart ye, go ye out from thence:] Get ye with all ſpeed out of Babylon, ye that have been hitherto detained in captivity there, Chap.48.20.& 62.10. Jer. 50. 8. & 51.6. 2 Cor.6.17.Rev.18.4.

touch no unclean thing,] Keep your ſelves pure and clean, free from heatheniſh and idolatrous defilements, 2 Cor.6.17. & 7.1. 1 Tim.5.22.Jam.1.27. an alluſion to legal pollutions, contracted by touch, Lev.11.24,39, 44.& 22.4-6. Col.2. 21.

Go ye out of the midſt of her;] Or, out of her; as chap.5.8. to wit, out of Babylon, as before; a double repetition redoubled.

be ye clean, ye that bear the veſſels of the Lord.] Either ye that are to bear back the holy veſſels, that Nebuchadnezzar had carryed away to Babylon, being, by Cyrus, now reſtored, Dan. 1.2. 2 Chr.36.7. Ezr.1.7,8,11. See the charge, by Eſdras, given unto them, Ezr. 8. 28. or, ye Prieſts that are to handle them in your ordinary miniſtrations, Lev.21.6,23. Num.4.5, 15.& 19.13-19. Ezek. 22.26. Hag. 2. 13, 14. and ſo all Chriſtians called to be ſpiritual Prieſts, 1 Pet. 2. 5, 9, 13. Rev. 1. 6.

V. 12. For ye ſhall not go out with haſte,] Or, in haſte; haſtily, as they were enjoyned to eat the paſsover, Exod.12.11. & as they are ſaid to have gone out of Egypt, Exod. 12. 33. ſo that they could not have time to provide themſelves of neceſſaries, Exod.12.39. Deut.16.3. but the word ſeems to import ſomewhat more then ſo here; ye ſhall not make haſte, out of fear, as if ye miſdoubted, leſt ye ſhould be intercepted and ſtayed again, by thoſe that detained you before: for the word it comes from, properly ſignifies, to tremble, Deut.20.3. and conſequently to make haſte out of fear, 1 Sam.23.26. it implyeth, therefore, a frightfull, or trembling haſte, a making haſte out of fear, Pſal.31.22. & 116.11.

nor go by flight] As if ye fled; as they ſeemed to do out of Egypt, Exod.14.5. and as thoſe are wont to do, that ſteal away, without the privity of thoſe, under whom, or, in whoſe power, they are, Gen.31.20,21. and this therefore, and the former, flight, and haſte, are, as here, ſo elſewhere, joyned together, 2 Sam.4.4. 2 King.7.7,16. you ſhall not go away haſtily, out of fear, or by ſtealth; but ye ſhall depart freely, peaceably, quietly, by commiſſion from publike authority, taking your own time, without tumult, noiſe, or fear of ought, Chap. 55. 12. 2 Chr.36.23. Ezr.1.3,4.

for the Lord will go before you; and the God of Iſrael will be your rereward] Heb. the Lord is walking, or, marching before you; and the God of Iſrael is gathering you up, or, cloſing you: as Num.10.25. Joſh.6.9,13. Ye ſhall not need to fear ought, either in ſetting out, or on the way; for God will ſecure, and ſafeguard you, on every ſide, both before, and behind. It is an alluſion to Gods conduct of his people, in their departure from Egypt, and paſſage thorow the wilderneſs, by the pillar of cloud, and fire; which ſometime went in the front with them, and ſometime alſo ſtood in the rere of them, as was moſt conducible for their protection and ſafety, Exod.13. 21. & 14.19,20. So Chap.58.8.

V. 13. Behold] At this verſe ſeems to begin a new Sermon; certain it is, that they belong to the ſame ſubject, with the next Chapter, and do together with it, joyntly make up an entire Prophecy, concerning Chriſt, his perſon, parentage, condition, manner of life, ſufferings, humiliation, exaltation, benefit redounding thence to his, and honour to himſelf.

Behold] So is the Prophecy of his birth uſhiered in; Chap. 7. 14.

my Servant] This Prophecy, the Jewiſh Commenters themſelves affirm to be very difficult; and howſoever their later Maſters ſtrive all they can, to turn it from Chriſt, in hatred to whom, they ſtrangely wring, and wreſt the ſeveral paſſages of it, writhing, and wrigling them, ſometime one way, and ſometime another, (wherein I could wiſh, that ſome Chriſtian Writers had not too far concurred with them,) by, and in applying them, ſome to Moſes, ſome to Eſdras, ſome to Jeſus the ſon of Joſadak, ſome to Joſias, ſome to Ezekias, ſome to Eſay, ſome to Jeremy, ſome to Iſrael, in general, or the main body of the Juſt ones returned from the captivity; (unto none of all which, the ſubject matter of it will agree) yet the Chaldee Paraphraſt expoundeth it of the Meſſias; and ſo likewiſe ſome of them acknowledge upon the place, that their ancient Doctors did. The title was before given unto Chriſt, Chap. 42.1. and hereafter, Chap.53.11. ſo called by God the Father, who here ſpeaketh of him, becauſe he did him ſervice in the work of mans redemption, Luk.2.49. Joh.5.17,30. & 6. 38. & 9.4. & 10.18. & 12.49. & 14.31. & 17.4. & 18.11. Phil. 2.7,8. for the deliverance of his Elect from the thraldome of ſin, and Satan, Mat.1.21. Gal.1.4. & 3.13. 1 Theſſ.1.10. Tit.2. 14. Heb.2.14[illegible] ſhall deal prudently] So the word ſeems to be uſed of David, 1 Sam.18.30. or, ſhall proſper; and ſo it is generally deemed to be uſed of the Meſſias, deſcended from David, Jer.23.5. of whom alſo it is ſaid, Chap.53.10. that the pleaſure of the Lord ſhall proſper in his hand.

he ſhall be exalted, and extolled, and be very high.] Divers terms heaped up, to expreſs in part the tranſcendent, and unexpreſſible advancement of Chriſt, in regard of his humane nature, aſſumed by his deity, the eternal Word, to ſubſiſt in one perſon with it, Joh.1.14. Heb.2.16. For the Talmudiſts do but trifle, when they dream of three diſtinct degrees in the text; exalted above Abraham, extolled above Moſes, and advanced above the Angels; though the things themſelves be true, Joh. 8.53,56. Heb.3.3,5. & 1.4-7. but not ſo particularly here intended. Rather, as ſome of ours, every way exalted, that men are ordinarily wont ſo to be; to wit, when raiſed from a mean eſtate to ſome honourable condition, or from a private life, to magiſtracy, and government, Gen.41.14,40-44. Pſal.105.17-22. & 78.70,71. & 113.7,8. Eccl.4.14. when furniſhed with ſuch parts, and endowments of wiſdom and underſtanding, as makes them admirable in the eyes of others, Gen.41.39. 1 King.3.12. & 10.24. Dan.1.19,20. & 5.11. and when enabled to perform and go thorow with great matters, whereby they become famous, and renowned, far and neer, 2 Sam.7. 8,9. 2 Chr.26.5-8. In all which reſpects, our Saviour was moſt eminently exalted, above all creatures in heaven, and earth; as by the Scriptures above pointed to, and thoſe typical Pſalms, 2. & 45. & 72. & 110. moſt evidently appeareth. See on Chap.53.4. See Eph.1.20-22. Phil.2.9,10. Col.1. 19. & 2.3,9. Heb.2.7,8. & 12.3.

V. 14. As many were aſtonied at thee] The ſpeech of the Father, not of Chriſt, as before; but unto Chriſt, whom he here directeth his ſpeech unto. The words ſome expound, of an aſtoniſhment at Chriſt, in way of admiration of him, in regard of the power of his Deity, and his excellent parts, appearing, and manifeſting themſelves, partly, in his manner of teaching, and partly, in the miracles, and mighty works wrought by him, Mat.7.28,29. & 8.27. & 13.54. & 22.33. Mar.1.22,27. & 6.2. & 7.37. & 11.18. Luk.9.43. But this ſenſe ſuits not well with the courſe of the context. The word rather, according, both to the original, and the ordinary uſe of it, is here to be underſtood of ſuch an aſtoniſhment, as ariſeth from the contemplation of ſome ſtrange, uncouth, and ruful ſpectacle of deſolation, deformity, miſery, or the like. So is it uſed, Levit.26.32. where the notation of it alſo is expreſſed. So alſo, 1 King.9.8. 2 Chr.7.21. Jer.18.16. & 19. 8. & 49.17. & 50.13. Ezek.26.16. & 27.35. & 28.19. and no marvel, if many were aſtoniſhed at the ſight of our Saviours condition, in regard of thoſe baſe, diſgraceful, and deſpiteful uſages that were offered, and done, to him, in the time of his humiliation here on earth, when his followers were ſo amazed at the relation of them, when they were ſometime foretold them, Mar.10.32-34.

(his viſage was ſo marred more then any man, and his form more then the ſons of men)] Thoſe that expound the foregoing branch, of mens wondring at Chriſts excellencies, make theſe words the ſecond member of the collation; which the note of ſimilitude, prefixed to the former, ſheweth, here to be intended: as if the text ran thus; As he was ſometime highly admired for his powerful words and works; ſo he ſhall afterward be as much abuſed and diſgraced again. But the reddition of the ſimilitude, cometh afterward in the next verſe; this being inſerted between both, by way of parentheſis, with a tranſition from perſon to perſon, in this Prophet not unuſual; (ſee Chap.1.29,30. & 2.9. & 3.25,26. and we need not therefore, with ſome of ours, either offer to alter the text, or underſtand the former, of one perſon; and the latter, of another: that, of Iſrael; this, of Chriſt,) as rendring a reaſon, why at ſight of our Saviour, in time of his depreſſion, many ſhould be ſo aſtoniſhed. Howbeit, the words are not ſo to be underſtood, as if our bleſſed Saviour had, in regard of his bodily perſon, or preſence, been ſome ſtrange, deformed, or miſhapen creature; but in regard of his outward eſtate; coming of mean, and obſcure Parentage, Chap.53.2. living in a low deſpicable condition, Chap.53.3. expoſed to ſcorn, and contempt, and to much affliction, thorow the whole courſe of his life, ch.53. 2. and more eſpecially, yet, in regard of what he was alſo in his Perſonal appearance; through the baſe and deſpitefull uſages, that he ſuſtained at the hands of his malicious and miſchievous adverſaries, when they had gotten him into their power, Pſal.22.12-18. & 69.19-21. & 71.7. Chap.50.6. & 52. 5,7,10. Mat.26.67,68. & 27.16-44. Mar.14.65. & 15.15-32. Luk.22.44,63. & 23.26,33,35-39. Joh.19.1-5,16-18,23,29. A learned late Writer would have this paſſage read by way of interrogation, as the words of thoſe that wonder at the ſight of Chriſt, thus rendring the text, ſaying, (as Pſal.105. 15.) is his viſage in ſuch manner corrupted, or, marred? &c. but the former verſion ſeemeth the more familiar, and to come off more freely.

his viſage was ſo marred] His watching, dragging to and fro, from place to place, buffeting, ſcourging, carrying his croſs, and other miſ-uſage, could not, but much alter the ſtate of his body, and impair, yea, deface all the ſightlineſs of it. Howbeit, the word viſage, here, and form in the next branch, ſeem to be taken more largely, for all outward appearance, both of bodily ſhape, and of ſtate, or condition in general; as ſight, or appearance, Chap.11.3. Joh.7.24. and form, 1 Sam. 28.14. 2 Tim.3.5. and face, or perſon, Deut.16.19. Rom.2. 11. So Chap.53.2. Heb. ſuch the corruption of his viſage more then, or, above a man: for they ſeem wide here, who drawing the word from another root, would have it rendred, the unction of his perſon above any man, Pſal.45.2,7.

more then any man] Heb. then a man: a man, for, any man, or, any one; as Chap.4.11. & 40.26. & 50.2. ſo that he ſeemed rather as a worm, then a man, Pſal.22.6.

and his form more then the ſons of men] As if no form, or ſhape of a man, were left to be ſeen in him; as ſome render thoſe words, Pſal.38.3. Chap.1.6. the ſame notion in other terms; as Job 25.6.

V. 15. So ſhall he ſprinkle many nations] The reddition, or latter part of the collation, concerning Chriſts exaltation, oppoſed to the former, concerning his humiliation, ver.14. and further confirming and illuſtrating what concerning Chriſts ſucceſs, and advancement, was before delivered, ver.13.

ſprinkle] The Jewiſh Commenters expound theſe words, ſome of them, of the ſlaughter that he ſhould make of his enemies; he ſhall ſprinkle them, that is, ſhed their blood; as chap. 63.3. their blood was ſprinkled upon my garments; ſome of them, of the reports that ſhall go abroad of his honour, and valour; for the term of ſprinkling, or dropping rather, is, ſay they, uſed of ſpeech, Deut.32.2. Ezek.20.46. & 41.2. Amos 7. 16. Mic.2.6,11. ſo the meaning ſhould be, he ſhall make them to ſprinkle, or drop; that is, give them occaſion to talk of him; but the word of ſprinkling, is one; thoſe of dropping, other: and this never found ſo uſed; though thoſe are. Others of them again, but without example, likewiſe, would have the word taken, in a notion of diſperſion; he ſhall, ſay they, grow ſtrong, and drive away the horns of the Heathen, that had formerly diſperſed Gods people, Zach.1.21. But theſe Interpretations are groundleſs, and forced. Ours expound the words much to one effect; to wit, that Chriſt ſhould bedew many nations with the doctrine of the Goſpel, by the miniſtery of his Apoſtles, and thereby convert them to the Faith, through the efficacy of the Spirit, accompanying the ſame, and working faith in them, Chap.59.20,21. Mat.28.18. Act.2.33,38,41. Rom.10.17. 2 Cor.3.6. or, which comes all to one, that he ſhould ſanctifie, and cleanſe them with his Spirit, imparted to them, by the Word, and with his blood, by faith applyed unto their ſouls, Ezek.36.25,27. Joh.15.3. & 17.17. Act.15.9. Gal.3.2. Eph.5.26. 1 Pet.1.2. 1 Joh.1.7. Rev.1.5. & 7.14. an alluſion, as ſome think, to the water, and waſhing with it, uſed in the Evangelical Baptiſme, Mat.3.11. Joh.3.5. Act.2. 38. & 22.16. 1 Pet.3.21. as others, to the legal baptiſings, or ſprinklings with water, or blood, or both mixt together; for the ſanctifying of ſome, and cleanſing of others, that were legally unclean, Exod.24.6,8. & 29.4,20,21. Levit. 13. 6, 7, 8. Num 19.12-21. Pſal.51.7. Heb.9.10,13,14,18-22. & 10. 8, 10, 22.

many nations] As many perſons aſtoniſhed at him before; ver.14. ſo many people now taken with him, and converted to him, Chap. 2.3. yet many, not all; as Mat. 28.18. becauſe not accepted by ſome, though offered to all, Act.2.41. & 17. 11,18,32-34.

the Kings ſhall ſhut their mouthes at him] Kings, ſimply; (for there is no article in the original) or, even Kings (as Chap. 51.12,22. & 60.10. & 62. 2.) ſhall ſhut their mouthes (Heb. mouth; as, tongue, alſo, Job 29.10.) out of reverence, and reſpect, out of another manner of aſtoniſhment at him now, then before, ver.14. to wit, out of admiration of his incomparable excellency. See Job 29.9,10. or, being ſo convinced of the truth of his teaching, that they ſhall not be able, or dare, once to contradict it, Luk.21.12,15. See Job 40. 4, 5. Pſal.107.42. Mic.7.17. But the former ſeems rather here chiefly intended. For the Jewiſh Critick doth but dally here, who, to make this ſuit with his forced fancy concerning the foregoing branch, would faſten upon this a double ſenſe: the word here uſed, ſaith he, hath a two-fold notion; of opening, and of ſhutting: of opening, as it ſignifies to skip; for in skipping, or leaping, the feet are opened, Cant.2.8. of ſhutting, or cloſing, Deut.15.7. Job 5.16. here it may import both: they ſhall open their mouthes to talk of him; and they ſhall ſhut their mouthes, in way of wonderment at him. But this is to make a Delphick ſword of Gods Word. And yet ſuch quirks are too many much taken with.

for that which had not been told them, ſhall they ſee; and that which they had not heard, ſhall they conſider.] For; Heb. And; as chap. 40. 26. They ſhall ſee thoſe things fulfilled, which their Wizzards could never foretel; nor had been told by any other: and they ſhall hear ſuch myſteries, yea, not hear them only, but conſider ſeriouſly of them, and underſtand them aright. (See Chap. 1. 3.) as they never had been made acquainted with, or had once thought on before, Chap.41.26. & 45.21. & 64.4. Rom.16.25,26. 1 Cor.2.8,9. or, as others reade, and render the words; they to whom it had not been related, or, to whom nothing had been related of him, ſhall ſee; and thoſe that had not heard, ſhall conſider, or, underſtand. So the ancient, both Greek and Latine, and of ours not a few. See chap. 65.1. Rom.15.20,21. I go rather with the former; the ſyntax ſeeming to me, the more familiar, and the fuller. The ſame way go the Jewiſh Commenters, ſave that ſome of them conceive it ſpoken, not ſimply, and abſolutely, but comparatively; they ſhall ſee greater glory, and excellency in him, then ever they heard, or dreamed of; they ſhall find, and know his magnificence to go far beyond whatſoever they had been told, or could conceive of him before. See of Solomon, 1 King.10.6,7.

CHAP. LIII.

Verſ. 1. WHo hath believed our report?] Or, Who believeth our report? or, doctrine; as Chap. 28.19. or, preaching; as ſome render it, Hoſh.7.12. Heb. hearing, Chap.28.19. that which they hear from us; thoſe glad tydings before-mentioned, Chap. 52.7. Some, for the better connexion of the enſuing diſcourſe, with the former, prefix the adverſative particle, But; rendring the words; But who believeth our report? that is, who, ſay they, of the Jewiſh people: the fewneſs of thoſe that received the Goſpel among that people, being oppoſed to the multitudes of other nations, that ſhould embrace it, and believe in Chriſt, Chap. 52.15. So the words contain a complaint of the paucity, and ſmall number of thoſe, among the Jews, that gave any credit to the propheſies foregoing, concerning Chriſt, and the doctrine of his Kingdom, and his glorious advancement, either in the times of this our Prophet, and other his fellow-meſſengers; or, in the time, that being exhibited in the fleſh, he lived here upon earth: unto which times, we find theſe words applyed in the Goſpel, Joh.12.37,38. Rom.10.16. See Chap.49.4. Joh.3.32. & 5.43,44. & 7.5,48. Act.28.22. See for the form of ſpeech, Pſal.90.11. Chap.50.10.

to whom is the arm of the Lord revealed?] His mighty power working by, and manifeſting it ſelf in Chriſt, and in the miniſtery of his Word, Chap.40 10. & 51.5. & 52.10. Rom.1. 16. 1 Cor.1.18,24. which muſt from God be revealed, before it can be believed, Chap.54.23. Mat.11.25. & 16.17. Joh.6.44, 45. 1 Cor.2.9,12. Gal. 1. 12. Heb. upon whom; which ſome taking hold of, thus render the text; upon whom is the arm of the Lord ſtript up, or, made bare? that is, on whom hath the miniſtery of his ſervants an efficacious work, for the converting of them unto God? a metaphor, ſay they, taken from Workmen, who are wont, for the better expedition, to ſtrip the arm up to the elbow, when they go about their work. See Ch. 52.10. But this ſeems over-curious; nor will the Greek, in the Goſpel, bear it; and the particle, though it uſually ſignifie upon; yet is it alſo frequently uſed for unto; as Exod, 20.3. to my face: ſo the words there are, 2 King. 18.27. compared with Eſay 36.12. Pſal. 13.6. & 18.41. Chap. 29.12. with verſe 11.

V. 2. For he ſhall grow up before him as a tender plant,] Heb. And; which both the old Greek, and Latine, and ſome other after them retain. Others, render it, Indeed; as Chap.30.20. Or, Yet; as ver.7. Ch.46.7. and others again, not a few, whom our verſion concurreth with, For; as ver.11. Chap. 52.15. & 64.5. as uſhering in a paſſage, wherein the ground is diſcovered, and a reaſon rendred, how it came, or ſhould come to paſs, that ſo few of the Jewiſh nation ſhould entertain Chriſt, as the Meſſias, and their Saviour, and give belief to the doctrine of the Prophets and Apoſtles, concerning him. They looked for a Meſſias to come in princely ſtate, with royall attendance, and ſecular power, that ſhould reign and rule, as ſome mighty Monarch, and ſet them free from the bondage of the Romane Empire: and when they ſaw nothing leſs; but all clean contrary in Chriſt, hence came it to paſs, that they were offended in him, and could by no means be induced to believe that ſuch an one ſhould be their Meſſias, Mat. 13.55, 57. Luk.24.21. Joh.7.27,41,53. 1 Cor.1.23.

grow up] Heb. aſcend; which ſome underſtand, of Chriſts exaltation; as if it were ſaid, that he ſhould riſe and grow great, for all this, that ſo few entertain him, and believe in him. And ſome of note, to this purpoſe, would thus joyn this verſe with the latter part of the former; And he, on whom the arm of the Lord ſhall be revealed (to wit, Chriſt) ſhall grow up: but this offereth too much violence to the context. And albeit, the word here uſed, doth ſometime import a riſing, by advancement, and improvement of height, ſtrength, ſtature, or ſtate, Chap.40.31. Jer.51.53. yet it is uſed commonly of plants, ſimply ſpringing up, without any ſuch ſpecial connotation, Chap.32. 3. and all the circumſtances of the text do carry it another way, as in the opening of the words will appear.

before him] This ſmall particle is very variouſly expounded. Some underſtand it, of God; that in the ſight of God, he ſhould be great, and highly eſteemed, though mean, and of no account in mans eyes; as the like is ſaid, in expreſs terms, of John his Herbinger, Luk.1.15. and, in effect, of Chriſt alſo, Luk.1.32. or, that by his moſt wiſe, and powerful providence, he ſhould be produced, and under his protection, having his eye perpetually upon him, grow up to a great height, Chap. 52.13. Others, of the people, in whoſe eyes he ſhould appear, and ſeem to be ſuch, as is hereafter intimated. Others, of Chriſt himſelf, that he ſhould be lowly, and of ſmall eſteem in his own ſight; as it is ſaid of Saul, 1 Sam.15.17. and in the perſon of Chriſt, Pſal.22.6. Others, laſtly, of none of all theſe; becauſe no expreſs mention of any of theſe, unto whom it may fitly be referred, but of the outward ſhew that Chriſt ſhould make, rendring the text; for his appearance, or, outward ſhew, or ſtate: for the word face, in Hebrew, is very frequently ſo uſed; as was before ſhewed, on chap. 52. 14. and anſwereth to the word, ſight, or, appearance, uſed afterward, in the laſt clauſe of this verſe, for ſight, as, for height, Prov.25.3. where the ſame particle is ſo uſed; and this beſt ſuits with the ſcope, and current of the context.

as a tender plant] The word tender is not in the text; and true it is, that the term here uſed, is of a large extent in the ordinary uſe of it, comprehending branches of all ſorts, without diſtinction of ſtrength, or ſize. See Pſal.80.11. Hoſ.14. 6. Job 8.15,16,30. & Ezek.17. 4. where, though our verſion renders it, a young twig, which would do very well here; yet the words, next before going, controll it there. The word properly ſignifieth, a ſuckling, or, ſucking-child, Num.11.12. Pſal.8. 2. 1 Sam.15.3. & 22.19. Jer.44.7. Lam.2.11. & 4.4. and ſo the ancient Greek, and ſome after them, here take it; but the reſemblance, here uſed, admitteth not that. In the next place, therefore, the word doth ſignifie, ſometime, a branch, or bough, in general; becauſe it ſucketh, and draws the ſap and moyſture, as milk, from the root, or ſtock, from whence it ſhoots up, or ſpreads out, Rom. 11.17. ſometime, more ſpecially, ſuch a plant, or twig, as reſembleth for its tenderneſs, and ſmalneſs of growth, ſome ſuckling, or ſucking-child: ſo is it uſed, Job 14. 7. where it is not amiſs rendred, a tender branch; and may well here, (the circumſtances of the place, not well admitting only, but requiring it) a tender plant, or young twig; as we uſe to ſay, a ſucker: for ſo uſe we to term ſuch young plants, as ſhoot up from the root of ſome elder tree, or Stander. See chap.11.1. This ſome underſtand, of the mean beginnings of Chriſts Kingdom; though afterward, wonderfully thriving, and proſpering, Mat.13.31,32. Mar.4. 27-32. Others, rather of Chriſt himſelf. See chap.11.1.

—and as a root out of a dry ground.] By root, ſome underſtand here, a ſprig, ſprouting out, or ſpringing up from a root; as chap.11.10. Rev.5.5. but it may be here taken in its ordinary notion; the word, ſprig, or twig, or plant, being ſupplyed from the former branch, as is not unuſual. See on chap.51.8. and ſo the words may be rendred; and as, or, even as (as ch.1.6.& 40.30.) the twig, or plant of a root, that riſeth out of a dry ground. Heb. a ground of drought, or drineſs, as Pſal.63.1. & 68.6. where it is ſtrange (ſaith the Jewiſh Commenter) that tree, or herb, ſhould take root; and much more unlikely, that it ſhould thrive, and bear fruit, as this plant was to do; Chap.52.13. ver.10. By this dry ground, ſome underſtand the Virgin Mary, Chriſts Mother, in regard of hope of iſſue, while ſhe ſhould ſo continue, as ſuch. See chap.56.3. Luk.1.34. Others, of the decayed ſtock of David, and mean Family of Jeſſe, that then ſeemed to be as a dry tree, or dead trunk of a tree rather; as being reduced to a far lower eſtate, then it was in at firſt. See chap.11.1. But I ſuppoſe we need not appropriate this limb of the collation, unto either of theſe, albeit, the conſideration of the mean, and low ſtate and condition of both thoſe, (Joſeph the Virgins husband being alſo taken in to them) come within compaſs of that, which is here aimed at; to wit, the mean condition of our Saviour, which made him ſo deſpicable in the eyes of his own people, Luk.1.48.& 2.4.& 3.23. Mat.13.55. Mar.6.3. It is ſufficient, that by this reſemblance is intimated, ſuch a poor, and bare condition, without ſightly ſhew or ſtate, as might well be compared to ſome ſorry plant, that had, with much ado, ſhot up, and got above ground, from ſome, almoſt, ſapleſs root, in ſome ſuch waſte and waterleſs place. See Jer.17.6.

he hath no form, nor comelineſs.] The former word applied to a plant, ſeems to import the ſightlineſs, or comelineſs of a plant, or tree, in regard of the trunk, and body of it, its ſhape, proportion, ſtraightneſs, ſmoothneſs, well colouredneſs, and the like; for it comes of a word, that ſignifies, to delineate, draw out, or portray ought, in its due ſhape and lineaments, Joſh.15.9,11,& 19.13. chap.44.23. and applied to mankind, or woman-kind, ſignifies a perſon, well compoſed, and complexioned, well faced and featured, or well proportioned and ſhaped, Gen.29.17.& 36.6. ſo it is uſed alſo of beaſts, Gen.41.2. where, with its epithet, it is rendred, well-favoured; and might as well be, well featured, and fat: fatneſs bettering the feature of a beaſt, as leanneſs defaceth it; the latter ſeems to have reference, in plants, to that ſightlineſs of them, that proceedeth from the leaves, and bloſſoms, and kays, and fruits, or other like verdure, wherewith ſuch are wont to be arrayed and adorned. So it is uſed, Lev.23.40. where they are enjoyned at the feaſt of Tabernacles to take the fruit, (that is, boughs, or branches, as it is explained, Neh.8.15. or, more ſpecially, leafie boughs, and branches, (for ſo the word there uſed, properly ſignifies. See Prov.11.28.) of trees of ſightlineſſe, or goodlineſſe; that is, of ſightly, or goodly trees, (as it is there rendred, of ſuch trees, as were thick with leaves, and twigs, as in both places it is afterward expounded) to make them booths of. And hence applyed to beaſts, it is attributed to ſuch, as are furniſhed, and garniſhed with goodly and ſtately heads or horns, Deut.33.17. given to men, or women, it is uſed of ſuch, as are attired & decked with goodly and gorgeous apparel, Chap.63.1. Ezek.16.10-14. where the word is alſo uſed. Hence thoſe ſpeeches in the Proverbs; In the multitude of people, is the ſightlineſs of a King, Prov.14.28. as if he had ſaid, not ſo much, in his rich and royal robes, as in the numerouſneſs of his ſubjects; and Prov.20.29. the bravery of young men is their ſtrength; and the ſightlineſs of old men is the gray-head; that is, vigour and valour, ſetteth out, and adorneth the one; and his gray-hairs, the other; more then fine, and gay apparel doth either. Now leaves and verdure, are to plants, as veſtments and attire, unto man, or woman. Howbeit, ſome of the Rabbines, on Gen.29.17. where beauty, in two diſtinct reſpects, is given unto Rachel, and uſe made of theſe two words, by the former, underſtand the feature, or compoſure of the face, by the other, the clearneſs of the complexion or countenance. But I ſuppoſe them not to be ſo ſtrictly here taken. Howſoever, the mean eſtate of the Meſſias, void of all ſhew and luſtre, that is wont to draw mens eyes after it, is here very pithily and pregnantly, ſet forth, and deciphered, by the reſemblance of ſuch a plant, as hath neither height, nor ſtrength, nor comely ſhape, nor leaves, or verdure, to make it any way ſightly, or deſireable. Or, if it ſhall be deemed, that in the former branch onely, ſome plant is alluded unto the perſon of man rather in this latter; ſuch a party is here intimated, as for perſonage and ſtate, may be compared unto ſuch a plant, as by ſuch notions hath been deſcribed. See chap.1.30.

and when we ſhall ſee him, there is no beauty that we ſhould deſire him] Heb. and we ſhall ſee him, and no ſight (or, ſightlineſſe, for ſo the word ſoundeth, having an elegant conſonance, with the term of ſeeing, whence it is derived, Chap.52.14. and comprehendeth both the former) is, (to wit, in him; a defect of the pronoun, as Deut.8.12. Chap.35.9. the like ſyntax, ſee Prov.4.23. Chap.37.9,16.) or, (as it may be rendred, by ſupply from the former member, as Gen.1.16. Chap.52.6.) we ſhall not ſee any ſightlineſſe in him; and we ſhall deſire him, for, that we ſhould deſire him: as Chap.40.25. Mal.1.9. that is, for which, or in regard whereof, we ſhould have any deſire or affection unto him: neither is there any need, as ſome would, to ſupply the negative from the former branch, as Pſal.9.18. Prov.30.3. rendring the words, and we ſhall not deſire him; there being as much implyed without it. He that is ſtyled, the deſire of all nations, Hagg.2.7. (whence ſome are of opinion, that Machomed, or Mahommed, borrowed his name, that he might be deemed as another Meſſias) and who much better then Daniel, might be termed, a man of deſires, Dan.10.11,19. having all deſireable things that can be; yea, all deſireableneſs, treaſured up in him, Col.2.3,9. in true beauty, and excellency, far exceeding and ſurpaſſing, not the ſons of men only, Pſal.45.2,7. but the Angels themſelves, Heb.1.4. yet appears ſo ſtript, and deveſted of all ſhew of any ſuch matter, Phil.2.6,7,8. that his own people, when they ſee him, can diſcern nothing at all ſightly, or deſireable in him. See Chap.52.14.

V. 3. He is deſpiſed, and rejected of men] It was not enough to ſay of him, that he was not deſired, ver.2. but he addeth further now, that he was, as ſome, not baſe only and deſpicable, but even vile, and abominable creature, both deſpiſed, and rejected. See Chap.49.7. deſpiſed; as of Jeconiah, Jer.22.28. rejected of men: or, as ſome, taking the word for a noun, a rejection of men; the abſtract for the concrete; as 1 Cor.4.13. But I conceive it rather to be a participle, found entire, Ezek.3.27. but here contracted; becauſe it reſteth on the word adjoyned to it: and it is not amiſs rendred by our Tranſlators, rejected of men; that is, as one of the Jewiſh Commenters; either more abject then any man, as Chap.52.14. (and ſo there ſhould be a want of the prepoſition there uſed, as there is alſo, Chap.20.7. & 32.2. and that in this very notion alſo, Chap.65.5.) or, one ſevered, and caſt out from the company and ſociety of men; as ſcarce deemed worthy the name of a man, Pſal.22.6. and unworthy, therefore, to converſe with men, or to have any communion with them. See of Paul, Act.22.22. and this latter fitteth well with the Hebrew; for it is word for word, leaving of men, or, ceaſing from men: as one that cannot be admitted to any ſociety with them: the condition of the leper, Levit.13.46. 2 Chr.26.21. deemed in that regard, as dead, Num.12.10,12,14. See Pſal.31.11,12. & 88.4,5-8. So rather, then as one, the laſt, or, loweſt of men; as Paul of himſelf, the laſt, and leaſt of the Apoſtles; yea the leaſt; or, (as the word imports, compoſed of a two-fold degree of compariſon) leſſe then the leaſt of the Saints; not worthy to be called an Apoſtle, 1 Cor.15.8,9. Eph.3.8. ſo here, as we would ſay the very liſt, or fag-end of mankind; one, at whom the nature, and name of man ends; ſo mean, and ſo low, that the nature of man can hardly deſcend lower, and may therefore ſeem ſcarce worthy the name of a man. See Pſal.22.6. and what Agur of himſelf, Prov.30.2. But this ſeems to ſtrain ſomewhat too far. Howbeit, Chriſt of himſelf ſaith, that he was to be made nought-worth, or, nothing, Mark 9.12.

a man of ſorrows;] Not of ſorrow barely; but of ſorrows: not a man full of ſorrow, or, filled with ſorrow only; as the Pſalmiſt ſpeaks, Our ſoul is exceedingly filled with ſcorn, and contempt, Pſal.123.3,4. but, a man of ſorrows, as the Pſalmiſt elſewhere; My ſoul is full of evils; with evil of all ſorts, or all ſorts of evil, Pſal.88.3. and as Solomon, a man of wicked devices, Prov.12.2. a man, not wholly ſet upon, and addicted unto evil, only; ſuch an one as Moſes deſcribeth, Gen.6.5. all the device of whoſe heart, (or whatſoever he deviſeth) is all day long only, (that is, continually nothing but) evil: but a man made up of evil, or wicked devices of all ſorts; that deviſeth nothing but evil, and refraineth no device that is evil, Pſal.36.4. as if he conſiſted of nothing but ſuch: ſo a man of ſorrows; of ſorrows of all ſorts; ſo full of them, that he may ſeem to conſiſt wholly of them; to be made of no other mould: nothing but ſorrow to be ſeen in him, (ſee Chap.1.6.) and variety of ſorrows, ſorrows of all ſorts; ſuch ſorrows, as for our ſake he ſuſtained, and for our ſins, ver.4,5.

and acquainted with grief] The participle here uſed, is by the Jewiſh Criticks diverſly expounded. Some of them would have it ſignifie cut off, or deſtroyed with infirmity, or grief. So they ſuppoſe the word whereof it cometh, to be taken, Judg.8.16. Prov.10.9. & 14.33. Jer.31.19. Ezek.19.7. but theſe places are not ſo pregnant; and others of them, underſtand them all in another notion: the moſt of them therefore herein depart from them; and expound it according to the ordinary uſe, and ſenſe of the verb; ſome, known by infirmity, well known, or commonly known; to be much ſubject thereunto, and exerciſed therewith; one ſo encompaſſed with infirmities, as, Heb.5.2. that they cannot but appear, and be ſeen in him, by all that behold him; thus they take it, becauſe the word is in a paſſive form; and is by moſt ſo taken, Deut. 1. 13,15. but thoſe paſſive forms have ſometime an active, or a a neutral notion; as in other languages, alſo, ſometime the like: and ſo others of them, and moſt of ours, take this here; rendring it, one knowing of infirmity; as it ſoundeth word for word; that is, knowing it experimentally: as it is ſaid, he that knew not ſin, 2 Cor.5.21. that neither had drawn ought of it from any other, nor done any himſelf: and as the tree inhibited, was called the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, Gen. 2.9,17. not, as the devil ſuggeſted, becauſe the fruit thereof eaten, had a ſingular power to give man a notional knowledge of good and evil, which before he had not; but becauſe, upon the eating of it, contrary to Gods command, man ſhould come to have an experimental knowledge of evil, as well as of good, which before he had not: yea, and in ſome ſort, of the benefit and excellency of good alſo, being by the want, better; by the loſs of it (which is yet more) beſt known, ſo we uſe to ſay, ſuch an one never knew what miſery meant; having lived free from it; and, a man never knoweth what health is, until he have had a fit of ſickneſs: thus it might be rendred, knowing of infirmity; as, men knowing of the ſea, 1 King. 9.27. and, knowing of the times, Eſt.1.13. and, knowing of good and evil, Gen.3.5. (for ſo the words are in thoſe places) that is, skilful in thoſe things; and as we uſe to ſay, a knowing man, for one skilful in ought: or, to fit it better to the Hebrew form, a man skilled in infirmity; as both the ancient Greek, and ſome of ours, alſo, take the word for skilfull, or skilled, in the place of Deuteronomy before pointed to: or, as the word taught, c.54.13. doth ſomtime imply, not only learned, & ſo skilled in ought; but one alſo expert, or experienced in, & accuſtomed, or enured unto ought, Jer, 2.24. & 3. 23. and the word of learning is uſed by the Apoſtle, both of himſelf, Phil. 4.11,12. and of Chriſt, Heb.5.8. ſo the word here may be taken, one enured to infirmity, or grief, and accuſtomed thereunto; which by ours is very fitly rendred, acquainted therewith; as we uſe to ſay of thoſe, who not only know one another by hear-ſay, or by ſight; but that have familiarly converſed together. Or, laſtly, as ſome render the word, both in Moſes, and here, known of it: as thoſe are ſaid to be well known of us, that we have been frequently converſant, and familiarly acquainted with, Hoſ.5.5. Amos 3.2. which, as it comes neereſt to the ordinary acception, and conſtruction of the terms in the original, ſo is it the ſame, in effect, with the laſt before propoſed. Howſoever, the notice, or acquaintance, is attributed to the perſon, in the one; to the affection, in the other: both which, in ſubſtance, come all to one, and import thus much; That Chriſt, and humane griefs, and infirmities, were to have great, and much acquaintance, the one with the other; he having had in his perſon, much experience of them; and they conſtantly keeping together with him: a great comfort to all thoſe that have intereſt in him, Heb.4.15.

grief] The word here uſed, (as the root alſo from whence it ſprings) hath, in the firſt place, a notion of diſeaſe, or ſickneſs, Chap.38.1,9. in the next place, (becauſe ſickneſs uſually bringeth pain, and weakneſs with it,) they are either of them uſed, ſometime, in a notion of vexation, and grief; as Eccl.5.17. & 6.2. Jer.5.3. Hoſ.5.13. ſometime, in a notion of infirmity, and weakneſs; as Judg.16.7,11,17. Chap. 14.10. and of either of theſe, proceeding as well from any affliction of body, or mind, as from any natural diſeaſe; in either of which latter notions, it may well be here taken: not ſo fitly in the firſt; becauſe we read not of any peculiar diſeaſe, ſuch as we uſually appropriate that term unto, that our Saviour was troubled with, all his life: and by ſome of the ancients, it is not improbably deemed, that he was not exerciſed with any ſuch; it being not ſo ſuitable for him, to have any diſeaſe hanging on him, that ſhewed his power conſtantly, in the healing of others; that it might not be objected to him, as in another kind, and upon another occaſion, it was; Phyſitian heal thy ſelf, Luk.4.23. infirmity, for, infirmities, collectively; as Heb.5.2.

and we hid as it were our faces from him:] The words in Hebrew are both diverſly read, and diverſly reſolved. For ſome make the firſt word a participle; as one hiding, or, one that hideth: and the participle, in that flexion, is very commonly ſo framed. Others make it a noun verbal, as an hiding; and ſome verbals of that form are found. Again, ſome render the laſt, the particle with the pronoun, from us; and that, not a few embrace. Others, from him; and ſo the pronoun in that form, is moſt frequently uſed; yet in the other notion, alſo, not unuſual, Gen.3.22. Pſal.2.3. Hence ariſe variety of verſions; Some render the words, and he hid, as it were the face (that is, his face, the pronoun ſupplyed, as Chap.59.2.) from us; or, he is as one, that hideth his face. Heb. the face from him, or of him: but of this latter conſtruction, I find no ſuitable example. But whether of theſe two wayes, we read, or render the words, they import ſuch a condition of dejection, and confuſion, and of affection thence ariſing, as makes a man, like one aſhamed of himſelf, to cover his face, as not enduring to look up, or to be ſeen, and to ſhun the ſight of others: and ſo the meaning ſhould be, he is one, who, as conſcious to himſelf, either of the deformity, and loathſomeneſs of his perſon, or of his deſpicable and dejected eſtate, hideth his face from humane ſight: the one was the lepers caſe, Levit.13.45. the other, Babylons, Chap.47.3,5. and hence, together with the help of another word in the next verſe, have the Talmudiſts coined us a tale, how that one of their great Maſters met with their Meſſias, at Rome, where he found him, lying among the lepers. But others render the words, and as an hiding of faces, or, of the face, (for the Word, though of a plural form, yet is ordinarily of a ſingular notion; as Prov.25.23. Chap. 59. 2.) from him; or, as he, from whom one would hide the face, or, his face; as before: that is, as one, whom men hide their faces from: this ſenſe our verſion follows: and following it, it may ſeem that it ſhould rather be rendred; and as one, from whom the face is hid, or, mens faces are hid: for according to this reading, the words are more general, and indefinite; there being no our, in the text. Now hiding the face, proceedeth, ſometime, from a reverent reſpect, and awful dread, Exod. 3.6. 1 King. 19. 13. ſometime, from ſome glorious ſplendor, that dazeleth the eye-ſight, Chap.6.2. Exod.34.30,33. 2 Cor.3.13. ſometime, from ſome ſtrange paſſion of love, that with a kind of raviſhment, affecteth the lover, upon the ſight of his beloved, and caſteth him into fainting fits, Cant. 6. 5. compared with Chap.4.9. (for they palpably abuſe, both that Scripture, and the Churches eyes, that is, her teachers, who thence would force a malignity intimated in them,) ſometime from pitty, and compaſſion; when men cannot endure to ſee ſome perſon dear unto them, or any of the ſame nature with them, cruelly dealt with, or otherwiſe, in ſome lamentable condition, Eſt.8.6. ſometime, out of extream hatred, or at leaſt, out of diſpleaſure, indignation, or wrath, 2 Sam. 14.8. Pſal. 10.1. & 27.9. Chap.54.8. & 59.2. ſometime, out of neglect, and diſregard; as from one, whom we liſt not to look after, Chap.58.7. ſometime, out of deteſtation, as from ſome vile, loathſome, abhorred, and abominable creature, whom we cannot brook, or abide to behold, Chap.1.13,14,15. and to this purpoſe, one of the Jewiſh Commenters telleth us, that there is a certain people, that cannot endure the ſight of a Jew, but turn the face from him, whereſoever they meet with any of them. But whether that be, or ever were ſo, or no, is not much material; not at all, to this text. Howbeit, in this laſt notion, wherewith ſome alſo take in two of the next before it, I conceive the words may well be here underſtood. See Chap.49.7. yet not concurring with thoſe that attribute this, hiding of the face, unto pitty and compaſſion; becauſe it croſſeth the main drift of the whole context: nor conſenting with them, that ſuppoſe the covering of mens faces condemned to dye, to be here pointed at; as Chap.25.7. Eſt. 7. 8. To which purpoſe, they draw in alſo the blind-folding of Chriſt, Luk.22.64. but that is the covering of the parties own face by others, not the hiding of others from him. Howbeit, all things well weighed, I encline rather to the firſt, both reading, and rendring; becauſe it both fitteth well the ſcope of the place, as importing a deſpicable and ſhamefull condition, and that of one, who ſeemed to be deveſted of that magnificence, which formerly he had been poſſeſſed of. See Joh.17.5. Phil.2. 6, 7,8. Heb. 12.2. and floweth moſt freely, without any force at all, from the terms uſed in the text.

he was deſpiſed,] Or, he is deſpiſed, as in the beginning of the verſe, Pſal.22.6. repeated again for the more emphaſis. So chap. 14.26,27. Pſal.68.22.

and we eſteemed him not,] Or, eſteem him not; (Phil.2.7. he made himſelf of no eſteem.) or, regard him not; as the word is rendred, ch.33.8. he regards no man, Pſal.144.3. the great contempt that ſhould be offered unto Chriſt, by the Jewiſh Nation, being expreſſed here in a form of extenuation, but to be conceived in a notion of exaggeration; as if it had been ſaid more fully, We ſhal not only, when he cometh amongſt us, afford him no reſpect, or regard; but ſhall very reproachfully, and diſgracefully abuſe him. See the like manner of ſpeech, Prov.10.2. Treaſure wickedly gotten ſhall not profit; that is, ſhall do a man much miſchief: and, the father of a fool ſhall not rejoyce; he ſhall have no joy, but much grief of him, Prov. 17.21. and, It is not good to have reſpect of perſons in judgment; that is, indeed, it is ſtark naught, Prov.24.23. and, If any man love not the Lord Jeſus, let him be anathema, maranatha; that is, accurſed, without revocation, irrevocably, and irrecoverably accurſt, 1 Cor.16. 22. a text, by ſome, extreamly centred; meant of ſuch, as out of meer malice alone, againſt knowledg, oppoſe Chriſt, and Chriſtianity; ſuch as our Saviour ſpeaks of, Matth. 12. 32. and the Apoſtle, Heb. 6. 6. and 10. 26,27,29.

V. 4. Surely he hath born our griefs, and carryed our ſorrows:] He took upon him, not our nature alone, but the infirmities alſo of it; and became liable to ſuch ſorrows of affliction, and pains, as mans ſinful nature is expoſed and ſubject unto, Rom. 8.3. Heb. 4.15, ver. 3. Or, the griefs and ſorrows, that he is ſaid to have been ſo abundantly exerciſed with, ver. 3. (for theſe words have apparent reference to the very ſame there uſed) he ſuſtained for us: and are therefore called ours; becauſe procured to him, by our ſins; and ſuſtained by him, for the diſcharge of our ſins, unto the guilt whereof, out of love to us, undertaken by him, they were deſervedly due, Heb. 9.29. 1 Pet. 2.24. & 3. 8. Some would have the former word rendred, he took away, or, hath taken away our griefs; that is, our ſins, the procuring cauſe of them, together with the griefs themſelves, the effect of them: And it is true, that the word ſignifies, ſometime, to take away, as Job 7.21. and that our Saviour is ſaid to take away the ſins of the world, Joh. 1.29. but the ſequel of the context carryeth it another way; tending to ſhew here, rather the ground, and cauſe of his ſufferings, then the end, or iſſue of them. This paſſage the Evangeliſt makes uſe of, in relating Chriſts practice, in the healing of corporal infirmities, not ſo much, as I conceive, thereby intimating, that thoſe bodily maladies, and the cure thereof, was, (as ſome would have it) a type of thoſe diſeaſes of the ſoul, that Chriſt came principally to free men from, and his deliverance of them from the ſame: but that by his tender pitty, and compaſſionate affection towards perſons ſo affected, and afflicted, he ſhewed that he had aſſumed, together with our nature, the infirmities of the ſame; and had therefore a lively fellow-feeling of thoſe pains and griefs, that did from the ſame proceed, in others.

yet we did eſteem him ſtricken, ſmitten of God, and afflicted.] The reaſon why they ſo much diſ-eſteemed Chriſt; to wit, becauſe they made no other account, but that all thoſe afflictions that befell him, were, by God, for his own evil deſerts, inflicted upon him, out of a diſaffection to him, Phil. 22.7,8. & 71.11. Mat. 27. 39-43.

yet] Heb. and; as chap. 50.7.

we eſteemed] The ſame word, by an elegant antanaclaſis, is here repeated, that the Prophet had made uſe of in the verſe before-going; but in a different notion here, from that there: they did not eſteem him, that is, made any account of him; becauſe they eſteemed, that is, accounted him to be one out of grace and favour with God; yea, to be one purſued by him, with thoſe evils, for his ſins. The very like conceit, that Jobs friends had of him, for his ſufferings, Job 4.7,8. & 8.4. & 22. 5-11.

ſtricken, ſmitten, and afflicted] Three ſeveral terms uſed, to expreſs the greatneſs, and grievouſneſſe of his ſufferings; as three other of neer nature, being joyned together, to intimate the eminent, and incomparable height of his enſuing honour, chap. 52. 13.

ſtricken] Or, plagued; ſo it is rendred, Pſal. 73. 14. now becauſe the noun hence deduced, is uſed of the ſtroke, or plague of leproſie, Lev. 13.3,9.20. and very oft in that chapter; hence the Rabbines, ſome of them, abuſe this place, to prove that their dotage before touched; that the Meſſias ſhould ſometime be a Leper: and the old Latine rendreth it, as a Leper: which yet may bear a warrantable ſenſe. See ver. 3. But that of the Talmudiſts, is a moſt ridiculous fancy, ſuch as their rapſodies are fraught with, not a few: the word is general, comprehending any ſtroke, plague, or affliction whatſoever: and they may as well prove, that Aſaph, the Author of that 73. Pſalm, was for a long time a Leper, from the paſſage therein pointed to, as from this, that the Meſſias was ſo, or ever ſhould ſo be. See ver. 8.

ſmitten of God] That is, as ſome would have it, moſt grievouſly ſmitten; it being the manner of Scripture, by ſuch forms, to expreſſe the eminent greatneſſe of any thing; as, Sinners of God for grievous ſinners, Gen. 13.13. and, a ſleep of God, for a deep ſleep, 1 Sam. 26.12. See Jer. 2.31. But that he was grievouſly ſmitten, was conſpicuous enough; nor did they deem amiſſe therein; their miſtake was, that they thought him thus handled by God, in way of vengeance for his ſins. So they wickedly and impiouſly deemed of Chriſt, when they ſaw what grievous things he ſuffered. And it is but an idle foppery of ſome popiſh Writers, to require the words to be read, God ſmitten; as intimating the deity of Chriſt; becauſe the word, of, is not expreſly in the text: when as they cannot be ignorant, who know any thing in the Hebrew, that the courſe of the conſtruction, of noun with noun, doth neceſſarily imply it. Beſide, that this reading directly croſſeth the Prophets intention; as intimating, that the Jewiſh people ſhould acknowledge Chriſt, notwithſtanding his ſufferings, to be God; who, on the contrary, therefore condemned him, as guilty of impiety and blaſphemy, and were enraged againſt him for it, becauſe he profeſſed himſelf to be the Son of God, one with the Father, and equal to God, Mat. 26.53-56. Joh. 5. 18. & 10.31-33. & 19.7. and afflicted] To wit, by God, as before; for that have all the three words reference unto: as if all that befell him, came not from mans malice againſt him, but Gods juſt wrath and diſpleaſure.

V. 5. But he was wounded for our tranſgreſſions,] Heb. And; the copulative, in an adverſative notion, as Chap. 36. 12. & 40.31. The right ground, and true cauſe of Chriſts ſuffering, is, in this verſe, and thoſe following, related, in way of oppoſition, to that vain and fond conceit, that his own people had of him, and them.

wounded] So both the ancient Greek, and old Latine, render the word here uſed; and ſome, ſmitten, to have it anſwer to the latter end of verſe 4. which comes, much in effect, to the ſame; as deſcending from a word, that ſignifies, to ſmite, to wound, to thruſt thorow, to ſlay. Others, render it, polluted, or, profaned; uſed, and dealt with, as ſome common, vile, or profane thing; as deſcending from the ſame root, but in another notion: whereof ſee Pſal. 89.39,44,45. chap. 43.28. & 47. 6. but the word deduced from that root, in whether notion of the twain, is ſomewhat different from that, that is here uſed, as may be ſeen, Ezek. 32.26. I ſuppoſe, therefore, that the better reading is that in the margent of our Bibles; He was tormented, or pained: for the word comes regularly from a root, that ſignifies properly, to be in pain; as women, or other creatures, that bring forth with pain, are wont to be; at the time of their travel: ſo Pſal. 51.5. where, as the one word, there uſed, hath in it a notion of the heat of delight, in conception; as Gen. 29.39,41. ſo the other, of ſharpneſſe of pain, in production; as Job 39.1,2,3, & 29.9. and it is uſed, commonly, of any grievous torment, or pain, proceeding from vexation, affliction, or fear, Job 19,20. Prov. 26.10. chap. 13.8. & 26.18. & 51.9. Jer. 5.3. and this word, the Prophet, delighting much in conſonancies, may ſeem the rather to have made choice of here; becauſe it comes very neer, in ſound, to the word rendred grief, ver. 3,4.

for] Heb. from, that is, becauſe of; as Pſal. 12.5. chap. 48.4. Obad. 10. as importing the principal cauſe of Chriſts ſufferings, mans ſins, Rom. 4. 25. 1 Cor. 15. 3. ſo in the next branch.

our tranſgreſſions] Or, defections, revolts, (as ſome not amiſſe render it, both here, and chap. 59.12,13.) or, rebellions; for ſo the word it comes of, is commonly rendred, 2 King. 1.1. & 3.5, 7. & 8,20,22.

he was bruiſed for our iniquities:] The word uſed again, ver. 10. ſignifies properly, to beat, or break, or cruſh to pieces, or grind to powder. See chap. 3.15. uſed ordinarily, of grievous oppreſſion and affliction; yea, ſuch as tends to, and ends, if not ſtaid, in deſtruction, Job 4.19. & 6.9. & 19.2. & 22.9. Pſal. 72.4. & 90.3. & 94.5. Lam. 3.34.

the chaſtiſement of our peace was upon him] He was chaſtiſed to procure our peace, by removal of our ſins, that ſet God and us aſunder, chap. 59.2. the guilt thereof, being diſcharged with the price of his bloud, 1 Pet. 1.18,19. and to reconcile us unto him, Rom. 3.25. & 5.1,10. 2 Cor. 5.19,21. Eph. 2.13-17. Col. 1.19,20. 1 Pet. 3.18.

and with his ſtripes are we healed.] Heb. by his ſtripe, or bruiſe: for the word properly ſignifies, the mark, or print of a ſtripe, or ſtroke, remaining upon ſome part of the body, black and blue, by gathering, and ſetling together of the bloud there; from whence it hath this name, Exod. 21. 25. Prov. 20. 30. and the ſame ſignifies the Greek word, whereby it is expreſſed, 1 Pet. 2.24. But it is uſed alſo for any ſore, and grievous ſtroke, or hurt; ſuch as thoſe, by which the ſame is wont to be produced, Gen. 4.23. See chap. 1.6. Jer. 30.12. and ſuch, no doubt, our Saviour, as well in the propriety of the term, as otherwiſe alſo, bare in his body, being not buffeted only, but ſcourged, as he was, Mat. 26.67. & 27.16.

V. 6. All we, like ſheep, have gone aſtray;] In theſe words is ſhewed wherein thoſe iniquities, and ſins of ours, for which our Saviour ſuffered, do conſiſt.

All we,] By nature, none of us excepted, Pſal. 14.3. Rom. 3. 12,23. Eph. 2.2,3.

like ſheep,] Or, like loſt ſheep; as more expreſly, Pſal. 119. 176. So pluſters, for cluſters leaſt, chap. 24.13.

have gone aſtray] As ſheep ſtray, ſometime ſcared and ſcattered, by dogs, or wolves, or thieves, or the like, Joh. 10.12. or forced to ſeek abroad, for want of paſture, Gen. 47.4. Jer. 14.5. ſometime, again of themſelves, out of a ſilly diſpoſition, Luk. 15.4. ſo it is with men alſo, in either reſpect, reſembled by ſheep. There is a ſtraying, or wandring, enforced, when they are driven, by violence, from their wonted places of abode. Of which, ſee Pſal. 119.176. Jer. 50.17. Ezek. 34.4-6. Zach. 13. 7. Mat. 26.31. Mar. 14. 27. But this is not the ſtraying here ſpoken of; and there is a voluntarie ſtraying (they are not willing onely, but love to wander, Jer. 14.10.) a wandring out of ſelf-will; not a corporal, but a ſpiritual ſtraying; by which, men, of themſelves, wander from God, and go aſtray from the way of truth, and life; from thoſe ways and courſes, that God hath preſcribed them in his Word; and directeth them unto, by his Spirit. Of which, ſee Pſal. 14.3. & 53. 2. & 58.3. & 119.67. Rom.3.12. 1 Pet.2 25. Jam.5.20. and this is the ſtraying here ſpoken of.

we have turned every one to his own way.] We have turned the face (to wit, away from God, and his ways, and) looked after every one his own way. So the Hebrew word uſed, both here, and chap.56.11. (a parallel place) as alſo, Jer.2.20. (where the notation of it is) properly ſignifieth: and becauſe in ſo doing, the face, and whole body with it, are turned about; hence it cometh to paſs, that the word is alſo uſed, for to turn, or to return, as Num.14.25. Deut.1.7,40. & 2.3. & 16.7. See Deut. 31.18,20. Jer.7.24.

every one to his own way] So Chap.56.11. All agree in turning aſide from the right way; but they herein diſagree, in that each one hath a by-way of his own, which they turn unto; ſome running after one luſt, or vice, or evil courſe, or idol, ſome after another, Chap. 55.7. & 57.17. Eccleſ. 11.9. 2 King.17.30,31. Jer.2.28. & 11.13.

and the Lord hath laid on him the iniquity of us all. Heb. hath made the iniquity of us all to meet on him; or, to light, or, fall on him, rather. Some of the Jewiſh Doctors, to divert this place from being underſtood of Chriſts ſatisfaction, by his ſufferings, made for ſinners; becauſe the word here found, is ſometime uſed of interceſſion by prayer, as Jer.7.16. and here alſo, ver. 12. would fain turn the word that way; as if the party here ſpoken of, were, by prayer, only to have mediated, and pacified Gods wrath, for the ſins of ſome other, as Moſes did ſometime for his people, Exod. 32. 12, 14. Num.14.19,20. Pſal.106.23. and becauſe the word would not ſound handſomly, if it ſhould be ſaid here, the Lord interceded, or prayed; as it is afterward; he interceded, or prayed; they would have it rendred; the Lord made him to intercede, or, to pray: But neither produce they any inſtance of the word ſo uſed; nor will the ſyntax admit, or endure ſuch a ſenſe: For what a ſtrange piece of non-ſenſe were this; the Lord made him to intercede the iniquity of us all upon him? and both the words before, ver. 4,5. and thoſe alſo following, ver. 7, 10, 12. do evidently hold out to any eye, not wilfully winking, that ſatisfaction was made to Gods juſtice, and his wrath pacified, towards thoſe, that had intereſt therein; not by interceſſion, and prayer only; but by penalties, and ſufferings. The word, therefore, is not amiſs rendred by our Interpreters, where they give it, word for word in the margent; the Lord made to meet on him, and it may well be, to meet with him; as our Engliſh phraſe is wont to expreſs the like. So Chap. 47. 3. I will not meet thee, as a man; and, the revenger of bloud, ſhall ſlay the murtherer, where he meeteth with him, Num.39.19,21. (as Exod. 23. 4. if thou meet with thine enemies ox, or aſſe.) Or, where he lighteth on him; as, he lighted on a place, Gen.28. 11. which place, ſome of the Jewiſh Maſters themſelves, alſo, refer us to, for the notion of the word, in this place: and ſo, here, it may more fitly be rendred; he made the iniquity of us all to light upon him: as, the arm of God is ſaid (though another word be there) to light upon Aſſur, Chap.30.30. or, which I conceive to be the fitteſt expreſſion; he made it all to fall on him: for ſo the word is, in the firſt form, very frequently rendred. fall upon him, 2 Sam.1.15. 1 King.2.29,31. and, fall upon the Prieſts, 1 Sam.22.18. and, he fell upon the Prieſts, ver.20. and, he fell upon him, 1 King.2.25,34,46. and, he fell upon two men better then himſelf, 1 King.2.32. God made it to fall on him, as man is wont to fall in hoſtile manner, with a weapon, on his fo. God inflicted on him, whatſoever was requiſite, to the ſatisfying of his juſtice, for all the ſins of all his Elect ones, even of all that truſt in him, Joh.3.14,15,16. & 11.50-52. 2 Cor.5.14,15. Heb.2.9,14,15.

the iniquity] Not the ſtain, or taint it ſelf of ſin; but, as the Jewiſh Doctors themſelves, well expound it, the guilt and penalty of it; a portion of puniſhment, in ſome regard, proportionable, to whatſoever was due unto their ſins, and to themſelves for the ſame. So is the word taken, Gen. 4. 13. Lev.20.17,19,20. 1 Sam. 28.10. Lam.4. 6. which two latter places, the Jewiſh Commenters here point us to. The Greek Interpreters render this paſſage much in the ſame words, that the Apoſtle uſeth, Rom.4.25.

V. 7. He was oppreſſed; and he was afflicted:] A very pregnant place, for the ſatisfaction made by Chriſts ſufferings for our ſins, were it fitly rendred, and rightly underſtood. The words are, word for word; It was exacted, and he anſwered. It was exacted; or, It is exacted; as ſome alſo well render it: that the former word doth properly, and commonly, ſignifie, to exact, cannot be denied. The Jewiſh Commenters, themſelves, obſerve on the place, that it is uſually meant of moneyes; directing us to that place, 2 King. 23.35. he exacted the money. So Chap.58.3. ye exact all your labours; or, as ſome, all your debts: and, of a ſtranger thou mayſt exact it; but not of thy brother, Deut.15.2,3. hence, the name of an exacter, ſo frequent in Scripture, Job 3.17. & 39.7. Chap.3.12. & 9.4. & 14.2. & 60.17. Zach.9.8. & 10. 4. and that it is here a paſſive, the ſame Writers here obſerve. The old Latine rendreth it, He was offered; as if the word were parallel to that other, from whence the Corban cometh, mentioned, Mat.15.5. and ſo the meaning ſhould be, he was made to approach, or offered as a ſacrifice, ver. 10. But this verſion ariſeth from a two-fold miſtake: For, firſt, the word here uſed, and that other, of approaching, differ, as our Jewiſh Criticks tell us; as Sibboleth, and Shibboleth, Judg.12.6. And ſecondly, this latter, in the paſſive form, carryeth always a neutrall; neither an active, nor paſſive ſenſe: it ſignifies, to approach; not to offer, or make to approach; not yet to be made to approach, or to be offered. So Gen.33.7. Exod.20.21. Chap. 29. 13. The word, therefore, is the ſame rather, with that, 1 Sam.13.6. where it is ſaid, the people, being in a ſtrait, were preſſed, or diſtreſſed: and ſo alſo, Chap.14.24. ſave that there it is uſed, more metaphorically, here properly: there, perſonally; here, imperſonally; as the words of the text evidently ſhew: For there is neither noun, nor pronoun, before the firſt word of the verſe; but a pronoun expreſly before the next: which evidently controlleth their conceit, who expound it of the perſon, from whom it was exacted, and render the words, He was exacted; which yet they expound, it was demanded, or required of no other, but of him: the ſenſe is ſound, but the conſtruction harſh, and not ſorting well with the frame of the context. This the Rabbine himſelf ſaw, and thereupon expounds it; It was exacted, to wit, money, ſaith he, by way of tax, or aſſeſment, as 2 King.23.34,35. and he was afflicted, namely, the people, of whom it was required, by ſtripes, or ſtrokes, being beaten, becauſe they paid not the ſums required of them; as the people in Egypt were beaten, when they could not make up the full tale of brick, Exod.5.14. But the great Doctor had no regard to the current of the context: for that runneth in a conſtant, and continued courſe and tenour, not as ſpeaking of one, and the ſame party or parties, both ſinning and ſuffering, or ſuſtaining penalties, for their own defaults: but as one, ſuffering for the ſins of another, and ſuſtaining grievous penalties, for defaults made, and faults committed, by other perſons. Some of ours therefore reade it; It is exacted, and he is afflicted. Others, It was exacted, and he was afflicted. Or, When it was exacted, he was afflicted. Of which manner of ſyntax, ſee on ver. 2. that is, the penalty due to Gods juſtice, for our ſins, ver.6. was exacted, and he ſuſtained the ſame for us. For that which a learned late Annotator ſuggeſteth, who would have it rendred, he was humble, or humbly ſubmitted himſelf, not opening his mouth; becauſe of Pharao it is ſaid, Exod.10.3. thou refuſeſt to be humbled: Neither doth that place and this, ſuit well the one with the other: (It is one thing to be humbled; another to be humble,) and this Interpretation ſeemeth to decline from the drift of the precedent diſcourſe, whereupon this hath dependance. The words, as formerly read, do ſufficiently confirm the doctrine of ſatisfaction made to Gods juſtice, by Chriſts ſufferings for our ſins. But yet ſome further ſtrength may be, from hence, added thereunto, if we conſider the latter term a little more exactly: For howſoever it be true, that the word, here uſed, do in the paſſive form ſignifie, to be afflicted, or humbled, as Exod.10.3. Pſal.119.107. and ſo in a grave, or weighty form, it is uſed, ver. 4. which this may here ſeem to have reference unto: and that the word uſed in a notion of anſwering, be ſeldome found, but in an active form: yet, as in the notion of affliction, the word is uſed, ſometime, in an active form paſſively, for, to be afflicted; Pſal.116.10. ſo in the notion of anſwering, it is ſometime uſed actively, in the paſſive form; not to be anſwered, either verbally, as Job 11.2. or, really; as Job 19.7. Prov.21.13. but, to anſwer; and that either verbally, or really, alſo. In the former ſenſe, ſome underſtand that place, Pſal.119.167. before I anſwered, (that is, ſay they, before ever I was able to ſpeak, as ver.172. my tongue ſhall anſwer; that is, ſpeak of, thy word;) I went aſtray; as parallel to that, Pſal.58.3. and having reſpect to inbred pravity: but the word ſeemeth to be there, as in an active form, ſo in a paſſive ſenſe; and in a ſignification of affliction, and humiliation, as it is commonly expounded. Howbeit, the word is found elſe-where, in a paſſive form, with an active ſenſe, and that without any queſtion, in the notion of anſwering, Ezek. 14. 4,7. as alſo the word of ſpeaking, is Pſal. 119.13. Ezek.33.30. Mal.3.13,16. And ſomewhat to this purpoſe, an Author of good note expoundeth this text, thus rendring the words; It is exacted, and he undertaketh, (a term that ſome of the Ancients alſo uſe, in the opening of this text) that is, ſaith he, the penalty due to us, was in rigour of juſtice exacted; and he became a ſponſor, or ſurety for us, by undertaking, in our behalf, the diſcharge of it. And though the word, ſaith he, in Hebrew, be not found ſo uſed; yet in Latine, the word reſpondere, that is, to anſwer, comes from ſpondere, dare, that ſignifies to undertake; and the word, to anſwer, in the French tongue, is ſo commonly uſed. Hereunto may be added, that the old Latine ſeems to look this way, that renders the text, He was offered of his own accord; or, becauſe he himſelf would: which verſion, howſoever it fail much, in the former term, as hath already been ſhewed; yet it comes home to us, in the latter word; implying a voluntary undertaking, or engaging of himſelf (ſee Jer. 31. 20.) unto God his Father, in our behalf, as a Surety, (ſo is he termed, Heb. 7. 22.) for the payment of our debt. And, which is yet more then ſo, that albeit, the Hebrew be not found expreſly, and directly uſed for ſuch a ſponſion, or engagement; yet that in this very form, that here it hath, it is twice uſed in the place of Ezekiel, before pointed to; I the Lord will anſwer him (to wit, the man that repairs to me for advice, with an idol in his heart) and again, I will anſwer him by my ſelf; and that in a notion, not of a verbal, but of a real anſwering: and ſo I conceive it is to be taken here, It was exacted, and he anſwered it, (the particle being neceſſarily, as oft elſe-where, ſupplyed; See Chap. 48. 5, 6.) that is, he not only undertook it, but diſcharged it. So we uſe the word commonly in our Engliſh tongue, to anſwer a debt, for, to diſcharge it. And ſo of our Saviour it is moſt true, that he anſwered our debt, and cauſed our bond to be cancelled, that it might not come to be put in ſuit, againſt us, any more again. See Joh. 19. 30. Rom. 4. 25. Col. 2. 14. A ſingular comfort to every ſincere Chriſtian ſoul.

yet he opened not his mouth] Heb. And; But ſo we had it before, ver. 4. and it may well be here retained, if we keep to the received reading of being oppreſſed, and afflicted; as if it were ſaid, having reſpect to his patience, for all the oppreſſions and afflictions, that he ſuſtained for others; and that, in regard of thoſe, by whom he ſuffered them unjuſtly: yet was he ſilent; he neither murmured, or repined, at Gods diſpoſal of things in that manner; nor uſed any railing, or reviling ſpeeches, againſt thoſe that dealt ſo deſpitefully with him, but carryed himſelf calmly, and quietly, under them, Mat. 26. 39, 42. Mar. 14. 36. Joh. 18. 23. 1 Pet. 2. 23. Howbeit, if we admit the ſenſe in the ſecond place propounded, and preſſed, of exacting, and anſwering, that is, undertaking, or diſcharging; the copulative ſhall not need at all to be altered: for the words will well go on in way of connexion to the former; as if it were ſaid, Having an eye to his voluntary obedience, and ſubmiſſion to the Will of his Father, and agreement thereunto; he undertook willingly what his Father required of him, and as willingly, when the time came, underwent it; neither hanging back, or oppoſing ought, in way of contradiction thereunto, when it was by his Father propounded to him, at firſt; nor afterward ſeeking to ſhift it off, when he was to perform what he had engaged himſelf unto, by pleading ought for himſelf, and the releaſment of him, from their moſt unjuſt proceedings, in whoſe hands he then was. See Ch. 50. 5, 6. Matth. 26. 62, 63. & 27. 12, 14. Mar. 14. 60, 61, & 15. 3, 5. Luk. 23. 9. Joh. 10. 18. & 14. 31. & 19. 11. to open the mouth, an uſual form, (the antecedent, put for the conſequent) for, to ſpeak. So Job 3. 1. & 33. 2. Pſal. 78. 2. Prov. 31. 8, 26. ſo to open the lips, Job 32. 20. and on the contrary, not to open the mouth, for, to be ſilent; not to ſay ought, Pſal. 39. 9. Prov. 24. 7.

he is brought as a lamb to the ſlaughter;] The Hebrew word is more general, and ſignifies a ſheep; which word of ours, it comes neer to in ſound: and it is ſo rendred alſo, Act. 8. 32. where this paſſage is related, Pſal. 119. 176. Jer. 50. 17. and yet more largely, leſſer cattell, Chap. 7. 25. as parallel to another word uſed, v. 6. but, as more ſpecially intending, ſheep there, in regard of the ſillineſs thereof; ſo here, in regard of the ordinary number of them, above any ſuch other cattel, brought to the butchery, Pſal. 44. 22. Jer. 12. 3. Zach. 11. 4. Rom. 8. 36. and their quiet carriage, in driving thither: the text may well be rendred, as a ſheep that is led to the ſlaughter, as Jer. 11. 19. As a ſheep, that goeth as quietly to the ſhambles, or the ſlaughter-houſe, as if it were going to the fold, wherein it is uſually lodged; or the field, where it is wont to feed. See Jer. 11. 19.

and as a ſheep before her ſhearers is dumb,] This latter word, whereof Rachel had her name, Gen. 29. 6. is, by the ancient Greek Interpreter, rendred, a lamb; and ſo Act. 8. 32. Luke, retaining that tranſlation, giveth it. Howbeit, it ſignifieth an Ew, as appeareth plainly, Gen. 31. 38. & 32. 14. where theſe rachels are diſtinguiſhed from rams; as alſo, Cant. 6. 6. where they are deſcribed with twins by their ſides: and the word, though of a maſculine form, yet is of a feminine gender, as is manifeſt, by the verb, or participle, joyned with it: and he ſeems to mention the Ew, as the quieter of that kind; becauſe the rams are ſometime more unruly.

is dumb] So Pſal. 39. 2, 9. or tongue-tied: for that ſeemes to be the firſt notion of the root it cometh of, to bind, or ty up, Gen. 37. 7.

ſo he openeth not his mouth.] Heb. and; uſed here, for the note of ſimilitude; as alſo, Pſal. 1. 3. & 109. 17. Prov. 10. 25. & 17. 3. Chap. 10. 26. and ſo it is rendred, Act. 8. 37. Of the phraſe, ſee before.

V. 8. He was taken from priſon, and from judgment;] In the expoſition of this paſſage, Interpreters do exceedingly diſſent, and that about every word, and particle, in it. Howbeit, they may in general be referred all to two heads; either of thoſe, that underſtand them of Chriſts humiliation, and oppreſſion only, and the harſh, cruel, and unjuſt courſes, whereby his life was taken from him, Mat. 27. 18-24. Act. 2. 23. & 3. 14, 15. & 13. 28. Or, of thoſe, that conceive them to be ſpoken of his deliverance out of thoſe afflictions, and diſtreſſes, injuriouſly inflicted; and his advancement from them, to a glorious condition, Luk. 24. 26. Act. 2. 24, 33, 36. & 3. 15, 21. Phil. 2. 8, 9. 1 Tim. 3. 16. Heb. 2. 9. 1 Pet. 1. 11.

taken] That is, as ſome, taken away; put to death; as Pſal. 31. 13. Prov. 1. 19. as others, drawn away; to wit, unto judgment, and to puniſhment, by death; as Prov. 24. 11. but the ſtructure is not here, and there alike: yea, as ſome, ſuppoſing the particular manner of his death here deſigned, taken up to the croſſe, Joh. 3. 14, 15. & 12. 32, 33. but of ſuch uſe of the word, no inſtance is brought. Others, he is taken up, from hence, and received by God, into glory; as Gen. 5. 24. Mar. 16. 19. Luk. 24. 51. Act. 1. 9, 11. 1 Tim. 3. 16.

from] So the word moſt uſually ſignifieth; and ſo many here take it, as meant of being delivered, and ſet free from the matters here mentioned: as, from work, Gen. 2. 2. from enemies, Pſal. 44. 4. from bands, Jer. 40. 4. others take it, for, by, or thorow; as noting the means whereby, or, the manner how, he was brought to his end. So Job 7. 14. & 37. 10. Jer. 10. 14. or, for; as implying the cauſe producing, procuring, or impellent. So Pſal. 12. 5. ver. 5. Chap. 65. 14. others, for, without; without being impriſoned, or having any due courſe of judicature, taken with him; as the particle ſeemeth to be uſed, Pſal. 109. 24. Lam. 4. 9. but neither are thoſe places parallel; and one produced to that purpoſe, hath a negative joyned with it, Job 31. 19. Others, laſtly, for, after: after that he had paſt thoſe harſh, and unjuſt courſes taken with him. So is the particle uſed, Dan. 11. 23. Hoſ. 6. 3.

priſon] Suppoſed to be ſo called, as a place of coertion, or reſtraint; (ſee on Chap. 44. 7.) for the verb, whence it comes, ſignifies to ſhut up, or reſtrain, Gen. 20. 18. Deut. 11. 17. yet, for a priſon, the word is no where found to be uſed: nor was our Saviour ever impriſoned; though that would ſtand well enough with their expoſition, that render the particle without. Others, therefore, underſtand by it, reſtraint, or diſtreſs: and this not unfitly agreeth with the native ſignification of the word; uſed for the ſhutting up, or reſtraint, of the womb, (ſo the words are) Prov. 30. 16. that is, the womb ſhut up, or, reſtrained; as Jacob ſpeaks to Rachel, Gen. 30. 2. nor can it be denyed, or doubt made, but that Chriſt was under reſtraint; and in diſtreſſe, proceeding from ſuch ſtrict reſtraint. Others, of ſuch anguiſh, and anxiety of mind, and ſpirit, as Chriſts ſoul was poſſeſſed of, ariſing from the apprehenſion of Gods wrath; both in his agony, Luk. 22. 44. and upon the croſſe, Mat. 27. 46. Others render it, dominion, power, tyranny, oppreſſion: and a term of the ſame ſtock, differing but in a vowel only, from it, is uſed ſometime for power, authority, or magiſtracy, Judg. 18. 7. and the root they both ſpring from, for, to have power, or, to prevail, 2 Chr. 14. 11. and this very word ſometime for ſuch power abuſed; for oppreſſion, or tyranny. So Pſal. 107. 39. where it is alſo joyned with the particle here uſed: and it ſuiteth well with the power, both of Jews, and Gentiles, unjuſtly exerciſed againſt Chriſt, Pſal. 2. 1, 2. Act. 4. 25-27. Others would have it to ſignifie, here, a congregation, or, a multitude: becauſe another word of kin to this, is uſed for a ſolemn aſſembly. See on Chap. 1. 13. and this ſome refer to the Aſſembly of the Jewiſh Rulers, wherein Chriſt was condemned, Mat. 26. 57-66. Others, to the popular multitude, that were inſtant to have him crucified, Mat. 27. 15-26. Mar. 15. 8-15. Luk. 23. 18-25. and to theſe therefore, as well as thoſe, by whom they were incited, is the murther of Chriſt aſcribed, Luk. 24. 20. Act. 3. 23, 26. & 3. 13, 14, 15. & 7. 52. & 13. 27. but neither is the word it ſelf any where, as I conceive, ſo uſed; nor its kin, of other, then a ſolemn aſſembly, called together by authority; not of a confuſed, or diſorderly multitude on their own heads gathered together.

and from judgment:] This ſome underſtand of judgment, in general, either, without which, or, by which, or, after which, exerciſed, and executed upon our Saviour, he was, either taken away, or taken up. Some more particularly reſtrain it, either to the Jewiſh Aſſemblies cenſure of him, Mat. 26. 66. Joh. 19. 7. or, to Pilates ſentence paſſed upon him, Luk. 23. 24. diſtinguiſhed from the act of the rude multitude, which they conceive implied in the word before-going. Nor want they, that expound it of the judgement of God, and the torments by him inflicted upon him, implyed in the word curſe, Gal. 3. 13. I concur with thoſe, who by theſe two terms, underſtand oppreſſion and judgment; as comprehending all thoſe harſh, and cruel courſes, as under pretence of judgment, were exerciſed upon our Saviour, whereby his life was taken from him, and himſelf taken away, for the time; or, from which, he was after a while freed, being, after the ſuſtaining of them, taken hence, and taken up unto God, as Enoch, and Elias before him; of both whoſe aſſumption, the ſame term is uſed, Gen.5.24. 2 King.2.9,10. But I encline rather to the former, becauſe the courſe of the context, both before, and after, as well in this verſe, as in the next, runs ſtill upon his ſufferings.

and who ſhall declare his generation?] Or, who can declare? for the indicative future, is oft potentially uſed. See Chap. 26.18. & 49.15. This paſſage, ſome underſtand of the generation of Chriſt, from eternity, in regard of his God-head, Prov.8.24,25. Others, of the production of him, and that of a virgin, without knowledg of man, in regard of his manhood, Luk.1.34,35. and ſome, of both joyntly; as alſo that, Pſal.2.7. Act.13.33. Some by generation, here, underſtand neither of theſe; but either, his continuance, reading the words, but who can reckon his age? living now to eternity, beyond all number of dayes, or years, Rom.6.9. Heb. 7.3,8,15. Rev.1.18. agreeable to that, he ſhall prolong his dayes, ver.10. that, which they extend alſo to his body, the Church, Pſal. 125.1. Jer.31.36,37. & 33.25,26. Mat.16.18. Heb.7.25. and for continuance of time, the word is commonly uſed; as ch.13. 20. & 60.15. or, of his iſſue, rendring the text; who can count, or reckon, his race? his ſpiritual ſeed and iſſue, being a numberleſſe multitude, Gen. 15.5. & 22.17,18. Jer. 33.22. Heb.2.10,13. Rev.7.9. as agreeable to that, he ſhall ſee a ſeed, ver.10. ſo is the word taken, Pſal.22.30. & 24.6. & 49.19. & 73.15. & 112.2. In the firſt ſenſe, moſt of the ancient Writers take it: and in the two latter, moſt of the later. What the firſt ſhould do here, cannot eaſily be made to appear; the latter, if we admit, according to the former Interpretation, at leaſt, of the foregoing branch, the copulative would be turned into an adverſative; as ver.10. yet, who can reckon his age, or, count his race? But there want not thoſe, that turn the words another way; and they conceive them to run in an abrupt, and paſſionate form of ſpeech, as complaining either of the ſtrangeneſs of the things that befel him; and they then read the words, Who would have ſaid of his generation? to wit, that ſuch things ſhould have, in his age, or time, befaln him? as, Who would have ſaid to Abraham, that Sarah ſhould give ſuck? Gen.21.7. or, of the monſtrous impiety, and wickedneſſe of them, that dealt in this manner with him, that came to ſave them: and then they render the words, Who can utter, or deſcribe, his generation? or, his age? that is, the wickedneſſe of the men of his time, or, of the age he lived in: the verb ſignifies to ſpeak, or utter, Job 12.8. Pſal.69.12. & 143.5. his generation, or age, for, the men of his time: as, his generations, or, ages; for, thoſe of the times wherein he lived, Gen. 6.9. So is the word very frequently uſed, Gen.7.1. Deut.32.5,20. Pſal.78.8. Mat.11.16. & 12.39. & 16.4. & 17.17. And this ſenſe ſeems not improbable; as well ſuiting, both with what uſhiered it in, and what attends on it. As for that of another, Who could declare his ſtock? that is, who would ſay, that he was begotten of God, or the Son of God, ſeeing him depreſſed, and abaſed ſo beneath the meaneſt of men? Chap. 52.14. it gaineth with me no acceptance; becauſe I find not where the word is in that notion uſed. Beſides, that the Centurion, unto whom the execution was committed, ſeeing the manner of his death, and, in likelihood, obſerving his laſt words, recorded, Luk.23.46. is, both by Matthew and Mark, reported to have broken out into thoſe words, of a truth, this man was a Son of God, Mat.27.54. Mar.15.39.

for he was cut off out of the land of the living] Or, as ſome read the words, (thoſe eſpecially, that expound the two foregoing branches, of his deliverance, and exaltation) though he were cut off: as the particle is uſed, Gen. 8.21. Joſh. 17.18. Chap.12.1. But what if we read it according to the expoſition of the branch, next before, deemed not improbable; as continuing the ſentence in a notion of wonderment, that he ſhould be cut off, (ſo the particle was uſed before, ver. 5,6.) as a tree that is hewen down, 2 King.6.4. that he ſhould be thus taken away, by a violent death, from abiding, and converſing on earth, among men, that there live, Pſal.27.13. & 52.5. & 116.9. Chap.38.11.

for the tranſgreſſion of my people was he ſtricken] The words thus read, are the ſame in ſubſtance, with what was before ſaid, ver.5. See there. But ſome read them thus rather; by the tranſgreſſion of my people was he ſtricken. Heb. from; but of the various uſe of that particle, ſee on the firſt branch of this verſe: in this ſenſe, the words conceived, the ſentence may ſtill be continued, and carried on thus, that (the particle ſupplyed from the former; as 1 Sam.24.30.) by the tranſgreſſion of mine own people he ſhould thus be ſtricken, Act.2.23. & 3.13-15. & 13.28.

my people] Either mine Elect, for whom he dyed: as Col.1.24. 2 Tim.2.10. or, thoſe obſtinate wicked, that purſued him to death, 1 Theſſ.2.15.

was he ſtricken] As ver.4. Heb. the ſtroke was upon him: ſo the pronoun is found uſed in a ſingular notion, Gen.9.26,27. Job 20.23. & 22.2. Pſal.11.7. & 18.8. Chap. 44.15. or, they were ſtricken; as ſome render it: the ſtroke was upon them; taking the pronoun in a plural notion: as it is commonly uſed, Exod.15.15. Deut.33.29. Pſal.2.5. & 17.10. & 21.11. & 49.11. & 140.9. and ſo ſome underſtand it, of the Jewiſh people, upon whom, according to their own imprecation, Mat.26.25. the ſtroke of Gods wrath, ſhortly after, lighted, and lyeth heavy, to this very day, for their crucifying of Chriſt, Mat.21.39,41, & 23.37,38. & 24.22,23. Luk.13.34,35. & 21.20-24. 1 Theſſ.2.15,16. Some of thoſe that go this way, knit this member thus to the former; becauſe he was cut off through the tranſgreſſion, or, wickedneſſe of my people: therefore, ſhall they be ſmitten, or, they are ſmitten, (for the Prophet ſpeaks of theſe things, as already in execution, and act) the ſtroke, ſhall be, or is, upon them. But the courſe of the context carries it on, rather, the former way, and makes the paſſage cleerer to what followeth. For they ſeem to go further out of the way, who taking the affix in a plural notion, would have it underſtood, either of Chriſt, conſidered joyntly with thoſe, as one with him, for whom he ſuffered, 2 Cor.5.21. or of thoſe alone, whom the ſtroke was due to, rendring the text, he was cut off from the land of the living, for the iniquity of my people, unto whom the ſtroke belonged, was due, or was intended; for this, the words will hardly bear.

V. 9. And he made his grave with the wicked, and with the rich in his death:] Some Writers of note, ſuſpect theſe words to have been by ſome means tranſpoſed, and ſuppoſe, for the fitting of them, to the ſtory of the Goſpel, concerning his death with malefactors, on mount Calvary, Mat. 27.33,38. Mar.15.28. Luk.22.37. and his burial, in Joſephs Sepulchre, Mat.27.57,60. that the text ought thus to be read; And his death ſhall be diſpoſed of, with the wicked, and his grave with the rich. The like thoughts have ſome other had of Pſal.35.7. and of Act.7.16. but to give way to ſuch conjectures, ſeemeth unſafe. To let that therefore paſs, and take the words as we find them, at preſent, in the text; the expoſitions of them in the lump, may be referred to two heads: the one of thoſe, which ſeems the more improbable, who underſtand the words, as concerning either the effect, or the efficacy of Chriſts ſufferings; to wit, either, that thoſe wicked ones, and rich ones, that had had an hand in the procuring of his death, ſhould pay full dear for it; being given up to endure the like harſh and cruel uſage, at the hands of others, as Chriſt, at their hands had ſuſtained: as Chap.43.3,4. or, that even wicked men, and thoſe great ones too, who are wont to be moſt obſtinate, ſhould be ſubdued, and made ſubject to the Scepter of Chriſt, by the power and efficacy of his paſſion, Pſal.110.2. The other is, of thoſe, who conceive them to be meant, wholly of his ſufferings themſelves; either, that the Jewiſh people ſhould put him into the hands of Heathen people, the Romans, and their Ruler Pilate, Mat.20.19,20. Joh.18.35. who by that means, having condemned him, and dealt with him, as with a malefactor, ſhould diſpoſe of his death, and burial, at his pleaſure, Mat.27.2,57,58. Luk. 23.1,2,50,52. Joh.18.28-32. & 19.6,11,12,38. or, that God ſhould deliver him into the hands of wicked men, and Rulers, ſo to be diſpoſed of by them, for either, as themſelves pleaſed, Luk.22.53. Act.2.23. & 4.27,28. Howbeit, among the latter there are, who, together with his ſufferings, conceive an intimation of ſome honour done him, concerning his burial; as if it were ſaid, that though his grave, were, in ordinary courſe to have been among malefactors; yet it was with the rich; being buried in honourable manner, by Joſeph, in his own tomb, Mat.27.57-60. and that to ſhew, that all penalty and ſhame for ſin, were fully ſatisfied for, and had an end at his death; according to that, Joh.19.40. Howbeit, that ſeems rather to have been manifeſted, at, and by, his reſurrection, Rom.4.25. and the reception of him, in ſoul firſt, (though that not ſo conſpicuous) Luk.23.43,46. and in the whole man, not long afterward, into heaven, Joh. 13.1. & 16.10. 1 Tim.3.16. otherwiſe his abode in the grave, though a rich, and honourable mans grave, under the power of death, for a time, was a branch of his humiliation, and is reckoned, as a part of his paſſion, Act.2.24,27. Nor want there here again ſome others, who would have hereby intimated, Chriſts carrying of our ſins, which in his body he bare on the croſſe, 1 Pet.2.24. with him into the grave, and there burying them, that they may not appear any more in Gods ſight, as Gen.23.4. Pſal.88.5. to which purpoſe, alſo, they hook in hither that of the Apoſtle, Rom.6.4. Col.2.12. as alſo that of Dan. 9.24. to ſhut up and ſeal up ſin, as they would have the words there read, with ſome reference to the ſhutting up of Chriſt in the Sepulchre, and the ſealing up of it, Matth. 27.66. And as this in the former branch, ſo the precious riches of his bloud and death in the latter, 1 Pet.1.19. Eph.1.7,8,18. & 2.7. & 3.8. Col.1.27. All which to make out, the two concretes in the text are preſumed to be put for the abſtracts, wicked ones, for wickedneſſes; and rich, for riches: and the text is rendred, He put wickedneſſes in his grave, and riches in his death. But theſe things ſeem overmuch forced, and far fetcht. Nor ſeems it ſafe, or fit, to ſtrain Scriptures thus, to wring points of faith from them: nor ſhould I have mentioned them, but for the great note of their Author.

And he made his grave with the wicked] Heb. And he gave, or, ſhall give the wicked; or, with the wicked, his grave: which the old Latine ſwarveth too far from, rendring it, He gave the wicked for his grave. Now ſome here, by he, underſtand God, by whoſe hidden counſel, and predetermination, theſe things were done; & without whom, men could not have had any ſuch power over him, Mat.26.53,54. Joh. 19. 9,10. Others, the Jewiſh People, by whoſe hands they were acted and executed. See Act.2.23. & 4.27,28. But others conceive, not amiſs, that the words may well be taken indefinitely, and ſo rendred, by a paſſive form, (of which manner of conſtruction, ſee on Chap.34.11. and the like to this, Gen.40.15.) his grave was given to the wicked, (as Levit.13.49.) or, was diſpoſed of (for ſo the word of giving, oft ſignifies. See Chap. 41. 2.) by the wicked, (as Chap.7.17.) or, with the wicked; (as Chap.28.15.) that is, as if he had been one of that rank, ver. 12. ſay ſome; or becauſe in mount Calvary he was buried, ſay others, Joh.19.41,42. where malefactors corpſes uſed to be laid. But this latter ſeems not ſo ſuitable to the tenour of the ſtory. For albeit, the place of his burial was not far diſtant from the place of his execution; yet was it in a private garden, belonging to a man of eminent place, wherein he had cut a Sepulchre out for himſelf, Mat. 27.57,60. Mar. 15. 43,46.

and with the rich in his death] Or, and to the rich; as before; for the particle is the ſame: by the rich, ſome underſtand Joſeph, that begged, and buried Chriſts body, called a rich man, Mat.27.57. Others, Pilate, that had the power to diſpoſe of Chriſts corpſe, and of whom Joſeph begged it, Mat.27.58. conceiving a rich man, to be put here for a Ruler; as Eccl.10.6,7,20. becauſe thoſe uſually are ſuch: thus they that expound it of ſome particular perſon, which may carry the better ſhew with it; becauſe the former word, wicked, was plural; this, ſingular. But many other conceive the word rich, here, to be taken collectively, and the ſame perſons to be meant by both; thoſe that had an hand in the death of Chriſt, as well the baſer ſort of people, as the rich, and wealthy Rulers, whether of the Jewiſh Nation, or the Roman State, whom (ſay thoſe, that underſtand the place of the vengeance, by God executed, on either, for the death of Chriſt,) their riches ſhould not ranſome, nor relieve, in the day of wrath, Prov.11.4. Ezek.7.19. as yet they are uſually wont to do, Prov.13.8.

in his death] Or, at his death; as Job 27.19. at their death; though in another notion there, then here: for there 'tis ſaid of ſome, that they ſhall be buried at their death; that is, in mean and baſe manner; their corpſes being committed to the ground, aſſoon as their breath is out of their bodies, without further care, or coſt; whereas, though our Saviours body was, ſhortly after his deceaſe, diſpoſed of, for burial, yet was it curiouſly ſhrowded, and richly embalmed, before it was laid up in the grave, Mar.15.46. Joh.19.39,40. ſo the particle is uſed alſo, Ezr.9.4. Eſt.1.12. Heb. deaths; as Jer.16.4. hence the Jewiſh Doctors (whoſe expoſitions I meddle the leſs with, in this preſent Prophecy, becauſe they run moſt upon another ground,) ſtrive to wring this prediction awry, and to turn it, from the Meſſias, or any other particular perſon, to the main body of their own people; who, though innocent, ſay they, yet were put to death, as malefactors, becauſe they would not change their religion, Pſal.44.22. and, were made away, if rich, not for their wickedneſſe; but for their wealth; and that ſome by one kind of death, ſome by another: ſome burnt, ſome ſlain, ſome ſtoned, and the like: but the word, though plural, is found elſewhere alſo, applyed to one particular perſon; as to the King of Tyre, Ezek.28.8,10. where it is ſaid of him, that he ſhall dye the deaths of the ſlain; and, the deaths of the uncircumciſed: and ſo the Apoſtle of himſelf, alſo, in deaths oft, 2 Cor.11.23. that is, not in hazards, and dangers of death only; but in afflictions, and vexations, as ſore and painful, as death it ſelf; and ſuch as might well go, for as many deaths, 1 Cor.4.9. & 15.31. Luk.9.23. 2 Cor. 1. 9. & 4.8-11. & 6.4,5,9. & 11.23-27. and the ſame might by the Prophet, as well, yea, far better, be ſaid of the Meſſias, as of the Tyrian Prince, by the Prophet, in the one place; or, of himſelf, by the Apoſtle in the other. Beſides, that the Chaldee Paraphraſt rendreth it in the ſingular number. Nor can I condeſcend unto thoſe, though of prime note, who, having put the word people, into the text, and ſet it in the front of the verſe, render the words, unto their own death; as importing, that the Jews, by delivering up of Chriſt, brought deſtruction upon themſelves; as having reference to the imprecation by themſelves paſt upon them, at the delivering up of him, Mat.27.25. See before, ver.8. There is another reading, that the Rabbines, ſome of them, here exhibit; as if it were not made up of a ſervile particle, and a noun, with his affix; as both we, and themſelves, alſo, commonly take it; but a noun only, with a pronoun affixed unto it, and ſo ſhould ſignifie his high places. Which I ſhould not mention, ſave that ſome, not Popiſh Writers only, but ours alſo, and thoſe of note, do not only take notice of it, but admit it, and preſſe it, as intimating the ſtatelineſſe of the Sepulchre, wherein Chriſts body was laid; as if Joſephs monument were, as ſtately an one, as Shebna had built for himſelf, Chap.22.16. But this reading, the points, or vowels, in the original, refuſe, and refute; nor do the Doctors, that cite it, give any approbation of it; nor will this reading cohere handſomly with the reſt of the context. I ſuppoſe, that as the latter part of the foregoing verſe, ſo the forepart of this, run on in a continued ſeries, containing matter of admiration, in this manner; And that his burial ſhould be, at the diſpoſal of wicked ones, and of rich ones, or, rulers, at his death; that is, that wicked great ones ſhould have ſuch power given them over him, as not onely to take his life away from him, by a violent, and moſt cruel death; but after that perpetrated, to diſpoſe of his dead corpſe alſo for burial, at their pleaſure.

becauſe he had done no violence, neither was any deceit in his mouth] This reading may ſtand, not amiſs, with the expoſitions of thoſe, that conceive the foregoing words to be underſtood, either of the revenging hand of God, upon the Jews, for the death of Chriſt, or of ſome honour done him, in, or at, his interrement; or of the benefits, that from his death and burial, accrew to the faithful: not ſo well with theirs, that go the other way before mentioned; for the conſtruction ſeemeth over-much ſtrained, when the meaning is made to be; becauſe they envied him for his integrity, both in life and doctrine, Mat.27.18. yea, though not only no man could convince him of ſin, Mat.27.19,23,24. Luk.23.14,15. Joh.8. 46. but even the devil himſelf could find nothing amiſſe in him, Joh.14.30. But the words would rather be read, as they ſound, not for any iniquity, that he had done, nor guile that was in his mouth. So Job 16.17. where the very ſame form of ſpeech, and words alſo, are found, Not for any injuſtice (ſo the word is there rendred) that is in my hands; that is, albeit, he had done nothing amiſſe, Mar. 7.37. Luk.23.41. for the word rendred violence, is more general; and is uſed for any wrong, Gen.16.5. Pſal.7.16. Jer.51.35. and the Greek therefore gives it ſin, 1 Pet.2.22. according to that, 1 Joh.3.5. in him, was no ſin: ſo alſo, but there the negative only tranſpoſed, 1 Chr.12.17. without any wrong, that is in my hands: for ſo it would be rendred, both in Job, and there; there being in either place, a defect of the relative, as alſo here; and the like, Chap.50.9. & 51.12. Nor doth that at all croſs this expoſition, which a learned Writer objecteth, who having himſelf ſometime rendred the text here, although, or, when as yet, he had done no wrong, doth afterward revoke it, becauſe he never findeth the particle here uſed, in ſuch an adverſative, but frequently in a cauſal notion; for it is plainly in a cauſal notion, when it is ſaid, not for, or becauſe of, any wrong he had done: which is the very ſame, in effect, with what himſelf had before given, albeit he had done no wrong, and he had no cauſe therefore, to revers; his grammatical conſtruction only, was not ſo exact.

neither was any deceit in his mouth] Or, nor for any guile, that was in his mouth: a defect of the particle; as Pſal.59.3. but ſupplyed here from the former member of the diſtribution; and of the relative, alſo, as before: it is rendred, 1 Pet.2. 22. neither was guile found in his mouth: to be found, for, to be; as Luk.17.18. So Chap.30.14. & 51.3. There was nothing amiſſe with him, either in word, or deed.

V. 10. Yet it pleaſed the Lord to bruiſe him, he hath put him to grief] Or, Yet the Lord being willing, (as 1 King.13.33.) or, deſiring (as Pſal.34.12. for the word ſeems to be here, as in thoſe places, a participle,) to break him, did put him to pain, or torment.

Yet] Heb. And; as ver.4,7.

bruiſe] Or, break. See on ver.5. not, that his body was battered to pieces; or, that any bone of him was broken, Exod.12.46. Pſal.34.20. Joh.19.33,36. but as the Pſalmiſt of himſelf, I am ſore broken, Pſal.38.8. and as we uſe to ſay, that a man is much broken, with age, ſickneſs, grief of mind, evil-uſage, and the like: all which, and much more, were together in Chriſts ſufferings.

put him to grief] Or, as ſome, ſuffer him to be put to pain, or torment; becauſe this form, hath oft in it, a notion of permiſſion: as Pſal.37.33. & 119.10,116. Chap.63.17. and true it is, that God did not incite, or inſtigate, thoſe wicked wretches, unto thoſe vile, and cruel courſes and carriages, that they offered unto Chriſt, Jam. 1.15. but yet that his ſufferings were by God predetermined for the ſalvation of mankind, is expreſly ſaid, Act.2.23. & 4.28. and of Abſoloms wicked Act, we know what is ſaid, 2 Sam.12.11,12. of the word, ſee on ver.3,4. the pronoun, him, is wanting in the text: as Chap.12.2. ſupplyed here from the words before.

when thou ſhalt make his ſoul an offering for ſin] So if it be read, it may well cloſe with the foregoing branch, as implying ſuch harſh, and hard uſage of him, then put in execution, and exerciſed, what time he was made ſuch a ſacrifice. Otherwiſe, if as moſt ſeem to take them, they relate to the after-fruits and benefits, mentioned in the words enſuing, it would rather be rendred, when thou ſhalt have made his ſoul an offering for ſin: as Chap.4.4.

when] Heb. if. So Num.36.4. Job 21.6. Chap.28.25.

thou ſhalt make his ſoul] As 2 Cor.5.21. a change of the perſon; the ſpeech being turned to God; as Chap.2.9. or, his ſoul ſhall have made it ſelf an offering; for the ſecond perſon maſculine, and the third feminine, are in letters, and ſound, the ſame: his ſoul; that is, himſelf: or, he himſelf as Pſal.3.2. and as God made a ſacrifice of him; ſo he made a ſacrifice of himſelf, Eph.5.2. Heb.9.14,25,26. But the former ſeemeth the better.

an offering for ſin] Heb. treſpaſſe, or ſin. So Levit.5.19. & 7.5. Zach.14.19. and ſo of our Saviour, 2 Cor. 5. 21. God made him ſin; that is, a ſin ſacrifice: a ſacrifice for ſin, Rom.8.2. for the word ſacrifice, is there alſo wanting; as Heb. 10. 8. becauſe he had undertaken the guilt of our ſins, ver. 7. and ſuſtained for us, the penalty due thereunto, ver. 5, 6. 1 Cor.5.7

he ſhall ſee his ſeed] Heb. a ſeed; that is, iſſue, poſterity as Gen.15.3: thou haſt not given me a ſeed; and Gen. 4. 25 God hath ſet me a ſeed: and, ſo ſhall thy ſeed be, Gen.15.5. his is not in the Hebrew; but may be ſupplyed: as oft elſewhere, ver.3. Chap.27.9. & 40.12. yet not greatly needful here: a ſeed, indefinitely, is ſufficient. It is that which our Saviour of himſelf, applying it to himſelf, and the fruit of his ſufferings; If the grain fall into the ground, and dye there, it fructifies, and multiplies; it brings forth much fruit, Joh. 12.24,32, 34. and ſo Chriſt by his death, brought many ſons to God, Heb.2.10,13. even a numberleſs progeny. See on ver. 8. who can reckon up his race? as from Abraham, and Sarah, that were eſteemed, as a dead ſtock, the one; and no better then dead, the other, Gen.18.11,12. Rom.4.19. Heb. 11. 12. and from Iſaac, deſtinated unto death, and received again, in a manner, from the dead, ſprung a numberleſſe iſſue, Gen.22.2,10. & 26.24. Heb.11.17-19.

ſee ſeed] Live, and ſurvive to ſee them; as Job lived to ſee his ſons, and ſons ſons, Job 42.16. and, thou ſhalt ſee thy childrens children, Pſal.128.6.

he ſhall prolong his dayes;] The pronoun is wanting; as before: in regard whereof, the words have a two-fold ſenſe given them. Some expounding them, of Chriſt himſelf, who, after his reſurrection, ſhould dye no more; not live a while here, and then dye again; as ſome other, raiſed to life, for a time, 1 King.17.22. 2 King.4.35. & 8.5. & 13.21. Luk.7.15. & 8.55. Joh.11.44. but live, and reign, for ever, Act.13.34. Rom.6.9,10. Heb.7.25. & 9.27,28. Rev.1.18. Others, of his iſſue, the race of Saints; (and the ancient Greek, and old Latine, go both that way) being to continue ſucceſſively here on earth, to the worlds end, and from thenceforth to live with him in glory for ever, Mat.16.18. & 28.20. & 25.46. Joh.5. 25,29. & 11.25,26. & 14.19. 1 Theſſ.4.17. and then it ſhould be read, he ſhall ſee a ſeed, that ſhall prolong its dayes; with a ſupply of the relative; as Chap.51.12. but the former ſeems more probable. Of the phraſe, ſee Deut. 17. 20. Prov. 28. 16.

and the pleaſure of the Lord ſhall proſper in his hand.] Or, the the will; as the old Latine giveth it, according to that, Joh.4. 34. & 6.38. or, the deſire, as the word is rendred, 1 Sam. 18.25. or, the purpoſe of the Lord, as Eccl.3.1,17. & 8.6. it hath reference to the verb, from whence it comes, uſed in the firſt branch. That which God intended to effect, by giving him up, Rom.8.32. ver.9. and for which he was well content, and pleaſed ſo to do, ſhall, by his means, and miniſtery (ſo the word, hand, is ordinarily uſed, Chap.20.1. & 37.24. & 6.4–7.) accordingly take effect, See ver.11. Chap.52.13.

V.11. He ſhall ſee of the travel of his ſoul, and ſhall be ſatiſfied:] Or, as ſome render it, He ſhall ſee the fruit of the travel of his ſoul, and ſhall be ſatisfied. That is, he ſhall receive, and enjoy that, as the effect, and iſſue, of all the pains that he hath taken, and pain that he hath endured; that ſhall give him full content.

ſhall ſee] To ſee, is commonly uſed, for to perceive, or enjoy; as, to ſee good, for, to receive, or enjoy good, Pſal.34.12. Job 9.25. Jer.17.6. to ſee life, for, to enjoy life; to live, Eccl.9.9. Job 3.36. and it is uſed frequently, without any further addition, to behold, what one much deſires, with great delight, Pſal. 35.21. & 54.7. Chap.60.5. & 66.14. and ſo here.

of the travel] Heb. from the travel; as, to eat of ones bread, Lev.22.13. Num.15.19. and, to drink of ones wine, Dan.1.5. Jer. 51.7. travel, for the fruit of his travel; as labour, for the fruit of ones labour, Pſal.128.2. thou ſhalt eat the labour of thine hands; eat, and enjoy that, for which thine hands have laboured; or, from the travel, that which proceedeth, and cometh from it; as, from the eater came meat, and from the ſtrong, ſweet, Judg. 14. 14. and the word rendred travel, ſignifies properly, toilſome, troubleſome, wearisome labour, Deut. 26.7. Job 5. 7. Pſal. 107.12.

ſhall be ſatisfied] A metaphor taken, either from perſons, that, having been much pinched, and pained, with hunger and thirſt, have food, or drink, afforded them now to their fill, which they ſo much wiſhed for, and earneſtly deſired before, Pſal.107.5,9. Mat.5.6. or, from the husbandman, that hath his fill of thoſe fruits of the earth, that he hath taken much pains for; or, of trees, and plants, that he hath taken much pains about, 2 Chr.31.10. Joel 2. 26. contrary to that, Hoſ.4. 10. Mic.6.14. Hag.1.6. See Prov.12.11. & 28.19. 2 Tim.2.6. But there are two other expoſitions, (to paſs by the reſt,) that carry ſome good ſhew of probability with them, and have Authors of good note for them. The former render the words thus, When he ſhall ſee his ſoul, (that is, himſelf, as before,) freed from trouble (having an end put unto all thoſe troubles, that he was here expoſed unto, and exerciſed with) he ſhall be ſatisfied; that is, moſt abundantly filled with glory, being taken up into heaven, and ſet there at Gods right hand, Pſal.16.11. & 17. 15. The latter (that which to me ſeemeth the more probable of the twain) read the words, thus; For the travell of his ſoul, he ſhall ſee ſeed, and be ſatisfied: for the travell of his ſoul; that is, becauſe he hath travelled: as, for my knowledge, that is, becauſe I knew, Chap.48.4. he ſhall ſee a ſeed: ſupplyed from the verſe before-going, as Job 3.17,18,20,23. & 22.24. Chap.52.26. and he ſhall be ſatisfied; that is, much refreſhed, and gladded therewith; and the metaphor they ſuppoſe taken from women delivered of child, after hard, and long labour: which ſenſe, and notion admitted, I ſhould rather render the text; after the travell of his ſoul; that is, after his travell: yet the word, ſoul, may be the rather retained; becauſe a feminine term, and that ſex here alluded to; by whoſe pangs, in travel alſo, are Chriſts ſufferings deciphered, Act.2.27. for ſo the word, there uſed, properly ſignifies. After theſe therefore (for ſo the particle is oft uſed, as was before ſhewed, on ver.8.) paſt, and gone, he ſhall ſee ſeed: He ſhall not travell in vain, as thoſe complain, that they did, as if they went but with wind, Chap.26. 18. and that the babe was come neer to the breaking place, but no power to bring forth, Chap.37.3. God would not cauſe to travell, and deny delivery, Chap.66.9. but the fruit of his travel, ſo much deſired, he ſhould obtain, to wit, a numerous iſſue of faithfull ſouls begotten to God, which he himſelf alſo ſhould ſurvive to ſee with much joy, (that which women oft in that caſe fail of, Gen.35.17,18. 1 Sam.3. 19-21.) being ſo taken therewith, as a woman, that being ſafely delivered, after ſore and ſharp labour, forgetteth now all her fore-paſſed ſorrow, for joy of her much deſired birth, Joh. 16.21. And this expoſition, the words of the text do very well bear; though I adhere rather to the firſt.

by his knowledge ſhall my righteous Servant juſtifie many;] Theſe words are delivered, as in the perſon of God the Father, with whoſe words he began, Chap.52. 13. and the like paſſages from perſon to perſon, we oft meet with in this Prophet; as Chap.13.11. & 17.10. & 22.19. & 26.19. and they hold out unto us, the main fruit, and effect, of Chriſts paſſion, before-mentioned; mans juſtification, and reconciliation, to God, Rom.3.24,25. & 5.1,8,10. and the ſeed, or iſſue, that he ſhould ſee, and reſt ſatisfied in, for all the pains that he had undertaken, and, for their ſakes, undergone; the perſons thus juſtified, and ſaved, by thoſe ſufferings, whereby ſatiſfaction was fully made to God, for their ſins, Heb.2.10,13. The greateſt ſatisfaction to his ſoul, is, to ſee ſouls juſtified, by faith, in him; as the greateſt joy, and contentment of mind, to his faithful miniſters, to ſee ſouls won, and begotten, by their miniſtery, to him, 1 Cor.4.15. Gal.4.19. 1 Theſſ.2.19,20. 2 Joh.4. 3 Joh.3,14.

by his knowledge] Or, to make it more plain, and take away all ambiguity, the knowledge of him: not his knowledge, taken ſubjectively; his own knowledge, as ſome would here expound it; the knowledge, that he hath himſelf, either of God, Mat.11.27. Joh.8.55. & 10.15. or, of them, Joh.10. 14, 27. but, his knowledge, taken objectively, that is, the knowledge, whereby they know him, Phil.3.8. 2 Pet.1.3. & 2.20. So Pſal. 5.7. thy fear, for the fear of thee; and, my fear, for the fear of me, Jer.32.40. & Pſal.139.17. thy thoughts, for my thoughts of thee; and, my wrong, for, the wrong, by others, done to me, Gen. 16.5.

Jer.51.57. Yet not, that the bare knowledge of Chriſt, is that, whereby we are juſtified: for the Divels themſelves, both know, and acknowledge him too, Mar.1.24,34. Luk.4.34,41. but by knowledge of him, is meant, faith on him, Act.25.23.& 26.18. the antecedent, for the conſequent, as Joh. 17.3. becauſe the knowledge of him, is the ground of truſt, and confidence, in him, Rom.10.14,17. 1 Ioh.5.20. as the belief of him, though not the juſtifying act of faith (for the Divels, alſo, believe and tremble, Jam.2.19.) yet is put for truſt, and confidence, in him, Act.13.39. Rom.10.9. 1 Ioh.5.1. for that act, whereby we are ſaid to be juſtified, where the Apoſtle ſtateth the controverſie concerning juſtification, Rom.3.25,26. and whereby the ſame is more fully expreſſed, and more preciſely defined, Ioh.3.15,16,18,36. Act. 16.31. & 20.21. & 24.25. Rom.10.14. Gal.2.16.

my righteous Servant] My Servant; becauſe ſerviceable to God his Father; yea, unto the Elect of God alſo, in the work of mans redemption. See Chap. 42.1. & 52.13. Mat.20.28. Mar.10.45. Luk.22.27. Rom.15.8. Phil.2.7. righteous Servant, as, righteous Lord, Pſal.11.7. (the adjective, before the ſubſtantive, not ſo uſual in that language) called therefore, that righteous one, Act.3.14.& 7.52.& 22.14. becauſe wholly free from all act, or taint, of ſin, ver.10. 2 Cor.5.21. 1 Ioh.3.5. which unleſs he had been, he could not have been, either a fit Prieſt, Heb.7.26. or, a fit ſacrifice, 1 Pet.1.18,19. to make ſatisfaction to God, for the ſins of others, having need to ſatisfie for his own ſins, and for himſelf, Heb.7.27. 1 Pet.2.18.

ſhall juſtifie] Some would have the word, here uſed, to ſignifie no other, then a converting of men to godlineſs and righteouſneſs, by wholeſome inſtruction, and religious inſtitution; as the Miniſters of God, or Teachers, are ſaid to make many wiſe, and righteous, Dan.12.3. for ſo, queſtionleſs, the word is there taken; and in a notion, alſo, neer thereunto, Rev. 22.11. the term being uſed of inherent righteouſneſs, as we uſually ſpeak, and as the Scripture, alſo, uſeth the word righteous, and righteouſneſs, Mat.5.20. & 6.31. Luk. 1.6,75. Eph.4.24. or, ſanctification, as it is more diſtinctly, and ſpecially termed in Scripture, Rom.6.22. 2 Cor.7.1. 1 Theſſ. 4.3,4. 2 Theſſ.2.13. and true it is, that none are juſtified, but ſuch as are withall ſanctified, 1 Cor.6.11. as alſo, that we have as well the one, as the other, from Chriſt, 1 Cor.1.30.& 6.11. Heb.9.14.& 10.10. 1 Pet.1.2. Rev.1.5,6. but yet that is not the notion of the word, in this place; but by juſtifying, is here meant, as alſo, thorow the whole diſcourſe of juſtification, in Pauls Epiſtles, Rom.3.24,25,26,28,30.& 4.2,5,25. & 5.1,9,16,18. Gal.2.16. 1 Cor.6.11. (in which laſt place, alſo, juſtification, and ſanctification, are expreſly diſtinguiſhed, the one from the other) to wit, of the diſcharge of men, from the guilt of ſin, by making ſatisfaction unto God for the ſame; as evidently appeareth, by the whole courſe of the context, and the main matter of the Prophets diſcourſe in this place; as well by thoſe paſſages before, that cleer the way to this, ver.5,6,7,10. as alſo, by the reaſon of it rendred, in the very words next enſuing: For being wholly diſcharged of all ſin, and all iniquity; that is, of all guilt of ſin, either for the omitting of ought, that they were bound to do (for that alſo makes guilty, and liable to the curſe, Deut.27.26. Gal.3.10,13.) or, for the committing of ought, that they ought not to have done; yea, or in regard of any the leaſt warping, as well as ſwarving, by any obliquity of heart, or Spirit from the Law of God, the onely ſtrict, and ſtreight rule of all righteouſneſs; (for that alſo cometh within the compaſs of ſin, and iniquity, 1 Joh.3.4. & 5.17.) being thus (I ſay) diſcharged of all guilt of ſin whatſoever, and of what kind, or nature ſoever; they muſt of neceſſity become, and juſtly be deemed (ſo far, as concerns any guilt of ſin) perfectly righteous, Rom.5.19. Phil. 3.9. and be conſequently juſtified, that is, even in juſtice acquitted, and aſſoiled, whenſoever they ſhall be cited to appear at Gods tribunal, Rom.3.26,30.& 8.1,33,34. But of this notion, and uſe of the word, juſtifie, ſee more on Chap.5.23.

many,] So Mat.20.28.& 26.28. Rom.5.15,19. even, all that truſt in him, Pſal.2.12.& 37.40. Joh.3.15,16,18,36. & 6.29,35,40. & 11.25,26. Act.10.43. & 13.38,39. 1 Joh.2.2. therefore many, becauſe ſatisfaction made by him, for many, ver.12.

for he ſhall bear their iniquities.] Heb. and he ſhall bear their iniquities: but the copulative is oft uſed, in a cauſal notion; as implying the cauſe, or reaſon, rendred, of what was before ſaid. So ver.2. Pſal.75.1.& 95.9. & 108.12. Chap.38.21. & 40.26.& 52.15. yet it may alſo be rendred; whoſe iniquities he ſhall bear: for the copulative oft ſupplies, alſo, the place of the relative; as Job 20.11.& 37.5. Chap.4.6.& 17.2.& 28.1. whether way we here take it, either as rendring the reaſon, why he ſhould juſtifie ſo many; becauſe he ſhould bear the guilt of their ſins, and thereby make full ſatisfaction unto God for them; (for, by ſuch bearing of them, 1 Pet.2.24. he ſhould take them [illegible] from them, Joh. 1.29.) or, as deſcribing the perſons, wh[illegible] he ſhould juſtifie; not all promiſcuouſly, but thoſe only, whoſe ſins he undertook to diſcharge, and for whom he laid down his life; that is, the faithfull, and penitent alone, unto whom, only, he promiſeth to make good this favour, and aſſigneth a ſhare in the fruit of his interceſſion, and ſufferings, Mat.9.13.& 11.28. Mark 1.15. Joh.3.18. & 17.9,20. it will come, in effect and ſubſtance, all to one, and the reſult of all will be, that Chriſt juſtifies thoſe, and thoſe alone, that rely on him, and belong to him, by his ſufferings for their ſins, Rom.5.8,9. See ver.10.

V.12. Therefore I will divide him a portion with the great, and he ſhall divide the ſpoil with the ſtrong:] In this paſſage is related another fruit, and effect of the ſufferings of Chriſt, and his ſervice, exhibited unto God his Father therein; to wit, the multitudes of thoſe, that God the Father would for the ſame beſtow upon him, to the advancement of his honour, being adorned, and enriched with them, as a victorious conquerour, and tryumpher, with rich ſpoils and booties, taken from thoſe, whom, by fight, he hath ſubdued.

Therefore] So the Apoſtle: Therefore alſo, Phil.2.9. becauſe he hath done me, and finiſhed, this faithful ſervice, refuſing no pains, hardſhip, or evil-uſage, attending upon it, Ch.50.5,6. ver.10. and in the next branch again. See Joh. 17.4,5. and the Apoſtle Paul of himſelf, 2 Tim.4.7,8. and of all the faithful, our Saviour himſelf, Rev.3.21.

I] God the Father, who ſpake before, ver.11. ſo Pſal.2.8. See Joh.6.37,39,44,65. Act.2.47.& 11.21.

will divide him a portion with the great] This ſome underſtand of a portion of honour and dignity, collated upon Chriſt, not as the firſt-born only, in one reſpect, Rom. 8.29. Col.1.15. unto whom a double portion was due, Deut. 21.17. but, as the onely-begotten alſo of the Father, in another reſpect, Joh.1.14. far above all creatures, either men, or angels, Pſal.45.7. Eph.1.21. Phil.2.9. Col.1.18,19. Heb.1.3,4,6,9. and they ſuppoſe it to be taken from the diviſion of inheritances, Joſh.14.1. Prov.29.24. Luke 15.12. in regard whereof, they inſert the word, portion, which is not in the text; as ſome other alſo who expound it by that, Pſal.2.8. I will give the heathen for thine inheritance; and, thou inheriteſt all nations, Pſal. 82.8. underſtanding it, as ſpoken of the great Princes, and Potentates of this world, that ſhould be brought in, and made to ſubmit, and ſtoop to the ſcepter of Chriſt, Chap.49.23. & 52.13,15.& 60.3,10. Pſal.72.10,11. and to avoid ambiguity, leſt any ſhould ſeem to ſhare herein with Chriſt, (and yet in ſome kind and degree, ſome are ſaid ſo to do, Chap.49.23. & 60.10. Mat. 19.28. Joh. 17.22. Rev.2.26,27.& 3.21. & 21.7.) they would have the words rendred, I will divide him great ones for a portion. Others, again, inſert the word, ſpoil, ſupplyed from the next branch, thus rendring the words; I will divide great ones to him, for a ſpoyl; or, I will divide him a ſpoyl of great ones: whereby they underſtand thoſe principalities and powers, of the kingdom of darkneſs ſubdued, ſpoyled and tryumphed over, by Chriſt, Col.2.15. an alluſion to the diſtribution of ſpoyls, after ſome great victory obtained, or conqueſt archieved, Judg.5.30. Pſal.68.12. 2 Chr.20.25. Chap.9.2.& 33.23. Zach.14.7. Heb. I will divide to him, of, or, in great ones, or many: (for the word is ambiguous, and is uſed as ordinarily in the one notion, as in the other, of multitude, as of magnitude, whence the like ambiguity, Pſal.25.11. & 119.162.) Some therefore here render it, I will give many to him, or, beſtow many on him; and that with very good probability: For howſoever it be true, that the word, here uſed, doth ſignifie, in the firſt place, to diſtribute, or divide, Joſh.22.8. Neh.13.13. yet the word is uſed ſometime, at the ſecond hand, ſimply, for to impart, beſtow, give, aſſign, or attribute; even where no diſtribution is neceſſarily implyed, or, at leaſt, intended; becauſe of diviſion, and diſtribution, that is the ordinary end. So is the word deemed to be taken, Deut.4.19. of the Sun, Moon, and Stars, which the Lord hath imparted, and aſſigned, unto all Nations, beſtowed upon all alike, Deut. 29. 26. whom he had not given unto them, Job 21.17. he gives ſorrows in his anger, Job 39.17. of the Eſtrich, he hath not imparted unto her underſtanding: where the ſame particle is found before underſtanding, that is here, before great, or many. And it ſeemeth to be no other here, then there; but a note only of the accuſative caſe, as it is commonly termed; as alſo, Exod.7.20. Lev.24.16. Job 21.12. Eccl.5.10. Lam.1.17. Jon.3.5. So the meaning ſhould be no more then this; that God would beſtow many upon him, or give many unto him, to be his ſubjects, whether with an alluſion to a portion of inheritance; as Pſal. 16.5,6. or, the diſtribution of ſpoyls; as Gen. 49.27. it is indifferent.

he ſhall divide the ſpoyl with the ſtrong] It is by the beſt Interpreters acknowledged, that the ſame is in ſome other terms repeated here, that was intimated in the words fore-going: this difference only obſerved, that the Fathers donation and appointment, was pointed to there; Chriſts poſſeſſion, and enjoyment of what was by his Fathers donation aſſigned to him here. Divers go the ſame way here, that our Engliſh doth; he ſhall divide the ſpoil with the ſtrong, (as Prov. 16. 17. to divide the ſpoil with the proud; and Prov. 29. 24. to partake with a thief; but another particle there.) that is, ſay ſome, he ſhall ſettle his Kingdom, among the great and mighty Kingdoms of this world; as ſharing in ſome ſort with them, Rev. 11. 15. the old Latine reads it, he ſhall divide the ſpoil of the mighty, that is, as ſome, the ſpoils, that Satan, the ſtrong man, had formerly been poſſeſſed of, Luke 11. 21, 22. but I finde not yet, where this particle is uſed, as a note of the genetive caſe. Some render it, that he may divide the ſpoil with the ſtrong: ſo the copulative was uſed before, ver. 2. ſee there; as if it were ſaid, I will furniſh him with all endowments, whereby he may be enabled to grapple with, conquer, plunder, and tryumph over, all the enemies of mans ſalvation, Col. 2. 15. to which purpoſe alſo, ſome other, he ſhall divide the mighty as a ſpoil. But in the laſt place ſome render it; (which to me ſeems moſt probable) he ſhall obtain, receive, perceive, or poſſeſs, very many, for a prey: for as the word, that primarily ſignifies, to divide, or diſtribute, either inheritance, or prey, doth ſignifie, in the next place, to impart, aſſign, or give, and beſtow, in generall, in relation to the giver; ſo it is uſed alſo, in general, for to inherit, receive, obtain, and poſſeſs, in relation to the receiver. So Joſh. 18. 2. theſe remained that had not yet received their inheritance, Job 27. 17. He (that is, the wicked man) ſhall prepare it, but the juſt ſhall wear it; and the guiltleſs ſhall inherit, obtain, poſſeſs, or enjoy his ſilver, Pſal. 60. 6. I will obtain Sechem, or poſſeſs it, make my ſelf Lord of it: and for the word commonly rendred ſtrong, it is very apparent, both that the verb, from whence it comes, hath very uſually a notion of multitude in it; (See on Chap. 31. 1.) and the word it ſelf is moſt frequently uſed, to ſignifie very many; as Chap. 8. 7. Gen. 18. 18. Num. 14. 12. Deut. 4. 38. & 9. 1. & 11. 23. & 26. 5. Joſh. 23. 9. Joel 2. 5. Mic. 4. 7. and, for a prey; the word ſo joyned with very many, without any particle coming between, is alſo not unuſual: for ſo it is ſaid, Pſal. 135. 11. he gave their land an inheritance, that is, for an inheritance. So that the words, thus reſolved, intimate the numerous, or innumerable, rather, multitude of thoſe that ſhould be converted unto Chriſt, (of which, ſee Act. 2. 41, 47. & 4. 4. & 6. 7. & 8. 6, 11. & 11. 21. & 13. 44, 48. & 21. 20.) whom he is ſaid to obtain and poſſeſs, or enjoy, as a ſpoil, or a prey; in alluſion either to the choiceſt ſubſtance, jewels, or garments eſpecially, that were reſerved, and ſet apart, for the Generall, or Commander in chief, to wear, riding in tryumph, Judg. 5. 30. 2 Sam. 12. 30. or, to captives, great ones eſpecially, taken in fight, or conqueſt, and following the conquerour, as an addition to his magnificence and honour, Chap. 45. 14. and 49. 18.

becauſe he hath poured out his ſoul unto death;] Poured out, as water is poured out: ſo is the word uſed, Gen. 20. 24. and ſo the Pſalmiſt of himſelf, in the perſon of Chriſt, Pſal. 22. 14. I am poured out like water: and ſo ſome expound the phraſe here uſed; pour not out my ſoul, or life, Pſal. 141. 8. becauſe when the ſoul departs, the life goeth with it: he poured out his ſoul, or his life: (ſo the word is uſed, Pſal. 26. 9. & 31. 13. & 35. 4. and 56. 6.) as if he had made no more reckoning of it, then of water; as it is ſaid of the Martyrs ſlain for him, that they loved not their ſouls, that is, their lives, unto death, Rev. 12. 11. they parted with their lives, for his ſake, as freely, and as willingly, as if they valued, or loved them not; (which helps to explain that, Luke 14. 26.) they did that in Chriſts cauſe, that himſelf before, for them, to fulfill his Fathers Will, had done, Joh. 10. 17, 18. & 14. 30, 31. So the Apoſtle of him; He became obedient unto death, Phil. 2. 8. See Luke 23. 46. of pouring out of the ſoul, in another ſenſe, to wit, by prayer, with tears. See 1 Sam. 1. 15. compared with chap. 7. 6. Pſal. 42. 3, 4. Lam. 2. 19. and of our Saviour ſomewhat neer it, in that notion, Heb. 5. 7.

and he was numbred with the tranſgreſſours;] Or, with tranſgreſſours: for there is no article in the text. He was reckoned, as ſuch an one, as one of that rank; being put to the ſame death, that malefactors uſed to ſuffer, in the ſame place, where ſuch were ordinarily wont to be executed; and at the ſame time, when ſome other alſo in the ſame place were to ſuffer: two notorious thieves; the one, crucified on his right, and the other, on his left hand, he hanging in the midſt between them, as the principal of them, Matth. 27. 38. wherein the Evangeliſt tels us, that this Prophecy was fulfilled, Mark 15. 27, 28. yea, he was not only reckoned among them, but caſt behind them; or, (if ye will) for height of evil deſert, preferred before them, when Barabbas, that notorious miſcreant, was required to be let looſe, rather then he ſhould be let live, Mat. 27. 16, 17, 20, 21. Mark 15. 7, 11. Luk. 23. 18, 19, 25. Act. 3. 14, 15.

and he bare the ſin of many;] The penalty of the ſins of all that numerous, or numberleſs multitude, before-mentioned, that were, by the miniſtery of the Goſpel, ſo brought home to him, as ſincerely to truſt on him, ver. 5, 6. which, by bearing alſo for them, ver. 4. 1 Pet. 2. 24. he took away from them, Joh. 1. 29. and by diſcharging them of the guilt thereof, ver. 7. brought them into a juſtifiable condition, even in Gods ſight, and at his Tribunal, ver. 11.

and made interceſſion for the tranſgreſſors.] For thoſe very tranſgreſſors, or wicked ones, by whom he ſuffered, Luke 23. 34. wherein Steven alſo imitated him, Act. 7. 60. for the article, here emphatical, ſeems to point unto that ſpecial act, and thoſe particular perſons; but hath relation, alſo, to Chriſts interceſſion for ſinners, that belong to him, and have intereſt in him, Rom. 4. 5. & 5. 6, 8, 10. which continueth ſtill, and ſhall do unto the worlds end, Rom. 8. 34. Heb. 7. 25. & 9. 24. 1 Joh. 2. 1, 2.

CHAP. XLIV.

Verſ. 1. SIng, O barren,] This Chapter Some ſuppoſe to belong to the former Sermon, or Prophecy, beginning at Chap. 52. 1. and proceeding on from thence, in a continued diſcourſe, concerning the State of the Church reſtored, unto ver. 12. which having been there interrupted, with a digreſſion, concerning, either the Meſſias, or ſome other, whom they ſuppoſe to be there meant, ſhould, in this Chapter, be returned unto again. But moſt take it to be a new Prophecy, diſtinct from the former, though much of the ſame ſubject, and argument, with it: Howſoever, it hath a good coherence with, and dependance upon, the latter end of the former: For that ended with mention, as hath been ſhewed, of thoſe multitudes that ſhould be converted to Chriſt: this beginneth with thoſe ſwarms of people, that ſhould be bred by, and brought into the Church; and is wholly ſpent in predictions, and promiſes, of the enlargement and advancement thereof, together with the continuance of it in that eſtate.

Sing,] Or, Shout, for joy; as Chap. 12. 6. Zeph. 3. 14. Zach. 2. 10. for there is alſo a crying out for grief, Lam. 2. 19. where the ſame word is uſed.

O barren, thou that didſt not bear;] A want of the relative; as Chap. 51. 12. and ſo in the next branch. This ſome underſtand of the Jewiſh Church and State, returned from captivity, which, during the time of that Babyloniſh bondage, ſeemed to be as a widow, or a lone woman, barren, and without hope of iſſue, ver. 4. See Chap. 49. 21. Others, of the Gentiles, to be called in, by the miniſtery of the Goſpel, who had been before barren, and brought none forth unto God, being without Chriſt, without God, in the world, Eph. 2. 1-3, 12. It may well be underſtood of the Church, under the New Teſtament, conſiſting joyntly of Jew and Gentile; though with reference unto that former, as a type of this latter. See Gal. 4. 27.

break forth into ſinging, and cry aloud, thou that didſt not travel] The ſame thing repeated in other more emphaticall terms, implying abundant matter of exceeding great joy. Of the terms, ſee on Chap. 12. 6. & 14. 7. & 55. 12.

travel] For bear, or bring forth; the antecedent for the conſequent: as Chap. 23. 4.

for more are the children of the deſolate, then the children of the married wife, ſaith the Lord] Heb. many from, or, in compariſon of, them, for, more in number then they; as it is rendred, Gal. 4. 27. See the like uſe of this particle, Judg. 5. 24. Pſal. 45. 7. Prov. 22. 1. Eccl. 7. 1. That is, as not a few: the Jewiſh State, that had been a long time deſolate, ſhall abound in people, much more then either her ſelf formerly, in her flouriſhing eſtate, as ſome; or, then other Kingdoms and Provinces, ſay others, that had enjoyed a continued ſucceſſion of Kings, (a King, ſay they, being as an husband to a State) which ſhe for a long time wanted; and cities inhabited, whereas their land had been depopulated, and their cities ruined: and they obſerve withal, that Jeruſalem, even in her latter times, is reported, by Pliny, l. 5. c. 14. to have been the famouſeſt, or faireſt city, not of Jewry alone, but of all the Eaſtern parts. But the moſt refer it to the ſpiritual ſtate of Sion, to the Jeruſalem, from above, unto which more children were to be begotten, and bred again, by the miniſtery of the Goſpel, 1 Cor. 4. 15. 1 Pet. 1. 23. of the Gentiles, that were wholly barren before; then of the Jews, that were ſometime fruitful, Rom. 9. 23, 26, 30. Rev. 7. 4, 9. And there is thought to be in the words, ſome alluſion to Sarahs caſe, though a long time barren, yet in iſſue afterward going beyond Hagar, Gen. 11. 30. & 17. 19. & 21. 12. & 22. 17. Gal. 4. 27, 31. or to Hannah, in regard of Peninnah, at firſt, barren, and yet afterward more fruitful then the other, 1 Sam. 1. 5, 6, 20. & 2. 5.

V. 2. Enlarge the place of thy tent] Heb. widen [illegible] Chap. 5. 14. Implying, that her iſſue, and Inhabitant[illegible]uld ſo encreaſe and multiply, that ſhe ſhould want r[illegible]eceive them. See Chap. 49. 20, 21. & 60. 4, 5. it hath ref[illegible]e to their ancient manner of dwelling in tents, Gen. 12. 8. [illegible] 1. & 26. 1[illegible]. & 33. 19. Heb. 11. 9.

and let them ſtretch out the curtains of thine hab[illegible]ions] That is let the curtains (of which their tents conſiſted, Exod. 26. 1, 12. Jer.4.20.) be ſtretched out; for the verb is uſed impersonally. See the like, Chap.33.1. & 34.12.

ſpare not, lengthen thy coards] Or, ſpare not to lengthen (as, multiply, waſh me, for, multiply to waſh me; waſh me over and over, again and again, Pſal.51.2.) thy cords: wherewith thoſe curtains were faſtened, whereof their tents conſiſted, unto pins, or ſtakes, driven into the ground. See Chap.33.20.

and ſtrengthen thy ſtakes] Make them ſtrong, and ſure, drive them faſt into the ground, that they may be able to hold, and keep tight, ſuch a weight of curtains, of that length and bredth, that thine muſt be, being faſtened to them, by thoſe cords. See hereof alſo, Chap.33.20.

V. 3. For thou ſhalt break forth on the right hand, and on the left] The reaſon why the tent was to be enlarged; becauſe her iſſue, that muſt dwell in it, would be multiplyed, and room on every ſide, on either hand, was to be made for them. See Chap.49.20.

break forth] That is, bring forth, and propagate abundantly: ſo is the word uſed, both of mankind, and other creatures, Gen.30.30,43. Exod.1.12. 1 Chr.4.38. Job 1.10. and it is a metaphor, taken, either from the breaking forth of iſſue, at time of delivery, Gen.38.33. See Chap.37.3. or, from ſuch plenty of any material laid up in a ſtore-houſe, as being more in quantity, then the place is able well to contain, breaks through the walls that encloſe it, Prov.3.10.

on the right hand, and on the left] That is, ſay ſome, to the South, and to the North; or, South-ward, and North-ward; as intimating which way the Church ſhould moſt propagate: becauſe the face being turned Eaſtward; (which part of the world, as placed before man, ſo ſituate, hath its name. See on Chap.2.6.) the South is on the right hand, (thence in Hebrew denominated. See Chap.21.1. & 43.6.) and the North on the left. But this is too nice: the phraſe, on the right hand, and on the left, is uſed for, on either ſide, Exod.14.29. Numb. 22.26. 2 Sam.16.6. Chap.9.20. In the phraſe, there ſeems a defect, to be thus more fully made up; thou ſhalt bring forth, or, be delivered of thoſe, that ſhall break out, (thorow the curtains of thy tents, if it be not made the wider to hold them) both on the right hand, and on the left; as alluding to a ſtore-houſe, ſo unreaſonably ſtowed, that the walls are enforced to give way, on either ſide. See Zach.2.4.

and thy ſeed ſhall inherit the Gentiles] This, ſome underſtand of the Jewiſh people, who, after their return from the captivity, did, in proceſſe of time, enlarge their territories, and encroached upon ſome parts of Moab, Edom, and Syria; according to that promiſe made by God, to Abraham, Gen.22.17. Thy ſeed ſhall poſſeſſe their enemies gates. But whatſoever was therein then done, was but a dim ſhadow of that which is herein principally intended; to wit, that inheritance which God would give unto Chriſt, and to his Church together with him, by multitudes of faithful converts, in all parts of the world. See on Chap.49.12. & 53.12. A work begun by the Apoſtles, the children of the former Church, and carried on by thoſe, that ſucceeded them, in the ſpreading of the Goſpel, Mat.28.19,20. Mar.16.15. Luk.24.47. Act.1.8. Rom.10.18.

and make the deſolate places to be inhabited] They ſhall people the world, that lay as deſolate before, with a new race of faithful people, ver.1. as after their return from the captivity, they re-edified, and repleniſhed their cities, and country again. Pſal.69.35. Chap.44.26. & 49.8. & 51.3.

V. 4. Fear not] Do not, out of a diſtruſtful conceit, entertain groundleſs fears, as if the things, now foretold thee, were matters incredible, and impoſſible to be performed. See Chap.41.10,14. & 43.1. & 44.8.

For thou ſhalt not be aſhamed.] Or, bluſh, Chap. 50. 7. as one fruſtrate of his expectation, and failing of his hopes, Rom. 5.5. or, thou ſhalt not continue ſtill in, or return again unto, that deſerted, dejected, and reproachful condition, wherein, at preſent, thou art, ver.6. See Chap.29.22.

neither be thou confounded; for thou ſhalt not be put to ſhame] The ſame thing repeated in other terms; to give the fuller aſſurance of the performance of the things promiſed, and add further ſtrength to the feeble faith of his poor people, Chap. 35.3,4. So likewiſe, Chap.29.22.

for thou ſhalt forget the ſhame of thy youth, and ſhalt not remember the reproach of thy widow-hood any more] Or, but thou ſhalt forget, &c. as the particle is expreſſed, Chap.30.16.& 49.25. ſo great, and glorious ſhall thy condition be, and thine iſſue ſo ample, that it ſhall drown the memory, both of thy mean, and reproachful eſtate, which in thine younger years, thou ſuſtainedſt, in the Egyptian ſervitude, Jer. 2. 2. Ezek. 23. 3. and the like alſo, which thou doſt now undergo, in thy preſent Babylonian bondage, Chap.49.21. Lam. 1.1. thou ſhalt no more regard them, (ſo great ſhall thy joy be) then as if they had never been, Chap.65.16. Joh.16.21. See the like expreſſions, Gen.41.30,31,51.

V. 5. For thy Maker is thine husband; (the Lord of hoſts is his name)] Or, Thy Maker (whoſe name is the Lord of hoſts) (as Chap.51.15.) is thine husband. The Soveraign Lord of the whole world, who hath all the creatures at his command, and who, at firſt, founded thee, Deut.32.15,18. Pſal.149.2. Chap. 43.1.& 44.2. is joyned in marriage unto thee; and will again live and dwell, as an husband, with thee, to make thee fruitful in iſſue, and honourable in eſtate, as beſeemeth the wife of ſuch an one to be. See Chap.62.5. Hoſ.2.19,20. Eph. 5.25, 27,32.

Maker] Heb. makers; for the word is in the plural number; as Job 35.10. See the note there.

and thy Redeemer, the holy One of Iſrael, the God of the whole earth ſhall he be called] Or, and he, that is, thy redeemer, the holy One of Iſrael; or, thy redeemer, who is the holy One of Iſrael, ſhall be called the God of the whole earth. He that founded thee, will now reſcue, and reſtore thee again, Chap. 49. 7, 26. and will not be only (to be called, for, to be: as Chap.4.3. & 56.7.) the God of Iſrael, as formerly he hath been, Deut. 26.17,18. but the God of all nations, thorow out the whole world, Chap.56.3,7. Zach.14.9. Mat.28.19. Rom.3.29,30. & 10.12,13.

V. 6. For the Lord hath called thee, as a woman forſaken, and grieved in ſpirit, and a wife of youth, when thou waſt refuſed, ſaith thy God] Or, as ſome render the words, For the Lord will call, or revoke thee, as a woman that hath been forſaken, and grieved in ſpirit, and a wife of youth, though thou waſt rejected, will thy God, call, or name, thee.

the Lord hath called thee] Or, will call; or, as ſome, will recal thee: as, out of Egypt I called back my ſon, Hoſ.11.1. God will re-unite thee again unto him, as a man his wife, that he had left for a time, Jer.3.1,12. & 4.1.

as a woman forſaken] By her husband, upon ſome diſlike, or difference, falling out between them; ſo ſeemed ſhe to be, during the time of her captivity, Chap.62.4. See ver.7.

grieved in ſpirit] In regard of her barrenneſs, ſay ſome, that was reproachful in thoſe times, 1 Sam. 1. 6-8, 15. See on Chap.4.1. but rather in regard, that God her husband ſeemed to have forſaken her, Chap.49.14. the word uſed here, is that from whence Jabez his mother gave him, that name, 1 Chron.4.9. there is an elegant conſonancy between this term, and the former, in the Hebrew, which our Engliſh cannot expreſs.

and a wife of youth] a young wife; or, a wife taken in youth, Prov.5.18. Mal.2.14. as an husband of youth, Joel 1.8. thou ſhalt be as dear to me, as a young wife to her husband, Chap. 62.5, or, as ever thou waſt to me, in thy younger dayes, at firſt, Jer.2.1,2. Ezek.16.8.

when thou waſt refuſed] Or, though thou haſt been, or waſt rejected, or caſt off; as it is rendred, Jer.31.37. for ſo ſhe ſeemed to be, during the time of her captivity, as a woman divorced, Chap.50.1. diſmiſſed, Jer.3.1. and caſt off; ſo ſhe complaineth of her ſelf, that God had utterly caſt her off, Lam. 5. 20. and further, that he had made her as refuſe, among forreign people, Lam.3.45. which word ſeemeth the rather here to be uſed, as implying the deſpicable eſtate, that ſhe had been in, while her abode was in Babylon. See Jer. 30. 17, and for the uſe of the particle, ſee on Chap.12.1.

ſaith thy God] Saith he, who continueth ſtill to be thy God, and to mind thee, and thy good, Ch.49.15,16. or, as ſome, who joyn this clauſe to thoſe words, a wife of youth; incloſing, as in a parentheſis, thoſe that lye between them; a wife of youth will the Lord name thee, or call thee. So the verb of ſaying, is found uſed in the participle. O thou that are named, or, called, the houſe of Jacob, Mic.2.7. and the pronoun, oft omitted, may well be ſupplyed from the former branch. See Chap.51. 2,3.& 58.13.

V. 7. For a ſmall moment] For a very ſhort time. God as he is ſlow to wrath, Exod.34.6. Num.14.18. Chap. 48.9. ſo ſhort in wrath uſually, and in the expreſſions of it, towards his, Pſal.30.5. & 103.8,9. Chap.26.20. their ſeventy years captivity, is reckoned but as a moment; not only in regard of God, with whom, a thouſand years are but as one day, Pſal. 90. 4. 2 Pet.3.8. and mans life reckoned, at that rate, Pſal. 90. 10. leſſe then a moment, as juſt nothing, Pſalm 30. 5. but in regard of that enſuing favour, and goodneſſe of God, that ſhall continue unto all eternity, and that exceeding maſs of glory and happineſſe iſſuing from it; able not to weigh down only, but to ſwallow up, whatſoever foregoing afflictions and grievances, though never ſo great, and of never ſo long continuance, 2 Cor. 4. 17,18. Rom. 8.18. Heb. 11.37.

have I forſaken thee] So God ſeemeth to do, both to the ſight of others, and to their own ſenſe alſo, when he withdraweth from his people, thoſe outward expreſſions of his favour and love towards them, which they had formerly enjoyed; and more eſpecially, when for ſome ſpace of time, he giveth them up into, and leaveth them in the hands of their enemies Pſal.22.1.& 27.9.& 71.11.

but with great mercies will I gather thee.] Heb. and (for but; as Chap.53.5.) with great tender mercies (for ſo the word is not amiſs rendred, Pſal. 103.4. importing an inward earning, and working of the bowels, in a mother, towards the fruit of her womb, from whence the word comes, 1 King.3.16.) will I gather thee; or, take thee up; as it is well rendred, Pſal. 27.10. as ſome left, loſt, or forlorn creature. See Chap. 40.11. Yet there may be in the word, ſome hint had to their diſperſion, in the captivity, into ſundry parts, out of which they were to be recollected, before they could be reduced. See Chap. 11,11,12. Thus is God far more free, and full in mercies and goodneſs, then in wrath and anger, to his, Exod.20.6. Pſal.30. 5.& 63.3.& 86.5.

V. 8. In a little wrath, I hid my face from thee, for a moment;] The ſame thing, in other terms, repeated again; as before the like was obſerved, ver.4.

a little wrath] Oppoſed to the great mercies, mentioned ver. 7. The word rendred little, is no where elſe found; but ſeems to have ſome affinity with a word uſed, Iob 4.12. & 26. 14. that is deemed to ſignifie a ſnip: and there is an elegant Paronomaſie (which our Engliſh will not yeeld) between it, and the word tranſlated wrath; but ſignifying, properly, a bubble, Hoſ. 10.7. that is no ſooner up, but is ſuddenly down again; and may the rather be here uſed, to imply the ſhortneſs of Gods wrath. See Chap.34.2.

I hid my face from thee] So alſo is God ſaid to do, when he withdraws and with-holds the wonted expreſſions of his favour, from perſons, and people; eſpecially, when having ſo done, and they being now in ſtraits and diſtreſſes, he anſwereth not their ſuits, for relief and releaſe, according to their deſires, Deut.32.20. Pſal.27.9.& 30.7. See Chap.1.15. & 8.17. & 57.17. a ſpeech borrowed from thoſe, that refuſe to admit unto ſight, or to look upon one, whom they do really diſaffect, or would ſeem at leaſt to be diſpleaſed with, 2 Sam.14.24,28, 32. 2 King.13.14. See on Chap.53.3.

for a moment] As ver.7.

but with everlaſting kindneſs will I have mercy on thee;] Heb. and (as before, ver.7.) with kindneſs of perpetuity; oppoſed to that little, or ſhort moment of diſpleaſure, before-mentioned. See Pſal.103.17. Ier.31.3.

ſaith the Lord thy Redeemer.] As ver. 5.

V. 9. For this is as the waters of Noah unto me] This covenant of grace, that I will now enter into with thee, ſhall be as firm, and as ſure to continne, as that which I made at the general deluge; never to drown the whole World in that manner again, Gen.9.9-11.

the waters of Noah] As we uſe to ſay, Noahs floud, for the deluge in his days, concerning ſuch a general inundation as then was: the note of ſimilitude wanting; as Chap. 51. 12. Yet the Iewiſh Criticks, ſome of them, have another reading here, which the Chaldee alſo exhibiteth; and the old Latine retaineth, rendring the text, as the days of Noah; as Matth.24. 37. but the former reading is the more received; nor do the Jews themſelves approve the other.

for as I have ſworn] Heb. which I have ſworn; or, as ſome render it, who have ſworn; as having relation unto the words next before, unto me. Others, concerning which I have ſworn. But it may well be rendred, As I have ſworn: for ſo is the relative uſed, Jer. 48.8. as the Lord hath ſpoken. Otherwiſe, if we retain our verſion here, the relative muſt ſtand for the conjunction cauſal; as 1 Sam.15.15. and the note of ſimilitude muſt be ſupplied, as before; which is oft alſo in the other particle included. See Chap.55.9.

I have ſworn] Or, did, ſometime, ſwear; where any formall oath, concerning this, was by God conceived, we find not. Howbeit, in regard that ſolemn covenants of great concernment, were wont to be confirmed by oath, Gen.26.28, 31. & 31.44, 53. 1 Sam.20.16,17,42. God therefore ſpeaks here of his ſolemn Covenant, made, with all mankind, to Noah, as if he had taken a formal oath, in preciſe terms, for the conſtant and inviolable performance of it; as to Abraham he did for the confirmation of his faith, Gen.12.2.& 17.3,4. & 22.17. Hebr. 6.13,14. and is ſaid to have done the like unto Iſaac, Pſal. 105.9. though we read only of a promiſe made him without any new oath, to make good unto him the oath made formerly to Abraham, Gen.26.3,4. Yea, ſo is God ſaid to have ſworn, to make David King of Iſrael, 2 Sam.3.9. and to ſet of his iſſue on his throne for ever, Pſal.132.11. though we finde not upon record any formal oath concerning either: onely a ſolemn ſymbol, intimating the one, 1 Sam.16.12,13. and a ſolemn meſſage ſent unto him, concerning the other, 2 Sam.7. 12,16. but Gods promiſes are as firm and ſure, as any oath is, or can be. God cannot ly, nor fail in the leaſt title of ought he ſaith, or undertaketh, Num.23.19. 1 Sam.15.29. Mat.5.18. Tit.1.2.

that the waters of Noah ſhall no more go over the earth;] That is, ſuch an inundation, as was in Noahs time, to drown the whole world again, Heb. from the waters of Noah paſſing over the earth: as if he had ſaid, I bound my ſelf, as by oath, from cauſing or ſuffering them ſo to do. Of the phraſe, ſee before, Chap.17.1.& 23.1.& 24.10. So in the next clauſe, from being wrath, and from rebuking.

ſo have I ſworn, that I would not be wrath with thee, nor rebuke thee] I have bound my ſelf by oath, from being ſo incenſed againſt thee, as utterly to caſt thee off, or to deſtroy thee; for of ſuch a kind of wrath, and ſuch a kind of rebuke, Pſal. 9. 5. doth God ſpeak in this place. See on the next verſe. Otherwiſe God is angry oft, even with the beſt of his, Exod. 3. 14. Num.12.7. Deut.3.26. and rebuketh thoſe, and that ſharply too, ſometime, whom he loves beſt, 2 Sam.11.27. and 12.10,11. Pſal.32.3,4. & 38.3. & 118.18. Heb.12.6. Rev. 3. 19. Of Gods rebuke, not verbal, but real, ſee Chap. 50.2. Many other reſemblances, between the waters of Noah, and the ſtate of people, do ſome Expoſitors, and other Writers, here frame; which conceiving to be beſide the intention of Gods Spirit in this place, I forbear either to refute, or relate.

V. 10. For the mountains ſhall depart, and the hills be removed; but my kindneſſe ſhall not depart from thee, neither ſhall the covenant of my peace be removed] That is, ſooner ſhall the one be, then the other. So Chap.51.6. See Jer.31.35-37.& 33. 20,21,25,26. from which places, parallel to this, collated with this, may evidently appear, in what notion thoſe terms of wrath, and rebuke, ver.9. are to be taken.

the mountains ſhall depart] Not neceſſarily implying, that they ſhall ſo do: for many of them are like to ſtand as long as the world laſts, Pſal.65.6. but that they ſooner may ſo do, (as alſo ſome, ſometime, in earthquakes, have done, alluded unto, Hab.3.6. Zach.14.4. Rev.6.14. and whole regions with them; whereof, ſee Seneca, in his natural queſtions, l.6. c.29. and Pliny, in his natural ſtory, l.2. c. 81,85,86.) ſooner then that ſhould come to paſſe, that God ſaith, and ſwears, here, ſhall never be: this the people of God build upon, Pſal. 46. 3.

the hills be removed] As following, or going along with the greater; mountains and hills, are oft joyned together, Chap. 30.25. & 31.4. & 40.4,12. & 41.15. and in the two verbs here uſed, mut, and muſh, differing but in one letter, there is an harmony of ſound, which our language cannot fitly expreſs.

the covenant of my peace] Or, rather, my covenant of peace, Ezek.34.25. & 37.26. that is, of reconcilement to thee, and continuance at one with thee, Rom.5.1,10. & 8.35,38,39. or of welfare, proſperity, and ſafety, everlaſting, and never to have an end; for that notion alſo, the word of peace, oft hath, Gen. 33. 18. Chap.9.6. & 26.3,12. & 48.18. ver. 13. See Heb.9.12, & 10,14. & 13.20. whether way we take it, a moſt ſweet and comfortable conſideration for every true-hearted ſoul to rely, and reſt it ſelf upon, Chap.50.10.

ſaith the Lord that hath mercy on thee] So Chap.14.1. implying, that it is all of meer mercy, whatſoever God, in this kind, doth for any of his, Pſal.6.4. & 106.43. Eph.2.4,5. Tit.3.5.

V. 11. O thou afflicted, toſſed with tempeſt, and not comforted] Heb. afflicted, (Chap. 51. 21.) ſtormed; like Jonas his ſhip, Jon.1.11,13. for the ſame word is uſed of either: ſuch ſeemed their eſtate to be, forlorn, helpleſs, and hopeleſs, during the time of their captivity. So God by Zachary uſing the very ſame word, ſaith, that he had ſtormed them, that is, with a ſtorm, or tempeſt, driven them out, as a ſhip, or a fleet of ſhips, forced out of the haven, or from their moorings, where they road in harbour quietly, into the main ocean, Zach.7.14. and there with boiſterous winds diſtreſſed, weather-beaten, and without rudder, tackle, or ancker, toſſed to and fro, Jam.3.4. in which diſtracted and diſtreſſed eſtate, they ſeemed to continue, while their captivity laſted, both deſtitute of all help from man, Chap.51.17,18. Lam.1.2,3,12. and ſeeming utterly forſaken of, and forgotten with, God, ch.40. 27. & 49.14.

behold, I will lay thy ſtones with fair colours, and lay thy foundations with Saphir] God promiſeth, not to raiſe her onely, out of that dejected and diſtreſſed eſtate, wherein at preſent ſhe was, but to advance her, to a moſt eminent, and glorious condition: the ſpiritual excellencies of the Church, under the Meſſias, being here deſcribed by an hyperbolical ſimilitude of ſuch a goodly, coſtly, ſtately ſtructure, whether city, or palace, as here on earth, is ſcarce imaginable: whereof, ſee the like, Rev.21.11-21. and the relation hereof, is therefore uſhiered in, with a note uſually prefixed before ſuch matter, as may deſervedly require, both ſerious conſideration, and admiration in abundance. See Chap.7.14. & 28.16.

lay thy ſtones with fair colours] Heb. I am making, or, will make, (as Chap.3.1. is taking away) to lye with puc, or phuc, thy ſtones; about which, the Jewiſh Criticks much puzzle themſelves. Some would have it rendered, I will lay thy foundation, and the ſtones ſhall be of puc, or phuc. Other, I will lay thy pavement, with ſtones of puc, or phuc: and they tell us, ſome of them, that it is the name of a pretious ſtone, of a ſandy colour. Others, that it is black; and the ſame with nophec, mentioned, Exod.28.18. which the moſt render, a Carbuncle, there; as many alſo do this here. Howbeit, a carbuncle is not black, having its name, indeed, from a coal, but a quick, and burning coal meant, not a dead one, as being of a fiery and flamy colour. See on ver. 12. The word certainly ſignifies a kind of paint, tincture, or complexion, (as we now adayes term it) wherewith women uſed to impaint, or paint and corrupt rather, their native hew, 2 King.9.30. Jer.4.30. which, whether it were compoſed of the juice of ſome plant, or, the matter of ſome mineral, is not among the Jewiſh Doctors agreed: But hence it is, not unlikely, that the latine word, fucus, uſed in general, for all ſuch ſtuff, accuſtomed to counterfeit with, had its original; from whence alſo, was one of Jobs daughters named, the horn of paint, or, complexion; for the eminency of her beauty, Job 42.14. and the Chaldee Paraphraſt, therefore, rendreth the words, I will cover, or, varniſh thy ſtones with paint; uſing a word that is acknowledged to ſignifie ſuch ſtuff, as was before deſcribed: and ſo our late tranſlators, as ſome others alſo before them, both here, and 1 Chr.29.2. render it, where the text is, ſtones of puc, or phuc. The verb, whoſe participle is here uſed, ſignifies, in its firſt form, to lye down; properly, as beaſts do: diſtinguiſhed from another appropriated to mankind: yet ſometime it is uſed more generally, as Job 11.19. Chap.14.30. in the form here uſed, it ſignifies, to make to lye down, or to lay. Whence ſome of the Jewiſh Commenters here render it, by a word uſed, Cant.3.10. (from whence another for a pavement, 2 King.16.17.) ſignifying to pave; as if he had ſaid, I will lay thy pavement, or pave thee, with painted ſtones; or, make thy pavement ſtones of goodly colours; that is, of ſuch fair, and curious colours, as may ſeem to have had ſome artificial tincture uſed to them, Rev.21.21. the ſtreets of the new Jeruſalem, are ſaid to be paved with pure gold, as tranſparent as glaſſe. The participle is here put for the verb: as chap. 3. 1. and there may ſeem an inverſion of the terms, I will lay, or pave in, or, with paint, thy ſtones, for, I will pave thee with ſtones of paint: as the words are, 2 Chr. 29. 2. See the like inverſion of terms, Judg.1.8. Pſal. 74. 7. Howſoever, I concur rather with thoſe, that underſtand this branch of the pavement, then with thoſe that refer it to the foundation; whereof, in the next.

and lay thy foundations with Saphirs] Heb. found thee with Saphirs; as before, pave thee with painted ſtones. This ſtone is found in the Prieſtly breſt-plate, Exod.28.18. as alſo, in the foundations of the new Jeruſalem, Rev. 21. 19. the Jewiſh Doctors tell us, ſome of them, that it is a precious ſtone of a red colour; and that they would prove from Lam.4.7. Other of them, that it is of a white colour; that which they would draw from Exod.24.10. but neither with any probability of proof from thoſe places, as we ſhall (God willing, and aſſiſting us) ſhew, if we ſhall be able to break thorow to the former of them. But our Jewellers, and Lapidaries, generally hold the right Saphir, to be of a ſky colour; though ſometime found, as powdred with ſome golden ſpots. So Theophraſt, of ſtones, Pliny, l.37. c.9. and Dennis, the Greek Geographer, who calleth it therefore, the golden ſky coloured-Saphir. In regard hereof, it is in viſions, and apparitions, ſo frequently mentioned, Exod.24.10. Ezek.1.26. & 10.1. and hence ſome read thoſe words of God to Job, Job.38.37. Who by his wiſdom can make the ſky of a Saphirine hew; ſuch as it ſheweth, when the ayr is moſt cleer, and free from clouds. The word is both in Greek and Latine, the ſame with the Hebrew.

V. 12. And I will make thy windows of Agates] The windows are of ſpecial uſe in a building; and in regard of their ſituation, very conſpicuous. They are here ſtyled by a term, not elſewhere found, derived from the Sun, (whence alſo Samſon had his name,) becauſe the ordinary uſe of them, is to let in the day-light, that proceeds from the Sun. And this being a principal uſe of them, beſide their eminency otherwiſe, gives juſt cauſe to doubt, whether the word Cadcod, be well rendred an Agate; the Agate, being a ſtone, neither of any eſteem not reckoning neer to a Saphir, not tranſparent, as the Saphir is. Howbeit, in Theophraſts time, it ſeems by him, that it bare ſome price: and Pliny, l.37. c.10. enformeth us, that though, in his time, they were of no great value, yet were, ſome ſort of them, commended for their glaſſy perſpicuity. But they that render it an Achate, or an Agate, ſeem to have been led moſt thereunto, by the affinity of the ſound, and the letters, in either term, interchangeable. Others render it, both here; as alſo, Ezek. 27. 16. ſome, a Pyropus, as ſo termed, of ſparkling like fire, Job 41.19. ſome, a Chryſopraſe; ſome, Pearl; ſome, Amber; ſome, Chriſtal; which with windows ſeems beſt to ſuit: for they go too low, that would draw it down to glaſſe; whereof alſo, I ſuppoſe no mention to be, in the ſacred records, left us, in the Hebrew. Some would have inſtead of windows, here, turrets, or ſentinels: but the notation of the word ſpeaketh for the former.

and thy gates of carbuncles] Heb. ſtones of Ekdah, or, Ekdach; as Ahez, and Achaz, Chap.1.1. a word no where elſe found in Scripture; but having its name from a word that ſignifies to kindle fire, and to burn, Chap.50.10 & 64.2. from which root alſo comes another term, that denotes a kind of hot, burning, malady; as doth alſo the word Carbuncle, both in Engliſh and Latine; and its parallel in Greek, importeth as well a ſore, or ulcer, ſo called of the inflammation, it bringeth with it, as a rich ſtone, of its fiery, or flamy colour, ſo termed. See on ver.11. the gates, Rev.21.21. are ſaid to be each of one entire pearl.

all thy borders of pleaſant ſtones] Heb. all thy border; or, thy whole border; that is, ſay ſome of the Jewiſh Commenters, all thy cities; not Jeruſalem alone, but all the cities, within her territories, called Jeruſalems cities, Jer. 34.1. as intimating, that they ſhould be built with goodly rich ſtones, as well as ſhe. But I rather conceive, with the ancient Greek Interpreter, that by border, is here meant, the whole compaſs of her walls, ſo far, as the ſame ſhould reach, See Chap. 60. 18. Ezek.48.35. the foundation, the pavement, the gates, and windows, were before; there reſts nothing, but the walls, that bound it; and the compaſſe thereof, therefore, not unfitly termed, her border. By the foundation, ſome would have underſtood here, Chriſt our Saviour, 1 Cor.3.11. By the windows, the teachers, that let in light to the people, Dan. 12. 3. By the gates, and walls, Gods protection, Chap. 26. 1. & 60.12. But to deſcend to ſuch nicities, I deem it both unſafe, and needleſſe.

of pleaſant ſtones] Heb. into ſtones of deſire, or delight: ſtones of delight, for, goodly, beautiful, delightſome ſtones; ſuch as are pleaſing to the eye, and men delight to look upon: (ſee Pſal. 102.14.) as, a city of deſire, or delight, for, a delightſome city, Mal.3.12. for the ſyntax, both here, and in the former branch, I will put thy windows, and border, into ſuch and ſuch ſtones: Some would have it to be an Hypallage, or Inverſion of the words; for, I will put ſuch and ſuch ſtones into thy windows, and into thy walls; or, in thy windows, and thy walls; as Judg.1.8. They caſt the city into the fire, for, they caſt fire into the city. Others, and ſo ſome of the Jewiſh Criticks, would have it to be, as if it were ſaid, I will turn the ſtones that thou waſt at firſt built with, into ſuch and ſuch ſtones; and ſo the terms of windows and walls, ſhould be put for the materials whereof they were built: and they point us to Hoſ.2.12. where it is ſaid, (the ſame verb and particle, being both there uſed, that are here) I will turn her vines and fig-trees (that is, the places wherein they grow, their vineyards, and orchards) into a foreſt. But this paſſage helps rather to put us into the right. For it is well there rendred in our verſion, I will make them a foreſt. And in ſuch forms of ſpeech, the particle ſeems oft to be ſuperfluous, as 2 Sam.3.30. 1 Chron. 3.2. compared with, 2 Sam.3.3. Jer.40.2. See ch.4.2. Jer.12.11. or, if it ſhall be deemed to be of ſome ſpecial uſe, the words may be rendred; I will make them to become a foreſt, in the one place; and I will make them to be ſuch, and ſuch ſtones, in the other; which our verſion ſufficiently expreſſeth.

V. 13. And all thy children ſhall be taught of the Lord;] Or, made ſkilfull, and learned, by the Lord. See Chap.8.[illegible] & 50.4. For Gods teaching, is an effectual teaching unto thoſe, whom, by the inward efficacy of his Spirit working together, with the external miniſtery of his Word, he inſtructeth, Jer. 31.34. Joh.6.45. 1 Cor.2.10. 2 Cor.13.3. Eph.4.20, [illegible]. 1 Joh.2. 20, 27.

and great ſhall be the peace of thy children] [illegible] ſhall enjoy abundance of proſperity and welfare, Pſal.37.11. & 119. 165. Chap.48.18. & 52. 7. See on ver.10.

V. 14. In righteouſneſs ſhalt thou be eſtabliſhed:] Thou ſhalt be ſetled again by righteous and faithful Governours; ſuch as were Zorobabel, Ezra, Jeſhua, and Nehemy: righteouſneſs, for men of righteouſneſs; as Chap.1.21. & 41.2. So ſome; See Chap. 1.26, 27. Others, by righteouſneſs, underſtand Gods gracious goodneſs, whereby their State ſhould again be eſtabliſhed. So the word ſeems uſed, 1 Sam. 12.7. Pſal.36.10. ver.17. Others, Gods fidelity and faithfulneſs, in performance of his promiſes; as Pſal.142.1,2. Chap.51.5. & 56.1. Heb.8. 10. 1 Joh. 1.9. But I conceive the meaning to be, as the words plainly ſound, (righteouſneſs being oppoſed to oppreſſion) that ſhe ſhall be ſetled again in a conſtant tenour, and due execution of juſtice; with ſecurity, to enjoy quietly that condition, that God ſhould reſtore her unto, (ſee Chap.1.27.) the continuance whereof, as ſetled on a ſure ground-work, is implied in the term of eſtabliſhment, Pſal.111.7, 8. & 125.1. Mat.16.18. Heb.12.28. See Chap.2.2.

thou ſhalt be far from oppreſſion;] Heb. be thou far from oppreſſion: though ſome would make it not a verb, but a verbal, rendring it, being far off from oppreſſion; but no inſtance is given of the like: the meaning is, either be thou far, for thou ſhalt be far : as, live, for thou ſhalt live, Gen.20.7. Prov. 4.4. and dwell, for thou ſhalt dwel, Pſal. 37.27. and ſo the Hebrew Commenters expound it: or, be far from fear of oppreſſion: fear it not; and ſo ſome of ours, ſupplying that term of fear, or dread, from the words enſuing. See the like promiſe, Chap.60.18.

for thou ſhalt not fear;] Thou ſhalt have no need, or cauſe, to fear it; becauſe the former oppreſſors ſhall be deſtroyed; and an utter riddance made of them, Chap. 16.4. and if any ſhall hereafter attempt ought againſt thee, their deſigns ſhall be utterly fruſtrate, ver. 15-17. Some read the words, that thou maiſt not fear; that thou mayſt be freed from thoſe fears, that ſo much poſſeſſed, diſturbed, and diſtracted thee in times paſt, Chap.33.18.& 51.12,13. So is this particle uſed, Job 6. 11. Chap. 52.5,6. and this reading ſuiteth well with the former expoſition of the branch before-going.

and from terrour;] Or, dread; to wit, of oppreſſion; whereof before: for the word is oft uſed for conſternation; or, a quelling and diſmaying dread, Jer.10.2.& 17.17.& 48.39. but it may as well be rendred, and from contrition, or deſtruction, or ruine: for ſo alſo the word ſignifies; and is ſo rendred, Pſal.89.40.Prov.10.14,29. & 13.3.& 18.7. ſuch as formerly hath befallen thee, Jer.4 20.Lam.3.47.

for it ſhall not come neer thee.] Or, that it may not come neer thee; as before, Pſal.91.7.Prov.1.33.

V. 15. Behold,] To give them fuller aſſurance of future ſafety, becauſe they might have ſome thoughts within them, that though their former adverſaries, and oppreſſors, were quelled and deſtroyed; yet ſome other riſing up in their room, might again diſturb them, and reduce them to their former ſad condition, the Lord promiſeth to fruſtrate whatſoever attempts ſhall, by any evill-affected, be at any time made againſt them; and to encite, and ſtir them up to a more ſerious and ſedulous conſideration thereof, he prefixeth this note, as requiring attention before it: whereof, ſee on verſe 11.

they ſhall ſurely gather together,] Heb. he ſhall gathering, gather together: ſo the word is uſed, Pſal.56.6. & 59.3.& 140.3. and the word, though ſingular, yet is in a plural, or collective notion; as ſpeaking, not of ſome particular perſon, but of people: the gemination of the word, in this manner, doth ſometime imply, certainty; as Mic .2. 12. and ſo our tranſlators here take it: and the meaning then is, that there ſhall undoubtedly be ſuch, as will be attempting the diſturbance and deſtruction of Gods people; as ſuch formerly have ever been, Pſal.129.1. 2 Tim.3.12. ſometime, ſedulity; as Exod. 19.5.Deut.6.17. and taking it ſo here, the text may be rendred, they may diligently gather together; as not foretelling what ſhall be, but forecaſting what may be; as if it were ſaid, though people ſhould never ſo ſedulouſly, and in never ſo great multitudes, combine, and gather themſelves together againſt thee, Zach.12.3. yet it ſhall be to no purpoſe, Chap. 8. 9, 10. Thoſe that here conceive the word in a notion of dwelling, or ſojourning (though it be moſt commonly ſo uſed) and expound the text of hollow-hearted Proſelytes, do ſwerve clean away from the genuine ſenſe of the Prophet.

but not by me:] Heb. not from me: the adverſative is wanting; as chap.17.11. from me: not with any charge, command, or commiſſion from me; as Sennacherib pretended, and God himſelf, in ſome ſort, acknowledgeth; though that neither known to him, nor minded by him, Chap. 10. 6, 7. and of Nebuchadnezzar the like may be ſaid, Jer.25.9. & 40.2,3. but it ſhould not be ſo with theſe, who are therefore ſaid to come not from him, becauſe he ſhould not go along with them, to make them ſucceſsfull, as with ſome of them he did. So Hoſ. 8. 4. they have ſet up Kings, but not by me. The Jewiſh Commenters, expounding this paſſage of Gog and Magog, with their retinue, object, that God himſelf is ſaid to bring them againſt his people, Ezek.38.17. whereunto they anſwer not amiſs, that God indeed is ſaid to bring them; but that it is to their ruine, and to the benefit of his people. So Mic. 4. 11-13.

whoſoever ſhall gather together againſt thee ſhall fall for thy ſake.] Or, whatſoever people ſhall gather themſelves together againſt thee, to fight with thee, ſhall fall, Pſal. 59.3. & 140.3. or, whoſoever ſhall gather together, to fight with thee, ſhall fall before thee: as the particle is uſed, Zach.6.5.Exod.20.3. Pſal. 9.19. So, they ſhall fall before you, Levit. 26. 7,8. All their attempts againſt thee, ſhall tend to their own ruine, and end in their own deſtruction, Pſal. 27. 2. & 37.12-15. Chap. 10. 34.

V. 16. Behold] as before, ver.15.

I have created the Smith that bloweth the coals in the fire, and that bringeth forth an inſtrument for his work:] Both the workman, that maketh weapons, and arms, and the Warrier, that weareth them, or maketh uſe of them, are my creatures; and in my power therefore it is, to diſpoſe both of them, and their arms, and weapons, as I pleaſe, Pſal.119.91. Joh.19.11.

created the Smith] Both made him a man, Job 10.8. Pſal. 119.73. Jer.1.5. and made him a Smith; a man skilful in the work of his trade: for, skill in ſuch things, is alſo of God, Exod.31.3-6. of the word rendred Smith, ſee on Chap. 40.19.

that bloweth the coals in the fire] Or, that bloweth the fire of coals. Heb. coal. See Chap.44.12. thereby to melt, or mollifie the metal, that he is to work upon: this is added, to diſtinguiſh him from the Carpenter, that worketh in timber, and the Maſon that worketh in ſtone; and need not the help of fire ſo much, to make out their work: becauſe the term here uſed, comprehendeth them all three. See on Chap.40. 20. & 41.7.

and that bringeth forth an inſtrument for his work] That is, if we ſo read it, a tool, for himſelf to uſe in his trade; which ſeems not to ſuit with the ſcope of the place, ſave that ſuch tools, as he frames for his own uſe, may further him, in the framing of arms. See Chap.44.12. Others, therefore, read it, an inſtrument of his work: as, a Pſalm of David, Pſalm, 20. & 21,&c. that is, ſuch an one, as he is wont to make: warlike weapons, being, a great part of them, fruits of the forge, 1 Sam.13.19. And this not amiſs. Howbeit, I conceive, that it may as well be rendred, that produceth inſtruments for their work; that is, ſuch weapons, as they muſt uſe, that intend ought againſt thee, ver.15. for though the verb there be ſingular, yet the notion is plural, and ſo may alſo be here; as Chap.5.26-30. where, though the text in the original run conſtantly in the ſingular; yet the words, becauſe collectively uſed, are not amiſs, all along, rendred in the plural: and ſo it ſuiteth fitly, both with what went before, ver.15. and with what followeth, ver.17. For I cannot concur with thoſe, that would have the words expounded, by way of inverſion; that bringeth his work out into an inſtrument. But inſtrument, for, inſtruments: as Jer.51.34. Zach.11.15. ſo, coal, for coals, before.

and I have created the waſter to deſtroy] to deſtroy thoſe, whom my Will is to have deſtroyed. It may be underſtood of wicked men, whoſe whole ſtudy, life, and practice, is to waſte and deſtroy: for ſuch alſo doth God make uſe of, Chap.10.6. and for ſuch uſes, hath he made them, Prov.16.4. to be executioners of his juſt wrath againſt other wicked, (ſo is that of Solomon to be underſtood) Chap.10.5. Ezek.7.21,24. But I ſuppoſe, that by the waſter, or deſtroyer, is underſtood the warrier, in general; whoſe work and employment is to waſte and deſtroy; and whoſe arms are therefore termed weapons, or, inſtruments of deſtruction, from the word here uſed, Ezek. 9. 1. Some would have the whole verſe, to this effect, rendred; As I have created the Smith to produce warlike weapons; ſo have I made waſters (I want not inſtruments my ſelf) to deſtroy mine enemies, and thine. But the former ſenſe is more familiar, and agreeth better with the context.

V. 17. No weapon that is formed againſt thee ſhall proſper:] That is formed to be employed againſt thee: a form of ſpeech defective, but in Scripture very frequent. See Chap.38.17, 21. and of Gods turning back mens weapons, upon thoſe themſelves, that uſe them. See Jer.21.4.

and every tongue that ſhall riſe up in judgment againſt thee, thou ſhalt condemn] There are two wayes eſpecially, whereby perſons are wont to be oppreſſed, either by force and violence, as Urias was, Jer.26.23. or, by pretence of law and right; as was Naboth, 1 King.21.13. againſt the one, God in the former branch, had given them ſecurity; aſſuring them, that none, by hoſtile courſes, ſhould prevail againſt them: for no weapon, or engine, uſed againſt them, ſhould be able to do, either the enemy ſervice, or them damage: againſt the other, he giveth them ſecurity in theſe words, aſſuring them, that none ſhould by falſe ſuggeſtions, and wrong information, any way impeach them in their right; but that they ſhould have the better, at length, in the upſhot, of all thoſe, that by any means ſhould attempt ſo to do. See Chap. 49.24,25. & 50.8,9. & 51.22.

every tongue] That is, every perſon, that ſhall ſo uſe, or abuſe rather, his tongue; as Pſal.12.3. The Lord will cut off the flattering lips, and the tongue that ſpeaketh proud things; that is, thoſe that ſo uſe lips and tongue; becauſe ſuch things are acted by the tongue, Pſal.52.2. whence, a man of tongue, for, a detracter, or ſlanderer, Pſal.140.11.

riſe up in judgment againſt thee] To accuſe, or charge thee wrongfully, Deut.19.16. as the Devil did Job to God, Job 1. 9,11. and his friends to himſelf, Job 16.20. & 22.5-10. or, to lay claim to thee, as pretending to have right to thee, and power over thee, as their lawful captive, or ſlave, Chap.49.24. & 52.3-5.

ſhalt thou condemn] They ſhall not caſt thee, Pſal.109.6,7, 31. but thou ſhalt caſt them: thou ſhalt be cleered, Pſal.37.6. and they ſhall be convinced of falſhood, and condemned accordingly to ſuffer, Deut.25.1. & 19.17-19.

This is the heritage of the Servants of the Lord;] A ſolemn cloſe of all before related, concerning the ſtate of Gods people. The like whereunto, ſee concerning their adverſaries, Chap.17.14. and the wicked in general, Job 18.21. & 20.29. and concerning both the one, and the other, Judg. 5.31.

the heritage of the ſervants of the Lord] The portion that God will vouchſafe to beſtow upon his ſervants, for their fidelity & loyalty ſhewed in his ſervice; and the priviledge, or benefit, that from thence ſhall accrue unto them. See Job 20.29. & 27.13. & 31.2. and it ſeems to allude to that of Solomon, concerning a wiſe, and diſcreet ſervant, that he ſhall ſhare in the heritage among the brethren, Prov.17.1. that which the Apoſtle alſo ſaith of the faithful Servant, that from God, he ſhall receive, as a reward of his faithful ſervice, the inheritance, that belongeth to a ſon and heir, Col.3.24. and God indeed makes all his ſervants, not ſons only, but heirs alſo, 2 Sam.7.14. Mat.6.1,4,9,26,32. Luk.12.32. Rom.8.14-17. Rev.21.7.

and their righteouſneſſe of me] Heb. from with me; which ſome expound, from before me, or, in my ſight: as it is ſaid of Zachary and Elizabeth, Luk.1.6. they were both juſt in Gods ſight; that is, ſincerely righteous; not in outward ſhew and ſemblance only; as thoſe, 2 Tim.3.5. but in inward diſpoſition of heart, and ſoul: where God only ſees, 1 Sam. 16.7. as if the meaning were, in way of further deſcription of the ſervants of God before-mentioned, of whoſe uprightneſſe I am well aſſured. But, from with me, ſeems to be no more here, then ſimply from me; as Gen.4.1. where the former particle is deemed to be underſtood: and Gen. 19.24. and Pſal. 24.5. where both forms are uſed; the latter particle being expreſſed in one part of the verſe, omitted in the other. Howbeit, the meaning is rather their righteouſneſs; that is, the reward of their righteouſneſs: as, my work, for, the reward of my work, Chap.49.4. So Pſal.112.3,9. or, that beneficence, and bleſſing, which from my hand they ſhall receive: for ſo alſo, is the word righteouſneſſe, uſed: as the Apoſtle alſo ſeems to expound that of the Pſalmiſt, at leaſt, ſo uſeth the word himſelf, 2 Cor.9.9,10. So Pſal.24.5. forecited, he ſhall receive the bleſſing from the Lord; and righteouſneſſe from God his Saviour. See ver.14. or, if it be deemed to have a peculiar reſpect, to the priviledge in the laſt place, to wit, in the forepart of this verſe propounded; by righteouſneſſe, may be underſtood, Gods juſtification of them, and vindication of their righteouſneſſe, againſt all thoſe, that ſhall wrongfully attempt to appeach them, and impeach it, Pſal.37.6. & 106.30,31. Chap.50.8,9. Rom.8.33. 2 Cor.5.21. See Chap. 45.24,25. unto which place, if this be deemed parallel, it would rather be rendred, and their righteouſneſſe is from the Lord. But I take the former to be the genuine ſenſe of the word, in this place.

ſaith the Lord] As ver.10.

CHAP. LV.

Verſ.1. HO, every one that thirſteth, &c.] In this Chapter is contained, a free invitation of all ſorts of people, as well Gentiles, as Jews, to come in, unto Chriſt, and to yeeld themſelves to him, to be inſtructed, and ruled by him, for their own good, ver.1-5. together with a ſerious exhortation to repentance, and amendment of life, ver.6,7. and a gracious promiſe of reconciliation, and reſtitution thereupon, ver.8-13.

Ho] Of the various acception of the particle here uſed, ſee on Chap.1.4. & 10.5. & 18.1. here it is without queſtion, a note of compellation; and of invitation, and incitation withal: as alſo, Zach.2.10,11.

every one] Whether Jew, or Gentile, ver. 4, 5. Joel 2.32 Rom.10.12. though ſome reſtrain it to the former; becauſe ſome things, hereafter mentioned, ver.12,13. ſeem more ſpecially to concern them.

that thirſteth] That is in diſtreſs, and being ſenſible of his diſtreſſed condition, is deſirous of relief, that finding and feeling in himſelf a want of ſincere grace, & ſound comfort, is pained with the ſenſe thereof, and earneſtly deſires a ſupply: for all theſe things concur in bodily thirſt; a want of moiſture in the inward parts; a ſenſe of pain, and grievance, thence ariſing, and ſuch an earneſt deſire of liquor, to ſlake and relieve the ſame, as nothing can ſatisfie, but that alone, Pſal. 42.1. Chap. 41.17, 18. and a ſpiritual affection, proportionable hereunto, is required, in all thoſe, that are invited to partake in the mercies and favours of God, here offered, to be found, and had, in Chriſt. So Mat.5.6. & 11.28. Joh.7.37. Rev.21.6. & 22.17. and neither brutiſh worldlings therefore, that reſt fully ſatisfied with worldly contentments, and carnal delights, Pſal.17.14. nor Phariſaical juſtitiaries, that are puffed up, with a fond and vain conceit of their own good parts, and perfections, while they ſo continue, can have any ſhare in the mercies here propounded, Luk.1.53. & 18.9-14. Rom. 10.3. Rev.3.17,18. Of this ſpiritual thirſt, after God, and grace, and the enjoyment of his ordinances, and the comforts of his Spirit, ſee Pſal.42.1,2. & 63.1,2. & 84.2. Howbeit, under the name of thirſt, is hunger here alſo comprehended; that which appears by the mention of eating here, of bread, or food in general, ver.2. and both are expreſſed, Mat.5.6. as alſo, Pſal.107.5. See the like, chap.5.13. but thirſt is more frequently mentioned; partly, becauſe that is the more vehement, and intolerable, of the twain: and partly, becauſe thoſe means that quench thirſt, do in part, alſo, ſlake hunger; whereas, thoſe that allay hunger, are not wont to abate thirſt.

come] The word ſignifies indifferently, either go, as Gen. 42.33. or, come; as Hoſ.6.1. here it is rightly rendred in the latter notion; becauſe they are called to return to God, the Fountain of living water, whom before they had forſaken, Jer.2.13.

to the waters] That is, as the moſt, to the waters of ſaving grace, and ſpiritual comfort, Chap.12.3. Ezek.47.1,2. Joh.4.10,14. & 7.37,38. Rev.21.6. & 22.17. But it ſeems to me, that, to the water, here, is, as if he had ſaid, to the water ſide; as Judg.7.4,5. for it ſeemeth to be, not ſo much water, as other commodities, (yet ſuch as ſupply the room of water, and in a more eminent manner, relieve, and refreſh; do that, for which water is deſired, and much more then it,) are thoſe precious things, that they are invited to partake in: and the water, or, water-ſide, the place whether they are willed to reſort, there to furniſh themſelves with them: and I conceive it, to be an alluſion to the manner of people dwelling in towns and cities, ſituate neer to ſome river, by which victuals, and other wares are wont to be brought to them; who, upon the arrival of ſhipping there, with ſuch proviſions, are wont, after notice thereof given, to repair thither, for the ſtoring of themſelves with ſuch neceſſary proviſions, as they ſtand in need of, and are there to be had: it is like our Saviours invitation, to come unto him, with aſſurance of finding with him, and receiving from him, means of relief, and refreſhment, Mat.11.28. Joh.6.35,37. in which place, he ſheweth what manner of coming it is, that is required; not a bare corporal motion; but a ſpiritual acceſſe by faith, which is as well the foot of the ſoul, to bring us unto Chriſt, as the hand of the ſoul, to lay hold upon Chriſt, Cant.3.4. Mat.9.11,12. See ver.3.

and he that hath no money] Or, even, (as Chap. 40.30.) he that hath no money. Heb. ſilver: as Chap.43.24. that is, ſay ſome, that hath no merits; but merits none can any have. The meaning is, that is never ſo poor, that hath nothing in this world, of any worth, or valuable conſideration; implying, that Gods grace (which Simon the Sorcerer fondly ſuppoſed, might be bought with money, Act.8.20.) is given freely without regard had to the wealth, or poverty of the party, that deſireth to partake of it, Mat. 11.5,25. 1 Cor. 1.26-28. Jam.2.5. and without any matter of valuable conſideration required of any, in liew of it, Mat.10.8. Rom.3.24. Eph.2.8.

come] As before: and again in the next branch; and yet again, in the third verſe, ſo oft repeated, as to ſhew Gods forwardneſs to invite, and willingneſs to impart: ſo cloſely to tax mans natural backwardneſs to thoſe things, that moſt neerly and deeply concern his own good. See the like, Ezek. 18.30,31,32.

buy] The word here uſed, ſignifies in the firſt place, to break, Chap.14.5. & 30.14. and becauſe in buying, and ſelling, eſpecially by retail, the wares and commodities that are bought and ſold, are wont to be broken, if ſolid bodies of large bulk; or to be divided, and made out into parcels: hence the word is, in the ſecond place uſed, in one form, for to buy: as Gen.41.57. & 42.3. and ſo here; in another form, for to ſell, Gen.46.6. Amos 8.5,6. But here may be a queſtion moved, how they are called to buy, when no price is required; or, how the commodities here mentioned, are freely conferred, when they are ſaid to be bought? Hereunto it is commonly anſwered, that theſe things are ſaid to be bought; becauſe ſomething is to be done by thoſe, that deſire to partake of them; for it is required of them, that they come to the water, that they have recourſe to the place, where they are to be had; that they repair to him, from whom they are to be had, come unto me, ver.3. that they hearken to him, and be adviſed, and ruled by him, ver.2,3. and again, becauſe ſomething muſt be parted with, for the atchieving of them: for they muſt part with their corruptions, they muſt leave, and lay down their ſins, ver.7. yea, the caſe may ſo ſtand, that a man muſt be fain to part with all that ever he is poſſeſſed of, and his life it ſelf alſo, or he cannot become owner of the commodities here mentioned. See Mat.13.44-46. & 16.24,25. & 19.21. Luk. 14.26,33. and yet notwithſtanding all this, the things offered, may be truly ſaid to be freely beſtowed; as a Princes almes may be ſaid to be freely given, albeit, it be required, that thoſe that deſire to ſhare in them, do repair to his Almoſyner, reſiding at his Court; or, as a Scholer is ſaid to have his learning freely given him, when no ſtipend is required for the teaching of him, albeit, that for the attaining of learning, he muſt frequent the School, and follow his book hard; or, as the Phyſitian may be ſaid freely to have cured his Patient, of whom he demandeth no fee, for his viſitation, and advice; although he require of him, to be ruled and ordered in all things by him, and to obſerve exactly what he preſcribeth. The rather here, notwithſtanding all that is required to be done, or to be endured, to be parted with, or obſerved: becauſe, 1. nothing is required, that is any matter of gain to God, or whereby any benefit can redound unto him: he receiveth nothing from us, that can add ought to him, Job 22.2,3. and 35.6,7. Pſal.16.2. 2. All that is required of any, is for the good, behoof, and benefit, of thoſe, of whom it is required, ver.2,3. Deut.5.29. & 6.24. & 10.13. & 30. 16, 19,20. Prov. 9.12. 3. All that is required of them, is no more, then they were bound in duty to have done, albeit, no ſuch mercies, as are here typified, had been vouchſafed unto them, Luk.17.10. and a Kings pardon of a rebel, is not the leſs free, becauſe granted under condition of loyal carriage for the future. 4. All that is neceſſarily required, for them to part with, is nothing but that, that is the very bane of their ſouls, and will, at length, ſo prove, if it be not timely avoided: it is, as the Phyſitians requiring to have the malignant humour purged out, with ſome pill, or potion; or the Surgians, to have the dead, or proud fleſh eaten out, with ſome corroſive: And laſtly, whatſoever elſe may, upon occaſion, be parted with; beſides, that it is Gods own, either lent us only, or, at moſt, not ſo abſolutely given us, but that God retaineth ſtill a right to it, and intereſt in it, and may re-demand it, when he pleaſeth, 1 Chr.29.11,12,14,16. Job 1.21. it is all as nothing, of no worth, of no valuable conſideration, in compariſon of that which, parting with it, we gain, Rom.8.18. 2 Cor. 4. 17,18. Phil.3.7,8. not to add, that whatſoever it be, that is ſo parted with, is required an hundred fold, ſome way, or other, Mar. 10. 29,30. All which Conſiderations laid together, it may eaſily be conceived how, in ſome ſenſe, theſe commodities may be ſaid to be bought; and yet nothing thereby derogated from the freeneſs of the gift. Howbeit, I conceive that the readieſt way of anſwer is, that the words of buying, and ſelling, are in Scripture oft uſed improperly, to ſell, for, to give, part with, or deliver: and ſo God is ſaid, ſometime, to have ſold his people, Deut.32.30. Judg.3.8. & 4.2. Pſal.44.12. ſometime, to have delivered, or given them up, Judg.2.14. & 6.1. Pſal. 106.41. into the hands of the Heathen, their enemies, the latter term expounding the former. See Chap.50.1. & 52.3. and in like manner, to buy, is uſed for, to get, gain, compaſſe, receive, or attain ought. So, buy truth, but ſell it not; buy wiſdome, and inſtruction, and underſtanding, Prov.23.23. that is, get wiſdome, get underſtanding: forget it not: get wiſdome, forſake her not; and with, or among, all thy getting, get underſtanding: as it is well rendred, Prov.4.5,6,7. Yet in another place, not amiſs, buy; becauſe oppoſed, to ſell; but taken improperly; buy, for, get: ſell, for, forſake, put away, or, forget. So our Saviour, to the Angel of the Laodicean Church: I adviſe thee to buy of me; that is, to procure from me: for Chriſt ſetteth not ought to ſale. Thus the plain meaning will be; get, provide you, furniſh your ſelves: the word of buying, being only uſed to this purpoſe; becauſe that is the ordinary, and moſt uſual way, whereby men, that want ſuch neceſſaries, are wont to ſupply themſelves. See Chap.1.3. yet here, as ſome ſuppoſe, alſo, to aſſure them, that they ſhould as readily have it, without payment of ought, as if they were able, and willing, to lay down the full price for it.

buy, and eat] That is, buy, or get, that which you may eat: furniſh your ſelves with food; as they did, by going into Egypt, Gen.41.57. & 42.5. buy, and eat, for, buy, that ye may eat: as, do this, and live, that is, that ye may live, Gen. 42.18. and, make haſte, and go, for, make haſte to be gone, Gen.45.9. and, Balak aroſe, and warred, for, aroſe to war; or, that he might war againſt Iſrael, Joſh.24.9. for, indeed he never durſt do it, nor did, Judg.11.25.

eat] Or, feed: for it comprehendeth both eating and drinking; as Gen. 31. 46. Neh. 9. 21. and hath reference as well to bread, in the next verſe, as to milk, and wine, in this.

yea, come,] Or, come, I ſay. Heb. and come: ſo Chap. 44.15. & 49.6. of coming, ſee before: the ſame thing, for more vehemency, not doubled, but trebled, as Chap.51.9. & 52.11.

buy wine, and milk] Of buying, before: wine, and milk, are here put, as two eminent, and principal kinds, and parts of nouriſhment, to comprehend, as whatſoever is neceſſary for the ſuſtentation, refreſhing, and cheering of the body; ſo typically, whatſoever is requiſite for the ſupport, relief, comfort, and delight of the ſoul, ver.2.

wine] Not water, (for it was to the water-ſide only that they were called to come, as well for the wine, as for the milk; nor was either to be found in the water, but at the water) but wine: not drink barely, but drink of more then ordinary excellency: drink reſerved for Feaſts. See Chap. 25. 6. ſuch drink, as may not allay thirſt only, but pleaſe and delight the palate, Cant.1.2. & 4.10. & 7.9. cheer and glad the heart, Judg. 9.13. Pſal.104.15. Zach.9.17. & 10.7. and make men forget their griefs, as drowned in it, Prov. 31. 6. in regard whereof it is, that Chriſts blood, whereby remiſſion of our ſins is procured, and our reconcilement to God purchaſed, the main ground of all true joy, and ſound comfort, Rom.5.25. & 5.1,2,10. Eph.1. 7. is reſembled by wine, Math. 26. 28, 29. See alſo Prov. 9. 2.

milk] As not water, but wine: ſo not water, but milk; ſuch as Jael gave Siſera, inſtead of water, as in a ſweltring heat, having fled on foot, the leſs hazardous, and more comfortable, Judg.4.19. & 5.25. milk, a food commended, not for wholeſomneſs, and healing only, as appears in children that feed mainly, if not wholly on it, and thrive exceedingly with it; but for ſweetneſs alſo, and delight, Cant. 4. 11. it is put ſometime, for the weaker ſort of food that children are fed with, oppoſed to ſtrong meat, 1 Cor.3.2. Heb.5.12,13. but it is here uſed more largely to comprehend all ſuch kind of ſuſtenance, as affordeth plentiful nouriſhment; and not children only, but men alſo, are wont to feed on with delight, Gen.18.8. & 49. 12. where wine, and milk, are joyned together, as two principal, not ſtays only of life, but maintainers, where plenty is of them, of a cheerful life. So in a typicall notion, and a ſpiritual ſenſe, they are alſo found together, Cant.5.1.

and without price.] Freely, without any valuable conſideration whatſoever; without any ſuch expence, as wicked wretches would ſeem willingly to tender unto God, therewith to purchaſe liberty for continuance in their ſin, Mic. 6. 6,7. So Chap.45.13. the word is rendred hire, Mic.3. 11. and our Engliſh word comes very neer to it.

V. 2. Wherefore do ye ſpend money for that which is not bread? and your labour for that which ſatisfieth not?] An affectionate expoſtulation, containing in it a gentle reproof, and compaſſionate complaint withall, of their folly, in being at great coſt, and taking of much pains, about the procuring of ſuch means, as were not able to relieve them, in their diſtreſſed condition, or to afford them ſuch contentment, as they deſired, and expected, from them, Chap.30.4-7. & 57.9,10. Hoſ.5.13.

ſpend] Heb. weigh; as Jer.32. 9, 10. becauſe payments of money anciently were, for the moſt part, by weight, Gen. 23.16.

money] Heb. ſilver; as ver.1.

for that which is no bread] Heb. for not bread; as, not wood, Chap.10.15. bread, for food, in general; as Neh.5.18. Chap.3. 1. for that which can no more feed you, then thoſe husks could the hungry prodigal, Luk.15.16.

your labour] Weigh out your ſilver, and your labour; for, weigh, or lay out your money, and ſpend your labour: for labour cannot be weighed out, as ſilver, or moneys, may: ſo 1 Cor.3.2. I gave you to drink milk, and not ſolid meat, for, I gave you milk to drink, and fed you not with ſolid meat; and the word properly ſignifies, wearisome labour, Chap.57.10.

for that which ſatisfieth not] Or, for that which cannot ſatisfie; or, wherewith ye can not be ſatisfied. Heb. for not to be ſatiated; or, not unto ſatiety (for it may be either a noun, or a verb) as Hag.1.6. as, not to profit, Chap.30.5. & 44.10. for, that cannot profit.

hearken diligently unto me] Heb. hearing hear; as Chap. 6. 9. but there, in a notion of bare hearing; when, as we uſe to ſay, one giveth us the hearing, but regardeth not what we ſay; but here rather, hearkning hearken; implying both attention to what is ſaid, and obedience to what is thereby required. So Exod.15.26. & 19. 5. Deut.11.13. & 15.5. Jer.17.24. Zach. 6. 15.

and eat ye that which is good;] Or, and ye ſhall eat that which is good; as Chap.1.19. Heb. eat good: eat, for, ye ſhall eat; as Gen.45.18. Chap. 36. 16. good; that which is both wholeſome, and toothſome, alſo, as we uſe to ſay; comfortable, pleaſant, and delightful: for the Hebrew word comprehendeth as well the one, as the other, Gen.3.6. Pſal.34.8. Prov.13. 2. & 24.13 Cant.4.10.

and let your ſoul delight it ſelf in fatneſs.] Or, and delight your ſelves with that which is fat: your ſoul, for, your ſelves; as Jer.6.16. and, your heart, for, your ſelves, Pſal. 22.26. let it delight it ſelf; Heb. it ſhall delight it ſelf: and ſo it would be rendred; ye ſhall be both abundantly and daintily fed, even as ye your ſelves would deſire, Pſal.37.3,4. Job 36.11.

in fatneſs] Or, with fatneſs: fatneſs, for that which is fat: fat meat, that is uſually more pleaſing to the taſte, then that that is lean; and is the choiſer ſort of fleſh, Neh.8.10. So Pſal. 36. 8. & 63.5. See Chap.25.6.

V. 3. Encline your ear,] So Pſal.45. 10. & 78.1. A metaphorical ſpeech, borrowed from thoſe, that either bow down, or turn the head to the one ſide, to bring the better ear; if the one be quicker of hearing then the other, to liſten to him, that ſpeaketh unto them; and is uſed here, in the ſame notion with that of hearkning, before, ver.2.

and come unto me:] As before, ver.1.

hear] Obey; as 1 Sam.16.22,23. the principal matter that God requires of them, Jer.7.22,23.

and your ſoul ſhall live:] That is, ye ſhall live; as, let my ſoul live, (that is, let me live) that I may praiſe thee, Pſal. 119. 175. See before, on ver. 2. Ye ſhall not miſcarry and periſh, whether temporally, or ſpiritually, for want of ſuch ſupplies, and ſupports, as, in vain, ye ſeek for elſe-where, but ſhall aſſuredly, and abundantly, be furniſhed with either from me, Pſal.37.3,4. Chap.33.16.

and I will make an everlaſting covenant with you,] I will enter into a new gracious covenant with you, that ſhall never be diſanulled; Chap.54.10. Heb. I will cut out unto them; (a metaphor taken from that ſolemn right of cutting, or cleaving the body of ſome beaſt aſunder, at the making of ſuch covenants, Gen.15.9,10,17,18. Jer.34.8,18. or from the ſtrict and exact cutting out of articles, agreed upon, for mutual performance, by the Covenanters on either ſide: that which a word of the like notion of this, importeth. See on Chap. 10. 22, 23.) a covenant of perpetuity, or eternity; as Gen. 9. 16. Chap.24.5. See the ſame promiſe, Chap.61.8.

even, the ſure mercies of David.] Or, as ſome would have the words rendred; the ſure mercies of David will I beſtow on you, or, I will give you the ſure mercies of David; becauſe the Apoſtle ſo citeth the place, Act. 13.34. but it is not needfull to thruſt into the text, whatſoever the Apoſtles in citing of a paſſage, or ſome ſmall parcel of a paſſage, ſhall, for the fuller explication, or fitter application of it, to their preſent purpoſe, add, or annex thereunto. Otherwiſe, it would be neceſſary to inſert ſome things, into the text, in other places likewiſe; as Chap.61.1. from Luk.4.18. and elſe-where; yea, and to alter a word in the text here; becauſe inſtead of mercies here, we have, after the Greek verſion, holy things, there. I ſhould rather chooſe to render the words, according to the ſure mercies of David; for that note of ſimilitude, or correſpondency, is very frequently omitted. See on ver.8, & Chap. 54. 9.

the ſure] Or, firm; as Chap.22.23. & 33.16. or, faithfull; as Neh. 13.13. Chap.8.2. and, as the Apoſtle, from the Greek, the word may well ſignifie either.

mercies of David] Thoſe that God had ſometime promiſed unto David, and, by covenant, ſolemnly engaged himſelf, to perform, and obſerve, for ever, 2 Sam.7.13-17. Pſal.89.35, 37,40. & 132. 11, 12. and there want not, that ſuppoſe the beginning of that 89. Pſalm, to be here alluded unto, the Pſalm it ſelf, being commonly called, and known among the Jewiſh people, by that name, taken from the firſt word of it, (as divers books of Scripture are in like manner entituled with them) The mercies of David, as deemed the Pen-man of that holy Hymn. But this ſeems to be but a groundleſs conjecture: for neither doth the Pſalm begin with thoſe words, The mercies of David; but, The mercies of the Lord: nor is Davids name prefixed before it: nor doth it appear that David was the Compoſer of it; but Ethan, rather, whoſe name it holdeth forth in its front. And howſoever it be undoubtedly true, that this paſſage hath, queſtionleſs, reſpect to the ſubject matter, and ſubſtance of that Pſalm; yea, not improbable, that it may have ſome glance at the very words and terms alſo, wherein the ſame is there delivered, ver.1-4,14,28, 29,33-37. yet becauſe I find the preciſe words here uſed, not there, but elſe-where, to wit, in the cloſe of Solomons ſolemn ſupplication, 2 Chron.6.42. concluded with theſe words, Remember the mercies of David thy Servant. I ſuppoſe this form rather to have reference thereunto. Now according to this expoſition, moſt commonly received, by the mercies of David, ſhould be meant, mercies promiſed unto David, and covenanted with him; and that Solomon ſeemes to have meant thereby, which ſome conceive to imply that the covenant, which God promiſeth to make this people upon their return to him, ſhould be as firm, and as ſure, as that which he had plighted with David concerning the perpetual ſucceſſion of his ſeed. Others, that the covenant ſhould be the ſame in ſubſtance, with that, which God, at firſt, made with Abraham, to be the God of him, and his ſeed, and that in his ſeed all the Nations of the World ſhould be bleſſed, Gen.17.7.& 22.18. and afterward again, renewed, and ratified unto David; for that took in, and comprehended together with him, not his iſſue alone, that was to reign after him, but the body alſo of Gods people, that were to be ruled, and reigned over, by him, and them. See Jer.31.36,37. & 33. 24-26. and David the rather may here be mentioned; becauſe by the Babylonian captivity, the ſucceſſion of Davids line, in the royalty of that State, might ſeem to be wholly cut off, without hope of riſing, and recovery again. The words of the text may well bear either: and this latter, moſt go with. Howbeit, by David, divers, both Jewiſh, and Chriſtian Commenters, underſtand the Meſſias, the ſeed promiſed to Abraham, and David; and that was to be of the ſeed of David, Act.13.23. Rom.1.3. Now, as of Chriſt it is ſaid in the Goſpel, that God would give him, the Throne of his Father David; and he ſhould reign over the houſe of Jacob for ever: ſo is he frequently mentioned, and ſtyled by the name of David, in the writings of the Prophets, Ezek.34. 23,34. & 37.24,25. Hoſ.3.5. And this the rather I encline unto; albeit, Solomon ſpake it in the other ſenſe; becauſe, not of David himſelf, but of the Meſſias, a ſecond David, (as John Baptiſt, another Elias, Matth. 11. 14.) the very next words, ver. 4. (which of neceſſity muſt have relation to this clauſe) are by all ſound Interpreters underſtood. As for that learned man, that would turn off, both this, and other pregnant Prophecies of the Meſſias, from Chriſt to Jeremy, he is herein not worth the regard: the meaning then is, the mercies of the Meſſias, the David, not paſt, but to come: the mercies before promiſed, and to be exhibited in, and by him; in whom the covenant is made with Gods people, Chap.49.8. in whom all Gods promiſes are yea, and amen, 2 Cor. 1. 20. but whether way we take it, the Apoſtle to good purpoſe alledgeth it, Act. 13. 34. for neither had Gods gracious promiſes, made to that David, nor concerning this David, taken effect, and been fulfilled, had not Chriſt been raiſed up again from the dead.

V. 4. Behold,] Thus are prophecies, and promiſes, concerning the Meſſias very commonly uſhiered in. See Chap. 7. 14. and 42. 1. and 52. 13. Jer. 23. 5. and 33. 15. Zach. 6. 12.

I have given him for a witneſs to the people;] The words of God the Father, concerning the Meſſias; of whom the Jewiſh Doctors themſelves expound this place.

given] That is, appointed, or ordained; as Jer.1.5. Ezek.3. 17. as Chriſt is ſaid to be conſecrated by God, Heb.5.9. howbeit, the term of giving, may withall have a glance at the freeneſs of Gods mercy, in the beſtowing of Chriſt on us, Chap. 9.6. Joh.3.16.

him] Whom, but the David, mentioned ver. 3. See there.

for a witneſs;] That is, a witneſs of the truth of Gods promiſes, Chap.43.10. 2 Cor.1.20. Heb.7.22. and, (that which the Jewiſh Commenters alſo hold out to us) a teacher and teſtifier of his Will, Joh.7.16,17. & 12.49,50. & 17.6. & 18. 37. Hence, he is called, Amen, the true and faithfull witneſs, Rev.3.14.

to the people] Not to Iſrael alone. So Chap.49.6. I have given thee for a light to the Gentiles.

a leader, and commander to the people.] A leader, as the word is rendred, 2 Chron.32.21. or, a Ruler, as 1 Chron.9.20. & 11. 2. or, a Prince, as Ezek. 28. 2. and ſo is Chriſt termed in the New Teſtament, a leader, Heb.2.10. & 12.2, a ruler, Matth.2.6. from Mic.5.2. a Prince, Rev.1.5.

commander] One, whoſe commands, under pain of eternal deſtruction, each one ſtandeth bound in all things to obey, Act.3.22,23. 2 Theſſ.1.8. Heb.5.9.

V. 5. Behold,] as above, ver.4.

thou ſhalt call a nation, that thou knoweſt not;] Or, kneweſt not, as Pſal.18.43. whom thou didſt not own, or regard, or look after, or take notice of, in times paſt, Act.14.16. & 17.30. So is the word of knowing, oft taken, Pſal.1.6. Prov. 12. 10. Matth. 7.23.

and nations that knew not thee, ſhall run unto thee,] The Gentiles that never heard of thee, nor were acquainted with thee, nor had any notice of thee before, Rom.15.20. & 16. 25, 26. Eph.2.11,12.& 3.5,6. See Chap.65.1. a defect of the relative, as Chap.54.1.

run unto thee,] They ſhall with all ſpeed, and readineſs, repair unto thee, aſſoon as they hear of thee, by the miniſtery of the Goſpel, Pſal.18.44. this running intimates; as the alacrity of the perſons called; ſo the efficacy of Chriſts call, Pſal.119.32. Cant.1.4.

becauſe of the Lord thy God, and for the Holy one of Iſrael; for he hath glorified thee.] Or, for he will glorifie thee; or, becauſe he hath glorified thee; or, when he ſhall have glorified thee; as Chap. 53. 10. after thy former ſtate of humiliation, and thy paſſion over-paſt, that the Lord ſhall have raiſed thee up from the dead, taken thee up into the higheſt heavens, and placed thee at his right hand, Pſal.110.1,3. Chap.2.2. Joh.12.32. Act.2.33,41. & 13.48. then ſhall the Lord, the Holy one of Iſrael, be the God of the whole earth, Chap.54.5. See Chap.60.9. They narrow the text over-much, that would reſtrain it, to the repairing of forrein Nations, to worſhip God in his Temple at Jeruſalem, upon the report of ſuch remarkable works of deliverance, as God ſhould do for the Jewiſh people, Pſal. 68. 28, 29.

V. 6. Seek ye the Lord, while he may be found;] An exhortation of the Prophet, directed, as Some would have it, to the Gentiles, not yet converted, calling upon them to come in, and make their peace, while they may, while Gods gracious offers, and tenders of grace, yet continue, 2 Cor. 6.1. as others to the Jews, now under heavy preſſures, for their defections, and revolts, Chap. 2.5. I conceive, by what followeth, that it is not to be reſtrained unto either; but extendeth unto both.

Seek ye the Lord,] As implying, that they had left him, and eſtranged themſelves from him; yea, they had left him, and were fallen out of favour with him, by their ſins; and it ſtood them upon therefore, if they deſired their own ſafety and welfare, to ſeek after him, and ſeek to him, to uſe all the means that might be, to regain and recover his favour again: the word ſignifieth, in the firſt place, to enquire, to make enquiry after ſomewhat that we are ignorant of, 1 King. 1.2. 2 King. 22. 13. Chap. 8.19. and ſo God muſt be enquired after by us, ere we can come to know, or be acquainted with him, Pſal. 14.2. & 24.6. & 119.10. Act. 15.17. & 17. 27. but that is not the ſeeking here principally intended: in the ſecond place, it ſignifies, to make requeſt for grace and favour, to ſome perſon offended, to ſue to them, for reconcilement again. So Pſal. 34. 4. & 77. 2. & 78. 34. and ſo here: the next branch ſheweth it.

while he may be found;] So Pſal. 32, 6. in a time of acceptance, Chap. 49. 8. while he offereth himſelf unto you in the means of grace, in the miniſtery of his Word, Pſal. 27.8. & 95. 7,8. 2 Cor. 5.20. & 6.1,2. Heb. 3.7. before the term of time, reſpited for repentance, be expired, Gen. 6.3. Exod. 9.18. Jon. 3. 4. Luk. 19.42,44. Rev. 2.21. before the decree go forth, Zeph. 2. 1,2,3. and God grow weary of repenting, Jer. 15.6. having born ſo long, that he can no longer forbear, Jer. 44.22. and he take a ſolemn oath, Pſal. 75. 11. that he will not be ſpoken with, he will not be found of you, Chap. 1.15. Jer. 7.16. Prov. 1.24-28. Hoſ. 5.6.

call ye upon him, while he is neer.] The ſame, in effect and ſubſtance, with the former, while he cometh neer unto you, in his ordinances, by his miniſters and meſſengers, Chap. 51. 5. Eph. 2. 17. while he is neer yet in mercy, and the means and offers of mercy; not in judgment, and execution of wrath and vengeance, Mal. 3.5.

V. 7. Let the wicked forſake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts;] Prayer and ſupplication, that it may prevail for grace and favour with God, muſt be backed, and ſeconded, with ſincere repentance, teſtified by ſerious reformation, and amendment, both of heart and life, Prov. 28.13. Dan. 4.27. Mat. 3. 8. Mar. 1.15. nor can there be any true turning unto God, untill men turn away from their ſins, 2 King. 17.13. Jer. 18.11. Lam. 3.40. Act. 2.38. & 3.19. & 20.21. & 26.18,20. they muſt leave, and loſe their ſinnes, before they can finde God.

his way] His own way; wherein he had gone aſtray from God and his ways, Chap. 53.6. as thine own ways; oppoſed to Gods ways, Chap. 58.13. or, his evil way, his wicked way; as Jer. 18.11. & 25.5. & 26.3. and ſo, his thoughts; that is, his own, or his unrighteous thoughts: thoughts of iniquity; as Prov. 6. 18. Chap. 59.6. and if we take it the latter way, there is a defect of the adjunct; but to be ſupplyed from the quality of the perſon, whoſe way, and thoughts, they are.

way] For courſe of life and converſation; as Pſal. 1.6. & 119.1. Jer. 7.3.

the unrighteous man] Heb. man of iniquity, or wrong, or vexation rather. See Chap. 10.1. So Prov. 6.12. by the former ſome would have underſtood the profane and ungodly; by this latter, the injurious, or unjuſt, in their dealings with men: but the terms ſeem to be promiſcuouſly uſed; and our Prophets manner is, in divers terms, for variety, and elegancy, to expreſs the ſame thing.

his thoughts] Or, imaginations, or devices, or projects, or contrivances, or purpoſes; (for the word is large, Gen. 6. 5. Prov. 15.22. & 19.21. Ezek. 38.11.) ſuch as above. See chap. 59.7. and ſuch thoughts, and purpoſes, as well as wayes, and works, are to be purged out, and repented of, Jer. 4.14. Zach. 8.17. Act. 8.23. Rom. 2. 15,16.

and let him return unto the Lord] By entring upon a new courſe of holy life, conformable to the Will, and Word of God, Jer. 4. 1. Zach. 1. 3. Matth. 3. 8. Act. 26. 10, 20. 1 Theſſ. 1. 9.

and he will have mercy upon him] Deut. 4. 27-31. & 30. 2-8. 2 Chron. 7.14. Prov. 28.13. Jer. 3.12. Ezek. 18.27,28. and 33. 11.

and to our God] Whoſe nature and diſpoſition, in this kind, we well know, having had good proof, and large experience thereof, Exod. 34.6. Num. 14.18. Pſal. 86.5. & 103.8. Jon. 4.2.

for he will abundantly pardon] Heb. he will multiply to pardon: as, multiply to waſh, Pſal. 51. 2. for, waſh throughly, over and over: and, multiply to tranſgreſſe, Amos 4. 4. for, multiply tranſgreſſions. Of Gods proneneſſe to pardon, and his frequent, abundant, and plentiful pardoning, ſee Numb. 14.19,20. Pſal. 32.5. & 78.34-40. & 103.8-13. Jer. 3.1-12. Mic. 7. 18, 19. and a lively reſemblance of it, Luk. 15. 20—24.

V. 8. For my thoughts are not your thoughts; neither are your wayes my wayes—ſaith the Lord.] Theſe words are by divers Interpreters diverſly referred, and diverſly reſolved. Some refer them to the requiry of reformation, both in their thoughts and wayes; as rendring a reaſon why theſe are to be reformed, if they deſire to be reconciled to God; to wit, becauſe there is a great diſtance between Gods wayes, & theirs; his thoughts, and theirs: his thoughts, and wayes, being all holy and heavenly; theirs, wicked, and earthly; ſet wholly upon the things here below: and ſuch, therefore, as muſt both be reformed, and raiſed up, if they would have any either reconcilement to him, or entercourſe with him, Mat. 5.8. Col. 3.1-5. Heb. 12.14. Others, refer them to the motive annexed to the requiry, containing a promiſe of finding favour, and mercy with God; and giving aſſurance of having the ſame, upon their return to him, made good: And of thoſe that go this way, ſome expound it of Gods proneneſs to pardon, and forwardneſſe to receive into full favour again: that Gods diſpoſition, & his dealings are herein much unlike unto mens; men are commonly of unmerciful, and revengeful minds; and where they have been much wronged, are with much difficulty drawn to admit any motion of reconcilement, on any reaſonable terms; ſeldome ſo freely, or fully reconciled, but that ſome inward grudge ſticketh ſtill in their ſtomacks, ſome remembrance of the wrong done them, ſtayeth ſtill in their minds: yea, that many times, though from the face, and teeth outwardly, they make ſhew of reconcilement, and profeſs to be ſatisfied; yet they nouriſh hatred, and malice inwardly in the heart; and do but wait, and watch, for an opportunity to do the delinquent ſome ſhrewd turn, or other, even to miſchief him, if they may. See 2 Sam. 3.27,30. & 13. 20,22,26, 28. & 20.9,10. Pſal. 55.21. Jer. 41.1,2. Dan. 11.27. But with God it is not ſo, he is of a clean contrary diſpoſition, he is of tender bowels, ſlow to wrath, loath to take vengeance, Exod. 34.6. Chap. 1.24. Lam. 3.33. Ezek. 18.31,32. & 33.11. ready to remit the greateſt wrongs, ſuch as no man almoſt would, or could endure to put up, Jer. 3.1. and to receive the wrongdoers into as great grace and favour again, as ever not retaining the leaſt memory of ought, formerly done, no more then as if the ſame never had been, either done by them, or known to him, Chap. 1.10,15,18. & 43.25. Jer. 31-34. Zach. 10.6. Others, again, expound it of Gods conſtancy and immutability in his purpoſes and propoſals: Men are mutable and variable; they promiſe much, and perform little; what accord, and agreement they are brought unto one day, they repent many times, the ſame day, and the next day revoke: ſuch they are, both in their carriage towards God, and in their courſes and dealings one with another, Pſal. 78.34,41,57. Jer. 34.10,11,15,16. But it is not ſo with God; he is a moſt true and faithful God; there is no mutability, or ſhadow of change with him: his promiſes are not ſo free, and large, but his performances are as ſure, and as full, Num. 23. 19. Joſh. 23. 14. 1 Sam. 15.29. 1 King. 8.24. Mat. 5.18. Mar. 13.31. Rom. 11.29. 1 Cor. 1.8,9. 2 Cor. 1.19,20. Phil. 1.6. 1 Theſſ. 5.24. 2 Tim. 2.13. Tit. 1.1. Jam. 1.17. 1 Joh. 1.9. Rev. 15. 3. and this ſuiteth well with that which followeth, ver. 10,11. But this, and the former, may well ſtand together, as being both included, and intended in the diſparity, propounded between God and Man; and adding much ſtrength to the motives before-mentioned, to perſwade people to come readily in unto God.

mine not yours,—neither yours mine] For, as, or, like yours; and, as, or, like mine; a defect of the note of ſimilitude. See the like, ver. 3.

V. 9. For as the heavens are higher then the earth; ſo are my wayes higher then your ways; and my thoughts then your thoughts.] There is as vaſt a difference, between my diſpoſition, and dealings, and yours; as there is diſtance between heaven and earth: my diſpoſition and dealings, both for mercy and goodneſs, and for firmneſs and faithfulneſs, are as far above yours, as the very higheſt heavens are above the very center of the earth: yea, indeed far higher; for the one is, though unmeaſurable, yet, finite; whereas the other, becauſe infinite, is for greatneſs, and amplitude, and immenſity, inconceiveable. So Pſal. 103.11,12. Jer. 31. 37. and God is as far above man, in mercy and goodneſs, in truth and faithfulneſs, as in immenſity of height and greatneſs, Pſal. 36.5,6. & 57.10, 11. & 108.4. & 119.89,90. & 145.3,9. and there may well be ſome emphaſis in theſe words, your ways, and your thoughts; as if he had ſaid, yours, even the very beſt of you, that either have, or would ſeem to have, ſome bowels of compaſſion, ſome tender-heartedneſs, ſome equanimity, ingenuity, and readineſs, to remit a wrong; or ſome firmneſs, or faithfulneſs, in making good what ye promiſe. See the like, Matth. 7. 9-11. Luk. 11.5,12.

For as] Or, But as. So the particle is rendred, Chap. 30. 26. & 49. 25. and may well be here: They are not as yours; but far higher then they, the note of ſimilitude is not expreſſed in the text; but is to be ſupplyed, and is in the other particle very frequently included. So Chap. 54. 9. & 62. 5.

are higher then the earth] Heb. are high from, or, in regard of the earth. So 1 Sam. 10. 24. Job 11. 8, 9. & 35. 5. and the like in the next branch.

V. 10. For as the rain cometh down, and the ſnow from heaven, and returneth not thither, but watereth the earth, and maketh it bring forth, and bud;] As thoſe inferiour creatures, through my bleſſing accompanying them, do not fail of their effect, but attain their intended end, in cauſing the earth to fructifie, for the benefit and behoof of mankind, when to that purpoſe I am pleaſed to employ them, Job 37. 6, 11-13. ſo ſhall the gracious promiſes of mercy, and of delivery, that I make unto you, not fail, or be fruſtrate, but ſhall certainly take place, and be aſſuredly effected, Chap. 14. 24-27.

from heaven] From above; for all above us goeth under the name of heaven, Gen. 1. 1, 6-9, 14, 17, 20. from the clouds, that are as Gods chambers, Pſal. 104. 13. or, ſtore-houſes, Job 38. 22.

returneth not thither, but watereth the earth,] Or, till it have watered. Heb. but if it have watered; or, unleſſe it have watered; as Gen. 32. 26. I will not let thee go, but if thou bleſſe me, or, unleſſe thou bleſſe me; that is, untill thou have bleſſed me: neither ſnow, nor rain return, untill they have done the work that God ſendeth them about; who by them is ſaid, to water the earth, Pſal. 65. 9, 10. & 104. 13. & 147. 8. not that they then go up again, (though as the rivers are ſaid to return again to the ſea, whence they had their original, Eccl. 1. 7. ſo the moyſture that cometh from above, being licked up by the wind, and exhaled by the Sun, doth, in proceſs of time, aſcend up oft in vapors again, Pſal. 135. 7. Jer. 10. 13.) but the meaning is, that it never faileth to effect that, for which God ſends it, whether it then go up again, or no: for the term uſed in theſe forms oft-times implies no more. See Gen. 28. 15. Mat. 1. 25. See the like form of ſpeech, 1 Sam. 1. 22. Chap. 37. 29, 34. Jer. 23. 20. & 30. 9.

maketh it bring forth, and bud] Heb. maketh it child; as we ſometimes ſpeak: for the term is properly uſed of childing women; applyed to Sion, Chap. 66. 8. and it is indeed uſed, not of men and women only, begetting and breeding; but of other creatures alſo that bring forth young: of the earth, or ground, as here, more both improperly, and unuſually: for as for that paſſage in the place cited, where it is ſaid, ſhall a land be brought forth in one day: by land, is meant, not the ground, but a people.

and bud] Heb. and maketh it bud, or ſprout up, Job 38. 27. Pſal. 104. 14. & 147. 8. the word is rendred, ſometime, to grow, Gen. 2. 5, 9. ſometime, to ſpring up, Chap. 44. 4. Job. 5. 6. the text may well be read, till it have watered the earth, and cauſed it (to wit, the earth) to bring forth, and made it ſprout up: made the earth to ſpring up; that is, made graſs, and corn, and plants to ſpring, or ſprout out from the earth; as it is, Gen. 1. 9. Pſal. 85. 11. but the ſame form of ſpeech is alſo found, Pſal. 147. 8.

that it may give ſeed to the ſower, and bread to the eater:] Unto bread-corn, eſpecially, hath this paſſage reſpect, because of greateſt moment for the ſupport of mans life, Chap. 3. 1. ver. 1. and becauſe there is a two-fold neceſſary uſe of ſuch grain, for food, and for ſeed; the Prophet pointeth at either. See Gen. 47. 17, 19. Heb. and giveth, or hath given: but the copulative is oft ſo uſed, and ſo rendred, Chap. 53. 7. Mal. 1. 9. Howbeit, this is not to be referred to the earth, but to the rain, or ſnow; as by the gender of the terms uſed in the original, appeareth: they give, becauſe they cauſe the earth to give, what without them, it could not: For when the heaven is as braſs, the earth is as iron, Deut. 28. 23. and God himſelf, by them, moiſtening the ground, Pſal. 104. 13, 14. unto whom the Apoſtle therefore applies this paſſage, 2 Cor. 9. 10.

V. 11. So ſhall the word be that goeth out of my mouth: it ſhall not return unto me void; but it ſhall accompliſh that which I pleaſe, and it ſhall proſper in the thing, whereunto I ſent it.] So Ezek. 12. 25.

the word] That is, my promiſe concerning reconcilement to my people, upon their return to me, and deliverance of them out of captivity, ver. 12. So Pſal. 119. 38, 41, 42, 49.

return void] As Embaſſadors, or Meſſengers, failing of that they were ſent about; or miſſing that they went for, Gen. 42. 36. 1 King. 18. 14, 17, 37. Chap. 30. 4, 5. & 33. 7. Jer. 14. 3.

V. 12. For ye ſhall go out with joy, and be led forth with peace:] From Babylon the place of your captivity; a type of mans ſpiritual thraldome under ſin and Satan; as Chap. 52. 11.

with joy] Chap. 35. 10. & 51. 11.

led forth] Or, led along: So the word rather imports, Pſal. 45. 14, 15. where it is uſed of conveying, and conducting, in State: and it ſeems to have relation to the conduct of Gods people, by the pillar of cloud from Egypt to Canaan, Exod. 13. 21, 22.

with peace] Or, in peace; that is, quietly and peaceably. See Chap. 52. 12. Exod. 11. 7. or, in ſafety (ſo is the word, peace, oft uſed. See Chap. 54. 13.) ſafely; under Gods protection, Chap. 52. 12. & 58. 8. Exod. 14. 19, 20. Pſal. 78. 53.

the mountains, and the hills ſhall break forth before you into ſinging,] So great ſhall your joy be, and the expreſſions of it, by ſinging and ſhouting, ſo loud and ſo plentiful, that the very ſenſleſs creatures ſhall ſeem to be ſenſible of it, and affected with it, when the mountains and hils, on every ſide ſounding therewith, return ecchoes of it, as if they rejoyced joyntly with you, and praiſed God together with you, for it. For thereunto do theſe, and the like forms ſeem to allude, Pſal. 98. 7, 8. Chap. 35. 1. & 44. 23. & 49. 13.

and all the trees of the foreſt ſhall clap their hands] Heb. applaud with the hand; as Ezek. 25. 6. or, with the palm of the hand; as the word properly ſignifieth, uſed both here, and Pſal. 96. 12. where the ſame geſture is attributed to the floods: the trees of the foreſt being gently ſhaken with the wind that ye ſhall have to refreſh you by the way, ſhall by making a pleaſant —— noiſe, and entertwining their twigs and branches, as their hands and arms, one with another, ſeem to applaud you, and your joy, as you go. See Pſal. 96. 11, 12.

V. 13. Inſtead of the thorn ſhall come up the fir-tree; and inſtead of the bryer ſhall come up the myrtle-tree;] That this paſſage hath, in the firſt place, a reference to the Jews return from the Babylonian captivity, as well as thoſe, ver. 12. to me ſeemeth undeniable, and the beſt Interpreters acknowledge it. Some underſtand it, of the accommodation of them in their way homeward, when they were to paſs thorow waſte Wilderneſſes: and ſo it ſhould be the ſame with that, Chap. 41. 19. Others, rather conceive it meant of their land and country, that they were to return unto. For whereas aſſurance was given them, of a quiet diſmiſſion from the place of their captivity, and a ſafe conduct unto their own country again, ver. 12. their minds might be troubled, when they began to think, what there would be to entertain them with at their arrival there, conſidering that they ſhould finde their land, moſt of it having lien waſte, and enjoyed, not a ſeventh yeers, but a ſeventy yeers ſabbath, Lev. 26. 34, 35, 43. over-grown with buſhes, and thorns, and bryers, and brambles, Chap. 7. 24. and the Prophet therefore, from God, telleth them, that inſtead of ſuch traſh, as the face of their land was then over-ſpread with, it ſhould, upon their return, be furniſhed with ſuch plants and trees, as ſhould be, not uſeful only, but beautiful, and delightful alſo: and ſo the paſſage is parallel to that, Chap. 4. 2. and that Chap. 35. 1, 2. So the meaning is, that the face and ſtate, of their Land and State, ſhould be ſtrangely altered for better. See the like, in another notion, Chap. 60. 17. Now this is commonly expounded of, and applyed unto, that gracious and bleſſed change, that ſhould be wrought upon, and appear in, thoſe perſons and people, that ſhould, by the miniſtery of the Word, be converted unto God; being now ſo ſtrangely altered, and changed, 2 Cor. 5. 17. that as they are elſe-where ſaid, to be thereby transformed, out of ſerpents, and wild-beaſts, into mild and tame creatures, Chap. 11. 6-8. ſo here, out of ſuch thorny, and prickly ſhrubs and buſhes, as wicked men for their harmfull, and miſchievous minds and courſes, are in Scripture commonly compared unto, 2 Sam. 23. 6. Mic. 7. 4. into ſuch plants and trees, as are both pleaſant and uſeful, Chap. 61. 3. or, as others, that thoſe vices and corruptions, that their hearts and mindes were formerly over-grown with, as with brambles and bryers, Heb. 6. 8. ſhould be ſtubbed up, and rooted out, Jer. 4. 4. and the graces of Gods Spirit there implanted in the room of them. But the ſoundeſt, and moſt judicious Interpreters, deem it over-curious to deſcend unto, and reſtrain the paſſage to theſe particulars; they conceive the flouriſhing eſtate of the Church of God, in general, hereby to be intimated, as abounding in ſpirituall graces and comforts; thoſe at ſome times alſo are accompanied and dignified with remarkable deliverances, proſperous ſucceſſes, countenance of Potentates, peace, plenty, and the like temporal bleſſings, Act. 9. 31.

thorn] See of this, Chap. 7. 19.

brier] The word ſirpad, here uſed, is no where elſe found; the Jewiſh Criticks leave us here in the briers; one while telling us, it is a kind of thorn; another while, that it is a kind of baſe ſhrub; and no more: The ancient Greek rendreth it, conyza; an hearb deſcribed by Dioſcorides, l. 3. c. 127. & Pliny, l. 21. c. 10. and is ſuppoſed by ſome, to be a kind of Mullen; the old Latine, a Nettle. Some of our Criticks would have it ſignifie not any ſhrub, or herb, one, or other, but a thorny-ground; a place over grown with thorns, as compounded of, ſir, that ſignifies a thorn; and the verb rapad, or raphad, that ſignifies, to ſtrew, or pave, (whereof ſee on Chap. 54.11.) but the oppoſition of plant to plant, here; not of ground to ground, as Chap. 35. 2. ſheweth it rather to denote ſome particular buſh or ſhrub: and the name of a thorn found in it, ſeems to imply one of a thorny kind: To which purpoſe, ſome late Interpreters, conceiving the word rather to be made up of ſir, a thorn; and pid, that ſignifies harm, or miſchief, Job 31.29. Prov.24.22. as you would ſay, an harmfull, or miſchievous thorn; do render it, paliurus, a ſhrub; of note, for ſharp and thorny prickles: Of which, Dioſcorides, l.1.c.106. and Virgil, ecloge, 5. our verſion gives it a brier; but another word, is by that term elſe-where uſually rendred, Chap.5.6.& 7.23 25. Mic.7.4.

and it ſhall be to the Lord for a name,] Or, as ſome render it; and this ſhall be to the Lord for a name. This deliverance of his People, and reſtitution of his Church, and the ſtate thereof, ſhall be a means of bringing much glory to God, Chap.44.11. & 60.21. & 61.3. for they ſeem to ſwerve from the genuine ſenſe of the words, that would have it underſtood of the acknowledgment of God, for their Soveraign Lord, by bearing his name, as children do of their parents, ſervants of their maſters, wives of their husbands, Gen.48.16. Chap.4.1.& 63.19. name, for fame, renown, and honour, Gen. 11.4. Num.16.2. Chap.63.12. See Chap.56,5.

for an everlaſting ſign,] An everlaſting monument, and memorial of Gods gracious goodneſs to his people. Heb. a ſign of perpetuity, or eternity; that is, a ſign to endure for ever; as Exod.31.17. as, a name of eternity, for, an everlaſting name, chap. 63. 12. That which ſome ſuppoſe to have an eye unto ſuch ſtones, or pillars, as men uſe to erect for boundaries, or landmarks, with their names thereon engraven, in lands eſpecially, either newly purchaſed, or recovered from ſome adverſary that had before held, and with-held them. But I ſhould rather conceive it to allude to ſuch tropheys, as are wont to be erected, in memory of ſome great victory, or extraordinary archievement; ſuch as that monument erected by Moſes, upon the diſcomfiture of Ameleck, and Gods ſpeech thereupon, with thoſe words (as ſome think) engraven on it, Jehovah niſſi, Exod.17.15,16. for what Popiſh Writers here prate of the ſign of the croſs, is ridiculous.

that ſhall never be cut off.] Or, that it may never be cut off; that is, applyed to the memorial, and the matter thereby to be remembred, that ſhall never be forgotten, Jer.50.5. or that it may never be forgotten, but abide ſtill in mens mindes and mouths. See Jer. 7. 28. But the text may as well be rendred, that it ſhall not be cut off: and ſo relating to that which is by the ſign obſigned, the meaning will be, that this act of God, in delivering and reſtoring his Church, ſhall be, as an everlaſting honour to God; ſo for a ſign to his Church, that it ſhall never be forſaken by God, no more then that act of his forgotten by his people: It ſhall ſtand firm and faſt for ever, under Gods powerful ſupport and protection, never to be cut off, or caſt off, again, Chap.48.19.& 54.9,10. Jer.31.31-37. & 32.40.& 33.25,26. a defect either of the pronoun relative; as ver.5. or of the finitive particle; as Chap.41.7.

CHAP. LVI.

Verſ. 1. Thus ſaith the Lord,] This whole Chapter, (the four laſt verſes onely excepted) ſeemeth to belong to the foregoing Sermon, and to be the concluſion of it: wherein God admoniſheth his people to do that, whereby they may obtain a part in the favours and mercies beforementioned, Chap. 55. and retain it, when they have them: withall, comforting the religious Eunuch againſt want of iſſue; and the Proſelytes of other people, (the number of whom he promiſeth to encreaſe) with promiſe of an equall intereſt with his ancient people, in all the priviledges of his houſe, the Church.

keep ye judgment, and do juſtice:] Or, as ſome render it, Obſerve equity, (as the word judgment is oft uſed for moderation; oppoſed to ſtrictneſs, and rigour of juſtice, Pſal. 25.9. & 112.5. Jer.10.24.& 46.28. Mat.23.23.) and deal juſtly; ſo to do juſtice, it ordinarily uſed for to carry a mans ſelf uprightly, and faithfully, in his dealings with others, Pſal.15.2. Chap.64.5. 1 Joh.3.7,10. Judgment, and Juſtice, are frequently joyned together; which when they are attributed to publike perſons, ſeem to deſign, the one the due and equal hearing, and deciding of cauſes, that come before them; the other, the cauſing of juſtice to be executed, for the righting of the wronged, and puniſhing of the wrong doer, 2 Sam.8.15. 1 Chr.18.14. Pſal. 99.4. Jer.33.15. when to private men, the one ſeems to import equitable carriage, free from rigour, and extremity, mixt with mercy and moderation, in exacting their own from others; the other, a juſt and faithful dealing, in, and about thoſe things that they ow unto others, or are employed about, or entruſted with, by others, Gen.18.19. Pſal.106.3. Ezek.18.5. the exerciſe of theſe Offices, God requires here of them, as fruits of true faith, and ſincere repentance. So Chap. 1.16. Dan.4.27. Mic.6.8. Zach.8.16,17. Mat.3.8. Act.26.20. Gal.5.6. Tit.3.8.

for my ſalvation is near to come,] Which none muſt look to partake in, unleſs they be thus qualified. So Pſal.85.9. Ch.46. 13.& 51.5. Mat.3.2. Mark 1.15. 1 Cor.6.9,10. Eph.5.5.

my righteouſneſs to be revealed.] My righteouſneſs, which I ſhall manifeſt, as by my faithfull performance of my promiſes to my people; ſo by juſt vengeance inflicted upon their oppreſſours, Chap.1.27.& 51.5.

V. 2. Bleſſed is the man that doth this,] So Pſal. 106. 3. Bleſſed are they that obſerve judgment, and each one, that doth Juſtice.

and the Son of man that layeth hold on it:] Or, that holdeth it faſt. So ver.4. Jer.8.5. that keepeth cloſe to it, that practiſeth it conſtantly; not by fits and ſtarts, but at all times, Pſal. 106.3. Son of man, the ſame with man before; as Job 25.6. and a defect of the relative in either branch, as Ch. 55.5,13.

that keepeth the Sabbath from polluting it,] That ſo obſerveth the Sabbath (Exod. 31.13,14,16.) that he pollute it not: for that is the meaning of that phraſe. See the like, Pſal.69. 23. Chap.33.15. Hoſ.4.6. So ver.4. The obſervation of the Sabbath, put here for the whole exerciſe of religion and piety; as Lev.19.3. Jer.17.21,22. to be joyned unto, and go along with the practice of thoſe other duties, before required, ver. 1. Amos 5. 24. and that here the rather put for the reſt; becauſe that might be obſerved in forrein parts, during the time of their captivity; whereas many other parts of Gods religious Worſhip, being confined to the Temple at Jeruſalem, could not, Deut.12.11-14.

pollute it] Or, profane it: by ſpending it, or any part of it, ſave in caſe of neceſſity, in any profane employment, Exod.31. 14. Neh.13.17,18. Jer.17.21,22,24.

and keepeth his hand from doing any evill.] Or, that it do not any evill; to wit, to his neighbour; as it is more fully expreſſed, Pſal.15.3. So Zach. 8.17. Heb. all, for any; as Ezek.18.13. that is as well careful to walk uprightly among men, as to carry himſelf religiouſly toward God, Act.10.35. Jam.1.27. and to abſtain as well from wronging his Neighbour, as from profaning Gods Sabbath. See Chap. 1.13, 15.& 58.3-5,13. Amos 5.21,24.

V 3. Neither let the ſon of the ſtranger, that hath joyned himſelf to the Lord, ſpeak, ſaying, The Lord hath utterly ſeparated me from his people:] Let no man think himſelf excluded from partaking in the gracious promiſes of God, before propounded, Chap. 55.1,2,12,13. in regard of his birth and generation, becauſe he is of another nation, and no native Jew, Gal. 2.15. for Gods offers of grace, are propounded to all, without diſtinction of nation; be they Jews, or Gentiles, that ſhall ſincerely come in unto God, and embrace his ſervice, Act. 10, 34,35. Rom.1.10,11.& 3.29,30.& 10.12. 1 Cor.12.13. Gal.3. 28. Col.3.11.

the ſon of the ſtranger] That is, the ſtranger born, or by deſcent. See ver.6. But ſo he ſpeaketh the rather, in regard of that law, whereby the iſſue of ſome people, were for divers deſcents ſecluded, from admiſſion into the congregation of Iſrael, Deut. 23. 3,7,8. whereunto the Jewiſh Commenters further add, that he makes mention of the ſtrangers ſon, becauſe he had no inheritance in the land of the Eunuch; becauſe though he were a Jew, yet he had no iſſue to inherit: But God here intimateth, that thoſe laws that made ſuch diſtinction between the native Jew, and the ſtranger, ſhould under the Meſſias be repealed; the partition wall being then removed, that ſevered Jew, and Gentile, the one from the other, as the veil was from the top to the bottome rent in twain, at his death, Mat.27.51. Eph.2.11-16. and in the Prophecy of Ezekiel, proviſion is made for the ſtranger, alſo, and his iſſue, that had joyned himſelf unto Gods people, to inherit alſo among them, Ezek. 47. 22, 23. a type of their joynt portion in the heavenly inheritance, Eph.3.6.

that hath joyned himſelf] Heb. that is joyned; as it is rendred, Chap.14.1. where the ſame thing is mentioned; but theſe paſſives have oft a reciprocal notion. See Chap. 5.8. and ſo Jer. 50. 5. let us joyn our ſelves to the Lord. See further, ver.6.

utterly ſeparated] Heb. ſeparating ſeparated.

neither let the Eunuch ſay, I am a dry tree.] Barren, and without poſſibility of iſſue: which might peradventure run in the minds of ſuch, as if therefore they ſhould ſeem to be without the verge of Gods benediction; becauſe fecundity was promiſed, and eſteemed, as a bleſſing, Exod.23.26. Deut.28.4,11. Pſal.128.1,3.

Eunuch] Of the term, ſee on Chap.39.7.

a dry tree] Or, a ſear tree, Luke 23.31.

V. 4. For thus ſaith the Lord unto the Eunuchs, that keep my Sabbaths, and chooſe the things that pleaſe me, and take hold of my covenant.] That are careful, as well in other things, generally to pleaſe me, and approve themſelves unto me, and to keep covenants with me, as in the obſervation of my day, 1 King.8.23. Pſal.132.12. Col.1.10.

thus ſaith the Lord] This the rather doth the Prophet here prefix, thus ſaith the Lord; becauſe it might ſeem to croſs the Law given by Moſes, before-mentioned. So the Apoſtle, 1 Cor.7.10. not I, but the Lord.

unto the Eunuchs] Or, concerning them; as the particle is rendred, Chap.23.5. for Gods ſpeech here related, is not directed to them, but delivered as concerning them.

chooſe] Not take them up upon ſome ſudden motion, or from example barely, or tradition, or for ſome baſe reſpects, and ſiniſter ends; as Eſt. 8. 17. but after ſerious and mature deliberation, upon due conſideration, out of judgment rightly enformed, and affection thereon grounded, do by a free election, betake themſelves to them. See ver.6. ſo David, I have choſen the way of truth, Pſal. 119. 30. a term very ſignificant.

thoſe things that pleaſe me] So Chap.38.3. Joh.8.29. 1 Theſſ. 4.1. Heb.13.16. 1 Joh.3.22.

take hold of my covenant] Or, hold faſt my covenant; as ver. 2. Pſal.103.18.

V. 5. Even, unto them will I give in mine houſe, and within my walls, a place] By the Law of Moſes, none, ſo maimed, and diſmembred, might be admitted into the Prieſtly function, ſo as to execute any ſervice within the vail of the Tabernacle, or the walls of the Temple, Levit.21.20,23. Deut.23.1. but no ſuch bodily maim, or defect, ſhould hinder any true beleever, any ſincere and faithful ſoul, from having a part in the ſpiritual Prieſthood, 1 Pet.2.9. Rev.1.6. & 20.6. and a place in Gods houſe, the Church, 1 Tim.3.15.

Even] Heb. And: as Chap.1.6. & 40.30.

within my walls] The walls of Jeruſalem, as ſome, Pſal. 122.7. a type of the Church: but I ſuppoſe rather, of the Temple; of which, ver.7. and from which, ſome were excluded, though not ſhut out of the city. See Lev.21.22,23. Lam. 1.10. Act.21.28.

a place] Heb. hand: as Chap.57.8. Deut.23.12.

and a name better then that of ſons, and daughters;] Mens names are ſaid to be continued in their iſſue, male eſpecially; and to fail conſequently in ſuch as wanted iſſue, Num. 27. 4. 2 Sam.18.18. and a numerous iſſue is deemed no ſmall honour, Pſal.127.4,5. & 128.3. Prov.17.6. God therefore promiſeth here, to ſupply and make good the want of iſſue, and of whatſoever, either honour here, or memorial hereafter, might, from it, have accrewed unto them, by beſtowing upon them, matter of far greater honour, and more durable; even ſuch as ſhould continue unto all eternity: that which ſhould abundantly recompenſe, and much more then countervail that defect.

a name] What this name ſhould be, many debate much; and ſome would have it to be the name of Gods people, Hoſ.2. 23. ſome, of Gods ſervants, Chap.44.1,2. ſome, of Gods Prieſts, and Miniſters, Chap.61.6. ſome, of Gods ſons, and heirs, Joh.1.12. Rom.8.16,17. 2 Cor.6.18. Eph.3.6. 1 Joh.3.1. But this is not unlike the diſpute about the name ſaid to be given unto Chriſt, Phil.2.9. but as by name there, doth not import any one particular title, but is put for power and authority; as Act.3.16. & 4.2. ſo by name, is not any ſuch particular ſtyle here meant, but ſuch honour and dignity, as ſhould far ſurpaſſe that, which iſſue was able to afford, both for eminency, and for continuance. See Chap.55.15. & 66.15. Howbeit, what Popiſh Writers hence gather for the merit of ſingle life, above the married eſtate, expounding the place of voluntary Eunuchs; from Mat.19.12,13. is groundleſs, and frivolous.

better then that of ſons, and daughters] Heb. good from, or before, ſons and daughters: as Prov. 22.1. Eccl. 7.1. that is, better then the name of ſons, and daughters: the word name, ſupplyed from that before-going, as Dan.4.33.

I will give them an everlaſting name] Heb. I will give him (that is, each one of them, as Chap.26.19.) a name of eternity, as Chap.63.12.

that ſhall not be cut off] As that by iſſue continued, (it failing oft) is, 1 King.14.10. 2 King.10.11. Pſal.21.10. & 109. 13. See Chap 48.18. & 55.15. Rev.3.12.

V. 6. Alſo the ſons of the ſtranger that joyneth himſelf to the Lord to ſerve him] Heb. And the ſons of the ſtranger, that ſhall be joyned to the Lord, to ſerve him. Which ſome render, And as for the ſtrangers; becauſe the nominative caſe ſeems to be put abſolutely.

the ſons of the ſtranger] That is, ſuch as are ſtrangers by deſcent. See Chap.2.6.

joyneth himſelf] Heb. are joyned; and it ſhould be rendred, that joyn themſelves. See ver.4.

to ſerve the Lord] The end of this joyning himſelf to him more fully, then before, ver.4. here expreſſed; ſo it is ſaid of the prodigal, that he joyned himſelf to one, that kept a farm, not as a partner with him, but as a ſervant to him, Luk. 15.15. and ſo the words here following are. Howbeit, the term here uſed, would rather be rendred, to miniſter unto him; it being ordinarily applyed to the Prieſtly function, Deut.12. 6,8. and it is ſaid here, not as of the Levites, to miniſter unto Aaron, Num.18.2,4. but as of the Prieſts, to miniſter unto the Lord, Deut.21.5. thereby intimating, that they ſhould be admitted, unto the ſacred adminiſtration, to miniſter, not as Levites only, but as Prieſts. See Chap.61.6. whereas all ſtrangers, all, that were out of that one tribe, whether Iſraelites, or forraigners, were before excluded from either, Num.3.38. & 18.4.

to love the name of the Lord, to be his ſervants] That is, out of love to the Lord, to be his ſervants. So Deut. 10. 12. to love him, and to ſerve him; that is, out of love to ſerve him: that was before cloſely intimated in the term of chooſing, ver.4. See the like ſyntax, ver.10.

the name of the Lord] For, the Lord himſelf: as Pſal.116.4, 17. Prov.18.10.

every one that keepeth the Sabbath from polluting it, and taketh hold of my covenant] See on ver. 2. every ſtranger, that ſo doth; for of them ſtill he here ſpeaks: and he mentioneth the obſervation of the Sabbath more ſpecially, as the Jewiſh Doctors, ſome of them, would have it, becauſe that was appointed by God, in more ſpecial manner, to be a ſolemn ſign between God and his people, to ſignifie, and obſign, his ſanctifying of them, and being in covenant with them, Exod. 31. 16,17. Ezek.20.20. ſome other, to diſtinguiſh between ſtranger and ſtranger, and to ſhew what manner of ſtranger it was, that he here intended: for among the Jews, ſay they, there were two ſorts of ſtrangers; one ſort, that obſerved the commandements given unto Adam, and Noah, but went no further: another, that were circumciſed alſo, and obſerved the rites delivered by Moſes; among which, the Sabbath, Exod.16.23. and of theſe, ſay they, it appeareth, that he ſpeaketh, by mention made of the Sabbath. But this diſtinction, we find no ground for, in Scripture; and places are much wronged, to wring this conceit out of them: the Sabbath being the time ſet apart for Gods conſtant ſolemn ſervice, Levit.23.3. is put for the whole ſervice of God, performed ordinarily on that day. So Levit.26.3.

V. 7. Even, them will I bring unto mine holy mountain] Heb. And I will bring them (but, Even them; as ver.5. or, Them, I ſay: as Chap.49.6.) unto my mountain of holineſſe; as Pſal.15. 1. to Mount Sion, on which the Temple was ſituate, a type of the Church, Chap.2.2. & 11.9. Ezek.20.40.

and will make them joyful in mine houſe of prayer] I will cauſe them to ſerve me there, with alacrity, and cheerfulneſs of ſpirit, Deut.16.14,15. for the manifold bleſſings, wherewith I have bleſſed them, and for the ſpiritual comforts, that by their communion with me, in my ſacred ordinances, I ſhall there impart unto them, Pſal.36.8. & 42.4. & 43.3,4. & 63.5. & 84.4,10.

houſe of prayer] The Temple, in which, and towards which, as Gods palace, and peculiar place of his reſidence, they were wont to pray, being at Gods command, built, ſanctified, and ſet apart for that purpoſe, 2 Sam.7.13. 1 King.8.19,28-30,33, 35. & 9.3.

their burnt-offerings and their ſacrifices, ſhall be accepted upon mine altar:] Heb. ſhall be to acceptance upon mine altar. So Exod.28.38. Levit.22.21. Pſal.19.14. and ſo the contrary, Levit.20.21. Jer.6.20. Howbeit, there ſeems to be here, a defective form of ſpeech, thus to be ſupplyed, their burnt-offerings (of which word, ſee on Chap.1.11.) ſhall unto acceptance, or, with acceptance, go up upon mine altar; or, they ſhall be accepted, being offered upon mine altar: as it is more fully, chap. 60.7. See of the like, Chap.38.17,21. A type of thoſe their ſpiritual ſacrifices, of themſelves, of their ſervice, their prayers, their praiſes, their beneficence, Pſal.50.23. & 69.30,31. & 141.2. Rom.12.1. 2 Cor.8.5. Phil.2.17. & 4.18. that ſhould be accepted, Pſal.51.17,19. Mal.1.11. & 3.4. Rom.15.16. Heb. 13.16. being offered upon the true altar, that ſanctifieth every oblation, on it offered, the Lord Jeſus, Mat.23.19. Heb. 13. 10,15. Rev.8.3,4. Jer.33.18.

for mine houſe ſhall be called the houſe of prayer] Mat.21.13. Mar.11.17. Luk.19.46. ſhall be called; that is, ſhall ſo be; and be ſo accounted: as Chap.54.5. Mat.5.9.

for all people] Heb. all peoples: as Pſal. 117.1. ſo rendred alſo, Rom.15.11. not for Jews only, but for other nations alſo, without exception, or excluſion of any, Rom. 10. 12, 13. See 1 King.8.41-43.

V. 8. The Lord God which gathereth the out-caſts of Iſrael, ſaith] Heb. The ſaying (as Chap.1.24.) of the Lord God that gathereth together the out-caſts of Iſrael: as it is well rendred, Pſal.147.2. See Chap.11.12.

Yet will I gather others to him, beſides thoſe that are gathered to him] Heb. Yet, or, Furthermore, (as Chap.8.5.) or, (dividing it) I will further gather together more upon him, (as alluding ding to an heap, which to raiſe higher, materials are laid one upon another) or, to him, (ſo is the particle uſed, Pſal.16.2. & 23.2. Chap.22.15. & 53.1.) unto, or above (as Job 23. 2. my ſtroke is above my groaning:) his gathered together; that is, over and above, or beſides thoſe, that I ſhall at firſt gather together. This, a learned Writer of great note, would have meant of a ſecond gathering of ſome by Nehemy, after the firſt by Ezra, Ezr.2.1,2. Neh.7.7. but we read not of any remarkable number gathered together by Nehemy; who was not that way employed, but about repairing the city, and reforming, and ſetling of the State, with thoſe, whom he found there. The courſe of the context rather carrieth it to thoſe forraigners, and ſtrangers, before ſpoken of, ver. 6, 7. who were alſo to be gathered, and brought in to Gods people, and added unto his fold, the Church, Joh.10.16. & 11.32. Act. 1. 41,47. & 11.24. And ſo not ours alone, but the Jewiſh Commenters alſo, expound it; only one telleth us of an expoſition of his fathers, which yet he doth not expreſs any allowance of, that this verſe, ſhould be underſtood of Gog, and Magog, of whom, Ezek.29 16,17. unto whom, he would alſo apply the paſſage enſuing, ver. 9. reading the text, I will gather together againſt him, &c. But the former paſſages control this expoſition; and the enſuing words ſeem to be part of another Prophecy.

V. 9. All ye beaſts of the field, come to devour, yea, all ye beaſts in the foreſt] Divers Expoſitors annex the enſuing part of this Chapter, to the former; making, ſome of them, this the coherence, That the Prophet, from the conſolation of the godly party, in the former part, doth in this latter part, proceed unto the reprehenſion of the wicked, and ungodly party among them. Other of them, that this is ſubjoyned unto the promiſes before-going, to ſhew that yet, before they ſhould be fulfilled, very fearful and ſad matters ſhould befall the Jewiſh State: which by the Romanes they conceive to have been done, in the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, Dan.9.26,27. Mat.23. 38. & 24.15-22. Luk.19.43,44. & 21.20-24. But the moſt, and beſt, herein agree, that at theſe words beginneth a new Sermon, or Prophecy: and that the four laſt verſes of this Chapter ſhould go joyntly, in one, with the next.

All ye beaſts of the field] Heb. Every beaſt; and ſo in the next branch: but taken collectively; as Chap.43.20. Ezek. 31.6,13. & 34.5,8. The Prophet maketh entrance into the enſuing Prophecy, with a ſolemn proclamation, wherein ravenous beaſts of all ſorts, are called upon to come in to devour, and make havock of Gods own flock, of his own people; and by ſuch kind of creatures are here deſigned, as ſome would have it, the Romanes; but, as moſt rather, the Chaldeans, together with the Syrians, Aſſyrians, Moabites, Ammonites, Edomites, and other people, that joyned with the Babylonians, and ſerved under the King of Babylon, in his expedition againſt the Jews, 2 King.24.2. Pſal.137.7. Jer.1. 15,16. See the like, Jer.12.9.

come to devour] Heb. to eat: as alſo, Jer. 12. 9. The adverſaries of Gods people ſo deſcribed, as alſo, Pſal.80.13. are incited to do with them, as ſuch creatures are wont to do, with ſuch as they prey upon. Howbeit, ſome conceive, that the beaſts themſelves are called to devour their ſlain, as intimating what havock would be made of them, and what ſhould become of their corpſes, (that which, in likelihood alſo, befell many of them) after they were dead, Pſal.79.2. Jer.7.33. & 34.20. See the like, Ezek.39.17-20. where the ravenous birds, and beaſts are invited, as to a feaſt, to eat, unto their fill, at Gods table, on the carcaſes of horſe, and men; as alſo, Rev.19.17,18. and I ſuppoſe there may well, in this paſſage, be ſome alluſion thereunto: but take the former to be the genuine ſenſe of the place; the rather, for the reaſon of this call, and invitement, rendred, ver.9,10. to wit, the defect, and neglect, blindneſſe, and ſleepineſſe of their ſhepherds, that which is wont to give opportunity to wolves, and wild beaſts, not to prey upon dead carcaſes, but to break in upon, and wory the flock. See Ezek.34.2-8.

all ye beaſts in the foreſt.] Beaſts in the foreſt, for, beaſts of the foreſt: the uſual receptacle, and harbour of ſuch ravenous creatures, Pſal.50.10. & 80.13.2 King.2.24.Jer.5.6. So mountains in Gilboa, for, mountains of Gilboa, 2 Sam.1.21. and, the Prince in thy people, for, the Prince of thy people, Act.23.5.

V. 10. His watchmen are blind; they are all ignorant.] Or, Their watchmen are blind (becauſe he ſpeaketh of his people; as Chap.5.25.) they have no knowledge any of them. Heb. they know not. So Pſal.14.4. & 82.5. Chap.1.3. & 44.18. Their Prieſts, and pretended Prophets, or their Rulers, as well Civil, as Eccleſiaſtical, (for under the name of watchmen, both may well go, though theſe eſpecially ſeem here intended) that ſhould watch, and look out, to diſcover any evill, or enemy, approaching, to give warning of it, both to People and State, Chap.62.6. Jer.6.17. & 33.2,7. are ſtark blind, utterly void of any ſound knowledge, or ability to diſcern, Chap.42.19. Hoſ. 4.6. and any enemy therefore may ſafely and eaſily break in upon either, without any notice taken of their approaches, or oppoſition made againſt them. Some underſtand this of the Scribes, and Phariſees, in our Saviour Chriſts time, taxed by him, in his preachings under the name of blind guides, Matth. 15.14. & 23.15,16,24. and unto them it may be well applyed; but ſeemeth to be of a far larger extent, and to intend other times.

they are all dumb dogs, they cannot bark;] That which is principally required of a watchman, is to ſee, and look about him: that which of a dog, ſet to keep the houſe, or the flock, is to give warning, by barking, of the approach of the thief, or any ſtranger unto the one, of the Woolf, or any ravenous beaſt to the other, Job 30.1. watchfulneſs is required in either: and in thoſe, conſequently here reſembled by either, Mat.24. 41-45. Mark 13.33-37. Luke 12. 36-42. whereas they were blind, dumb, drowſie, and drunk; for ſo the words enſuing intimate. So the Princes are revelling, when Babylon is taken, Chap.21.5. Dan.5.1-4,30. and the ſhepherds are ſlumbring, when Niniveh is ſurpriſed. Nah.3.18.

bark] By reproving the people for their ſins, chap. 58.1. and forewarning them of ſuch evils, as would befall them for the ſame, unleſs prevented by repentance, Ezek.18.19. and it is not unuſual in Scripture, to ſay, that men cannot do thoſe things, which they have no mind, or will, to do. So ver.11. Gen.44.22,26. Jer.13.23.

ſleeping] So the moſt: Yet ſome, dreaming; ſome, talking in their ſleep: ſome, ſnorting: ſome, doting; from an Arabick term, that by change of a letter ſo ſignifies; the old Latine, ſeeing vain things: which ſome impute to a miſtake of hozim, for chozim, or hhozim, that ſignifies ſeeing. A late Interpreter of ſpecial note, ſerving the time; but of that his verſion, ſo diſcrepant from the reſt, no ground is, by him, given; nor am I able to conceive what it ſhould be.

lying down, loving to ſlumber.] That is, lying down of purpoſe to take their eaſe, and repoſe themſelves, as the only thing, that they deſired, took delight in, and had never enough of, Prov.6.9,10. & 24.33. Amos 6.4. See the like form of ſpeech, ver. 6. So Nahum 3. 18. Thy Shepherds ſlumber.

V. 11. Yea, they are greedy dogs, which can never have enough:] To their ſluggiſhneſs, and love of their eaſe, is added their greedineſs, and their inſatiable covetouſneſs, an uſuall concomitant of the former, with the moſt, requiring means to maintain them, in an idle and looſe courſe of life.

yea, they are greedy dogs] Or, And theſe dogs, or, Theſe dogs alſo are very greedy. Heb. ſtrong of ſoul, or, of appetite; as, a man, or, owner of ſoul; that is, of appetite, for one of greedy appetite, Prov.23.2.

which can never have enough] Or, they can never have enough. Heb. they know not to be ſatisfied: Our margent renders it, as if it were a verb of the infinitive mood; which ſome of the Jewiſh Maſters alſo, but doubtingly, deliver. Or, rather, they know not ſatiety: for the word ſeems to be a noun, in that notion, frequently found, Ruth 2.18. Chap.23. 18. & 55.2. Ezek.16.28. & 39.19. Hag.1.6. as Chap.59. 8. they know not the way of peace: that is, they know not how to walk, or carry themſelves peaceably: they cannot do it, becauſe they have no mind thereunto. See ver.6. of ſome ſuch like dogs, David, Pſal. 59.6,14,15. the greedineſs here ſpoken of, is not of meat, or drink, (though in following their voluptuous courſes of riot and exceſs, they were that way alſo inſatiable, ver. 12.) but of moneyes, and means, to maintain that withall, Eccl.5.10. & 10.19.

and they are ſhepherds that cannot underſtand:] Or, and ſuch ſhepherds they are, as have no underſtanding; a defect of the relative, as ver.2. Heb. know not to underſtand; as Jer.6.15. & 8.12. they know not to bluſh; and, they know not to do right, Amos 3.10. though ſome render it; they know not to teach; as if it were to make to underſtand; to inſtruct: and ſo the word is uſed, Dan.10. 14. See alſo Chap. 28. 19. but is more frequently taken in the former ſenſe, 1 King.3.9. Prov.1.2,6. & 14.8. Some would here diſtinguiſh between the dogs, and the ſhepherds; as if the one were the inferiour officers; the other, the ſuperiour governours: But the ſame parties ſeem to be, in either appellation, intended; as before, ver.10. they have no underſtanding to foreſee, and conceive, what the iſſue of things will be, Jer.6.14. ſo the Jewiſh Commenters. Or, they have no skill to order the flock aright: a matter of much moment, and, in ſpecial manner, required in a ſhepherd, Jer. 3. 15.

they all look to their own way, every one to his gain, from his quarter.] This clauſe ſheweth more plainly, what greedineſs was ment before; to wit, greedineſs of gain, Prov.15.27. & 31.15,16.

look to their own way] See Chap.53.6. they are all for themſelves, without any regard to, or care of, the flock, and its welfare, Jer.22.17. Ezek.34.2,3. Phil.2.21. Some make this paſſage parallel to that, Chap. 53.6. We have turned every one to his own way. Others, to that, Judg.17.6.every man did that which was right in his own eyes. Both underſtand them, as implying not a general concurrence only, in running out into evil; but a diverſity of thoſe courſes, that they ſeverally took; ſome abandoning themſelves to the giving of ſatisfaction to one inordinate luſt, and ſome to another: whence, alſo, ſome conceive a diſtribution of them here, into two ranks; ſome addicted to covetouſneſs, and ſome to riot and exceſs. But I ſuppoſe the meaning of the words to be ſimply ſuch as was before hinted: nor do the places pointed to, ſeem altogether parallel, the pronoun being in them ſingular, as importing a diſtribution; whereas here it is plural. Beſides, that the ſame parties ſeem charged with the ſame vices, not ſome of them with the one onely, and ſome with the other. See the like, Amos 4.1.& 6.3,4.

his gain] As Prov.1.19.& 15.27. it is rendred, covetouſneſs, Chap.57.17. Jer.6.13. Ezek.33.31, but the word ſignifies, properly, lucre, or, gain.

from his quarter] Heb. from his end; which Interpreters diverſly expound. Some, from the one end of them to the other; that is, from the higheſt to the loweſt, as Jer.6.13. all ſorts of them; and ſo the old Latine rendreth it. Others, from the one end of their way to the other: from the firſt to the laſt, they mind and follow nothing but this: it is the whole tenour of their life, to look after their gain. Others, from the one end of the city to the other; as if out of all parts of it, they did rap and rend what they could; no place was free from their pillage: and according to theſe expoſitions, the ſpeech ſhould be defective, as wanting the latter term, more fully expreſſed elſe-where; as Exod.26.28.& 36.33. Others, and ſo ſome of the Jewiſh Commenters, from the place of his abode; and they parallel it with that, Gen.19.4. where the word is not amiſs rendred, quarter, as it is alſo according to this ſenſe, which ſeemeth the plaineſt here. Howbeit, ſome conceiving it further to intimate their inſatiable thirſt, and purſuit after gain, render it, without end; and in that notion is the noun oft uſed, as Chap.2.7. and the particle alſo prefixed before it, is ſometime uſed in the like ſenſe: and ſo, from end, ſhould be here, as much as without end; as, from viſion, without viſion, Mic.3.6. But the pronoun, his, affixed, ſeemeth to make the conſtruction, in that ſenſe, here, the harſher, and to carry it rather the other way. I ſhall ſubjoyn only an Annotation of a late learned Writer: He conceiveth that the word here uſed, though commonly ſignifying, coaſt, or, end, or, extremity, doth oft-times alſo denote, eminent, or honourable perſons. So he deemeth it to be taken, Gen.19.4.& 47.2. Judg.18.2. Chap.26.15. Ezek.33.2. and ſo he would have it taken here; and the meaning to be, either referring it to the Prieſts, they look after their gain, the very chief of them; not the meaner ſort only: or referring it to the people whom they made a prey of; they follow their gain, from the principall, (that is, the richer ſort) of them; to wit, of that people, whoſe watchmen they are ſaid to be, ver.10. But the places produced, are all queſtionable; nor doth it ſeem to go ſmoothly either way here: yea, this Author himſelf elſewhere ſeemeth confident, that this phraſe ſignifieth, on every ſide, both here, & Jer.50.26.& 51.31. and in moſt of the places here alledged by him to other purpoſe. But howſoever it may be with other places, the pronoun affixed will not permit it to be taken ſo here.

V. 12. Come ye,] The ſpeech of theſe wicked Prieſts, and pretended Prophets, either exciting one another, to joyn together, in the practice of riot and exceſs; or inviting ſome of the people to partake therein with them; and ſo impiouſly encouraging them unto ſuch vile courſes, as their duty was to have reproved in them, and to have by all means endeavoured to withdraw them from. Thus they applyed themſelves to the humour of the people, Mic.2.11. and ſtrengthened the hands of the wicked, that they might not leave their ſins, Ezek.13.19,22.

ſay they] Theſe words are ſupplyed, being not in the text, as Chap.22.13.& 45.14. Neh.13.15. Act.7.32.

I will fetch wine, and we will fill our ſelves with ſtrong drink;] Heb. I will take wine; but it is well rendred here fetch; as alſo, Gen.18.7.& 27.9. for it includeth two notions, to take, and to bring; as, to receive, and to beſtow, Pſal.68.18. compared with Eph.4.8.) and we will be drunk (as it is well rendred, Mic.1.10.) with ſtrong drink: we will want no good liquour of any kind. Of the word, joyned alſo with wine there, ſee on Chap.5.11. a defect of the particle with; as Chap.28.1. Jer.13.12.

and to morrow ſhall be as this day, and much more abundant.] Some conceive it to be ſpoken in deriſion of Gods Prophets, as ſcoffing at their denunciation of deſtruction, ſhortly and ſuddenly to befall them; we do well enough to day, and we will do better to morrow. See Chap.22.13. But it ſeemeth rather a profeſſion of a wicked and wretched reſolution, to proceed in the continued practice of their preſent exceſs, day after day, without abating an act of it; but improving it rather. See ſomewhat the like reſolution of the drunkard, Prov.23.35.

and much more abundant] Heb. great; (that is) greater then this: the poſſitive, for the comparative, as Gen.10.21.) yea of much more excellency, or abundance, as Gen.49.3.

CHAP. LVII.

Verſ. 1. The righteous periſheth;] Amidſt the reproofs of the wickedneſs and profaneneſs of the times, and the dreadful denunciations of wrath and judgment, againſt the main body of the ſtate for the ſame, the Prophet here, by the way, inſerts ſomewhat for the comfort of the ſincere-hearted, that living in thoſe times, ſhould either by the cruelty of oppreſſion, have their lives ſhortned, or be taken away otherwiſe: yet not without a ſecret nip, unto thoſe other ungodly ones, that regarded it not, nor took notice of Gods mercy toward them, in tranſlating them hence, before the judgments denounced came to be put in execution; or, of the warning thereof given by the ſubtraction of ſuch.

The righteous] This ſome reſtrain to Joſias, commended for his juſtice, Jer.22.15,16. as well as for his piety, 2 Chron.34.3. and taken away by an untimely end, 2 Chron.35.23,24. But the word ſeems more general; being taken collectively, as Pſal.11.5.& 34.19.

periſheth] Is taken away by death; the deceaſe of many ſuch, a fore-running ſign of ſome general judgment approaching. See Chap.3.2.& 6.13. and ſee the like complaints of a defection of ſuch, Pſal.12.1. Mic.7.1,2. Howbeit, it is not ſo to be underſtood, as if ſuch utterly periſhed, and were loſt: for it is not ſo; they live even in death, Joh.11.25,26. But by periſhing, is underſtood only deceaſe, and departure hence, as ready to periſh; that is, to dy, Chap.27.13. And the Prophet the rather uſeth this term, becauſe to the carnal eye, it ſeemed ſo to fare with them; which yet he controlleth, ver.2.

and no man layeth it to heart:] Heb. there is no man, or, not any, (as Chap.36.6.& 40.26.) laying it on heart; as Chap.47.7. So ver.11. where a defect alſo of the pronoun demonſtrative it, as here: heart, for his heart. See the like defect of the poſſeſſive, Chap.27.9.& 53.10. none of them, of thoſe debauched ones, Chap.56.12. do any whit regard it, or take notice of Gods hand, and end, in it. See Chap.5.16,17. Amos 6.5,6.

and mercifull men are taken away;] Or, pious, godly; or, kind, pittifull; for the word is uſed for either: for the former, Pſal.16.10.& 32.6.& 86.2. for the latter, Pſal.103.4.& 109.18. Jer.2.1.& 3.12. Heb. men of piety, or pitty: or, men of benignity, or kindneſs; as Prov.11.17. a man of benignity, or kindneſs, oppoſed there to a cruell man: the word is uſed in the adjective, Pſal.12.1. Mic.7.2. The Jewiſh Criticks thus diſtinguiſh theſe two; the Juſt, or Righteous; and the kind, or bountifull man: the former, ſay they, is one that giveth preciſely to God, or Man, in matter of tithes, or alms, and the like, what the ſtrict letter of the Law exacts of him, and no more: the latter, one that affordeth it with ſome over-plus: For example, the firſt-fruits of their corn, wine, and oyl, was without any certain ſet proportion, or ſtint, required of them by the Moſaicall Law, Deut.18.2. howbeit, their Doctors had ſo defined it, that a ſixtieth part, at leaſt, was to be given. This they gathered from Ezek.45.11. where for their oblation, the ſixt part of an Epha, is required out of an Homer, which contained ten Ephaes. Hence, they made three degrees of offerers, one that brought but a ſixtieth part; whom they call a man of a ſtrict eye: Another that brought the fiftieth part, whom they term the middle man: A third, that brought the fortieth part, whom they call a man of a good eye. So Eccleſ.35.9. And this third, is the kind, or bountifull man. Again, from Eſaus words to Jacob, Gen.33.9. they coin four ſorts of men: The firſt, he that ſaith, Mine to thee, and thine to me; or, Mine thine, and thine mine. And this is the man of the world, that dealeth ſtrictly in mutuall commerce. The ſecond, that ſaith, Mine to me, and thine to thee; or, Mine mine, and thine thine. And this is the way of Sodom, that would part with nothing to the Poor, Ezek.16.49. or, the middle man, between the wicked, and the kind. A third, that ſaith, Mine to my ſelf, and thine too to me; or, Mine mine own, and thine mine, and that is a wicked man. A fourth, that ſaith, Mine to thee, and thine to thy ſelf; or, Mine thine, and thine thine own; that giveth freely, looking for nothing again, Pſal.37.21. Luk.6.35. And this is the kind, or bountifull man. See Chap.32.5. True it is, that the word hath a notion of bounty, and benignity in it; but ſo is the word of righteouſneſs alſo oftentimes uſed. See on Chap.54.17. and ſo Matth.1.19. nor ſeemeth it the purpoſe of the Holy Ghoſt, here to diſtinguiſh between righteous men, and men of piety, or kindneſs; but to deſcribe the ſame perſons by words, as they are largely taken, (though in ſtrict notion diſtinct) of equal extent. So righteous, and good, Rom.5.7.

taken away] Heb. gathered: as Gen.25.8. Pſal.27.10. a metaphor taken from the gathering of fruit, or corn, Levit. 23. 39. Chap.17.5.

no man conſidering] Or, while none conſidereth. Heb. in there being none underſtanding, or conſidering: as, when no deeps were, Prov.8.24. & 29.18. where no viſion is, or, without any underſtanding, or conſideration: as, without inſtruction, Prov.5.23. that is, for want of it: and, without a wall, Ezek. 38.11.

that the righteous] The ſame word comprehending here, the perſons ſpoken of in the two former branches, as being not divers perſons, but the ſame diverſly deſcribed.

is taken away from the evil to come] Heb. from before, or, from the face of the evil, (as Jer.42.17.) is the righteous gathered: a reſemblance taken from the fruit, that is pluckt, and carried into the houſe; or corn, that is cut, and brought into the barn, when a ſtorm is perceived coming, to prevent ſuch hurt, or damage, as thereby it might have received: So here, they are before-hand taken away, that they may not ſee the ruine of the State, and the captivity of their people. See inſtances of the like, in Jeroboams ſon taken away, that he might not ſee the downfal of his fathers whole family, and the utter extirpation of his ſtock, 1 King.14.12,13. of Joſias gathered up, that he might not ſee the ſame with theſe, had they ſurvived, 2 King.22.20.

V. 2. He ſhall enter into peace] Or, He ſhall go in peace: the particle wanting; as Chap.41.3. or, as ſome render it, Peace ſhall come, to wit, to them; it ſhall befall them: for the word ſignifies, as well to come, as to go, Ch.27.13.& 35.10. and ſome alſo ſupplying the particle of continuation, (which is oft ſuppreſſed: as 1 Sam.18.30. Ch.2.2.& 10.20.& 11.11.) carry on the ſentence, as further relating what it was, that theſe wicked wretches, who deemed the godly, ſo taken away, to be wretched, and unhappy perſons, did not underſtand, or conſider, to wit, That he goeth to peace; or, That he goeth in peace, or, That peace cometh to him. That they are taken away while outward peace yet continueth, 2 King.23.20. and quietly with inward peace in their ſouls, Luk.2.29. or, That they depart hence unto reſt, and peace, Rev.14.3. to a place of eternal joy and bliſſe, Mat.25.21-23. Luk.16.25. Joh.16.22. and this is that which worldly men conſider not; becauſe to the eye of fleſh it appeareth not, Col.3.3. 1 Joh. 3. 2. but they ſeem rather to have periſhed, ver.1. 1 Cor.15.18.

they ſhall reſt in their beds] As their ſouls paſſe to a place of reſt, and bliſſe; ſo their bodies are laid down to reſt in the grave, as in a bed, or bed-chamber, there to ſleep quietly, until the general reſurrection, what time they ſhall awake, and be raiſed up again, Job.7.21. and 14. 12. Eccleſ. 12. 7. 2 Cor.5.8. Phil.1.23. and 3. 21. 1 Theſſ. 4.14,17. becauſe the verb here is plural, whereas the former was ſingular, Some would have it rendred, his bones ſhall reſt in their beds; but that is not needful: the word was collective before; and their beds intimateth as much here: and the paſſage from number to number is not unuſual. See Pſal. 127.5.& 140.9.

each one walking in his uprightneſſe] Or, that walketh uprightly, ſtraight forward, without ſwerving to the one hand, or the other, Prov.4.25-27. or, before him; that is, before God: as Judg.18.6. Prov.5.21. that walketh ſincerely and circumſpectly, as in his ſight, Gen.17.1. Pſal.18.23.& 119.168. chap. 38.3. Jer.17.16. before him, for, before God: as, he ſaid, for, God ſaid, Gen.15.13. the pronoun, for the noun: each one, is inſerted; becauſe a diſtribution is implyed oft in ſuch conjunctions of the ſingular noun, with the verb plural. See on Chap.26.19. Some of thoſe that rendred the foregoing branch, Peace ſhall come to them; repeat from thence, the word peace, here, and render it; Peace ſhall go before him, or them: becauſe the word was collective; as Pſal. 85.13. righteouſneſſe ſhall go before him; and, their works go along with them, or, accompany them, Rev.14.13. as if peace were ſaid to conduct them, and convey them unto the place of their reſt. But the former reading ſeems the clearer.

V. 3. But draw near hither] After the former paſſage inſerted and premiſed, for the comfort of the faithful, that ſhould live in thoſe times hereafter enſuing, and preceding that general ruine, and diſſolution of the State, and deportation of the people, pronouncing them bleſſed, that ſhould be taken away, though by the hands of cruel wretches, (as under Manaſſes, and ſome of Joſias his wicked ſons, and ſucceſſors, it is not unlikely, but that many ſuch were, 2 King.21.16. Jer.22.17.) becauſe they ſhould not live to ſee, what ſhould befall the land when they were gone; the like whereunto, ſee Rev.14.13. he now addreſſeth himſelf unto the ſurviving wicked ones, that were of a far other mind concerning thoſe pious ones, ſo made away, as deeming them miſerable creatures, and themſelves happy men, as living ſtill to enjoy the land, and their places, and poſſeſſions in it, together with what they had bereaved them of: and firſt, in lively colours, he layeth out their moſt impious, and abominable courſes; then foretelleth, from God, what judgments ſhould unavoidably befal them, from which none of their complices ſhould be able to deliver them; and laſtly, concludeth with gracious promiſes of mercy, deliverance, and reſtitution, (wherein yet the obſtinate wicked ones ſhould have no ſhare) to the pious and repentant.

But draw near hither ye ſons of the Sorcereſs] The words run ſomewhat more emphatically in the original, thus; And (for, But: as Chap.53.5.) ye, or, as for you, (as Chap.61.6.) draw near hither, ſons of the ſorcereſs; as if he had ſaid, But as for you, come ye hither a while, I have another manner of errand to deliver unto you, ſome ſorcereſſes brats, an adulterous brood: it is like that of Achijah to the Iſraelitiſh Queen, Come in Jeroboams wife, I have heavy tydings to tell thee, 1 King. 14. 6.

ſons of the ſorcereſs] Heb. of a ſorcereſs, or witch; not of Abraham, as ye pretend to be, Chap.41.8. Mat. 3.9. Joh. 8. 33. or, of Sarah, Chap.51.2. but of ſome ſorcereſſe, or witch, rather: their children are men, in Scripture, ſaid to be, whom in affection, and diſpoſition, they reſemble, and whom, in practice, they imitate, Ezek.16.3. Mat.3.7.& 12.34. & 23.33. Joh.8.37,39,40,44. 1 Joh.3.8,10. the word ſorcereſs, doth not ſo fitly anſwer the term here uſed; for the word ſorcerer, or ſorcereſs, ſignifies properly, one that dealeth with lots, and by them divineth; coming from a Latine word, that ſignifieth a lot: the word witch, being more general, may ſeem to ſuit better with it; and the rather, becauſe it is here a feminine, in which form, it is no where elſe found: and ſome would have it to denote ſuch an one, as bewitcheth with her eyes; as among the Heathen, anciently, ſome were deemed to do. But of the notion, and notation of the word, ſee on Chap.2.6. where the maſculine is rendred, a South-ſayer. By which place, alſo, it is apparent, that theſe kind of practices were very rife among that people: whereof, ſee 2 King.21.6. and well therefore are they here termed, a witches children; becauſe to ſuch practiſes addicted.

the ſeed of the adulterer, and the whore] A baſtardly brood, begotten by ſome adulterer, upon an hore; (for ſo I ſuppoſe our Engliſh word ſhould be written, coming from the word hire; as the Latine, meretrix. See Deut.18.18. Ezek.16.33. Mic.1.7.) and belong therefore no more to Gods family, then ſuch iſſue, as ſome adultereſs, or common ſtrumpet, hath by ſome adulterer, whom, forſaking her husband, or dealing diſloyally with him, ſhe hath joyned her ſelf unto, Prov.2.17. & 30.20. See Hoſ.1.2. & 2.2. & 3. 1. Mat.12.39. & 16.4. Joh.8.41,42,44,47. Heb. a ſeed (that is, iſſue, or race; as Chap.1.4.) of an adultereſs, or adulterer; (as Jer. 9.2. & 23. 10. Hoſ.7.4. by which places it appeareth, how this ſin abounded with them; though of ſpiritual adultery God principally here ſpeaketh) and of one, or of her that playeth the harlot; for the word here is a verb: as alſo, Levit.19.29. Judg. 19.2. Jer. 3.6,8. where it is ſo rendred; the defect of the relative is very rife, as hath been before obſerved, Chap.55.13. & 56.2,11. Howbeit, ſome render it, a ſeed committing adultery, (as alſo they would have the term uſed, Mat.12.39. & 16.4. to be taken;) that playeſt the harlot; (the copulative for the relative: as Chap.17.2. & 28.1.) or, thou, I ſay, (as Chap.49.6. & 55. 1.) that haſt played the harlot, Jer.3.1. Ezek. 16. & 23. or, a ſeed that hath committed adultery, and will play the harlot ſtill; as noting the inſatiableneſſe in their ſpiritual pollutions, and their pertinacious perſiſting therein, Jer. 2. 25. Ezek.16.28. But theſe all offer force to the text; for the verb here is feminine, as in the places alſo fore-cited, whereas the word ſeed, and the participle annexed to it, (yet not neceſſarily in conjunction with it) are both maſculine; and neither of them therefore can couple well with this verb. The former ſenſe is fit, and fair, and to me ſeems to be genuine.

V. 4. Againſt whom do ye ſport your ſelves] The Prophet having to the life limned them, and ſet before them, an exact picture, and portrayture, of themſelves; proceedeth now to debate the matter with them, concerning their practices: and he beginneth firſt, with their carriage toward Gods meſſengers, whom, when they reproved them for their enormities, Chap.58.1. and denounced Gods judgments againſt them for the ſame, Chap.56.9. they entertained with nothing but mocks and ſcoffs, and made ſport with them, and their meſſages, 2 Chr.36.16. Chap.5.19. & 22.13. & 28.14,22. Jer. 5. 12,13. & 23.33. Ezek.12.3. The Prophet therefore adviſeth them ſeriouſly to conſider, who it was, that they thus derided, and made themſelves ſo merry with: not ſome ſorry ſely mortals, as they ſeemed to make account; but the immortal, and almighty God, whoſe miniſters and meſſengers they were, and whom therefore they wronged and abuſed, in them, Exod.16.8. Num.16.11. Luk.10.16. 1 Theſſ. 4. 8. for that it is, that he intendeth, though he name not the Lord: and the concealment of the party, makes the ſpeech the more emphatical; as if he had ſaid, it concerneth you neerly, to conſider who it is, though I name him not to you: and it is very like that expoſtulation, or debate of God, with Sennacherib, Chap.37.23. They warp too much from the Prophets drift, that would have this branch expounded, of their abandoning themſelves to wantonneſſe; as that, 1 Tim.5.6. which they make parallel to this: or, of their voluptuous feaſtings at their idols tables, Chap.65.11. the like whereunto, 2 Pet.2.13,14. Jud.12. but the words enſuing, clear ſufficiently the Prophets intent.

Againſt whom do ye ſport your ſelves] Or, with whom do ye make your ſelves merry? The word is moſt commonly taken in the better ſenſe, for to delight ones ſelf in ought; as Pſal. 37. 4,11. Job 22.26. & 27.10. Chap. 58.15. & 66.11. but yet ſometime alſo, in the worſe, in a notion of extream delicacy, Deut.28.56. Jer.6.2. See Chap.47.1. here to make themſelves merry and frolick, with jeſting, and gibing at Gods Prophets. See the like, Pſal.35.15,16. Lam.3.14.

make ye a wide mouth, and draw out the tongue?] Heb. do ye widen the mouth, and lengthen the tongue? geſtures, and expreſſions of deriſion, and mockage, Job 16.10. Pſal. 22.7. & 35.21. Lam.2.16.

are ye not children of tranſgreſſion, a ſeed of falſhood?] Perſons addicted to diſobedience, and rebellion; (as, Children of wickedneſſe, Hoſ.10.9.) and a race of liers, and counterfeits; as Chap.30.9. that diſſemble with God; profeſſing themſelves to be his, when they are indeed nothing leſs, Chap.48.1,2. or, that by their diſobedience to him, diſcard him, and caſt him off, as none of their father, and carry themſelves towards him, as none of his children, Deut.32.5. And this cenſure of them, is propounded by way of interrogation; which addeth much vehemency to it; as alſo, ver.4. as if he had ſaid, Deny it if you can. See the like, Amos 2.11.

V. 5. Enflaming your ſelves with idols, under every green tree] Or, Ye that are enflamed. For howſoever theſe paſſive forms have ſometime a reciprocal notion; whereof, ſee on Chap.55.3. Yet here there is no neceſſity of it. Enflamed, or (carrying on the ſentence, as the particle prefixed ſhews that it ſhould be) ye that are enflamed; to wit, with filthy ſpiritual luſt, here principally implyed; and with corporal alſo, which went commonly along with it, and was uſually practiſed by them, at their meetings, and in the meeting places, for the ſervice of their idols, Num.25.1,2. 2 Chr.23.6,7. Hoſ.4.10-14. Amos 2.8. See the uſe of the word, Gen.30.38. Pſal.51.5. Hoſ.7.4,6. The old Latine rendreth it, ſolacing themſelves; and the word that ſignifies, ſometime, to repent; ſometime, to be comforted, ver.7. Jer.8.6. doth in the form, wherein this is here uſed, come very neer to it; but the roots are divers, the formation different, and the former vowel-point not the ſame.

with idols] Or, among the okes: for the word ſometime, ſignifieth, Gods, or Potentates; great and mighty ones, as Chap.44.10. Exod.15.11,15. Pſal.89.6. Job 41.25. ſometime rams, that domineer, as ſtrong ones, among the ſheep, Chap.1.11. & 34.6. Ezek.34.17,18,21. whence the ambiguity, and diverſity of readings, Pſal. 29. 1. ſometime okes, or more generally, ſtrong and tall trees, of more eminency, then the ordinary ſort, and rank of them: And it is therefore rendred more generally, in ſome places, trees, Chap.61.3. Ezek.31.14. as the word, in Greek (whereof ſome think the Druides, or Pagan Prieſts, and Prophets, among the Galles, the Dryades, wood-Nymphs, or inferiour Goddeſſes, among the Greeks, queſtionleſs, had their names) ſignifying properly an oak, yet is oft taken more largely, for the common ſort of foreſt trees. But of the word it ſelf, ſee more on Chap.1.30. & 6.13. Here thoſe that take it for ſuch trees, ſome of them render it, a grove, or tuft, of ſuch like timber-trees, dedicated to idolatrous ſervices, Chap.1.29.

under every green tree] After the manner of the Gentiles, that, in ſuch places, uſed to ſacrifice to their idols, and perform their ſuperſtitious ſervices, being ſheltred from the heat of the ſun, by their ſhade. So Deut.12.2. 2 King.16.4. & 17.10. 2 Chr.28.4. Jer.2.20. & 3.6. Ezek.6.13. Hoſ.6.13. See Chap.1.29.

ſlaying the children] Heb. ſlayers of the children; that ſlay your children: for their own they were, whom they ſo ſlaughtered and ſacrificed, 2 King.16.3. & 21.6. & 23.10. Pſal.106.38. (a defect of the pronoun, as Job 19.2. Chap.46.4.) that are wont to murther your children in the ſervice of your idols. A ſavage practice, which they learned from the heathen that uſed ſo to do, Deut.12.31. Pſal.106.35-38. See Lev.18.21 & 20.2. Jer.7.31. & 19.5. Ezek.16.20. & 20.26. & 23.37,39. 2 Chr.28.3. & 33.6.

in the valleys] Or, beſides the brooks; as the particle is uſed, Neh.3.15,25. 1 King.15.13. the word ſignifieth, ſometime, a valley; ſo called, becauſe it ſhooteth along as an hollow pipe, or gutter, between two hils. So Chap.7.19. ſuch a valley was that of Elah, 1 Sam.17.2,3. and ſuch a valley ſeems that of Hinnom, to have been, where ſuch inhumane ſervices were commonly practiſed, Jer.7.31. ſometime, a brook, Lev.11.9,10. Hence, the brook Kiſhon, Judg.5.21. and, the brook Kidron, 2 Sam.15.23. 1 King 2.37. 2 Chr.30.14. whence the vale, lying neer about it, is called, the fields of Kidron, 2 King.23.4. and, the valley of Kidron, as ſeems to be intended, 2 Chr.29.16. this brook is deemed alſo, to have run, among other lower grounds, thorow the valley of Hinnom: and brooks are ſo termed; becauſe they run commonly along the valleys, with thoſe waters, that ſhoot down from the hils, Pſal.104.10.

under the clifts of the rocks.] Heb. properly, branches. See on Chap.2.21. ſuch over-hangings of them, or clifts branching out from them, as towards the root, or foot, of rocky, or chalky hils oft-times, are ſeen, made by the water undermining them; and afford ſhade, as well as the branches of thick trees do, Chap.32.2. Some ſuch caves alſo might be made, and cut out of purpoſe, as for habitation and ſepulture ſometime, Chap. 22.16. ſo for exerciſe of idolatrous ſervices, for which they made uſe, ſometime of groves and woods, ſometime of dales; ſometime of rocky caves; ſometime of hils. See Chap.17.8.

V. 6. Among the ſmooth ſtones of the ſtream is thy portion] The Prophet here beginneth to alter the frame of his diſcourſe; not ſpeaking, now, as before, to the people, as children of the State, as a ſtock, or ſtem; or, as the iſſue of ſome adulterous couple; but directing his ſpeech to the State it ſelf, as to a lewd woman, or common ſtrumpet: and the tenour of his charge therefore now runneth in a ſingular, feminine form. So Jer.2,2.& Ezek.16.& 23.

Among the ſmooth ſtones of the ſtream] Heb. in the parts, or ſmooths, of the valley, or brook. The former word; (but without ſuch a point, as the middle letter here hath) doth moſt uſually ſignifie parts, and portions, as Joſh.18.5,6.9. Ezek.45.7. & 48.8,21. and it is regularly the plural of the word, here rendred portion: whence ſome therefore render it, parts, or diſtributions. And ſo the old Latine hath it. Now of theſe, Some expound it, of the parts adjacent to the brooks: for the word is the ſame, with that before, ver.5. only ſingular here, but in a collective ſenſe, as Job.21.33. & 28.4. & 40.22. Others, of the diviſions of the brooks, parting themſelves into divers branches, or ſtreams: amids which, ſay they, in the Ilands, were their altars ſometime erected; eſpecially, about the fountain-heads, from which they deſcended. Others, again, of the rocky-parts at the hill-foot, that were as part of the vale, ver.5. But the Jewiſh Commenters, becauſe of the point commonly called dageſh, in the belly of the ſecond radical, underſtand by it ſmooth ſtones; directing us to that place, 1 Sam.17.40. where the ſame word, ſo dageſhed, another vowelling point onely ſubſtituted, is found in the ſame notion, it being ſaid of David, that he picked five ſmooth of ſtones (ſo the words are) out of the brook, or valley, rather; that is, five ſmooth ſtones out of thoſe that lay in the vale of Elah; which vale lay between the two Armies, and in which the combat was fought between him, and Goliah, 1 Sam.17.2,3. for of any brook that ran between them, we read not: ſo, the ſmooth of the brook, or valley (for the Hebrew hath no more) is here put for the ſmooth ſtones (as it is more fully in that other place expreſſed) of the valley, or the brook; and there is a defect of the ſubject, or ſubſtantive; as full, for a full cup, Pſal.73.10. ſtrong, for a ſtrong hand, chap.40.10. And by ſuch ſtones, ſome underſtand the ſmooth pebles, whereof there was great ſtore in the brooks, or about them, in the valleys; in which their altars were erected, ver.5. Jer.2.23. Others, thoſe ſlick and ſmooth ſtones, curiouſly cut out, and poliſhed, Pſal.144.12. whereof their altars were made, contrary to Gods command, Exod.20.25. and this ſeems moſt probable; for what the Jewiſh Doctors relate, that their manner was to pick up ſome fair ſtone, and adore it, is but a groundleſs conceit. Nor doth that of a learned Writer take much with me, (I ſhall leave it to be weighed and deemed of by others) who referring the word, both here, and there, in the ſtory of David, to the former root, would have it rendred, as before, diviſions of the brook here, as Pſal.1.3. (adding withall, that by Paynims, brooks were adored, as having ſome kind of deity) So, diviſions of ſtones there; that is, not whole ſtones, but pieces of them; nor ſmooth ones, but rough and broken, as in that regard, much better, and fitter for his uſe: But whither ragged ones were ſo fit to ſling with, I doubt.

is thy portion,] Thine altars, and thine idol-ſervice, is that which thou delighteſt in, and truſteſt unto; as worldly men, in their wealth, Pſal.17.14. Prov.18.11. that thou eſteemeſt thine inheritance, thy lot, and thy portion: thine idols are to thee, ſo, as God is to the godly, Pſal.16.4,5,6. & 119.57. Prov.18.10. Jer.10.16. Lam.3.24. though ſome would have it ſpoken in a menacing way, as foretelling what ſhould betide them, when they ſhould be in captivity, and ſit mourning in waſte places, beſide the brooks ſides at Babylon, Pſal.137.1,2. But this ſuiteth not ſo well with the ſequel of the context. However, there is an elegant paronomaſie, and antanaclaſis, in the

they are thy lot.] Some would have the pronoun, to be put here for the verb ſubſtantive, as oft it is. See Chap. 43. 13. and then ſhould not the word, are, be expreſſed, by any different character. But the gemination of the word, (which is here very emphatical, as the like, Chap. 43. 25.) to me ſeemes to carry it another way; the emphaſis being rather in the pronoun, then in the verb: the ſentence is the ſame, in effect, with the former: and a trope in either, taken from the parting, and dividing an inheritance, ſo as to aſſign each of the coheirs, or parceners, his, or her portion, by lot; as Num. 26. 55. & 34. 13. Joſh. 14. 2. ſo Pſal. 16. 5. Chap. 34. 17. Howbeit, I cannot concur with thoſe, that would have it to be ſo underſtood, as if hereby were intimated, that theſe their idolatrous practiſes, were hereditary to them, that they were left unto them, as a legacy, an inheritance, or a portion, from their Parents, 1 Pet. 1. 18.

even, to them haſt thou poured a drink offering; thou haſt offered a meat offering:] Heb. alſo unto them; to wit, thine idols, ver. 5. or, upon them, to wit, thine altar ſtones, or altars in thoſe places erected, ver. 6. for ſo alſo doth the particle here uſed ſometime ſignifie; as Pſal. 9. 4. upon the throne, Chap. 3. 26. upon the ground.

a drink-offering] By the Law of God, unto every ſacrifice of any Beaſt, was to be added, a certain quantity of meal, or flower, mixed with oyl, which was termed minchah, as we render it, a meat-offering: and a certain quantity of wine, that was termed neſec, rendred uſually, a drink-offering, Num. 15. 4, 5. neither was the ſacrifice deemed compleat, untill this latter, the laſt rite, uſed about the body of the beaſt, was poured upon it. Hence, thoſe ſpeeches of the Apoſtle, I am ready to be poured out, 2 Tim. 4. 6. and if I be poured out upon the ſacrifice and ſervice (as Rom. 12. 1. & 15. 16.) of your faith, Phil. 2. 17. where he compareth the Philippians faith, and his miniſtery about them, to a ſacrifice; his bloud, by martyrdom, ſhed, to obſign and ſeal up, in way of confirmation, and conſummation thereof, the ſame, to ſuch an offering as this. Howbeit, the word neſec, ſignifying an effuſion, or ſomething poured out, may ſeem to be more general, and to comprehend any liquid oblation, were it of oyl, or of wine: For we read of effuſions, or pourings, in the religious performances of the ancient Patriarks, before Moſes, as well of oyl, as of wine, Gen. 28. 18. & 35. 14. and upon ſome of their bread-corn offerings, to wit, their flower-oblations, was by the later Law, oyl to be poured, Lev. 2. 1. For others of this latter ſort, were to be only moulded, and made up, or anointed therewith, Lev. 2. 4, 5. But another term is uſed in thoſe places, for the pouring out of oyl, then that, from which the word neſec deſcendeth, which may therefore well be deemed to import, ſpecially that of wine, of the pouring out of theſe to their falſe gods, wherein they partaked alſo themſelves with them. See Jer. 7. 18. and 19. 13. and 44. 17-19, 25. Ezek. 20. 28. Amos 2. 8.

a meat offering] Or, as ſome, a wheat-offering: but as the one is too large; for the fleſh-oblations alſo are called, Lev. 3. 6. Gods meat, Mal. 1. 12. and were ſome of them meat for the Prieſts, Lev. 6. 26, 29. Ezek. 44. 29. ſo the latter is too narrow: for there were ſome oblations of barley, as well as of wheat, Lev. 2. 14, 16. & 23. 10, 17. Num. 5. 15. nor doth the word, meal-offering, come exactly home to it; becauſe ſome were of the ears of corn, or corn yet in the ear: the neereſt to it ſeems to be, the corn, or the bread-corn offering; which will comprehend all the minchoes in Moſes: for what Caines was of the fruits of the earth, being, in terms, ſo general, and large related, is uncertain. But of this kind of oblation, two ſorts of it, the notion, and the notation of the term. See before on Chap. 1. 13. of theſe offered to their idols, (for of this kind were their cakes tendred to the hoſt of heaven) ſee Jer. 7. 18. & 44. 19. Ezek. 20. 28. Amos 4. 4, 5. The word is here, as the former alſo, though in a ſingular form, yet in a plural notion.

ſhould I receive comfort in theſe?] What joy, or comfort, can I have (for this form hath oft ſuch a potential notion, as Jer. 2. 23.) in ſuch people as theſe? Chap. 9. 17. though they ſhould withall perform other ſervices to me, Chap. 66. 3. Jer. 7. 9, 10. Ezek. 20. 39. or, as ſome, ſhould I have compaſſion on ſuch wicked wretches as theſe? as alſo, Chap. 9. 17. ſo Jer. 5. 7. how ſhould I ſpare thee for this? thus the word may ſeem to ſignifie, Deut. 32. 36. Pſal. 90. 13. Others, how ſhould I repent of the evill, that for theſe things I intend to bring upon them. So is the word taken, Exod. 32. 12. Jer. 18. 8. See Jer. 15. 6. Pſal. 90. 13. Others, how ſhould I rid my ſelf of that grief, and ſhake off that ſorrow, that my ſoul is poſſeſſed of, and my Spirit vexed with, by ſuch practiſes as theſe, Ezek. 6. 9. ſo the word ſeems taken, Gen. 24. 67. 2 Sam. 13. 39. Others, can I be at any reſt, or have any joy of ought, untill I have taken vengeance for ſuch practiſes as theſe? See Jer. 5. 9. The old Latine, after the ancient Greeks, read the words in the negative, Should I not be wroth, or, have indignation for theſe things? and in theſe interrogative forms (which run uſually with much quickneſs, and vehemency, as ver. 4.) the negative particle is oft omitted. So 1 Sam. 2. 27, 28. Did I, and Did I? for, Did not I? Job 20. 4. Knoweſt thou not this of old? Ezek. 20. 30. Are ye not polluted? Do ye not commit whoredome? See Jer. 31. 19. This therefore here alſo admitted, I ſhould thus render the words; Should I not eaſe my ſelf of ſuch? To wit, by taking vengeance upon them; as Jer. 5. 9. Should I not viſit for theſe things? Should not my ſoul be avenged on ſuch a Nation as this? For the uſe of the word in this notion, ſee Chap. 1. 24. and the Prophet may ſeem the rather to have made choice of this word, here, to conclude this verſe, with a word of the like ſound, though not ſenſe, to that wherewith he began the verſe before-going.

V. 7. upon a lofty, and high mountain, haſt thou ſet thy bed;] After that paſſionate parentheſis, wherewith the fore-going diſcourſe was ſhut up, he returneth to relate their ſhamefull, or ſhameleſs, rather, pollutions of themſelves with their idols. Thou haſt not in vales, and caves only, below by the brook-ſides, erected thine altars, but aloft on the higheſt hils, in thine high places. Such alſo they made uſe of, as Temples for the ſervice of their idols, after the manner of the Heathen, whom God caſt out before them, Deut. 12. 2. 1 King. 12. 31. & 14. 23. 2 King. 17. 9, 29. & 21. 3. Jer. 17. 2, 3. Ezek. 6. 13. & 16. 16, 31. & 20. 28, 29. He compareth the Jewiſh State to a ſhameleſs ſtrumpet, that entertaineth her companions, not in private chambers, and cloſets, as having yet ſome ſhame of what ſhe did, Ezek. 8. 8, 12. but without all ſhame, as glorying rather in her ſhame, committing fornication, and practiſing uncleanneſs in open view, as Abſolom with his tent ſpred upon the houſe top, 2 Sam. 16. 22. ſo with her bed, made, and ſet in ſome conſpicuous place, lying open, and expoſed to the eyes of all. See 2 King. 23. 5, 12. Jer. 32. 29. Ezek. 16. 24, 25. and 23. 41.

high and lofty] Words of the ſame notion multiplyed, to make it more emphatical, and to expreſs the eminency of the place. So Chap. 2. 13, 14. & 30. 25. & 52. 13.

thy bed] Ver. 8. Ezek. 23. 17, 41.

even thither wenteſt thou up to offer ſacrifice.] Heb. thither alſo; as ver. 6. wenteſt thou up; not to do ſervice and ſacrifice unto me, (as though in an irregular way thy people ſometime did, 1 King. 3. 2. 2 Chr. 33. 17.) but to defile thy ſelf there, (See ver. 8.) by offering ſacrifice to thoſe thine idols, on thine altars, to the honour and ſervice of them, there erected, ver. 5, 6. for I ſuppoſe them to be wide, that conceive the Prophet to allude here to the manner of thoſe, who lodged in the Temples of their idols, expecting direction from them, by dreams.

V. 8. Behind the dores alſo, and the poſts, haſt thou ſet up thy remembrance:] There is no place, either abroad, or within dores, free, from ſome ſign, or mark, ſome memorial, and monument, or other, of thine idols, thine affection to them, and filthineſs with them, Ezek. 17. 31.

Behind alſo] Heb. And behind: as Chap. 34. 23.

the dores and the poſts] Where God commanded his precepts to be ſet, that they might be ever in their eyes, Deut. 6. 9. & 11. 20. & 27. 2, 3. Heb. the dore, and the poſt: which ſome therefore underſtand, as ſpoken of the dore of Gods houſe, the Temple, Ezek. 8. 3, 5, 7, 14, 17. & 43. 8. but the words ſeem to be taken collectively, as our verſion rendreth them; as alſo the word valley, and mountain, ver. 6, 7. or, if it be taken in a ſingular notion, becauſe the ſpeech runs of the whole State, as of one ſtrumpet, it may be conceived, as ſpoken of the dore of her own brothel-houſe, Prov. 5. 8. as before of her bed, v. 7. Prov. 7. 16, 17. Some would have an alluſion in it, to the arms, and enſigns of nobility, ſet over great mens dores: it might rather be, to the titles, and inſcriptions wont to be ſet anciently over common ſtrumpets cells. But the words here, are, behind the dore; not ſo much to invite them to her, (of which before, and afterward, ver. 7, 9.) as to mind her ſelf of them, Ezek. 8. 10. & 23. 14. Others, to the Lares, or, family-tutelar-gods; whoſe images, ſay they, they uſed to have about their dores, to ſecure their goings out, and comings in: but of that they bring no proof. Others underſtand it, of the incenſe that they burnt unto their idols; becauſe the incenſe ſeems to be termed, a memorial, Lev. 2. 2. but that ſeems not to ſuit ſo well with dore, and poſt.

for thou haſt diſcovered thy ſelf to another, then me, and haſt gone up] Heb. for, or, yea, (as Chap. 15. 9. & 16. 8.) from me, or, from with me, thou haſt diſcovered, and haſt gone up; that is, yea, more then ſo; departing from me, or, refraining company, and ſociety, with me, (of which manner of defective, or comprehenſive form of ſpeech, ſee on Chap. 1. 4.) thou haſt diſcovered thy ſhame, or nakedneſs, or proſtituted thy ſelf, (that is the meaning of the phraſe, as appeareth, Ezek. 23. 18. Levit. 20. 17, 18. a defect of the pronoun; as Lev. 18. 6.) when (ſo is the copulative uſed, Gen. 14. 14. Chap. 37. 9, 36. & 53. 2.) thou wenteſt up; to wit, unto thy bed, ſet aloft, in open view, ver. 7. there to defile thy ſelf. See the like form of ſpeech, in the like notion with the ſame quick, and conciſe manner of delivery, implying much indignation againſt, and deteſtation of, the fact mentioned, Gen.49.4. They ſwerve from the reſemblance uſed here by the Prophet, that underſtand this paſſage, of withdrawing her ſelf from Gods protection, and abiding under his wing: as alſo thoſe of the Jewiſh Doctors, who ſuppoſe all this, together with the former paſſage, ver.6,7. to reſpect that injunction, Exod.21.24,25. that whereas God had commanded them, if they built him any altar, to make it, either of earth, or of rude rag, and to place it in ſome hidden place, (though that be not in the text) and to ſet it on the plain ground there; ſhe had built altars of hewen ſtone, to ſet them aloft, in high places, and gone up to them by degrees: as alſo thoſe, both of them, and ours, ſeem to narrow it too much, who expound it, as if it were ſaid, that riſing from Gods ſide, or his bed, that is, his Temple, ſhe had immediately gone up to her idols bed, in her high places: for howſoever, ſome ſuch charge is entred againſt her, Ezek.23.38,39. to wit, that the ſame day that ſhe had committed idolatry with her idols, ſhe had preſumed to repair to Gods houſe: Yet the meaning of the text here ſeems more general, that falling off from God, ſhe had joyned her ſelf unto idols, and not in private only, retained monuments of them, but in publike view alſo, committed acts of ſpiritual uncleanneſs with them, See Ezek. 14.6. & 23. 17,41. Nor can their interpretation be admitted, who render it, following the old Latine, thou haſt beſide me, or at my ſide; that is, ſay they, in my Temple, in my ſight, proſtituted thy ſelf; as reſpecting what Ahaz and Manaſſes did, 2 King.16.11,15. & 21.4,5,7. becauſe the words of the text will not bear it: nor doth that ſeem probable, which ſome others render, concerning the laſt word, which, to fit to the Latine, they render in an active ſenſe, thou haſt cauſed them to aſcend; expounding it, by the ſame term uſed, Gen.31.10,12. for though the verb admit either notion, yet the uſe of it before, in the ſenſe commonly received, here carrieth it the other way. See verſ.7. no more then that, which the Greek giveth, thou haſt there offered thy ſacrifices: as Joſh.8.31. though that agree better with what the former place, ver.7. hath. But the Prophet is in another reſemblance here.

thou haſt enlarged thy bed] Thou haſt encreaſed thine idolatry more and more, by the multitude of thine altars; or by enlarging the Temples, and places, built for the exerciſe thereof: as 1 King.11.7. & 21.3. like a ſtrumpet, that makes her bed, or room, larger; or maketh many beds, and rooms, to receive, and entertain the more company, 2 Chr.28.24,25. Jer.2.28. & 11.13. Ezek.16.15,16,24,25,31. & 23.14. See ver.7. So, enlarge, or widen, the place of thy tent, to receive the more Inhabitants, Chap.54.2.

and made a covenant with them] So the old Latine, and ſome of the Jewiſh. Thou haſt engaged thy ſelf to their idols, by entring into covenant with them, Deut.7.2-4. 2 King.16.10. Heb. and cut thee out, or cut thee down from them, or more then they. Now howſoever it be true, that the word of cutting out, be applyed unto covenanting; the reaſon whereof, ſee on Chap.28.15. from Jer.34.8,18. Yet becauſe neither the word is found ſo uſed, but where the word covenant, is expreſſed; nor are perſons ſaid, to cut covenant from one, but to cut covenant with him, as in the place before pointed to, and elſewhere; ſome other ſenſe of the words is to be ſought out: where, to paſs by thoſe, who, ſeeming to wander far from the ſenſe of the words here, read it, thou haſt cut thee ſome of them, made Eunuchs of them: as Chap.39.7. though of ſuch, the word be ſometime uſed, Levit.22.24. & Deut. 23. 1. Some others render it, and thou haſt cut it thee out (to wit, thy bed, before ſpoken of) larger then theirs; (of which form of ſpeech, ſee on Chap.2.6. & 54.1.) that is, felled trees, in thy groves, (as Chap.14.8. & 37.24.) to make room for thine altars, or Temples, built for the ſervice of thine idols; and herein ſtriven to out-ſtrip in thine idolatries, either thine idolatrous Anceſtors, Jer.16.11,12. as ſome, or other idolatrous heathen, Ezek.5.6. as others: this latter ſeems more probable, then the former; becauſe of anceſtors, there ſeems no hint, at all, either before, or after; of ſtrangers, there doth. Howbeit, ſome refer, both the foregoing branch, and this, with ſomewhat that followeth, to a particular act of Ahaz, who ſeeing at Damaſcus, an altar erected to the honour of ſome, either Syrian, or Aſſyrian, idol, far greater then that of the true God, at Jeruſalem, ſent a pattern of it to Uriah, the High-Prieſt, to have ſuch another made for him, 2 King.16.10,15. 2 Chr. 28. 23. and they render the text, thou haſt enlarged thy bed, and haſt cut it out for thy ſelf; taking a pattern from them: and ſome ſuch thing may be hinted; but the text ſeems much more large.

thou lovedſt their bed, where thou ſaweſt it] This ſome alſo refer to the altar, that Ahaz ſaw at Damaſcus, and was ſo much taken with it, 2 King.16.10. of whom, ſome alſo render the words, thou haſt cut out for thy ſelf from them, whom thou lovedſt, their bed, in the place, which thou hadſt provided for it: and the defects, both of the relative, as ver.5. and of the pronoun, it, as Chap.46.11. are very frequent; but the pauſe will hardly admit this conſtruction. Heb. thou lovedſt their bed, in the place thou ſaweſt; that is, the company of them, as Num.31.17. Judg.21.12. See Jer. 2.25. whereſoever thou ſaweſt them: and ſome of the Jewiſh Doctors obſerve it, as a tranſgreſſion of that inhibition, Deut.12.13. but that here, is far beneath the guilt of the crime: it rather, ſo read, imports their proneneſs to this ſpiritual inordinate luſt, wherewith, upon any the leaſt occaſion, in any place, at any time given, ſhe was, as a common ſtrumpet delighting in ſuch filthineſs, preſently enflamed, Ezek.23.14,16. a defect of the particle, in, as Chap.44.12. & 48.4. and of the relative, as before; or, thou lovedſt their bed; thou preparedſt, or, providedſt, room; to wit, for them, to entertain them in: for the verb ſignifies, not to ſee only, but to prepare, or provide, alſo; as Exod.18.21. and ſo the word alſo parallel to it, Gen.22.8. and the noun is frequently uſed for room, or place: as Deut.23.12. Chap.56.5. and in the plural maſculine, for ſpaces, or ranges, 2 Chr.23.15. Chap.28.18. & 33.21. and this I conceive to be the genuine ſenſe of the word: for that which ſome ſay here, of a monument; as if the word were ſo taken, 2 Sam. 18. 18. to omit, that it may there alſo be rendred, as our verſion alſo hath it, as well Abſoloms place, as Abſoloms monument, that notion ſeems not ſo ſuit ſo well here. Howbeit, becauſe the word properly ſignifies an hand; and the old Latine renders it, with an open hand; as if the latter word were, not a verb, but a noun; ſome Popiſh Writers would have it to mean, with an open hand; that is, not covertly, but openly, without ſhame, or, with the hand beckning to, and inviting company, and cuſtomers to her: as Chap.13.2. & 65.2. Prov.1.24. or, with open-hand, liberally, hiring ſuch, and ſparing no coſt to ſatisfie her filthy luſt, ver.9. Ezek.23.31-34. but one of their own coat, doth ingenuouſly acknowledg, that no ſuch noun, as they here dream of, is at all found in Scripture: who would therefore expound it of the workmans hand; put, as he ſuppoſeth, for his work, or workmanſhip; as we ſay, a mans hand, for, his hand-writing; the efficient, for, the effect; drawing in hither, that of Abſoloms pillar, and applying it to Ahaz his altar, of both which before: Others, of the adulterers hand, in an obſcene notion, not fit to be expreſſed. But thus men out of a prepoſterous affection, perverſly employ and ſtrain their wits, to ſupport and bear out a vitious verſion.

V. 9. And thou wenteſt to the King with oyntment, and didſt encreaſe thy perfumes] Another crime charged upon this State is, the ſending Embaſſadors to forraign Nations with preſents, and in moſt baſe manner, ſubmitting, and bowing down, to them, 2 King.16.7,8. Chap.10.4. either to crave ayd and aſſiſtance from them, 2 King.16.8,9. Chap.30.1,6. & 31.1. Jer.2.18,36. Ezek.17.15. Hoſ.5.13. & 12.1. or, to curry grace, and find favour with them, 2 King.18.14,15. Chap.10.4. & 33.7. or to communicate with them, in their idolatries, 2 King. 16.7,8. Ezek.16.26,28,32,33. & 23.16,40.

And thou wenteſt] Or, Thou haſt gone alſo, ver.8. gone, either in perſon thy ſelf, as Ahaz, 2 King. 16.10. or, by thy meſſengers, as the Centurion is ſaid to have come unto Chriſt, Mat.8.5. compared with Luk.7.3,4,6. Chriſt himſelf to the old world, 1 Pet.3.19. with 2 Pet.2.5. and to Epheſus, Eph.2.17. ſo the word is ſuppoſed to be uſed, Cant.4.8. or, haſt reſpected, or obſerved, as our margent renders it: and ſo one of the Jewiſh Commenters, thou haſt ſending beheld. So it ſhould be a defective, or complexive form of ſpeech, as ſome of ours make it, reading the text thus; Thou lookeſt about to the King, that is, thou lookeſt about for ayd, (as Pſal.142.4.) and ſendeſt to the King: and ſuch forms are uſual. See Chap.38.17,21. but there ſeems no need thereof here. The word indeed ſignifieth, moſt uſually, to view, or behold, Job 20.9. & 33. 14, 27. & 35.5,13. but ſometime, alſo, to preſent, or to tender a preſent: as appeareth by the noun thence deduced, uſed for a preſent, 1 Sam.9.7. that which I conceive to be the genuine ſenſe of it in this place, thou haſt preſented the King with oyntment. The old Latine rendreth it, thou haſt decked thy ſelf for the King, with oyntments, and perfumes; as harlots uſe to do, when they are to entertain their companions, Ezek. 23. 40. Prov. 7. 17. but for this uſe of the word, I finde no ground.

to the King] For Moloch, Levit. 20. 2. ſay ſome; becauſe the word hath a notion of a King in it; whence the variety of reading, Jer.49.1. Zeph.1.5. Others, by the King, underſtand here, the King of Aſſyria, to whom Ahaz, both ſent, and went, 2 King.16.8-10. Others, the King of Egypt, whom, divers of them, at divers times, had craved help from, againſt the Aſſyrian, and Chaldean, 2 King.17.4. Chap.30.1. & 31.1. Jer.37.5,7. Ezek.29.16. and others, again, of the Babylonians, or Chaldeans, Jer.51.59. but the word ſeems to be taken collectively; not of any one particular, either King, or kingdom ; but of ſeeing indefinitely, ſometime to one, ſometime to another, Jer.2.36, Hoſ.7.11.

with oyntment] Heb. with oyl ; as Pſal. 133. 2. & 141. 5. Eccl.7.1. Amos 6. 6. of pretious oyntment wherewith that land ſeemed to be ſtored, ſee Chap.39.2. among which, their balſome, peculiar to that country, ſeems to have been a principal. See Gen.43.11. Jer.8.22. & 46.11. Ezek. 27.17. and of this, eſpecially, many underſtand it here.

and didſt encreaſe thy perfumes] Or, haſt multiplyed thy confections ; for the word is more general, and comprehendeth as well oyntments, as perfumes, Exod. 30. 25,35. whence the word that ſignifies, a confectioner ; ſo rendred, 1 Sam.8.13. See alſo, Eccl.10.1. Job 41.31. that is, either thou haſt uſed abundance of them, to prepare, and fit thy ſelf for them ; (ſo, to multiply waſhing, for, to waſh abundantly, Pſal.51.2. and, to multiply ſope, for, to uſe abundance of ſope, Jer. 2. 22.) or ſent abundance thereof to them, to woo, and win them to thee. Which latter ſeems the more likely. See Jer.2.33. and 4.30. Hoſh.12.1.

and didſt debaſe thy ſelf, even unto hell] Heb. make low, or lay low : but uſed here, in a reciprocal, though not form, yet notion ; as Pſal.113.6. Jer.13.18. thou haſt laid thy ſelf low, or debaſed thy ſelf, as one that boweth himſelf down to the ground, or to the loweſt ground, as if thou wouldſt go even into the ground, or the grave. See Chap. 51. 21. an alluſion, as ſome think, to ſuch vile and baſe ſtrumpets, who, among the Greeks, had their name, from proſtituting themſelves on the ground ; yea, under the ground, in cellars, and vaults, and in tombs, and monuments, ſometimes. I conceive rather, from ſuch, as in a moſt ſubmiſs, and ſervile maner, caſt themſelves at the feet of thoſe, whom they ſue, and ſeek to, for ought ; as if they would creep into the very ground. See Chap.10.4. for I ſuppoſe they ſwerve from the Prophets intent, who conceive the meaning to be, that they had, by theſe their abominable courſes, brought themſelves to a very low condition, by ſuch like forms of ſpeech ſometime expreſſed, Pſal.7.5. & 63.9. & 88.3,4,6. Chap. 25.12. & 26. 5,6. & 47.1. that which yet is true, Chap.29.4. and ſhe was forewarned of, Jer.2.25. But this ſeems to look another way.

V. 10. Thou art wearied in the greatneſſe of thy wayes] Thou haſt even tired thy ſelf out, with the length of thy journeys, ſending to and fro, ſo far abroad. See Jer.2.38. Ezek.33.40. Howbeit, ſome take it, as ſpoken in reference to their inſatiable idolatrous deſires, as therein reſembling the way, and courſes of baſe harlots, Prov.30.19. But that place doth not parallel ſo fitly with this.

yet ſaidſt thou not, There is not hope] Though thou ſaweſt that all thy toiling, and tiring out thy ſelf was in vain, it was all but loſt labour ; yet thou wouldſt not give over, but go on ſtill deſperately, in that toilſome and chargeable courſe. Heb. It is deſperate. See Jer.2.25. & 18.12. the diſcretive is not unfitly ſupplyed ; as Chap.41.11. & 49.4.

thou haſt found the life of thine hand] Thou ſtill imagineſt, that by theſe courſes thou ſhalt find at length, or haſt already found, and attained that, which ſo much thou deſiredſt, ſufficient means, and ayds to ſupport thee, and to ſtrengthen thine hand. See Hoſ.12.8. the life of the hand, for, the ſtrength of it, ſay ſome : others, the life of the hand, for, life, and means of life, and ſupport, by the induſtry of the hand acquired ; and either of theſe will ſuit well with the ſenſe above-delivered : for they ſeem to rove too far out of the way, that would have the meaning to be, that either their pains and toil, in ſeeking abroad ſo, or their idol-worſhip, were as pleaſant and delightful to them, as their life ; (of which kind of expreſſion, ſee Pſal.30.5. & 63.3.) or, then food, or meat, whereby life is ſuſtained. Of which form, ſee Job 23.12. Joh.4.34. and thoſe yet further, who expound it, thou getteſt thy living by thine hand, that is, thou maintaineſt thy ſelf (as common harlots uſe to do, thereof in Latine ſo termed) by thy filthy earnings ; for neither doth the Prophet ſeem to be in that argument here ; and the contrary rather is implyed, both in the foregoing branch ; as alſo, Ezek. 16.31-34. Howbeit, becauſe the word here rendred life, as it properly ſignifies, and is moſt commonly uſed, doth alſo ſignifie a troop, or company, conſiſting of living creatures, men, or beaſts, 2 Sam. 23. 11. Job 38.39. Pſal.68.30. ſome late Writers here render it, thou haſt found a troop of thine hand ; that is, ſay they, forces that will be ready at hand to aſſiſt thee upon all occaſions. Nor might this Interpretation ſeem altogether improbable, (ſee ver.13.) but that it is by ſome queſtioned, whether that word do in any place at all ſo ſignifie ; and I go rather, therefore, with what was before propounded.

therefore thou waſt not grieved] Therefore thy pains ſeemed no pains, but a pleaſure, rather, to thee ; becauſe by ſuch means thou didſt hope, and madeſt full account to accompliſh thine ends, and what thou deſiredſt, (as Gen.29.20. with 31.40.) and ſeemedſt ſometime ſo to do, 2 King. 16. 7,8,9. though it proved otherwiſe afterward in the end, 2 Chro.28. 20,21. Chap.7.17. & 8.7,8. or, as ſome render it, thou waſt not wearied, or tired ; as the other word before in the front of the verſe ; as if he had ſaid, though thou hadſt toiled, and tired thy ſelf, yet thou wouldeſt not be weary, wouldeſt not give over : the word properly ſignifies ſick, or weakned ; as Chap.33.24. it may well be rendred, either thus, or the former way, as ſometime alſo it is, Prov.23.35. Jer.5.3. The old Latine rendreth it, therefore thou haſt not prayed ; that is, ſay they that follow it, thou haſt not ſought by prayer to me, becauſe thou thoughteſt that thou hadſt no need of my help, thou hadſt ayd ſufficient from others ; but the verb is never found ſo to ſignifie in the form here uſed.

V.11. And of whom haſt thou been afraid, or feared,] Some ſuppoſe theſe words to be taken, as an aggravation of her ſin, by her impudency in it, that ſhe neither feared, or regarded God, or Man, ſtood in no aw, nor had any ſhame of either ; as Luk.18.4. See ver. 11. Others, as a preocupation, and meeting with ſuch pretended excuſes, for her ſeeking to forrein forces for aſſiſtance ; to wit, out of the fear that ſhe conceived of ſuch powerful adverſaries, as were combined together againſt her, Chap.7.2. implying, that no ſuch fear of man ought to have prevailed ſo much with her, as to make her to break with, and to forget God, who could, and would, have ſecured her againſt all ſuch fears, had ſhe relyed upon, and continued loyal to him, Chap.7.7,9. This may ſeem not improbable. Howbeit, I conceive the purpoſe of the Prophet, in theſe words, to be ſomewhat other, to wit, to tax her for want of the fear of God ſimply, as the main ground of her ſecure, and pertinacious obſtinacy, both in this, and other her ſinfull courſes ; that which in the cloſe of the verſe, is in plain terms expreſſed.

of whom haſt thou been afraid, or feared,] The former word ſignifieth a carefull, or ſolicitous fear, 1 Sam.9.5. & 10.2. Jer. 17.8. & 38.19. the latter, any fear in general ; the copulative is here uſed, and may be retained ; as Chap.8.12,13. and then it aggravates : but if taken for the diſcretive, as oft it is (See Chap.44.10. & 45.10.) then it diminiſheth : the words may be rendred according to the latter ; Whom didſt thou dread, or fear ? that is, whom hadſt thou any dread, or fear, at all, of ? Or, which I conceive to be the fitter ; Whom ſhouldeſt thou have dreaded, and feared ? Whom oughteſt thou to have been afraid of, as one that would certainly be avenged on thee, for thy wicked and croſs carriages, according to what he had long before threatned ? Lev .26. 14-23,24. this form is oft uſed in ſuch a notion of duty ; as Chap. 26. 9. Jer. 2. 8. and elſewhere.

that thou haſt lied,] Or, rather, when (as Gen.4.12. Pſal. 75.2.) thou liedſt ; that is, dealtſt diſloyally, or unfaithfully, with me ? as Joſh. 7. 11. Pſal. 89. 44,45. Chap.59.13. whoſe wrath and indignation ſhouldſt thou have feared, when thou dealtſt ſo wickedly and unfaithfully with me ? Mal.3.5.

and haſt not remembred me] Or, but (as ver.3.) thou didſt not think upon me ; to carry thy ſelf towards me, according to thy duty, Eccl.12.1. Pſal.106.7. for they ſeem to go aſide from the drift of the text, who expound it of flattering the King of Aſſyria, 2.Kings 16.7.

nor laid it to thine heart :] Heb. thou didſt not lay, or put it upon thine heart ; as ver.1. thou didſt not conſider, what the iſſue of theſe things would be, Chap. 47. 7. A learned late Writer would have it run thus ; Whom waſt thou afraid of, or didſt thou fear, that thou ſhouldeſt ly ? to wit, in denying thy ſins, when charged with them by my Prophets : Sure it is not out of fear of me ; for thou doeſt not think of me, or mind me at all. But this I ſhall refer to the judgment of others.

have I not held my peace, even of old, and thou feareſt me not ?] Or, is it not, becauſe I have held my peace, or been ſilent, and that for a long time, (Heb. from antiquity ; as Chap. 42.14.) that (as Chap. 46. 5.) thou feareſt me not ? See the like Syntax, Jer.7.19. My lenity and forbearance of thee hitherto, for a long time together, maketh thee, not to ſtand in awe of me, but to proceed obſtinately in thy wicked courſes, and go on from evil to worſe, Eccl.8.11. Pſal.36.1,2. & 50.21,22. & 55.19. Chap.26.10. Jer.48.11.

V. 12. I will declare thy righteouſneſs, and thy works] I will hold my peace, or forbear no longer (Jer.44.16.) I will declare, and lay open, thy lewd and wicked courſes, and convince thee of them ; not by a verbal reproof, but by a reall rebuke, by taking vengeance on thee, for them. So Pſal.5.21. Chap.42.14.

thy righteouſneſs] Spoken, either according to their own eſtimation, who deemed their own ways and courſes, to be all right and juſt, Prov.16.2. & 21.2. & 30.12. Or, would ſtill have them, at leaſt, reputed ſuch, Jer.2.26. Prov.30.20. Or, it is ſpoken, rather, ironically, thy righteouſneſs, that is, thy wickedneſs, thy naughtineſs. See the like manner of ſpeech, Gen. 3.22. and the words righteous, and righteouſneſs, uſed ; where in the parties ſpoken of, nothing leſs, is preſumed, or intended, Chap.64.6. Mic.7.4.

for they ſhall not profit thee.] Heb. and they ſhall not profit thee; which need not be altered. Thy courſes, that thou truſteſt to, ſhall do thee no good, ſhall ſtand thee in no ſtead; but ſhall rather do thee miſchief, and prove thy bane, in the end. So Prov. 12.2. with 21.6,7. & 11.3,4,5,6. See 2 Chr. 28. 20. Chap. 28.15,17,18. & 30.2,3,5. & 31.2,3. & 36.6. Ezek. 29. 6,7. The fore-mentioned Writer readeth the words, by way of interrogation, Should I declare thy righteouſneſs, and lay open thy works, thy wicked ways; it would be to no end, they would do thee no good? It would not prevail with thee, or avail ought for the letting of thee; But this ſeemes not ſo natural.

V. 13. When thou crieſt, let thy companies deliver thee] When thou crieſt unto me for help, amidſt thy diſtreſſes, I will return thee no anſwer, afford thee no help; but turn thee over to thoſe, and ſend thee to them, whom, forſaking me, thou haſt relied upon, and truſted unto; thy troops, (Heb. thy gathered ones; as Ezek. 22. 20.) either, of ſtrangers, ver. 9, 10. or, of ſtrange gods, Chap. 65. 11. See Deut. 32. 37, 38. Judg. 10. 13, 14. Jer. 2. 28. & 11. 12.

but the wind ſhall carry them all away,] Heb. and; as ver. 3. a puff of wind ſhall blow them all away, Chap. 40. 24. & 64. 6. Dan. 2. 35. Hoſ. 4. 19.

vanity ſhall take them.] Or, ſhall take them away; as Hoſ. 11. 13. the ſame, in effect, with the former; they ſhall all come to nought, Chap. 31. 3. a defect of the pronoun to be ſupplyed from the former branch; as Chap. 13. 8, 15.

But he that putteth his truſt in me, ſhall poſſeſs the land, and ſhall inherit mine holy mountain.] A word of conſolation ſubjoyned for the ſtay and ſupport of the faithfull, to aſſure them yet of protection and deliverance, in theſe calamitous times, Jer. 15. 19. 21. & 39. 17, 18. & 45. 5. Ezek. 11. 16. and of return to poſſeſs their land again, and to enjoy Gods ordinances in his Temple, Chap. 10. 21. & 30. 18, 19.

putteth his truſt in me] Maketh me his refuge, or place of retreat, (for ſo the word properly ſignifies, Pſal. 104. 19. Chap. 4. 6. & 25. 4.) and looketh not after other vain ſhelters and ſuccours, Pſal. 2. 12. & 40. 4. & 46. 1. See Chap. 28. 15, 16, 17.

poſſeſs the land] Pſal. 37. 3, 11. or, inherit the land; returning again to their former inheritances, Jer. 3. 18. & 12. 15. there is in the word, an alluſion to the firſt diſtribution of the land, by lot, Num. 34. 2, 13.

inherit mine holy mountain] Heb. poſſeſs my mountain of holineſſe; as Pſal. 15. 1. Chap. 11. 9. enjoy my ſacred ordinances there. See Chap. 56. 5, 7.

V. 14. And he ſhall ſay,] Or, And it ſhall be ſaid: for the verb is uſed here indefinitely; as Chap. 59. 19. Mal. 1. 4. Proclamation ſhall be made, to remove all impediments that might hinder Gods people, in their paſſage, from the places of their captivity unto their own Countrey. See Chap. 40. 3.

Caſt ye up, caſt ye up;] Or, Make cauſey: for their ſafer and more convenient paſſage. See Chap. 35. 8. & 62. 10. Prov. 19. 19.

prepare the way] Make plain the ſurface of it, by ſweeping away, and removing out of it, whatſoever might make it uneaſie, or unſafe. So Mal. 3. 1. See the uſe of the word, Gen. 24. 31. Lev. 14. 36. Pſal. 80. 9. compared with Chap. 5. 2.

take up the ſtumbling-block out of the way of my people.] Heb. lift up, or take off, or take away; as the word is uſed, Lev. 6. 10, 15. Dan. 8. 11. the ſtumbling, either block, or ſtone; as Chap. 8. 15. and this here more properly: the word is general, and imports any thing, that man, or child, may trip, or ſtumble at, and be endangered thereby to fall. See Lev. 19. 14. Pſal. 91. 11, 12.

V. 15. For thus ſaith the high, and the lofty God,] Exceeding high; as Chap. 52. 13. whom heaven, even the higheſt heaven, is not able to hold, 1 King. 8. 27. but is infinitely higher, then the higheſt of any creature, Pſal. 83. 18. & 113. 4. Eccl. 5. 8. far higher, then the higheſt created heavens, Pſal. 113. 4. Eph. 4. 10. and is ſaid therefore to ſtoop, in taking notice of the things, as well in heaven, as on earth, Pſal. 113. 5, 6.

that inhabiteth eternity,] As 1 Tim. 6. 16. who alone hath immortality, who alone is truly eternal, without beginning, or ending, Pſal. 90. 2. not immortal only, but immutable, Mal. 3. 6. Jam. 1. 17. or, as ſome, that inhabiteth, or abideth for ever: But the former ſeems more emphatical; and they ſeem to disjoynt the text, who not regarding the points of diſtinction, render the words; Thus ſaith the high one, who the lofty place inhabiteth perpetually.

whoſe name is holy,] Heb. and holy is his name; as Luk. 1. 49. the pronoun demonſtrative, with the conjunction copulative, put for the relative; So Judg. 13. 2. Ruth 2. 1. his name, for, himſelf, Pſal. 99. 3, 9. who is not holy only, but alone holy; as alone wiſe, 1 Tim. 1. 17. and alone good, Mat. 19. 17. ſo holy, as none, but he, 1 Sam. 2. 2, ſo, that thoſe, who are in part holy, by participation from him, are not at all holy, if they come once in compariſon with him, Job 9. 2. & 15. 14, 15. Some joyn this and the former together, thus rendring the words, inhabiting eternity, and holy is his name; or, whoſe name is inhabitant of eternity, and holy: ſo it ſhould be only the demonſtrative for the relative; as Chap. 55. 13. And true it is, that divers attributes are ſometime joyned together, to make up one compleated name; as Chap. 9. 6. But of that here, there is no neceſſity; and the text ſo read, runneth nothing ſo ſmoothly, as it doth the other way.

I dwell in the high and holy place;] In heaven, Chap. 32. 15. & 66. 1. Pſal. 11. 4. & 113. 5. & 115. 3. where is nothing but holineſs, 2 Pet. 3. 13. Rev. 21. 27. whereof alſo the Holy of Holies in the Temple, his Palace on earth was a type, Exod. 26. 34. Pſal. 78. 69. Heb. 9. 8, 12, 24. Heb. I will, or, ſhall inhabit high and holy: the future, for the preſent; as Chap. 53. 1, 7. the word, the ſame that before, ſave that the participle there, the verb here; a defect of the ſubject, or ſubſtantive; as Ch. 26. 5. & 33. 5. nor ſee I any good ground, why ſome late Interpreters, of ſpecial note, ſhould rent this branch off from Gods ſpeech, and annex it to his ſtyle, rendring the words, who dwell in the high, and holy; omitting the pronoun, which is here emphaticall, and expreſſed therefore in the text; as alſo, ver. 12. Chap. 43. 12. & 45. 7, 12, 13. Howbeit, had they thus rendred it, as a part of Gods ſpeech; I that inhabit, or dwell in an high, and holy place, do dwell alſo with him, &c. I ſhould not diſſent from them; the ſuppreſſion of the relative being very frequent. (See ver. 3, 8.) the ſupply from the former branch nothing unuſual; as Gen. 1. 16. and Gods dwelling, in, or with the perſons here deſcribed, in this ſpeech of his, being principally intended.

with him alſo,] To wit, do I dwell; or, him alſo, do I inhabit: for it may be as well the bare ſign of a noun under regiment, as the particle of concomitancy. I dwell, or inhabit, both with him, and in him, Joh. 14. 17, 23. Rom. 8. 10, 11. 2 Cor. 6. 16. & 13. 5. Eph. 3. 17. Heb. and him, or with him; as ver. 8.

that is of a contrite and humble ſpirit;] Heb. a contrite, and low of ſpirit; or, any one of a contrite and lowly ſpirit. See chap. 66. 15.

contrite] So, the Lord is neer unto all the broken of heart, and he will ſave the contrite of ſpirit, Pſal. 34. 18. that is, ſuch as be of a broken heart, and of a contrite ſpirit; and, the ſacrifices of God are a broken heart; a broken and contrite heart, O God, thou wilt not deſpiſe, Pſal. 51. 17. See of the word, on Chap. 53. 5, 10. By it here, is expreſſed an inward contrition of heart, and breaking of ſpirit, ſoftned and humbled by apprehenſion of wrath, joyned with a deep ſenſe of Godly grief, ſincere repentance, and ſerious remorſe for ſin, as ſin, as offenſive, diſpleaſing, and grievous to God, 2 King. 22. 19. 2 Chr. 32. 26. & 33. 12. Ezek. 6. 9. Act. 2. 37, 38. 2 Cor. 7. 10.

humble ſpirit] One demiſs, ſubmiſs, low, lowly of ſpirit. So Prov. 16. 19. & 29. 23. In the ſoul of ſuch an one, God will take up his lodging; in ſuch he deſires, and delights to dwell; as in the higheſt heavens, ſo in the loweſt hearts: the metaphor is taken from the plain countrey, or the vale, that lyeth lower then the hils, Joſh. 10. 40. & 11. 2, 16. Jer. 17. 26. & 32. 44. & 33. 13.

to revive the ſpirit of the humble, and to revive the heart of the contrite ones.] Heb. to quicken, or make to live, the ſpirit of humble ones,—— and the heart of contrite ones: to quicken, or make to live, not, to keep in life, (as Exod. 1. 17. Pſal. 22. 29. Chap. 38. 16.) when ready to faint, and go away, Chap. 40. 29. or, to comfort, relieve, refreſh, and reſtore, Pſal. 71. 20. & 80. 18. & 85. 6. & 119. 25, 40, 50, 88, 93, 107, 159. Mat. 11. 28. heart, and ſpirit, all one, as before.

V. 16. For I will not contend for ever, neither will I be always wroth:] This reſolution with God, not to contend for ever, but to give over ſtriving with man, is ſometime in wrath; when God, after exerciſe of his patience, and forbearance, for ſome ſpace of time, having made trial of divers courſes, to reclaim ſinners; and finding that nothing will prevail, reſolveth now to ſtrive no longer with them, but to give them over, and leave them to themſelves, as perſons incorrigible, and deſperately obdurate; as the Phyſician doth the Patient, that will not be ruled by him, or, whoſe diſeaſe, he deemeth incurable. So Gen. 6. 3. Chap. 1. 5. ſometime, in mercy, when ſeeing his people, now brought very low, and brought down on their knees; yea, though ſometime, not ſo ſincerely, or not ſo thorowly, eſpecially where the heart is yet upright, he ſtayeth his hand, and either reſtraineth, and refraineth his wrath, and further proſecution of any harſh and rigorous courſe, for the preſent, or is wholly reconciled again to them. See 1 King. 21. 27, 29. 2 King. 14. 26, 27. Pſal. 78. 34-38. & 85. 3. So here; and ſo Pſal. 103. 9. He will not always chide, nor retain wrath for ever. See alſo, Lam. 3. 31, 32.

For the ſpirit ſhould fail before me, and the ſouls, which I have made.] The verb here uſed ſignifies, ſometime, to cover, or, to be covered, Pſal. 65. 13. & 73. 6. ſometime, (eſpecially where applyed, as here, to the ſoul, or ſpirit) to be over-whelmed, or to faint; as one that is muffled and ſtifled, Pſal.61.2. & 77.3. & 102.title, & 107.5. & 142.3. & 143.4. Lam.2.11,12,19. Jon.2.7. Mans ſpirit would faint, being over-ſpread, or wrapt up in, and over-whelmed with terrour and trouble, and the ſouls, that I made, would fail. The conſideration of mans infirmity and weakneſs, unable to hold out, when God proceeds in wrath againſt him, doth many times move him, in way of commiſeration, to ſtay his hand, and reſtrain his wrath, Pſal.78.38,39. eſpecially, in dealing with his people, his weak and tender-hearted ones, whom he hath a ſpecial care of, Chap.40.11. ver.15. that they may not be wholly deſtroyed, or utterly diſheartned and diſcouraged, Job 37.23. Pſal.103.10–14. Ch.27.8. & 42.3. & 48.9,10. and the Saints plead it themſelves unto him, Pſal.39.10,11. & 89.47,48. Heb. Spirit, or wind; and breaths, or blaſts; (not amiſs rendred ſouls) Gen.7.15. Pſal.150.6. Prov.20.27. (words uſed the rather to expreſs the vanity, and imbecility, of mans conſtitution and condition. See Chap.2.22.) are here, one, and the ſame; as alſo, Job 27.3. Chap.42.5. there is in the latter branch a defect of the relative, as ver.3, 8. and of the verb to be ſupplyed from the former branch, as ver.15. the ſouls would faint away, which I have made, Gen.2.7. Eccl.12.7. Chap.42.5. and have a regard to, as mine own work, in mine own people, eſpecially, Pſal.138.8. 1 Pet.4.19. And this I conceive to be the genuine ſenſe of the place: howſoever divers Interpreters run other ways; ſome rendring, A ſpirit, or breath, ſhall go forth from before me, and I will make blaſts, or gales. So the old Latine, which many follow, expounding it, ſome, as of a gentle breath, or blaſt; that ſhould revive and refreſh them; as Pſal.104.30. Others, as of a proſperons gale of wind at Sea, that ſhould carry them to their own country again: applying that unto it, Pſal.143.10. Others, A ſpirit from my face (that is, proceeding from me) ſhall inſinuate it ſelf into you; and I will cauſe you to breath; as he ſaid before, to revive, and refreſh them, Ezek.37.9,10,14. Others, again, My ſpirit ſhall ſlacken, or allay, and the blaſts that I made before. And ſome, again, (taking it a clean contrary way) My ſpirit ſhall over-whelm, and deſtroy the breathing ſouls that I made; as Gen.6.7,17. But theſe all ſtrain the text over-much; Some of them force it againſt its own ſenſe and drift. A late learned Writer would have it rendred from the uſe of the verb, in the Syriack and Arabick tongues, The ſpirit would return from before me: but how that ſhould fitly ſuit here, neither he ſheweth, nor do I ſee.

V.17. For the iniquity of his covetouſneſs I was wroth,] Or, For his iniquity of gain; that is, for his unjuſt lucre and gain, by injurious and wrongfull courſes, acquired, Mic.6.9. Luk.16.9,11. For they ſeem to be over-curious, who ſuppoſe the words, thus conceived, to imply; that it is not the outward act of fraud, oppreſſion, or the like, either ſo much, or alone, that God regards, as the inward affection, and diſpoſition of the heart: as alſo thoſe, that would have the word rendred, covetouſneſs, to be put here, for all manner of evil concupiſcence, In general, Rom.7.8. Col.3.5. becauſe it is ſaid to be the root of all evill, 1 Tim.6.10. though it be not unlikely, that this vice be the rather mentioned, becauſe many other ſpring from it, Prov.1.16–19. Now ſome conceive it to be ſpoken, with relation to thoſe watch-men, ſpoken of, Chap.56.11. and this vice there taxed in them. But this evill ſeems to have been more general riſe in all ſorts among them, Jer.6.13. & 8.11. and even thoſe alſo, to have been over-much tainted with it, who yet were not abandoned to thoſe groſs practices of idolatry, nor did run a madding after idols, as thoſe deſcribed before, ver.3–10.

and ſmote him] See Chap.1.10. & 60.10.

I hid me, and was wroth] Or, being wroth, I hid me; or, in my wrath I hid me; as, in my wrath I ſmote thee, Chap.60.10. for he is wroth firſt, and then ſmites, and hides; though in open view, yet hidingly, becauſe by the hand of another, Chap.10.5. Jer.1.14,15. he ſmites, and then hides himſelf; as one, that, in diſpleaſure, having left one to the evil, and harſh uſage of ſome other, withdraweth himſelf out of the way, and having ſhut himſelf up in his cloſet, will not be ſeen, or ſpoken with. 2 Sam.14.24,32. Pſal.10.1. & 27.7,9. Heb. hiding I hid; as it is more fully expreſſed, Deut.31.18. See of ſuch defective forms, on Chap.59.13. I hid my ſelf, or, my face: a defect of the noun, and affix, my face; ſo oft expreſſed, Deut.31.18. & 32.20. Pſal.13.1. & 22.24. & 51.9. Chap.8.18. & 54.8. & 59.2. & 64.7. Ezek.39.23,24,29. or, my ſelf; the active form put for the reciprocal, Chap.45.15. as the paſſive form is frequently uſed, 1 Sam.20.19. 1 King.17.3. Pſal.55.13. Chap.28.15. Jer.36.19.

and he went on frowardly, in the way of his own heart] Or, yet (as Chap.53.4,10.) he went on, or, walked on, perverſly, (Heb. turning away: as Jer.3.14,22.) in the way of his heart. See Chap.53.6. Jer.18.14. & 23.17. Though I manifeſted my diſpleaſure, by giving them up to their enemies, Chap.47.6. and withdrawing my ſelf, for ſome ſpace of time, from them, Lam.3.43,44. yet they walked on croſly in their own crooked courſes, and would not be reclaimed, Jer.5.3. & 8.5,6. or, it may be read, as rendring a reaſon, why God did ſo both ſmite them, and having ſmitten them, withdraw himſelf alſo from them, to wit, becauſe (ſo the particle is not ſeldom uſed, chap.52.15. & 53.2. & 64.4,5.) they perſiſted in their own croſſe, and rebellious courſes, refuſing to repent, and return from them. See Levit.26.23,24. Zach.7.11,12. and this I conceive to be the proper ſenſe of the place.

V.18. I have ſeen his wayes, and will heal him] That is, ſay ſome of the Jewiſh Commenters, I ſee his repentance, and I will therefore reſtore him. But the word, wayes, ſeems rather to have reference, to the way of his own heart, or mind, mentioned before, ver.17. and that way moſt go; and ſo the text would be rendred, I ſee his wayes, but (as Chap.51.23.) I will heal him; or, Though I ſee his wayes, yet I will heal him. A defect of the former particle, as Chap.30.20. the latter in the ſame notion, as Chap.53.10. Though I ſee what his wayes and courſes are, how untowardly, and obſtinately, they have carried themſelves; yet for mine own names ſake, I will not wholly withdraw, or for ever withhold my mercy from them; but will reſtore them again, Chap.43.22–25. & 48.8–11. Ezek.36.17–23,32. So is the word of healing, commonly uſed. See Chap.19.22. & 30.26. & 58.8. Jer.3.22. & 17.14. & 30.17. & 33.6. Lam.2.13. Hoſ.5.13. & 6.1. & 7.1. & 11.3. & 14.5. Pſal.60.2.

I will lead him alſo] Heb. and I will lead him. I will conduct him in ſafety to his own Country, Chap.52.12. & 58.11. See Chap.14.1,2. & 40.11. & 52.12. Jer.3.14. & 32.37. Some of the Rabbines expound it, I will give reſt to him, or cauſe him to reſt: as Chap.14.3. & 63.14. but the roots are divers.

and reſtore comforts unto him, and to his mourners] I will reſtore abundance of comfort to them, in leiw of thoſe manifold ſorrowes, and diſcomforts, that they had during their captivity, endured. See Chap.14.1. & 66.13. comforts, for, abundance of comforts; as Chap.66.11.

to his mourners] The perſons, whom God principally reſpecteth, and hath a more ſpecial eye unto, in the favours and mercies here promiſed, the reſidue partaking therein only with them, and for them; thoſe that mourn in Sion, Chap.61.2,3. or, for Sion, Chap.66.10. that mourn for the deſolations of her, for Gods judgments upon her, and for, both their own ſins, and the ſins of others, as the procuring cauſes thereof, Ezr.9.6. Ezek.6.9. & 7.16. & 9.4. Zach.12.10. Mat.5.4.

V.19. I create the fruit of the lips; peace, peace, to him that is afar off, and to him that is neer, ſaith the Lord:] Some carry on theſe words all in one tenour, I create, or make the fruit of the lips, to be peace, peace, &c. expounding the text, either of Gods own lips, that is, his Word, which he turneth into act, by giving his the peace formerly promiſed them, Pſal.85.8. Chap.55.9. or, of the lips of his Miniſters, and Meſſengers, that bring the glad tidings of peace, and reconcilement with God to his people: God making their words to be, not matter of peace only, but means of peace, between them, and him, Chap.40.1. & 52.7. Rom.5.1. 2 Cor.5.19,20. Eph.2.14,17. or, of the people of God themſelves, who, whereas formerly, they had nothing, but to talk of war, in their mouthes, ſhould now have occaſion given them, to ſpeak of nothing but peace. A learned Writer of good note, ſuppoſeth, that it may be read, and rendred, I create as the fruit of the banks, peace, peace; that is, peace in great plenty, like the fruits of ſuch plants, as grow neer the rivers ſide: and true it is, the banks of rivers are ſometime called their lips: (ſee on Chap.19.7.) and that the note of ſimilitude is oft omitted; as Chap.33.4,11. But to let paſs the needleſs ſtraining of the text, the pauſes in the original, expreſſed alſo in our verſion, require the members to be taken aſſunder, and read apart.

I create the fruit of the lips] Or, as ſome render it, I will create. Heb. creating; as Chap.65.17,18. Of the uſe of the word, ſee Chap.4.5. By the fruit of the lips, (to paſs by thoſe, who underſtand comfort, and conſolation, ver.18.) I conceive, with many other, to be underſtood the voice of praiſe, and thankeſgiving; as we find it to our hands expounded, Hoſ.14.2. Heb.13.15. that, which God promiſeth to give abundant occaſion of, by the reſtitution of them, Chap.60.18. & 61.3, 11. Jer.30.19.

peace, peace] True, firm, ſure, conſtant, abundant, peace; a large meaſure of tranquillity, plenty, proſperity; for the name of peace includeth all theſe, Chap.48.18. and the gemination of the word imports a large extent of it, 1 Chr.12.18. See Chap.26.3. the verb ſubſtantive is to be ſupplyed; as Pſal.119.165. peace, peace, ſhall be; or, there ſhall be peace, peace.

to him, that is afar off, and to him, that is neer] Heb. to the far, and to the neer one. The ſpeech runs along in the ſingular form, but in a collective ſenſe; becauſe ſpoken of the main body of a people; to thoſe far and neer. As well to him that is abroad in captivity, as to him that abideth ſtill at home; or, to thoſe abroad, as well in places more remote, as in places neerer at hand, Deut.30.3,4. See Chap.11.11,12. or, afar off, and neer; that is, as well Gentile, as Jew: the one being a people, in time paſt, neer unto God, Pſal.148.14. the other, afar off from him, untill called in, by Chriſt, Act. 2. 38, 39. Eph.2.12,13,17. Col.1.21. See Chap.56.3. for this, with all the former, though in the firſt place, relating to the ſtate of that people, and in part fulfilled in them, yet doth typically fore-ſhadow the reſtauration, and enlargement of the Church, under the Meſſias in the Goſpel, where the fuller complement of them is found.

and I will heal him] As ver. 8. ſo the Hebrew, word for word. Howbeit, Some render it, that I may heal them: as Chap.41.22. but that ſeems not ſo fit here; peace, as health; being rather, an effect of healing, then a means of cure: if any change be thought of, I ſhould rather chooſe to render it, when I ſhall heal, or, ſhall have healed him; as ver.8. which may well ſeem to have reference alſo to a ſpiritual healing; and may receive ſtrength from what followeth, of the excluſion of thoſe from the peace before promiſed, who are not ſo healed, ver.20,21.

V. 20. But the wicked are like the troubled ſea, when it cannot reſt, whoſe waters caſt up mire and dirt] This, ſome underſtand of the wicked enemies of Gods people, who envying their peace and welfare, ſhould be reſtleſs in ſeeking, and ſtriving, by all the means that they could, to diſturb, and impeach it. See Ezr.4. & 5.3. Neh.4. & 6. But the moſt rather, of the profane, and obſtinate wicked ones, among Gods people, oppoſed to the humble and penitent mourners, among them, ver.15,19. implying, that they ſhould not have any ſhare, either in that inward tranquility, and ſettlement of mind, nor in that outward peace and proſperity, that thoſe other ſhould enjoy; not, that none ſuch at all ſhould be ſet free from captivity, or return to, and be ſeated in their own country again; but that little benefit, or comfort, ſhould thereby accrue unto them, their minds being ſo unſetled, Jam. 1.6. and their conſciences ſo unquiet, Job 15.20. that they ſhould never be able to reſt, Job 20. 20. or to enjoy any ſound, and ſetled peace, ver.21. See Chap.65.20.

But] Heb. And: as ver.3,13.

are like] Or, ſhall be like. See Chap.65.13,14.

troubled] Or, driven; to wit, with winds, Jam. 3. 4. but the word ſignifies properly, to drive away, or expel, Exod.34.11. it is uſed in the next branch, for, to caſt out, or, caſt up.

when it cannot reſt] Or, becauſe it cannot reſt, Jon. 1.11,13. and no more can they, Job 15.21-24.

whoſe waters caſt up mire and dirt] Heb. and the waters thereof, as ver.15.

caſt up] To the ſhore, when it worketh.

mire] Or, mud. The word is no where elſe read; the verb only, Prov.25.26.

and dirt] This, ſome expound of the iſſue of wicked mens practices againſt Gods people; as producing nothing beneficial to themſelves, but ſorry traſh, ſuch as the Sea is wont to caſt up. Others, of the effect of Gods judgments upon them, whereby he would work them to repentance; but cauſeth them only to diſcover their own filth, wherewith their hearts are full fraught. See Jude 13. Rev.16.8-11. But theſe things ſeem over-curious, and beſide the ſcope of the place.

V. 21. There is no peace, ſaith my God, to the wicked] Or, There ſhall be no peace to ſuch. See Chap.48.22.

CHAP. LVIII.

Verſ. 1. CRy aloud, ſpare not;] This Chapter, and the next, ſome joyn together. In either of them, according to an injunction given him, by God, the Prophet layeth forth the wicked courſes of his people; in this, their hypocriſie eſpecially; pretending much devotion, and aſſiduity, in holy exerciſes, chiefly in faſting, and prayer; and charging God with neglect of them, notwithſtanding their diligence in theſe duties: whereby the Prophet taketh occaſion to enform them of the defects, in their faſts, and other their devotions, and to inſtruct them, what manner of ſervice, God requireth of them, and expecteth from them, ſubjoyning many gracious promiſes of ſundry bleſſings from God, upon their ſervices ſo performed.

Cry aloud] Heb. Cry with the throat: the throat being an inſtrument of voice, and ſound, Pſal.69.3. & 115.7. Or, Cry with full throat: as Jer.12.6. they cry with full throat after thee: a defect of the adjunct here; as of the ſubject there. Of which forms of ſpeech, ſee on Chap.5.4. thus we uſe to ſay, and it might well be ſo rendred here; Set up thy throat. Gods ſpeech to the Prophet.

ſpare not] Or, refrain not. Howſoever it may be deemed matter of commendation, ordinarily for a man to refrain his tongue, and to be ſparing of ſpeech, Prov.10.19. & 17.27. yet not when mans duty to God requireth it, Pſal. 40. 9,10. or, when God himſelf ſhall enjoyn it, Jer.1.17. & 19.2. & 26.2. Amos 3.8. Act.4.19-21. & 5.19-21,29. & 20.27. or, cry as loud as thou canſt; though intention of voice, or clamor, and loudneſs of ſpeech, be in ſome kind, and ſome caſes, neither needful, nor decent, Chap.42.2. Prov.7.11. Eccl. 7.8. & 9.17. Eph.4.31. yet where the matter is ſerious and weighty, and men wilfully deaf, and unwilling to hear, loud crying is neceſſary, and by God himſelf here required. So Prov.8.1-3. & 9.3. Joh 7.28,37. & 12.44.

lift up thy voice like a trumpet] Make uſe of thy throat, inſtead of a trumpet; not as ſome, fondly alluding to the maner of managing a trumpet, which a man holdeth with his hand, and ſoundeth with his mouth; but to make a loud noiſe, as a trumpet doth, and to give people warning of evils approaching, which is one ſpecial uſe of the watchmans trumpet, Jer.6.1. Ezek.2.17-21. & 33.2-9. Amos 3.6-8.

and ſhew my people their tranſgreſſions, and the houſe of Jacob their ſins.] My people; and the houſe of Jacob; ſuch as one would think, ſhould have leaſt need of any, to be ſo loud cryed unto, or ſo roundly dealt with, yet their wicked courſes, and their averſneſs, requiring it; and though ſuch untoward wretches, owned ſtill by God, as his people. See Chap. 2.5, 6. Mic.6.2,3,5.

V. 2. Yet they ſeek me daily, and delight to know my wayes;] As wicked as they are in their practices, yet they make a great ſhew of much devotion, and of ſedulity, aſſiduity, and diligence, in my ſervice. See the like, Chap.1.11-15. & 29.13. & 48.1,2.

ſeek me daily] By repairing to my Sanctuary, Chap. 1. 12. Jer.7.9. or, to other places, where my people aſſemble to ſerve me. Heb. day day; that is, day by day; or, day after day: as, morning morning, Chap.28.19. So Prov.8.30,34.

delight to know my wayes] Make ſhew as if they ſo did; contrary to the open, and unveiled impiety of thoſe, who profeſs, not to deſire the knowledge of his wayes, Job 21.14. as, they ſtay themſelves upon God; that is, profeſs ſo to do, Chap.48.2. ſo here, they delight to know his wayes; make as though they took great pleaſure in hearing ought of them; Ezek. 33. 30, 31.

as a nation that did righteouſneſſe] That walked uprightly, that practiſed nothing but what was juſt, and right, Chap.56.1. Mic.6.8. 1 Joh.3.7,10.

and forſook not the ordinance of their God] Heb. forſook not the judgment (that is, the Law; as Jer.5.4.) of their God: whoſe people they profeſs themſelves to be; and whoſe name yet they will bear, Chap.48.1,2. Jer.8.7.

they ask of me the ordinances of juſtice] They come to enquire of me, by my Miniſters, Prieſts, and Prophets, what courſes they ſhould take, and what I require of them: as if it were of ignorance only, and for want of information, if they did ought amiſſe, Jer. 42. 2-22. & 43.2-4. Ezek.14.1,2. Mal.2.8.

and take delight in approaching to God] Seem to do ſo; as before. Howbeit, ſome turn all theſe paſſages another way; expounding the words according to thoſe, ver.3. of their continual muttering, and murmuring againſt God; as if it were ſaid, they demand of me daily, and deſire to know what my mind and meaning is, as if they were a people, that had given me no juſt cauſe of offence; they require more juſt, and equal courſes of me, (as if I dealt not juſtly, and equally, with them, Ezek.18.24.) and deſire to approach to God; not in a kind and familiar manner, or dutiful way, to be better acquainted with me, or to do me ſome ſervice; but to debate, and argue the caſe with me; as one that dealeth unequally, and injuriouſly, with them, Job 23.3-8. the word is uſed ſometime, of an hoſtile, and malicious approach, Pſal.27.2. & 119.150. ſometime, of a judicial approach, for tryal, or hearing, and debating of a cauſe, Exod.22.8. Joſh.7.14. Chap.41.1,5. Mal.3.5. But I conceive that this expoſition, and that uſe of the word, fitteth not ſo well with this place.

V. 3. Wherefore have we faſted, ſay they, and thou ſeeſt not?] They complain that they had faſted again, and again, and worn themſelves out, by frequent practices of humiliation, and yet God did not regard, or take notice of it, in regard thereof, to relieve them, and free them from ſuch troubles and afflictions, as they were ſtill annoyed and encombred withall; and as if he had ſaid, they will expoſtulate with God, when after ſome hypocritical performances, and external humiliations, they be not by and by heard, and anſwered, according to their mind; as if in the moſt ſerious, and ſincere manner, they had ſought him, and ſerved him. See Jer. 3. 4, 5. Mic. 6. 6.

have we faſted] Or, do we faſt: that which ſome underſtand of the yeerly ſet, and ſolemn faſt, on the day of propitiation, Lev. 23. 27, 29. and this ſeems to be backed, by that of the Sabbath, ver. 13. For that day was a day of ſtrict reſt, Lev. 23. 28, 30, 31. as if their formal faſting on that day, were ſufficient to expiate and ſatisfie for all the ſins of the whole yeer with them. But others rather expound it, of other more frequent, voluntary, and occaſional faſts; ſuch as thoſe, upon ſome exigencies, undertaken before the captivity, Chap. 22. 12. Jer. 14. 12. & 36. 6, 9. Or, held and continued by them, during the time of the captivity, Zach. 7. 3, 5. & 8. 19. either publike, or private, Dan. 9. 3. Zach. 12. 12-14.

ſay they,] A neceſſary ſupply; as Chap. 22. 13. and 56. 12.

ſeeſt not] Or, ſeeſt it not; that is, regardeſt it not; as Pſal. 10. 11, 13, 14. a defect of the pronoun it, here, as there.

wherefore have we afflicted our ſelves,] O, do we afflict our ſouls, that is, our ſelves; as Pſal. 44. 25, & 123. 4. to wit, by faſting, Lev. 23. 27, 29.

and thou takeſt no knowledge?] Heb. thou knoweſt not? as Jer. 3. 13. thou takeſt no notice of it, of what we do; a defect of the pronoun, as before.

Behold,] Take notice of the reaſon, why theſe your performances are not accepted: Ye are faulty, and failing much otherwiſe in ſuch things, as God requireth and regards, as much as, yea, much more, then theſe formalities, Chap. 1. 15-17. Jer. 14. 12.

in the day of your faſt ye find pleaſure] According to this verſion it might be ſuppoſed, that upon their faſt days they took their pleaſure, and ſolaced themſelves as thoſe revellers, Ch. 22. 12, 13. But there is nothing leſs here intended, and the contrary appears; both by their profeſſion, ver. 3. and Gods conceſſion, ver. 5. Some of thoſe therefore that follow this tranſlation, expound the words, thus rendred, as if it were ſaid; on theſe very faſt-days of yours, on which you would ſeem to be moſt devout; yea, on that very day of ſolemn humiliation that ye abſtain from food, yet ye abſtain not from evil practices; ye follow thoſe courſes that ye are moſt taken withall, and are as delightful, as any the daintieſt diſh to you, 1 King. 21. 12. Prov. 2. 14. & 4. 16, 17. Jer. 9. 3. Ezek. 23. 38, 39. Mat. 23. 14, 23. Luk. 18. 12. But the words would rather be read, In the day that ye faſt, ye finde your own deſire, pleaſure, or will. Heb. In the day that ye faſt, or of your faſting; as, in the day that ye eat, or of your eating, Gen. 2. 17. that is, when, or what time ye faſt, and ye eat: ſo Ruth 4. 5. in the day that thou buyeſt, that is, whenſoever, or, at what time thou buyeſt: nor need the word, day, be reſtrained to that very day, on which they held their faſt; but may be taken more largely, as Chap. 3. 18. & 22. 12. & 26. 1. & 27. 2. much leſs to the ſolemn day of humiliation: For the actions hereafter mentioned, were ſuch, as were not practiſed, nor in likelyhood would be permitted, or could be executed on that day, being no day for matter of judicature; and for that of Naboth, 1 King. 21. 9, 10. it ſeems not to have been either enjoyned to be done, or put in execution, on the very faſt day: but a faſt being proclaimed, as if ſome wrath were feared, and ſome evil expected, a courſe was enjoyned withall to make ſome previous enquiry, for the finding out of ſuch delinquents and delinquencies, for which judgment might be feared, that juſtice being done on thoſe that were found guilty of ſuch crimes, the faſt might prove the more effectual. The meaning then I conceive to be, that at thoſe times, whether of that generall and ſolemn annual faſt, or other occaſional ones, they did not at all break off their ſinfull wills, deſires, minds, pleaſures, or purpoſes; (for ſo the word here uſed, doth at large ſignifie, 1 Sam. 18. 25. Eccl. 3. 1, 17. & 8. 6. Chap. 53. 10.) but perſiſt, and proceed ſtill in a reſolution and purpoſe, to purſue them, howſoever they might not be employed publikely, in the acting of them, on that particular day, on which the faſt was held; but ſuſpended the practice of them for the preſent: not unlike thoſe, of whom another Prophet, Amos 8. 4, 5, 8. find, for follow; becauſe finding the end of following; as ſeeking, for, getting, Eccl. 3. 6. and for finding, as ſome, Chap. 65. 1. becauſe this the end of that: and a defect of the pronoun; as, word, for thine own word, ver. 13. So, deſire, for, your own deſire; as it is more fully there expreſſed: and, their own will, for, the deſires of the fleſh; and, the wills of the fleſh, and thoughts, or minds; that is, their fleſhly deſires, and carnal minds and wils, Eph. 2. 3. Some conceive this place to be parallel to that, Zach. 7. 5, 6. When ye faſted, in faſting faſted ye, or, faſted ye at all to me; to me, I ſay? and when ye did eat and drink, did not ye eat and drink, not to me, but for your ſelves: (the former branch ſheweth, that the latter muſt be ſo conceived and ſupplyed) as if he had ſaid, You had no more regard to me, in your faſting, then ye had in your eating or feaſting; ye did both for your own ends. And ſo here, in your faſtings, ye intend nothing, nor regard ought, ſave the compaſſing of your own ends, and ſatisfying of your own deſires: Them you follow, and find even then when you faſt. See ſomewhat the like alſo, Hoſ. 10. 1. Iſrael is an empty vine; he bringeth forth fruit for himſelf.

and exact all your labours] By labours, ſome of the Jewiſh Doctors, whom ſome of ours alſo follow, underſtand, their wealth, their gettings, their gains; ſo called, becauſe by labour and travell uſually atchieved, Eccl. 4. 8. & 5. 16-18. alledging for this interpretation, that place, Prov. 5. 10. where the word is ſo uſed; and accordingly, Pſal. 128. 2. though another word be there uſed, The labour of thine hand thou ſhalt eat; and Eccl. 5. 19. to rejoyce in ones labour; that is, that wealth and ſtore, which, by labour, hath accrued unto either: And they draw hither the greedineſs of gain, taxed in them, Chap. 56. 11. they might better that, Chap. 57. 17. for the former is ſpecial; the latter more general. But others, rather, take the word more largely, and underſtand by it, their debts, or dues, whether of moneys, or ſervices, ſo termed, not from the labour and pains taken, in the getting and compaſſing; but from the grief and pain, thoſe are put unto, from whom, by rigour, they are exacted: Of which term, ſee on Chap. 53. 7. for the word (as alſo another of the like notion, Job 5. 6, 7. and both the Greek and Latine, anſwering to either, and our Engliſh labour too, as when we ſay; a woman is in labour) ſignifies, as well pain and dolour, as labour and pains; whereof Jabetz had his name, 1 Chr. 4. 9. Thus the meaning ſhould be, You exact of your ſervants, ſervil labour and pains, with extremity, contrary to Gods command, Lev. 25. 39, 40, 43, 45, 53. Or, detain them in ſervitude, beyond that extent of time, by God preſcribed, for an hired ſervant three yeers, Deut. 15. 18. (See Chap. 16. 14.) for one ſold outright ſix years, Exod. 21. 2. Deut. 15. 12. (See Jer. 34. 8-11, 14-16.) or to the year of Jubilee, whether came firſt, Lev. 25. 40. as alſo, your debts you require with rigour and cruelty, either where the party is not of ability, or where God requireth them to be remitted, Lev. 25. 28. Deut. 15. 2. See 2 King. 4. 1. Neh. 5. 2-13. And this ſome the rather ſuppoſe to be charged upon them, as a fault more frequent, at their faſt time, then at others; becauſe about that time of the year, to wit, at the beginning of the ſeventh Month, called Tiſri, of the new-wine then made, their fruits being all gathered in, Lev. 23. 24, 39. Deut. 16. 13. the old year, for civil affairs and accounts, ended, and the new began that month; for ſuch matters being reckoned, though the firſt, and the new yeer beginning with it, Exod. 34. 22. Now on the tenth day of that month, being the ſolemn faſt, the Trumpet of remiſſion and releaſe was to be blown, Lev. 25. 9. Some read the words, That ye may exact all your labours: And ſo the particle is oft uſed; as Chap. 13. 2. & 41. 22. But it ſeems here not ſo ſeaſonable. Others, rather, While ye exact all your labours; as 1 King. 11. 25. While he reigned over Syria, (for ſo it would be there rendred) and, While Mordecai ſate in the Kings gate, Eſt. 2. 21. See Chap. 36. 9. Howſoever we take the words, by their failings in theſe offices of mercy and charity, and their practices contrary unto either, he ſheweth all their pretended devotion and piety, to be unſound, and unſincere. So Chap. 1. 17, 18. Mat. 23. 23. Jam. 1. 27. 1 Joh. 3. 17. & 4. 20, 21. And God ſeemes to argue the matter with them, as if he ſhould ſay, Do ye think to obtain any mercy from me, when ye ſhew none to your brethren? that I ſhould ſet you free from evils, when ye refuſe to let your brethren go free? That I ſhould remit all to you, when ye remit nothing to them? See Jer. 34. 17. Mat. 5. 7. & 6. 14, 15. & 18. 24-35. Jam. 2. 13.

V. 4. Behold,] As before, ver. 3. which ſome therefore conjoyn with this: but repeated, to add the more vigour and vehemency to it; as if he ſhould ſay, Do ye wonder, if God regard not your faſting, when ye faſt in this manner? ver. 5.

ye faſt for ſtrife and debate] Or, unto ſtrife and debate. Theſe words are by Interpreters variouſly expounded. Some would have the meaning to be, that this was the end of their faſting, to expiate their former ſinful and injurious courſes, that they might return the more freely to them again; as the Papiſts, in ſome places, are reported to have a common ſaying in their mouths; We muſt ſin, that we may be ſhriven; and be ſhriven, that we may ſin. Others, that on the ſolemn Faſt-day, when they met together, they fell to quarrelling one with another, about their debts and morgages; as if the faſt-day had, for no other end, been inſtituted, but to quarrel and contend upon: Or, that on that day, they had much brawling and brabling with their ſervants, whom, by the Law, they were then to diſmiſs, and uſed them with much cruelty. Others, that the Faſt-days, being kept as Sabbaths, or days of reſt, from other ſervile labours, and employments abroad, they were willing to have Faſt-days, that they might have the more leiſure to caſt up their accounts, and ſurvey their debt-books, to prepare matter for Actions to be commenced, and purſued againſt their debters. Others, that the words here imply not, that they faſted at all, but that about the time thereunto deſigned, they did practice ſuch things, because at that time there was more ſpecial occaſion of them, then at other. And ſo indeed is the word, the faſt, taken, without ſpecial relation to any action of that kind then performed, Act. 27.9. But both the verb here uſed, not the noun, as there, and the whole drift and current of the context, ſheweth, that the rite of faſting, performed by them, is here ſpecially intended. I conceive, therefore, (ſuppoſing that moſt of the works before recited, could not that day be done, ſave by minding of them, or occaſionally ſpeaking of them, if they obſerved the ſolemn faſt) that the words would be read, not as our verſion hath them; Ye faſt for ſtrife and debate, as importing the end for which they faſted; but, Ye faſt unto ſtrife and debate: as implying the iſſue and conſequent of their faſting. Of which manner of ſpeech, ſee Chap. 3. 8. your faſtings end in, and are ſeconded with, vexatious ſuits and brawls.

and to ſmite with the fiſt of wickedneſs.] Or, with a wicked fiſt; as, with wicked hands, Act. 2. 23. the word is uſed alſo, Exod. 21. 18. and no where elſe in Scripture: Some apply it to the miſuſing of their Servants, Exod. 21. 20, 21, 26, 27. Others, to the harſh uſage of their debtors, not able to pay them, or the laying of violent hands upon them, Mat. 18. 28. it may well comprehend either.

Ye ſhall not faſt as ye do this day, to make your voice to be heard on high.] This Some underſtand, as if it were ſaid, alluding to their branglings and brawlings, and clamorous outcries, uſed in proſecution of perſons obnoxious to them, whether ſervants, or ſtrangers: Ye are not to faſt as ye uſe to do, ſo quarrelling and chiding upon your faſt-days, that your voice may be heard to the very hils, that they ring again with them: Or, that the cry of your violences goeth up unto heaven. See Gen. 18. 20, 21. Exod. 22. 23, 27. 2 Chr. 28. 9. Chap. 5. 7. & 22. 1, 5. Jon. 1. 2. Jam. 5. 4. Others, as alluding to their loud cries, that they uſed commonly in their faſts, and days of humiliation; by ſome, out of fervour, and intention of ſpirit, 2 Chr. 14. 11. & 32. 20. Joel 1. 13. Jon. 3. 8. But by theſe here, either for popular applauſe, to let others know that they faſted, and hear how devoutly and earneſtly they did it; as the Phariſees did alſo with their alms, and their prayers, Mat. 6. 2, 5, 16. Or, as if by their loud cries, they made account to be heard of, and prevail with God; as Baals Prieſts with their Idol, 1 King. 18. 27, 28. But the moſt, and beſt, underſtand it, as enforming them, that the way they now took, faſting in ſuch manner, as was before related, was not the way to cauſe God to hear, and grant thoſe things, which, by humble ſuit and ſupplication, joyned, of courſe, with their faſts, as being the main end of their faſting, 1 Sam. 7. 5, 6. 2 Sam. 12. 16. 2 Chr. 20. 3, 6. Ezra 8. 21. Mat. 17. 21. Act. 13. 3. they deſire at Gods hand to obtain. See ver. 3. As if he had ſaid, Never look to have your faſtings accepted, or your ſuits, heard on high (that is, in heaven; as Chap. 57. 15.) 1 King. 8. 32. ſo long as ye continue theſe courſes of vexation and oppreſſion. See Chap. 1. 15. Prov. 28. 13. and this to be the genuine notion of the place, the oppoſite part, ver. 6. ſheweth. Heb. Ye ſhall not faſt, as to day, or, as this day, &c. which ſome render, Ye faſt not as theſe times are, or, according to the manner of this time; to wit, to cauſe your voice to be heard on high. But this reading ſeems ſomewhat harſh: and our verſion is plain and ſmooth enough, whether we ſupply ought, or no.

V. 5. Is it ſuch a faſt that I have choſen?] Or, As I have choſen: the relative wanting; as Chap. 57. 8, 16. Or, the demonſtrative put for the relative; as Chap. 51. 15. the ſame in effect: but as fitter then that, becauſe ſuch went before; ſuch as I approve, affect, deſire, and delight in; as Zach. 7. 5. ſo Pſal. 119. 30. Chap. 56. 4.

a day for a man to afflict his ſoul?] Or, for a man to afflict his ſoul for a day; as ver. 3. not that God did not require ſuch humiliation on the ſolemn faſt-days, Lev. 16. 19, 21. & 23. 27, 32. but that it was a fond and frivolous thing to imagine, that it was enough for them, to uſe ſuch external exerciſes for a day onely, and there an end of all, 1. Tim. 4. 8.

Is it to bow down the head as a bull-ruſh,] To bow down; as Mic. 6. 6. his head as a bull-ruſh, that being bruized, doth with the weight of its ſelf hang down. See Chap. 19. 14. Or, as a cord, made of bull-ruſh, Job 41. 2.

and to ſpread ſackcloth and aſhes under him?] As the manner of thoſe times was, in ſolemn mournings, uſual, 1. King. 21. 27. Eſt. 4. 3. Job 2. 8. & 42. 6. Chap. 61. 3. Jer. 6. 26. Matth. 11. 21.

wilt thou call this a faſt, and an acceptable day to the Lord?] That is, ſuch a faſt as God accepteth of, as before; a faſt, and a day acceptable, for, an acceptable faſt-day. See the like, on Chap. 4. 5, 6. Heb. a day of good-will; or, well-liking; as Chap. 49. 8. & 61. 2.

V. 6. Is not this the faſt, that I have choſen, to looſe the bands of wickedneſs, to undo the heavy burdens, and let the oppreſſed go free, and that ye break every yoke?] Having ſhewed them what manner of faſts, God did not approve, nor would accept, ver. 4, 5. he proceedeth now to ſhew what manner of ones they were, that he required, and would accept; to wit, ſuch as were joyned with reformation, and amendement of their former injurious and vexatious courſes, ſuch as were ſeconded with a practice of the contrary duties of compaſſion and mercy: Not that the faſt conſiſted, to ſpeak properly, in them; but that it was to be always accompanied with them; as was Cornelius his, Act. 10. 2, 4. See the like ſpeech, Jam. 1. 27.

that I have choſen] That I like, and am pleaſed with; as ver. 5. So is the word uſed, Job 29. 25. If I choſe their way, that is, If I liked, or, was pleaſed, to come among them, or joyn with them: And ſo it may well be rendred, Pſal. 25. 12. Who is the man that feareth the Lord? he will inſtruct him in the way, that he (to wit, God himſelf) liketh, or, approveth of, Heb. I ſhall chooſe it, or, like, approve, accept it; the demonſtrative for the relative; as before, ver. 5.

to looſe] Heb. properly, to open. See Chap. 51. 14.

the bands of wickedneſs] Or, wicked bands; as, the fiſt of wickedneſs, ver. 4. The word is found only here, and Pſal. 73. 4. and it is, by ſome, deemed to conſiſt of a term, that ſignifies, to cut, whence alſo, the threſhing-ſled, called by the Latines tribula, and from it, our Engliſh tribulation; and of another, that ſignifies, to vex, or grieve: Of which, ſee on ver. 3. ſo joyned in one, becauſe conſtrictions, as ſome render it, or ſtreit-bands do both. By it, ſome underſtand the combinations of thoſe that are in places of Judicature, by unjuſt ſentence, and extream rigour of law, hired to vex and oppreſs. See Mic. 7. 3. Others, the bands, which they held their poor brethren enwrapped in, by unequal, injurious, and uſurious, contracts, Exod. 22. 25. Lev. 25. 35, 37. Neh. 5. 25. See the bond of iniquity, in a divers ſenſe, Act. 8. 23.

to undo the heavy burdens,] Heb. burdens of declination. So the Chaldee rendreth it; and not unfitly, becauſe it cometh of a word, that ſignifies, to decline, ſtoop, bow down, Lev. 25. 35. Prov. 25. 26. ſuch bunches, bundels, or fardels, (ſo is it uſed of leſſer ones, Exod. 12. 22. of greater, the elements lying as globes, or bundles, are upon, or over another, Amos 9. 6. of a troop of men, as made up in a bundle together, 2 Sam. 2. 25.) lying ſo heavy upon a man, that they bend him down, and make him to ſtoop. See Jer. 1. 14. for this latter word alſo ſignifies, a yoke; ſo called, becauſe it preſſeth down, puls down, and holds down, Jer. 27. 2. & 28. 10, 13. See more afterward. And this may well have reference to the heavy bondage they kept their brethren in: Whereof, See before, on ver. 3, 4. and to let the oppreſſed go free,] Some reſtrain this, to ſuch as they kept in priſon, and in bonds, for debt; but it ſeemes more large: And the word includeth all ſuch, as are made like a bruized, or broken reed, or cane, Chap. 36. 6. & 42. 3. much weakned, cruſhed, and broken, (as we uſe to ſay) in their ſtates and perſons, by vexation and oppreſſion. See Deut. 28. 33. Hoſ. 5. 11. Amos 4. 1. this branch is found inſerted with that paſſage, Chap. 61. 1. in the Evangeliſts recitall of it, Luk. 4. 18.

and that ye break every yoke] Heb. and every yoke ye ſhall break: a defect of the particle that; as Chap. 41. 7. and a redundancy of the pronoun it: as Chap. 8. 13. & 45. 9. to break every yoke, for, to give eaſe of, or ſet free from, any grievous courſe; of vexation, and oppreſſion; as Chap. 9. 4. the term here uſed, is taken ſometime, for a yoke, as was before hinted. Howbeit, it is deemed primarily, and properly, to ſignifie the ſtaff, or bar, that runneth thorow the two end of its bow, to hold them faſt, the one to the other: the word being uſed of the ſtaves, ſhot thorow the rings, by which the Ark was born on the Levites ſhoulders, 1 Chr. 15. 15. as alſo of that, on which the two ſpies carried the great bunch, or cluſter of grapes, between them, for bruiſing, Num. 13. 23. or, as ſome think, the bands, or cords, wherewith, either thoſe ſtaves are faſtened to the reſt of the yoke, or the yoke it ſelf to the neck of the beaſt. So it is rendred, Ezek. 34. 24. When I have broken the bands of their yoke, and delivered them out of the bands of thoſe, that ſerved themſelves on them: and yet more fully, to ſuit with the form above-mentioned, and the explication thereof, Lev. 26. 13. I brought you out of Egypt, that you might not be, or, abide, their bondmen; and brake the bonds of your yoke, that ye might go upright. Now when either the ſtaff, or the bands of the yoke are broken, the yoke falls off, and the beaſt is at liberty.

V. 7. Is it not to deal thy bread to the hungry, and that thou bring the poor, that are caſt out, to thine houſe? when thou ſeeſt the poor, that thou cover him, and that thou hide not thy ſelf from thine own fleſh?] Inſtead of injurious, and vexatious courſes, formerly taken, to practiſe offices of mercy and charity; a ſound argument of ſerious, and ſincere repentance, Dan. 4. 27. Luk. 19. 8.

to deal] Heb. break, or divide; as Jer. 16. 7. for their loaves were ſuch, as might be ordinarily broken, Mat. 26. 36. Luk. 24. 31, 35. See Ezek. 18. 7. Lam. 4. 4.

and that thou bring to thine houſe] Heb, and thou ſhalt bring home, or, unto thine houſe: a defect of the particle that, as ver.

6. and of the pronoun; as Chap.37.4,29.

the poor caſt out] The latter word ſeldome found; in this place, in this form, alone, Some render, attenuated, or brought to extream poverty; as parallel, to another uſed, Chap.10.2. & 11.4. the Greek renders it, harbourleſſe: the old Latine, wandring. Some of the Jewiſh Criticks, after the Chaldee, caſt out; or, toſſed to and fro, as the word, they uſe, ſignifies; and one from the ſame root, Chap.22.17. and to make up the notion of it, becauſe the verb, the root of this, commonly ſignifies, to rebel, and the active participle, or verbal, a rebel, Dan.9.5. Ezek.20.38. therefore ſome render this paſſive participle, or verbal, caſt out, and driven to and fro, as rebels: but in the Arabick, the word is ſaid to ſignifie, going to and fro, or travelling; and ſuch as ſo wander, we alſo call travellers, or, they themſelves, rather: the harbouring of the harbourleſſe, is both commanded, and commended, Mat. 25. 36. Rom.12.13. Heb.13.2. precedents of it, ſee Gen.18.3-5. & 19.2,3. Job 31.32. Judg.19.20,21.

that thou cover him] Heb. and thou ſhalt cover him: as chap. 53.2. See Job 31.19,20. Mat.26.36.

hide not thy ſelf] By turning thy face from him; as refuſing to ſee, or own, or take notice of him, Pſal. 30. 11. & 142. 4. Luk.10.31,32. See on Chap.53.3. & 57.17.

from thy fleſh] Thy poor brother, who is the ſame fleſh with thee, Judg.9.2. 2 Sam.5.1. Neh.5.5. Prov.28.27.

V. 8. Then] A promiſe followeth, of many favours, and abundance of bleſſings, that ſhould hereupon enſue: when thy faſts, and other the like performances, are in this manner qualified, they ſhall find gracious acceptance with God, as by the fruits thereof following the ſame, here related, ſhall appear.

ſhall thy light break forth as the morning] Thine adverſity ſhall then be diſpelled, and removed, as the night, or as the foggy miſt, and proſperity ſhall then ſucceed, as broad day-light, or bright ſunſhine, breaking out, in the room of it, Eſt.8.16. Pſal.37.6. & 97.11. & 112.4. Prov.4.18. Chap. 9.1, 2. & 60.1.

and thine health ſhall ſpring forth ſpeedily] Thy calamitous condition ſhall ſoon be altred, and thy former damages, and detriments, ſuddenly repaired: all recovery out of, or delivery from, any foregoing evils, is in Scripture termed, by a metaphor, taken from the ſtate of mans body, an healing, or a reſtoring of health. See Chap.6.10. & 57.18. Jer.8.22. & 30. 17. & 33.5.

and thy righteouſneſſe ſhall go before thee] That is, as ſome, Chriſt thy righteouſneſs, Jer.23.6. & 33.16. 1 Cor.1.30. ſhall conduct thee, and be thy guide, Luk.1.79, & 2.32. Heb.12.2. Rev.14.4. Others, the fruit, and teſtimony of thine uprightneſs, ſhall ſhew it ſelf forth, and appear conſpicuouſly, in the eyes both of God and man, Pſal.37.6. or, the fruit, and reward of it, from God, in Gods gracious conduct of thee, thereby procured, ſhall go before thee, as a light to direct thee, or as an herbinger, to fit thy way for thee; both to remove out of thy way, what might impeach thy paſſage, and to diſcover unto thee, what way thou ſhouldeſt go, to cauſe all things to proceed, and go on, proſperouſly with thee, Pſal.5.8. Prov.6. 22. Act.10.4. See Pſal.85.13. Chap.52.12. ver.11.

the glory of the Lord ſhall be thy rereward] By glory of the Lord, ſome underſtand here, a very glorious eſtate: glory of God, for, great glory; as, hills of God; and, trees of the Lord, Pſal.36.6. & 104.16. Other, the glory that God ſhal then confer upon thee, Pſal.149.4. Or, rather, the glory of God, manifeſting it ſelf, as ch.40.5. that is, the God of glory, Act.8.2. or, the glorious Lord, c.33.21. ſhal by his power, providence, & glorious preſence, both conduct, and protect; both guide, and grace thee, go before thee, to prevent thee, with his bleſſings; and come after thee, to follow thee, with further favours, and to ſecure thee from any, that may come on thy back, to aſſault thee unawares. See Pſal.21.3. & 33.6. It is an alluſion to Gods manner of carrying on his people, thorow the wilderneſſe, Exod.13.21. & 14.19. Of the phraſe here uſed, ſee Ch.52.12.

V. 9. Then ſhalt thou call, and the Lord ſhall anſwer; thou ſhalt cry, and he ſhall ſay, Here I am] Thou ſhalt have no cauſe then to complain, as formerly, ver. 3. that God regardeth thee not, nor thy ſuits, and requeſts; he will be moſt ready to hear, and to help, to grant thee readily, what thou requireſt, Pſal.34.15,17. & 37.4. Chap.30.19. & 65.24.

Then ſhalt thou call, and the Lord ſhall anſwer] Or, Then when thou calleſt the Lord will (as after, he will ſay) anſwer; as Chap.44.14. & 53.2. anſwer; that is, grant thy requeſt; return thee, not a verbal, but a real anſwer; do what thou deſiredſt, Pſal.99.6. & 118.5.

thou ſhalt cry, &c.] Or, as before, when thou cryeſt, (being in danger, or diſtreſs Pſal.121.1.) he will ſay, Here I am. Heb. Lo I. See Chap.6. 8. & 65.1. I am ready at hand to help, relieve, and deliver thee, Pſal.46.1.

If thou take away from the midſt of thee, the yoke] If ye put from among you, thoſe grievous oppreſſions, before-mentioned, and whatſoever either looketh that way, or tendeth thereunto.

from the midſt of thee] from within thee, as ſome; as intending the reformation, as well of the heart within, as the alteration of the act without, Pſal.51.6. Chap.55.7. Jer.4.14. Jam.4. 8. Or, from thee, ſimply, as Chap.4.4. or, rather, from among you; (becauſe he ſpeaketh of the people, or State, as of a body, or a family, conſiſting of a multitude, though in the ſingular number, yet collectively, ver.1,2.) as Chap.37.12. and 40. 6.

the yoke] As before, ver.6.

the putting forth of the finger] Heb. to put forth the finger: as after, to ſpeak; the verb infinitive, for the noun. Hereby ſome underſtand the pointing with the finger, in way of ſcorn, and deriſion, at godly perſons, and Gods Prophets. Whither alſo they draw that, Prov. 6. 13. But that ſuits not ſo well here. Others would have it, to be a note of refuſal, or, a geſture, (intimating a denial) of putting of, or putting by, one, that ſeeks, and ſues to them for mercy, or remiſſion, and releaſe of ought. Others, the violent faſtning, and laying hold of one, to maim, or to miſchief him; as ſomewhat the like is frequent, in another term not far from it, 1 Sam.22.17. & 26. 11. Job 1.11. which place cometh neereſt to this notion. So they bring this home, to the fiſt, before-mentioned, verſ. 4. and they ſuppoſe it a geſture of one in a rage, if not attempting, yet threatning, with his finger, to dig out a mans eyes, againſt whom, he is ſo enraged. Others, laſtly, whom I concur with, conceive it to be a geſture, ſimply, of menacing; not by words ſo much, or in harſh terms; as by the hand, or finger, thruſt out only: as if he had ſaid, if thou put away, and forbear, not acts of violence, or threatning terms only, Eph.6.9, but even all expreſſions of that kind whatſoever.

and ſpeaking vanity] As Chap.59.4. that is, falſhood, ſay ſome; as Jer.9.4. (though the words there are other) whence this uſed for an idol, Chap. 66.3. iniquity, ſay others: but there is another word, very neer unto this, that doth properly ſo ſignifie: and albeit, this alſo be almoſt generally ſo rendred, in that form of ſpeech, ſo frequent, workers of iniquity; or, wrong-doers, Job 34.5,22. Pſal.5.5. & 6. 8. yet the word doth properly, and moſt commonly, ſignifie affliction, or vexation. See Chap.1.13. & 10.1. Job 4.8. & 5.6. Pſal. 73. 5. & 90.10. and iniquity, or wrong, only, as it procureth afflictions, and produceth vexation, and grievance to thoſe, that are wronged; for which the Chaldee therefore hath violence, here. I ſhould render the words, and ſpeaking (Heb. to ſpeak; as before, to put out) vexation, or grievance; or words of vexation, or grievance: as, thoughts of affliction, or vexation, Chap.59.7. that is, either harſh language, ſuch as may vex, and afflict others; ſuch as Nabals words were, 1 Sam.25.10,11. Prov.18. 23. Jam.5.3. or diſcourſe of ſuch kind of matter, talk concerning the wringing, and wronging of others; as Chap. 59. 13. Pſal.36.3. & 73.8. that which God would not have ſo much as once talked of, or once named, unleſſe with deteſtation, and diſgrace, among his people, Eph.5.3-5.

V. 10. And if thou draw out thy ſoul to the hungry, and ſatisfie the afflicted ſoul:] The Prophet returneth here again, to the works of mercy and charity, before required, ver.7.

And if] The conditionall ſupplyed from the former verſe; as Job 22.23. compared with Job 8. 6. Job 31. 9, 20. Howbeit, it ſeemeth not ſo needful here, as there; becauſe the copulative may carry it well enough on without; If thou take away the yoke, and draw out thy ſoul, &c.

draw out thy ſoul] Or, as moſt, after the old Latine, render it, pour out thy ſoul: a phraſe ſometime uſed (though with another word) of prayer, 1 Sam.1.15. Pſal.42.4. and it may ſeem to have a two-fold notion in it, of drawing out, and of pouring forth: as it is ſaid, 1 Sam.7.6. they drew water, and poured it out; and in the term of drawing out, is liberality and bounty intimated; for the word implies plenty, Pſal.144.13. in the term, ſoul, an inward affection, and diſpoſition, going along with, and accompanying the outward action of beneficence, as proceeding from benevolence, put, the one therefore, which the Jewiſh Doctors well obſerve, for the other: as Prov. 18. 22. So that it is, as if he had ſaid; If thou relieve thy poor brother, freely, liberally, cheerfully, cordially, compaſſionately, ſo as that thine heart go along with thy gift, Deut.15. 7-11. Pſal.37.21,26. & 112.5. 2 Cor.8.5,12. & 9.5,7.

and ſatisfie the afflicted ſoul:] Not relieve him in ſome ſcant and nigardly manner, with ſuch a poor pittance, as will ſcarce afford him any reliefe, and may rather enhance, then allay, his hunger; make him more ſenſible of his want, rather then ſatisfie and ſupply it; but afford that unto him, that may ſupply his neceſſity, and may ſatiate his ſoul: the afflicted ſoul, for, the afflicted perſon: but the word ſoul, maketh the ſpeech the more affectionate, and emphatical. So Pſal. 107. 5,9. Jer. 31. 14.

then ſhall thy light riſe in obſcurity, and thy darkneſſe be as the noon-day] Heb. then ſhall thy light ariſe (that is, light ſhall riſe to thee) in darkneſs, or in the dark, (as Pſal.112.4.) and thy miſt ſhall be as the noon-day. See Chap. 59. 9. Thine adverſity ſhall be turned into proſperity; and that in a very eminent degree, Job 11.17. Pſal.37.6. See before, ver.8.

V. 11. And the Lord ſhall guide thee continually]. Or, lead, or conduct thee: as Pſal.5.8. & 23,3. & 25.5. & 143.10. chap. 57.18. See ver.8. Yet ſome render it, after the old Latine, the Lord will make thee to reſt; as Chap.14.3. & 63.14. but the roots are divers.

and ſatisfie thy ſoul in drought] he will ſatisfie thy ſoul, Pſal. 103.5. as thou didſt ſatisfie the poor mans ſoul; that is, his deſire, by ſupplying his want, the cauſe of it, ver. 10. See Prov.11.25. in drought. Heb. in droughts; that is, in extremity of drought: for the plural uſually implies eminency, or extremity of ought, good, or evil. So, wiſedomes, Prov.1.20. & 8.1. underſtandings, Pſal.78.72. Prov.11.2. Chap.40.14. deaths, Chap.53.9. dearths, or, reſtraints; the ſame in effect with droughts here, Jer.14.1. He will afford thee a competency, and ſupply thee with a ſufficiency, in times of the greateſt dearth, and famine, Job.5.20. Pſal.33.19. & 34.9,10. & 37.19. a metaphor taken from plants, that are carefully watered, when rain faileth, by mans induſtry. See Chap. 17. 11. & 27.3. Howbeit, becauſe the word here uſed, cometh from a root, that ſignifies as well pure, cleer, and bright; as dryneſſe, and drought, Cant. 5.10. Chap.18.4. Lam.4.7. in regard that the one doth uſually accompany, and proceed from the other. Hence it is, that the old Latine renders the words, he will fill thy ſoul with brightneſſes; but that notion ſuiteth not here.

and make fat thy bones;] That is, according to this verſion, as ſome, he will fill thy bones with marrow, Job 21.24. Prov. 3.8. or, as others, make thy body fat, and in good plight, Prov. 11.25. & 28.25. bones, for, body, ſay they, conſiſting of them; as Pſal.35.16. & 141.7. but bones, more eſpecially; becauſe in beaſts thorowly fatted, there is much fat, not in the belly only, but about the bones too: and in this notion, do ours moſt commonly take it; as alſo doth the ancient Greek render it. Howbeit, the old Latine rendreth it, he will deliver, or, ſet free, thy bones: as alluding to the looſning of mens joynts, and their bodies, conſequently, out of bands, and fetters; and ſome of our lateſt Interpreters, he will make thy bones expedite; that is, nimble, and active; the word moſt generally ſignifieth to looſe, or, to ſet at liberty, Prov. 11. 8, 9. ſometime, to draw out, Lam.4.3. ſometime, to pull off ſhoes, or the like, Chap.20.2. ſometime, to put on armour, or harneſs, and make ready, and fit for fight, Numb. 32.17,20,32. The Jewiſh Criticks themſelves are much puzzled about it. Some go the ſame way that ours do, taking the word, in a notion of fatting: all the ground they give for it, is, becauſe they find that phraſe, Prov.15.30. a good hearing fatteth the bones; but there is no affinity between the term there uſed, and this, either in letters and ſound, or uſe elſewhere: and they add therefore, that this word hath in that notion no fellow. Yet ſome others of them conceive, that they have found a fellow for it; to which purpoſe, they would draw in a place of Job 36.15. where they ſuppoſe the word to be found in the ſame notion, in thoſe words, as they render them, he fatteth the afflicted in his affliction: but neither is the verb in the ſame form there, nor ſeems it there to carry that ſenſe. The moſt give the words otherwiſe, as, at firſt ſight, they ſound, he delivereth the afflicted in his affliction. Others of them produce a ſaying, out of their rituals, wherein it ſhould ſo ſignifie; but of the ſenſe of that ſaying, they ſeem to ſpeak ſomewhat doubtfully. Some ſay it is here in a notion of reſt: as if it were ſaid, he will make thy bones reſt; contrary to that, there is no reſt in my bones, Pſal.38.3. but of this uſe, they produce no precedent at all. Others, laſtly, render it, he will arme thy bones, or, ſtrengthen thy bones; according to that notion of fitting men for fight; ſo keep, and confirm them, that they ſhall not be broken, Pſal.34.20. the bones being, ſay they, as the foundation of the bulk of mans body. I ſhould moſt willingly go with the firſt, were there any good ground for that uſe of the word; becauſe it beſt ſuiteth with the metaphors, both before, and after: but that failing, I concur with this laſt, as moſt probable; becauſe it cometh neereſt of any to ſome, not unuſual, notion of the word, of addreſſing, and fitting men for military employments; or, if that ſeem ſomewhat too far fetcht, with that of the old Latine, concerning looſing, or ſetting free; as anſwering to their looſing of bands, and yokes, and letting their bounden ones go free, ver. 6. as if he had ſaid, God will ſet thee free, if thou ſet thoſe poor ſouls, thy brethren, free.

and thou ſhalt be like a watered garden] Or, a well-watered garden; for there is in the word, a notion of abundance, Pſal. 23.5. Chap.34.7. an emblem of a flouriſhing, and proſperous eſtate, Num.24.6. alluding to the garden of Eden, Gen. 3. 8-10. & 13.10. Ezek.31. 3-9. Cant.4.12-15. See Jer.17.8.

like a ſpring of water, whoſe waters fail not] Heb. do not ly, or deceive; as Hab.3.17. that runneth conſtantly all the year long; and is not dryed up, as ſome ſmall brooks, or winter-floods, in heat of ſummer, or droughts of any continuance, are, what time there is moſt need of them, 1 King.17.7. Job 6. 15,20. an emblem, not of flouriſhing for a time, but of conſtant proſperity. See Chap.33.16. Joh.4.14.

V. 12. And they that ſhall be of thee, ſhall build the old waſte places] Heb. The waſtes of antiquity: as Chap.61.4. thoſe that come of thee, ſhall re-edifie the ruinous places of Jeruſalem, and other cities of Judah, that have lien long waſte, Chap.49.8. & 51.3. See Neh. 3. Yet ſome would have it meant of people, repleniſhing the cities with Inhabitants, which are as fleſh and blood to them, being but as ſceletons, or dry bones without them: but the former is more familiar.

thou ſhalt raiſe the foundations of many Generations] Heb. raiſe, or ſettle, (as 2 Sam.7.25.) the foundations of age, and age; either build upon thoſe foundations, that have lien divers ages deſolate; or lay the foundation of ſuch buildings, as for many ages ſhall endure. See Chap.44.26. & 61.4. and thou ſhalt be called] That is, thou ſhalt be; as Chap.61. 6. Heb. it ſhall be called to thee: as Chap.48.8. & 62.2.

the repairer of the breach,] Or, the maker up of the breach, that God had made in the wall, or fence, of their City, and State, for their ſins, Chap.5.5. See Pſal. 106.23,29. Ezek. 22.30.

the reſtorer of pathes to dwell in] That is, the cleerer of thoſe wayes, by which men may return to thoſe places, where they are to inhabite, whereas they were formerly neglected, and diſuſed, and conſequently over-grown, either through want of people to travel, or of ſafety to travellers, Judg.5.6,7. Lam. 1.4. or, the returner of thoſe places, that were made paths of before, by the enemy paſſing to and fro over them, having ruined the buildings, and flatted the foundations of them, to be places for men to inhabit again. For they ſeem to ſtoop too low, that underſtand them of fencing their vineyard, and cleering the way to them; and they to ſhoot as wide, that render the words, The reſtorer of paths to the Sabbath: for though the words be in ſound ſomewhat like; yet they differ both in roots, points, and form.

V. 13. If thou turn away thy foot from the Sabbath,] This Some underſtand of the yearly Sabbath, or day of ſtricteſt reſt, in the ſolemn convention for humiliation and propitiation, Lev. 16. 31. & 23. 27-31. whereof, ſee on ver.3,4. Others, more largely, of the Weekly Sabbath; one ſpeciall commandement, as a principal, put for the reſt of thoſe, that concerned the religious Worſhip, and ſervice of God: as Ch. 56.2,4,6. Jer.17.21. and the words of the text are appliable to either.

turn away thy foot] The Jewiſh Doctors expound it, of walking abroad: But ours rather, of forbearing, and withdrawing their minds and affections, from ſuch ſtudies and employments upon that day, whereby the ſame might be polluted, or profaned, Ezek.22.26.

from doing thy pleaſure on mine holy day;] Heb. to do, or doing thy pleaſure, or will, or buſineſs (ſee on ver.3.) on my day of holineſs: the prepoſition ſupplyed from the fore-going branch; (ſee the like defect, Exod.19.12.) and expreſſed again afterward: and day of holineſs, for holy day; as, hill of holineſs, for holy hill, Chap.57.13.

and call the Sabbath a delight] That is, account it ſuch, or make it ſuch; or, as ſome, not amiſs render it, thy delight: the pronoun ſupplyed; as ver.7,13. by taking delight in the offices and holy duties of the day. See ver. 12. for the form of ſpeech; for the word, ver.14. So did the Servants of God, in former times, count the ſervices of God, in his houſe, on thoſe days, their chiefeſt delight, and the very life of their ſouls; lamenting and bemoaning themſelves, as even dead on the neſt, when they were debarred from, or deprived of, them; deſiring nothing more earneſtly, then free acceſs again to them, when they were reſtrained from them; and rejoycing in nothing, more affectionately, then in the enjoyment of them, when they had liberty ſo to do. See Pſal.27.4. & 36. 8. & 42.1,2,4. & 43.2-4. & 65.1-5. & 84. & 122.1,2. And that is the genuine meaning of the place, for whether Sabbath of the twain we take it. For it is but frivolous, that the Jewiſh Doctors expound it, of eating dainty and delightful meats; which, though on ſome feſtivals, was ſeaſonable, Neh.8.10. yet was not ſuitable to the afflicting Sabbath: and of as little worth is it, that in the word, call, here, ſome reference ſhould be to the ſolemn convocation, becauſe that word cometh from this of calling, Lev.23.3,27. Chap.1.13.

the holy of the Lord, honourable;] Or, and the Lords holy day honourable: ſo call, and account it, as well honourable, as delightful: For the word is to be underſtood in this clauſe alſo; as the like, ver.12. Heb. the Lords holineſs, for his day of holineſs; his holy day; as before: a defect of the noun regent; as Chap.17.5. to be ſupplyed from the words fore-going.

and ſhalt honour him] Or, it : To wit, his day: for the word will bear either: And we may be ſaid, as well, to honour God, or, to honour his day; as, to ſanctifie him, Chap.8.13. and, to ſanctifie his day, Exod.20.8. But here again our Jewiſh Maſters run their carnal way, telling us, that the Sabbath is to be honoured, by wearing good cloths, and having better diet upon that day: that which too many encline to them in, more regarding ſuch matters, then thoſe things, that do indeed concern the right honour of the day, contrary to that Apoſtolick rule, Rom.13.14. Beſides that on the Sabbaticall faſt here alſo intended, ſuch ſuits of apparel, as well as good cheer, would be very unſeaſonable, Exod.33.4,5.

not doing thine own ways,] Heb. from doing; that is, abſtaining, or refraining thy ſelf, as before, from doing thine own ways; that is, following thine own wicked works and courſes; as Chap.56.7.

nor finding thine own pleaſure,] Of this branch, ſee before, ver.3.

nor ſpeaking thine own words.] Heb. and (for, or; as Chap. 48.5.) to ſpeak, or ſpeaking a word, or ought; as Jer.26.2. thine own is ſupplyed from the former branches; as, firſt, 1 Tim.2. 13,14. Adam was not firſt deceived. Howſoever, by thy word, or words, are meant, ſuch words, or things, as were beforementioned, ver.9. and they were there forbidden, as too uſuall with them, even at ſuch times: For this place doth apparently anſwer to that; and the Chaldee therefore rendreth it, words of wrong, and oppreſſion; as the Jewiſh Doctors alſo expound the term there uſed, though roving another way themſelves. For as for thoſe two late learned Annotators; the one whereof, would have it rendred, a proud, inſolent, or lofty word; as he ſuppoſeth two other terms, that ſignifie a word to be taken, Job 15.13. & 20.29. And this the rather, becauſe the root it cometh of, hath ſometime ſuch a notion: Whereof, ſee on Chap.17.6,9. & 61.6. The other, would have the copulative taken in an adverſative notion, rendring the text, but ſpeaking the word, to wit, of God; I ſuppoſe that either of them goeth, therein, a way by himſelf, and that ſolitary, without company, for want of probability.

V. 14. Then ſhalt thou delight thy ſelf in the Lord;] This is ſometime required as a duty, Pſal.37.4. ſometime promiſed, as a reward. So Job 22.26. and ſo here. And it is, as if he had ſaid; If thou keepeſt the Lords day, forbearing thy wonted evill thoughts, and mindings, on it; and ſhalt diligently apply thy ſelf unto the duties of the day, therein employing thy ſelf, not as of neceſſity, and by conſtraint; but cheerfully, and with delight; thou ſhalt find in the Lord, not ſufficient onely, but abundant matter of ſuch delights, as ſhall miniſter a fulneſs of ſatisfaction unto thy ſoul, Pſal.36.8.& 37.11. Chap.55. 2.& 66.11. ſuch delights, as the ungodly man ſhall never enjoy, Job 27.10. Prov.14.10.

and I will cauſe thee to ride upon the high places of the earth,] To dwell aloft in places of ſecurity and ſafety, and to ride to and fro, there, at pleaſure. See Chap.33.16,17. The words ſeem to be taken from Moſes his Song, Deut. 32. 13. and to have ſome glance at the land of Judea, being much of it mountainous, Pſal.87.1. Chap.14,25.& 37.24. A paſſage from perſon to perſon; as Chap.57.10-12.

and feed thee with the heritage of Jacob, thy Father:] With the good things of the land of Canaan, given for an inheritance unto him, for his poſterity, Gen.28.13,14. Pſal.135.11, 12. a type of the heavenly inheritance. The Jewiſh Doctors here move a queſtion; why the Prophet ſhould rather ſay, Jacob thy Father, then Abraham thy Father: And divers anſwers, they give; as that Abraham kept no Sabbath, but Jacob did; and that Abraham had an Iſmael, as well as an Iſaac; and Iſaac an Eſau, as well as a Jacob; and they deſcant upon the promiſes made ſeverally to them, Gen. 13. 15. & 26.3.& 28. 13,14. But theſe are, the firſt unſound, and in part untrue; the laſt of them, curious and frivolous: Somewhat may be in the ſecond; whereof, ſee before on Chap.43.1.

for the mouth of the Lord hath ſpoken it.] See Chap.1.20. and 40. 5.

CHAP. LIX.

Verſ. 1. BEhold,] This Chapter, whether a continued diſcourſe with the former, as Some; or, an entire Sermon diſtinct, and divers from the former; yet conſiſteth of two principal parts, as that alſo did: The former, a relation of the grievous enormities of that people, as the main cauſe of thoſe calamities that lay heavy upon them, ver. 1-15. the latter, a prediction, and promiſe of deliverance to Gods faithfull afflicted ones, both from oppreſſions at home, and invaſions from abroad, ver.16-19. together with the continuance of ſpiritual favours unto them, by the Meſſias, here alſo foretold, and hereafter to be exhibited; wherewith the Prophet uſually concludeth his diſcourſes, as the complement of all outward mercies, and temporall deliverances, as tending thereunto, and being thereof types to them, ver.20,21.

Behold,] See Chap.42.1.& 58.3,4.

the Lords hand is not ſhortned that he cannot ſave] This may either have reference to the former part of the fore-going Chapter, where they complained of God, for not hearing, and regarding their faſtings and prayers, Chap. 58.3. as if he had ſaid, Ye complain of God, that he doth not hear and help you, as he had wont to do others of his in times paſt, Pſal. 22. 4,5.& 44.1-22. Chap.51.10. that deliverance is not wrought, and effected for you, ver.9,10. the fault is not in God, (who is ſtill the ſame, not ſubject to any defect, or default, Num. 11. 13. Mal.3.6.) but in your ſelves, and in your ſins, Jer. 5. 25. Lam.3.42,44. Or, it may back the latter part, and confirm the cloſe of it, as giving them aſſurance of the undoubted making good unto them, of all thoſe large and liberal bleſſings, there propounded upon their repentance, ſeemed they never ſo improbable, or incredible, in regard of their preſent low, and forlorn condition, Chap. 58.11,12,14. for that God was no leſs, either able, or willing, to hear, or help, then in former times he had been, did not their obſtinacy in ſin reſtrain him from the doing of either, Chap.50.1,2.

hand] His power; as Pſal.136.12.

is not ſhortned] Or, abbridged, or ſtreitned; as Mic.2.7.

that it cannot ſave] Heb. from ſaving; as Chap. 50. 2. and ſo after, from hearing. See on Chap.23.1.& 58.13.

neither his ear heavy] That is, deaf, or thick of hearing, as we uſe to ſay: ſo is the word uſed, being applyed to the ears, Chap.6.10. Zach.7.11. as it ſignifies, dim, when applyed to the eyes, Gen.48.10. dull, or hard, when to the heart, Exod.9.35.& 10. 1.

that it cannot hear.] Heb. from hearing, as before, from ſaving. See ver.2.

V. 2. But your iniquities have ſevered between you, and your God:] Heb. Have been, or are ſevering between you to between your God: a redundancy of ſpeech, ſomewhat like whereunto is found, Gen.1.4. between the light, and between the dark: and neerer to this, Gen.1. 6. between waters to waters; and. 17.8. between bloud to bloud, between ſuit to ſuit; or, ſtriſe to ſtriſe, and between ſtripe to ſtripe: But this is yet more redundant then either of thoſe forms, uſed, not improbably, to imply the great diſtance, that ſin makes between Man, and God: not in poſition of place; (for God is every where preſent, as well, with bad, as good, Pſal.139.7-12. Prov.15.3. Jer. 23.25. Amos 9.2,3. Act.17.28.) but in diſpoſition of mind, and affection of heart, Pſal.138.6. Prov.15.29. Chap.29.13. Jer. 12. 2.

and your ſins have hid his face from you] That is, have cauſed him, in anger, to withdraw his gracious preſence, and aſſiſtance from you, as refuſing to be ſeen of you, or to be ſpoken with, by you. See Deut.31.17. Pſal.10.1. Chap.54.8.& 57. 17. a defect of the pronoun; as Chap.53.3.

that he will not hear.] Or, not hear you: a defect of the pronoun; as Chap.1.15. Heb. from hearing; as ver.1. Or, from hearing you. So Zach.7.11,12. God ſerveth you, as ye ſerve him: Ye refuſe to hear him; and he refuſeth to hear you, Prov.1.24,28.& 28.9. Lam.3.42,44.

V. 3. For your hands are defiled with bloud, and your fingers with iniquity:] The Prophet that he may not be deemed to charge them, without good ground, and juſt cauſe; and the better to clear Gods juſtice, in thus eſtranging himſelf from them, doth at large relate, and in lively colours lay forth, their general injurious, mercileſs, and miſchievous carriages. Of this firſt branch, ſee Chap.1.15. Lam.4.14. 2 Chron.21.6. hands and fingers, are here the ſame, as lips and tongue, in the next branch: onely the one is added unto the other, to make the ſpeech the more emphatical.

your lips have ſpoken lies, your tongue hath muttered perverſneſs] Or, your lips ſpeak lies, and your tongue meditateth, or talketh of perverſneſs, or unrighteouſneſs; as it is rendred, Deut.25.16. or, iniquity; as Mic.3.10. where it is joyned with bloud. Your common practice, is, by falſe ſuggeſtions, and ſuborned depoſitions, to ſtrip men of their ſtates, and to bereave them of their lives, Pſal. 52.2-8. Prov. 14. 5. & 25. 18. Jer. 9. 3. See Chap.58.9.

muttered] So the word ſeemes ſometime to ſignifie. See on Chap.8.19. but moſt commonly to meditate; and ſo ſome here render it. Howbeit, becauſe meditation is not the proper work of the tongue, ſome conceive it, to be a complexive form of ſpeech; Your tongue uttereth premeditated iniquitie; and ſo it ſhould be like that, Pſal. 52. 2. Thy tongue deviſeth miſchiefs; that is, uttereth miſchievous plots, deviſed by thee. But the word here uſed, ſignifieth, as well, to talk, as to meditate; and to utter, as to mutter. So, My tongue ſhall ſpeak, or talk of thy righteouſneſs, and thy praiſe, Pſal.35.28.& 71.24. and, they ſpeak not thorow the throat, Pſal.115.7. It may well therefore be rendred; Your tongue talketh of iniquity: lips, and tongue; as Pſal.12.3,4.& 120.2.

V. 4. None calleth for juſtice; nor any pleadeth for truth:] All ſorts of people are given to vexation and oppreſſion; and no man endeavoureth to relieve and right the wronged, or to redreſs and remedy ought that is done amiſs: No man ſtands up for right or truth, againſt falſhood and wrong, ver. 15. Eccl.4.1. Jer.9.3. Theſe general terms, are not to be underſtood, exactly and abſolutely; but of the greateſt part, of the moſt: the better part being ſo geaſon, and ſo drownd in the generality, that they were not to be ſeen, they ſeemed as none. So Pſal.12.1.& 14.1,3. Chap.56.10.& 64.6,7. Jer.5.1.& 6.28. Mic.7.2,4.

pleadeth for truth:] Heb. is judged; that is, pleadeth in judgment; as Chap.66.16. Jer.2.35. & 25.31. or, is judged, is tryed (hath ſentence paſt in his cauſe, Pſal. 109.7. 1 Cor.6.1.) in truth; that is, truly, faithfully, uprightly; as 2 Chr.31.12,15. & 34.12. no man can have his cauſe juſtly decided.

they truſt in vanity,] Heb. truſting in vanity, or emptineſs. Of the phraſe, ſee on ver.13. Of the term rendred vanity, ſee on Chap.24.10.& 40.17,23. it is here uſed for deceit, fraud, and lies; becauſe they are things void, and empty of being, of ſoundneſs and ſubſiſtence, and ſo will prove in the end, unto all thoſe that truſt to them. See Chap.28.15,17,18.

and ſpeak lies] Heb. and ſpeaking (as before, truſting,) vanity, that is, lies; as Pſal.41.6.& 144.8,11. the ſame in effect, with the former. See Pſal.36.3.

they conceive miſchief, and bring forth iniquity.] Heb. conceiving, or going great with grievance, and bringing forth affliction, or vexation: they are continually contriving of ſome injurious and vexatious plot, or other, and never at reſt, as a woman going with child, untill by putting it in practice and execution, they be, at length, delivered of it. See the very like phraſes, Job 15.35. Pſal.7.14. and of the practice, Pſal.36.4. Prov.4.16. Mic.2.1.

they conceive] Heb. conceiving, or going great with, rather. See on Ch7.14. they are as much ſtreitned with it, as a woman neer her time; like Boaz, that could not be at reſt, until he had finiſhed the buſineſs that his heart was ſet upon, Ruth 3.18. and the manner of ſpeech is emphatical; for it is both deficient, and redundant: conceiving, for, conceiving they conceive; or, going great, for, going great they go great with; as alſo, Job 15.35. and here-after, ver.13. and, bringing forth, for, bringing forth they bring forth: and ſo before, truſting they truſt; and, ſpeaking they ſpeak; that is all they truſt to; and that is their whole continual talk: for theſe forms of reduplication whether expreſſed, or implyed, have much emphaſis in them: and it is as if it were ſaid; ſuch courſes as theſe, are their minds, tongues, and hands, continually taken up with; they are the conſtant employment of them. See further, on ver.13.

miſchief, and iniquity] Of theſe two terms, ſee on Chap.10.1.

V. 5. They hatch cockatrice egs] Or, as ſome, adders. See of the word, on Chap.11.8. They contrive, and bring forth miſchievous plots. Nothing proceedeth from them, or is produced by them, but what is poiſonful, and pernicious, Deut.32.32,33. Rom.3.13-16.

and weave the ſpiders web:] They contrive ſuch plots, as may entangle others, as the ſpiders web doth the fly, to their damage, and detriment, or to their utter undoing, and deſtruction, Pſal.10.9. Mic.7.2. Howbeit, Some expound it of the vanity of their wicked plots and projects; that in fine, they ſhall prove uneffectual, and unuſeful, no more helpful to them, or able to ſteed them, then a company of cobwebs. So Job 8.14,15. and hereafter, ver.6. and ſo it ſhould have reference to their confidence before-mentioned, ver.4. which maketh that notion here, not improbable. And yet can I not aſſent unto a late learned Writer, who therefore would have the former branch to be rendred, not, they hatch, but, they break ſuch egs: as alluding, not to egs, that fowls, or ſerpents, firſt lay, then ſit on, or brood, and ſo hatch, by cleaving of the ſhell, (which the word properly ſignifies) to bring forth their young; but to the uſual manner of thoſe, that having gathered fowls, or torteſes egs, Chap.10.14. do break them, to feed on; as if the Prophet ſhould ſay, of thoſe that maintain themſelves by rapine, and ſpoil, or fraud, and deceit, that they clothe themſelves with ſpiders cobwebs, and feed themſelves with vipers, or adders egs: the one frivolous ſtuff, that will do them no good; the other matter pernicious, that will do them much miſchief: but both the uſe of the word elſewhere, Chap.34.15. ſideth with the former expoſition: and this latter to me ſeems ſomewhat too far fetcht.

he that eateth of their egs dyeth] Not, he that eateth of the cockatrice, or adders egs, but he that eateth of their egs, compared to ſuch, whom the prophet here ſpeaketh of; yet not ſuch egs, as they feed on, but ſuch egs, as they hatch, wherewith to do others miſchief. Whoſoever eateth of their egs, that is, hath any commerce, or dealing with them; it proveth dangerous, yea, deadly to him. See ver.7. So I rather underſtand it, then with ſome other; of ſuch, as partake with them, in their miſchievous deſigns, Prov. 29.24. Chap.1.23. the poiſon of ſerpents is pernicious unto others, not to themſelves: though it be true, that wicked men drink both firſt, and moſt, of their own venome, their malice; and it will prove their own bane in the end, Pſal.34.21. but that ſeems not the drift of the Prophet in this place.

and that which is cruſhed, breaketh out into a viper] That is, ſay ſome, if any deſcry and diſcloſe their plots and purpoſes, they fly out upon him, as a viper, or ſome other ſuch like ſerpent, furniſhed with deadly poiſon, to work his deſtruction: or if one will be tampering with them, to make ſome triall of them, induced by the fair outſide of ſome ſpecious and friendly pretences, he ſhall meet with ſuch matter, as in the end he ſhall rue it; as if a man taking a ſerpents egg, for the egg of ſome fowl, that men uſually eat of, ſhould, upon the breaking of it, light on that, which he leaſt of all looked for: or, as others, if a man fall into dealing with them unawares, it ſhall be with him, as by one that treadeth, by chance, on the egg of ſome ſerpent, which being cruſhed, a young one ſprings out of it in his face. The meaning ſeems to be, which way ſoever we take it, that there is no ſafe dealing any way with them. Nor is it improbable, that ſome would have, who in theſe words, ſuppoſe a reaſon to be rendred of the former branch, thus rendring the words, for that which is cruſhed, or broken, to feed on, breaks out into a viper; where a man made account to find ſome wholſome, and toothſome meat, when he hath broken the ſhell, he is entertained with a viper: the copulative, for the cauſal, we had oft before, Chap.40.26. & 52.15. & 53.2. Leſſe to me probable ſeems to be, what ſome others of no ſmall note exhibit; one reading the words, if any diſperſe them, a viper breaketh out: another, it is with him, that is but ſprinkled with them, as if a viper had ſprung out, and faſtened upon him, as on Paul, Act.28.3. as if it were ſaid, the leaſt aſperſion of them, or drop from them, is not perilous only, but even pernicious. This variety of verſions hence ariſeth, for that in Hebrew, verbs, though of divers formes, yet in letters much alike, are oft, in uſe and notion, confounded the one with the other. I encline moſt to the laſt of the firſt; becauſe I find the very ſame word that here is uſed for compreſſion, or cruſhing, Chap.1.6. and again, for cruſhing, or breaking of egs, by treading on them with the foot, Job 39.15. Which yet I ſuppoſe him to have roaved far from the true meaning of, who ſo rendring the text, expoundeth the words; as if it were ſaid, he that can cruſh their plots in the egg, or the ſhell, is ſafe enough; for the ſnake, or ſerpent, will then be gone: ſo it ſhould be ſomewhat like that, Pſal.137.9. as alſo that other learned man, who by alteration of a vowel, making it an active participle, readeth the words, if one ſcatter them; that is, refuſing to eat of them, caſt them away, and ſo break them: for the like uſe of the participle pointing us to Pſal.141.7. 1 Sam.2.13. 2 Sam.14.10. & 19.8. 2 King.7.2. The text ſeemeth to look a far other way, then either of them drives to.

a viper] Thus the moſt. Yet the ancient Greek, & the old Latine, render it, a baſiliſk, the one; and a regulus, the other; by a name anſwerable to the former, which we commonly call, a cockatrice: the former, they ſtyle an aſp. The Jewiſh Doctors tell us only, that it is a kind of hurtful ſerpent; and ſome of them, would have this, and the fore-mentioned, to be one and the ſame; but of that, there ſeems no probability: it ſeems to be a ſerpent, that was rife in the ſoutherly waſtes, bordering upon them, Chap.30.6. and ſuch an one as had a venomous tongue, Job 20.16. yet not like to be a viper; becauſe albeit Pliny, l.10. c.62. rank the viper among thoſe that lay eggs; Yet Ariſtotle (with whom the moſt, and beſt Writers accord, and whoſe words Pliny ſeems to have miſtaken,) avoweth more then once, that of all ſerpents, the viper alone, layeth no egg, but brings forth young ones; as alſo the dolphin, or porpes, ſeal, whale, and ſome other fiſh, do, (ſee his hiſtory of living wights, l.1. c.6. l.3. c.1. l.5. c.34.) whence alſo in Latine it is deemed to have its name, vipera, as viuipera; not, as ſome fable, from a forcible delivery. Some other ſerpent therefore it muſt be, to which the Prophet here alludeth.

V. 6. Their webs ſhall not become garments; neither ſhall they cover themſelves with their works:] Their devices, plots, and practices, though they may hurt and miſchieve others, yet they ſhall not help, or avail themſelves; all the good, or gain they get, and gather by them, ſhall ſtand them in no ſtead, they ſhall not be able to ſhelter them againſt Gods wrath, no more then a coat of cobweb is able to ſhelter him, that wears it, againſt a fierce ſhower of hail, or a thick volley of hail-ſhot. See Chap.28.15,18,20. & 30.12,14. they ſhall all prove, in concluſion, as cobwebs to themſelves, for any ſuccour, or benefit, that they ſhall receive from them, or reap by them. See Job 8.14. Prov.10.2. & 11.4.

their works are works of iniquity; and the act of violence is in their hands.] Or, their works are works of vexation, (and grievance; as ver.3.) and the practice of violence is in their hands; that is, their whole employment is no other then a continued practice of vexation, and oppreſſion. See ver.3,4. for they ſtrain the text unreaſonably, who by work, or act, would underſtand here, the work of puniſhment inflicted upon themſelves, for their wrongful, and violent dealing; as violence, for the juſt reward of it, Pſal.7.16.

V. 7. Their feet run unto evil, and they make haſte to ſhed innocent blood] So Prov.1.16. Jer.22.17. Rom.3.15.

their thoughts are thoughts of iniquity] Or, vexation: as, works of vexation, ver.6. vexatious thoughts, and vexatious works; ſuch contrivances, and courſes, as tend wholly to the vexation, and wrong, and ruine of others. See Chap. 55. 7.

waſting, and deſtruction, are in their pathes] Or, devaſtation and deſtruction, (Chap. 60.19. Heb. breaking; as Chap.1.28.) are in their cauſeys, Chap.7.3. & 33.8. See Rom.3.16.

V. 8. The way of peace they know not] They are ſtrangers unto, and utterly unacquainted with, any quiet, or peaceable carriage; or nothing of that nature pleaſeth them, or is entertained by them, that tendeth to the proſperity and welfare of others. See Rom.3.17.

and there is no judgment in their goings] Or, tracts: (for it ſignifies properly the tract, that a cart-wheel makes, 1 Sam.17. 20.) no regard of equity, or right, in their courſes: judgement, for, right: as Chap.56.1.

they have made them crooked paths] Heb. they pervert their paths to them. So Prov.10. 9. & 28. 18. oppoſed there to ſuch as walk uprightly: and an elegant redundancy in that form, to them; like that, Jer. 23. 12. their way ſhall be to them.

whoſoever goeth therein, ſhall not know peace] He that treadeth their tracks, ſhall never attain to any true proſperity, or welfare, to any ſound peace, Chap.48.22. & 57. 21. ſhall not know it; that is, not have it: as 2 Cor.5.21. to know, for, to attain, poſſeſſe, enjoy: as, to ſee good, is, to enjoy it, Pſal. 34. 12. to ſee life; to live, Joh.3.36. and, ſo, to know good, and evil; whence the tree, inhibited, had its name, Gen.3.16,17. to know either experimentally; to have experience, as well of the one, as of the other, in ones ſelf: and, to know Chriſt, and the power of his reſurrection, and the communion, of his ſufferings, Phil. 3.10. that is, to have, and enjoy him, together with the fruit, and efficacy of either: but it is a phraſe very emphatical; they ſhall not ſo much as once know it, not ſo much as once know what it meaneth, Rev.2.17. See the like, Joh. 3. 3,5. 1 Joh.3.4.

V. 9. Therefore is judgment far from us; neither doth juſtice overtake us] The Prophet having, at large, deſcribed the general, and horrible depravation of the people of God, in thoſe times, doth here begin to apply, what he had hitherto related, concerning the ſame, to the ſtopping of the mouthes of thoſe hypocritical murmurers, who had before complained, that notwithſtanding their frequent faſts and ſuits, and ſolemn ſeekings unto God, yet their prayers had not prevailed with him, for the delivery of them out of their preſent difficulties, and diſtreſſes. For this cauſe, ſaith he, that is, for theſe your vile, and deteſtable courſes is it, that God ſtands aloof off from you, and neither executeth judgment for you, upon your enemies, nor protects you, againſt their wrongs; he ſtandeth by, and permitteth them to deal with you, as ye deal your ſelves one with another, Hab.1.13-17. judgement, put, as frequently, for vengeance, or righting perſons wronged, by juſtice done upon the wrong-doer, Num.33.4. Chap.1.27. Ezek.14. 21. & 16.38,41.

we wait for light, but behold obſcurity; for brightneſſe, but we walk in darkneſſe] We expect deliverance out of our troubles, but they rather encreaſe with us. Of the uſe of the words, light, and darkneſſe, ſee Eſt.8.17. Pſal.112.4. Chap.58. 8, 10. Of expectations, in the like manner fruſtrated, Jer. 8.15. & 14.19.

but behold obſcurity] Heb. and (as Chap.57.20.) behold (ſee how croſſe, and contrary to our expectation, things fall out; as Gen.29.25.) darkneſſe; as Chap.5.20. & 8.22.

for brightneſſe] Heb. brightneſſes; that is, brightneſſe in abundance: (ſee on Chap.58.11.) we look for, (to be ſupplyed from the former branch: as Jer.8.15.) and the more is expected, the more grievous is its failing.

we walk in darkneſſe] Heb. in miſts, for, in an extream thick miſt, or fog; correſpondent to the brightneſs that they expected, and hoped to have had: darkneſſe, like that in Egypt, called, a darkneſs of miſt, for, a miſty darkneſs: or, a thick miſt, Exod.10.22. or, a miſt of God, for, a moſt extream thick miſt, Jer. 2.31. Their preſent condition is reſembled, by a man walking, or wandring, rather, in ſome place full of dangers, environed on either ſide with an extream thick miſt, able from no part to deſcry any the leaſt glimpſe of light; and being at his wits end therefore, as not knowing which way to take. See Chap.8.21,22. & 50.10. & 58.10. Jer.13.16. 1 Joh. 2. 11.

V. 10. We grope for the wall like the blind; and we grope, as if we had no eyes:] Or, we grope, I ſay; as Chap.49.6. & 55.1. ver.17. For the latter is, in effect, and meaning, the very ſame with the former. We are as blind men, who wanting eyes, uſe their hands inſtead of their eyes, Act.17.27. We are wholly deſtitute of counſel, and can find no iſſue, out of our calamitous condition. So Deut. 28. 29. Job 5.14. & 12. 25. Lam.4.14. Zeph.1.17.

we ſtumble at noon day, as in the night] Heb. evening, or twilight, Prov.7.9. put for the night, Chap.5.11. for, darkneſſe, Jer.13.16. noon-day is no other with us, then as midnight. See Amos 8.9. a proverbial ſpeech it is, both with Greeks, and Latines, to ſtumble at noon-day; uſed here of people, no where ſafe; but ready to miſcarry, and fall into miſchief, even where leaſt danger might be, either expected, or ſuſpected, Joh.11. 9, 10.

we are in deſolate places; as dead men.] The word here uſed is no where elſe read; that is one cauſe that maketh it the more ambiguous. A ſecond, becauſe queſtion is, whether the firſt, or the laſt letter of it, be radical. A third, becauſe of the confuſion of forms, that in ſound of letters, ſeem neer the ſame. The moſt render it, deſolate. They that ſo do, deduce it from a word, that primarily, and moſt commonly, hath a notion of guilt in it; Yet ſometime of deſolation; as Ezek. 6. 6. Hoſ.13.16. Joel 1. 18. becauſe it comes neer in ſound to one that, properly, ſo ſignifies. Howbeit, thoſe that thus render it, do not all underſtand it alike: For, ſome of them take it ſimply, as it ſounds, that their lands were laid waſt and deſolate, by hoſtile invaſions and incurſions, Chap. 1.7. Others, as an emblem onely of a ſad and rufull condition; like people abandoned, unto ſuch places of abode, Pſal.44.19. & 68.6. Jer.17.6. Others, conceive meant by it, graves, or ſepulcres; ſo the Chaldee, and divers of the Jewiſh Doctors, becauſe the grave, ſay they, is a place of deſolation: Though ſome go further, conceiving that not graves, or ſepulcres, barely, or ſimply, are hereby meant, ſuch as are newly delved, or built; but ſuch as have been deſerted and abandoned; ſo that the bodies laid in them, are now putrified and diſſolved. And to add ſtrength to this conceit, ſome have recourſe to the ordinary ſignification of the root, and render it, places condemnable, or abominable; fetching hither that of our Saviour, Mat.23.27. And theſe expound the words, as if it were ſaid, we are even like dead-men, laid up in our graves, and there in a manner clean diſſolved, or dryed up. And ſo indeed is depth of calamity and miſery, joyned with deſpair eſpecially, in Scripture oft deſcribed, Pſal.22.15. & 88.4 6. Chap.26.19. Ezek.37. 11, 12. and the ſtyle of dead men ſeems to intimate ſomewhat the like here. And yet we need not ſtrain the other word ſo far: It is enough, that he reſembleth them to dead corpſes caſt out, and lying unburied on ſome Waſte, as thoſe, Ezek. 37. 1,2. But others render the word, dark, or miſty-places: So the old Latine, and ſome of the Jewiſh Writers before. And of dark places, we had mention before, ver. 9. See Pſal.74. 20. & 88. 6. But theſe ſhew us not, how the word ſhould come ſo to ſignifie: No more do thoſe, who on the other hand, would have it to ſignifie, the day-light, that it may anſwer to noon-day, before-mentioned; as if it were ſaid, like men dead in the day, that have no uſe, or joy at all, of the day-light, as the living have, Eccl.11. 7. becauſe no benefit at all thereby. Which, howſoever they might either of them fit well with the tenour of the Prophets ſpeech; yet untill it may be ſhewed, what ground there is, of giving the word ſuch a notion, we have little reaſon to admit. Others, fetch it from a root, that ſignifieth fatneſs: and theſe again run two various ways; the one, partly (ſo ſome of the Rabbines) underſtanding it of perſons: we are as dead men, ſay they, amongſt the fat; that is, thoſe that are alive, in good health and plight: meaning the Gentiles, among whom, in captivity, they lived but a kind of liveleſs life, Lev. 26.38,39. Deut.28. 65-67. Ezek.36.11. The other party, (and ſo ſome of ours) expounding it, of places, or eſtates: Theſe render it, in fatneſſes; (and a word very neer it, is uſed for fatneſſes, Gen.27. 28,29. and for fat places, Dan.11.24.) as if he had ſaid, amidſt abundance of plenty, and outward means, yet we are as men dead on the neſt; we have no joy, or comfort, of ought that we have, by reaſon of our calamities otherwiſe, Job 20.22. Ch. 24.9. See Eccl.5.17. & 6.2,3. The firſt, or ſecond; and of thoſe two, the latter, to me, ſeems moſt probable of any.

V. 11. We roar all like bears, and mourn ſore like doves;] All that we can do, is but to lament and bemoan our calamitous condition, either in an higher ſtrain, by roaring like beaſts; or, in a lower tone, by mourning as doves. See Pſal. 22.1. & 32.3. & 38.8 Hoſ.7.14.

roar] The word is uſed of dogs, Pſal.59.6,14. and one very neer it, if not the ſame, of lions, Prov.28.15. Chap.5.29. and of men alſo vexed within themſelves, and by outward lamentation, expreſſing their inward indignation, and hearts grief, Prov.5.11.

mourn ſore] Heb. mourning mourn. Of the word, ſee Chap. 38. 14.

like doves] That make a mournfull ſound, Chap. 38. 14. Ezek. 7. 16.

we look for judgment, but there is none; for ſalvation, but it is far off from us.] See before, on ver. 9. Jer. 8. 15.

V. 12. For our tranſgreſſions are multiplied before thee;] In thy ſight, provoking thee to wrath and indignation againſt us, Pſal. 51. 4. & 90. 8. Ezr. 9. 14. the reaſon, why God, and his ayd, are ſo far from us, ver. 2.

and our ſins teſtifie againſt us;] Heb. anſwer, each of them, againſt us; (for the verb is ſingular, the noun plural, as Ch. 26. 19.) as witneſſes produced, one by one, and examined upon interrogatories, do anſwer, and give in evidence, againſt the party, called in queſtion. So Exod. 20. 16. See Chap. 3. 9. Jer. 14. 7.

for our tranſgreſſions are with us;] We cannot, poſſibly, either ſhun, or ſhift, them of, they ſtrike ſo cloſe to us, Gen. 4. 7. Pſal. 32. 3, 4. & 38. 4. & 51. 3. Jer. 2. 22, 23.

and as for our iniquities we know them.] Heb. and our iniquities we know them: a very uſuall redundancy of ſpeech, in that language. See the like, Job 3. 8. Chap. 8. 13. & 45. 9. & 48. 6. Mat. 21. 41. we acknowledge them; we cannot but confeſs them, Pſal. 51. 3. Jer. 3. 13. It is either a ſerious and ſevere profeſſion of the notoriouſneſs of them, as being ſuch as could not be concealed; as Chap. 64. 6. or an humble confeſſion and acknowledgment of them, as in the perſon of the Church; as Jer. 14. 20. the Prophet, not exempting himſelf from that politick body, whereof, with the reſt, he was a member; but including himſelf among the reſt, though not as guilty of their ſins, yet taking them to heart, as well as his own; and being affected with them, as if they had been his own. So Moſes, Exod. 34. 9. and Daniel, Dan. 9. 5, 6, 13.

V. 13. In tranſgreſſing, and lying againſt the Lord, and departing away from our God:] The Prophet paſſeth on to a more particular, and diſtinct enumeration of thoſe ſinful courſes, that he had pointed at in the lump, ver. 12. The words run all along in an infinitive form; but they are to be expreſſed in the indicative: Otherwiſe, the tenour of the Prophets diſcourſe will not run eaven: And there is in the phraſe, or form of ſpeech, a deficiency, thus to be ſupplyed. We rebelling rebell; and dealing diſloyally, deal diſloyally with the Lord, and departing depart away from our God; that is, we do exceedingly rebell, and deal exceeding unfaithfully with the Lord, and depart exceedingly from our God. See the like, (where the tenour being interrupted, doth more fully confirm it) Dan. 9. 5. We have ſinned, and done unjuſtly, and dealt wickedly, and rebelled, and departing departed from thy precepts. And again, ver. 11. Yea, all Iſrael have tranſgreſſed thy Law, and turning aſide have turned aſide, that they might not hearken to thy voice. The like ſyntax we had before, ver. 4. And hereafter again, in the latter part of this verſe. I am not ignorant, that ſome Interpreters, of prime note, whom ours ſeem to follow, retaining the verb infinitive onely, carry the text on in a continued frame, from the foregoing verſe, thus; We acknowledge our ſins; to wit, that we treſpaſs and lie, &c. And this, in Latine, indeed, runs very ſmooth: But the former is more conſonant to the Hebrew idiom. See alſo the like, Eccl. 9. 11. Chap. 43. 8. Jer. 6. 11. & 14. 5. Ezek. 1. 14.

treſpaſſing] Or, rebelling; as Chap. 1. 3.

lying] Or, dealing diſloyally; as Chap. 57. 11. and 63. 8.

departing away] Or, removing our ſelves; as Deut. 27. 17. Hoſ. 5. 10. or, turning backward; as ver. 14.

from our God] Heb. from after; that is, from walking after him; or, following him; as Pſal. 78. 71. Hoſ. 1. 2. Amos 7. 15. Zeph. 1. 6. So, to come after, for, to follow, Mat. 16. 24. the Lord, and our God, as Chap. 56. 7.

ſpeaking oppreſſion, and revolt;] Or, talking, we talk of oppreſſion and apoſtaſie. See Chap. 59. 9. ver. 4. Deut. 13. 5. Jer. 29. 32. theſe things are the main matter of moſt mens talk; apoſtaſie from God, and oppreſſion of their brethren.

conceiving, and uttering from the heart words of falſhood] We do nothing but conceive, or contrive in our hearts, (for that is the forge wherein all this miſchievous matter is framed, and from whence it is produced, Chap. 10. 12. & 32. 6. Mat. 15. 19. & 12. 34, 35.) and utter, or bring forth from our hearts (for in ſuch things alone are we cordial) words, or matters (as Jer. 7. 4, 8, 22.) of falſhood, things fraudulent and deceitful. See on ver. 3, 4. There is an elegancy in the words, which our Engliſh cannot expreſs.

V. 14. And judgment is turned away backward, and juſtice ſtandeth afar of:] There is no regard had of right, or wrong, in places of Judicature; cauſes are carryed the contrary way; and Juſtice is exiled from Court and Bench, Eccl. 3. 16. and no marvel then if God deny it unto us, who have no regard to practice it our ſelves, ver. 9, 11.

for] Or, becauſe; as Chap. 48. 8. Jer. 3. 21.

truth is fallen in the ſtreet,] Truth for want of ſupport, or being over-born with falſhood, falleth to the ground, and miſcarryeth in the publike, where cauſes are heard and tryed, Job 29. 7. Pſal. 55. 11.

and equity cannot enter.] As Chap. 23. 1. & 24. 10. or, cannot go, or paſs, as Gen. 10. 19, 30. it cannot find entrance, being ſhut out by violence, and not ſuffered to come in: Or, if it be, for faſhion ſake, admitted to ſome hearing, yet is not able to paſs, or obtain any good iſſue: the ſame in ſubſtance with the former. See Hab. 1. 4.

V. 15. Yea, truth faileth:] Heb. And; as Chap. 55. 1. All regard of truth, either in publike, or private, is gone, Hoſ. 4. 1.

and he that departeth from evill, maketh himſelf a prey,] He that will not do as others, maketh himſelf a prey to others; He cannot be ſafe, that will not be wicked: a man gaineth nothing, by living harmleſly, but to be made a prey and ſpoyl to wicked ones, Pſal. 38. 20. Hab. 1. 13. 1 Joh. 3. 12. So is the word uſed, Pſal. 76. 5. Some of the Jewiſh Criticks, whom alſo ſome of our great ones follow, render it, is accounted a mad man, or, cauſeth himſelf to be counted a mad man; as was Eliſhaes miniſter, 2 King. 9. 11. and as the wicked are ſaid to have deemed the devout, Wiſdom 5. 4. but they produce no cleer place, where the word is ſo uſed: for that, Job 1. 12, 17. is another word; and that Mic. 1. 8. as the other alſo there, of another notion. Nor is it needfull here to fly to any uncouth phraſe, in that language; as to ſay, a man deſpoiled, to wit, of his wits; for, a mad-man, (though in Latine the form be not unuſuall; but with them, then full) when the text will well admit the word, in its ordinary notion.

And the Lord ſaw it, and it diſpleaſed him, that there was no judgment.] Or, And this, or theſe things, the Lord ſeeth; and it is diſpleaſing to him, (Heb. it was, or, is evill in his eyes; as 2 Sam. 11. 27.) that there is no judgment; This it is, that incenſeth Gods wrath ſo againſt us, Pſal. 10. 14. Lam. 3. 36.

V. 16. And he ſaw that there was no man, and wondred that there was no Interceſſour:] Or, Interpoſer; as Job 36. 32. none that would ſtand up, and endeavour to ſet things, in better order, by ſpeaking, and beſtirring himſelf, in the behalf of truth and right, ver. 4. Chap. 63. 5. So rather, then, as ſome other, following the Chaldee, none to intercede with God, in behalf of his people, Chap. 64. 7. Ezek. 13. 5. & 22. 30. Some ſupply here from the former verſe, It diſpleaſed him, to ſee that there was no man; that is, no helper; as Chap. 63. 5. Or, no interpoſer; as afterward, which he wondred to behold.

wondred] Not that God wondreth (to ſpeak properly) at ought: but it is ſpoken in an humane ſtrain, to ſhew the ſtrangeneſs of the thing; that ſo great, grievous, and general a corruption, ſhould be found among thoſe that were Gods own peculiar people, having had, from time to time, ſuch conſtant courſes taken with them, for the better information, and inſtitution of them, which other Nations abroad had not, Deut. 4. 7, 8. Pſal. 147. 19, 20. And hence therefore the Apoſtle concludeth the univerſal depravation of mankind, in his natural condition; becauſe it was found ſo extream, and in ſuch extremity, ſo common alſo, even amongſt thoſe, that had the beſt means to make them better, Rom. 3. 9-19. And ſome read the words, in a continued tract, either in the preſent, or the future. Since that God therefore ſeeth, or, When God ſhall ſee that there is none (that will ſtir hand, or tongue, to help) and he wondreth, or ſhall wonder, that none interpoſeth, his arm ſhall ſave for him, and his righteouſneſs it ſhall ſuſtain him; as foretelling, what God, at length, will do, for the relief, and deliverance, of his people, when all humane helps fail them. The like manner of ſyntax, ſee Chap. 30. 20. and 35. 4. and 37. 9, 36. & 44. 14. & 53. 2. and the reading is very probable.

therefore his arm brought ſalvation unto him;] Heb. and his arm ſaved him, or, ſhall ſave him, or, ſave for him. Either his own power did ſuſtain, and ſave his people, Chap. 51. 5. the pious, that were a prey to the reſt, ver. 15. or, he did the work alone himſelf, without the aſſiſtance of any other, or uſe of other means. See Chap. 63. 1, 3, 5. arm, for, power; as Chap. 53. 1. and, to ſave, for, to bring ſalvation to one; or, to work ſalvation, that is, deliverance, for one, Jer. 11. 12. Ezek. 44. 22. and Pſal. 98. 1. his right hand, and his holy arm, hath ſaved him, or, ſaved for him; (and the like form is, Judg. 7. 2. Pſal. 44. 3.) which our verſion there rendreth, hath gotten him the victory: but it may well be here rendred; and ſo Chap. 63. 5. his arm avenged him, or took vengeance for him; or, it ſhall avenge him, or, take vengeance for him; according to that, verſe 18. for it is aright rendred, 1 Sam. 25. 26, 33. from ſaving for thy ſelf; that is, from avenging thy ſelf, (as our verſion hath it) or, from taking vengeance for thy ſelf, with thine own hand. For as for that which a learned man obſerveth, that the word of ſaving, in this ſyntax, ſignifies to help; alledging to that purpoſe, Deut. 22. 27. & Prov. 20. 22. it is not general; and ſome of thoſe places pointed to, if not thoſe two alſo ſeem to go further. But let it be conſidered, whither this to, him, or, to him, be not here a meer elegant redundancy; as the like alſo, Ch. 40.10. his arm brought him ſalvation, that is, his arm brought ſalvation. See the like, Chap. 31.8. he ſhall flee him, for, he ſhall flee, as alſo, Hoſh.8.9. Amos 2. 13.

and his righteouſneſs it ſuſtained him.] By righteouſneſs, ſome underſtand his mercy, and goodneſs, to his poor oppreſſed ones, Chap. 54.14. & 56.1. But I conceive rather, that by it, is underſtood the juſtice, that he will do for them, upon their oppreſſours; becauſe what is here termed his righteouſneſs, is the ſame called, his wrath, Chap. 63.5. All this, ſome expound of ſpiritual deliverance by Chriſt. Others, whom I rather concur with, of temporal, from ver. 16-19. of ſpiritual, ver. 20, 21.

V. 17. For he put on righteouſneſs, as a breaſt-plate, and an helmet of ſalvation upon his head.] The Prophet here deſcribes God, as a man of arms, putting on his armour, and fitting himſelf for the performance of ſome notable exploit. The meaning is, that God wil ſo conſpicuouſly ſhew his almighty power, juſtice, regard of his own glory, and tender affection to the welfare of his people, in the deliverance of them, and in the deſtruction of their enemies, that they ſhould as evidently appear, and be ſeen in them, as goodly rayment, or gliſtering armour, is on the back of one that weareth it, Pſal. 93.1. & 94. 1. & 98.2.

For] Heb. And: and ſo Chap. 52.15. & 53. 2. yet it may well enough ſtand in his native ſenſe here.

he put on] Or, he will put on.

righteouſneſſe as a breſt-plate] So Eph. 6.14. Yet ſee here, ver. 16.

an helmet of ſalvation] Eph. 6.17. 1 Theſſ. 5.8. though theſe are to be underſtood far otherwiſe of God, then of us; yet unto theſe terms the Apoſtle ſeems to allude there.

and he put on the garments of vengeance for a clothing, and was clad with zeal as a cloak] Or, he will, I ſay (as Chap. 58. 10. ver. 10.) will put on; and, will clothe himſelf. See before. Of the word here rendred, cloak, ſee on Chap. 61.10.

V. 18. According to their deeds, accordingly he will repay fury to his adverſaries, recompenſe to his enemies] Heb. According to retributions, according to them, will he repay wrath to his adverſaries, &c. retributions, for, deeds, or deſerts: as Judg. 9. 16. 2 Chr. 32.25. and a defect of the pronoun; as Chap. 52. 8. He will take vengeance upon the enemies of his people, for all the wrongs that they have done unto them. See chap. 34.8. & 63.6. The like trajection to this here is obſerved, Chap. 52.6. Howbeit, the word may be taken in its proper ſenſe, and the text thus rendred, As in retributions, (or, in way of large retribution, ſee of ſuch plurals, on ver. 9. Chap. 58. 11.) as in ſuch, I ſay, (the repetition maketh the ſentence more vigorous, as Chap. 8.13. & 48.6.) he will repay, &c. the like uſe of the particle, ſee Pſal. 119.14. Or, as the Jewiſh Doctors expound it, and the points ſeem to favour it; As in retributions (he hath done formerly) he hath repaid, (to wit, unto Pharaoh, and others the enemies of his people) ſo in retribution he will now again repay; repay, I ſay, he will wrath to his adverſaries, retribution to his enemies, retribution to the Ilands: or, reſerving the latter verb, as in the text it lyeth, to the laſt, wrath to his adverſaries, retribution to his enemies, retribution to the Ilands he will repay. Somewhat is ſupplyed in the firſt member from the ſecond, in the ſecond from the firſt; as Pſal. 1.6. Chap. 13. 13. & 30.17. & 60. 13, 19. and this ſeems to be the genuine both ſenſe and ſyntax of the place.

to the Ilands he will repay recompenſe] To thoſe of them, that live in divers Countries, either maritine parts, or beyond the ſeas. See Chap. 41. & 49.1. & 66.6.

V. 19. So ſhall they fear the name of the Lord, from the Weſt, and his glory from the riſing of the Sun] Heb. And (as Chap. 41. 7.) or, Then (as Chap. 36.3.) ſhall they fear the name of the Lord (that is, the name of the Lord ſhall be feared: as Chap. 57. 14. from the evening coaſt: as Chap. 45.6. Gods name, and his glory, by occaſion of this his marvellous work, in the deliverance of his people, and in executing of vengeance upon their oppreſſors, ſhall make him renowned thorowout the whole world. See the like expreſſions, Pſal. 113. 3. Mal. 1. 11.

when the enemy ſhall come in like a flood, the Spirit of the Lord ſhall lift up a ſtandard againſt him] This paſſage is exceedingly vexed and tortured, by variety of enforced ſtrains: the moſt whereof therefore forbearing to mention, I ſhall pitch upon thoſe only, that the text may, with ſome good probability, admit. Some underſtand the words of a violent irruption made by the enemies, or adverſaries of Gods people, in, or upon them, together with Gods oppoſition made againſt them, and defeating of them. To which purpoſe maketh that, which our verſion hath admitted into the Text, and is by many Authors approved; when the enemy, or adverſary, (as the word is moſt commonly rendred, and ſo was, ver. 18.) ſhall come in like a flood, (as forraign forces are not unuſually in Scripture ſaid to do, Chap. 18.2, 7. Jer. 46.7, 8. Amos 8. 8. & 9.5. implying, that the enemies force and fury ſhould be great, and the danger from them no leſs grievous. See Chap. 8.7, 8. Pſal. 124.4. Rev. 12. 15.) the Spirit of the Lord ſhall lift up a ſtandard againſt him: that is, ſhall raiſe, or lead forces, againſt them; as the word ſeems ſometime to import, Pſal. 60.5. Chap. 10.18. or, the Spirit of the Lord ſhall flye, or, run upon, or againſt, him: as if it were ſaid, they ſhall come ruſhing in, as with a ſtrong torrent, Chap. 17. 12. but the Spirit of God, as a ſtiff gale of wind, ſhall run, or ruſh, upon them, to cauſe them to recoyl; as alluding to that, Exod. 14. 20. or, becauſe doubt is, not without juſt cauſe, made, whether the verb of fleeing, be ever ſo uſed; for the word of flying, Chap. 14.11. is of a far divers notion. Some other therefore, not ſwerving much in ſenſe from the former, render this latter clauſe, as our margent alſo exhibites, the Spirit of the Lord ſhall put him to flight; deeming the particle here (as Exod. 7.20. Chap. 53.12. Lam. 1. 17.) ſuperfluous: or, ſupplying the word, blowing, and ſo giving it, at full; the Spirit of the Lord ſhall by blowing againſt him, make him to flee, or, put him to flight; as if he had ſaid, the Spirit of the Lord ſhall blow him to flight. (See of ſuch kind of forms, on Chap. 38.17. & 57. 8.) God with a blaſt of his breath only, ſhal blow him away, & cauſe him to flee; not unlike that, Zach. 4.6. and this ſuiteth very fitly, both with the ſtory, and terms, uſed, of Sennacheribs, both irruption into the land of Judah, Chap. 8.7, 8. & 17. 12, 13. & 36.1. and the defeat there given him, Chap. 37. 7, 36. together with his ſudded, and ſhameful, flight thereupon, Chap. 17.13. & 31.8, 9. & 37.37. and albeit, the word of fleeing, be in another form uſed for, to put to flight, or, to cauſe to flee, Exod. 9.20. Deut. 32.2. not in this; yet that the word is in this form, regular for that notion, from the root, that ſignifieth to flee, neither is, nor can be, denyed: and the ſame root is in the ſame notion found uſed in both forms. But ſome underſtand this whole paſſage, as ſpoken all of one and the ſame perſon: and of theſe, ſome would have it, as a deſcription of the violent irruption, only of the adverſe party, to this purpoſe rendring the text, when he ſhall come like a violent river, or, a forcible ſtream, which the Spirit of the Lord ſhall drive; that is, when the enemy ſhall break in like a river, that being on either ſide hemmed in with branks, runs in that regard, more ſwiftly, or having been ſtreitned, in ſome place, and getting liberty again, runs down with more fury and rage, then before, eſpecially when it ſhall be driven forward with a mighty wind; for ſo may the Spirit, or wind of God, be taken for a mighty ſtrong, or ſtiff gale of wind: as, hills of God, Pſal. 36.6. and, trees of God, Pſal. 104.16. and, a ſleep of God, 1 Sam. 26.12. for, ſteep hills; tall trees; deep ſleep: or it may have reference to ſome act, or inſtinct of God, putting them on upon the ſervice to their own ruine. See Chap. 8.7. Ezek. 38.4. Mic. 4.12. Others, laſtly, expound it wholly of God himſelf, coming in to the reſcue, and deliverance of his people, and to the defeat of the adverſe party, thus rendring it; when he ſhall come like a ſtreit river, which the wind of God driveth; that is, when God himſelf, or, an army raiſed by him, ſhall come againſt his enemies, before-mentioned, ver. 18. like a ſtrong torrent driven on with a ſtiff wind; that which as ſome expound of Cyrus, and his forces, ſent by God, againſt Babylon, Chap. 13.3, 17. & 43.14. & 45. 1-6. Jer. 51. 42. So ſome other, in the ſpiritual application of it, ſuppoſed to have ſome reference to that gale of wind, that came ruſhing in upon the Apoſtles, and filled the whole houſe, wherein they were, at the Feaſt of Pentecoſt, Act. 2.2. And to paſſe by all other, a learned man of ſpecial note, underſtanding it, of Gods coming in, and by Chriſt, to propagate his Church, and carry on the Goſpel, thorowout the whole world: as Mal. 1.11. Act. 1.8. thus rendreth it; For he ſhall come like a ſtreit river, the Spirit of the Lord lifting him up, for an enſign: which he further thus explaineth; He, that is, the Lord, or, the name of the Lord, ſupplyed from the words foregoing, ſhall come with much ſwiftneſſe, and great force, in a ſhort ſpace of time, running thorow the whole world, and bearing all down before him, that might hinder his free paſſage; the Spirit of God, in the Miniſtery of the Apoſtles, and Evangeliſts therewith inſpired, lifting up, and bearing before him, Chriſt, or the name of Chriſt, (Act. 9.15. Gal. 3.1.) as an enſign, for the faithful to reſort unto, and to follow. So is God, or the name of God, ſaid to be, as an enſign to his, Exod. 17.15. Pſal. 20.5. & 60.4. If the text be underſtood of temporal deliverance primarily, (as to me, it ſeemeth, with the moſt) I ſhould go with the firſt, taking the latter term, in a notion of flight: if of ſpiritual wholly, I ſhould concur with this laſt.

V. 20. And the Redeemer ſhall come to Zion] This ſome underſtand of the Angel, ſent to free Jeruſalem, from the fear of Sennacheribs Army, Chap. 37.36. Others, of Cyrus, ſent to Babylon, to ſet free Sions Citizens, there in captivity detained, Chap. 43.14. & 45.13. Yet withal, not denying them to have reference unto Chriſt: of whom others directly, and in the firſt place, expound them; among whom alſo, ſome of the ancienter Jewiſh Doctors, and unto whom the Apoſtle himſelf applyeth them, Rom.11.26. nor is it a thing unuſual, with this Evangelical Prophet, to ſlip from temporal deliverances, in a cloſe way, unto ſpiritual, whereof thoſe were types; and to cloſe up the Prophecies of the one, with the promiſes of the other.

the Redeemer] Deliverer, Rom. 11.26. the word properly ſignifieth ſuch an one, as in regard of propinquity, or neerneſs of kindred, had a right to redeem a morgage, or the like enagagement of land, or livelihood, Levit. 25.25,26. or to proſecute the Law againſt a murtherer, Num.35.19,24. but is uſed alſo more largely, for any deliverer, out of thraldome, or avenger of wrong in general, Prov.23.11. Jer.50.34.

to Zion] To the Sionites, the people of God, the Citizens of Sion. See Chap.1.27. it is, out of Zion, Rom.11.26. which ſeemeth to make ſome difference: and ſome think the Apoſtle altered it of purpoſe, to apply it unto the times of which he was then treating, the Prophet ſpeaking of the time, wherein Chriſt was firſt exhibited unto that people; and ſaid therefore to come unto them, Act.3.26. the Apoſtle, of a ſecond viſite, that Chriſt ſhould afford that people, in theſe later days, towards the worlds end, as coming now out of the new Sion, the Church of the Gentiles, to them, Heb. 11.23. Act. 3. 20. which things, although they be Orthodox, and ſound; yet I ſuppoſe rather, that the Apoſtle retained the ancient Greek Verſion, commonly received in his time, having nothing material to croſs that in ought, for which he alledged it, nor diſagreeing from truth: If it be objected, that the Greek Coppies now have not ἐκ from, but ἕνεκα for; and that therefore the Apoſtles text ought ſo to be read. I anſwer, That it appeareth by Jerome, that the Greek Verſion was anciently, as the Apoſtle now relateth it, both in this branch, and in the next.

and unto them that turn from tranſgreſſion in Jacob, ſaith the Lord] Or, even unto them, or, unto them, I ſay; as Chap.56.5,7. & 58.10. ver.10,17. for this is added only by way of explication, to ſhew, who of, or in, Sion alone they are, that ſhall have ſhare in, and benefit by, this deliverance; to wit, thoſe alone, that turn from their ſins, Deut.30.2,3. 2 Chr. 6.37-39. & 7. 14. & 15.4. for ſuch indeed are the true citizens of Sion, Eph. 2.19. the right Jacob, Pſal.24.4,6. the ſincere Iſrael, Joh. 1. 47. the Iſrael of God, Gal.6.16. The Apoſtle readeth it, and he ſhall turn away ungodlineſſe from Jacob: whereby it appeareth, that he took the Greek, as it was commonly then read; both readings holding out undoubted truth: none having intereſt in him, but thoſe that turn from their ſins; nor any turning from their ſins, but by his help. See Act. 3.26.

V. 21. As for me, This is my Covenant with them, ſaith the Lord] As for me. Heb. And I: as 1 Chr.28.2. Chap. 66. 18. This is, or ſhall be, my Covenant with them: the words which the Apoſtle addeth, when I ſhall take away their ſins, Rom. 11. 27. ſeem to be taken, either, as ſome, from Jer.31.34. where the ſame covenant is, in effect and ſubſtance alſo, related; or, as others, from another place of this Prophecy, Chap. 27. 9. or Chap.4.4. in either of which places, the effect of them is found. What covenant ſhould be here intended, is queſtioned. Some would have it, to be the former promiſe of the deliverer to be ſent unto them. Others, concerning the Word, and Spirit, to be continued in Sion; and to this latter, I ſuppoſe the words do more ſpecially relate: becauſe the mention of the covenant renewed, cometh in ſtill, elſewhere, after the redemption, and return, Jer.31.21,22,31,32. & 32. 37.-42. & 50.4,5. Ezek.36.24-27.

My Spirit that is upon thee, and my words which I have put in thy mouth, ſhall not depart out of thy mouth, nor out of the mouth of thy ſeed, nor out of the mouth of thy ſeeds ſeed, ſaith the Lord, from henceforth, and for ever] Theſe words, ſome would have to be a ſpeech of the Father unto Chriſt; as promiſing him, the continuance of his Word, and Spirit, of which, Chap. 61.1. for ever, with that ſeed of his, of which, Chap.53.10. Others, to the Church, promiſing a perpetual ſucceſſion of the Spirit of Prophecy in the Church. Others, to Eſay, either as a promiſe, that that Spirit of prophecy, wherewith he was at preſent endued, ſhould not fail in his followers, or diſciples, called his children, chap.8.16,18. or, that, what God had by him promiſed, ſhould ſo be fulfilled, that the memory of it ſhould continue unto all poſterity, Pſal.111.4. Or, as ſome other would have it, in way of a charge, enjoyning the Prophet to take order, that theſe ſpiritual documents (ſo is the Spirit taken, 1 Joh.4.1.) concerning ſalvation by the Meſſias, and that to none, but thoſe alone, that turn away from their ſins, ſhould be perpetually in the minds and mouthes of his people, after his departure. So Deut.31.19,27. 2 Pet.1.12. But paſſing by theſe, and other the like Interpretations; that which the beſt, and ſoundeſt, Interpreters give, is this, That Gods Spirit, and Word, ſhould continue with his Church, (whom he now turneth his ſpeech unto) to direct and inſtruct it, and the children of it, in all neceſſaries, thorowout all ages ſucceſſively, even unto the worlds end, Chap.30.20,21. & 54. 13. Jer. 31.34. Mat.28.20. Joh.14.16,17. Eph.4.11-13. 1 Joh. 2.20,27. 2 Joh.2.

Spirit, and words] Becauſe the word is unavailable, without the Spirit concomitant, and cooperating with it, Joh. 6. 63. Act.10.44. 2 Cor.2.16. & 3.6. & 4.13. See a lively reſemblance hereof, Ezek.37.9,10. Nor doth the Spirit of God ever croſs, or contradict the Word, or give directions beſide it; and the one therefore is to be tryed by the other, Deut.13. 1-4. Chap.8.20. Joh.5,39. Act. 17. 11. & 26. 22. Gal. 1.8,9. 1 Joh.4.1.

thy ſeed] The faithful, the ſeed according to the promiſe, Deut.30.6. Rom.9.6-8. Gal.3.16,29.

thy ſeeds ſeed for ever.] This ſome would have to contain a more ſpecial promiſe, of the conſtant continuance of the main body of the Jewiſh people, in the faith of the Meſſias, after their return, that ſhall be, without any apoſtaſie, or revolt again, from him, to the worlds end: To which purpoſe, they apply alſo that, Jer.32.40. But it may ſeem to be more large, as above.

CHAP. LX.

Verſ. 1. Ariſe, ſhine:] In this Chapter is the glorious eſtate of the Church of God, under the Meſſias, in a moſt rhetorical manner deſcribed, (the reſtitution of Jeruſalem, and the re-edification of the Temple there, being underlaid, as a type of it) by the multitude of Proſelytes, and thoſe of chief note and place, that ſhould be joyned to it; and with all their beſt endowments, become ſerviceable thereunto; and the abundance of ſpiritual graces and comforts, that ſhould therein be exhibited and enjoyed, and that as in a more eminent manner and meaſure, then in former times here, ſo in a fulneſs of perfection, without any the leaſt interruption, or impeachment, everlaſtingly hereafter.

Ariſe,] Jeruſalem preſumed to be in a very low and dejected condition at preſent, being conſidered (for ſo the type rum) as in thraldom, at Babylon, is called upon now to ariſe; (as on the contrary, Babylon was commanded to come down, Chap.47.1.) and to rouz up her ſelf to an hopeful expectation of her deliverance, reſtitution, and advancement, now approaching. So Chap.52.1.

ſhine] Heb. be illightned, or be light: ſome render it, awake. I ſhould rather look up; as we uſe to ſay, ſhore up your eye-lids. So is the word uſed, 1 Sam.14. 27, 29. where it is ſaid of Jonathan, upon the taſting of the honey, that his eyes were illightened, whereas, through faintneſs, he was not able to look up, or to look out with them before.

for thy light is come;] Thy night of affliction is over, and the day of thy proſperity approacheth: the day is dawning with thee; the morning is riſing upon thee; and it is high time therefore for thee to rouz thy ſelf, and look up, Chap.58.8. & 62.1. Matth.4.16. Luk.1.78,79. Joh.8.12. Rom.13.11,12. Eph. 5.14.

and the glory of the Lord is riſen upon thee.] God is beginning to ſhew himſelf glorious, in thy deliverance and reſtauration; his glory ſhall be ſeen upon thee, as it ſometime appeared on Mount Sinai, Exod.24.15,16. and upon the Tabernacle, Exod.40.32,33. and in the Temple, 1 King.8.11. But the metaphor, in the verb it ſelf, is taken from the Sun-riſing, and by his bright and lightſome luſtre, diſpelling and chaſing away the dulſome darkneſs of the forepaſſed night, Cant.2.17. & 4.6. Mal.4.2. See ver.2,3.

V. 2. For behold,] Take notice, with admiration of a ſtrange change. So Chap.51.22,23.

the darkneſs ſhall cover the earth, and thick darkneſs the people:] There ſhall be a ſtrange alteration in States: for whereas formerly other people enjoyed much peace and proſperity; while Gods people continued in captivity and thraldome, Zach.1.11,12. Now on the other ſide, thoſe people that were their adverſaries and oppreſſours, ſhall be made to endure much calamity, and ſuſtain a great deal of miſery, while Gods people ſhall enjoy peace and plenty, Chap.13.1,2. & 65. 13,14.

darkneſs] For, adverſity; as Chap.59.9. ſpiritual darkneſs, where the light of Gods Word, and Spirit, is wanting, Chap. 8.20. & 9.2. & 59.21. Luk.1.79. Act.26.18.

thick darkneſs] The word ſeemeth compounded of a term, that ſignifieth, to drop, or diſtill; as Deut.32.2. & 33.28. and another, that ſignifieth, a miſt, or fog, Chap.29.18. & 59.9. ſo that it implies in its proper notion, a miſt, ſo thick, that it even droppeth again: ſuch a miſt, or darkneſs, as that in Egypt was, Exod.10.22,23.

but the Lord ſhall ariſe upon thee,] The Meſſias, the Sun of righteouſneſs ſhall ariſe, and ſhine forth upon thee, with healing in his wings, Mal.4.2. an alluſion to the light, that in Goſhen they enjoyed, when all Egypt was over-ſpread with palpable darkneſs, Exod.10.23.

and his glory ſhall be ſeen upon thee.] As it was ſometime upon the Sanctuary, Lev.9.23,24. See ver.1.

V. 3. And Gentiles ſhall come to thy light, and Kings to the brightneſs of thy riſing.] Or, Nations ſhall walk in, or, by thy light; and Kings, by the brightneſs of thy riſing; as Joh. 12.35. Rev.21.24. not, ſhall repair together only, to congratulate with thee; as Chap.39.1. & 66.10. but to adjoyn themſelves unto thee, and to enjoy light together with thee, Chap.56.6, 7. & 62.2. & 66.11.

the brightneſs of thy riſing] Thy reſplendent luſtre, partly, in temporal dignity; but principally, in ſpiritual excellency, upon this thy reſtitution, Chap.62.3. the Church being as the morning-ſtar, ſhining bright, with light received from Chriſt, Rev.2.28. & 12. 1. the fountain of all true light, Joh.1.4,9. Or, as ſome render it, the brightneſſe that riſeth upon thee, ver.1,2.

V. 4. Lift up thine eyes round about thee, and ſee:] See Chap. 49.18.

all they, gather themſelves together, they come to thee.] Or, and come to thee; as ſome here render it; and as it was before rendred, Chap. 49. 18. or, thoſe all (as if in a viſion, he ſhewed them a numberleſs number of people, flocking together from all parts) are gathered together to come unto thee; as Zeph.3.7. they roſe up early, they corrupted their doings, for, they roſe early to corrupt them. Or, all theſe that gather themſelves together (this great multitude that thou ſeeſt gathered together, a defect of the relative; as Chap.58.5.) do all come or, are all coming to thee, Chap. 49. 18. and 54. 2, 3.

thy ſons ſhall come from far, and thy daughters ſhall be nurſed at thy ſide.] That is, as ſome, thy children ſhall all be brought home to thee; ſome from places more remote; ſome from places neerer at hand, where they were nurſed beſides thee, or, at thy ſide: as others, thy ſons ſhall be brought from far, and thy daughters ſhall, as nurſe-children, be carryed at the ſide; that is, in the arms, on the one ſide of thoſe, who as nurſes ſhall bring them: and this by collation of the place, with Chap,49.22. & 66.13. ſeems to be the genuine ſenſe of the place. For, as for that nicety of ſome, that the males, as the ſtronger, are ſaid to come; the femaſes, as the weaker, to be brought in arms; it ſeems over-curious; as may appear, by comparing this with Chap. 49.22. where the ſons are ſaid to be brought, in laps, or boſomes, and the daughters born on ſhoulders. It is but a rhetorical amplification, illuſtrate by a diſtribution, the terms whereof, may be indifferently, and enterchangeably, applyed unto either ſubject. Whereof, ſee more, on Chap.5.13. If we follow our verſion, there is a defect of the pronoun; as Chap.38.13. Howbeit, ſome ſupply another way, reading it, at their ſide, or beſide them; as Job.1. 14. (though another word be there uſed) that is, beſide thy ſons, coming joyntly along with them: a ſenſe not improbable; but I adhere rather to the firſt.

V. 5. Then ſhalt thou ſee, and flow together:] Or, as ſome, flow over: break out, as a river that ſurrounds its banks; Ch. 54.1. But rather retaining our received verſion; when this ſhall befall thee, thou ſhalt ſit feeding thine eyes, as it were with the pleaſing ſight of it; and the heart ſhall even wave, and flow, in a manner, to and fro, through abundance of joy within thee, at the view of that great multitude, that thou ſhalt ſee come flocking in to thee, and flowing in upon thee: for that is the proper, and general ſignification of the word, here uſed: Which yet ſome render, thou ſhalt ſhine; becauſe from it is derived a word rendred light, Job 3.4. & Dan.2.22. and thence gather, that the verb it ſelf ſignifieth to ſhine, both here (as if it were ſaid, thou ſhalt ſhine out gloriouſly in thy full luſtre; as Job 29.3.) and elſe-where, Pſal.34.5. But the word of light ſeems to have its original from this root; as it hath a notion of confluence, or influence, in it. Nor is there any neceſſity, that it ſhould ſignifie to ſhine, either in the one place, or in the other.

and thine heart ſhall fear,] Not through dread, or terrour; but with admiration; and joyes ſudden and exceſſive, cauſe a trembling, or fluttering of the heart many times, together with the dilatation of it, Gen.45.26,27. Jer.33.9. Hoſ.3.5. Act. 27.& 12.14. and this more fully explaineth what was before ſaid, thou ſhalt flow upon the ſight of it.

and be enlarged:] For joy dilateth, and enlargeth the heart, 2 Cor.6.11,12. as on the contrary, grief is wont to contract and draw it in, Prov.12.25. See Chap.61.3.

becauſe the abundance of the ſea ſhall be converted unto thee, the forces of the Gentiles ſhall come in to thee.] Or, when the abundance, or, multitude, (for, noiſe; which ſome would fetch in from Chap.17.12. & 63.15. fitteth not here) of the ſea (of the ſea it ſelf: Of which, ſee on ver.6. Or, of thoſe that coaſt on the ſea, or trade by ſea; as Chap.23. 2, 4.) ſhall be turned in to thee, or, toward thee, (as 2 King.5.26.) or, upon thee (as 1 Sam. 4.19. Dan.10. 16. becauſe there followeth, ver. 6. ſhall cover thee. Nor need we, as ſome of note do, to make it a complexive form, like that, 1 Sam. 7.2. as if the meaning at full expreſſed were, ſhall be converted, and come in to thee) and the wealth, (as the word is uſed, Job 20.15. Prov.13.22. Chap.8.5. & 61.6.) Or, the troops, (becauſe the verb is plural, both here, and ver.11.) of the nations, ſhall come to thee. The meaning is, that people out of all parts, ſhall repair to Gods Church, and betaking themſelves thereunto, honour him, and it, to their utmoſt ability, by tendring both themſelves, and whatſoever they are ſtored with, unto his ſervice, and to the ſervice of his Church, Chap.23.18, & 49.23. & 61.6. 2 Cor.8.3-5. For they draw it too low, that fetch in hither, the markets kept at Jeruſalem, and the fiſh, and other wares, brought in thither, by the merchants of Tyre, Neh.13.16.

V. 6. The multitude of Camels ſhall cover thee;] The word rendred multitude, doth ſignifie, in the firſt place, a great affluence, or abundance, of ought. Hence, Deut.33.19. the abundance of the ſea; that is, of ſuch commodities as the ſeas afford; (and ſo alſo might that in the foregoing verſe be underſtood; but that the word there uſed, doth rather ſignifie, a multitude of people, Chap.13.4.) and, abundance of waters, Job.2.2,11. But ſometime it is uſed for ſome great troop, or company, of men, 2 King.9.17. or horſe, Ezek.26.10. here, of camels, which were much uſed for carriage of wares, and commodities, in thoſe parts, Chap.21.7. & 30.6. ſaid, for the multitude of them, to cover the countrey; as thoſe of the Midianites, Judg.6.5. So, abundance of waters, to cover, Job 22. 11. and thoſe companies of horſe, to cover with duſt, Ezek.26.10. Yet we need not therefore, with the Latine, render it, an inundation; becauſe of waters, the word is uſed, and they are ſaid to cover the earth, Jer. 46.8. and much leſs, as ſome would have it, that the Camels ſhould be ſaid to cover the land, with the duſt that they ſhould raiſe with their feet.

the dromedaries] The Greek rendreth it, as the former, Camels: And our Jewiſh Criticks would make us believe, that the young camels are thus called, ſo long as they ſuck; and that when they are once weaned, then they begin to be called, camels; becauſe the verb, of which root it ſeems to be, ſignifieth ſometime to nurſe, and to wean, Gen.1.8. 1 Sam. 1. 22—24. as if nurſing, and weaning, were the camels peculiar, and not common to them, with other creatures. They might as well affirm, that camels are ſo called; for that they uſe to nurſe their old dams, and ſires; as they ſay of the ſtork; (as truly, it may be, as of the ſwans ſinging towards her end) becauſe the word ſignifies, as commonly, to retribute, and repay, Deut.32.6. 1 Sam.24.18. 2 Sam.22.21. it is well known, that in Hebrew, as well as in other languages, from the ſame root, for letters and ſound, divers words ſpring: that, in uſe, and notion, have no affinity at all one with another. Of which, ſee on Jer. 24.1. But that this is a frivolous figment of theirs, is apparent: For it is abſurd to imagine, that the people here mentioned ſhould bring no camels, but wainlings, or unwained ones, rather, or ſhould bring their wares and commodities, on the backs of ſuch: the feminine word is uſed, Jer.2.23,24. of a beaſt running at large, and joyned with the wild aſs, that runs a madding, in gendring times, after the male. The term is no where found, ſave in the maſculine, here; in the feminine, there. It ſeems to be, as the old Latine rendreth it, that which the Greeks, and the Latine, from them; as we, from the Latines, term a dromedary, or, a dromas; a beaſt commended for ſwiftneſs, Jer.2.23. whence alſo it hath its name in Greek, and, as ſome would have it alſo, but that is ſomewhat too far fetcht, in Hebrew: For, becauſe from the ſame root ariſeth, both the word, that ſignifieth, firſt-born, and firſt-fruits; and that, whereby this beaſt is named, therefore they deem it ſo called; becauſe, in pace, it out-goeth other beaſts, as the firſt-born cometh before other iſſue. But that ſeemes true alſo here, that was hinted before, concerning diverſity of notions, meeting in one root. The dromas is a leſſer and lower kind of camel, very rife in Arabia, though uſed much for burden, yet of ſpecial commendation for ſwiftneſs, and by curriers therefore generally, in thoſe parts employed. See of them, Strabo, l.15. Diodore, l.2.c.54. Livy, l.37. Leo the Affricane, l. 9.

of Midian] People deſcended from Abraham, by Keturah, Gen.25.2. that had their ſeat in Arabia, mixt with the Iſmaelites, as appeareth, Gen.37.25,28. and with the Cuſhites; as appears, Num.12.1. Hab.3.7.

and Ephah,] The Poſterity of Midian, by his eldeſt Son, Gen.25.4.

all they from Sheba ſhall come:] The poſterity of Chuſh, by his fourth ſon Raamah, Gen.10.7. Pſal.72.10.

they ſhall bring gold, and incenſe,] The chief commodities of their country, 1 King.10.2,10. Chap.61.6. Ezek.27.22, Matth. 2. 11.

and they ſhall ſhew forth the praiſes of the Lord.] Repairing thither, not for traffick, but to worſhip, Act. 8. 27.

V. 7. All the flocks of Kedar ſhall be gathered together unto thee:] Or, Shall be gathered together, and come, or, be brought to thee; as it is more fully, ver. 4. Or, ſhall be gathered together to bring to thee. See the like form of ſpeech, Gen. 27. 9. Chap. 38. 21. The Kedarens, or Arabians, called by the Greeks, Scenitæ, of the tents, they lived in. See Ch. 21. 16. they abounded in cattel, Ezek. 27. 21.

the rams of Nebaioth ſhall miniſter unto thee:] The iſſue of Nebaioth, Iſmaels firſt-born, elder brother to Kedar, Gen. 25. 13. called in later times, by the Greeks and Latines, Nabatæans; whom Strabo, l. 16. placeth in Arabia; as alſo, Pliny, l. 5. c. 11. where he joyneth them, and the Cedreans, together.

they ſhall come up, with acceptance, upon mine altar:] Being made burnt-offerings, thence ſo termed, Chap. 1. 11. See Ch. 56. 7. Pſal. 51. 19.

and I will glorifie the houſe of my glory.] Or, for (as Chap. 59. 17.) I will adorn, or make magnificent, my beautifull, or, magnificent, or, goodly houſe: a houſe of beauty, magnificence, or, goodlineſs; as, a crown of the like, Chap. 62. 3. and, a name of the like, Chap. 63. 14. his Temple he meaneth; a type of his Church, Chap. 2. 2. See ver. 13.

V. 8. What are theſe that fly as a cloud; and as the doves to their windows?] As before, ver. 4. So here again, the Prophet ſpeaketh, as if in a viſion he ſaw multitudes of people, by ſholes, making towards Jeruſalem, like clouds, that come oft from remote parts, driven, ſwiftly, by the wind, Chap. 19. 1. Jer. 4. 13. and coming ſo thick, that they cover the whole face of the heaven, and intercept the sky-light, Pſal. 147. 8. Ezek. 38. 9. Joel 2. 2. Heb. 12. 1. Or, like doves, or pigeons, that fly in great flocks, and that with much ſpeed, to their places of retreat and refuge, either when they perceive a ſtorm towards, or, when by fowls of prey, they are purſued, Pſal. 11. 1. as Noahs did, when ſhe could find no reſt elſe-where, to the Ark, Gen. 8. 9. There is in it an intimation, as of thoſe multitudes of people, that ſhould come in to the Church, and adjoyn themſelves thereunto, Act. 2. 37, 40, 41. & 4. 4. Heb. 12. 1, 22, 23. So of the ſpeed and eagerneſs that they ſhould expreſs, in their repair thither, Jer. 50. 8. Matth. 11. 12. Luk. 12. 1. Some Interpreters of note, read the words; not, who; but whoſe, are theſe; making it the ſpeech of Sion, or the Church; not unlike that, Chap. 49. 21. who begat theſe? Which ſome the rather embrace, because the interrogative ſeemes to be of a ſingular notion onely. But it is found joyned with the very ſame term, in a plural notion alſo, Gen. 33. 5. Who are theſe? and may well therefore ſtand, as our verſion hath it; Nor doth it hinder, but that it may be fitly deemed, though ſo read, a queſtion moved by Sion, whom the Prophet had called upon, as in a viſion, to ſee people flocking towards her, ver. 4.

and as the doves] Or, or as the doves: for they are two divers reſemblances. So Chap. 1. 30. & 6. 13.

that flye] A defect of the relative; as Chap. 58. 5.

doves to their windows] Or, lovers, or lockers: to the loop-holes of the turrets in which they keep; a fit reſemblance of the Jews returning from Babylon to their former places of abode; as doves at time of yeer, in ſome parts, to their wonted neſts.

V. 9. Surely the Iles ſhall wait for me, and the ſhips of Tarſhiſh firſt, to bring thy ſons from far] This ſeems an anſwer returned, as in Gods perſon, by the Prophet, to Sions queſtion. As if he ſhould ſay, doſt thou ask who they are? they are thy children, whom the ſea-coaſters, and Ilanders have, by mine appointment, with their ſhips, been attending on, to bring them home to thee.

Surely] So is this particle uſed, Chap. 7. 9, 16. & 49. 18. Some render it here, For.

the Iles] Such as dwell on the ſea-coſt, or deal in ſhipping; as Chap. 41. 4. & 51. 5. & 59. 18. See ver. 5.

ſhall wait for me] Or, have waited on me; as Chap. 8. 17. & 30. 18. attending when to be employed by me.

and the ſhips of Tarſhiſh] As being fitteſt, and readieſt at hand, for tranſportation of perſons into thoſe parts. See Chap. 2. 16. & 23. 1.

firſt] That is, as ſome, with the firſt: or, among the firſt of them, that have an hand in bringing of Gods people home. Others, at the firſt; as implying, that the firſt of thoſe, that returned, ſhould be brought home, with moſt eaſe, as if they had come by ſhipping. Others, carrying it back to the firſt words, ſhall wait on me, in the firſt place; and on thee, and thine, in the next, 2 Cor. 8. 5. Others, with a principal one, or ſhip; to be as Admiral to the fleet: Or laſtly, as others, (inſerting the note of ſimilitude, frequently ſuppreſſed: as Pſal. 11. 1.) as formerly, or, as at firſt; as Chap. 1. 26. and they ſuppoſe it to have an eye back to Solomons dayes; wherein Ships of Tarſhiſh brought Solomon ſtore of treaſure, 1 King. 9. 26-28. & 10. 12. this may ſeem the more probable, because mention of ſuch terms followeth. Yet I go rather (because it goeth more ſmoothly off) with the firſt.

to bring thy ſons] Thy children home from the places of their captivity; as Chap. 49. 22. & 66. 20. ver. 4. implying, that they ſhould get home as eaſily, as if they were born in arms, or carried in litters, or conveyed by ſhipping. See Gal. 4. 26.

from afar] As ver. 4. no diſtance of place being able to hinder the return of any of Gods captived ones, into their own country; nor remoteneſs of place, or ſtate, the acceſſe of any unto God, by Chriſt, Chap. 43. 6. Jer. 30. 10. Eph. 2. 13.

their ſilver, and their gold, with them,] Either that which themſelves bring as a free-will offering for Gods ſervice, and the beautifying of his Temple, ver. 6. or, the treaſure that Gods people ſhall bring along with them, for more eaſe, and ſafety, together with their perſons, conveying it for them, as pointing unto that gold and ſilver, that ſtrangers ſhould furniſh them with, at their return, for their journey; and the veſſels that were to be ſent back again with them, Ezr. 1. 4, 6-11.

unto the name of the Lord thy God, and to the Holy One of Iſrael] That is, unto the place that the Lord hath choſen, to place his name there, Deut. 12. 5. the Temple, a type of the Church, there to preſent them as an offering to God, chap. 66. 20. Rom. 15. 16. or, for the name of the Lord thy God, and for the Holy One of Iſrael; out of that reverent, and religious reſpect, and regard that they ſhall have unto the Lord thy God, Ezr. 1. 2, 3. & 6. 8-12. See chap. 55. 5. Of the titles given God here, ſee Chap. 1. 4. & 41. 13, 14.

becauſe he hath glorified thee] Or, as ſome, when he ſhall have glorified thee: as by temporal deliverance; ſo by the miniſtery of the Goſpel ſetled with thee, ch. 55. 5. See Chap. 2. 2. Zach. 8. 23. or, for he will make thee goodly, or magnificent; he is reſolved to make thee ſtately. So ver. 7. the ſame word is in either place.

V. 10. And the ſons of ſtrangers ſhall build up thy walls;] That is, ſtrangers themſelves; being now become Proſelytes; Chap. 56. 6. & 61. 5. ſhall joyn with you, in furthering the reſtauration of the city; and ſhall help to carry on the gracious work of ſpiritual edification, 1 Theſſ. 5. 11.

and their Kings ſhall miniſter unto thee:] Cyrus, and other his Succeſſors, that ſhall ſupply thee with neceſſaries, and accommodations in divers kind, Ezr. 1. 4, 8. & 7. 12-26. Neh. 2. 8. but thoſe eſpecially by the miniſtery of the Goſpel, won to the profeſſion of the Chriſtian faith, c. 49. 7, 23. & 52. 15. v. 3.

for in my wrath I ſmote thee;] Chap. 57. 17. Jer. 30. 14. Lam. 3. 1.

but in my favour have I had mercy on thee] Chap. 12. 1. & 14. 1. & 54. 8.

but] Or, yet: though in wrath I ſmote thee, yet out of my free favour I will now reſtore thee, Chap. 57. 18. Lam. 3. 32. Heb. and: as Chap. 12. 1.

V. 11. Therefore ſhall thy gates be open continually, they ſhall not be ſhut day nor night] Heb. they ſhall open thy gates; as Ch. 26. 3. or, thy gates ſhall open themſelves: as Chap. 48. 8. Act. 12. 10. they ſhall be opened; that is, ſtand open: as, waſted, for, lye waſte, Chap. 34. 10. builded, for, ſtand built, Dan. 9. 25. they ſhall ſtand open, night and day; in regard of continual concourſe, and confluence of people: and as in times of general peace, and ſecurity is wont to be, when all is quiet on every ſide: as ſome in Chriſts time ſuppoſe it to have been at Jeruſalem; from Luk. 21. 37. & Joh. 18. 1. but of that ſome doubt may be; though at that time, in regard of the Paſchal ſolemnity, whereunto, out of all parts, they reſorted, it might for ſome ſhort ſpace ſo be. See Rev. 21. 25.

that men may bring to thee the forces of the Gentiles] Or, the wealth. See ver. 5. Heb. to bring the forces, or, wealth of the nations; that is, that the forces of the nations, (ſubdued in fight) or, their wealth (and ſpoils taken in fight) may be brought in to thee; as ſome: or, ſimply, for the bringing in of them in any kind, or any way whatſoever, ver. 5, 6, 7.

and that their Kings may be brought] Heb. and their Kings led. Which word, becauſe it is ſometime uſed of leading captive; as Chap. 20. 4. the Chaldee (whom divers others alſo therein follow) doth ſo here underſtand: according to that, Pſal. 149. 8. Chap. 45. 14. Howbeit, Others, both Jewiſh, and ours, underſtand it of Kings led, that is, conducted in ſtate; as they uſe to go uſhiered with officers going before them, to cleer the way for them: ſo is the word uſed, 2 King. 4. 24. and it may very well be ſo taken in this place, of Kings entring with their attendants, conducting them in ſtate: & the whole paſſage may be read, for the bringing in of the wealth of the nations, and of their Kings led in ſtate. So rather, then as one of good note, the wealth of their nations, & of their Kings, which (wealth, or riches, becauſe the participle is plural) ſhall be born before them: as 1 Sam. 30. 20. Chap. 8. 4. for this ſyntax ſeems over-harſh; the meaning is, that not the people alone, but their rulers alſo, ſhould render themſelves,and their means ſerviceable unto Gods Church.

V. 12. For the Nation and Kingdom that will not ſerve thee, ſhall periſh] All people, or perſons, great, or ſmall, that ſhall refuſe to ſubmit to the ſcepter, and government of Chriſt, erected in thee, Pſal.110.2. to be ſwayed by his Word, and Spirit, Chap.59.21. ſhall everlaſtingly periſh, Pſal. 2. 12. 2 Cor.2.16. & 4.3. it ſeems to be an alluſion unto the condition of thoſe, that refuſed to ſubmit unto the people of God, when they entred upon the land of Canaan, Deut. 20.10-17. See Zach.14.16-19.

nation, and kingdome] Or, nation, or kingdom: as Exod.21. 15. & 35.29.

yea, thoſe nations ſhall be utterly waſted] Heb. and, (as chap. 55.1.) thoſe nations, (to wit, that will not ſerve thee, to be ſupplyed from the former branch; as Gen.1.16.) ſhall by being waſted, be waſted; or, being deſtroyed, be deſtroyed. See the like, Deut.7.2. & 20.17.

V. 13. The glory of Lebanon ſhall come unto thee, the firre tree, the pine tree, and the box tree together, to beautifie the place of my Sanctuary;] The goodly cedars,and other choice trees, wherewith Lebanon aboundeth, affording materials fit for ſtately buildings, ſhall be brought in, great ſtore of them, to build, and beautifie my Temple, alluding to the plenty of Cedars, and other timber trees, that Solomon procured to be brought from Lebanon, for the building of Gods Temple, 1 King. 5. 10,14,18.

glory of Lebanon] That is, the cedars, which were of prime and chief note among the trees of the foreſt,Ezek.31.3,8.and Lebanon of prime note, above other places, for them, Pſal. 104.16. Chap.2.13. & 37.24.

the firre] Theſe alſo of much uſe for building, Chap.14.8. and Lebanon for them alſo famous, chap.37.24.

the pine, and the box] See of theſe, on Chap.41.19.

to beautifie] Or, adorn: as Ezr.7.27. See ver.7.

and I will make the place of my feet glorious] Or, for (as ver. 7. chap.59.17.) I will make glorious (I am reſolved to beſtow abundance of ſpiritual glory, 2 Cor.3.7-11,18.upon) the place of my feet: ſo, the place of the ſole my feet, Ezek.43.7. that is, of my ſpecial reſt, and reſidence, chap.11.10. ſo was, in times paſt, eſteemed, and termed, firſt the Ark, ſtyled his footſtool, 1 Chr.28.2. Pſal.99.5. & 132.7. then the Temple, and Sion, whereon it ſtood, called his reſt, Pſal.78.68,69. & 132. 13,14. all reſembling the Church, 1 Tim.3.15. Rev.21.3.

V. 14. The ſons alſo of them, that afflicted thee, ſhall come bending unto thee; and all they that deſpiſed thee, ſhall bow themſelves down, at the ſoals of thy feet] Thoſe that were before thine adverſaries,ſhall now come in to thee,and ſubmit themſelves unto thee, and to the Scepter of the Meſſias, erected with thee, chap.49.23. Rev.3.9. See ver.12.

The ſons alſo of them that afflicted thee] Heb. And (as chap. 57.8,15.) the ſons of thine afflicters; their children: or, they themſelves; as, the ſons of ſtrangers, ver.10.and ſo in the next branch, the deſpiſers of thee; or both.

and they ſhall call thee the city of the Lord, the Zion of the Holy One of Iſrael] Either, thou ſhalt be ſo called, the verb taken indefinitely, as chap.62.12. or even they themſelves being convinced in conſcience of the truth hereof, ſhall now acknowledge thee, whom before they contemned, maligned, oppugned, and oppreſſed, to be the Lords own royal city,and the place of his Holineſſes ſpecial reſidence, Ezek.48.35. See their acknowledgment, chap.49.23.

V. 15. Whereas thou haſt been forſaken, and hated, ſo that no man went thorow thee] During the time of thy depopulation, while they people were abroad in captivity, chap.3.26. & 6. 11,12. Jer.9.11,12.

hated] Diſregarded, diſeſteemed; as Deut. 21. 15. Mat. 6.24. not ſought to, or looked after, Jer.30.17.

So that no man went thorow thee] Heb. and no paſſenger, or, and without paſſenger; as chap.24.10. Jer.9.9. a defect of the pronoun: as chap.5.23. & 58.9.

I will make thee an eternal excellency] Heb. an excellency of eternity, or perpetuity; as chap.63.12. a laſting excellency.

a joy of many generations] Heb. of generation, and generation; as chap.24.17.

V. 16. Thou ſhalt alſo ſuck the milk of the Gentiles, and ſhalt ſuck the breſt of Kings:] alſo. Heb. and: as verſ.14. All, as well high, as low, ſhall with their endowments, and abilities, of what kind ſoever, ſupply thee, ſuccour thee, ſupport thee, nouriſh thee, being as foſter fathers, or nurſes, to thee, as Mordecai was to Eſter, Eſt.2.7. verſ.4. chap. 49. 26. and 66.12.

the breſt of Kings] So is the word rendred, and ſeems to be uſed, Job 24.9. Howbeit, the word that ſignifieth a teat, or dug, is ſomewhat divers from this. See chap.28.9 & 32. 12. Lam.4.3. and ſome therefere interpret it, not the breſt, or teat it ſelf; but the moiſture drawn from it: and there want not of the Jewiſh Criticks, who underſtand by the phraſe here, ſuch dainties, as Kings are wont to be fed with.

and thou ſhalt know, that I the Lord am thy Saviour, and thy Redeemer, the mighty one of Jacob] Or, that thou mayſt know, (by good proof, and experience, find it ſo to be; as Ezek. 34. 30. either implying the iſſue of it: as Ezek.30.25. or, the end of doing it, as chap.45.3.) that I the Lord am thy Saviour, and that the mighty one of Jacob is thy Redeemer. See chap. 49. 26.

V. 17. For braſs I will bring gold; and for iron, I will bring ſilver; and for wood, braſſe; and for ſtones, iron:] I will make reparations of all thy loſſes, and damages, with advantage; all things ſhall be exceedingly improved, and changed, with thee, for the better, chap.30.26. & 35.13. an alluſion to the wealth of the Jewiſh State in Solomons dayes. Of which,ſee 1 King.10.27. 2 Chr.1.15. & 9.27.

I will alſo make thine officers peace, and thine exactors righteouſneſſe] alſo. Heb. and: as ver.16. Becauſe there can be no aſſured continuance,or conſtant enjoyment of wealth,and plenty in a State unſetled, and wherein peace and equity are not eſtabliſhed; God therefore promiſeth to furniſh their State with ſuch Rulers, and Officers, as ſhould be carefull to demean themſelves equally, and uprightly in their places,and to maintain the people, ſubject unto them, in proſperity and peace.

thine officers peace] Or thine officers officers of peace; or, men of peace: as Pſal.120.7. I am peace; that is, a man of peace: one that affect, deſire, ſeek, ſtudy peace; but here rather officers of peace, with ſupply from the other term: as chap.10.1. Dan.4.33. they ſhall be ſuch, as ſhall ſeek and ſtudy thy proſperity and welfare, (ſo is peace commonly taken, chap.48.18. Pſal.122.9.) Neh.2.10. Ezek.34. 23. Heb. thine office, Pſal.109.8. or, over-ſight; as Num. 3.22. or, government, for, officers, overſeers, or, governours: (for the word it cometh of, is uſed oft for officers, with charge of government; as Jer.20.1.) as Kingdome, or, royalty, for, Kings, Jer.10.7. it may, without any force to the text, be rendred, I will make thy government a government of peace; that is, a peaceable government; not embroiled in wars, nor taken up with military employments; as in times paſt.

thine exactors righteouſneſſe] Or, overſeers; as the ancient Greek rendreth it: the old Latine, thoſe that are ſet over thee: the word is uſually taken in the worſe part, for exactors, oppreſſors, chap.3.12.& 9.4.& 14.2. yet not alwayes; but ſometime, for rulers, overſeers, or officers; ſuch as either take,or gather tale and tribute; or overſee thoſe that are in any employment, or work: ſo it is taken, Zach.10.4. and ſo here; thy rulers, or overſeers, righteouſneſſe; or, rulers, overſeers, of righteouſneſſe; that is, juſt, and righteous: not ſuch as ſhall pill, and poll thee, exact upon thee, and oppreſſe thee, as formerly; but ſuch as ſhall carry themſelves moderately,and mercifully: (for ſo is righteouſneſſe alſo uſed, Pſal.112.3,9.) See chap.1.23,26. & 32.1,2. Neh.5.15. Ezek.23.4,16.

V. 18. Violence ſhall no more be heard in thy land; waſting nor deſtruction within thy borders] Thou ſhalt live quietly and peaceably, free from oppreſſion, by bad rulers within thee; and free from invaſion, and incurſion, by hoſtility from abroad, Pſal.10.16. & 144.24,25. Chap.16.4. Ezek.34.26-28. Zach.9.8.

waſting, and deſtruction] Or, devaſtation, and deſtruction. See Chap.59.7.

but thou ſhalt call thy walls ſalvation, and thy gates praiſe.] That is, they ſhall be ſuch unto thee; for, to be called this,or that, is, in Scripture language, ſo to be. See Chap.7.14. & 9. 6. & 47.1. & 56.7. ver.14. either, thy walls, and gates, ſhall be ſafety, and praiſe, to thee; that is, ſhall afford thee ſafety, and miniſter matter to thee, of praiſing God for it: or, ſalvation, and praiſe, ſhall be wall, and gate, to thee; that is, Gods protection, for which thou ſhalt have cauſe daily to praiſe him, ſhall be ſufficient, inſtead of walls, and gates, to ſecure thee. See the like expreſſion, Chap.26. 2. See alſo, Pſal.147.12,14. the meaning is, that all ſhould be ſafe with them, under Gods protection: by means whereof, they ſhould have liberty to ſerve him the more cheerfully, Luk.1.74,75. Act.9.31. Nor is that explication of theirs, wholly impertinent, that would have it to be implyed, that the watchmen, placed on the walls uſually,or over the gates, Chap.62.6. 2 Sam.18.24. ſhould not be taken up, with ſolicitous looking out, or expecting of ſome enemies approach, but being freed from fear of ought in that kind, ſhould ſit ſecurely, paſſing their time,in ſinging of praiſes to God, ch.52. 8. Howbeit,to draw it out to ſuch particulars,is not needful. Nor is that of ſome others altogether unſuitable, that God would continually come to them with new favours,& they go forth with praiſes, to meet him,Pſal.89.15-17.But I ſuppoſe, that both wall,and gate,here,are in a notion of defence; and the rather, mention ſeems made hereof,to comfort Gods people, when they ſhould be,without gate, or wall, for ſometime after their return; to give them aſſurance of ſafety, notwithſtanding the want of ſuch material fortifications, and defences. See Neh.1.3. & 2.13,17. & 4.2,3. Zach. 2. 4,5. Nor can I therefore accord with thoſe, who refer gates here, to execution of juſtice; becauſe the gate was commonly, the place of judicature, Lam.5.14.

V. 19. The Sun ſhall be no more thy light by day; neither for brightneſs ſhall the moon give light unto thee: but the Lord ſhall be unto thee an everlaſting light, and thy God thy glory.] Matter of ſafety was before, ver. 18. Matter of joy, and ſolace, now followeth: both joyned together in ſun, and ſhield, Pſal. 84. 11. The meaning is not, that after their return from captivity, in their ſtate reſtored, or at any time in this world, Gods people, in any place, ſhould have no uſe of thoſe celeſtial bodies, to impart light unto them: but that their chief, and principal light and comfort, ſhould conſiſt in ſuch a plentiful enjoyment of Gods gracious favour, and loving kindneſs, that in compariſon thereof, thoſe external lights ſhould be, as of no regard, or account. Though there want not thoſe, who refer this wholly unto the glorious eſtate of Gods children in the next life; when all theſe outward ordinary means of joy and comfort, temporal, or ſpiritual, expiring, and ſurceaſing, God himſelf ſhall immediatly become all in all unto his; and then indeed ſhall be the conſummated complement of it; 1 Cor.15.28. See Rev.21.23.

the Lord an everlaſting light] Heb. a light of perpetuity, or, of eternity; as joy of perpetuity, or eternity, Ch.35.10.a conſtant light: ſuch a light as hath no variation, or ſhadow of change, with it; as theſe bodily lights oft have, Jam.1.17. a light that ſhineth, as well by night, as by day; a light that never ſetteth, but ſhines to all eternity, ver.20. Of this light, ſee Pſal. 4.6,7. and 27.1. and 30.5. and 36.9,10. and 43.3. and 84.11. and 89.15.

for brightneſs] Or, for luſtre by night; as ſome ſupply from the oppoſite member, in the former branch; as the like ſupply would be, from the latter branch, in the former, Pſal. 105. 39. he ſpread a cloud for a covering by day, and fire to give light by night.

V. 20. Thy Sun ſhall no more go down, neither ſhall the Moon withdraw it ſelf.] Gods grace, and free favour, in the comfortable influences, and effects of it, that ſhall be as Sun, and Moon, to thee, ſhall be in a plentiful manner, without interruption, continually preſent with thee, Rev.22.5. it ſhall not be clouded, or eclipſed towards thee, as in former times, by occaſion of offence, and diſpleaſure for thy ſins, Chap. 54.8, 9. & 59.2. Lam.4.44. Or, as ſome, thou ſhalt not any more be through ſtreits and diſtreſſes, ſurpriſed and poſſeſſed, with ſuch anxiety, and perplexity, of ſoul and ſpirit, as ſhall cauſe thee to have no joy at all of the light, no liſt to look up to heaven. See Chap.13.10. Amos 8.9,10. both may well ſtand.

Moon withdraw it ſelf:] As to her with-drawing chamber; as of the Sun, Pſal.19.6. Heb. ſhall not be gathered up; as Chap.57.1. Or, ſhall not retire, or, get her away; as Num. 11.30. Moſes retired, or, gat himſelf away into the Camp.

for the Lord ſhall be thine everlaſting light;] As before, ver. 19.

and the days of thy mourning ſhall be ended.] Chap.35.10. & 40.2. & 54.9. Rev.7.16,17. & 21.4.

V. 21. Thy people alſo ſhall be all righteous:] Heb. And (as ver.17.) thy people all they; (for, all ſhall be;) the pronoun demonſtrative, for the verb ſubſtantive; as Jer.4.22. & 9.3. & 35.8. which therefore need not be written in a different character] righteous. Such ſhall all be, that are free deniſons of the heavenly Jeruſalem. See Chap.4.3. & 62.12. Jer.31.23. Eph.2.19. Rev.21.27.

they ſhall inherit the land for ever:] The new world, by Chriſt renewed and reſtored, in a ſpecial manner here, in full perfection hereafter; whereof that of Canaan was a type, Chap.57.13. & 65.17,18. 2 Pet.3.13. Rev.21.5,7. Some would have the words read; Thy people, all the juſt of them, ſhall inherit the land for ever; as Pſal.37.29. But the pauſes, in the Hebrew will not admit it.

the branch of my planting, the work of my hands that I may be glorified.] There is here a two-fold reading; the one, in the text; the other, in the margent. The text hath, his planting; which ſome retaining, thus read, and render it; That the branch of his plants, may glorie in, or, through the work of my hands: and of theſe, ſome, by the branch, here ſpoken of, underſtand Chriſt, Chap.11.1. whom all the faithful being graffed into, Rom.6.5. & 11.17,24. do, through Gods bleſſing on them, become a moſt glorious plantation, Chap. 61. 3. Others, by it, underſtand the iſſue and poſterity of Gods people, that ſhould glory in Gods doings for them, and benefits conferred on them, Pſal.44.8. But the moſt, following that in the margent, my planting, do, ſome render the words, as our verſion hath them; ſome, with little difference, they are, or, ſhall be, a branch of my plantings, a work of my hands, wherein I will glory. Others, that the branch of my planting, the work of my hands may be glorified; and ſome would have it to be in a reaſon rendred why they ſhould ſo continue in poſſeſſion of that inheritance for ever uninterruptedly, either than from the time paſt: God had himſelf planted them therein, and therefore would not ſuffer them to be wholly rooted out of it again, Pſal.44.2. & 80.8. Chap.5.2. becauſe he would plant it, and ſo plant it, that he might glory of it, and in it; which he could not do, if he ſhould ſuffer it, to be pluckt up, or rooted out, Mat.15.13. & 16.18. The words are thus preciſely in the original; A branch of my plantations, a work of my hands, to glory in; that is, my people, being (as by appoſition joyned to what went before) a branch of my ſpecial plantation (for theſe plurals uſually import an eminency, and excellency, in each kind. See Prov.1.20.) my handy-work (my maſter-piece) wherein I intend to ſhew my ſelf magnificent, or, glorious, Chap. 49. 3. the word is the ſame with that, ver. 7. and Chap. 61. 3.

V. 22. A little one ſhall become a thouſand; and a ſmall one a ſtrong nation.] So reading the words, the ſenſe ſhould be; that the Church ſhould grow, not in number only, but in ſtrength and ſtature too; which is true indeed, Zach. 12. 4. Eph.3.16. & 4.13, 15. But the two members of the ſentence here ſeem rather to be, in ſubſtance, the ſame; the word rendred ſtrong, ſignifying no other then numerous, as Joel 1.6. See on Chap.16.14. And it implyes onely a miraculous multiplication of the Church, Chap.66.7,8. Jer.31.27. Act.2.41. & 4. 4. & 5. 14. and a ſmall family conſiſting but of a few perſons, ſhould ſuddenly, or in ſhort time, become a numerous Nation, Chap.66.7,8. Some would have the meaning to be; that men but of weak parts, and ſmall gifts, ſhall convert many, Act. 11. 20, 21. But the former ſeemeth the native ſenſe.

I the Lord will haſten it in his time.] This is added, that they may not doubt of the doing of it, in regard of the improbability: or, as might be deemed, the impoſſibility of it, Chap. 66. 8. He will do it, with whom nothing is hard to be done, Num.11.23. Jer.32.27. He will ſpeedily effect it, when its due time is come; and till then, they muſt expect, Chap.13. 22. & 8.17. & 28.16. & 30.18. Hab.2.3. Luk.1.20.

CHAP. LXI.

Verſ. 1. T*He Spirit of the Lord God is upon me:*] This Chapter, much of the ſame argument with the former, conſiſteth of three parts. 1. Chriſts calling to his miniſtury, and the exerciſe of his Prophetical office, ſhadowed out in Eſay, ver.1-3. 2. The reſtitution, encreaſe, and growth of the Church of God, under him, ver.4-9. And 3. a ſolemn acknowledgment made in the Churches name, of the manifold bleſſings, by God, beſtowed on her, ver.10,11.

The Spirit of the Lord God is upon me:] This, not the Jewiſh Commenters onely, but a great part of our Interpreters alſo, conceive to be ſpoken by Eſay of himſelf. Herein they differ onely, that the former reſtrain it unto Eſay; the latter, extend it unto Chriſt, as more perfectly, and conſummately, fulfilled in him. And it is true, that other of Gods Miniſters and Meſſengers, had the Spirit of God, in them, and on them, and ſpake by it, 2 Sam.23.2. 2 Chron.20.14. & 24.20. Chap. 63.11. 1 Pet.1.11. 2 Pet.1. 19. but Chriſt in a far more abundant, and tranſcendent manner and meaſure, conſtantly reſting on him, and reſiding in him, Chap.11.2. & 42.1. 1 Joh.1. 33. & 3. 34. who therefore alſo in more ſpecial manner applyeth this Scripture unto himſelf, Luk.4.18. in regard whereof divers Interpreters, on the other ſide, reſtrain it wholly unto him; of whom, that it is principally intended, I ſuppoſe, cannot be denyed, though not excluding Eſay, who had this Spirit on him, when he ſpake it: Nor the Apoſtles, unto whom Chriſt imparted of the ſame Spirit, for the work of their Apoſtle-ſhip, both before his aſcenſion, in a competency, Joh. 20.22. and after his aſcenſion, in a far more plentiful manner, Act.2.4,33. as both before his paſſion, and again after his reſurrection, he had formerly promiſed, Joh.14.16,17,26. & 15. 26. & 16.7. Luk.24.49. Act.1.5,8. 1 Theſſ.4.8.

becauſe the Lord hath anointed me,] Of this ſpiritual unction, in a competent meaſure of ſanctifying grace, do all the faithfull, each one according to his degree and proportion, partake, Pſal.105.15. 2 Cor.1.21,22. 1 Joh.2.20,27. But there is, beſides this general unction, a more ſpecial anointing, by which ſome are anointed, and endowed with ſome ſpeciall gifts and graces, for the diſcharge of ſpecial places and offices; a thing typified in thoſe materiall unctions, whereby men were, in times paſt, ſolemnly ſet apart unto employments of note and weight, in Church and State, Lev.8.12. Num.11.17, 25. 1 Sam.10.1,6,9. & 16.13. In either kind, was Chriſt, as man, anointed, in far more large, eminent, and excellent manner, then any other, Pſal.45,7. Act,10.38. Col.2.3,9. Heb.1.8. and thereby ſet apart unto the work of the Mediatorſhip, and to be a King, Prieſt, and Prophet, unto Gods people, being furniſhed with all endowments neceſſary for the diſcharge of thoſe offices,and with a ſuperabundant redundancy alſo, for the conveyance of a ſufficiency of ſuch endowments, unto others,for the ſpiritual behoof, both of themſelves,and others, Dan.9.24.Joh.1.16.& 10.26.& 17.19. Thus was he anointed from his very conception, and the aſſumpſion of his fleſh, by the Word,in the womb of his Mother,Luk.1.35. Joh.1.14. but it was in a more open and ſolemn manner, publikely declared and manifeſted,when at his Baptiſm, being now to enter upon the exerciſe and execution of his office, the Holy-Ghoſt,in a viſible form,deſcended,and reſted upon him,ſhortly after which alſo he preached upon this text, and applyed it unto himſelf,Mat.3.16,17. Joh.1.32,33. Luk.3.22. & 4.1, 14,18,21. the ſame Spirit being afterwards ſent by him, did in a viſible ſhape light upon his Apoſtles, and reſted likewiſe on them,Act.2.3,4. who may well alſo be ſaid, to have been anointed therewith: as alſo was Eſay undoubtedly before his miſſion unto the Prophetical function, who might therefore truly ſay this of himſelf,as well as that,Chap.50.4.

anointed me to preach] A complexive form of ſpeech: anointed; that is,not fitted,and furniſhed me onely with abilities for ſuch an employment; but ſet apart,aſſigned,appointed,and ſent me alſo ſo to do. See the phraſe uſed of Eliſeus, 1 King.19.16,19,20. (where yet no uſe of any material oyl is found)compared with 2 King.2.9,15. and ſo may it be truly averred of Eſay, that he was ſo fitted and furniſhed, ſo ſet apart,and ſo ſent,Chap.6.8,9.& 48.16.to preach, both the corporal deliverance from the Babylonian thraldome; and the ſpiritual deliverance, from the ſervice of ſin and Satan, by Chriſt,which ſo frequently he doth.But Chriſt,in a far more ample,excellent,and efficacious,manner; not to preach and publiſh theſe things only,as Eſay,to foretell them,but himſelf alſo to effect them,Joh.3.16,17,34.& 4.34.& 5.23,24,30,36-38.& 6.27,29,38-40.& 7.16,17,28,29. & 8.26,29,42. & 10. 36.Gal.4.4. 1 Pet.1.20. And for their function and employment, had his Apoſtles alſo a miſſion from him, with whom, and other his miniſters, their ſucceſſours, he promiſed to go along,and to co-operate with them,by his ſpirit,to the worlds end,Mat.28.18-20.Mar.15.15,16.Joh.20.21.in regard whereof,he is alſo ſaid to come,and preach by them,Eph.2.17. and to ſpeak in them,2 Cor.13.3.that which our Prophet alſo foretold ſhould be,Chap.59.21.

to preach good tidings unto the meek] Of the word here rendred, to preach good tidings, ſee on ch.40.9.& 52.7.it is a word of middle notion, but uſed moſt in the better part: From the Greek word,anſwering to it,ſo taken,hath the Goſpel(with us alſo ſo termed,not as Gods-ſpell, or Gods-word; but as God-ſpell,that is,Good ſpell) its name,preached, by God himſelf, to Abraham,Gal.3.8.by Eſay,and other the Prophets,to the ancient Jewiſh People,Act.3.24. Rom.16.25.26. Heb.4.2. by the Angels,to the ſhepherds,Luk.2.10. by our Saviour,in perſon, to the Jews of his time,Luk.4.43. & 8.1. and by his Apoſtles afterward,having from him commiſſion ſo to do,both to Jews and Gentiles,Act.13.32. & 15.7. & 20.24. 1 Theſſ.2.9. and what is therefore ſaid here of preaching good tidings to the meek, is, by our Saviour, ſaid, in terms not much diſcrepant from the ſame, that the poor have the good tidings of the Goſpel preached to them, Matth.11.5. Luk. 7. 22, by poor underſtanding,not the poor ſimply alone,Luk.6.20. but, the poor alſo in ſpirit,Matth.5.3.and ſo what our verſion here,according to the Hebrew,hath meek,both the ancient Greek,and the Evangeliſt alſo render, poor, Luk.4. 18. as thoſe two words in Hebrew,coming from the ſame root, are, in letters,and notion, very neer the one to the other. Neither are any other intended,by the one term,or the other, but ſuch as were deſcribed,chap.57.15. ſuch as with meekneſs receive the word of ſalvation,Jam.1.21.this meekneſs of ſpirit being a note of thoſe, to whom God ſheweth mercy,and imparteth grace, Pſal. 10. 17.& 22.26.& 25.9.& 37.11.& 76.9 & 147.6.Prov.3.34.chap. 11.4. & 29. 19. Zeph. 2. 3. and are by our Saviour himſelf therefore pronounced happy,Mat.5.5. See on Ch.11.4.where both words are found, and uſed as parallel.

he hath ſent me] This is added,as a further and fuller explication, or expreſſion, of what was before implyed,and included,in the term of anointing: of both Eſays,and Chriſts miſſion,and commiſſion,ſee there.

to bind up the broken hearted;] Such as are humbled, and brought low by affliction and anguiſh, and thorowly touched with a lively ſenſe of their ſins, the procuring cauſe thereof, chap.50.4.& 57.15.Matth.11.28. it is a metaphor taken,from the practice of chirurgery,in the binding up of wounds,to aſſwage the pain of them,and cauſe them to cloſe; or the binding up,and ſwathing of bones,that are broken, or disjoynted, as to give eaſe,ſo to ſet and knit them again: For that which is ſaid here to bind,the old Greek,and the Evangeliſt,Luk. 4. 18. have to heal; whence ſome Interpreters make it a complexive term,and render it,by binding up to heal,they are both joyned together,Pſal.147.3. where the ſame form of ſpeech is uſed. See of binding up the like metaphor, chap.1.6. & 3.7. & 30.26.Job 5.17.Ezek.30.21.& 34.4.Hoſ.6.4. and of inward brokenneſs,in alluſion to the like of bones in the body,Pſal.51. 8,19.Jer.23.9.

to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the priſon to them that are bound:] Temporal freedom by Cyrus from the Babylonian captivity, chap. 45.13. & 49. 9. ſpiritual deliverance from the thraldome of ſin, and Satan, by Chriſt, Joh.8.32,34. Rom.6.17,18.Col.1.13.2 Tim.2.26.

the opening of the priſon] There are here,in the original,two terms knit together,with ſuch a joynt,as doth generally joyn divers words together: Whence ſome of our Jewiſh Criticks would have here two ſeveral words: And of theſe, the former to ſignifie opening; the latter,to ſignifie,as ſome,a priſon; as others,a prey;as others,taking, or,taking out; and ſo to import,not a bare opening of the place of reſtraint onely, but a letting,or ſetting looſe alſo out of it. But the moſt of them; becauſe the latter word, in neither notion is any where at all found,would make it all but one word, the letters of the latter part of it,being redoubled,as in divers other words to add ſome emphaſis thereunto: To whom I ſhould agree, did I find in any other word of the like mould, ſuch a diviſion of the ſyllables one from another,as here, with the like line between. But wanting as yet ſuch an inſtance, I concur rather with the former,ſuppoſing the words to be twain,and the latter to ſignifie,a priſon (though not elſe-where found,as many other in this Prophet) ſo called of taking,or receiving, and retaining,or keeping perſons under reſtraint. So a learned man,skilled in thoſe languages, informs us, that a word from the ſame root, with this, is in the Ethiopick tongue, uſed for bonds,Mat.5.25. Mar.5.4. and that ſometime joyned with the word houſe,Act.5.19.ſometime ſimply without it, for a priſon, Mat.14.10. Again,becauſe a word,from the ſame root,whence this is deemed to come, with a letter ſervient onely, and prefixed,is uſed,for prey,chap.49.24,25. and the word, prey, may comprehend as well men,as beaſts,Num.31.11.where it is uſed of both; ſome therefore would here ſo expound it; to open the prey,that is, to ſet the captive at liberty; the ſame that was before-mentioned: as the captive is ſaid to be opened, or, looſed, Chap.51.14. Whereunto may be added,that the word here uſed,with a very ſmall change,and that not unuſual, doth in the Chaldee ſignifie, a leaſh, or thong, of leather: and with ſuch, captives and ſlaves were wont to be bound. See chap. 58.6. The former word, that hath in it a notion of opening, is moſt frequently uſed of opening the eyes to ſee;as Chap.35. 5.& 37.16.once only of the ears, Chap.42.20. which the ancient Greek, it ſeems, taking notice of, rendreth the words here, ſight, or, ſeeing again,or looking up to the blind: Whence ſome imagine,that ſuch as live in dark dungeons, as being in the ſame condition with blind ones, having no more uſe of light,or ſight, the one then the other, might therefore, by them,be ſo ſtyled: Though others conceive, that ſome parallel places being noted, by ſome, in the margent; as this from Chap.42.7. to open the blind eyes, to bring the priſoners out of priſon: and another, from Chap. 58. 6. did after, in ſome tranſcripts, creep into the text: They are both exhibited in the Greek,by the Evangeliſt,Luk.4.8.

V. 2. To proclaim the acceptable yeer of the Lord] So Luk. 4. 19. Heb. the yeer of liking, or, good will, or acceptance; as chap.56.7. of good will; as, a time of liking, or good will,Pſal. 69.13. Chap.49.8. and, a day of liking, or, good-will, or acceptance, chap.58.5. the time in which God is pleaſed to offer and exhibit favour and grace, to tender and extend mercy and goodneſs, to mankind, chap.60.22. Pſal.102.13.Gal.4.4. Tit.3.4. yeer; as, day,afterward, in a latitude, for time: as chap.34.8. & 63.4. and thoſe,among the ancients,are much out of the way therefore, who would hence collect, ſome of them, that Chriſt preached but one yeer in all, after his baptiſm, called here the Lords yeer of acceptance. Other of them, that he preached two yeers; the one whereof is here termed, a yeer of acceptance, in oppoſition unto, or diſtinction from the other, that was not ſuch: but by yeer, is no ſuch limited liſt of time here intended; nor is the aſſertion it ſelf conſonant to the truth of ſtory; it being apparent, by the number of Paſſeovers therein upon record, that our Saviour preached yeers, more then one or two. But the word, yeer,here,ſeems to have ſome reference to the yeer of Jubilee, a yeer of general releaſement, proclaimed by ſound of trumpet, wherein every man was to return to his inheritance again, and every ſervant to his freedom, Lev.25.9,10,40,41,54.

and the day of vengeance of our God] The time wherein he will take vengeance for his people, upon their oppreſſors; the deliverance of the one, and the deſtruction of the other, going uſually together. See chap.14.1. So chap.63.4.& 66. 14. for they are very wide, who by vengeance, would underſtand here, nothing leſs, then what the word it ſelf generally importeth; nothing that ſavoureth of hatred, or harſhneſſe; but a kind and equal retribution of eaſe, and good, to Gods people, for the evil, and hardſhip, which they had formerly ſuſtained, Luk.16.25. 2 Theſſ.1.6,7. and this they ground principally on this, that the Evangeliſt, Luk.4.19. hath retribution; for that which is here rendred vengeance: and it is true, that their old Latine ſo hath it there; as the ancient Greek alſo rendreth it: but neither is that clauſe, at all, in the Greek Copies, of Luke; nor doth the word of retribution, neceſſarily import matter of good, or benefit, being ſo frequently uſed of vengeance, and evil, Judg.1.7. Pſal.7.4. chap. 65.6,7. Jer.25.14. & 51.24. See ch.34.8. & 59.18.

to comfort all that mourn] All Sions mourners, chap.57.18. ver.3. Mat.5.4. Luk.6.14.

V. 3. To appoint unto them that mourn in Zion] Or, for Zion; either for the evils committed in her, Ezek. 9.4. or, for the evils, thereby procured unto her, chap. 66. 10. Heb. to the mourners of Zion, or, to Zions mourners; as chap.57.18. the ſentence ſeemeth defective, and ſomething needful to be ſupplyed; that the verb rendred, appoint, may paſſe unto: and ſuch defects we meet with ſometime, as, take, for, take food, Gen.42.33. break, for, break bread, Jer.16.7. In the old Latine Copies therefore was inſerted ſtrength; to put ſtrength to them that mourn in Sion. But becauſe ſtrength ſeems not to ſuit ſo well with mourning, or mourners: for that is not the matter, that, as mourners, they need. Some other rather, from the former verſe, ſupply conſolation; rendring the text, to exhibit conſolation to Sions mourners: and this ſeems moſt genuine. Though there want not thoſe, that would carry on this, to that which followeth, as having reference to all the enſuing particulars; to appoint unto thoſe, that mourn in Zion, to give, I ſay, unto them; that is, to ſuch, &c.

to give unto them beauty for aſhes] To aſſign them ornaments, or bravery; (ſo the word properly ſignifieth, chap. 3. 18,20. Ezek.24.17,23.) ſuch fair and goodly apparel, as they uſed to wear on better dayes, or when no ſpecial occaſion of grief, or mourning, Exod.33.5. for aſhes; or inſtead of aſhes: a ſign of ſadneſs and mourning, chap.58.5. Lam.2.10. Job 2.12. & 42.6. Mat.11.21. there is a ſweet elegancy in the original, between the two terms here uſed, which our Engliſh cannot expreſs. The meaning is, to alter their condition from ſadneſſe to gladneſſe; from mourning, to mirth; and accordingly to alter their habit, and weed, whereby either is uſually expreſſed, Pſal.30.11.

the oyl of joy, for mourning] the oyl of joy, or gladneſſe, Pſal. 45.7. ſuch oyntment as they uſed to anoint their heads, and faces with, to make them look more cheerfully, and with the fragrancy thereof, to refreſh their ſpirits, in their feſtivals, or when they deſired to ſhew themſelves frolick, and cheerful, Pſal. 104.15. 2 Sam.12.20. Eccl.7.1. & 9.8. Mat.6.17.

the garments of praiſe] White, and fair garments, Eccl. 9. 8. fit for feſtivals, and triumph, Zach.3.4,5. Mat.22.11. Luk. 15.22. Rev.3.4. an outward ſign of of a merry heart, of a lightſome, and cheerful ſpirit within, Eccl.9.7.

for the ſpirit of heavineſs:] Heb. of dimneſſe, Gen.27.1. Deut. 34.7. chap.42.3. Zach.11.17. or, of contraction, Lev.13.6,21, 26,39,56. becauſe grief contracts and draweth in, as joy widens and dilates, chap.60.5. So Ezek.21.7. every ſpirit ſhall contract it ſelf.

that they may be called] Heb. and(as ver.4.) it ſhall be called to them, or, of them; that is, that they may be; as chap. 60.18. ver.6. ſo known, ſo accounted, and ſo acknowledged, ver. 9.

trees of righteouſneſſe] Or, okes, as ſome. See chap. 1. 29, 30. & 6.13. trees of righteouſneſſe; that is, trees of juſt, full, fair, firm, ſtrength, and ſtature. See chap.57.5. as, ſacrifices of righteouſneſſe, Deut.33. 19. Pſal.4.5. & 51.19. that is, juſt, entire, compleat, ones, Pſal.69.31. or, firmly rooted, in righteouſneſſe, as ſome, Eph.7.17. not like the grain, on the ſtony-ground, without root, Mat.13.6,21. or, as others, filled with, and abounding in, fruits of righteouſneſſe, Phil.1.11. ſuch as bring forth fruit, whereby God may be glorified, Mat.3.8. & 7.17. & 12.33. Joh.15.5,8. all which, the ſpiritual ſenſe may include: but the literal I conceive to be, what was firſt propounded; to wit, in the firſt place, the flouriſhing and proſperous eſtate of Gods people, diſcovering even to the natural eye, Gods bleſſing upon them.

the planting of the Lord] Or, the Lords plantation; not fair only, but firm; ſuch as may, by the thriving, flouriſhing, and laſting, of it, ſhew whoſe handy-work it is, Num.24.6. Pſal.92. 13,14. & 104.16. See chap.60.21. ver.9.

that he might be glorified.] As he is by the good works, and well-doings of his people, Mat.5.16. Joh.15.8. Phil.1.11. yet the words rather are, that he may glory in them, or, ſhew himſelf goodly, and magnificent in them; by cauſing them to thrive, and proſper, and flouriſh; as Pſal.1.3. Jer.17.8. See chap. 44.23. where the ſame word is uſed.

V. 4. And they ſhall build the old waſtes, they ſhall raiſe up the former deſolations; and they ſhall repair the waſte cities, the deſolations of many generations.] Or, That they may build, and raiſe up, and repair: as, That they may be called; ver.3. That being ſet at liberty, returning again to their own country, they may re-edifie the cities, and towns, that have been ruinated, and both people, and plant again their land, and grounds, that have lien long waſte, and deſolate. So chap. 44. 26. & 49. 17,19. & 51.3. & 52.9. & 58.12.

the old waſtes] Heb. waſtes of perpetuity: of long continuance, Jer.49.13. above a Jubilee time, conſiſting but of fifty yeers, at moſt Lev. 25.9, 10. expreſſed by the term here uſed, Exod. 21. 6.

the waſte cities] Heb. cities of waſtneſs: as Lev. 26. 31, 32. your cities ſhall be waſteneſſe: that is, cities of waſteneſſe; utterly waſted.

deſolations of many generations] Heb. of generation, and generation; as Chap.60.15. thoſe places, that had lien a long time deſolate. See Chap.58.12.

V. 12. And ſtrangers ſhall ſtand, and feed your flocks; and the ſons of the alien, ſhall be your plow-men, and your vine-dreſſers.] That is, as ſome; Ye ſhall have generally ſo fair, and plentiful eſtates, that ye ſhall not need to make uſe of other then ſtrangers, either hired, or bought, or taken in war, for any ſervile, or meaner ſort of employments. See ch. 14. 2. Zach. 2.8,9. Which ſome alſo applying to the State, & condition of the Church, under Chriſt, thus expound it, That, thoſe that in former times, haſt uſed Chriſtian people hardly, and harſhly, depriving them of their means, and livelihood, making ſlaves of them, ſhould then, ſubmitting themſelves to them, willingly and ſedulouſly apply themſelves to do them any pleaſure, to be any way ſerviceable unto them, as the Gibeonites were ſometime unto the Iſraelites, Joſh.9.23,27. from whoſe example, ſome reſtrain it to ſuch ſtrangers, as living in the Church, though not incorporate into it, yet ſhould be ſerviceable thereunto. See chap.60.10. Others extending it yet farther, and taking it in a larger notion, conceive the meaning to be; that having applyed themſelves to look after the things concerning the Kingdom of God, and what eſpecially appertained thereunto; other neceſſaries concerning this preſent life, ſhould ſome way or other, be as certainly, and ſufficiently, provided for them, as if they had ſuch to do all this for them, Mat.6.33. but we need not ſtrain the words ſo far. What ſome others have of the ſpiritual husbandry, wherein ſtrangers are now moſt employed, 1 Cor.3.6-9. or, of a new miniſtery ſetled in room of the former, now aboliſhed, Mat.21.41. ſeem to run counter to the text; ſtrangers, and ſons of an alien, ſeem here the ſame; as chap. 3.6. and 56. 3,6.

ſtand] As ſervants waiting, and attending on their maſter, ready to go, and run, at his beck, or to be enjoyned what ſervice he pleaſeth. See chap.6.2. or, ſtand, and feed; that is, ſtand feeding: attend the feeding of your cattle; as, they faint, they ly, for, they ly fainting, chap.51.20. and, ſtand, and ſnuff up the wind, for, ſtand ſnuffing up the wind, Jer. 14 6.

V. 6. But ye ſhall be named the Prieſts of the Lord; men ſhall call you the miniſters of our God] Heb. And ye; (as chap.60.10.) or, As for you, (as chap.57.3.) Prieſts of Jehovah ſhall ye be called; Miniſters of our God are ye, ſhall it be ſaid unto you; or, Miniſters of God ſhall it be ſaid of you; as Num. 23. 23. chap. 19.18. & 62.4. Joh.13.13. where the ſyntax ſeems the ſame with this: to be called ſuch, for, ſo to be, and ſo accounted, as before, ver.3. Now this ſome reſtrain unto the Prieſts and Levites, of whom, chap.52.11. as if it were ſaid; Ye that are Gods Prieſts and Miniſters, though ye be now in contempt and diſgrace, ſhall then be in repute, and be plentifully provided for, as in times paſt, when the Jewiſh State did moſt flouriſh. But theſe ſeem to narrow the text too much. Others therefore, giving it a larger extent, conceive the meaning to be, that all Gods people now ſhould be in that repute abroad, as if they were all Prieſts: as he ſometime ſaid of the Romane Senate, that they ſeemed to be as ſo many Kings; in which ſenſe, or the like to it, ſome would have the word rendred Prieſts, to be here taken, not for Prieſts, but for Princes, or chief Rulers: as ſome alſo conceive it to be, Gen. 41. 45,50. 2 Sam.20.26. 1 King.5.4. and, as it is apparently, where it is uſed of Davids ſons, 2 Sam.8.18. in like manner whereunto, would they have that alſo to be rendred, Exod. 19.6. a Kingdome, not of Prieſts, but of Princes; as importing not a ſacred, but a noble kingdome. For whereas they require here, as they ſuppoſe alſo there requiſite, a ſupply of the note of ſimilitude, oft omitted; though it may do, not amiſſe there, yet neither is it needful, nor ſuitable here. Others underſtand it, as an enlargement of honour, and neerer approach unto God, then they had formerly enjoyed: that whereas, before, they were, the main body of them, Gods peculiar people, Exod.19.5. Deut.7.6. & 26.18. and ſome only of them, ſet apart for ſacred functions, Deut.10.8. they ſhould now be taken all to be as neer unto God, and in as honourable a condition, as the Prieſts and Levites, before-time were; as your whole land, or State, ſhall be called, the Lords Sion, Chap.60.14. ſo ſhall your ſelves alſo be called, and accounted his Prieſts, and Miniſters: and if it be ſaid, that they were ſo ſaid to be, at Gods firſt taking of them, to wit, a Kingdome of Prieſts; (for ſo the received verſion aright rendreth it, confirmed by the Apoſtle, expounding it, a royal Prieſthood, 1 Pet.2.9.) the anſwer may be, that they are there ſo termed, becauſe the Prieſthood was then diſperſed, as it were, thorowout all their tribes and families; and ſo the whole body of the nation ſeemed to ſhare in it; ſome reſemblance whereof ſeemed to remain in the Paſchal ſolemnity, whereat, each head of a family ſeemed to be as a Prieſt, Exod.12.3,6. whereas afterward it was confined, for the miniſterial employment, in general, unto one tribe, Levi, and for the principal functions thereof, unto one family, Num.18.6,7,22. that which is, in the New Teſtament, under the Meſſias, ſaid, accordingly, to be extended unto all the faithful, as called to be ſpirituall Kings and Prieſts, 1 Pet. 2. 9. Heb. 13. 15. Rev.1.6. and 5.10. & 20. 6.

ye ſhall eat the riches of the Gentiles] Ye ſhall have ſupplies of all neceſſaries from them, either ſubdued by you, as ſome; or adjoyned to you, as others: or from both, as a third ſort. See Chap.60.6,7. and this, ſome alſo think, hath ſome reſpect to the Prieſts manner of maintenance, provided for plentifully, according to Gods appointment, by the labour and husbandry of the people, Num.18.12-15,21.

and in their glory ſhall ye boaſt your ſelves] Or, by their glory, ſhall ye lift up your ſelves, or, grow lofty: as thoſe that derive it from a word, deemed to ſignifie, an uppermoſt branch, Chap. 17.6,9. it is no where found, ſave here, and Pſal.94.4. Ye ſhall be highly advanced, and become very conſpicuous, through that honour, that from them, ſhall accrue unto you, as ſuch uppermoſt branches, on flouriſhing trees uſually are. See Chap.49.18. & 60 9,11.

V. 7. For your ſhame ye ſhall have double; and for confuſion they ſhall rejoyce in their portion; therefore in their land, they ſhall poſſeſs the double:] Some rent off the former branch of this verſe, and annex it to the verſe foregoing, thus reading the text; Ye ſhall feed on the wealth of the Heathen, and be lift up with their glory, inſtead of, or, in, way of recompenſe, for your ſhame, and confuſion; which among them, and at their hands, ye had formerly ſuſtained. What followeth, they refer unto the Gentiles coming in to them: they ſhall commend their portion; (that is, reſt well apaid, deem themſelves fully ſatisfied, in that, what they have conferred to Gods ſervice, is accepted) becauſe that (which they ſhall be, as being aſſured of this, that) they ſhall inherit double in their own land, (here on earth) and everlaſting joy, hereafter, Mar.10.29. Others, ſo joyn it to the former, as that they apply it entirely to Gods people; they ſhall have ſuch honour, as was ſaid; and it ſhall be unto you, or beſide you, in liew of your double ſhame, and of that ignominy, whereof, they (to wit, thoſe heathen, your enemies) did ſometime ſing, ſaying, This is your portion; or, that this was their portion; to wit, of Gods people, Pſal. 44. 13-16. Theſe, and divers other readings, for harſhneſſes, not unlike them, I forbear to inſiſt on, and hold to the reading that our verſion exhibiteth; becauſe it ſeemeth, with leaſt force, to flow of it ſelf, from the text: all the difficulty is, in the change of the perſon, which in this Prophet is not unuſual. See chap. 1.29. & 22.19. & 33.4. & 62.1,2. and here alſo, ver. 4,5,7. And this admitted, the meaning is plain, the words being thus rendred, Inſtead of your ſhame, double ſhall be unto you; and, inſtead of reproach, they ſhall rejoyce of, or, in, their portion; becauſe in their land they ſhall poſſeſſe double, and joy everlaſting ſhall be unto them.

for your ſhame, double] Some joyn ſhame, and double, together: expounding double; ſome, two-fold; the ſhame of their land, and the ſhame of themſelves, a reproach lying upon both, Ezek.36.3,4,13,15. or reproach from the Heathen, and reproach from their own country-men, unto both whom the profeſſion of chriſtianity was reproachful, 1 Cor.1.13. or, miſery in themſelves, and contempt from others, Pſal.123.3,4. Others, plentifull, abundant, and the term is oft ſo uſed, Chap. 40.2. Jer.16.18 & 17.18. And ſo I conceive it here to be taken; but with reference unto that, which in liew of it they ſhould now receive double, to wit, honour, ver.6. that is, large and eminent; as, double honour, 1 Tim.5.17. or, a double portion; ſupplying it from the next branch; as ſome of the Jewiſh do ſupply poſſeſs, from the laſt; thus rendring the text, in liew of your ſhame, ye ſhall poſſeſs double: and withall adding, that the enſuing words, are an explication of the ſame: ſo God promiſeth to reſtore double to his people, for all their dammages that they had formerly ſuſtained, Zach.9.12. as he did ſometime to Job, Job 42.10,12.

and for confuſion] Or, and, in liew of (the prepoſition repeated from the former member, as the verb in the like manner, Chap.60.17.) their reproach; becauſe the perſon is changed; as Job 18.4. Jer.27. 1,2. Ezek. 31. 10. the prepoſition omitted; as Chap.59.18.

they ſhall rejoyce in their portion:] Or, they ſhall triumph: for the word implies a ſinging, or, ſounding, in triumphant manner, Pſal.33.1.& 118.15. Chap.12.6.& 24.14. See ver.3. Pſal.126.2. in their portion: a defect of the particle; as Chap. 34.2.& 57.8. in their portion, or inheritance, that they ſhall then return to, or poſſeſs again, as in the Jubilee year, Lev.25. 9,10. alluded to before, ver.2. as that which for their portion was aſſigned to them at firſt, Joſh.19.9. Pſal.16.6. Ezek. 47.13 —23. Mic.2.4.

therefore in their land, they ſhall poſſeſs the double:] This (not to repeat again what of this branch was before ſaid) ſome make an inference upon the former, in regard of the illative particle, therefore; as implying, that becauſe they had undergone double-ſhame, therefore they ſhould now receive double, whether honour, or what elſe. But I conceive that the retribution of double-honour, was before-mentioned; and that in this clauſe is a reaſon rendred, of their rejoycing in the portion, that they ſhould then receive. And I ſuppoſe that the word here rendred, therefore, as an illative, ſhould rather be rendred, becauſe, as a cauſal; as of neceſſity it muſt be taken, Chap. 26. 14. though I find not any, either of the Jewiſh Criticks, or ours, that have obſerved it: in their land; returning again to it, after their long exilement and abſence, they ſhall poſſeſs double; they ſhall poſſeſs and enjoy a double portion, either in regard of that bleſſing of God, upon that which they ſhall poſſeſs, affording double in worth, to what before time it did. See Chap. 4. 2. or, in regard of the large extent of each ones portion to that in former times they held, a great part of them being waſted and worn out, either ſlain, and famiſhed in fight, and ſiege, before the deportation, or conſumed in the captivity; and a remnant, ſome tenth of them onely, returning, Chap.6.13.& 10.21,22.& 11.11. and there ſeemeth to be in it, an alluſion to the Law, concerning the firſt-born, that was to have a double-portion, Deut.21.17. and to the houſe of Joſeph, that had a double-portion of inheritance, in the promiſed land, 1 Chr.5.1. Joſh.17.17. Ezek.47. 13. as if he had ſaid, it ſhall be then with each Tribe, as it was with the houſe of Joſeph before: and with each of you it ſhall be, as if he were a firſt-born; as all the faithful in the Goſpel are ſaid to be, Heb.12.23. Howbeit, ſome underſtand it, not of their own, but of the Heathen, their enemies land; not that they ſhould repoſſeſs their own land, (though that alſo they did) but that in their (that is, the Heathens) land, they ſhould poſſeſs double, in way of reparation for the double damages done them. But I adhere rather to the former.

everlaſting joy ſhall be unto them.] Heb. joy of perpetuity. See Chap.35.10.

V. 8. For I the Lord love Judgment,] There is no great difficulty in the words, or matter of this verſe, ſave in the connexion of them, with the reſt of the context. Some conceive them to render a reaſon of what went before; either concerning thoſe ſtrangers, that had contributed to his people, that he would largely and liberally reward them for it; becauſe they had offered freely, not by conſtraint, nor of rapine, but of their own lawfully gotten, 2 Cor.8.3-5. & 9.5,7. Or, concerning his own people, that had amids their long tedious, and grievous afflictions, continued firm to him, and ſincere in his ſervice, whom therefore in equity, he could not but affect and requite, 2 Theſſ.1.6,7. Heb.1.10. albeit the unſound ones among them, he deſervedly abhorred, Chap.1.11-15. Others, ſuppoſe it to contain matter diſtinct from the former, concerning a further benefit, that God would vouchſafe to confer upon them; to wit, the renewing of his covenant with them, and premiſing a reaſon, why, in ſuch manner, he ſhould renew it. So he before cloſed up his promiſes of favours to be conferred upon, and in their deliverance, and after their return, Chap.59.21. Onely one learned Writer ſuggeſteth a divers reading, which admitted, will afford a very fit connexion of this paſſage with the former diſcourſe. He thus rendreth the words, For I the Lord love right; I hate rapine by iniquity. So preciſely the Greek rendreth it; and ſo is the word uſed in the plural form, Pſal.58.3.& 64.6. and in the ſingular alſo lengthened, Job 5.16. Thus the coherence will be ſmooth; a reaſon being rendred, why God will right, and repay the wrongs and damages done to his people; becauſe he loveth right, and hateth ſuch unjuſt and injurious courſes, as had been offered unto them, Pſal. 11.5.

For] Or, Becauſe; as rendring a reaſon of what enſueth.

I the Lord love Judgment,] I love juſt, upright, and equal, dealing, delight in it, and in thoſe onely that practiſe it, Ch. 56.1,2,4. Jer.9.24. Zach.8.16,17,19.

I hate robbery for burnt-offering:] I abhor any oblation whatſoever, (one kind put for all, as Chap.56.7.) brought of goods gotten by oppreſſion and wrong, and cannot therefore accept of any ſervice, or ſacrifice, tendred to me, by ſuch as practiſe the ſame; that which, in former times, arguing their hypocriſie, had made all their ſolemn rites, and religious performances,ſo not unacceptably onely, but even abominable in Gods ſight,Chap.1.11-15.& 66.3.Amos 5.21,24.Or,I hate rapine by iniquity; the ſpoiling of perſons and people, by injurious courſes, as was before ſpecified. See Sam. 3. 34-36. Hab. 1.13.

and I will direct their work in truth,] This moſt,both Jewiſh, and other Interpreters,expound,of Gods rendring,or returning a reward to his people, for the miſery and ignominy,that for his ſake,they had ſuſtained; as ver.7. Some other, of Gods diſpoſing their affairs,in a ſucceſsfull courſe, in a proſperous way; and that ſuch as ſhould be conſtant and permanent, Chap.26. 3,12. And that former intimation of Gods hating rapine,as was laſt before hinted,will very well ſort with either of theſe. Howbeit, ſome underſtand it of Gods concurrence with his good Spirit, graciouſly working upon the hearts of his people, and thereby ſo diſpoſing and managing their ways and works,that,being performed in ſincerity, they might have acceptance, Chap. 56. 7. the very ſum and ſubſtance of the new covenant, or the renewed, and renewing covenant,here-after-mentioned. See the like,Deut.30.6.Ch. 57.18.Jer.24.7.& 31.33. & 32.40. Ezek.36.26,27. Mal.3.3, 4. But I go rather with the former.

and] Or, therefore; as Chap.42.25.& 43.12. and ſo moſt here render it.

I will direct] Heb.I will give; but the Hebrew term is of a very large extent,uſed commonly,to make,to appoint,to put,to place,to frame,to direct,to diſpoſe. See Deut. 28.13. Judg.15. 1.Chap.3.4.& 22.21.& 41.19.& 43.16. & 46.13. and it may well be here rendred, direct, or diſpoſe. See Epheſ. 2. 10. 23,24.

their work] So the word properly ſignifieth; as Prov. 10. 16.& 11.18. Jer.31.16. nor need we to depart from the proper notion of it,in this place. Howbeit,it is not unfrequently uſed alſo for hire,or reward,of work;as Lev.19.13. Jer.22.13. Pſal.109.20. Chap.40.10.& 49.4. & 62.11. and ſo many here take it.

in truth]This ſome refer to God,he will,in truth,that is,truly,and ſurely,make their reward good to them; as Judg.9.15, 16.Pſal.69.13. Others, to the reward; he will make their reward to be in truth; that is,firm and ſure; as Chap. 16. 5. Others,to their work; he will ſo frame, direct, and diſpoſe, their work,that it ſhall be done in truth; that is, ſincerely, or ſhall be in truth,that is,ſound and ſincere; as 1 Sam.12.24. 1 King.2.4.& 3.6.Pſal.145.18.Chap.10,20. & 38.3. Joh.4.24. contrary to that which,in former times,it had been, Chap.48. 1.Others,to their employments, which God would ſettle in a conſtant courſe,and ſo diſpoſe,that they ſhould be as wel,ſure as ſucceſsful. See Chap.39.8.

and I will make an everlaſting covenant with them,] Heb. I will cut out a covenant of perpetuity, or eternity, to them. See Chap.55.3. So Jer.32.40. & 50.5.

V. 9. And their ſeed ſhall be known among the Gentiles, and their off-ſpring among the people. All that ſee them, ſhall acknowledge them, that they are the ſeed which the Lord hath bleſſed.] See Chap.60.21. Verſ.3. They ſhall ſo grow and multiply,ſo thrive and proſper, that they ſhall become very conſpicuous,Mat.5.14,16.and that it ſhall evidently appear to all that ſee them, that there goeth a bleſſing of God along with them,Act.5.13.

ſhall be known]Shall be eminent,conſpicuous, or famous: the word is uſed of ſuch, as are of ſpecial note, and of whom more ſpecial note is taken, then of others, in the places of their reſiance; ſo Pſal.76.1.God is known in Judah,his name is great in Iſrael; and, her husband is known in the gates, when he ſitteth among the Elders of the land, Prov.31.23.

among the people,]Heb. in the midſt of the peoples; in the midſt, for,among; as Chap.24.13. Jer.39.14. & 40. 6. peoples; as Chap.11.10. & 14.2. among peoples of divers, and ſeverall countries,with whom they ſhall be mixt, they ſhall be ſo eminent, that they ſhall be known and diſtinguiſhed from them.

the ſeed which the Lord hath bleſſed.] Or,a ſeed; (for there is no article there in the text) that, (the relative is wanting; as Chap.60.8.) the Lord bleſſeth; that have Gods bleſſing accompanying them. See Chap.44.3.& 65.16.23.

V. 10. I will greatly rejoyce in the Lord,my ſoul ſhall be joyfull in my God:] Theſe two laſt verſes, ſome rent off from this Chapter, and prefix to the next; but I ſee no neceſſity ſo to do, ſince that the ſubject matter of them ſuiteth well with the former diſcourſe. This verſe containeth a thankful acknowledgment,conceived in the perſon of the Church, of the ſpecial favour,and gracious goodneſs of God,afforded unto her, in ſuch manner,as had been before related,ver.3-7.

greatly rejoyce] Heb. rejoycing rejoyce; as Chap.66.10.that is, exceedingly rejoyce: the affection of Gods people, upon their reſtitution,above-deſcribed. So ver.7.

in the Lord] Or, for him; becauſe of him; as Pſal.150.2. Chap. 47. 9. & 57. 17.

my ſoul] For, my ſelf; as Pſal.3.2. But the form maketh it more emphatical. So Pſal. 34. 2. Luk. 1. 46,47. the ſame thing, to that purpoſe, alſo repeated,Hab.3.18.

for he hath clothed me with the garments of ſalvation; he hath covered me with the robe of righteouſneſs:] Or, with garments of ſalvation; with a robe of righteouſneſs; that is, with ſalvation,as with goodly garments; with righteouſneſs, as with a robe, he hath, by his gracious deliverance wrought for me; and his beneficence,plentifully conferred upon me, made me as glorious,and as conſpicuous, in the eyes of all that behold me, as if I were arrayed, in the moſt richeſt and moſt gorgeous apparel,that is worn by any, at times of greateſt ſolemnity. So Job 29.14.Pſal.132.9,16. & 149.4. Zach.3.4,5. See Chap.51.9.& 59.17.

the robe] Of this garment. See Chap.59.17.

of righteouſneſs,] That is,as ſome,Chriſt, who is our righteouſneſs,Jer.23.6.& 33.16. 1 Cor.1.30. and, the ſun of righteouſneſs,Mal.4.2. and whom we are ſaid to put on, Rom. 13. 14. Gal.3.27.Rev.12.1.or,his righteouſneſs to us; and made ours,Phil.3.9. or,inherent righteouſneſs,exerciſed,and diſcovering it ſelf in the lives of Gods people, Pſal.132.9.Eph.6. 14.Rev.19.8. But I rather,by righteouſneſs,underſtand here, Gods beneficence and bounty, with the fruits of it, conferred upon his Church,his ſpouſe,in a juſt,that is,in a full,ample, large,and liberal,manner and meaſure,Luk.6.38.See on ver. 3,11.So ſeemeth the word righteouſneſs,to be taken,Pſal.112. 3,4,9.compared with 2 Cor.9.9,10.as alſo,chap.48.18.& 51. 6,8.& 54.17.Dan.9.7,9,16.

as a bridegroom decketh himſelf with ornaments,] Or, that maketh,or uſeth,prieſtly, or, princely attire, or, bravery; a defect of the relative; as ver.9.the verb ſignifieth, properly, to exerciſe,and execute,the office of Prieſt,or,Prince; for the word ſignifieth either. See on ver. 6. and in the next place, to uſe prieſtly,or,princely carriage, or habit; or, to demean himſelf as a Prieſt,or Prince: ſo here, for apparel; and ſome conceive it to have reference to the high-Prieſts goodly rich robes, Exod. 28.2,3,40, 41. or it may as well allude to ſome great Princes ſtately attire,at the time of ſome ſolemn feſtival,Ezek. 23. 15. the noun notes attire,or bravery. See on ver.3. like a bridegroom,who on his marriage day, though but a mean man, yet ſtrives to make himſelf as brave as he can, as if he were a perſon of ſome eminent place,a Prieſt, or a Prince; or, as ſome, as a bridegroom, that (on his wedding day) miniſtreth unto, and attendeth upon his Bride among others, but in a ſuit, or rayment,diſtinct from,and more eminent,then others: and ſo alſo there ſhould be an alluſion to the Prieſts miniſterial apparel.

and as a bride adorneth her ſelf with Jewels.].Or,as a Bride, that (the relative ſupplyed, as before) decketh her ſelf with her implements: for the word here uſed, is of a very large extent,comprehending any utenſil, veſſel, or inſtrument, uſed about houſe,or husbandry,or perſons themſelves,whatſoever. See on chap.22.24.& 32.7. as a Bride,that is wont to be moſt curious, in dreſſing, and decking up of her ſelf,and will be ſure not to forget,or omit any the leaſt implement, that may be deemed requiſite to make her compleatly ſet out. See chap. 48,19.Jer.2.32. There is a ſweet elegancy, of like ſound, in the original, between the words of bride, and implement; as in the former branch,the like,between bridegroom, and prieſt, or prince: neither of which can in our Engliſh be expreſſed. Of theſe rich ornaments of the Church, Chriſts Spouſe, and of Chriſt her bridegroom. See Pſal,45.8,9,13,14.

V. 11. *For as the earth bringeth forth her bud,and as the garden cauſeth the things,*that are ſown in it,to ſpring forth; ſo the Lord will cauſe righteouſneſs,and praiſe,to ſpring forth, before all the nations.] God will cauſe his gracious goodneſs, which ſhall produce abundant matter of praiſe, and fill all places among you, therewith, in ſo large and plentiful a manner, to extend it ſelf unto you, and to maniſeſt it ſelf among you, that your whole land ſhall ſeem to be covered over with it, and it may ſeem to have ſhot ſuddenly up out of the ground; and the people that live about you, ſhall be enforced to take notice of it,as before, ver. 9. unto that which was there ſpoken,doth this ſpeech of Gods people here relate, as acknowledging that now fulfilled and accompliſhed, that was there promiſed and foretold.See the like expreſſions,Pſal,72.3. and 85.11,12.Chap.45.8.

the earth,] Or, the ground, being tilled, manured,and husbanded,Chap.5.2.Mar.4.28.Heb.6.7.

bringeth forth her bud] Or, ſendeth out her buds, or ſprigs; for the term, though ſingular, is here collective; as Pſal. 65. 10.See of the word,Chap.4.2. of the generality of it, Gen. 19. 25. and of the uſe of it, by way of reſemblance, Ezek. 16. 7.

as the garden cauſeth the things that are ſown in it, to ſpring forth] A garden,a place wont to be more carefully, and curiouſly kept and tended,then others ordinarily are,Chap.1.29.

as ſuch a place eſpecially being well watered, Chap. 58. 11. maketh the ſeeds ſown in it, to ſpring up, ſoon, and thick, and to thrive exceedingly, Chap. 44. 4.

the Lord will cauſe righteouſneſs, and praiſe, to ſpring forth.] He will make theſe things to be as rife among you, as if your whole land were but one garden, ſown all over with ſuch ſeed. See the like ſimilitude, Jer. 31. 27.

righteouſneſs and praiſe] The fruits of his goodneſs, and beneficence; which ſhall miniſter matter of, and produce abundance of praiſe, from his people, in the cheerful and comfortable enjoyment thereof. See ver. 10.

CHAP. LXII.

Verſ. 1. FOr Zions ſake will I not hold my peace, &c.] In this Chapter, the Prophet profeſſeth his ſerious purpoſe, of conſtant and unwearied ſolicitation of God, for the compleat performance of his Churches reſtitution, before promiſed, Chap. 60. & 61. exhorteth, and enciteth, other his fellow-miniſters, to the like practice, ver. 6, 7. and relateth again, in Gods name, with new illuſtrations, the former promiſes, confirmed with a ſolemn oath.

For Zions ſake will I not hold my peace, and for Jeruſalems ſake I will not reſt;] Some would have theſe words to be ſpoken, as in the perſon of God himſelf, profeſſing, that he will not let the world, and the kingdoms of the world, be at reſt, untill he have, by Cyrus, reſtored his people to liberty, and ſetled them in their own land again. So ſome, both of the Jewiſh, and Chriſtian Commenters, who add withall, that God is ſaid to ſit, as quiet and ſilent, while he ſuffers men to tyrannize over his people, Pſal. 35. 22, 23. & 83. 1. Chap, 42. 14. & 65. 6. Others, in the perſon of Iſrael, the main body of the people, inceſſantly ſoliciting God in the time of their captivity, for reparation and reſtitution, Lam. 2. 18, 19. ſo likewiſe ſome of either ſort. But others again, with whom I concur, conceive them to be ſpoken, by the Prophet, in his own perſon, impoſing on himſelf, a continued task, to be inceſſantly employed, either in the preaching and publiſhing of theſe gracious promiſes, and glad tidings, concerning the deliverance and reſtitution of Gods people, or in dealing with God, by interceſſion and prayer, for the ſpeedy performance of it. See the like in the people, Pſal. 137. 5, 6. in Daniel, Dan. 9. 2, 3. & 10. 2, 3.

Zion, and Jeruſalem] Are here, one and the ſame; as chap. 2. 3. a type of the Chriſtian Church: the ſame thing in divers terms reiterated, to expreſs his earneſt deſire of the welfare of Gods people.

untill the righteouſneſs thereof go forth as brightneſſe, and the ſalvation thereof as a lamp that burneth] Until Gods people be fully righted againſt their adverſaries, and their deliverance entirely accompliſhed.

untill] Not that the Prophet either was ſure, or did make account, that he ſhould ſurvive, either until the diſſolution of the Babylonian deportation, (for he deceaſed long before it began) and much leſs until the incarnation, and appearance of the Meſſias, under whom theſe predictions were to have their full complement: but that for his time, ſo long as he ſhould continue, he would never give over preaching of, and praying for, theſe things; as the Pſalmiſt of himſelf, Pſal. 104. 33. and others after him ſucceſſively, he hoped would do the like, ver. 7. and that if he were to live, and ſurvive, until either, he would never intermit, or ſurceaſe, that employment: it is like the Apoſtles ſpeech of himſelf, 1 Theſſ. 4. 17. we that are then alive, and remain; to wit, at Chriſts coming, that is, I, and ye, if we be found then ſurviving; or like his charge to Timothy, 1 Tim. 6. 14. to keep the things enjoyned him, until Chriſts appearance; which yet he was not to live unto; but he for his time, and others, after him, ſucceſſively, and reſpectively, for theirs. So Mat. 28. 20.

the righteouſneſs thereof go forth, as brightneſſe] Until God cleer their cauſe, by executing juſtice on their adverſaries, Chap. 51. 22, 23. & 59. 16, 17. See the like expreſſions, Pſal. 37. 6. Mic. 7. 9.

as brightneſſe] Or, according to brightneſs; that is, brightly, cleerly; (as, according to purity, that is, purely, exactly, ch. 1. 25. or, becauſe the article is here included) according to the brightneſſe, not the light alone, to wit, of the day, Prov. 4. 18.

and the ſalvation thereof, as a lamp, that burneth] Till her deliverance, and reſtitution, be in a conſpicuous and eminent manner effected, chap. 60. 1, 2.

a lamp that burneth] That burneth cleerly, Joh. 5. 35. and being ſet aloft, may be ſeen afar off, Mat. 5. 14. a defect of the relative; as chap. 61. 9.

V. 2. And the Gentiles ſhall ſee thy righteouſneſs, and all Kings thy glory] Or, That (the copulative for the finitive; as chap. 53. 2.) nations may ſee thy righteouſneſs, and all their Kings (a defect of the pronoun; as Chap. 61. 7.) thy glory. Or, Then ſhall Nations ſee thy righteouſneſs, &c. as Chap. 49. 21. the end is intimated in the one; the event, or conſequent, in the other. The Prophet turneth his ſpeech to Sion, to the Church: a change of the perſon, as chap. 24. 19. & 61. 7. That forraign people may ſee, and take notice of what God hath done for thee; how he hath both righted, and honoured thee; or, Then they ſhall ſo do. See Chap. 60. 3. and 61. 6, 7, 11.

all Kings] That not the meaner ſort of people only, but Kings alſo, who are wont to ſet light by, what inferiour ones have in high eſteem, may admire thine excellency; and not ſome of their Petty Princes only, but all, even the greateſt, and ſtatelieſt of them. See Chap. 52. 15. & 60. 10.

and thou ſhalt be called by a new name, which the mouth of the Lord ſhall name] That is, as ſome, thy fame, and renown ſhall be far greater then ever it was, God ſo diſpoſing of thee; name, for note, or renown; as Gen. 6. 4. & 11. 4. or, as others, thou ſhalt be ſet in a new eſtate, ſuch as thou waſt never in before, whereof God ſhall be the author, Rev. 2. 17. & 3. 12. or, thou ſhalt have a new name aſſigned thee by God, whereby thou ſhalt be commonly known, and called, implying a ſtrange alteration of thy State, from what formerly it was. See ver. 4. Chap. 65. 15. Some render this alſo, in a continued tenour, That thou mayſt be called by a new name, &c. as before.

a new name] That is, a pleaſant name, ſay ſome: as, a new ſong; that is, a pleaſant ſong, Pſal. 96. 1. & 98. 1. and, new wine, for, pleaſant wine, Mat. 26. 29. but neither doth the word ſeem ſo to ſignifie in the places produced, nor need it here be ſo rendred; rather, as new wine, in the one place, is another kind of wine, then that our Saviour then drank with them: (for it is not the ſame word with that uſed, for wine new, in regard of age, oppoſed to old, Mat. 9. 17. Luk. 5. 38, 39.) ſo a new name, here, may be put for another name (ſo is it expreſly ſaid, Chap. 65. 15.) then ſhe had been formerly called by: as for new tongues, Mar. 16. 17. is ſaid, other tongues, Act. 2. 4. but to alter the ordinary verſion, is no need. What this new name is, ſee expreſſed, ver. 4.

which the mouth of the Lord hath named] Heb. hath named it: a redundant form, in that language very frequent. So Pſal. 1. 4. & 144. 8. which God himſelf hath, as by word of mouth, impoſed on thee, anſwerable to that ſtate, that he hath raiſed thee unto: hath named; that is, hath expreſſed, ſay the Jewiſh Criticks, referring us to the places, where it is ſaid, expreſſed by name, Num. 1. 16. 1 Chr. 12. 31. & 16. 41. Some of ours, ſet, aſſigned, or appointed, thee; as Gen. 30. 28. appoint, or, ſet me out, thy wages; ſo rather, then as ſome, which the Lords mouth hath engraven: as alluding to the manner of engraving mens names, to perpetuate the memorial of them, in marble, or braſs; for neither doth the metaphor of engraving, ſuit well with the word, mouth; nor is the word any where found uſed, for to engrave; though to pierce, or bore thorow, it be ſometime uſed, 2 King. 12. 10. chap. 36. 6.

V. 3. Thou ſhalt alſo be a crown of glory in the hand of the Lord, and a royal diadem in the hand of thy God.] Heb. And thou ſhalt be, &c. And, for, Alſo: as Chap. 60. 17, 21. Or, That thou mayſt be, &c. carrying on the ſentence ſtill, as before, verſ. 2.

a crown of glory] Or, as a crown of glory; the note of ſimilitude is oft wanting. See Pſal. 11. 1. & 119. 119. and hereafter, ver. 5. a crown of glory; that is, a glorious crown. So Prov. 4. 9. Jer. 13. 18.

in the hand of the Lord] Here ſome Interpreters make much ado; and having tyed a needleſs knot, deviſe many wayes how to untye it again: a crown, ſay they, is no ornament of the hand, it is wont to be born on the head, not to be carried in, or worn on, the hand: and how is Sion then ſaid to be a crown, or, as a crown in Gods hand? To this ſome anſwer, and ſo one of the Jewiſh Criticks, that there are ſome places, where they wear their crowns on their hands. So indeed the Chriſtian Souldier, in Tertullians time, carried his lawrel wreath, or garland, in his hand; becauſe he made ſcruple of putting it on his head; but in what country they uſed to wear crowns on their hands, I ſuppoſe that grand Maſter could not readily have told. Others, therefore, ſuppoſe, that the word crown may ſignifie any rich, or coſtly jewel, in general, as rings, bracelets, and the like. Whereof rings may the rather be ſo termed; becauſe the word that this cometh of, ſignifieth to environ, or encompaſſe, Pſal. 5. 12. & 103. 4. 1 Sam. 23. 26. and the ring, as an hoop, encompaſſeth the finger round about: and here again is drawn in that of engraving, ver. 2. as well ſuiting with this notion; becauſe the manner was to carry about them, the names, or pictures, of their ſpecial friends, engraven on their rings, to have them alwayes in their eye. See Chap. 49. 16. but of that before. Some place would be produced, where the word here found, is ſo liberally uſed; for that of Maccab. 4. 57. of the golden crowns, wherewith the forepart of the Temple was adorned, at the feaſt of Dedication, mentioned, Joh. 10. 22. will not prove it. Others therefore ſay, that in, or on, the hand of the Lord, is no more then, in, or, on, the Lord: and that it may be as well, on his head, as, on his hand. So, by the hand of thy ſervants haſt thou reproached the Lord, Chap. 37. 24. that is, ſimply, by thy ſervants; who alſo did it with their mouthes, or tongues, not with their hands: but theſe two phraſes, as they render the particle here, are not matches; and yet the one helps, and leads us unto the genuine notion of the other, being rendred as it ought. The Jewiſh Commenters, ſome of them, expound it, in the hand; that is, in the power, and protection of God: the hand being mentioned, not as wearing the crown, but as holding, and keeping the crown faſt on the head of his people, from falling from it; as Lam.5.16. or, being forced of it: as Rev.3.11. & 12. 4. whereunto, alſo, ſome of ours add, that hereby is implyed, that this crown is not to be ſet on Gods head, but to be put into his hand; that is, committed to his care and charge: and hand, for power, or protection, is indeed frequent in Scripture. See Chap. 49. 2. Pſal.31.15. Joh. 10.28,29. as alſo for care, and charge, Pſal. 31.5. Chap.3.6. But this ſeems not to ſuit ſo well with this place: for it is not a crown ſet on the heads of Gods people, that is here ſpoken of; but Gods people are ſaid rather to be a crown, or, as a crown, in ſome ſort, unto him. I conceive therefore, that the words ſhould be rendred; that thou mayſt be as a glorious crown, or diadem, by, or, through the hand of the Lord; that is, by means of that work, which the Lord ſhall effect for thee, in thy deliverance, and advancement; the particle is very commonly uſed, in that notion, to import the efficient cauſe, or means, whereby ought is effected. So, thou that ſaveſt by thy right hand, Pſal.17.7. & 136.12. by, or, with, a ſtrong hand, and an arm ſtretched out: and, by thee, and, by my God, we ſhall do valiantly; and the like, Pſal. 18. 29. & 44. 5. & 60.12. and hand, for, work; or, if ye ſo pleaſe, power-working, is no leſs frequent: that it may be known, that it is thy hand, and that thou haſt done it, Pſal. 109. 27. and, his hand is ſtill ſtretcht out; that is, he is working ſtill, Chap. 5.25. & 9.12, 17,21. as alſo finger, is found uſed in the ſame notion, Exod. 8.19. Luk.11.20. See alſo, Ezr.7.28. & 8.22. Neh. 2.8. & 5.8. and that the word crown, is commonly taken for ought, that is a grace, and an ornament, that is, matter of honour, and eminency, in, or, unto, any, it is no leſs apparent; for ſo is wiſdome ſaid to be a crown, to him that hath it, Prov. 4. 9. & a vertuous woman a crown to him that hath her, Prov.12. 4. and childrens children a crown to their parents, Prov. 17.6. and, the hoary head, a crown to the righteous aged, Prov.16.31. and, wealth, a crown to the wiſe, that know how to uſe it, as they ſhould, Prov.14.24. the meaning then is, not ſo much, as ſome, that Gods people ſhould be as dear, and as precious unto God, as his crown is to a King; the like whereunto, is of his ſignet implyed, Jer.22.24. as that they ſhould become exceeding glorious and eminent, above other people, as the crown is an enſign of the higheſt ſtate, and honour, and ſhould in regard thereof, become very conſpicuous, of great renown, far and neer, (the crown worn on the head, being more in ſight, then any ornament, on any other part of the body) by Gods good hand upon them, and for them, by his works already wrought, and to be further wrought for them, and by his conſtant reſidence among them, and gracious abode with them, ready, upon all occaſions, to engage himſelf, and his power for them, Chap.4.2,5. & 11.10. & 60. 1, 2,7,9,15, 19,20. & 61.9-11. and conſequently, that they ſhould become as a crown unto him, the ſubject matter of his glory, a glory unto him, by whoſe hand, they had thus been advanced, Chap.44.23. & 49.3. & 60. 21. & 61. 3. for I conceive that to come far ſhort of the Prophets intendment, which ſome have, that the meaning is, that they ſhould be a Kingdome again: they had come neerer home to it, had they ſaid, that they ſhould all of them be Kings, or they ſhould be a kingdome conſiſting of none but Kings. See ver.6. and a royal diadem in the hand of thy God] The ſame thing repeated in divers terms; but of the ſame notion in generall.

a royal diadem] Or, as a royal crown; the note of ſimilitude ſupplyed, as before. Heb. crown of Kingdome; or, a Kingdome: as Eſt.6.8. the word, a diadem, would better fit the former term: both ſignifie a crown, but with ſome difference, in regard of the native notion of either: for the former cometh (as hath been ſhewed) from a word that ſignifies, to environ, or encompaſſe; and ſo takes in crowns, or wreaths, of all ſorts: ſo termed, becauſe they do all encircle the head: and thence alſo, hath the diadem, its name in Greek; becauſe it was bound about the head; and was ſometime no other, then a fillet: as appears by the ſtory of Mithridates his Queen, who therewith endeavoured to ſtrangle her ſelf: but this latter word hath its riſing from a root, that ſignifies, not to encircle, but to enwrap. See Chap.22,18. and doth therefore properly denote ſuch an one, as we call a cloſe crown; wherewith the head is not environed, and encircled only, but enwrapped, and encloſed in it; whereas open crowns, as well as cloſe, are in the former word included; the former whereof, is but as a wreath; this as a wrapper. Now becauſe theſe enwrapping tires, I mean ſolemn, and honourable ones, were of two ſorts, the Prieſtly one, rendred a miter, Zach.3.5. and the Princely one, rendred a diadem, as here, ſo Job 29.14. though not ſo fitly, as hath been ſhewed; therefore as well for diſtinction, as for further amplification, the crown here alluded unto, is ſaid to be, the crown of a Kingdome: not ſuch as the high Prieſt wore; though that alſo was rich, Exod.28.36,37. nor ſuch as might beſeem ſome petty Prince to wear: but a crown-royal; ſuch as the King of Ammons was, 2 Sam.12.30. ſuch as was Solomons, Cant. 3. 11. ſuch as King Ahaſuerus his, Eſt. 6. 8.

in the hand of thy God] Or, by the hand. Heb. palm; for the palm of the hand doth the word properly ſignifie. See Chap.1.6. & 49.16.

V. 4. Thou ſhalt no more be termed, Forſaken, nor ſhall thy land any more be termed, Deſolate:] Or, That thou mayſt be no more termed, Forſaken; nor thy land any more termed, Deſolate. Heb. It ſhall not be ſaid any more to thee, Forſaken; nor to thy land ſhall it any longer be ſaid, Deſolate. Of which form of ſpeech, ſee on Chap.61.6.

Thou ſhalt no more be termed, Forſaken] Thou ſhalt no longer continue in contempt, and diſgrace, as thou haſt done all the time of thy captivity; during which, ſhe was not only forſaken of her people, Chap.60.12. but ſeemed alſo forſaken, and forgotten, by God himſelf, Chap.49.14. like a woman caſt off by her husband, Chap.49.21. & 54.6,7. & 61.7. Jer. 30.17. Hoſ.1.10. 1 Pet.2.10.

nor ſhall thy land be any more termed, Deſolate] Or, Deſolation; as Chap.1.7. & 17.9. & 64.10. It ſhall lye no longer deſolate, but be peopled, and husbanded, and become fertile, and fruitful, again, Chap.4.2. & 61.4,5.

but thou ſhalt be called Hephzibah; and thy land, Beulah:] Or, But that thou mayſt be called, &c. Heb. but it ſhall be ſaid to thee,——and to thy land, &c. as before.

Hephzibah] Or, Chephtſi-bah; that is, my delight is in her: the name of Ezekiahs Queen, Manaſſes Mother; and it was, it ſeems, a name, in thoſe times, not unuſual, 2 King. 21.1. it implyeth the delight that God would take in his people reclaimed now, and refined, Pſal.132.13,14. & 147. 10,11. & 149.4. So the Saints are Davids Chephtſi-bam, Pſal. 16.2.

Beulah] That is, Married; as Gen.20.3. Deut.22,22. chap. 54.1. It ſhall be with thee, and with thy land, as with a woman, that hath got a good match; whereby her ſtate is much improved, and advanced, Ch.54.5. Jer.3.14. Hoſ.2.19,20. or, with one, who having been left by her husband, upon ſome breach between them, for a time, is now reconciled again to him, and lives now, the breach being wholly made up, in as entire and inward a conjugal conjunction to him, and communion with him, as ever, Hoſ.2.7. 1 Cor. 7. 11. For they much diminiſh the force of the term, that render it, with the old Latine, following the Greek, and the Chaldee likewiſe, inhabited; or, as ſome other, poſſeſſed: albeit, that be true, which the Jewiſh Commenter here hath, that a land inhabited, ſeems to be as a married wife; a land diſ-peopled, to ſit, as a lone woman, or a widow, Lam.1.1. but they expreſs not the elegancy of the reſemblance, here uſed.

for the Lord delighteth in thee] Or, becauſe the Lord delighteth in thee; the reaſon why ſhe might well be ſo termed, when the Lord, by reſtoring of her in that manner, and advancing her to that height of honour, ſhould abundantly ſhew what affection he bare unto her, Pſal.147.11.

and thy land ſhall be married.] So is the word uſed, Prov.30. 23. It is as if he had ſaid, Whereas thy land hath been without Inhabitants, having been diſpeopled, and ſo like a lone woman, without children, it ſhall now, as if it were a married wife, enjoying the company of an husband, in a comfortable and honourable way, be repleniſhed with people, as with children, through Gods bleſſing upon it, Chap. 54. 3,5. Jer. 31. 27.

V. 5. For as a young man marrieth a virgin; ſo ſhall thy ſons marry thee.] Or, When (as Pſal.75.2.) as (the note of ſimilitude ſupplyed; as Chap.47.3,8.) a young man marrieth a virgin, ſo (ſupplyed, as Prov. 26.11.) thy ſons ſhall have marryed thee; carrying on the diſcourſe in a continued conceit, from the beginning of the Chapter, unto the end of this verſe.

as a young man marrieth a virgin;] He doth not ſay, as one of the Jewiſh Doctors well obſerveth, as when an old marrieth a young maid, nor, as when a young man marrieth a widow, whoſe prime, and flower, another hath, before him, enjoyed; but as when a young man, yea, a choice one, (for ſo the word here uſed, properly ſignifies: See Chap. 40.30.) marrieth a virgin; implying ſuch an exact correſpondency of condition on either ſide, as might give full contentment, and mutuall delight, unto either: a fit reſemblance, wherby to decipher the moſt comfortable and flouriſhing condition of a Kingdom, or State, ſo unanimouſly compacted, and co-united together, that all parts, and parties, in it, have abundance of mutual contentment, ment,one in another,Pſal.122.3.Act.2.40-47.& 4.32-34. for they ſeem to ſhoot ſhort, that would have it,an intimation onely of peaceable times; for that in times of peace, young men have opportunity of contracting marriage,and enjoying their matches, while they ſtay at home; whereas in times of hoſtility,they are ſent out to war.

ſo ſhall thy ſons marry thee:] Concerning this clauſe, there is much debate among Interpreters; and there ſeemes to be in it ſome difficulty: For how the children of Sion ſhould be ſaid to marry her, their mother, may ſome doubt well be moved. This difficulty will be utterly taken away, if we admit, either the ancient Greek, or the old Latine Verſions, which render the text, A young man dwelleth with a virgin; and thy ſons ſhall dwell with thee; that is, ſay they, that receive and retain this reading, Thy people ſhall dwell together within thy wals, as lovingly, and contentedly, as ſuch a couple are wont to live together. And ſo the queſtion might ſoon be at an end, if the Hebrew term here uſed, and in our Verſion rightly expreſſed,did not neceſſarily enforce to ſome further conſideration. Some,therefore,by Sions children, here, underſtand ſuch of them, as were Teachers and Paſtors, which God promiſeth to raiſe up from among them, and to furniſh his people with,Ch.60.19,21.Jer.3.14,15. ſaid here to marry her,yet not to themſelves,but unto God and Chriſt;of whom, in the next branch,as makers of the match,between him,and her. So Paul of himſelf,2 Cor. 11.2. But I find not where this word of marrying,in Hebrew,is uſed, for the making up of a match between two parties; though we ſo uſe the word, ſometime,in our language; but for to take a wife to ones ſelf, and to own,and poſſeſs her, as his wife, as the word originally importeth. Others, by her ſons, conceive to be meant her Rulers, and Governours, and the meaning to be, that ſhe ſhould no longer continue in ſubjection to ſtrangers; but ſhould have Rulers, and Governours, of her own Natives, Jer.30.21. as God had, at firſt, appointed that it ſhould be, Deut.17.15. For the King, or Ruler, ſeemes to be as an huſband to the State; and the State,as a wife to him: And ſhe is therefore ſaid to be as a widow, when ſhe is deprived of her King,her Head,Chap.47.8,9. Lam.1.1. Others, again, by her Sons,would have meant,her people in general,who being of the ſame faith, and religion, with her, ſhould be joyned firſt,as in a conjugal bond unto her,that is,unto the Church; and being ſo united unto her,ſhould then, together with her, be joyned in marriage unto Chriſt. And true it is,that Gods Church,and his People, in ſuch tropical ſpeeches, do many times,admit notions of divers relations, upon divers conſiderations; which being taken in propriety of ſpeech, would be inconſiſtent one with another. So the new Jeruſalem is ſaid to be the Lambs bride, Rev.21.2,9. and they are pronounced bleſſed,that are as gueſts invited unto their wedding feaſt, Rev. 19.9. Now, though in propriety of ſpeech,and the truth of the thing ſo taken, the bride, and the gueſts, cannot be one, and the ſame; yet certain it is, that this new Jeruſalem can be no other then the Church; nor the gueſts at this feaſt, any other,then the faithfull, of whom this ſelf-ſame Church conſiſteth,called the Saints,Rev.19.8. Again,here children are ſaid to marry her; whom yet ſhe is ſaid to put on as her wedding apparel, or ornaments, elſe-where, Chap. 49.18. Howbeit, becauſe the accommodation hereof to the preſent paſſage, ſeems not to come off ſo ſmoothly; there are ſome other ways of ſolving this doubt, and ſalving this ſeeming incongruity exhibited by others. Theſe hitherto have followed the reading,which our Engliſh Verſions, three of them, retain. But our ancienteſt Verſion,commonly extant, rendreth it,God ſhall marry himſelf unto thy ſons: But beſides that, the verb is plural,which unleſs we will refer to Elohim, which is a plural form, and hath ſometime both verbs, and nouns,plural,joyned with it; as Gen.20.13. Joſh.24.19. and in this very argument,Chap.54.5. will not ſuit well here; and it may ſeem over-far to fetch it in hither, from ver. 3. this Verſion leaves out the word,thee,affixed to the verb of marrying, which may not be omitted. One therefore,of good note, rendreth it; as a young man joyneth in marriage unto him, a virgin; ſo will he (to wit,the Lord) joyn in marriage to himſelf thee, and thy ſons; but he rendreth no reaſon of this reddition: And beſides the inſertion of the copulative; which yet is frequently omitted, (though whether in the conjunction of a pronoun,affixed with a noun looſe,may be doubted) the number of the verb gives a further juſt ground of demur. Others, laſtly,of prime reckoning,render it on this wiſe; As, when a young man taketh a virgin,when thy ſons take thee wives: not meaning that they take wives for her,but for themſelves: So the word thee,ſhould be but an expletive elegantly uſed; as in thoſe forms, go thee,Gen.12.1. compared with Act.7.3 ſit ye,Gen.22.5.depart thee,2 Sam.2.22. the like whereunto, is in other languages alſo very riſe; and the reddition of the ſimilitude ſhould be all in the latter part of the verſe. But this ſeemes ſomewhat harſh alſo,as well as the former. Not doth that run any more ſmoothly, which another hath,and I compriſe under this, becauſe it ſwerveth not much from it, who would not have any ſimilitude here implyed, but a collation rather of things foretold,to wit, that there ſhall be again marrying of young men,and maidens with them, and keeping of nuptial feſtivals,with joy and mirth; an argument, of times of peace and tranquility; for in times of trouble and diſtreſs, ſuch things ceaſe,and ſo did with them, for ſome time, Jer.7.34.& 16.9.& 25.10.& 33.11.but that the joy and delight ſhal be far greater, then any joy of that kind,either among them, or elſe-where,that God and his Church,ſhall mutually enjoy either in other. And this ſenſe to bear, the words muſt be rendred, A young man ſhall wed a virgin; but thy ſons, much more delightfully, ſhall wed with thee; that is, in thy land; and the bridegroom ſhall have much joy of his bride; but God ſhall rejoyce much more over thee; and, for, much more, ſaith he; as Prov.6.16,17.& 30.19,31. but nor are thoſe places ſo pregnant for it; nor is and,here,in the text, where he would have it, though it be in the vulgar Latine. In this great variety, I ſhall make bold to deliver mine own conjecture, with the grounds of it,and ſo leave it to the learned.An hint whereof, I have from one of the Jewiſh Doctors, who taking his riſe from the Chaldee before-mentioned, ſaith the meaning is,that her people ſhould poſſeſs her;that is,their land,and not be diſpoſſeſſed of it again, as formerly they had been: and that ſeemes ſomewhat indeed of it,but not all. The verb baal, therefore doth,in the firſt place,ſignifie, to poſſeſs, or,be poſſeſſed (as we uſe to ſpeak) of,ought, in generall, as Lord, or owner of it,1 Chr.4.22.after that,more ſpecially,ſo to take,and be poſſeſſed of a wife,Mal.2.11. Judah hath married, or,holdeth in marriage the daughter of a ſtrange god. And indeed, this latter is the more peculiar notion of the word. So Deut. 24.1. when a man hath taken a woman (to wit, to wife; as Chap. 21.11.) and is poſſeſſed of her; that is, doth keep, or hold her, converſe, and live with her,as a wife: ſo rather then married her, for that was mentioned; implied, at leaſt, in the taking of her before.Hence the noun, baal, ſignifieth firſt,in a large extent,a Lord, Maſter,or Owner of ought,in general. See on Chap.41.15. So,the owner of the houſe, Exod.22.7. and, the owner of the pit, Exod.21.34. more ſpecially, an husband, as Lord,Gen.18.12. or owner of his wife, Exod.21.3,22. and the participle active,boel,a man poſſeſſing,or poſſeſſed of,a wife, being an husband, Chap.54.5. and the paſſive beulah, a woman poſſeſſed by an husband,a wife. So it is fully expreſſed,Deut. 22.22.a woman held,or poſſeſſed,to wit,of,or,by a man, as a wife by an husband. This laid,as a ground,I conceive the word, rendred, marry, to be here uſed in a ſylleptical, or metaleptical,notion; call it whether ye pleaſe: and it may be, the former way in the one branch; the latter,in the other: and that the text,without much ſtraining,may be thus read; when, as a young man,that ſhall have married, or, is in marriage poſſeſſed of a virgin: ſo,thy ſons ſhall, as in marriage, poſſeſs thee, or, keep with thee; that is,ſhall poſſeſs thee, hold, and enjoy thee, as ſurely, as if they were joyned in marriage unto thee; or,they ſhall keep,and dwell,and live,together with thee (for that is the conſequent of marrying) in as cheerful,and comfortable manner, with as much contentment and delight, as a young man is wont to keep, and live with, ſome young beautifull damſel, whom he hath taken unto wife. There is, beſides the ſupplies in the received reading, no more then that of the relative, ſo riſe, as nothing more. See Chap. 60. 8. & 61.9. ver.1. not is ought here wrung from the text; but what, being fairly dealt with,it freely affordeth.

and as the bridegroom rejoyceth over the bride; ſo ſhall thy God rejoyce over thee.] Heb.with the joy;or,as with the joy of a bridegroom,over a bride ſhall thy God rejoyce over thee. God will take as much delight and pleaſure in thee, as ſuch are wont to take the one, in the other: The reaſon why ſhe ſhould be termed,Chephtſi-bah,ver.4. See Chap.65.19.Zeph.3.17.and the like form, Chap.9.3. & 22.17,18.& 24.17. they detract over-much from the force and fitneſs of the reſemblance,that render the terms here, a father in law, and a daughter in law; though the words ſometime ſo ſignifie.

thy God] As ver.3. Chriſt; God,and Man; and as man of thy ſeed, Chap.7.14. Rom.1.3.& 9.5. who ſhall joyn himſelf as an husband to thee,Chap.54.5. Hoſ.2.19.20. 2 Cor.11.2.Eph.5.23.

V. 6. I have ſet watchmen upon thy walls, O Jeruſalem,] That theſe are the words of God himſelf, that is, delivered as ſpoken in his perſon, is generally agreed. But ſome reade them,as our Verſion rendreth them, in the time paſt, or preſent, as ſpoken of ſomewhat God had already ſet apart, and deſigned unto the office here mentioned, that which ſome of them conceive to have reference to Gods former ſpeech, as they take it,ver. 1. that he would not reſt,untill he had reſtored Jeruſalem, and had ſet ſome therefore to be continually minding him of it; as one of the Perſian Kings, ſometime, appointed one to call every day upon him, that he might not forget it, to be avenged on the Greeks. Others ſuppoſe it to be an anſwer, much to the ſame purpoſe, with the Prophets foregoing ſpeech, carried on from the firſt verſe hitherto. Others read them, in the time to come; I will ſet watchmen upon thy walls: and theſe expound them, of the courſe that God would take for the ſafeguard of the Church, after the reſtitution of it, for the continuance of its quiet, and flouriſhing condition, againſt all perils, or evils, whereby they might be either openly aſſaulted by day, or ſecretly ſurpriſed by night, Chap.21.6,8.

I have ſet] Or, I will appoint: it is God that ſetteth, and aſſigneth men to this office, Jer.6.27. Ezek.3.17. & 33.7. 1 Cor.12.28.

watchmen] Heb. keepers, or watchers, Judg.1.24. & 7.19. the Angels, ſay ſome of the Jewiſh Doctors, nor do ſome of ours exclude them; and they ſeem to be termed watchers, Dan.4.13,23. and are undoubtedly employed, as watchmen, for the ſafety of Gods people, Gen. 32. 1,2. 2 King. 6. 17. Pſal.34.7. & 91.11. Mat.18.10. Heb. 1.14. but they ſeem not to be ſo much here intended: the moſt therefore by watchmen, here underſtand Prophets, and Paſtors, that are ſet to watch over Gods people, for the ſafety and welfare of their ſouls, Jer.6.17. & 31.6. Ezek.3.17. & 33.7. Heb. 13.17. Yet ſome extend the term here unto Rulers, in general, as well civil, as Eccleſiaſtical. See Chap.56.9.

upon thy walls] The uſual place, where watchmen are placed, as ſtanding in ſentinel, to ſee the further, and diſcover the approach of any enemy, or other matter remarkable, that may concern the publike, 1 Sam. 13.34. & 18.24. Yet ſome would have it rendred, for thy walls; expounding it, for the ſafety of thee, and them: and true it is, that the particle indeed, ſometime ſo ſignifies; as 1 Chr. 6. 49. Chap. 31.4. as alſo, that this is the end of ſuch watching, to keep all in ſafety, Pſal.127.1. and in this regard, are the watchmen termed keepers of the walls, Cant.5.7. But there is no need to alter here the received reading, and moſt proper uſe of the particle, Chap.36.11.

which ſhall never hold their peace] Heb. ſhall not be ſilent continually. Which ſhall never ceaſe, either calling upon Gods people, by enforming, and inſtructing them, or calling upon God in their behalf, for his mercy toward them, and bleſſings upon them. For theſe two are their ſpecial employments, as they are watchers, Act.6.4. and ſome ſuppoſe it to allude to the uſual practice of watchmen, whoſe manner is, ſay they, to paſſe the time, by night eſpecially, in chatting, or chanting, to keep one another awake: but others conceive, that to be ſtill, or ſilent here, importeth not ſo much ceaſing to ſpeak, as ſurceaſing, and intermitting their watch, the proſecution of their employment, and their attendance thereunto. So the word is uſed, Judg.18.9. 1 King.22.3.

day, and night] Heb. all the day, and all the night; as Exod. 10.13. 1 Sam.28.20. hence would ſome gather, that a guard of Angels is here implyed; as alſo, Rev. 4. 8. becauſe men muſt of neceſſity have times of reſt, and intermiſſion: and one of the Jewiſh Commenters obſerveth therefore a difference between theſe watchers, and worldly ones: for thoſe, when they watch by night, they ſleep in the day; whereas theſe watch day and night: and ſome run out into allegories, of watching, as well in times of proſperity, deſigned by the day, as in times of adverſity, reſembled by the night; becauſe dangers are alike in either, Prov.30.8,9. but neither is any ſuch abſolute neceſſity, as they imagine, here intimated; nor are any watches in garriſon towns ordinarily intermitted, though not by ſome individual parties continually maintained, but by a conſtant intercourſe of other ſucceſſively ſupplyed: nor need we have recourſe to enigmatical ſpeculations, where the notion is plain, and familiar; it is nothing but a promiſe of a ſufficient ſupply of able perſons, that ſhould conſtantly look to their charge, and diligently perform the duty impoſed on them by God, and required of them, for the ſafety and welfare of his people, deſcribed by the employment of watchers, and warders, that are ſet by day, to deſcry any open approach of an adverſary; by night, to diſcover any more ſecret acceſſe. See the like expreſſion of a conſtant watch, Chap. 21. 8. and a pattern of it, in Paul, Act. 20. 31. 1 Theſſ.3.10.

Ye that make mention of the Lord, keep not ſilence:] The Prophet here turneth his ſpeech again, from God, to ſome other, whom he calleth upon, for the diligent, and conſtant performance of ſome offices with God, that might help to further, and haſten the conſummation of his Churches glorious eſtate. And the verſes therefore ſeem not to have been ſo exactly diſtinguiſhed, either here, or in ſome other places of this Prophet; as Chap.53.9,10. & 58.9. & 59.15. no more then the Chapters oft fitly divided. See Chap.4.1. & 26.20. & 52.13, 14,15. & 64.1.

Ye that make mention of the Lord,] Whom the Prophet here directeth his ſpeech unto, (for I cannot accord with thoſe, who make them the watchmens words, and inſert the word, ſaying,) is not agreed upon, among Interpreters. Some, both of the Jewiſh, and ours, expound it, in general, of all the pious, and religious ones, among the people of God, that ſhould live in thoſe ſad times, wherein the Church of God ſhould be in that low eſtate, and deſpicable condition, before intimated, ver.4. & Chap.61.1-3,7. of whoſe remembrance of God, in thoſe calamitous times, mention is made, Chap.26.8. and who are called upon, to ſolicite him, in the behalf of his Church, Lam.2.18,19. and theſe read the words, Ye that remember the Lord: and ſo the word ſeems to be uſed, in this form, Gen.41.9. Or, Ye that mind the Lord; to wit, of his Church, whereof more hereafter. But others rather conceive, that ſome ſpecial perſons are here intended, ſet apart unto this peculiar office; to wit, ſuch watchmen, as were beforementioned: and theſe, though agreeing concerning the perſons, yet differ about the notion of the ſtyle, or term, here given them. Some rendring it, Ye that mention the Lord; either by praiſing of him; as Chap.12.4. & 63.7. or, by praying to him, as chap.26.13. Others, Ye that mind men of the Lord; that put men in mind of God: a ſpecial work, and duty, required of Gods Miniſters, to mind them of him, of his bounty and mercy to them, and their duty, in regard thereof, unto him, Pſal.145.5,6,7. 2 Tim.4.1,2. 2 Pet.1.13. Others, which I take to be the genuine notion of the term, Ye that are the Lords remembrancers; whoſe office it is, to be conſtantly minding God, and ſoliciting him, in the behalf of his Church, as being in ſpecial manner called, and ſet apart, to that employment. See ver.1. Eph.1.16. & 3.14,16. Phil.1.3,4. Col.1. 3,9. 1 Theſſ.1.2,3. & 3.10. and it is a term borrowed from certain officers, that are about Kings, and Princes, for ſuch purpoſe, to mind them of thoſe matters that concern the publick weal, and welfare. See on Chap.36.3. not that God is ſubject to forgetfulneſſe, as man is, who had need therefore of ſuch minders, to help his frail memory; or, that he can forget his Church, and thoſe things that concern the good and welfare of it, Chap.49.15,16. but that he hath in his holy wiſdome, ſo diſpoſed the paſſages of his providence, for his own greater glory, and mans more abundant good, that he will be ſought to, and ſolicited, for the performance of his gracious promiſes, as by all his people, in general, ſo more ſpecially by thoſe, whom to this office he hath deſigned, Ezek. 36.37. Thus is the word uſed, whence this term cometh, in the title of Pſalm 38. & 70. a Pſalm to mind, or, to bring to remembrance; to mind God of the preſent ſad condition of the Pſalmiſt himſelf, in the one; and of the people of God, generally in the other; and to crave relief, and deliverance, for either: contrary to the mind of thoſe, who expound it, to celebrate Gods mercy, in their delivery; the ſubject matter of either Pſalm, directly croſſing that conceit. This notion of the term here, the words enſuing confirm. And that in this office alſo, the Angels have ſome intereſt, may appear, by Zach.1.12.

Keep not ſilence] Heb. let not ſilence be unto you; or, let not reſt be unto you. So Pſal.83.1. let not ſilence, or reſt, be unto thee, O God. See hereof, on the former part of the verſe; and Pſal.22.2.

V. 7. And give him no reſt] him, to wit, the Lord, whom ye are to mind of the condition of his people, ver.6. no reſt, or ſilence: the ſame word that was before, ver. 6. Suffer not the Lord to reſt, but call inſtantly, and conſtantly, upon him, be importunate with him, to haſten the deliverance of his people, and the reſtitution of his Church. See of ſuch importunity, and wraſtlings, to God very grateful, Gen.32.25,26,28. Hoſ.12.3, 4. Luk.11.8-10. & 18.1-8. Rom.15.30. for that which ſome of prime note here have, who render it, ſuffer not ſilence to be concerning him; that is, ſay they, concerning Chriſt: though the particle be ſometime ſo uſed; as Chap.56.4. yet ſeemeth not to ſuit ſo well in this place.

till he eſtabliſh, and till he make Jeruſalem a praiſe in the earth] Until by eſtabliſhing his Church, he make it; or until he ſo eſtabliſh, and ſettle his Church, that he make it (ſee of the phraſe, Chap.61.5.) praiſe; that is, the ſubject matter of praiſe, (as Chap.60.18.) either for which the whole world may praiſe him, Pſal 67.3,4. & 102.21,22. or, for which, it may become famous thorowout the whole world, Pſal.89.3. Chap.60.9. & 61.9,11. verſ.1,2. praiſe, for, matter of praiſe: as, joy, for, matter of joy, Chap.65.18.
